The Judicial Council of California owns the copyright in the Criminal Jury Instructions, and in posting the Criminal Jury Instructions on the Worldwide Web, the Judicial Council seeks to make the Instructions available to the public and hereby grants members of the public a nonexclusive license to reproduce or modify the Jury Instructions, except as limited hereinafter.

The nonexclusive public license granted in the preceding paragraph does not extend to any commercial publisher for purposes of reproducing the Instructions (in any format), preparing derivative works based on them, or publicly distributing or displaying copies of them. The Judicial Council will consider licensing commercial publishers on a case-by case basis. For purposes of this license, "commercial publishers" means entities that publish works for sale, whether for profit or otherwise. For such inquiries, contact Grant Walker at (415) 865-4090.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Judicial Council of California Criminal Jury Instructions

CALCRIM

2011

1

Series 100–1800

Judicial Council of California
Advisory Committee on Criminal Jury Instructions

Hon. Sandra Lynn Margulies, Chair

LexisNexis Matthew Bender
Official Publisher

This edition includes all revised criminal jury instructions acted on at the Judicial Council of California meeting of October 29, 2010.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

QUESTIONS ABOUT THIS PUBLICATION?

For questions about the Editorial Content appearing in these volumes or reprint permission, please call:

Andrew D. Watry, J.D. at ..... 1-800-424-0651 Ext. 3268
Email: ..... cal.custquest@lexisnexis.com
Mark Wasserman, J.D. at ..... 1-800-424-0651 Ext. 3270
Email: ..... cal.custquest@lexisnexis.com
Outside the United States and Canada, please call . . . . . (415) 908-3200

For assistance with replacement pages, shipments, billing or other customer service matters, please call:

Customer Services Department at . . . . . (800) 833-9844
Outside the United States and Canada, please call . . . . . (518) 487-3000
Fax Number . . . . . (518) 487-3584
Customer Service Website . . . . . http://www.lexisnexis.com/custserv/

For information on other Matthew Bender publications, please call

Your account manager or . . . . . (800) 223-1940
Outside the United States and Canada, please call . . . . . (518) 487-3000

ISSN 1557-1378

ISBN 978-1-4224-8291-9

© 2010 by the Judicial Council of California. No copyright is claimed in the Tables of Related Instructions, Table of Cases, Table of Statutes, or Index.

© 2010, Matthew Bender & Company, Inc., a member of the LexisNexis Group. No copyright is claimed to the text of the jury instructions, bench notes, authority, other Task Force and Advisory Committee commentary, or references to secondary sources.

CITE THIS BOOK: Judicial Council of California Criminal Jury Instructions (2011)
Cite these instructions: "CALCRIM No. _____."

Editorial Offices
121 Chanlon Rd., New Providence, NJ 07974 (908) 464-6800
201 Mission St., San Francisco, CA 94105-1831 (415) 908-3200
www.lexisnexis.com

(Pub. 1284)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Table of Revised Judicial Council of California Criminal Jury Instructions (CALCRIM)

October 29, 2010

This edition includes all revised Judicial Council of California Jury Instructions (CALCRIM) effective October 29, 2010.

Volume 1

PRETRIAL
101.	Cautionary Admonitions: Jury Conduct (Before, During, or After Jury Is Selected)	Revised
HOMICIDE
520.	First or Second Degree Murder With Malice Aforethought (Pen. Code, § 187)	Revised
521.	First Degree Murder (Pen. Code, § 189)	Revised
593.	Misdemeanor Vehicular Manslaughter (Pen. Code, § 192(c)(2))	Revised
604.	Attempted Voluntary Manslaughter: Imperfect Self-Defense—Lesser Included Offense (Pen. Code, §§ 21a, 192, 664)	Revised
ASSAULTIVE AND BATTERY CRIMES
821.	Child Abuse Likely to Cause Great Bodily Harm or Death (Pen. Code, § 273a(a))	Revised
823.	Child Abuse (Misdemeanor) (Pen. Code, § 273a(b))	Revised
875.	Assault With Deadly Weapon or Force Likely to Produce Great Bodily Injury (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 245(a)(1)-(3))	Revised
890.	Assault With Intent to Commit Specified Crimes [While Committing First Degree Burglary] (Pen. Code, § 220(a), (b))	Revised
945.	Battery Against Peace Officer (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243(b), (c)(2))	Revised
983.	Brandishing Firearm or Deadly Weapon: Misdemeanor (Pen. Code, § 417(a)(1) & (2))	Revised
SEX OFFENSES
1170.	Failure to Register as Sex Offender (Pen. Code, § 290(b))	Revised
1180.	Incest (Pen. Code, § 285)	Revised

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

KIDNAPPING
1215. Kidnapping (Pen. Code, § 207(a)) Revised
ROBBERY AND CARJACKING
1600. Robbery (Pen. Code, § 211) Revised
BURGLARY AND RECEIVING STOLEN PROPERTY
1700. Burglary (Pen. Code, § 459) Revised
1750. Receiving Stolen Property (Pen. Code, § 496(a)) Revised
THEFT AND EXTORTION
1806. Theft by Embezzlement (Pen. Code, §§ 484, 503) Revised 1862. Return of Property Not a Defense to Theft (Pen. Code, §§ 512, 513) Revised 1863. Defense to Theft or Robbery: Claim of Right (Pen. Code, § 511) Revised

Volume 2

VEHICLE OFFENSES
2140. Failure to Perform Duty Following Accident: Death or Injury—Defendant Driver (Veh. Code, §§ 20001, 20003 & 20004) Revised
2141. Failure to Perform Duty Following Accident: Death or Injury—Defendant Nondriving Owner or Passenger in Control (Veh. Code, §§ 20001, 20003 & 20004) Revised
CONTROLLED SUBSTANCES
2300. Sale, Transportation, etc., of Controlled Substance (Health & Saf. Code, §§ 11352, 11379) Revised
2302. Possession for Sale of Controlled Substance (Health & Saf. Code, §§ 11351, 11351.5, 11378, 11378.5) Revised 2303. Possession of Controlled Substance While Armed With Firearm (Health & Saf. Code, § 11370.1) Revised 2304. Simple Possession of Controlled Substance (Health & Saf. Code, §§ 11350, 11377) Revised 2321. Forged Prescription for Narcotic: With Possession of Drug (Health & Saf. Code, § 11368) Revised 2350. Sale, Furnishing, etc., of Marijuana (Health & Saf. Code, § 11360(a)) Revised 2352. Possession for Sale of Marijuana (Health & Saf. Code, §§ 11018, 11359) Revised

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

2360.	Transporting or Giving Away Marijuana: Not More Than 28.5 Grams—Misdemeanor (Health & Saf. Code, § 11360(b))	Revised
2361.	Transporting or Giving Away Marijuana: More Than 28.5 Grams (Health & Saf. Code, § 11360(a))	Revised
2375.	Simple Possession of Marijuana: Misdemeanor (Health & Saf. Code, § 11357(c))	Revised
2376.	Simple Possession of Marijuana on School Grounds: Misdemeanor (Health & Saf. Code, § 11357(d))	Revised
2380.	Sale, Furnishing, etc., of Controlled Substance to Minor (Health & Saf. Code, §§ 11353, 11354, 11380(a))	Revised
2390.	Sale, Furnishing, etc., of Marijuana to Minor (Health & Saf. Code, § 11361)	Revised
2410.	Possession of Controlled Substance Paraphernalia (Health & Saf. Code, § 11364)	Revised
2440.	Maintaining a Place for Controlled Substance Sale or Use (Health & Saf. Code, § 11366)	Revised
CRIMES AGAINST GOVERNMENT
2748.	Possession of Controlled Substance or Paraphernalia in Penal Institution (Pen. Code, § 4573.6)	Revised
DEFENSES AND INSANITY
3450.	Insanity: Determination, Effect of Verdict (Pen. Code, §§ 25, 25.5)	Revised
POST-TRIAL: CONCLUDING
3516.	Multiple Counts: Alternative Charges for One Event—Dual Conviction Prohibited	Revised
3550.	Pre-Deliberation Instructions	Revised

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Judicial Council Advisory Committee on Criminal Jury Instructions Appointed by the Honorable Chief Justice Ronald M. George

Hon. Sandra Lynn Margulies, Chair

Advisory Committee Members

Ms. Elaine A. Alexander
Mr. Jason B. Chin
Hon. René Auguste Chouteau
Hon. Wendy Clark Duffy
Hon. Teri L. Jackson
Mr. William J. Kopeny
Hon. Sandy R. Kriegler
Hon. Dennis J. Landin
Hon. James LaPorte
Hon. Gregg L. Prickett
Mr. Seth Schalit
Prof. Peter Tiersma

Administrative Office of the Courts

Mr. William C. Vickrey, Administrative Director of the Courts
Mr. Ronald G. Overholt, Chief Deputy Director

Office of the General Counsel

Ms. Mary Roberts, General Counsel
Ms. Robin Seeley, Attorney

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Judicial Council of California

HON. RONALD M. GEORGE, CHAIR

HON. GEORGE J. ABDALLAH, JR.

MR. RAYMOND G. ARAGON

HON. MARVIN R. BAXTER

HON. TANI CANTIL-SAKAUYE

MR. ANTHONY P. CAPOZZI

HON. ELLEN M. CORBETT

HON. LEE SMALLEY EDMON

HON. PETER P. ESPINOZA

HON. TERRY B. FRIEDMAN

HON. MIKE FEUER

HON. BRAD R. HILL

HON. RICHARD D. HUFFMAN

HON. CAROLYN B. KUHL

HON. THOMAS M. MADDOCK

MR. JOEL S. MILIBAND

HON. DENNIS E. MURRAY

MR. JAMES N. PENROD

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

HON. WINIFRED YOUNGE SMITH

HON. SHARON J. WATERS

HON. JAMES MICHAEL WELCH

ADVISORY MEMBERS

HON. LON F. HURWITZ

MR. MICHAEL D. PLANET

MR. MICHAEL M. RODDY

HON. KENNETH K. SO

HON. MARY E. WISS

The Judicial Council is the policymaking body of the California courts. Under the leadership of the Chief Justice and in accordance with the California Constitution, the council is responsible for ensuring the consistent, independent, impartial, and accessible administration of justice.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Preface

These instructions represent the work of the Task Force on Jury Instructions, appointed by Chief Justice Ronald M. George in 1997. Our charge was to write instructions that are both legally accurate and understandable to the average juror. The eight-year effort addressed a need for instructions written in plain English and responded to the specific recommendation of the Blue Ribbon Commission on Jury System Improvement that observed: "jury instructions as presently given in California and elsewhere are, on occasion, simply impenetrable to the ordinary juror" (Blue Ribbon Commission on Jury System Improvement, Final Report (May 1996) p. 93).[1]

The reason instructions are so often impenetrable is that they are based on the language of case law and statutes written by and for a specialized legal audience and expressed in terms of art that have evolved through multiple languages, in many countries, over several centuries. We do not seek to lose either the majesty of the law or the rich language in which lawyers and judges have expressed it. However, our work reflects a belief that sound communication takes into account the audience to which it is addressed. Jurors perform an essential service in our democracy. We are absolutely dependent upon them to apply the law fairly and accurately. In order to do so, they must be able to understand the instructions they are asked to follow.

These instructions were prepared by a statewide committee of justices from the Court of Appeal, trial court judges, attorneys, academicians, and lay people. They are approved by the Judicial Council as the state's official instructions pursuant to the California Rules of Court (Cal. Rules of Court, rule 2.1050(a)).[2] The Rules of Court strongly encourage their use (Id., Rule 2.1050(e)).[3]

Each instruction began with the preparation of an initial draft, followed by subcommittee review and full committee consideration. The task force was assisted by a remarkable group of staff attorneys that included Robin Seeley, Natasha Minsker, Jeffrey Shea, Melissa Johnson, Elizabeth Givens, and Lisa Lockyer. Throughout our multi-year effort, drafts were repeatedly circulated for public comment. The task force reviewed thousands of observations, and this final product reflects the input of judges and lawyers throughout California. We are grateful for the willingness of prosecutors, defense counsel, appellate specialists, judges, and justices to share their insights and the benefit of their experience.

A list of people and organizations who have contributed to this undertaking follows this preface; we apologize to anyone who has been omitted through oversight.

The official publisher of this work is LexisNexis Matthew Bender. Its representatives have worked closely with us to prepare the instructions and to create a software

[1] Blue Ribbon Commission on Jury System Improvement, Final Report (May 1996) p. 93.

[2] Cal. Rules of Court, rule 2.1050(a).

[3] Id., Rule 2.1050(e).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

platform for their usage. We have been greatly aided by their efficiency, professionalism, and commitment to excellence. We particularly recognize Bruce Greenlee for his tireless efforts in this regard.

We gratefully acknowledge our predecessor. The Committee on Standard Jury Instructions, Criminal, of the Superior Court of Los Angeles County, published the first edition of California Jury Instructions, Criminal (CALJIC) in 1946. For six decades, their efforts have helped guide the deliberations of California jurors. While we have taken a very different approach to the drafting of instructions, the tremendous contribution the CALJIC committee has made to the California justice system cannot be overestimated.

Like the law on which they are based, these instructions will continue to change. This evolution will come not only through appellate decisions and legislation but also through the observations and comments of the legal community. The Judicial Council's Advisory Committee on Criminal Jury Instructions, charged with maintaining these instructions, welcomes your comments and suggestions for modification.

Finally, I wish to express my personal appreciation for the leadership of Chief Justice George whose vision and commitment have infused this project from its inception and to the remarkable men and women who so tirelessly served on the task force.

May 2005

Carol A. Corrigan
Associate Justice of the Court of Appeal
First Appellate District

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Preface to CALCRIM Updates

This edition of CALCRIM includes a number of additions and changes to the instructions that were first published in 2005. In providing these updates, the Judicial Council Advisory Committee on Criminal Jury Instructions is fulfilling its charge to ensure that CALCRIM reflects all changes in the law.

In addition to maintaining the legal accuracy of CALCRIM, the committee carefully considered and implemented suggestions from CALCRIM users. Responding to feedback from users is consistent with the Advisory Committee's goal to maintain CALCRIM as the work product of the legal community. We hope that our many contributors view our role in the same way and will continue to support us.

October 2010

Hon. Sandra Lynn Margulies, Associate Justice
Court of Appeal, First Appellate District, Division One
Chair, Advisory Committee on Criminal Jury Instructions

The Advisory Committee on Criminal Jury Instructions welcomes comments.
Send print comments to:
Advisory Committee on Criminal Jury Instructions
c/o Administrative Office of the Courts
Office of General Counsel
455 Golden Gate Avenue
San Francisco, CA 94102-3588
Or you may send comments by e-mail to criminaljuryinstructions@jud.ca.gov.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Judicial Council Task Force on Jury Instructions
Criminal Instructions Subcommittee

Hon. Carol A. Corrigan, Chair
Hon. James D. Ward, Vice-Chair
Prof. Kate Bloch
Hon. Roger W. Boren
Hon. Florence-Marie Cooper
Hon. John H. Darlington
Mr. Jeffrey Gale
Hon. David A. Hoffer
Hon. Dennis James Landin
Hon. Sandra Lynn Margulies
Mr. Micheal O'Connor
Hon. Steven Z. Perren
Ms. Pamela A. Ratner
Mr. Dennis Riordan
Prof. Peter Tiersma
Hon. David S. Wesley

Former Task Force members

Benard, Sarah
Dixon, Patrick
Hon. Ronald W. Tochterman (ret.)

The Following Persons and Organizations Assisted the Task Force in the Preparation of the Judicial Council of California Criminal Jury Instructions

Organizations

Alameda County Bar Association
Alameda County District Attorney's Office
Alameda County Public Defender's Office
Appellate Defenders, Inc.
Bakersfield College
California Appellate Project
California Attorneys for Criminal Justice
California District Attorneys Association

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Central California Appellate Program
Constitution Society
Contra Costa County District Attorney's Office
Criminal Justice Forum
California Department of Justice
Fresno County District Attorney's Office
Fresno County Public Defender's Office
Kern County Deputy Public Defender's Office, Writs and Appeals/Training
Los Angeles County Alternate Public Defender's Office
Los Angeles County Bar Association
Los Angeles County District Attorney's Office
Los Angeles County Public Defender's Office
Marin County District Attorney's Office
Marin County Public Defender's Office
Mariposa County Bar Association
Office of the Alternative Public Defender
Orange County Bar Association
Orange County District Attorney's Office
Orange County Public Defender's Office
Queens Bench Bar Association
Riverside County District Attorney's Office
Sacramento County Attorney General's Office
Sacramento County District Attorney's Office
Sacramento County Public Defender's Office
San Bernardino City Public Defender's Office
San Bernardino County Bar Association
San Bernardino County District Attorney's Office
San Bernardino County Public Defender's Office
San Diego County Public Defender's Office
San Francisco City and County Public Defender's Office
San Francisco County Public Defender's Office
San Luis Obispo District Attorney's Office
San Mateo County District Attorney's Office
Santa Clara County District Attorney's Office
Santa Cruz County District Attorney's Office
Second District Court of Appeal
Shasta County District Attorney's Office
Solano County Bar Association
Solano County District Attorney's Office
Sonoma County Public Defender's Office
State Board of Governors

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Superior Court of California, County of Fresno
Superior Court of California, County of Los Angeles
Superior Court of California, County of San Diego
Ventura County Public Defender's Office

Current and former Administrative Office of the Courts' staff attorneys

Babcock, Starr
Givens, Elizabeth
Hansen, Sue
Johnson, Melissa
Lockyer, Lisa
Minsker, Natasha
Seeley, Robin
Shea, Jeffrey
Vonk, Cara M.

Members of the judiciary

Hon. David W. Abbott
Hon. Thomas R. Adams
Hon. Joyce Allegro
Hon. Anthony A. Anderson
Hon. Lawrence John Appel
Hon. Mark S. Arnold
Hon. Lynn Atkinson
Hon. Gary S. Austin
Hon. Ronald Lawrence Bauer
Hon. Roger M. Beauchesne
Hon. Paul Lloyd Beeman
Hon. Peter A. Berger
Hon. Tricia Ann Bigelow
Hon. Lauren Weis Birnstein
Hon. Terrence R. Boren
Hon. Robert S. Bowers
Hon. Gilbert T. Brown
Hon. Carl F. Bryan II
Hon. Trena H. Burger-Plavan
Hon. Kenneth Mark Burr
Hon. Yvonne Esparanza Campos
Hon. Roland L. Candee
Hon. Joan Cartwright
Hon. Ming W. Chin
Hon. René Auguste Chouteau
Hon. Lisa Mangay Chung
Hon. George W. Clarke
Hon. Joan Comparet-Cassan
Hon. John Dorsey Conley
Hon. Jacqueline A. Connor
Hon. Mark Ashton Cope
Hon. Michael A. Cowell
Hon. Charles Stevens Crandall
Hon. Herbert Curtis III
Hon. Arthur Danner III
Hon. Elliot Daum

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Hon. David De Alba
Hon. Gail Dekreon
Hon. Michael M. Dest
Hon. David Isumu Doi
Hon. Robert L. Dondero
Hon. Wallace P. Douglass
Hon. Anita H. Dymant
Hon. Harry M. Elias
Hon. Wayne R. Ellison
Hon. Douglas M. Elwell
Hon. Norman L. Epstein
Hon. George C. Eskin
Hon. William Lee Evans
Hon. Douglas Alan Fettel
Hon. Bryan Foster
Hon. Timothy M. Frawley
Hon. Gary T. Friedman
Hon. William R. Froeberg
Hon. Keith H. Fudenna
Hon. Mary E. Fuller
Hon. Bernard J. Garber
Hon. David M. Gill
Hon. Richard H. Gilmour
Hon. Thomas D. Glasser (ret.)
Hon. Thomas M. Goethals
Hon. Charles Egan Goff
Hon. Nazario Tito Gonzales
Hon. John Stephen Graham
Hon. Donna Groman
Hon. Annie M. Gutierrez
Hon. Stephen M. Hall
Hon. Kent Hamlin
Hon. Laura P. Hammes
Hon. Allan D. Hardcastle
Hon. Susan C. Harlan
Hon. Arthur Harrison
Hon. Albert Harutunian III
Hon. Judith F. Hayes
Hon. James Herman
Hon. Gerald Hermansen
Hon. Helios Hernandez
Hon. Martin Larry Herscovitz
Hon. Judy Holzer Hersher
Hon. Ronald R. Heumann (deceased)
Hon. Lloyd L. Hicks
Hon. Michael R. Hoff
Hon. H. Chester Horn, Jr.
Hon. Joseph Hurley
Hon. James Iwasko
Hon. James B. Jennings
Hon. W. Arvid Johnson
Hon. Michael M. Johnson
Hon. Ann I. Jones
Hon. Stephen J. Kane
Hon. Gale D. Kaneshiro
Hon. Eddie T. Keller
Hon. Richard Keller
Hon. Kathleen Kennedy-Powell
Hon. Kenneth Rockhill Kingsbury
Hon. Janet Kintner
Hone. Richard H. Kirschner
Hon. Steven J. Kleifield
Hon. Brett C. Klein
Hon. Clifford Klein
Hon. Larry S. Knupp
Hon. Judith Kozloski
Hon. Stephen Thomas Kroyer
Hon. Barry T. LaBarbara
Hon. Wray F. Ladine (deceased)
Hon. Dennis James Landin
Hon. Jerald Lasarow
Hon. William S. Lebov
Hon. Jo-Lynne Q. Lee
Hon. Wendy Lindley
Hon. Linda L. Lofthus
Hon. John David Lord
Hon. Kelly MacEachern
Hon. Katherine Mader

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Hon. Runston G. Maino
Hon. Bruce F. Marrs
Hon. John N. Martin
Hon. William A. Masterson
Hon. Michael Mattice
Hon. Dennis J. McLaughlin
Hon. Barbara J. Miller
Hon. Robin Miller
Hon. John C. Minney
Hon. David Mintz
Hon. Lawrence J. Mira
Hon. Peter J. Mirich
Hon. William Michael Monroe
Hon. James I. Morris
Hon. Carl W. Morris
Hon. Philip J. Moscone
Hon. Michael D. Nail
Hon. Vernon K. Nakahara
Hon. Rodney E. Nelson
Hon. Diane Northway
Hon. Frank J. Ochoa
Hon. Vincent J. O'Neill, Jr.
Hon. Gary Paer
Hon. Philip H. Pennypacker
Hon. Alan Perkins
Hon. Steven Z. Perren
Hon. Robert J. Perry
Hon. Suzanne E. Person
Hon. Thomas A. Peterson
Hon. Burt Pines
Hon. Allan J. Preckel
Hon. Gregg L. Prickett
Hon. Curtis Rappe
Hon. Cynthia Rayvis
Hon. Thomas Matthew Reardon
Hon. Carol H. Rehm, Jr.
Hon. Marsha N. Revel
Hon. Rebecca S. Riley
Hon. Charles G. Rogers
Hon. Jon R. Rolefson
Hon. Richard R. Romero
Hon. Michelle R. Rosenblatt
Hon. William C. Ryan
Hon. Steven R. Sanders
Hon. Edward Sarkisian, Jr.
Hon. Peter M. Schultz
Hon. Joseph C. Scott
Hon. Russell D. Scott
Hon. Kenneth L. Shapero
Hon. Randall J. Sherman
Hon. Howard H. Shore
Hon. C. Edward Simpson
Hon. Zaven V. Sinanian
Hon. Carla M. Singer
Hon. Ronald M. Sohigian
Hon. Tim Staffel
Hon. Samuel S. Stevens
Hon. Kathryne A. Stoltz
Hon. James M. Stuart
Hon. Leslie A. Swain
Hon. Michael Sweet
Hon. Julie M. Tang
Hon. Barry A. Taylor
Hon. Patricia Jo Titus
Hon. Richard Francis Toohey
Hon. Robert J. Trentacosta
Hon. John A. Trice
Hon. Leo Valentine, Jr.
Hon. Steven R. Van Sicklen
Hon. Bruce Van Voorhis
Hon. Emily Elizabeth Vasquez
Hon. Alice Vilardi
Hon. Stuart T. Waldrip
Hon. James R. Wagoner
Hon. Michael D. Wellington
Hon. Kerry Wells
Hon. Stephen W. White
Hon. Cerena Wong
Hon. James P. Woodward

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Members of the bar and others

Adachi, Jeff
Agliano, Lisa
Albers, Ron Alexander, Elaine A.
Anderson, Robert
Angell, Joyce
Aragon, Ray
Arnold, Mark A.
Asayama, Phyllis C.
Bacon, Robert D.
Bank, Gerald
Bell, Samuel O.
Berk, Blair
Billingsley, David
Boessenecker, Mark
Bond, George
Brannan, Douglas
Brown, Stephen F.
Buries, Glen
Byers, Garrick
Caldwell, Lee
Clark, Judith C.
Clayman, Ken
Clemens, Susan P.
Clymo, Kevin
Colonelli, Diane
Contois, Michelle
Cooley, Steve Dorfman, Donald P.
Dubois, William H.
Duran, Paulino
Dwyer, Jon
Fagalde, Michael A.
Fisher, Craig
Fleming, Eric R.
Fox, Peter
Fukai, Janice Y.
Geisser, K. J.
Giritsky, Katya
Grandsaert, Jack
Graves, Jo
Gurwitz, Brian N.
Haffner, Louis
Hall, George V.
Harvis, Mark
Hightower, Robert A.
Hilt, Julie
Hughes, Peter J.
Israel, Susan
Jaffrey, Allyn
Jones, Peter M.
Judge, Michael P.
Kamena, Paula F.
Kato, Pam Kelly, David L.
Kelly, Donald N.
Khoo, John
Kimball, Neal J.
King, Pamela P.
Kresser, Michael
Kuty, Paula B.
LaBahn, David
LaBarre, Edward J.
Lamborn, Daniel
Landis, Jr. Donald E.
Lipmanson, Donald
Locke, Bill
Longtin, Michelle S.
Lynch, David
Lynn, Robert H.
McCamy, William
McMahon, Michael Millar, Richard W. (Jr.)
Millman, Michael
Moore, Bruce
Moore, Leslie
Moore, Timothy S.
Moran, Patrick D.
Nelson, Jennifer K.
Nickerson, Bruce W.
Nolan, Thomas J.
Orloff, Thomas J.
Palmer, George M.
Payne, Tina
Philipsborn, John T.
Pipes, L. Douglas
Rackauckas, Tony Rizzier, B.
Roland, Jon
Rubin, Jeff
Ruszkowski, Agnes Y.
Schopp, Maria
Schwartz, Michael D.
Sevilla, Chuck
Sheek, Bart
Simon, David W.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Simpson, Rodney
Steiner, Jonathan
Stroll, Ted
Suarez, Grace L.
Sugarman, Scott
Summers, Chenoa
Symons, Adriané
Titus, Arthur R.
Totten, Gregory
Towery, Terri
Turner, Allen C.
Ulman, John M. II
Varela, Jose H.
Virden, David R.
Vlasnik, Vicki J.
Walch, Richard
Weatherup, Roy G.
Welch, Howard
Williamson, G.
Wilson, Rachel Wishek, Bradley
Wood, Tom
Yancey, Gary T.
Zane-Smith, D.
Zipser, Dean J.
Zwerling, Mat

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Guide for Using Judicial Council of California Criminal Jury Instructions (CALCRIM)

The Judicial Council jury instructions are accurate, designed to be easy to understand, and easy to use. This guide provides an introduction to the instructions and explains conventions and features that will assist in their use.

Judicial Council Instructions Endorsed by Rule of Court

Rule 2.1050 of the California Rules of Court provides: "The California jury instructions approved by the Judicial Council are the official instructions for use in the state of California. . . .

[The Judicial Council endorses these instructions for use and makes every effort to ensure that they accurately state existing law. . . .]

[Use of the Judicial Council instructions is strongly encouraged."]

Using the Instructions

Bench Notes

The text of each instruction is followed by a section in the Bench Notes titled "Instructional Duty," which alerts the user to any sua sponte duties to instruct and special circumstances raised by the instruction. It may also include references to other instructions that should or should not be used. In some instances, the directions include suggestions for modification. In the "Authority" section, all of the pertinent sources for the instruction are listed, including secondary source materials. Some of the instructions also have sections containing "Related Issues" and "Commentary." The Bench Notes also refer to any relevant lesser included offenses. Users should consult the Bench Notes before using an instruction.

Italicized notes between angle brackets in the language of the instruction itself signal important issues or choices. For example, in instruction 1750, Receiving Stolen Property, optional element 3 is introduced thus: <Give element 3 when instructing on knowledge of presence of property; see Bench Notes>.

Multiple-Defendant and Multiple-Count Cases

These instructions were drafted for the common case in which a single defendant is on trial. The HotDocs document assembly program from the Judicial Council's official publisher, LexisNexis, will modify the instructions for use in multi-defendant cases. It will also allow the user to name the defendants charged in a particular instruction if the instruction applies only to some of the defendants on trial in the case.

It is impossible to predict the possible fact combinations that may be present when a crime is charged multiple times or committed by different defendants against different victims involving different facts. Thus, when an instruction is being used for more than one count and the factual basis for the instruction is different for the different counts, the user will need to modify the instruction as appropriate.

Related California Jury Instructions, Criminal (CALJIC)

The CALJIC and CALCRIM instructions should never be used together. While the legal principles are obviously the same, the organization of concepts is approached differently. Mixing the two sets of instructions into a unified whole cannot be done and may result in omissions or confusion that could severely compromise clarity and accuracy. Nevertheless, for convenient reference this publication includes tables of related CALJIC instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Titles and Definitions

The titles of the instructions are directed to lawyers and sometimes use words and phrases not used in the instructions themselves. The title is not a part of the instruction. The titles may be removed before presentation to the jury.

The instructions avoid separate definitions of legal terms whenever possible. Instead, definitions have been incorporated into the language of the instructions in which the terms appear. When a definition is lengthy, a cross-reference to that definition is provided.

Defined terms are printed in italics in the text of the definition.

Alternatives vs. Options

When the user must choose one of two or more options in order to complete the instruction, the choice of necessary alternatives is presented in parentheses thus: When the defendant acted, George Jones was performing (his/her) duties as a school employee.

The instructions use brackets to provide optional choices that may be necessary or appropriate, depending on the individual circumstances of the case: [If you find that George Jones threatened or harmed the defendant [or others] in the past, you may consider that information in evaluating the defendant's beliefs.]

Finally, both parentheses and brackets may appear in the same sentence to indicate options that arise depending on which necessary alternatives are selected: [It is not required that the person killed be the (victim/intended victim) of the (felony/ [or] felonies).].

General and Specific Intent

The instructions do not use the terms general and specific intent because while these terms are very familiar to judges and lawyers, they are novel and often confusing to many jurors. Instead, if the defendant must specifically intend to commit an act, the particular intent required is expressed without using the term of art "specific intent." Instructions 250–254 provide jurors with additional guidance on specific vs. general intent crimes and the union of act and intent.

Organization of the Instructions

The instructions are organized into 24 series, which reflect broad categories of crime (e.g., Homicide) and other components of the trial (e.g., Evidence). The series, and the instructions within each series, are presented in the order in which they are likely to be given in an actual trial. As a result, greater offenses (like DUI with injury) come before lesser offenses (DUI). All of the defenses are grouped together at the end of the instructions, rather than dispersed throughout. The misdemeanors are placed within the category of instructions to which they belong, so simple battery is found with the other battery instructions rather than in a stand-alone misdemeanor section.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Lesser Included Offenses

Users may wish to modify instructions used to explain lesser included offenses by replacing the standard introductory sentence, "The defendant is charged with ." with "The crime of _____ (e.g., false imprisonment) is a lesser offense than the crime of _____ (e.g., kidnapping)" to amplify the explanation provided in instructions 3517–3519: "_____ <insert crime> is a lesser crime of _____ <insert crime> [charged in Count _____]."

When giving the lesser included offense instructions 640 and 641 (homicide) or instructions 3517–3519 (non-homicide), no further modification of the corresponding instructions on lesser crimes is necessary to comply with the requirements of People v. Dewberry (1959) 51 Cal.2d 548.

Burden of Production/Burden of Proof

The instructions never refer to the "burden of producing evidence." The drafters concluded that it is the court's decision whether the party has met the burden of production. If the burden is not met, no further instruction is necessary. The question for the jury is whether a party has met its properly allocated burden based on the evidence received.

Instruction 103 on Reasonable Doubt states, "Whenever I tell you the People must prove something, I mean they must prove it beyond a reasonable doubt [unless I specifically tell you otherwise]." Thus, when the concept of reasonable doubt is explained and defined, the jury is told that it is the standard that applies to every issue the People must prove, unless the court specifically informs the jury otherwise.

Sentencing Factors and Enhancements

Because the law is rapidly evolving regarding when sentencing factors and enhancements must be submitted to the jury, we have provided "template" instructions 3250 and 3251 so that the court may tailor an appropriate instruction that corresponds to this emerging body of law.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Publication Table of Contents
Volume 1

Preface

Guide for Using Judicial Council of California Criminal Jury Instructions

SERIES 100	PRETRIAL
SERIES 200	POST-TRIAL: INTRODUCTORY
SERIES 300	EVIDENCE
SERIES 400	AIDING AND ABETTING, INCHOATE, AND ACCESSORIAL CRIMES
SERIES 500	HOMICIDE
SERIES 800	ASSAULTIVE AND BATTERY CRIMES
SERIES 1000	SEX OFFENSES
SERIES 1200	KIDNAPPING
SERIES 1300	CRIMINAL THREATS AND HATE CRIMES
SERIES 1400	CRIMINAL STREET GANGS
SERIES 1500	ARSON
SERIES 1600	ROBBERY AND CARJACKING
SERIES 1700	BURGLARY AND RECEIVING STOLEN PROPERTY
SERIES 1800	THEFT AND EXTORTION

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Volume 2

SERIES 1900 CRIMINAL WRITINGS AND FRAUD

SERIES 2100 VEHICLE OFFENSES

SERIES 2300 CONTROLLED SUBSTANCES

SERIES 2500 WEAPONS

SERIES 2600 CRIMES AGAINST GOVERNMENT

SERIES 2800 TAX CRIMES

SERIES 2900 VANDALISM, LOITERING, TRESPASS, AND OTHER MISCELLANEOUS OFFENSES

SERIES 3100 ENHANCEMENTS AND SENTENCING FACTORS

SERIES 3400 DEFENSES AND INSANITY

SERIES 3500 POST-TRIAL: CONCLUDING

TABLES
- Disposition Table
- Table 1 of Related Instructions (CALJIC to CALCRIM)
- Table 2 of Related Instructions (CALCRIM to CALJIC)
- Table of Cases
- Table of Statutes

INDEX

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Volume 1 Table of Contents

Preface
Guide for Using Judicial Council of California Criminal Jury Instructions

SERIES 100 PRETRIAL

A. GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

100. Trial Process (Before or After Voir Dire)
101. Cautionary Admonitions: Jury Conduct (Before, During, or After Jury Is Selected)
102. Note-Taking
103. Reasonable Doubt
104. Evidence
105. Witnesses
106. Jurors Asking Questions
107. Pro Per Defendant
108–119. Reserved for Future Use

B. ADMONITIONS

120. Service Provider for Juror With Disability: Beginning of Trial
121. Duty to Abide by Translation Provided in Court
122. Corporation Is a Person
123. Witness Identified as John or Jane Doe
124. Separation Admonition
125–199. Reserved for Future Use

SERIES 200 POST-TRIAL: INTRODUCTORY

A. INTRODUCTORY INSTRUCTIONS AND ADMONITIONS

200. Duties of Judge and Jury
201. Do Not Investigate
202. Note-Taking
203. Multiple Defendants
204. Defendant Physically Restrained
205. Charge Removed From Jury Consideration
206. One or More Defendants Removed From Case

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

207. Proof Need Not Show Actual Date
208. Witness Identified as John or Jane Doe
209–218. Reserved for Future Use

B. GENERAL LEGAL CONCEPTS

219. Reasonable Doubt in Civil Proceedings
220. Reasonable Doubt
221. Reasonable Doubt: Bifurcated Trial
222. Evidence
223. Direct and Circumstantial Evidence: Defined
224. Circumstantial Evidence: Sufficiency of Evidence
225. Circumstantial Evidence: Intent or Mental State
226. Witnesses
227–239. Reserved for Future Use

C. CAUSATION

240. Causation
241–249. Reserved for Future Use

D. UNION OF ACT AND INTENT

250. Union of Act and Intent: General Intent
251. Union of Act and Intent: Specific Intent or Mental State
252. Union of Act and Intent: General and Specific Intent Together
253. Union of Act and Intent: Criminal Negligence
254. Union of Act and Intent: Strict-Liability Crime
255–299. Reserved for Future Use

SERIES 300 EVIDENCE

A. GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

300. All Available Evidence
301. Single Witness's Testimony
302. Evaluating Conflicting Evidence
303. Limited Purpose Evidence in General
304. Multiple Defendants: Limited Admissibility of Evidence
305. Multiple Defendants: Limited Admissibility of Defendant's Statement

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

306. Untimely Disclosure of Evidence
307–314. Reserved for Future Use

B. WITNESSES

(i) Regarding Specific Testimony

315. Eyewitness Identification
316. Additional Instructions on Witness Credibility—Other Conduct
317. Former Testimony of Unavailable Witness
318. Prior Statements as Evidence
319. Prior Statements of Unavailable Witness
320. Exercise of Privilege by Witness
321–329. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Particular Types of Witnesses

330. Testimony of Child 10 Years of Age or Younger
331. Testimony of Person With Developmental, Cognitive, or Mental Disability
332. Expert Witness Testimony
333. Opinion Testimony of Lay Witness
334. Accomplice Testimony Must Be Corroborated: Dispute Whether Witness Is Accomplice
335. Accomplice Testimony: No Dispute Whether Witness Is Accomplice
336. In-Custody Informant
337. Witness in Custody or Physically Restrained
338–349. Reserved for Future Use

C. CHARACTER EVIDENCE

350. Character of Defendant
351. Cross-Examination of Character Witness
352–354. Reserved for Future Use

D. DEFENDANT'S TESTIMONY AND STATEMENTS

355. Defendant's Right Not to Testify
356. Miranda-Defective Statements
357. Adoptive Admissions
358. Evidence of Defendant's Statements
359. Corpus Delicti: Independent Evidence of a Charged Crime

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

360. Statements to an Expert
361. Failure to Explain or Deny Adverse Testimony
362. Consciousness of Guilt: False Statements
363–369. Reserved for Future Use

E. PARTICULAR TYPES OF EVIDENCE

370. Motive
371. Consciousness of Guilt: Suppression and Fabrication of Evidence
372. Defendant's Flight
373. Other Perpetrator
374. Dog Tracking Evidence
375. Evidence of Uncharged Offense to Prove Identity, Intent, Common Plan, etc.
376. Possession of Recently Stolen Property as Evidence of a Crime
377–399. Reserved for Future Use

SERIES 400 AIDING AND ABETTING, INCHOATE, AND ACCESSORIAL CRIMES

A. AIDING AND ABETTING AND RELATED DOCTRINES

400. Aiding and Abetting: General Principles
401. Aiding and Abetting: Intended Crimes
402. Natural and Probable Consequences Doctrine (Target and Non-Target Offenses Charged)
403. Natural and Probable Consequences (Only Non-Target Offense Charged)
404. Intoxication
405–414. Reserved for Future Use

B. CONSPIRACY

415. Conspiracy (Pen. Code, § 182)
416. Evidence of Uncharged Conspiracy
417. Liability for Coconspirators' Acts
418. Coconspirator's Statements
419. Acts Committed or Statements Made Before Joining Conspiracy
420. Withdrawal From Conspiracy
421–439. Reserved for Future Use

C. ACCESSORY AND SOLICITATION

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

440. Accessories (Pen. Code, § 32)
441. Solicitation: Elements (Pen. Code, § 653f)
442. Solicitation of a Minor (Pen. Code, § 653j)
443. Compelling Another to Commit Crime
444–449. Reserved for Future Use

D. CORPORATE OFFICERS

450. Liability of Corporate Officers and Agents: Single Theory of Liability
451. Liability of Corporate Officers and Agents: Two Theories of Liability
452–459. Reserved for Future Use

E. ATTEMPT

460. Attempt Other Than Attempted Murder (Pen. Code, § 21a)
461–499. Reserved for Future Use

SERIES 500 HOMICIDE

A. GENERAL PRINCIPLES

500. Homicide: General Principles
501–504. Reserved for Future Use

B. JUSTIFICATIONS AND EXCUSES

505. Justifiable Homicide: Self-Defense or Defense of Another
506. Justifiable Homicide: Defending Against Harm to Person Within Home or on Property
507. Justifiable Homicide: By Public Officer
508. Justifiable Homicide: Citizen Arrest (Non-Peace Officer)
509. Justifiable Homicide: Non-Peace Officer Preserving the Peace
510. Excusable Homicide: Accident
511. Excusable Homicide: Accident in the Heat of Passion
512. Presumption That Killing Not Criminal (Pen. Code, § 194)
513–519. Reserved for Future Use

C. MURDER: FIRST AND SECOND DEGREE

520. First or Second Degree Murder With Malice Aforethought (Pen. Code, § 187)
521. First Degree Murder (Pen. Code, § 189)
522. Provocation: Effect on Degree of Murder

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

523. First Degree Murder: Hate Crime (Pen. Code, § 190.03)

524. Second Degree Murder: Peace Officer (Pen. Code, § 190(b), (c))

525. Second Degree Murder: Discharge From Motor Vehicle

526–539. Reserved for Future Use

D. FELONY MURDER

540A. Felony Murder: First Degree—Defendant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act (Pen. Code, § 189)

540B. Felony Murder: First Degree—Coparticipant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act (Pen. Code, § 189)

540C. Felony Murder: First Degree—Other Acts Allegedly Caused Death (Pen. Code, § 189)

541A. Felony Murder: Second Degree—Defendant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act

541B. Felony Murder: Second Degree—Coparticipant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act

541C. Felony Murder: Second Degree—Other Acts Allegedly Caused Death

542–547. Reserved for Future Use

548. Murder: Alternative Theories

549. Felony Murder: One Continuous Transaction—Defined

550–559. Reserved for Future Use

E. ALTERNATE THEORIES OF LIABILITY

560. Homicide: Provocative Act by Defendant

561. Homicide: Provocative Act by Accomplice

562. Transferred Intent

563. Conspiracy to Commit Murder (Pen. Code, § 182)

564–569. Reserved for Future Use

F. MANSLAUGHTER

(i) Voluntary

570. Voluntary Manslaughter: Heat of Passion—Lesser Included Offense (Pen. Code, § 192(a))

571. Voluntary Manslaughter: Imperfect Self-Defense—Lesser Included Offense (Pen. Code, § 192)

572. Voluntary Manslaughter: Murder Not Charged (Pen. Code, § 192(a))

573–579. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(ii) Involuntary

580. Involuntary Manslaughter: Lesser Included Offense (Pen. Code, § 192(b))

581. Involuntary Manslaughter: Murder Not Charged (Pen. Code, § 192(b))

582. Involuntary Manslaughter: Failure to Perform Legal Duty—Murder Not Charged (Pen. Code, § 192(b))

583–589. Reserved for Future Use

(iii) Vehicular

590. Gross Vehicular Manslaughter While Intoxicated (Pen. Code, § 191.5(a))

591. Vehicular Manslaughter While Intoxicated—Ordinary Negligence (Pen. Code, § 191.5(b))

592. Gross Vehicular Manslaughter (Pen. Code, § 192(c)(1))

593. Misdemeanor Vehicular Manslaughter (Pen. Code, § 192(c)(2))

594. Vehicular Manslaughter: Collision for Financial Gain (Pen. Code, § 192(c)(4))

595. Vehicular Manslaughter: Speeding Laws Defined

596–599. Reserved for Future Use

G. ATTEMPT

600. Attempted Murder (Pen. Code, §§ 21a, 663, 664)

601. Attempted Murder: Deliberation and Premeditation (Pen. Code, §§ 21a, 189, 664(a))

602. Attempted Murder: Peace Officer, Firefighter, Custodial Officer, or Custody Assistant (Pen. Code, §§ 21a, 664(e))

603. Attempted Voluntary Manslaughter: Heat of Passion—Lesser Included Offense (Pen. Code, §§ 21a, 192, 664)

604. Attempted Voluntary Manslaughter: Imperfect Self-Defense—Lesser Included Offense (Pen. Code, §§ 21a, 192, 664)

605–619. Reserved for Future Use

H. CAUSATION: SPECIAL ISSUES

620. Causation: Special Issues

621–624. Reserved for Future Use

I. IMPAIRMENT DEFENSE

625. Voluntary Intoxication: Effects on Homicide Crimes (Pen. Code, § 22)

626. Voluntary Intoxication Causing Unconsciousness: Effects on Homicide Crimes (Pen. Code, § 22)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

627. Hallucination: Effect on Premeditation

628–639. Reserved for Future Use

J. CHARGE TO JURY

640. Deliberations and Completion of Verdict Forms: For Use When Defendant Is Charged With First Degree Murder and Jury Is Given Not Guilty Forms for Each Level of Homicide

641. Deliberations and Completion of Verdict Forms: For Use When Defendant Is Charged With First Degree Murder and Jury Is Given Only One Not Guilty Verdict Form for Each Count; Not to Be Used When Both Voluntary and Involuntary Manslaughter Are Lesser Included Offenses

642. Deliberations and Completion of Verdict Forms: For Use When Defendant Is Charged With Second Degree Murder and Jury Is Given Not Guilty Forms for Each Level of Homicide

643. Deliberations and Completion of Verdict Forms: For Use When Defendant Is Charged With Second Degree Murder and Jury Is Given Only One Not Guilty Verdict Form for Each Count; Not to Be Used When Both Voluntary and Involuntary Manslaughter Are Lesser Included Offenses

644–699. Reserved for Future Use

K. SPECIAL CIRCUMSTANCES

(i) General Instructions

700. Special Circumstances: Introduction (Pen. Code, § 190.2)

701. Special Circumstances: Intent Requirement for Accomplice Before June 6, 1990

702. Special Circumstances: Intent Requirement for Accomplice After June 5, 1990—Other Than Felony Murder (Pen. Code, § 190.2(c))

703. Special Circumstances: Intent Requirement for Accomplice After June 5, 1990—Felony Murder (Pen. Code, § 190.2(d))

704. Special Circumstances: Circumstantial Evidence— Sufficiency

705. Special Circumstances: Circumstantial Evidence—Intent or Mental State

706. Special Circumstances: Jury May Not Consider Punishment

707. Special Circumstances: Accomplice Testimony Must Be Corroborated—Dispute Whether Witness Is Accomplice (Pen. Code, § 1111)

708. Special Circumstances: Accomplice Testimony Must Be Corroborated—No Dispute Whether Witness Is Accomplice (Pen. Code, § 1111)

709–719. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Special Circumstances

720. Special Circumstances: Financial Gain (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(1))

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

721. Special Circumstances: Multiple Murder Convictions (Same Case) (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(3))

722. Special Circumstances: By Means of Destructive Device (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(4) & (6))

723. Special Circumstances: Murder to Prevent Arrest or Complete Escape (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(5))

724. Special Circumstances: Murder of Peace Officer, Federal Officer, or Firefighter (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(7), (8) & (9))

725. Special Circumstances: Murder of Witness (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(10))

726. Special Circumstances: Murder of Judge, Prosecutor, Government Official, or Juror (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(11), (12), (13) & (20))

727. Special Circumstances: Lying in Wait—Before March 8, 2000 (Former Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(15))

728. Special Circumstances: Lying in Wait—After March 7, 2000 (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(15))

729. Special Circumstances: Murder Because of Race, Religion, or Nationality (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(16))

730. Special Circumstances: Murder in Commission of Felony (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17))

731. Special Circumstances: Murder in Commission of Felony—Kidnapping With Intent to Kill After March 8, 2000 (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17))

732. Special Circumstances: Murder in Commission of Felony—Arson With Intent to Kill (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17))

733. Special Circumstances: Murder With Torture (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(18))

734. Special Circumstances: Murder by Poison (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(19))

735. Special Circumstances: Discharge From Vehicle (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(21))

736. Special Circumstances: Killing by Street Gang Member (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(22))

737. Special Circumstances: Murder of Transportation Worker (Pen. Code, § 190.25)

738–749. Reserved for Future Use

(iii) Special Circumstances With Prior Murder

750. Special Circumstances: Prior Murder Conviction (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(2))—Trial on Prior Murder (Pen. Code, § 190.1(a) & (b))

751. Second Degree Murder With Prior Prison for Murder (Pen. Code, § 190.05)

752–759. Reserved for Future Use

L. DEATH PENALTY

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

760. Death Penalty: Introduction to Penalty Phase

761. Death Penalty: Duty of Jury

762 Reserved for Future Use

763. Death Penalty: Factors to Consider—Not Identified as Aggravating or Mitigating (Pen. Code, § 190.3)

764. Death Penalty: Evidence of Other Violent Crimes

765. Death Penalty: Conviction for Other Felony Crimes

766. Death Penalty: Weighing Process

775. Death Penalty: Mental Retardation (Pen. Code, § 1376)

776–799. Reserved for Future Use

SERIES 800 ASSAULTIVE AND BATTERY CRIMES

A. MAYHEM

800. Aggravated Mayhem (Pen. Code, § 205)

801. Mayhem (Pen. Code, § 203)

802–809. Reserved for Future Use

B. TORTURE

810. Torture (Pen. Code, § 206)

811–819. Reserved for Future Use

C. ABUSE OF OR INJURY TO CHILD, ELDER OR DEPENDENT ADULT, SPOUSE

(i) Child

820. Assault Causing Death of Child (Pen. Code, § 273a(b))

821. Child Abuse Likely to Produce Great Bodily Harm or Death (Pen. Code, § 273a(a))

822. Inflicting Physical Punishment on Child (Pen. Code, § 273d(a))

823. Child Abuse (Misdemeanor) (Pen. Code, § 273a(b))

824–829. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Elder or Dependent Adult

830. Abuse of Elder or Dependent Adult Likely to Produce Great Bodily Harm or Death (Pen. Code, § 368(b)(1))

831. Abuse of Elder or Dependent Adult (Pen. Code, § 368(c))

832–839. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(iii) Spouse, etc.

840. Inflicting Injury on Spouse, Cohabitant, or Fellow Parent Resulting in Traumatic Condition (Pen. Code, § 273.5(a))

841. Simple Battery: Against Spouse, Cohabitant, or Fellow Parent (Pen. Code, § 243(e)(1))

842–849. Reserved for Future Use

(iv) Evidence

850. Testimony on Intimate Partner Battering and Its Effects: Credibility of Complaining Witness

851. Testimony on Intimate Partner Battering and Its Effects: Offered by the Defense

852. Evidence of Uncharged Domestic Violence

853. Evidence of Uncharged Abuse of Elder or Dependent Person

854–859. Reserved for Future Use

D. ASSAULT

(i) With Weapon or Force Likely

(A) On Specified People

860. Assault on Firefighter or Peace Officer With Deadly Weapon or Force Likely to Produce Great Bodily Injury (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 245(c) & (d))

861. Assault on Firefighter or Peace Officer With Stun Gun or Less Lethal Weapon (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 244.5(c))

862. Assault on Custodial Officer With Deadly Weapon or Force Likely to Produce Great Bodily Injury (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 245, 245.3)

863. Assault on Transportation Personnel or Passenger With Deadly Weapon or Force Likely to Produce Great Bodily Injury (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 245, 245.2)

864–874. Reserved for Future Use

(B) General

875. Assault With Deadly Weapon or Force Likely to Produce Great Bodily Injury (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 245(a)(1)–(3), (b))

876. Assault With Stun Gun or Less Lethal Weapon (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 244.5(b))

877. Assault With Caustic Chemicals (Pen. Code, § 244)

878–889. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) With Intent to Commit Other Offense

890. Assault With Intent to Commit Specified Crimes [While Committing First Degree Burglary] (Pen. Code, § 220(a), (b))

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

891. Assault With Intent to Commit Mayhem (Pen. Code, § 220(a))

892–899. Reserved for Future Use

(iii) Simple Assault on Specified People or in Specified Location

900. Assault on Firefighter, Peace Officer or Other Specified Victim (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241)

901. Assault on Custodial Officer (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.1)

902. Assault on Military Personnel (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.8)

903. Assault on School District Peace Officer (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.4)

904. Assault on School Employee (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.6)

905. Assault on Juror (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.7)

906. Assault Committed on School or Park Property (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.2)

907. Assault Committed on Public Transportation Provider's Property or Vehicle (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.3)

908–914. Reserved for Future Use

(iv) Simple Assault

915. Simple Assault (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241(a))

916. Assault by Conditional Threat

917. Insulting Words Are Not a Defense

918–924. Reserved for Future Use

E. BATTERY

(i) Causing Injury

925. Battery Causing Serious Bodily Injury (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243(d))

926. Battery Causing Injury to Specified Victim Not a Peace Officer (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243(b)–(c)(1))

927–934. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Sexual Battery

935. Sexual Battery: Felony (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.4(a) & (d))

936. Sexual Battery on Institutionalized Victim (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.4(b) & (d))

937. Sexual Battery: By Fraudulent Representation (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.4(c))

938. Sexual Battery: Misdemeanor (Pen. Code, § 243.4(e)(1))

939–944. Reserved for Future Use

(iii) On Specified Person or in Specified Location

945. Battery Against Peace Officer (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243(b), (c)(2))

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

946. Battery Against Custodial Officer (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.1)

947. Simple Battery on Military Personnel (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.10)

948. Battery Against Transportation Personnel or Passenger (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.3)

949. Battery Against School Employee (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.6)

950. Battery Against a Juror (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.7)

951. Battery Committed on School, Park, or Hospital Property (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.2)

952–959. Reserved for Future Use

(iv) Simple Battery

960. Simple Battery (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243(a))

961–964. Reserved for Future Use

F. SHOOTING AND BRANDISHING

(i) Shooting

965. Shooting at Inhabited House or Occupied Motor Vehicle (Pen. Code, § 246)

966. Shooting at Uninhabited House or Unoccupied Motor Vehicle (Pen. Code, § 247(b))

967. Shooting at Unoccupied Aircraft (Pen. Code, § 247(a))

968. Shooting From Motor Vehicle (Pen. Code, § 12034(c) & (d))

969. Permitting Someone to Shoot From Vehicle (Pen. Code, § 12034(b))

970. Shooting Firearm or BB Device in Grossly Negligent Manner (Pen. Code, § 246.3)

971–979. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Brandishing

980. Brandishing Firearm in Presence of Occupant of Motor Vehicle (Pen. Code, § 417.3)

981. Brandishing Firearm in Presence of Peace Officer (Pen. Code, § 417(c) & (e))

982. Brandishing Firearm or Deadly Weapon to Resist Arrest (Pen. Code, § 417.8)

983. Brandishing Firearm or Deadly Weapon: Misdemeanor (Pen. Code, § 417(a)(1) & (2))

984. Brandishing Firearm: Misdemeanor—Public Place (Pen. Code, § 417(a)(2)(A))

985. Brandishing Imitation Firearm (Pen. Code, § 417.4)

986–999. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

SERIES 1000 SEX OFFENSES

A. AGAINST ADULT OR MINOR

(i) Rape

1000. Rape or Spousal Rape by Force, Fear, or Threats (Pen. Code, § 261(a)(2), (6) & (7))

1001. Rape or Spousal Rape in Concert (Pen. Code, § 264.1)

1002. Rape of Intoxicated Woman or Spouse (Pen. Code, §§ 261(a)(3), 262(a)(2))

1003. Rape of Unconscious Woman or Spouse (Pen. Code, §§ 261(a)(4), 262(a)(3))

1004. Rape of a Disabled Woman (Pen. Code, § 261(a)(1))

1005. Rape by Fraud (Pen. Code, § 261(a)(5))

1006–1014. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Oral Copulation

1015. Oral Copulation by Force, Fear, or Threats (Pen. Code, § 288a(c)(2) & (3), (k))

1016. Oral Copulation in Concert (Pen. Code, § 288a(d))

1017. Oral Copulation of an Intoxicated Person (Pen. Code, § 288a(a), (i))

1018. Oral Copulation of an Unconscious Person (Pen. Code, § 288a(a), (f))

1019. Oral Copulation of a Disabled Person (Pen. Code, § 288a(a), (g))

1020. Oral Copulation of a Disabled Person in a Mental Hospital (Pen. Code, § 288a(a), (h))

1021. Oral Copulation by Fraud (Pen. Code, § 288a(a), (j))

1022. Oral Copulation While in Custody (Pen. Code, § 288a(a), (e))

1023–1029. Reserved for Future Use

(iii) Sodomy

1030. Sodomy by Force, Fear, or Threats (Pen. Code, § 286(c)(2), (3), (k))

1031. Sodomy in Concert (Pen. Code, § 286(d))

1032. Sodomy of an Intoxicated Person (Pen. Code, § 286(i))

1033. Sodomy of an Unconscious Person (Pen. Code, § 286(f))

1034. Sodomy of a Disabled Person (Pen. Code, § 286(g))

1035. Sodomy of a Disabled Person in a Mental Hospital (Pen. Code, § 286(h))

1036. Sodomy by Fraud (Pen. Code, § 286(j))

1037. Sodomy While in Custody (Pen. Code, § 286(e))

1038–1044. Reserved for Future Use

(iv) Sexual Penetration

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1045. Sexual Penetration by Force, Fear, or Threats (Pen. Code, § 289(a)(1), (2), (g))

1046. Sexual Penetration in Concert (Pen. Code, §§ 264.1, 289(a)(1))

1047. Sexual Penetration of an Intoxicated Person (Pen. Code, § 289(e))

1048. Sexual Penetration of an Unconscious Person (Pen. Code, § 289(d))

1049. Sexual Penetration of a Disabled Person (Pen. Code, § 289(b))

1050. Sexual Penetration of a Disabled Person in a Mental Hospital (Pen. Code, § 289(c))

1051. Sexual Penetration by Fraud (Pen. Code, § 289(f))

1052–1059. Reserved for Future Use

(v) Lewd and Lascivious Act

1060. Lewd or Lascivious Act: Dependent Person (Pen. Code, § 288(b)(2) & (c)(2))

1061–1069. Reserved for Future Use

B. AGAINST MINORS ONLY

(i) Unlawful Sexual Intercourse

1070. Unlawful Sexual Intercourse: Defendant 21 or Older (Pen. Code, § 261.5(a) & (d))

1071. Unlawful Sexual Intercourse: Minor More Than Three Years Younger (Pen. Code, § 261.5(a) & (c))

1072. Misdemeanor Unlawful Sexual Intercourse: Minor Within Three Years of Defendant's Age (Pen. Code, § 261.5(a) & (b))

1073–1079. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Oral Copulation

1080. Oral Copulation With Person Under 14 (Pen. Code, § 288a(c)(1))

1081. Oral Copulation With Minor: Defendant 21 or Older (Pen. Code, § 288a(b)(2))

1082. Oral Copulation With Person Under 18 (Pen. Code, § 288a(b)(1))

1083–1089. Reserved for Future Use

(iii) Sodomy

1090. Sodomy With Person Under 14 (Pen. Code, § 286(c)(1))

1091. Sodomy With Minor: Defendant 21 or Older (Pen. Code, § 286(b)(2))

1092. Sodomy With Person Under 18 (Pen. Code, § 286(b)(1))

1093–1099. Reserved for Future Use

(iv) Sexual Penetration

1100. Sexual Penetration With Person Under 14 (Pen. Code, § 289(j))

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1101. Sexual Penetration With Minor: Defendant 21 or Older (Pen. Code, § 289(i))

1102. Sexual Penetration With Person Under 18 (Pen. Code, § 289(h))

1103–1109. Reserved for Future Use

(v) Lewd And Lascivious Act

1110. Lewd or Lascivious Act: Child Under 14 Years (Pen. Code, § 288(a))

1111. Lewd or Lascivious Act: By Force or Fear (Pen. Code, § 288(b)(1))

1112. Lewd or Lascivious Act: Child 14 or 15 Years (Pen. Code, § 288(c)(1))

1113–1119. Reserved for Future Use

(vi) Other Offenses

1120. Continuous Sexual Abuse (Pen. Code, § 288.5(a))

1121. Annoying or Molesting a Child in a Dwelling (Pen. Code, § 647.6(a)–(c))

1122. Annoying or Molesting a Child (Pen. Code, § 647.6(a)–(c))

1123. Aggravated Sexual Assault of Child Under 14 Years (Pen. Code, § 269(a))

1124. Contacting Minor With Intent to Commit Certain Felonies (Pen. Code, § 288.3(a))

1125. Arranging Meeting With Minor for Lewd Purpose (Pen. Code, § 288.4(a)(1))

1126. Going to Meeting With Minor for Lewd Purpose (Pen. Code, § 288.4(b))

1127. Engaging in Sexual Intercourse or Sodomy With Child 10 Years of Age or Younger (Pen. Code, § 288.7(a))

1128. Engaging in Oral Copulation or Sexual Penetration With Child 10 Years of Age or Younger (Pen. Code, § 288.7(b))

1129–1139. Reserved for Future Use

C. OTHER SEX RELATED OFFENSES

(i) Obscene or Harmful Matter

1140. Showing or Sending Harmful Material to Seduce a Minor (Pen. Code, § 288.2(a) & (b))

1141. Distributing Obscene Matter Showing Sexual Conduct by a Minor (Pen. Code, §§ 311.1(a), 311.2(b))

1142. Distributing or Intending to Distribute Obscene Material (Pen. Code, § 311.2(a))

1143. Obscene Live Conduct (Pen. Code, § 311.6)

1144–1149. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Pimping, Pandering, Prostitution

1150. Pimping (Pen. Code, § 266h)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1151. Pandering (Pen. Code, § 266i)
1152. Child Procurement (Pen. Code, § 266j)
1153. Prostitution: Engaging in Act (Pen. Code, § 647(b))
1154. Prostitution: Soliciting Another (Pen. Code, § 647(b))
1155. Prostitution: Agreeing to Engage in Act (Pen. Code, § 647(b))
1156. Loitering: For Prostitution (Pen. Code, § 653.22(a))
1157–1159. Reserved for Future Use

(iii) Conduct in Public

1160. Indecent Exposure (Pen. Code, § 314)
1161. Lewd Conduct in Public (Pen. Code, § 647(a))
1162. Soliciting Lewd Conduct in Public (Pen. Code, § 647(a))
1163–1169. Reserved for Future Use

(iv) Failure to Register

1170. Failure to Register as Sex Offender (Pen. Code, § 290(b))
1171–1179. Reserved for Future Use

(v) Other Offenses

1180. Incest (Pen. Code, § 285)
1181. Sexual Abuse of Animal (Pen. Code, §§ 286.5, 597f)
1182–1189. Reserved for Future Use

D. EVIDENCE

1190. Other Evidence Not Required to Support Testimony in Sex Offense Case
1191. Evidence of Uncharged Sex Offense
1192. Testimony on Rape Trauma Syndrome
1193. Testimony on Child Sexual Abuse Accommodation Syndrome
1194. Consent: Prior Sexual Intercourse
1195–1199. Reserved for Future Use

SERIES 1200 KIDNAPPING

A. KIDNAPPING

(i) Aggravated

1200. Kidnapping: For Child Molestation (Pen. Code, §§ 207(b), 288(a))
1201. Kidnapping: Child or Person Incapable of Consent (Pen. Code, § 207(a), (e))

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1202. Kidnapping: For Ransom, Reward, or Extortion (Pen. Code, § 209(a))

1203. Kidnapping: For Robbery, Rape, or Other Sex Offenses (Pen. Code, § 209(b))

1204. Kidnapping: During Carjacking (Pen. Code, §§ 207(a), 209.5(a), (b), 215(a))

1205–1214. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Simple Kidnapping

1215. Kidnapping (Pen. Code, § 207(a))

1216–1224. Reserved for Future Use

B. DEFENSES

1225. Defense to Kidnapping: Protecting Child From Imminent Harm (Pen. Code, § 207(f)(1))

1226. Defense to Kidnapping: Citizen's Arrest (Pen. Code, §§ 207(f)(2), 834, 837)

1227–1239. Reserved for Future Use

C. FALSE IMPRISONMENT

1240. Felony False Imprisonment (Pen. Code, §§ 236, 237)

1241. False Imprisonment: Hostage (Pen. Code, §§ 210.5, 236)

1242. Misdemeanor False Imprisonment (Pen. Code, §§ 236, 237(a))

1243. Human Trafficking (Pen. Code, § 236.1(a), (c))

1244–1249. Reserved for Future Use

D. CHILD ABDUCTION

1250. Child Abduction: No Right to Custody (Pen. Code, §§ 277, 278)

1251. Child Abduction: By Depriving Right to Custody or Visitation (Pen. Code, §§ 277, 278.5)

1252. Defense to Child Abduction: Protection From Immediate Injury (Pen. Code, § 278.7)

1253–1299. Reserved for Future Use

SERIES 1300 CRIMINAL THREATS AND HATE CRIMES

A. THREATENING, STALKING, OR TERRORIZING

1300. Criminal Threat (Pen. Code, § 422)

1301. Stalking (Pen. Code, § 646.9(a), (e)–(h))

1302. Terrorizing by Destructive Device, Explosive, or Arson (Pen. Code, § 11413)

1303. Terrorism by Symbol (Pen. Code, § 11411(a) & (b))

1304. Cross Burning and Religious Symbol Desecration (Pen. Code, § 11411(c))

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1305. Obstructing Religion by Threat (Pen. Code, § 11412)

1306–1349. Reserved for Future Use

B. HATE CRIMES

1350. Hate Crime: Misdemeanor Interference With Civil Rights by Force (Pen. Code, § 422.6(a))

1351. Hate Crime: Misdemeanor Interference With Civil Rights by Threat (Pen. Code, § 422.6(a) & (c))

1352. Hate Crime: Misdemeanor Interference With Civil Rights by Damaging Property (Pen. Code, § 422.6(b))

1353. Hate Crime: Disability Defined

1354. Hate Crime Allegation: Felony (Pen. Code, § 422.75(a)–(c))

1355. Hate Crime Allegation: Misdemeanor (Pen. Code, § 422.7)

1356–1399. Reserved for Future Use

SERIES 1400 CRIMINAL STREET GANGS

1400. Active Participation in Criminal Street Gang (Pen. Code, § 186.22(a))

1401. Felony or Misdemeanor Committed for Benefit of Criminal Street Gang (Pen. Code, § 186.22(b)(1) (Felony) and § 186.22(d) (Felony or Misdemeanor))

1402. Gang-Related Firearm Enhancement (Pen. Code, § 12022.53)

1403. Limited Purpose of Evidence of Gang Activity

1404–1499. Reserved for Future Use

SERIES 1500 ARSON

A. ARSON

(i) Aggravated

1500. Aggravated Arson (Pen. Code, § 451.5)

1501. Arson: Great Bodily Injury (Pen. Code, § 451)

1502. Arson: Inhabited Structure (Pen. Code, § 451(b))

1503–1514. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Simple Arson

1515. Arson (Pen. Code, § 451(b))

1516–1519. Reserved for Future Use

(iii) Attempted Arson

1520. Attempted Arson (Pen. Code, § 455)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1521–1529. Reserved for Future Use

B. UNLAWFULLY CAUSING A FIRE

1530. Unlawfully Causing a Fire: Great Bodily Injury (Pen. Code, § 452)

1531. Unlawfully Causing a Fire: Inhabited Structure (Pen. Code, § 452)

1532. Unlawfully Causing a Fire (Pen. Code, § 452)

1533–1549. Reserved for Future Use

C. OTHER RELATED INSTRUCTIONS

1550. Possession of Incendiary Device (Pen. Code, § 453)

1551. Arson Enhancements (Pen. Code, §§ 451.1, 456(b))

1552–1599. Reserved for Future Use

SERIES 1600 ROBBERY AND CARJACKING

A. ROBBERY

1600. Robbery (Pen. Code, § 211)

1601. Robbery in Concert (Pen. Code, § 213(a)(1)(A))

1602. Robbery: Degrees (Pen. Code, § 212.5)

1603. Robbery: Intent of Aider and Abettor

1604–1649. Reserved for Future Use

B. CARJACKING

1650. Carjacking (Pen. Code, § 215)

1651–1699. Reserved for Future Use

SERIES 1700 BURGLARY AND RECEIVING STOLEN PROPERTY

A. BURGLARY

1700. Burglary (Pen. Code, § 459)

1701. Burglary: Degrees (Pen. Code, § 460)

1702. Burglary: Intent of Aider and Abettor

1703–1749. Reserved for Future Use

B. RECEIVING STOLEN PROPERTY AND RELATED INSTRUCTIONS

1750. Receiving Stolen Property (Pen. Code, § 496(a))

1751. Defense to Receiving Stolen Property: Innocent Intent

1752. Owning or Operating a Chop Shop (Veh. Code, § 10801)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1753–1799. Reserved for Future Use

SERIES 1800 THEFT AND EXTORTION

A. THEFT

1800. Theft by Larceny (Pen. Code, § 484)
1801. Theft: Degrees (Pen. Code, §§ 486, 487–488, 491)
1802. Theft: As Part of Overall Plan
1803. Theft: By Employee or Agent (Pen. Code, § 487(b)(3))
1804. Theft by False Pretense (Pen. Code § 484)
1805. Theft by Trick (Pen. Code, § 484)
1806. Theft by Embezzlement (Pen. Code, §§ 484, 503)
1807. Theft From Elder or Dependent Adult (Pen. Code, § 368(d), (e))
1808–1819. Reserved for Future Use

B. TAKING OR TAMPERING WITH VEHICLE

1820. Unlawful Taking or Driving of Vehicle (Veh. Code, § 10851(a), (b))
1821. Tampering With a Vehicle (Veh. Code, § 10852)
1822. Unlawful Taking of Bicycle or Vessel (Pen. Code, § 499b)
1823–1829. Reserved for Future Use

C. EXTORTION

1830. Extortion by Threat or Force (Pen. Code, §§ 518, 519)
1831. Extortion by Threatening Letter (Pen. Code, § 523)
1832. Extortion of Signature (Pen. Code, § 522)
1833–1849. Reserved for Future Use

D. PETTY THEFT WITH A PRIOR

1850. Petty Theft With Prior Conviction (Pen. Code, § 666)
1851–1859. Reserved for Future Use

E. THEFT RELATED INSTRUCTIONS

1860. Owner's Opinion of Value
1861. Jury Does Not Need to Agree on Form of Theft
1862. Return of Property Not a Defense to Theft (Pen. Code, §§ 512, 513)
1863. Defense to Theft or Robbery: Claim of Right (Pen. Code, § 511)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Volume 2 Table of Contents

SERIES 1900 CRIMINAL WRITINGS AND FRAUD

A. FORGERY

(i) Forging or Passing Document

1900. Forgery by False Signature (Pen. Code, § 470(a))

1901. Forgery by Endorsement (Pen. Code, § 470(a))

1902. Forgery of Handwriting or Seal (Pen. Code, § 470(b))

1903. Forgery by Altering or Falsifying Will or Other Legal Document (Pen. Code, § 470(c))

1904. Forgery by Falsifying, Altering, or Counterfeiting Document (Pen. Code, § 470(d))

1905. Forgery by Passing or Attempting to Use Forged Document (Pen. Code, § 470(d))

1906. Forging and Passing or Attempting to Pass: Two Theories in One Count

1907–1919. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Counterfeit Driver's License

1920. Falsifying, Altering, or Counterfeiting a Driver's License (Pen. Code, § 470a)

1921. Possessing or Displaying False, Altered, or Counterfeit Driver's License (Pen. Code, § 470b)

1922–1924. Reserved for Future Use

(iii) Counterfeit Seal

1925. Forgery of Government, Public, or Corporate Seal (Pen. Code, § 472)

1926. Possession of Counterfeit Government, Public, or Corporate Seal (Pen. Code, § 472)

1927–1929. Reserved for Future Use

(iv) Possession With Intent to Defraud

1930. Possession of Forged Document (Pen. Code, § 475(a))

1931. Possession of Blank Check: With Intent to Defraud (Pen. Code, § 475(b))

1932. Possession of Completed Check: With Intent to Defraud (Pen. Code, § 475(c))

1933–1934. Reserved for Future Use

(v) Check Fraud

1935. Making, Passing, etc., Fictitious Check or Bill (Pen. Code, § 476)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1936–1944. Reserved for Future Use

(vi) Filing False Document

1945. Procuring Filing of False Document or Offering False Document for Filing (Pen. Code, § 115)

1946–1949. Reserved for Future Use

B. ACCESS CARD FRAUD

1950. Sale or Transfer of Access Card or Account Number (Pen. Code, § 484e(a))

1951. Acquiring or Retaining an Access Card or Account Number (Pen. Code, § 484e(c))

1952. Acquiring or Retaining Account Information (Pen. Code, § 484e(d))

1953. Making Counterfeit Access Card or Account Number (Pen. Code, § 484f(a))

1954. Using or Attempting to Use Counterfeit Access Card (Pen. Code, § 484f(a))

1955. False Signature on Access Card or Receipt (Pen. Code, § 484f(b))

1956. Use of Forged, etc., Access Card (Pen. Code, § 484g(a))

1957. Obtaining Money, etc., by Representing Self as Holder of Access Card (Pen. Code, § 484g(b))

1958–1969. Reserved for Future Use

C. CHECK WITH INSUFFICIENT FUNDS

1970. Making, Using, etc., Check Knowing Funds Insufficient (Pen. Code, § 476a)

1971. Making, Using, etc., Check Knowing Funds Insufficient: Total Value of Checks (Pen. Code, § 476a(b))

1972–1999. Reserved for Future Use

D. INSURANCE FRAUD

2000. Insurance Fraud: Fraudulent Claims (Pen. Code, § 550(a)(1), (4)–(7) & (9))

2001. Insurance Fraud: Multiple Claims (Pen. Code, § 550(a)(2) & (8))

2002. Insurance Fraud: Vehicle Accident (Pen. Code, § 550(a)(3))

2003. Insurance Fraud: Health-Care Claims—Total Value (Pen. Code, § 550(c)(2))

2004. Insurance Fraud: Destruction of Insured Property (Pen. Code, § 548(a))

2005–2019. Reserved for Future Use

E. FALSE FINANCIAL STATEMENT

2020. False Financial Statement: Making False Statement (Pen. Code, § 532a(1))

2021. False Financial Statement: Obtaining Benefit (Pen. Code, § 532a(2))

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

2022. False Financial Statement: Reaffirming Statement (Pen. Code, § 532a(3))

2023. False Financial Statement: Use of False Identifying Information (Pen. Code, § 532a(4))

2024–2039. Reserved for Future Use

F. IDENTITY THEFT

2040. Unauthorized Use of Personal Identifying Information (Pen. Code, § 530.5(a))

2041. Fraudulent Possession of Personal Identifying Information (Pen. Code, § 530.5(c)(1), (2), or (3))

2042. Fraudulent Sale, Transfer or Conveyance of Personal Identifying Information (Pen. Code, § 530.5(d)(1))

2043. Knowing Sale, Transfer, or Conveyance of Personal Identifying Information to Facilitate Its Unauthorized Use (Pen. Code, § 530.5(d)(2))

2044–2099. Reserved for Future Use

SERIES 2100 VEHICLE OFFENSES

A. DUI

(i) Causing Injury

2100. Driving a Vehicle or Operating a Vessel Under the Influence Causing Injury (Veh. Code, § 23153(a))

2101. Driving With 0.08 Percent Blood Alcohol Causing Injury (Veh. Code, § 23153(b))

2102–2109. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Without Injury

2110. Driving Under the Influence (Veh. Code, § 23152(a))

2111. Driving With 0.08 Percent Blood Alcohol (Veh. Code, § 23152(b))

2112. Driving While Addicted to a Drug (Veh. Code, § 23152(c))

2113. Driving With 0.05 Percent Blood Alcohol When Under 21 (Veh. Code, § 23140(a))

2114–2124. Reserved for Future Use

(iii) Prior Conviction

2125. Driving Under the Influence or With 0.08 Percent Blood Alcohol: Prior Convictions (Veh. Code, §§ 23550, 23550.5 & 23566)

2126. Driving Under the Influence or With 0.08 Percent Blood Alcohol: Prior Convictions—Bifurcated Trial (Veh. Code, §§ 23550, 23550.5 & 23566)

2127–2129. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(iv) Refusal

2130. Refusal—Consciousness of Guilt (Veh. Code, § 23612)

2131. Refusal—Enhancement (Veh. Code, §§ 23577, 23612)

2132–2139. Reserved for Future Use

B. FAILURE TO PERFORM DUTY FOLLOWING ACCIDENT

(i) Death or Injury

2140. Failure to Perform Duty Following Accident: Death or Injury—Defendant Driver (Veh. Code, §§ 20001, 20003 & 20004)

2141. Failure to Perform Duty Following Accident: Death or Injury—Defendant Nondriving Owner or Passenger in Control (Veh. Code, §§ 20001, 20003 & 20004)

2142. Failure to Perform Duty Following Accident: Lesser Included Offense (Veh. Code, §§ 20001, 20003 & 20004)

2143–2149. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Property Damage

2150. Failure to Perform Duty Following Accident:Property Damage—Defendant Driver (Veh. Code, § 20002)

2151. Failure to Perform Duty Following Accident: Property Damage—Defendant Nondriving Owner or Passenger in Control (Veh. Code, § 20002)

2152–2159. Reserved for Future Use

(iii) Enhancement

2160. Fleeing the Scene Following Accident: Enhancement for Vehicular Manslaughter (Veh. Code, § 20001(c))

2161–2179. Reserved for Future Use

C. EVADING

2180. Evading Peace Officer: Death or Serious Bodily Injury (Veh. Code, §§ 2800.1(a), 2800.3(a), (b))

2181. Evading Peace Officer: Reckless Driving (Veh. Code, §§ 2800.1(a), 2800.2)

2182. Evading Peace Officer: Misdemeanor (Veh. Code, § 2800.1(a))

2183–2199. Reserved for Future Use

D. RECKLESS DRIVING AND SPEED CONTEST

2200. Reckless Driving (Veh. Code, § 23103(a) & (b))

2201. Speed Contest (Veh. Code, § 23109(c), (e)(2), (f)(1)–(3))

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

2202. Exhibition of Speed (Veh. Code, § 23109(c))

2203–2219. Reserved for Future Use

E. LICENSING OFFENSES

2220. Driving With Suspended or Revoked Driving Privilege (Veh. Code, §§ 13106, 14601, 14601.1, 14601.2, 14601.5.)

2221. Driving Without a License (Veh. Code, § 12500(a))

2222. Failing to Present Driver's License (Veh. Code, § 12951(b))

2223–2239. Reserved for Future Use

F. OTHER VEHICLE OFFENSES

2240. Failure to Appear (Veh. Code, § 40508(a))

2241. Driver and Driving Defined (Veh. Code, § 305)

2242–2299. Reserved for Future Use

SERIES 2300 CONTROLLED SUBSTANCES

A. CONTROLLED SUBSTANCES

2300. Sale, Transportation, etc., of Controlled Substance (Health & Saf. Code, §§ 11352, 11379)

2301. Offering to Sell, Transport, etc., a Controlled Substance (Health & Saf. Code, §§ 11352, 11379)

2302. Possession for Sale of Controlled Substance (Health & Saf. Code, §§ 11351, 11351.5, 11378, 11378.5)

2303. Possession of Controlled Substance While Armed With Firearm (Health & Saf. Code, § 11370.1)

2304. Simple Possession of Controlled Substance (Health & Saf. Code, §§ 11350, 11377)

2305. Defense: Momentary Possession of Controlled Substance

2306–2314. Reserved for Future Use

B. SUBSTITUTE SUBSTANCE

2315. Sale of Substitute Substance (Health & Saf. Code, §§ 11355, 11382)

2316. Offer to Sell Substitute Substance (Health & Saf. Code, §§ 11355, 11382)

2317–2319. Reserved for Future Use

C. FORGED SUBSTANCE

2320. Forged Prescription for Narcotic (Health & Saf. Code, § 11368)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

2321. Forged Prescription for Narcotic: With Possession of Drug (Health & Saf. Code, § 11368)

2322–2329. Reserved for Future Use

D. MANUFACTURING

(i) Manufacturing and Offering

2330. Manufacturing a Controlled Substance (Health & Saf. Code, § 11379.6(a) & (b))

2331. Offering to Manufacture a Controlled Substance (Health & Saf. Code, §§ 11379.6(a) & (c))

2332–2334. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Possession of Materials

2335. Possession With Intent to Manufacture Methamphetamine or N-ethylamphetamine (Health & Saf. Code, § 11383.5(a))

2336. Possession With Intent to Manufacture PCP (Health & Saf. Code, § 11383(a))

2337. Possession With Intent to Manufacture Methamphetamine (Health & Saf. Code, § 11383.5(b)(1))

2338. Possession of Isomers or Precursors With Intent to Manufacture Controlled Substance (Health & Saf. Code, § 11383.5(c)–(f))

2339–2349. Reserved for Future Use

E. MARIJUANA

(i) Sale, Offering to Sell, Possession for Sale

2350. Sale, Furnishing, etc., of Marijuana (Health & Saf. Code, § 11360(a))

2351. Offering to Sell, Furnish, etc., Marijuana (Health & Saf. Code, § 11360)

2352. Possession for Sale of Marijuana (Health & Saf. Code, §§ 11018, 11359)

2353–2359. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Transportation or Offering to Transport

2360. Transporting or Giving Away Marijuana: Not More Than 28.5 Grams—Misdemeanor (Health & Saf. Code, § 11360(b))

2361. Transporting or Giving Away Marijuana: More Than 28.5 Grams (Health & Saf. Code, § 11360(a))

2362. Offering to Transport or Give Away Marijuana: Not More Than 28.5 Grams—Misdemeanor (Health & Saf. Code, § 11360(b))

2363. Offering to Transport or Give Away Marijuana: More Than 28.5 Grams (Health & Saf. Code, § 11360(a))

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

2364–2369. Reserved for Future Use

(iii) Planting

2370. Planting, etc., Marijuana (Health & Saf. Code, § 11358)

2371–2374. Reserved for Future Use

(iv) Simple Possession

2375. Simple Possession of Marijuana: Misdemeanor (Health & Saf. Code, § 11357(c))

2376. Simple Possession of Marijuana on School Grounds: Misdemeanor (Health & Saf. Code, § 11357(d))

2377. Simple Possession of Concentrated Cannabis (Health & Saf. Code, § 11357(a))

2378–2379. Reserved for Future Use

F. OFFENSES INVOLVING MINORS

(i) Controlled Substances

2380. Sale, Furnishing, etc., of Controlled Substance to Minor (Health & Saf. Code, §§ 11353, 11354, 11380(a))

2381. Offering to Sell, Furnish, etc., Controlled Substance to Minor (Health & Saf. Code, §§ 11353, 11354, 11380(a))

2382. Employment of Minor to Sell Controlled Substance (Health & Saf. Code, §§ 11353, 11354)

2383. Use of Minor as Agent to Violate Controlled Substance Law (Health & Saf. Code, § 11380(a))

2384. Inducing Minor to Violate Controlled Substance Laws (Health & Saf. Code, §§ 11353, 11354, 11380(a))

2385–2389. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Marijuana

2390. Sale, Furnishing, etc., of Marijuana to Minor (Health & Saf. Code, § 11361)

2391. Offering to Sell, Furnish, etc., Marijuana to Minor (Health & Saf. Code, § 11361)

2392. Employment of Minor to Sell, etc., Marijuana (Health & Saf. Code, § 11361(a))

2393. Inducing Minor to Use Marijuana (Health & Saf. Code, § 11361(a))

2394–2399. Reserved for Future Use

G. USE AND POSSESSION OF PARAPHERNALIA

(i) Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

2400. Using or Being Under the Influence of Controlled Substance (Health & Saf. Code, § 11550)

2401. Aiding and Abetting Unlawful Use of Controlled Substance (Health & Saf. Code, § 11365)

2402–2409. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Possession of Paraphernalia

2410. Possession of Controlled Substance Paraphernalia (Health & Saf. Code, § 11364)

2411. Possession of Hypodermic Needle or Syringe (Bus. & Prof. Code, § 4140)

2412. Fraudulently Obtaining a Hypodermic Needle or Syringe (Bus. & Prof. Code, § 4326(a))

2413. Using or Permitting Improper Use of a Hypodermic Needle or Syringe (Bus. & Prof. Code, § 4326(b))

2414–2429. Reserved for Future Use

H. MONEY FROM CONTROLLED SUBSTANCES

2430. Possession of More Than $100,000 Related to Transaction Involving Controlled Substance: Proceeds (Health & Saf. Code, § 11370.6)

2431. Possession of More Than $100,000 Related to Transaction Involving Controlled Substance: Money to Purchase (Health & Saf. Code, § 11370.6)

2432. Attorney's Possession of More Than $100,000 Related to Transaction Involving Controlled Substance (Health & Saf. Code, § 11370.6(b))

2433–2439. Reserved for Future Use

I. OTHER RELATED OFFENSES

2440. Maintaining a Place for Controlled Substance Sale or Use (Health & Saf. Code, § 11366)

2441. Use of False Compartment to Conceal Controlled Substance (Health & Saf. Code, § 11366.8)

2442–2499. Reserved for Future Use

SERIES 2500 WEAPONS

A. POSSESSION OF ILLEGAL OR DEADLY WEAPON

2500. Illegal Possession, etc., of Weapon (Pen. Code, § 12020(a)(1) & (2))

2501. Carrying Concealed Explosive or Dirk or Dagger (Pen. Code, § 12020(a)(3) & (4))

2502. Possession, etc., of Switchblade Knife (Pen. Code, § 653k)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

2503. Possession of Deadly Weapon With Intent to Assault (Pen. Code, § 12024)

2504–2509. Reserved for Future Use

B. POSSESSION OF FIREARM BY PERSON PROHIBITED

2510. Possession of Firearm by Person Prohibited Due to Conviction—No Stipulation to Conviction (Pen. Code, §§ 12021(a)–(c) & (e), 12021.1(a), 12001.6)

2511. Possession of Firearm by Person Prohibited Due to Conviction—Stipulation to Conviction (Pen. Code, §§ 12021(a)–(c) & (e), 12021.1(a), 12001.6)

2512. Possession of Firearm by Person Prohibited by Court Order (Pen. Code, § 12021(d) & (g))

2513. Possession of Firearm by Person Addicted to a Narcotic Drug (Pen. Code, § 12021(a))

2514. Possession of Firearm by Person Prohibited by Statute: Self-Defense

2515–2519. Reserved for Future Use

C. CARRYING A FIREARM

(i) Concealed

2520. Carrying Concealed Firearm on Person (Pen. Code, § 12025(a)(2) & (f))

2521. Carrying Concealed Firearm Within Vehicle (Pen. Code, § 12025(a)(1) & (f))

2522. Carrying Concealed Firearm: Caused to Be Carried Within Vehicle (Pen. Code, § 12025(a)(3) & (f))

2523–2529. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Loaded

2530. Carrying Loaded Firearm (Pen. Code, § 12031(a))

2531–2539. Reserved for Future Use

(iii) Sentencing Factors

2540. Carrying Firearm: Specified Convictions (Pen. Code, §§ 12025(b)(1), (5), 12031(a)(2)(A), (E))

2541. Carrying Firearm: Stolen Firearm (Pen. Code, §§ 12025(b)(2), 12031(a)(2)(B))

2542. Carrying Firearm: Active Participant in Criminal Street Gang (Pen. Code, §§ 12025(b)(3), 12031(a)(2)(C))

2543. Carrying Firearm: Not in Lawful Possession (Pen. Code, §§ 12025(b)(2), 12031(a)(2)(D))

2544. Carrying Firearm: Possession of Firearm Prohibited Due to Conviction, Court Order, or Mental Illness (Pen. Code, §§ 12025(b)(4), 12031(a)(2)(D))

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

2545. Carrying Loaded Firearm: Not Registered Owner (Pen. Code, § 12031(a)(2)(F))

2546. Carrying Concealed Firearm: Not Registered Owner and Weapon Loaded (Pen. Code, § 12025(b)(6))

2547–2559. Reserved for Future Use

D. ASSAULT WEAPONS

2560. Possession, etc., of Assault Weapon or .50 BMG Rifle (Pen. Code, § 12280(a)(1) & (2))

2561. Possession, etc., of Assault Weapon or .50 BMG Rifle While Committing Other Offense—Charged as Separate Count and as Enhancement (Pen. Code, § 12280(d))

2562. Possession, etc., of Assault Weapon or .50 BMG Rifle While Committing Other Offense—Charged Only as Enhancement (Pen. Code, § 12280(d))

2563–2569. Reserved for Future Use

E. EXPLOSIVES AND DESTRUCTIVE DEVICES

2570. Possession of Destructive Device (Pen. Code, § 12303)

2571. Carrying or Placing Explosive or Destructive Device on Common Carrier (Pen. Code, § 12303.1)

2572. Possession of Explosive or Destructive Device in Specified Place (Pen. Code, § 12303.2)

2573. Possession, Explosion, etc., of Explosive or Destructive Device With Intent to Injure or Damage (Pen. Code, § 12303.3)

2574. Sale or Transportation of Destructive Device (Pen. Code, § 12303.6)

2575. Offer to Sell Destructive Device (Pen. Code, § 12303.6)

2576. Explosion of Explosive or Destructive Device With Intent to Murder (Pen. Code, § 12308)

2577. Explosion of Explosive or Destructive Device Causing Bodily Injury (Pen. Code, § 12309)

2578. Explosion of Explosive or Destructive Device Causing Death, Mayhem, or Great Bodily Injury (Pen. Code, § 12310)

2579. Possession of Materials to Make Destructive Device or Explosive (Pen. Code, § 12312)

2580–2589. Reserved for Future Use

F. OTHER WEAPONS OFFENSES

2590. Armed Criminal Action (Pen. Code, § 12023)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

2591. Possession of Ammunition by Person Prohibited From Possessing Firearm Due to Conviction or Mental Illness (Pen. Code, § 12316(b)(1))

2592. Possession of Ammunition by Person Prohibited From Possessing Firearm Due to Court Order (Pen. Code, § 12316(b)(1))

2593–2599. Reserved for Future Use

SERIES 2600 CRIMES AGAINST GOVERNMENT

A. BRIBERY OF OFFICIAL

2600. Giving or Offering a Bribe to an Executive Officer (Pen. Code, § 67)

2601. Giving or Offering a Bribe to a Ministerial Officer (Pen. Code, § 67.5)

2602. Giving or Offering a Bribe to a Ministerial Officer:Value of Thing Offered (Pen. Code, § 67.5(b))

2603. Requesting or Taking a Bribe (Pen. Code, §§ 68, 86, 93)

2604–2609. Reserved for Future Use

B. BRIBERY OR INTIMIDATION OF WITNESS

(i) Bribery

2610. Giving or Offering a Bribe to a Witness (Pen. Code, § 137(a))

2611. Giving or Offering a Bribe to a Witness Not to Testify (Pen. Code, § 138(a))

2612. Witness Receiving a Bribe (Pen. Code, § 138(b))

2613–2619. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Threatening or Intimidating

2620. Using Force or Threatening a Witness Before Testimony or Information Given (Pen. Code, § 137(b))

2621. Influencing a Witness by Fraud (Pen. Code, § 137(b))

2622. Intimidating a Witness (Pen. Code, § 136.1(a) & (b))

2623. Intimidating a Witness: Sentencing Factors (Pen. Code, § 136.1(c))

2624. Threatening a Witness After Testimony or Information Given (Pen. Code, § 140(a))

2625–2629. Reserved for Future Use

C. EVIDENCE TAMPERING

2630. Evidence Tampering by Peace Officer or Other Person (Pen. Code, § 141)

2631–2639. Reserved for Future Use

D. PERJURY

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

2640. Perjury (Pen. Code, § 118)

2641. Perjury by False Affidavit (Pen. Code, § 118a)

2642–2649. Reserved for Future Use

E. THREATENING OR RESISTING OFFICER

2650. Threatening a Public Official (Pen. Code, § 76)

2651. Trying to Prevent an Executive Officer From Performing Duty (Pen. Code, § 69)

2652. Resisting an Executive Officer in Performance of Duty (Pen. Code, § 69)

2653. Taking Firearm or Weapon While Resisting Peace Officer or Public Officer (Pen. Code, § 148(b) & (c))

2654. Intentionally Taking or Attempting to Take Firearm From Peace Officer or Public Officer (Pen. Code, § 148(d))

2655. Causing Death or Serious Bodily Injury While Resisting Peace Officer (Pen. Code, § 148.10(a) & (b))

2656. Resisting Peace Officer, Public Officer, or EMT (Pen. Code, § 148(a))

2657–2669. Reserved for Future Use

F. LAWFUL PERFORMANCE

2670. Lawful Performance: Peace Officer

2671. Lawful Performance: Custodial Officer

2672. Lawful Performance: Resisting Unlawful ArrestWith Force

2673. Pat-Down Search

2674–2679. Reserved for Future Use

G. UNLAWFUL ASSEMBLY AND DISTURBING THE PEACE

2680. Courthouse Picketing (Pen. Code, § 169)

2681. Disturbance of Public Meeting (Pen. Code, § 403)

2682. Inciting a Riot (Pen. Code, § 404.6(a))

2683. Participating in a Riot (Pen. Code, §§ 404, 405)

2684. Participating in a Rout (Pen. Code, §§ 406, 408)

2685. Participating in an Unlawful Assembly (Pen. Code, §§ 407, 408)

2686. Refusal to Disperse: Riot, Rout, or Unlawful Assembly (Pen. Code, §§ 407, 409)

2687. Refusal to Disperse: Intent to Commit Unlawful Act (Pen. Code, § 416(a))

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

2688. Disturbing the Peace: Fighting or Challenging Someone to Fight (Pen. Code, §§ 415(1), 415.5(a)(1))

2689. Disturbing the Peace: Loud and Unreasonable Noise (Pen. Code, §§ 415(2), 415.5(a)(2))

2690. Disturbing the Peace: Offensive Words (Pen. Code, §§ 415(3), 415.5(a)(3))

2691–2699. Reserved for Future Use

H. VIOLATION OF COURT ORDER

2700. Violation of Court Order (Pen. Code, § 166(a)(4) & (b)(1))

2701. Violation of Court Order: Protective Order or Stay Away (Pen. Code, §§ 166(c)(1), 273.6)

2702. Violation of Court Order: Protective Order or Stay Away—Physical Injury (Pen. Code, §§ 166(c)(2), 273.6(b))

2703. Violation of Court Order: Protective Order or Stay Away—Act of Violence (Pen. Code, §§ 166(c)(4), 273.6(d))

2704–2719. Reserved for Future Use

I. CRIMES INVOLVING PRISONERS

(i) Assault and Battery

2720. Assault by Prisoner Serving Life Sentence (Pen. Code, § 4500)

2721. Assault by Prisoner (Pen. Code, § 4501)

2722. Battery by Gassing (Pen. Code, §§ 243.9, 4501.1)

2723. Battery by Prisoner on Nonprisoner (Pen. Code, § 4501.5)

2724–2734. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Hostage Taking and Rioting

2735. Holding a Hostage (Pen. Code, § 4503)

2736. Inciting a Riot in a Prison or Jail (Pen. Code, § 404.6(c))

2737–2744. Reserved for Future Use

(iii) Possession of Contraband

2745. Possession or Manufacture of Weapon in Penal Institution (Pen. Code, § 4502)

2746. Possession of Firearm, Deadly Weapon, or Explosive in a Jail or County Road Camp (Pen. Code, § 4574(a))

2747. Bringing or Sending Firearm, Deadly Weapon, or Explosive Into Penal Institution (Pen. Code, § 4574(a)-(c))

2748. Possession of Controlled Substance or Paraphernalia in Penal Institution (Pen. Code, § 4573.6)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

2749–2759. Reserved for Future Use

(iv) Escape

2760. Escape (Pen. Code, § 4532(a)(1) & (b)(1))

2761. Escape by Force or Violence (Pen. Code, § 4532(a)(2) & (b)(2))

2762. Escape After Remand or Arrest (Pen. Code, § 836.6)

2763. Escape After Remand or Arrest: Force or Violence (Pen. Code, § 836.6)

2764. Escape: Necessity Defense

2765–2799. Reserved for Future Use

SERIES 2800 TAX CRIMES

A. FAILURE TO FILE

2800. Failure to File Tax Return (Rev. & Tax. Code, § 19701(a))

2801. Willful Failure to File Tax Return (Rev. & Tax. Code, § 19706)

2802–2809. Reserved for Future Use

B. FALSE RETURN

2810. False Tax Return (Rev. & Tax. Code, § 19701(a))

2811. Willfully Filing False Tax Return: Statement Made Under Penalty of Perjury (Rev. & Tax. Code, § 19705(a)(1))

2812. Willfully Filing False Tax Return: Intent to Evade Tax (Rev. & Tax. Code, § 19706)

2813–2824. Reserved for Future Use

C. OTHER TAX OFFENSES

2825. Aiding in Preparation of False Tax Return (Rev. & Tax. Code, § 19705(a)(2))

2826. Willful Failure to Pay Tax (Rev. & Tax. Code, § 19701(c))

2827. Concealing Property With Intent to Evade Tax (Rev. & Tax. Code, § 19705(a)(4))

2828. Failure to Withhold Tax (Rev. & Tax. Code, §§ 19708, 19709)

2829–2839. Reserved for Future Use

D. EVIDENCE

2840. Evidence of Uncharged Tax Offense: Failed to File Previous Returns

2841. No Deductions on Gross Income From Illegal Conduct (Rev. & Tax. Code, § 17282(a))

2842. Determining Income: Net Worth Method

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

2843. Determining Income: Bank Deposits Method
2844. Determining Income: Cash Expenditures Method
2845. Determining Income: Specific Items Method
2846. Proof of Unreported Taxable Income: Must Still Prove Elements of Offense
2847–2859. Reserved for Future Use

E. DEFENSES

2860. Defense: Good Faith Belief Conduct Legal 2861. Defense: Reliance on Professional Advice
2862–2899. Reserved for Future Use

SERIES 2900 VANDALISM, LOITERING, TRESPASS, AND OTHER MISCELLANEOUS OFFENSES

A. VANDALISM

2900. Vandalism (Pen. Code, § 594)
2901. Vandalism: Amount of Damage (Pen. Code, § 594(b)(1))
2902. Damaging Phone or Electrical Line (Pen. Code, § 591)
2903–2914. Reserved for Future Use

B. LOITERING

2915. Loitering (Pen. Code, § 647(h))
2916. Loitering: Peeking (Pen. Code, § 647(i))
2917. Loitering: About School (Pen. Code, § 653b)
2918–2928. Reserved for Future Use

C. TRESPASS

2929. Trespass After Making Credible Threat (Pen. Code, § 601(a))
2930. Trespass: To Interfere With Business (Pen. Code, § 602(k))
2931. Trespass: Unlawfully Occupying Property (Pen. Code, § 602(m))
2932. Trespass: Entry Into Dwelling (Pen. Code, § 602.5(a) & (b))
2933. Trespass: Person Present (Pen. Code, § 602.5(b))
2934–2949. Reserved for Future Use

D. DANGEROUS ANIMAL

2950. Failing to Maintain Control of a Dangerous Animal (Pen. Code, § 399)
2951. Negligent Control of Attack Dog (Pen. Code, § 399.5)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

2952. Defenses: Negligent Control of Attack Dog (Pen. Code, § 399.5(c))

2953–2959. Reserved for Future Use

E. ALCOHOL RELATED OFFENSES (NON-DRIVING)

2960. Possession of Alcoholic Beverage by Person Under 21 (Bus. & Prof. Code, § 25662(a))

2961. Purchase of Alcoholic Beverage by Person Under 21 (Bus. & Prof. Code, § 25658(b))

2962. Selling or Furnishing Alcoholic Beverage to Person Under 21 (Bus. & Prof. Code, § 25658(a))

2963. Permitting Person Under 21 to Consume Alcoholic Beverage (Bus. & Prof. Code, § 25658(d))

2964. Purchasing Alcoholic Beverage for Person Under 21: Resulting in Death or Great Bodily Injury (Bus. & Prof. Code, § 25658(a) & (c))

2965. Parent Permitting Child to Consume Alcoholic Beverage: Causing Traffic Collision (Bus. & Prof. Code, § 25658.2)

2966. Disorderly Conduct: Under the Influence in Public (Pen. Code, § 647(f))

2967–2979. Reserved for Future Use

F. OFFENSES INVOLVING CARE OF MINOR

2980. Contributing to Delinquency of Minor (Pen. Code, § 272)

2981. Failure to Provide (Pen. Code, § 270)

2982. Persuading, Luring, or Transporting a Minor Under 14 Years of Age (Pen. Code, § 272(b)(1))

2983–2989. Reserved for Future Use

G. BETTING

2990. Bookmaking (Pen. Code, § 337a(a)(1))

2991. Pool Selling (Pen. Code, § 337a(a)(1))

2992. Keeping a Place for Recording Bets (Pen. Code, § 337a(a)(2))

2993. Receiving or Holding Bets (Pen. Code, § 337a(a)(3))

2994. Recording Bets (Pen. Code, § 337a(a)(4))

2995. Permitting Place to Be Used for Betting Activities (Pen. Code, § 337a(a)(5))

2996. Betting or Wagering (Pen. Code, § 337a(a)(6))

H. MONEY LAUNDERING

2997. Money Laundering (Pen. Code, § 186.10)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

2998–3099. Reserved for Future Use

SERIES 3100 ENHANCEMENTS AND SENTENCING FACTORS

A. PRIOR CONVICTION

3100. Prior Conviction: Nonbifurcated Trial (Pen. Code, §§ 1025, 1158)

3101. Prior Conviction: Bifurcated Trial (Pen. Code, §§ 1025, 1158)

3102. Prior Conviction: Prison Prior

3103. Prior Conviction: Factual Issue for Jury (Pen. Code, §§ 1025, 1158)

3104–3114. Reserved for Future Use

B. ARMED WITH FIREARM

3115. Armed With Firearm (Pen. Code, § 12022(a)(1))

3116. Armed With Firearm: Assault Weapon, Machine Gun, or .50 BMG Rifle (Pen. Code, § 12022(a)(2))

3117. Armed With Firearm: Knowledge That Coparticipant Armed (Pen. Code, § 12022(d))

3118–3129. Reserved for Future Use

C. PERSONALLY ARMED WITH DEADLY WEAPON OR FIREARM

3130. Personally Armed With Deadly Weapon (Pen. Code, § 12022.3)

3131. Personally Armed With Firearm (Pen. Code, §§ 1203.06(b)(3), 12022(c), 12022.3(b))

3132. Personally Armed With Firearm: Unlawfully Armed When Arrested (Pen. Code, § 1203.06(a)(3))

3133–3144. Reserved for Future Use

D. PERSONALLY USED DEADLY WEAPON OR FIREARM

3145. Personally Used Deadly Weapon (Pen. Code, §§ 667.61(e)(4), 1192.7(c)(23), 12022(b)(1) & (2), 12022.3)

3146. Personally Used Firearm (Pen. Code, §§ 667.5(c)(8), 667.61(e)(4), 1203.06, 1192.7(c)(8), 12022.3, 12022.5, 12022.53(b))

3147. Personally Used Firearm: Assault Weapon, Machine Gun, or .50 BMG Rifle (Pen. Code, § 12022.5(b))

3148. Personally Used Firearm: Intentional Discharge (Pen. Code, § 12022.53(c))

3149. Personally Used Firearm: Intentional Discharge Causing Injury or Death (Pen. Code, §§ 667.61(e)(3), 12022.53(d))

3150. Personally Used Firearm: Intentional Discharge and Discharge Causing Injury

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

or Death—Both Charged (Pen. Code, §§ 667.61(e)(3), 12022.53(d))

3151–3159. Reserved for Future Use

E. GREAT BODILY INJURY

3160. Great Bodily Injury (Pen. Code, §§ 667.5(c)(8), 667.61(e)(3), 1192.7(c)(8), 12022.7, 12022.8)

3161. Great Bodily Injury: Causing Victim to Become Comatose or Paralyzed (Pen. Code, § 12022.7(b))

3162. Great Bodily Injury: Age of Victim (Pen. Code, § 12022.7(c) & (d))

3163. Great Bodily Injury: Domestic Violence (Pen. Code, § 12022.7(e))

3164–3174. Reserved for Future Use

F. SEX OFFENSES

3175. Sex Offenses: Sentencing Factors—Aggravated Kidnapping (Pen. Code, § 667.61(d)(2))

3176. Sex Offenses: Sentencing Factors—Aggravated Mayhem (Pen. Code, § 667.61(d)(3))

3177. Sex Offenses: Sentencing Factors—Torture (Pen. Code, § 667.61(d)(3))

3178. Sex Offenses: Sentencing Factors—Burglary With Intent to Commit Sex Offense (Pen. Code, § 667.61(d)(4))

3179. Sex Offenses: Sentencing Factors—Kidnapping (Pen. Code, § 667.61(e)(1))

3180. Sex Offenses: Sentencing Factors—Burglary (Pen. Code, § 667.61(e)(2))

3181. Sex Offenses: Sentencing Factors—Multiple Victims (Pen. Code, § 667.61(e)(5))

3182. Sex Offenses: Sentencing Factors—Tying or Binding (Pen. Code, § 667.61(e)(6))

3183. Sex Offenses: Sentencing Factors—Administered Controlled Substance (Pen. Code, § 667.61(e)(7))

3184–3199. Reserved for Future Use

G. CONTROLLED SUBSTANCES

3200. Controlled Substance: Quantity (Pen. Code, §§ 1203.07(a)(1), (2) & (4); Health & Saf. Code, §§ 11352.5, 11370.4)

3201. Controlled Substance: Quantity—Manufacture of Controlled Substance (Health & Saf. Code, § 11379.8)

3202–3219. Reserved for Future Use

H. OTHER ENHANCEMENTS

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

3220. Amount of Loss (Pen. Code, § 12022.6)
3221. Aggravated White Collar Crime (Pen. Code, § 186.11(a)(1))
3222. Characteristics of Victim (Pen. Code, §§ 667.9(a) & (b), 667.10(a))
3223–3249. Reserved for Future Use

I. TEMPLATES

3250. Enhancement, Sentencing Factor, or Specific Factual Issue: Template
3251. Enhancement, Sentencing Factor, or Specific Factual Issue: Template—Bifurcated Trial
3252–3259. Reserved for Future Use

J. RELATED INSTRUCTIONS

3260. Duty of Jury: Verdict Form for Enhancement, Sentencing Factor, or Prior Conviction
3261. In Commission of Felony: Defined—Escape Rule
3262–3399. Reserved for Future Use

SERIES 3400 DEFENSES AND INSANITY

A. GENERAL DEFENSES

3400. Alibi
3402. Duress or Threats
3403. Necessity
3404. Accident (Pen. Code, § 195)
3405. Parental Right to Punish a Child
3406. Mistake of Fact
3407. Defenses: Mistake of Law
3408. Entrapment
3409. When Conduct of Officer May Not Be Attributed to Defendant
3410. Statute of Limitations
3411–3424. Reserved for Future Use

B. IMPAIRMENT DEFENSES

3425. Unconsciousness
3426. Voluntary Intoxication (Pen. Code, § 22)
3427. Involuntary Intoxication

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

3428. Mental Impairment: Defense to Specific Intent or Mental State (Pen. Code, § 28)

3429. Reasonable Person Standard for Physically Disabled Person

3430–3449. Reserved for Future Use

C. INSANITY AND CIVIL COMMITMENTS

3450. Insanity: Determination, Effect of Verdict (Pen. Code, §§ 25, 25.5)

3451. Present Mental Competence of Defendant

3452. Determining Restoration to Sanity (Pen. Code, § 1026.2)

3453. Extension of Commitment (Pen. Code, § 1026.5(b)(1))

3454. Commitment as Sexually Violent Predator (Welf. & Inst. Code, §§ 6600, 6600.1)

3455. Mental Incapacity as a Defense (Pen. Code, §§ 25, 25.5)

3456. Initial Commitment of Mentally Disordered Offender as Condition of Parole

3457. Extension of Commitment as Mentally Disordered Offender

3458. Extension of Commitment to Division of Juvenile Facilities (Welf. & Inst. Code, § 1800)

3459–3469. Reserved for Future Use

D. SELF-DEFENSE AND DEFENSE OF ANOTHER

3470. Right to Self-Defense or Defense of Another (Non-Homicide)

3471. Right to Self-Defense: Mutual Combat or Initial Aggressor

3472. Right to Self-Defense: May Not Be Contrived

3474. Danger No Longer Exists or Attacker Disabled

3475. Right to Eject Trespasser From Real Property

3476. Right to Defend Real or Personal Property

3477 Presumption That Resident Was Reasonably Afraid of Death or Great Bodily Injury (Pen. Code, § 198.5)

3478–3499. Reserved for Future Use

SERIES 3500 POST-TRIAL: CONCLUDING

A. UNANIMITY

3500. Unanimity

3501. Unanimity: When Generic Testimony of Offense Presented

3502. Unanimity: When Prosecution Elects One Act Among Many

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

3503–3514. Reserved for Future Use

B. MULTIPLE COUNTS AND COMPLETION OF VERDICT FORMS

3515. Multiple Counts: Separate Offenses (Pen. Code, § 954)

3516. Multiple Counts: Alternative Charges for One Event—Dual Conviction Prohibited

3517. Deliberations and Completion of Verdict Forms: For Use When Lesser Included Offenses and Greater Crimes Are Not Separately Charged (Non-Homicide)

3518. Deliberations and Completion of Verdict Forms: For Use When Lesser Included Offenses and Greater Crimes Are Not Separately Charged and Jury Is Given Only One Not Guilty Verdict Form for Each Count (Non-Homicide)

3519. Deliberations and Completion of Verdict Forms: Lesser Offenses—For Use When Lesser Included Offenses and Greater Crimes Are Separately Charged (Non-Homicide)

3520–3529. Reserved for Future Use

C. ADMONITIONS

3530. Judge's Comment on the Evidence (Cal. Const., art. VI, § 10; Pen. Code, §§ 1127, 1093(f))

3531. Service Provider for Juror With Disability (Code Civ. Proc., § 224)

3532–3549. Reserved for Future Use

D. CONCLUDING INSTRUCTION ON SUBMISSION TO JURY

3550. Pre-Deliberation Instructions

3551–3574. Reserved for Future Use

E. ALTERNATES

3575. Substitution of Alternate Juror: During Deliberations (Pen. Code, § 1089)

3576. Substitution of Alternate Juror in Capital Case:After Guilt Determination, Before Submission of Penalty Phase to Jury (Pen. Code, § 1089)

3577. Instructions to Alternate on Submission of Case to Jury

3578–3589. Reserved for Future Use

F. FINAL INSTRUCTION ON DISCHARGE OF JURY

3590. Final Instruction on Discharge of Jury

3591–3599. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

TABLES

Disposition Table

Table 1 of Related Instructions (CALJIC to CALCRIM)

Table 2 of Related Instructions (CALCRIM to CALJIC)

Table of Cases

Table of Statutes

INDEX

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Related Publications from LexisNexis Matthew Bender

Criminal Practice and Procedure

California Criminal Defense Practice

California Criminal Defense Practice Reporter

Pipes & Gagen, California Criminal Discovery, Third Edition

Seiser & Kumli, California Juvenile Courts Practice and Procedure

Simons, California Preliminary Examinations, 995 Benchbook: Statutes and Notes

Imwinkelried & Leach, California Evidentiary Foundations, Fourth Edition

Cotchett, California Courtroom Evidence

Imwinkelried & Garland, Exculpatory Evidence: The Accused's Constitutional Right to Introduce Favorable Evidence, Third Edition

Rudstein, Erlinder & Thomas, Criminal Constitutional Law

Criminal Defense Techniques

Erickson & George, United States Supreme Court Cases and Comments

Erwin, Greenberg, Goldstein, Bergh, Cohen & Essen, Defense of Drunk Driving Cases: Criminal—Civil

Marcus, Prosecution and Defense of Criminal Conspiracy Cases

DerOhannesian, Sexual Assault Trials, Second Edition

Defense of Narcotics Cases

Moore's Federal Practice: Rules of Criminal Procedure

Codes

Deering's California Codes Annotated

Matthew Bender and Deering's Desktop Codes

Citators

Shepard's Citations

For a complete listing of LexisNexis Matthew Bender products, visit the online bookstore at <http://bookstore.lexis.com/bookstore/catalog>.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Publisher's Editorial Staff

MARK WASSERMAN, J.D.
Senior Director, Content Development

ANDREW D. WATRY, J.D.
Legal Editor

RENITA SANDOSHAM
Editor

JAMIE ABRAHAMSON
Manager of Publishing Operations

PATRICIA EARNHARDT
Coordinator of Publishing Operations

PAUL SOUSA
Coordinator of Publishing Operations

JAY HUBER
Index Manager

PAT HEALY
Index Editor

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

PRETRIAL

A. GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

100. Trial Process (Before or After Voir Dire)
101. Cautionary Admonitions: Jury Conduct (Before, During, or After Jury Is Selected)
102. Note-Taking
103. Reasonable Doubt
104. Evidence
105. Witnesses
106. Jurors Asking Questions
107. Pro Per Defendant
108–119. Reserved for Future Use

B. ADMONITIONS

120. Service Provider for Juror With Disability: Beginning of Trial
121. Duty to Abide by Translation Provided in Court
122. Corporation Is a Person
123. Witness Identified as John or Jane Doe
124. Separation Admonition
125–199. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

A. GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

100. Trial Process (Before or After Voir Dire)

[Jury service is very important and I would like to welcome you and thank you for your service.] Before we begin, I am going to describe for you how the trial will be conducted, and explain what you and the lawyers and I will be doing. When I refer to "the People," I mean the attorney[s] from the (district attorney's office/city attorney's office/office of the attorney general) who (is/are) trying this case on behalf of the People of the State of California. When I refer to defense counsel, I mean the attorney[s] who (is/are) representing the defendant[s], _____ <insert name[s] of defendant[s]>.

[The first step in this trial is jury selection.

During jury selection, the attorneys and I will ask you questions. These questions are not meant to embarrass you, but rather to determine whether you would be suitable to sit as a juror in this case.]

The trial will (then/now) proceed as follows: The People may present an opening statement. The defense is not required to present an opening statement, but if it chooses to do so, it may give it either after the People's opening statement or at the beginning of the defense case. The purpose of an opening statement is to give you an overview of what the attorneys expect the evidence will show.

Next, the People will offer their evidence. Evidence usually includes witness testimony and exhibits. After the People present their evidence, the defense may also present evidence but is not required to do so. Because (he/she/they) (is/are) presumed innocent, the defendant[s] (does/do) not have to prove that (he/she/they) (is/are) not guilty.

After you have heard all the evidence and [before] the attorneys (give/have given) their final arguments, I will instruct you on the law that applies to the case.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

After you have heard the arguments and instructions, you will go to the jury room to deliberate.

New January 2006; Revised June 2007

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

There is no sua sponte duty to give an instruction outlining how the trial will proceed. This instruction has been provided for the convenience of the trial judge who may wish to explain the trial process to jurors. See California Rules of Court, Rule 2.1035.

The court may give the optional bracketed language if using this instruction before jury selection begins.

AUTHORITY

- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Ibarra (2007) 156 Cal.App.4th 1174, 1179–1181 [67 Cal.Rptr.3d 871].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

101. Cautionary Admonitions: Jury Conduct (Before, During, or After Jury Is Selected)

I will now explain some basic rules of law and procedure. These rules ensure that both sides receive a fair trial.

During the trial, do not talk about the case or about any of the people or any subject involved in the case with anyone, not even your family, friends, spiritual advisors, or therapists. Do not share information about the case in writing, by email, by telephone, on the Internet, or by any other means of communication. You must not talk about these things with the other jurors either, until you begin deliberating.

As jurors, you may discuss the case together only after all of the evidence has been presented, the attorneys have completed their arguments, and I have instructed you on the law. After I tell you to begin your deliberations, you may discuss the case only in the jury room, and only when all jurors are present.

You must not allow anything that happens outside of the courtroom to affect your decision [unless I tell you otherwise]. During the trial, do not read, listen to, or watch any news report or commentary about the case from any source.

Do not do any research on your own or as a group regarding this case. Do not use a dictionary(,/or) the Internet(./)[, or _____<insert other relevant means of communication>]. Do not investigate the facts or law. Do not conduct any tests or experiments, or visit the scene of any event involved in this case. If you happen to pass by the scene, do not stop or investigate.

[If you have a cell phone or other electronic device, keep it turned off while you are in the courtroom and during jury deliberations. An electronic device includes any data storage device. If someone needs to contact you in an emergency, the court can receive messages that it will deliver to you without delay.]

During the trial, do not speak to a defendant, witness, lawyer, or anyone associated with them. Do not listen to anyone who tries to talk to you about the case or about any of the people or subjects involved in it. If someone asks you about the case, tell him or her that you cannot discuss it. If that person keeps talking to you about the case, you must end the conversation.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

When the trial has ended and you have been released as jurors, you may discuss the case with anyone. [But under California law, you must wait at least 90 days before negotiating or agreeing to accept any payment for information about the case.]

If you receive any information about this case from any source outside of the trial, even unintentionally, do not share that information with any other juror. If you do receive such information, or if anyone tries to influence you or any juror, you must immediately tell the bailiff.

Keep an open mind throughout the trial. Do not make up your mind about the verdict or any issue until after you have discussed the case with the other jurors during deliberations. Do not take anything I say or do during the trial as an indication of what I think about the facts, the witnesses, or what your verdict should be.

Do not let bias, sympathy, prejudice, or public opinion influence your decision.

You must reach your verdict without any consideration of punishment.

New January 2006; Revised June 2007, April 2008, December 2008, April 2010, October 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct the jurors on how they must conduct themselves during trial. (Pen. Code, § 1122.) See also California Rules of Court Rule 2.1035.

Do not instruct a jury in the penalty phase of a capital case that they cannot consider sympathy. (People v. Easley (1982) 34 Cal.3d 858, 875–880 [196 Cal.Rptr. 309, 671 P.2d 813].) Instead of this instruction, CALCRIM 761 is the proper introductory instruction for the penalty phase of a capital case.

If there will be a jury view, give the bracketed phrase "unless I tell you otherwise" in the fourth paragraph. (Pen. Code, § 1119.)

AUTHORITY

- Statutory Admonitions. Pen. Code, § 1122.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Avoid Discussing the Case. People v. Pierce (1979) 24 Cal.3d 199 [155 Cal.Rptr. 657, 595 P.2d 91]; In re Hitchings (1993) 6 Cal.4th 97 [24 Cal.Rptr.2d 74, 860 P.2d 466]; In re Carpenter (1995) 9 Cal.4th 634, 646–658 [38 Cal.Rptr.2d 665, 889 P.2d 985].
- Avoid News Reports. People v. Holloway (1990) 50 Cal.3d 1098, 1108–1111 [269 Cal.Rptr. 530, 790 P.2d 1327], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Stansbury (1995) 9 Cal.4th 824, 830 [38 Cal.Rptr.2d. 394, 889 P.2d 588].
- Judge's Conduct as Indication of Verdict. People v. Hunt (1915) 26 Cal.App. 514, 517 [147 P. 476].
- No Bias, Sympathy, or Prejudice. People v. Hawthorne (1992) 4 Cal.4th 43, 73 [14 Cal.Rptr.2d 133, 841 P.2d 118].
- No Independent Research. People v. Karis (1988) 46 Cal.3d 612, 642 [250 Cal.Rptr. 659, 758 P.2d 1189]; People v. Castro (1986) 184 Cal.App.3d 849, 853 [229 Cal.Rptr. 280]; People v. Sutter (1982) 134 Cal.App.3d 806, 820 [184 Cal.Rptr. 829].
- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Ibarra (2007) 156 Cal.App.4th 1174, 1182–1183 [67 Cal.Rptr.3d 871].

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000), Criminal Trial § 643.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 81, Jury Selection and Opening Statement, § 81.06[1], Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.05[1], [4] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Admonition Not to Discuss Case With Anyone

In People v. Danks (2004) 32 Cal.4th 269, 298–300 [8 Cal.Rptr.3d 767, 82 P.3d 1249], a capital case, two jurors violated the court's admonition not to discuss the case with anyone by consulting with their pastors regarding the death penalty. The Supreme Court stated:

> It is troubling that during deliberations not one but two jurors had conversations with their pastors that ultimately addressed the issue being resolved at the penalty phase in this case. Because jurors instructed not to speak to anyone about the case except a fellow juror during deliberations . . . . may assume such an instruction does not apply to confidential relationships, we recommend the jury be expressly instructed that they may not speak to anyone about the case, except a fellow juror during deliberations, and that this includes, but is not limited to, spouses, > spiritual leaders or advisers, or therapists. Moreover, the jury should also be instructed that if anyone, other than a fellow juror during deliberations, tells a juror his or her view of the evidence in the case, the juror should report that conversation immediately to the court.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(Id. at p. 306, fn. 11.)

The court may, at its discretion, add the suggested language to the second paragraph of this instruction.

Jury Misconduct

It is error to instruct the jury to immediately advise the court if a juror refuses to deliberate or expresses an intention to disregard the law or to decide the case based on penalty, punishment, or any other improper basis. (People v. Engelman (2002) 28 Cal.4th 436, 449 [121 Cal.Rptr.2d 862, 49 P.3d 209].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

102. Note-Taking

You have been given notebooks and may take notes during the trial. Do not remove them from the courtroom. You may take your notes into the jury room during deliberations. I do not mean to discourage you from taking notes, but here are some points to consider if you take notes:

1. Note-taking may tend to distract you. It may affect your ability to listen carefully to all the testimony and to watch the witnesses as they testify;

AND

2. The notes are for your own individual use to help you remember what happened during the trial. Please keep in mind that your notes may be inaccurate or incomplete.

At the end of the trial, your notes will be (collected and destroyed/ collected and retained by the court but not as a part of the case record/_____ <specify other disposition>).

New January 2006; Revised June 2007, April 2008

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct the members of the jury that they may take notes. California Rules of Court, Rule 2.1031.

The court may specify its preferred disposition of the notes after trial. No statute or rule of court requires any particular disposition.

AUTHORITY

- Resolving Jurors' Questions. Pen. Code, § 1137.
- Jurors' Use of Notes. California Rules of Court, Rule 2.1031
- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Ibarra (2007) 156 Cal.App.4th 1174, 1183 [67 Cal.Rptr.3d 871].

Secondary Sources

6 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Criminal Judgment, § 18.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.05[2] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

103. Reasonable Doubt

I will now explain the presumption of innocence and the People's burden of proof. The defendant[s] (has/have) pleaded not guilty to the charge[s]. The fact that a criminal charge has been filed against the defendant[s] is not evidence that the charge is true. You must not be biased against the defendant[s] just because (he/she/they) (has/have) been arrested, charged with a crime, or brought to trial.

A defendant in a criminal case is presumed to be innocent. This presumption requires that the People prove a defendant guilty beyond a reasonable doubt. Whenever I tell you the People must prove something, I mean they must prove it beyond a reasonable doubt [unless I specifically tell you otherwise].

Proof beyond a reasonable doubt is proof that leaves you with an abiding conviction that the charge is true. The evidence need not eliminate all possible doubt because everything in life is open to some possible or imaginary doubt.

In deciding whether the People have proved their case beyond a reasonable doubt, you must impartially compare and consider all the evidence that was received throughout the entire trial. Unless the evidence proves the defendant[s] guilty beyond a reasonable doubt, (he/she/they) (is/are) entitled to an acquittal and you must find (him/her/them) not guilty.

New January 2006; Revised June 2007

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the presumption of innocence and the state's burden of proof before deliberations. (People v. Vann (1974) 12 Cal.3d 220, 225–227 [115 Cal.Rptr. 352, 524 P.2d 824]; People v. Soldavini (1941) 45 Cal.App.2d 460, 463 [114 P.2d 415]; People v. Phillips (1997) 59 Cal.App.4th 952, 956–958 [69 Cal.Rptr.2d 532].) This instruction is included in this section for the convenience of judges who wish to instruct on this point during voir dire or before testimony begins.

If the court will be instructing that the prosecution must prove something by a preponderance of the evidence, give the bracketed phrase "unless I specifically tell you otherwise."

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. Pen. Code, §§ 1096, 1096a; People v. Freeman (1994) 8 Cal.4th 450, 503–504 [34 Cal.Rptr.2d 558, 882 P.2d 249]; Victor v. Nebraska (1994) 511 U.S. 1, 16–17 [114 S.Ct. 1239, 127 L.Ed.2d 583]; Lisenbee v. Henry (9th Cir. 1999) 166 F.3d 997.
- Previous Version of CALCRIM 103 Upheld. People v. Reyes (2007) 151 Cal.App.4th 1491, 1496 [60 Cal.Rptr.3d 777].
- Reference to Elements Not Required. People v. Ramos (2008) 163 Cal.App.4th 1082, 1088–1089 [78 Cal.Rptr.3d 186].

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Criminal Trial, §§ 521, 637, 640.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 83, Evidence, § 83.03[1], Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, §§ 85.02[2][a][i], 85.04[2][a] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

This instruction is based directly on Penal Code section 1096. The primary changes are a reordering of concepts and a definition of reasonable doubt stated in the affirmative rather than in the negative. The instruction also refers to the jury's duty to impartially compare and consider all the evidence. (See Victor v. Nebraska (1994) 511 U.S. 1, 16–17 [114 S.Ct. 1239, 127 L.Ed.2d 583].) The appellate courts have urged the trial courts to exercise caution in modifying the language of section 1096 to avoid error in defining reasonable doubt. (See People v. Freeman (1994) 8 Cal.4th 450, 503–504 [34 Cal.Rptr.2d 558, 882 P.2d 249]; People v. Garcia (1975) 54 Cal.App.3d 61 [126 Cal.Rptr. 275].) The instruction includes all the concepts contained in section 1096 and substantially tracks the statutory language.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

104. Evidence

You must decide what the facts are in this case. You must use only the evidence that is presented in the courtroom [or during a jury view]. "Evidence" is the sworn testimony of witnesses, the exhibits admitted into evidence, and anything else I tell you to consider as evidence. The fact that the defendant was arrested, charged with a crime, or brought to trial is not evidence of guilt.

Nothing that the attorneys say is evidence. In their opening statements and closing arguments, the attorneys will discuss the case, but their remarks are not evidence. Their questions are not evidence. Only the witnesses' answers are evidence. The attorneys' questions are significant only if they help you understand the witnesses' answers. Do not assume that something is true just because one of the attorneys asks a question that suggests it is true.

During the trial, the attorneys may object to questions asked of a witness. I will rule on the objections according to the law. If I sustain an objection, the witness will not be permitted to answer, and you must ignore the question. If the witness does not answer, do not guess what the answer might have been or why I ruled as I did. If I order testimony stricken from the record, you must disregard it and must not consider that testimony for any purpose.

You must disregard anything you see or hear when the court is not in session, even if it is done or said by one of the parties or witnesses.

The court reporter is making a record of everything said during the trial. If you decide that it is necessary, you may ask that the court reporter's record be read to you. You must accept the court reporter's record as accurate.

New January 2006; Revised April 2008, August 2009

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

There is no sua sponte duty to instruct on these evidentiary topics; however, instruction on these principles has been approved. (See People v. Barajas

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(1983) 145 Cal.App.3d 804, 809 [193 Cal.Rptr. 750]; People v. Samayoa (1997) 15 Cal.4th 795, 843–844 [64 Cal.Rptr.2d 400, 938 P.2d 2]; People v. Horton (1995) 11 Cal.4th 1068, 1121 [47 Cal.Rptr.2d 516, 906 P.2d 478].)

AUTHORITY

- Evidence Defined. Evid. Code, § 140.
- Arguments Not Evidence. People v. Barajas (1983) 145 Cal.App.3d 804, 809 [193 Cal.Rptr. 750].
- Questions Not Evidence. People v. Samayoa (1997) 15 Cal.4th 795, 843–844 [64 Cal.Rptr.2d 400, 938 P.2d 2].
- Striking Testimony. People v. Horton (1995) 11 Cal.4th 1068, 1121 [47 Cal.Rptr.2d 516, 906 P.2d 478].
- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Ibarra (2007) 156 Cal.App.4th 1174, 1183 [67 Cal.Rptr.3d 871].

Secondary Sources

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 83, Evidence, §§ 83.01[1], 83.02[2] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

105. Witnesses

You alone must judge the credibility or believability of the witnesses. In deciding whether testimony is true and accurate, use your common sense and experience. You must judge the testimony of each witness by the same standards, setting aside any bias or prejudice you may have. You may believe all, part, or none of any witness's testimony. Consider the testimony of each witness and decide how much of it you believe.

In evaluating a witness's testimony, you may consider anything that reasonably tends to prove or disprove the truth or accuracy of that testimony. Among the factors that you may consider are:

- How well could the witness see, hear, or otherwise perceive the things about which the witness testified?
- How well was the witness able to remember and describe what happened?
- What was the witness's behavior while testifying?
- Did the witness understand the questions and answer them directly?
- Was the witness's testimony influenced by a factor such as bias or prejudice, a personal relationship with someone involved in the case, or a personal interest in how the case is decided?
- What was the witness's attitude about the case or about testifying?
- Did the witness make a statement in the past that is consistent or inconsistent with his or her testimony?
- How reasonable is the testimony when you consider all the other evidence in the case?
- [Did other evidence prove or disprove any fact about which the witness testified?]
- [Did the witness admit to being untruthful?]
- [What is the witness's character for truthfulness?]
- [Has the witness been convicted of a felony?]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- [Has the witness engaged in [other] conduct that reflects on his or her believability?]
- [Was the witness promised immunity or leniency in exchange for his or her testimony?]

Do not automatically reject testimony just because of inconsistencies or conflicts. Consider whether the differences are important or not. People sometimes honestly forget things or make mistakes about what they remember. Also, two people may witness the same event yet see or hear it differently.

[If the evidence establishes that a witness's character for truthfulness has not been discussed among the people who know him or her, you may conclude from the lack of discussion that the witness's character for truthfulness is good.]

[If you do not believe a witness's testimony that he or she no longer remembers something, that testimony is inconsistent with the witness's earlier statement on that subject.]

[If you decide that a witness deliberately lied about something significant in this case, you should consider not believing anything that witness says. Or, if you think the witness lied about some things, but told the truth about others, you may simply accept the part that you think is true and ignore the rest.]

New January 2006; Revised June 2007, April 2008

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on factors relevant to a witness's credibility. (People v. Rincon-Pineda (1975) 14 Cal.3d 864, 883–884 [123 Cal.Rptr. 119, 538 P.2d 247].) Although there is no sua sponte duty to instruct on inconsistencies in testimony or a witness who lies, there is authority approving instruction on both topics. (Dodds v. Stellar (1946) 77 Cal.App.2d 411, 426 [175 P.2d 607]; People v. Murillo (1996) 47 Cal.App.4th 1104, 1107 [55 Cal.Rptr.2d 21].)

The court may strike any of the enumerated impermissible bases for bias that are clearly inapplicable in a given case.

Give all of the bracketed factors that are relevant based on the evidence. (Evid. Code, § 780(e), (i), and (k).)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Give any of the final three bracketed paragraphs if relevant based on the evidence.

AUTHORITY

- Factors. Evid. Code, § 780; People v. Rincon-Pineda (1975) 14 Cal.3d 864, 883–884 [123 Cal.Rptr. 119, 538 P.2d 247].
- Proof of Character by Negative Evidence. People v. Adams (1902) 137 Cal. 580, 582 [70 P. 662].
- Inconsistencies. Dodds v. Stellar (1946) 77 Cal.App.2d 411, 426 [175 P.2d 607].
- Witness Who Lies. People v. Murillo (1996) 47 Cal.App.4th 1104, 1107 [55 Cal.Rptr.2d 21]; People v. Reyes (1987) 195 Cal.App.3d 957, 965 [240 Cal.Rptr. 752]; People v. Johnson (1986) 190 Cal.App.3d 187, 192–194 [237 Cal.Rptr. 479].

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Criminal Trial, § 642.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, §§ 85.02[2][b], [c], 85.03[2][b] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

106. Jurors Asking Questions

If, during the trial, you have a question that you believe should be asked of a witness, you may write out the question and send it to me through the bailiff. I will discuss the question with the attorneys and decide whether it may be asked. Do not feel slighted or disappointed if your question is not asked. Your question may not be asked for a variety of reasons, including the reason that the question may call for an answer that is inadmissible for legal reasons. Also, do not guess the reason your question was not asked or speculate about what the answer might have been. Always remember that you are not advocates for one side or the other in this case. You are impartial judges of the facts.

New January 2006; Revised August 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

This instruction may be given on request.

AUTHORITY

- Statutory Admonitions. See generally Pen. Code, § 1122.
- Juror Questions. California Rules of Court, Rule 2.1033.

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Criminal Trial, § 643.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 82, Witnesses, § 82.02[2] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

107. Pro Per Defendant

(The defendant[s]/ _____ <insert name[s] of self-represented defendant[s]>) (has/have) the right to be represented by an attorney in this trial, as do all criminal defendants in this country. (He/She/They) (has/have) decided instead to exercise (his/her/their) constitutional right to act as (his/her/their) own attorney in this case. Do not allow that decision to affect your verdict.

The court applies the rules of evidence and procedure to a (self-represented defendant/ _____ <insert name[s] of self-represented defendant[s]>).

New August 2009

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

This instruction may be given on request.

AUTHORITY

- Basis for Right of Self-Representation. Sixth Amendment, Constitution of the United States; Faretta v. California (1975) 422 U.S. 806 [95 S.Ct. 2525, 45 L.Ed.2d 562].

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Criminal Trial, § 248.

1 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 1, The California Defense Advocate, § 1.73 (Matthew Bender).

108–119. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

B. ADMONITIONS

120. Service Provider for Juror With Disability: Beginning of Trial

---

During trial, _____ <insert name or number of juror> will be assisted by (a/an) _____ <insert description of service provider, e.g., sign language interpreter>. The _____ <insert description of service provider> is not a member of the jury and is not to participate in the deliberations in any way other than as necessary to provide the service to _____ <insert name or number of juror>.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction if a juror will be using the assistance of a service provider. (Code Civ. Proc., § 224(b).)

AUTHORITY

- Juror Not Incompetent Due to Disability. Code Civ. Proc., § 203(a)(6).
- Juror May Use Service Provider. Code Civ. Proc., § 224.
- Court Must Instruct on Use of Service Provider. Code Civ. Proc., § 224(b).

Secondary Sources

7 Witkin, California Procedure (4th ed. 1997) Trial, §§ 331, 340.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 81, Jury Selection and Opening Statement, §§ 81.02[2], 81.04[4][a] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

121. Duty to Abide by Translation Provided in Court

Some testimony may be given in _____ <insert name or description of language other than English>. An interpreter will provide a translation for you at the time that the testimony is given. You must rely on the translation provided by the interpreter, even if you understand the language spoken by the witness. Do not retranslate any testimony for other jurors. If you believe the court interpreter translated testimony incorrectly, let me know immediately by writing a note and giving it to the (clerk/bailiff).

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The committee recommends that this instruction be given whenever testimony will be received with the assistance of an interpreter, though no case has held that the court has a sua sponte duty to give the instruction. The instruction may be given at the beginning of the case, when the person requiring translation testifies, or both, at the court's discretion. If a transcript of a tape in a foreign language will be used, the court may modify this instruction. (See Ninth Circuit Manual of Model Jury Instructions, Criminal Cases, Instruction No. 2.8 (2003).) If the court chooses, the instruction may also be modified and given again at the end of the case, with all other instructions. (See Ninth Circuit Manual of Model Jury Instructions, Criminal Cases, Instruction No. 3.20 (2003).)

It is misconduct for a juror to retranslate for other jurors testimony that has been translated by the court-appointed interpreter. (People v. Cabrera (1991) 230 Cal.App.3d 300, 303 [281 Cal.Rptr. 238].) "If [the juror] believed the court interpreter was translating incorrectly, the proper action would have been to call the matter to the trial court's attention, not take it upon herself to provide her fellow jurors with the 'correct' translation." (Id. at p. 304.)

AUTHORITY

- Juror May Not Retranslate. People v. Cabrera (1991) 230 Cal.App.3d 300, 303–304 [281 Cal.Rptr. 238].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Secondary Sources

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.05[4][a][i] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

122. Corporation Is a Person

(A/The) defendant[s] in this case, _____ <insert name[s] of corporate defendant[s]>, (is a corporation/are corporations). Under the law, a corporation must be treated in the same way as a natural person. When I use words like person or he or she in these instructions to refer to the defendant[s], those instructions [also] apply to _____ <insert name[s] of corporate defendant[s]>.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction if the defendant is a corporation.

AUTHORITY

- Corporation Is a Person. Pen. Code, § 7.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Defenses, §§ 3–6.

2 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 42, Arraignment, Pleas, and Plea Bargaining, § 42.21[2][e] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

123. Witness Identified as John or Jane Doe

In this case, a person is called ((John/Jane) Doe/ _____ <insert other name used>). This name is used only to protect (his/her) privacy, as required by law. [The fact that the person is identified in this way is not evidence. Do not consider this fact for any purpose.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

If an alleged victim will be identified as John or Jane Doe, the court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction at the beginning and at the end of the trial. (Pen. Code, § 293.5(b); People v. Ramirez (1997) 55 Cal.App.4th 47, 58 [64 Cal.Rptr.2d 9].)

Penal Code section 293.5 provides that the alleged victim of certain offenses may be identified as John or Jane Doe if the court finds it is "reasonably necessary to protect the privacy of the person and will not unduly prejudice the prosecution or the defense." (Id., § 293.5(a).) This applies only to alleged victims of offenses under the following Penal Code sections: 261 (rape), 261.5 (unlawful sexual intercourse), 262 (rape of spouse), 264.1 (aiding and abetting rape), 286 (sodomy), 288 (lewd or lascivious act), 288a (oral copulation), and 289 (penetration by force). Note that the full name must still be provided in discovery. (Id., § 293.5(a); People v. Bohannon (2000) 82 Cal.App.4th 798, 803, fn. 7 [98 Cal.Rptr.2d 488]; Reid v. Superior Court (1997) 55 Cal.App.4th 1326, 1338 [64 Cal.Rptr.2d 714].)

Give the last two bracketed sentences on request. (People v. Ramirez, supra, 55 Cal.App.4th at p. 58.)

AUTHORITY

- Identification as John or Jane Doe. Pen. Code, § 293.5(a).
- Instructional Requirements. Pen. Code, § 293.5(b); People v. Ramirez (1997) 55 Cal.App.4th 47, 58 [64 Cal.Rptr.2d 9].
- Statute Constitutional. People v. Ramirez (1997) 55 Cal.App.4th 47, 54–59 [64 Cal.Rptr.2d 9].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Criminal Trial, § 553.

3 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 70, Discovery and Investigation, § 70.05 (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.24[3] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

124. Separation Admonition

[You may be permitted to separate during recesses and at the end of the day. I will tell you when to return. Please remember, we cannot begin the trial until all of you are in place, so it is important to be on time.]

Remember, do not talk about the case or about any of the people or any subject involved in it with anyone, including the other jurors. Do not make up your mind about the verdict or any issue until after you have discussed the case with the other jurors during deliberations.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to admonish the jury "at each adjournment of the court before the submission of the cause to the jury."

AUTHORITY

- Statutory Authority. Pen. Code, § 1122(b).

Secondary Sources

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 81, Jury Selection and Opening Statement, § 81.06[1], Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.05[1] (Matthew Bender).

125–199. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

POST-TRIAL: INTRODUCTORY

A. INTRODUCTORY INSTRUCTIONS AND ADMONITIONS

200. Duties of Judge and Jury
201. Do Not Investigate
202. Note-Taking
203. Multiple Defendants
204. Defendant Physically Restrained
205. Charge Removed From Jury Consideration
206. One or More Defendants Removed From Case
207. Proof Need Not Show Actual Date
208. Witness Identified as John or Jane Doe
209–218. Reserved for Future Use

B. GENERAL LEGAL CONCEPTS

219. Reasonable Doubt in Civil Proceedings
220. Reasonable Doubt
221. Reasonable Doubt: Bifurcated Trial
222. Evidence
223. Direct and Circumstantial Evidence: Defined
224. Circumstantial Evidence: Sufficiency of Evidence
225. Circumstantial Evidence: Intent or Mental State
226. Witnesses
227–239. Reserved for Future Use

C. CAUSATION

240. Causation
241–249. Reserved for Future Use

D. UNION OF ACT AND INTENT

250. Union of Act and Intent: General Intent
251. Union of Act and Intent: Specific Intent or Mental State
252. Union of Act and Intent: General and Specific Intent Together
253. Union of Act and Intent: Criminal Negligence
254. Union of Act and Intent: Strict-Liability Crime
255–299. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

A. INTRODUCTORY INSTRUCTIONS AND ADMONITIONS

200. Duties of Judge and Jury

Members of the jury, I will now instruct you on the law that applies to this case. [I will give you a copy of the instructions to use in the jury room.] [Each of you has a copy of these instructions to use in the jury room.] [The instructions that you receive may be printed, typed, or written by hand. Certain sections may have been crossed-out or added. Disregard any deleted sections and do not try to guess what they might have been. Only consider the final version of the instructions in your deliberations.]

You must decide what the facts are. It is up to all of you, and you alone, to decide what happened, based only on the evidence that has been presented to you in this trial.

Do not let bias, sympathy, prejudice, or public opinion influence your decision. Bias includes, but is not limited to, bias for or against the witnesses, attorneys, defendant[s] or alleged victim[s], based on disability, gender, nationality, national origin, race or ethnicity, religion, gender identity, sexual orientation, age, [or] socioeconomic status (./,) [or _____ <insert any other impermissible basis for bias as appropriate>.]

You must follow the law as I explain it to you, even if you disagree with it. If you believe that the attorneys' comments on the law conflict with my instructions, you must follow my instructions.

Pay careful attention to all of these instructions and consider them together. If I repeat any instruction or idea, do not conclude that it is more important than any other instruction or idea just because I repeated it.

Some words or phrases used during this trial have legal meanings that are different from their meanings in everyday use. These words and phrases will be specifically defined in these instructions. Please be sure to listen carefully and follow the definitions that I give you. Words and phrases not specifically defined in these instructions are to be applied using their ordinary, everyday meanings.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Some of these instructions may not apply, depending on your findings about the facts of the case. [Do not assume just because I give a particular instruction that I am suggesting anything about the facts.] After you have decided what the facts are, follow the instructions that do apply to the facts as you find them.

New January 2006; Revised June 2007, April 2008, December 2008

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct that the jurors are the exclusive judges of the facts and that they are entitled to a copy of the written instructions when they deliberate. (Pen. Code, §§ 1093(f), 1137.) Although there is no sua sponte duty to instruct on the other topics described in this instruction, there is authority approving instruction on these topics.

In the first paragraph, select the appropriate bracketed alternative on written instructions. Penal Code section 1093(f) requires the court to give the jury a written copy of the instructions on request. The committee believes that the better practice is to always provide the jury with written instructions. If the court, in the absence of a jury request, elects not to provide jurors with written instructions, the court must modify the first paragraph to inform the jurors that they may request a written copy of the instructions.

Do not instruct a jury in the penalty phase of a capital case that they cannot consider sympathy. (People v. Easley (1982) 34 Cal.3d 858, 875–880 [196 Cal.Rptr. 309, 671 P.2d 813].) Instead of this instruction, CALCRIM 761 is the proper introductory instruction for the penalty phase of a capital case.

Do not give the bracketed sentence in the final paragraph if the court will be commenting on the evidence pursuant to Penal Code section 1127.

AUTHORITY

- Copies of Instructions. Pen. Code, §§ 1093(f), 1137.
- Judge Determines Law. Pen. Code, §§ 1124, 1126; People v. Como (2002) 95 Cal.App.4th 1088, 1091 [115 Cal.Rptr.2d 922]; see People v. Williams (2001) 25 Cal.4th 441, 455 [106 Cal.Rptr.2d 295, 21 P.3d 1209].
- Jury to Decide the Facts. Pen. Code, § 1127.
- Attorney's Comments Are Not Evidence. People v. Stuart (1959) 168 Cal.App.2d 57, 60–61 [335 P.2d 189].
- Consider All Instructions Together. People v. Osband (1996) 13 Cal.4th

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

622, 679 [55 Cal.Rptr.2d 26, 919 P.2d 640]; People v. Rivers (1993) 20 Cal.App.4th 1040, 1046 [25 Cal.Rptr.2d 602]; People v. Shaw (1965) 237 Cal.App.2d 606, 623 [47 Cal.Rptr. 96].

- Follow Applicable Instructions. People v. Palmer (1946) 76 Cal.App.2d 679, 686–687 [173 P.2d 680].
- No Bias, Sympathy, or Prejudice. Pen. Code, § 1127h; People v. Hawthorne (1992) 4 Cal.4th 43, 73 [14 Cal.Rptr.2d 133, 841 P.2d 118].
- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Ibarra (2007) 156 Cal.App.4th 1174 [67 Cal.Rptr.3d 871].

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Criminal Trial, §§ 643, 644.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 80, Defendant's Trial Rights, § 80.05[1], Ch. 83, Evidence, § 83.02, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, §§ 85.02[1], [2][c], 85.03[1], 85.05[2], [4] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Jury Misconduct

It is error to instruct the jury to immediately advise the court if a juror refuses to deliberate or expresses an intention to disregard the law or to decide the case based on penalty, punishment, or any other improper basis. (People v. Engelman (2002) 28 Cal.4th 436, 449 [121 Cal.Rptr.2d 862, 49 P.3d 209].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

201. Do Not Investigate

Do not do any research regarding this case on your own or as a group. Do not use a dictionary, the Internet, or other reference materials. Do not investigate the facts or law. Do not conduct any experiments, or visit the scene of any event involved in this case. If you happen to pass by the scene, do not stop or investigate.

New January 2006; Revised June 2007, April 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct the jurors on how they must conduct themselves during trial. (Pen. Code, § 1122.)

AUTHORITY

- No Independent Research. Pen. Code, § 1122; People v. Karis (1988) 46 Cal.3d 612, 642 [250 Cal.Rptr. 659, 758 P.2d 1189]; People v. Castro (1986) 184 Cal.App.3d 849, 853 [229 Cal.Rptr. 280]; People v. Sutter (1982) 134 Cal.App.3d 806, 820 [184 Cal.Rptr. 829].

Secondary Sources

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 81, Jury Selection and Opening Statement, § 81.06[1], Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.05[4][a][i] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

202. Note-Taking

You have been given notebooks and may have taken notes during the trial. You may use your notes during deliberations. The notes are for your own individual use to help you remember what happened during the trial. Please keep in mind that your notes may be inaccurate or incomplete. If there is a disagreement about the testimony [and stipulations] at trial, you may ask that the court reporter's record be read to you. It is the record that must guide your deliberations, not your notes. You must accept the court reporter's record as accurate.

Please do not remove your notes from the jury room.

At the end of the trial, your notes will be (collected and destroyed/ collected and retained by the court but not as a part of the case record/_____ <specify other disposition>).

New January 2006; Revised June 2007, April 2008, August 2009

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct the members of the jury that they may take notes. California Rules of Court, Rule 2.1031.

The court may specify its preferred disposition of the notes after trial. No statute or rule of court requires any particular disposition.

AUTHORITY

- Jurors' Use of Notes. California Rules of Court, Rule 2.1031.

Secondary Sources

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 83, Evidence, § 83.05[1], Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.05[2], [3], Ch. 87, Death Penalty, §§ 87.20, 87.24 (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

203. Multiple Defendants

<Alternative A—different charges for different defendants>

[Because more than one defendant is on trial here, I am going to remind you which individuals are charged with which crimes.

_____ is charged with _____.

_____ is charged with _____.]

<Alternative B—charges the same for all defendants>

[(Both/All) defendants in this case are charged with the same crimes.]

You must separately consider the evidence as it applies to each defendant. You must decide each charge for each defendant separately. If you cannot reach a verdict on (all/both) of the defendants, or on any of the charges against any defendant, you must report your disagreement to the court and you must return your verdict on any defendant or charge on which you have unanimously agreed.

Unless I tell you otherwise, all instructions apply to each defendant.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction if multiple defendants are on trial. (People v. Mask (1986) 188 Cal.App.3d 450, 457 [233 Cal.Rptr. 181]; People v. Fulton (1984) 155 Cal.App.3d 91, 101 [201 Cal.Rptr. 879].)

Give alternative A if any of the charges against the defendants are different. Give alternative B if all of the charges against all defendants are the same.

AUTHORITY

- Separate Verdicts When Multiple Defendants. Pen. Code, §§ 970, 1160.
- Instructional Duty. People v. Mask (1986) 188 Cal.App.3d 450, 457 [233 Cal.Rptr. 181]; People v. Fulton (1984) 155 Cal.App.3d 91, 101

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[201 Cal.Rptr. 879].

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Criminal Trial, § 644.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.02[2][a][ii] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

204. Defendant Physically Restrained

The fact that physical restraints have been placed on [the] defendant[s] [_____ <insert name[s] of defendant[s] if multiple defendants in case but not all are restrained>] is not evidence. Do not speculate about the reason. You must completely disregard this circumstance in deciding the issues in this case. Do not consider it for any purpose or discuss it during your deliberations.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction if a defendant has been restrained in a manner that is visible to the jury. (People v. Duran (1976) 16 Cal.3d 282, 291–292 [127 Cal.Rptr. 618, 545 P.2d 1322].) If the restraints are not visible, do not give this instruction unless requested by the defense.

The court must find a "manifest need for such restraints" and the record must clearly disclose the reasons the restraints were used. (People v. Duran, supra, 16 Cal.3d at pp. 290–291.) "The imposition of physical restraints in the absence of a record showing . . . violence or a threat of violence or other nonconforming conduct will be deemed to constitute an abuse of discretion." (Id. at p. 291.) The court must make the determination based on facts, not rumor, and may not delegate the decision to law enforcement personnel. (People v. Mar (2002) 28 Cal.4th 1201, 1218 [124 Cal.Rptr.2d 161, 52 P.3d 95].) The reasons supporting physical restraints must relate to the individual defendant. The court cannot rely on the nature of the charges, the courtroom design, or the lack of sufficient staff. (People v. Slaughter (2002) 27 Cal.4th 1187, 1213 [120 Cal.Rptr.2d 477, 47 P.3d 262]; People v. Cunningham (2001) 25 Cal.4th 926, 986–987 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 291, 25 P.3d 519]; People v. Seaton (2001) 26 Cal.4th 598, 652 [110 Cal.Rptr.2d 441, 28 P.3d 175].)

The use of stun belts is subject to the same requirements. (People v. Mar, supra, 28 Cal.4th at pp. 1205–1206.) In addition, the Supreme Court has urged "great caution" in using stun belts at all, stating that, prior to using such devices, courts must consider the psychological impact, risk of accidental activation, physical dangers, and limited ability to control the level of shock delivered. (Ibid.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Duty. People v. Duran (1976) 16 Cal.3d 282, 291–292 [127 Cal.Rptr. 618, 545 P.2d 1322].
- Requirements Before Use. People v. Duran (1976) 16 Cal.3d 282, 290–292 [127 Cal.Rptr. 618, 545 P.2d 1322]; People v. Mar (2002) 28 Cal.4th 1201, 1218 [124 Cal.Rptr.2d 161, 52 P.3d 95].
- Use of Stun Belts. People v. Mar (2002) 28 Cal.4th 1201, 1205–1206 [124 Cal.Rptr.2d 161, 52 P.3d 95].

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Criminal Trial, §§ 11–16.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 80, Defendant's Trial Rights, § 80.09[6][b], [c], [d] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

205. Charge Removed From Jury Consideration

Count[s] _____ charging the defendant with _____ <insert name[s] of offense[s]> no longer need[s] to be decided in this case.

Do not speculate about or consider in any way why you no longer need to decide (this/these) count[s].

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court may give this instruction if one or more of the original counts has been removed from the case, whether through plea or dismissal.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

206. One or More Defendants Removed From Case

The charge[s] against defendant[s] _____ <insert names[s] of defendant[s]> no longer need[s] to be decided in this case.

Do not speculate about or consider in any way why the charge[s] against defendant[s] _____ <insert names[s] of defendant[s]> (do/does) not need to be decided.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court may give this instruction if one or more of the original defendants has been removed from the case, whether through plea, dismissal, or flight.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

207. Proof Need Not Show Actual Date

It is alleged that the crime occurred on [or about] _____ <insert alleged date>. The People are not required to prove that the crime took place exactly on that day but only that it happened reasonably close to that day.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has no sua sponte duty to give this instruction. This instruction should not be given: (1) when the evidence demonstrates that the offense was committed at a specific time and place and the defendant has presented a defense of alibi or lack of opportunity; and (2) when two similar offenses are charged in separate counts. (People v. Jennings (1991) 53 Cal.3d 334, 358–359 [279 Cal.Rptr. 780, 807 P.2d 1009]; People v. Jones (1973) 9 Cal.3d 546, 557 [108 Cal.Rptr. 345, 510 P.2d 705], overruled on other grounds in Hernandez v. Municipal Court (1989) 49 Cal.3d 713 [263 Cal.Rptr. 513, 781 P.2d 547]; People v. Barney (1983) 143 Cal.App.3d 490, 497–498 [192 Cal.Rptr. 172]; People v. Gavin (1971) 21 Cal.App.3d 408, 415–416 [98 Cal.Rptr. 518]; People v. Deletto (1983) 147 Cal.App.3d 458, 474–475 [195 Cal.Rptr. 233].)

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. Pen. Code, § 955; People v. Jennings (1991) 53 Cal.3d 334, 358–359 [279 Cal.Rptr. 780, 807 P.2d 1009]; People v. Jones (1973) 9 Cal.3d 546, 557 [108 Cal.Rptr. 345, 510 P.2d 705]; People v. Barney (1983) 143 Cal.App.3d 490, 497–498 [192 Cal.Rptr. 172]; People v. Gavin (1971) 21 Cal.App.3d 408, 415–416 [98 Cal.Rptr. 518]; People v. Deletto (1983) 147 Cal.App.3d 458, 474–475 [195 Cal.Rptr. 233].

Secondary Sources

2 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 40, Accusatory Pleadings, § 40.07[2] (Matthew Bender).

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.03[2][c] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

208. Witness Identified as John or Jane Doe

In this case, a person is called ((John/Jane) Doe/ _____<insert other name used>). This name is used only to protect (his/her) privacy, as required by law. [The fact that the person is identified in this way is not evidence. Do not consider this fact for any purpose.]

New August 2009

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

If an alleged victim will be identified as John or Jane Doe, the court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction at the beginning and at the end of the trial. (Pen. Code, § 293.5(b); People v. Ramirez (1997) 55 Cal.App.4th 47, 58 [64 Cal.Rptr.2d 9].)

Penal Code section 293.5 provides that the alleged victim of certain offenses may be identified as John or Jane Doe if the court finds it is "reasonably necessary to protect the privacy of the person and will not unduly prejudice the prosecution or the defense." (Id., § 293.5(a).) This applies only to alleged victims of offenses under the following Penal Code sections: 261 (rape), 261.5 (unlawful sexual intercourse), 262 (rape of spouse), 264.1 (aiding and abetting rape), 286 (sodomy), 288 (lewd or lascivious act), 288a (oral copulation), and 289 (penetration by force). Note that the full name must still be provided in discovery. (Id., § 293.5(a); Reid v. Superior Court (1997) 55 Cal.App.4th 1326, 1338 [64 Cal.Rptr.2d 714].)

Give the last two bracketed sentences on request. (People v. Ramirez, supra, 55 Cal.App.4th at p. 58.)

AUTHORITY

- Identification as John or Jane Doe. Pen. Code, § 293.5(a).
- Instructional Requirements. Pen. Code, § 293.5(b); People v. Ramirez (1997) 55 Cal.App.4th 47, 58 [64 Cal.Rptr.2d 9].
- Statute Constitutional. People v. Ramirez (1997) 55 Cal.App.4th 47, 54–59 [64 Cal.Rptr.2d 9].

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Criminal Trial,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

§ 553.

3 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 70, Discovery and Investigation, § 70.05 (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.24[3] (Matthew Bender).

209–218. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

B. GENERAL LEGAL CONCEPTS

219. Reasonable Doubt in Civil Proceedings

The fact that a petition to declare respondent a sexually violent predator has been filed is not evidence that the petition is true. You must not be biased against the respondent just because the petition has been filed and this matter has been brought to trial. The Petitioner is required to prove the allegations of the petition are true beyond a reasonable doubt.

Proof beyond a reasonable doubt is proof that leaves you with an abiding conviction that the allegations of the petition are true. The evidence need not eliminate all possible doubt because everything in life is open to some possible or imaginary doubt.

In deciding whether the Petitioner has proved the allegations of the petition are true beyond a reasonable doubt, you must impartially compare and consider all the evidence that was received throughout the entire trial. Unless the evidence proves the Respondent _____<insert what must be proved in this proceeding, e.g., "is a sexually violent predator"> beyond a reasonable doubt, you must find the petition is not true.

New August 2009

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct jurors in civil proceedings relating to sexually violent predators and mentally disordered offenders in the reasonable doubt standard, but not in the presumption of innocence. People v. Beeson (2002) 99 Cal.App.4th 1393, 1401 [122 Cal.Rptr.2d 384]. That duty extends to not guilty by reason of insanity extended commitment (Pen. Code, § 1026.5(b)) and juvenile delinquency extended commitment (Welf. & Inst. Code, §§ 1800 et seq.) proceedings as well.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

Instructional Requirements. People v. Beeson (2002) 99 Cal.App.4th 1393, 1401 [122 Cal.Rptr.2d 384].

Related Instruction

CALCRIM No. 220, Reasonable Doubt.

CALCRIM No. 3453, Extension of Commitment.

CALCRIM No. 3454, Commitment as Sexually Violent Predator.

CALCRIM No. 3456, Initial Commitment of Mentally Disordered Offender As Condition of Parole.

CALCRIM No. 3457, Extension of Commitment as Mentally Disordered Offender.

CALCRIM No. 3458, Extension of Commitment to Division of Juvenile Facilities.

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2008 supp.) Punishment, § 640A.

5 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 104, Parole, § 104.06 (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

220. Reasonable Doubt

The fact that a criminal charge has been filed against the defendant[s] is not evidence that the charge is true. You must not be biased against the defendant[s] just because (he/she/they) (has/have) been arrested, charged with a crime, or brought to trial.

A defendant in a criminal case is presumed to be innocent. This presumption requires that the People prove a defendant guilty beyond a reasonable doubt. Whenever I tell you the People must prove something, I mean they must prove it beyond a reasonable doubt [unless I specifically tell you otherwise].

Proof beyond a reasonable doubt is proof that leaves you with an abiding conviction that the charge is true. The evidence need not eliminate all possible doubt because everything in life is open to some possible or imaginary doubt.

In deciding whether the People have proved their case beyond a reasonable doubt, you must impartially compare and consider all the evidence that was received throughout the entire trial. Unless the evidence proves the defendant[s] guilty beyond a reasonable doubt, (he/she/they) (is/are) entitled to an acquittal and you must find (him/her/them) not guilty.

New January 2006; Revised August 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the presumption of innocence and the state's burden of proof. (People v. Vann (1974) 12 Cal.3d 220, 225–227 [115 Cal.Rptr. 352, 524 P.2d 824]; People v. Soldavini (1941) 45 Cal.App.2d 460, 463 [114 P.2d 415]; People v. Phillips (1997) 59 Cal.App.4th 952, 956–958 [69 Cal.Rptr.2d 532].)

If the court will be instructing that the prosecution has a different burden of proof, give the bracketed phrase "unless I specifically tell you otherwise."

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. Pen. Code, §§ 1096, 1096a; People v. Freeman (1994) 8 Cal.4th 450, 503–504 [34 Cal.Rptr.2d 558, 882 P.2d 249]; Victor v. Nebraska (1994) 511 U.S. 1, 16–17 [114 S.Ct. 1239, 127

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

L.Ed.2d 583]; Lisenbee v. Henry (9th Cir. 1999) 166 F.3d 997, 999.

- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Ramos (2008) 163 Cal.App.4th 1082, 1088–1089 [78 Cal.Rptr.3d 186].
- This Instruction Does Not Suggest That Bias Against Defendant Is Permissible. People v. Ibarra (2007) 156 Cal.App.4th 1174, 1185–1186 [67 Cal.Rptr.3d 871].

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Criminal Trial, §§ 521, 637, 640.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 83, Evidence, § 83.03[1], Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, §§ 85.02[1A][a], [2][a][i], 85.04[2][a] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

This instruction is based directly on Penal Code section 1096. The primary changes are a reordering of concepts and a definition of reasonable doubt stated in the affirmative rather than in the negative. The instruction also refers to the jury's duty to impartially compare and consider all the evidence. (See Victor v. Nebraska (1994) 511 U.S. 1, 16–17 [114 S.Ct. 1239, 127 L.Ed.2d 583].) The appellate courts have urged the trial courts to exercise caution in modifying the language of section 1096 to avoid error in defining reasonable doubt. (See People v. Freeman (1994) 8 Cal.4th 450, 503–504 [34 Cal.Rptr.2d 558, 882 P.2d 249]; People v. Garcia (1975) 54 Cal.App.3d 61, 63 [126 Cal.Rptr. 275].) The instruction includes all the concepts contained in section 1096 and substantially tracks the statutory language. For an alternate view of instructing on reasonable doubt, see Committee on Standard Jury Instructions—Criminal, Minority Report to CALJIC "Reasonable Doubt" Report, in Alternative Definitions of Reasonable Doubt: A Report to the California Legislature (May 22, 1987; repr., San Francisco: Daily Journal, 1987) pp. 51–53.

RELATED ISSUES

Pinpoint Instruction on Reasonable Doubt

A defendant is entitled, on request, to a nonargumentative instruction that directs attention to the defense's theory of the case and relates it to the state's burden of proof. (People v. Sears (1970) 2 Cal.3d 180, 190 [84 Cal.Rptr. 711, 465 P.2d 847] [error to deny requested instruction relating defense evidence to the element of premeditation and deliberation].) Such an instruction is sometimes called a pinpoint instruction. "What is pinpointed is not specific evidence as such, but the theory of the defendant's case. It is the specific evidence on which the theory of the defense 'focuses' which is related to reasonable doubt." (People v. Adrian (1982) 135 Cal.App.3d 335, 338 [185 Cal.Rptr. 506] [court erred in refusing to give requested instruction relating self-defense to burden of proof]; see also People v. Granados (1957) 49 Cal.2d 490, 496 [319 P.2d 346] [error to refuse instruction relating reasonable doubt to commission of felony in felony-murder case]; People v. Brown (1984) 152 Cal.App.3d 674, 677–678 [199 Cal.Rptr. 680] [error to refuse instruction relating reasonable doubt to identification].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

221. Reasonable Doubt: Bifurcated Trial

The People are required to prove the allegations beyond a reasonable doubt.

Proof beyond a reasonable doubt is proof that leaves you with an abiding conviction that the allegation is true. The evidence does not need to eliminate all possible doubt because everything in life is open to some possible or imaginary doubt.

In deciding whether the People have proved (an/the) allegation beyond a reasonable doubt, you must impartially compare and consider all the evidence that was received during this [phase of the] trial. Unless the evidence proves (an/the) allegation beyond a reasonable doubt, you must find that the allegation has not been proved [and disregard it completely].

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on reasonable doubt in any proceeding in which that standard of proof applies.

This instruction is provided for the court to use only in bifurcated trials or special proceedings where the court is required to instruct on reasonable doubt but CALCRIM No. 220, Reasonable Doubt, would not be appropriate as written. Do not use this instruction in place of CALCRIM No. 220 in a trial on the substantive crimes charged.

This instruction should be used only in the following situations:

1. When the court has granted a bifurcated trial on a prior conviction or a sentencing factor (see CALCRIM No. 3101, Prior Conviction: Bifurcated Trial and CALCRIM No. 3251, Enhancement, Sentencing Factor, or Specific Factual Issue: Template—Bifurcated Trial);
2. When the court is conducting a trial on a petition to commit someone as a sexually violent predator or for an extension of commitment (see CALCRIM No. 3453, Extension of Commitment and CALCRIM No. 3454, Commitment as Sexually Violent Predator); or
3. In the penalty phase of a capital trial when the court is instructing on other violent criminal activity or prior felony convictions offered as aggravation (see CALCRIM No. 764, Death Penalty: Evidence of Other Violent Crimes and CALCRIM No. 765, Death Penalty: Conviction for Other Felony Crimes).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

In the first sentence, the court, at its discretion, may wish to insert a description of the specific allegations that the People must prove.

In the final paragraph, give the bracketed phrase "and disregard it completely" when using this instruction in the penalty phase of a capital trial.

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. Pen. Code, §§ 1096, 1096a; People v. Freeman (1994) 8 Cal.4th 450, 503–504 [34 Cal.Rptr.2d 558, 882 P.2d 249]; People v. Beeson (2002) 99 Cal.App.4th 1393, 1409 [122 Cal.Rptr.2d 384] [regarding lack of need to instruct on presumption of innocence for mentally disordered offenders in non-criminal proceedings].

Secondary Sources

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 83, Evidence, § 83.03[1], Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.02[1A][a], [2][a][i] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

222. Evidence

You must decide what the facts are in this case. You must use only the evidence that was presented in this courtroom [or during a jury view]. "Evidence" is the sworn testimony of witnesses, the exhibits admitted into evidence, and anything else I told you to consider as evidence.

Nothing that the attorneys say is evidence. In their opening statements and closing arguments, the attorneys discuss the case, but their remarks are not evidence. Their questions are not evidence. Only the witnesses' answers are evidence. The attorneys' questions are significant only if they helped you to understand the witnesses' answers. Do not assume that something is true just because one of the attorneys asked a question that suggested it was true.

During the trial, the attorneys may have objected to questions or moved to strike answers given by the witnesses. I ruled on the objections according to the law. If I sustained an objection, you must ignore the question. If the witness was not permitted to answer, do not guess what the answer might have been or why I ruled as I did. If I ordered testimony stricken from the record you must disregard it and must not consider that testimony for any purpose.

You must disregard anything you saw or heard when the court was not in session, even if it was done or said by one of the parties or witnesses.

[During the trial, you were told that the People and the defense agreed, or stipulated, to certain facts. This means that they both accept those facts as true. Because there is no dispute about those facts you must also accept them as true.]

The court reporter has made a record of everything that was said during the trial. If you decide that it is necessary, you may ask that the court reporter's record be read to you. You must accept the court reporter's record as accurate.

New January 2006; Revised June 2007, August 2009

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

There is no sua sponte duty to instruct on these evidentiary topics; however, instruction on these topics has been approved. (People v. Barajas (1983) 145 Cal.App.3d 804, 809 [193 Cal.Rptr. 750]; People v. Samayoa (1997) 15 Cal.4th 795, 843–844 [64 Cal.Rptr.2d 400, 938 P.2d 2]; People v. Horton (1995) 11 Cal.4th 1068, 1121 [47 Cal.Rptr.2d 516, 906 P.2d 478].)

If the parties stipulated to one or more facts, give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "During the trial, you were told."

AUTHORITY

- Evidence Defined. Evid. Code, § 140.
- Arguments Not Evidence. People v. Barajas (1983) 145 Cal.App.3d 804, 809 [193 Cal.Rptr. 750].
- Questions Not Evidence. People v. Samayoa (1997) 15 Cal.4th 795, 843–844 [64 Cal.Rptr.2d 400].
- Stipulations. Palmer v. City of Long Beach (1948) 33 Cal.2d 134, 141–142 [199 P.2d 952].
- Striking Testimony. People v. Horton (1995) 11 Cal.4th 1068, 1121 [47 Cal.Rptr.2d 516, 906 P.2d 478].

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000), §§ 636, 643.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 83, Evidence, §§ 83.01[1], 83.02[2] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Non-Testifying Courtroom Conduct

There is authority for an instruction informing the jury to disregard defendant's in-court, but non-testifying behavior. (People v. Garcia (1984) 160 Cal.App.3d 82, 90 [206 Cal.Rptr. 468] [defendant was disruptive in court; court instructed jurors they should not consider this behavior in deciding guilt or innocence].) However, if the defendant has put his or her character in issue or another basis for relevance exists, such an instruction should not be given. (People v. Garcia, supra, 160 Cal.App.3d at p. 91, fn. 7; People v. Foster (1988) 201 Cal.App.3d 20, 25 [246 Cal.Rptr. 855].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

223. Direct and Circumstantial Evidence: Defined

Facts may be proved by direct or circumstantial evidence or by a combination of both. Direct evidence can prove a fact by itself. For example, if a witness testifies he saw it raining outside before he came into the courthouse, that testimony is direct evidence that it was raining. Circumstantial evidence also may be called indirect evidence. Circumstantial evidence does not directly prove the fact to be decided, but is evidence of another fact or group of facts from which you may logically and reasonably conclude the truth of the fact in question. For example, if a witness testifies that he saw someone come inside wearing a raincoat covered with drops of water, that testimony is circumstantial evidence because it may support a conclusion that it was raining outside.

Both direct and circumstantial evidence are acceptable types of evidence to prove or disprove the elements of a charge, including intent and mental state and acts necessary to a conviction, and neither is necessarily more reliable than the other. Neither is entitled to any greater weight than the other. You must decide whether a fact in issue has been proved based on all the evidence.

New January 2006; Revised June 2007

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction explaining direct and circumstantial evidence if the prosecution substantially relies on circumstantial evidence to establish any element of the case. (People v. Yrigoyen (1955) 45 Cal.2d 46, 49 [286 P.2d 1] [duty exists where circumstantial evidence relied on to prove any element, including intent]; see People v. Bloyd (1987) 43 Cal.3d 333, 351–352 [233 Cal.Rptr. 368, 729 P.2d 802]; People v. Heishman (1988) 45 Cal.3d 147, 167 [246 Cal.Rptr. 673, 753 P.2d 629].) The court must give this instruction if the court will be giving either CALCRIM No. 224, Circumstantial Evidence: Sufficiency of Evidence or CALCRIM No. 225, Circumstantial Evidence: Intent or Mental State.

The court, at its discretion, may give this instruction in any case in which circumstantial evidence has been presented.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Direct Evidence Defined. Evid. Code, § 410.
- Logical and Reasonable Inference Defined. Evid. Code, § 600(b).
- Difference Between Direct and Circumstantial Evidence. People v. Lim Foon (1915) 29 Cal.App. 270, 274 [155 P. 477] [no sua sponte duty to instruct, but court approves definition]; People v. Goldstein (1956) 139 Cal.App.2d 146, 152–153 [293 P.2d 495] [sua sponte duty to instruct].
- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Ibarra (2007) 156 Cal.App.4th 1174, 1186 [67 Cal.Rptr.3d 871].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Elements, § 3.

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Criminal Trial, § 652.

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Circumstantial Evidence, § 117.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 83, Evidence, § 83.01[2], Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.03[2][a] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

224. Circumstantial Evidence: Sufficiency of Evidence

Before you may rely on circumstantial evidence to conclude that a fact necessary to find the defendant guilty has been proved, you must be convinced that the People have proved each fact essential to that conclusion beyond a reasonable doubt.

Also, before you may rely on circumstantial evidence to find the defendant guilty, you must be convinced that the only reasonable conclusion supported by the circumstantial evidence is that the defendant is guilty. If you can draw two or more reasonable conclusions from the circumstantial evidence, and one of those reasonable conclusions points to innocence and another to guilt, you must accept the one that points to innocence. However, when considering circumstantial evidence, you must accept only reasonable conclusions and reject any that are unreasonable.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on how to evaluate circumstantial evidence if the prosecution substantially relies on circumstantial evidence to establish any element of the case. (People v. Yrigoyen (1955) 45 Cal.2d 46, 49 [286 P.2d 1] [duty exists where circumstantial evidence relied on to prove any element, including intent]; see People v. Bloyd (1987) 43 Cal.3d 333, 351–352 [233 Cal.Rptr. 368, 729 P.2d 802]; People v. Heishman (1988) 45 Cal.3d 147, 167 [246 Cal.Rptr. 673, 753 P.2d 629].)

There is no sua sponte duty to give this instruction when the circumstantial evidence is incidental to and corroborative of direct evidence. (People v. Malbrough (1961) 55 Cal.2d 249, 250–251 [10 Cal.Rptr. 632, 359 P.2d 30]; People v. Watson (1956) 46 Cal.2d 818, 831 [299 P.2d 243]; People v. Shea (1995) 39 Cal.App.4th 1257, 1270–1271 [46 Cal.Rptr.2d 388].) This is so even when the corroborative circumstantial evidence is essential to the prosecution's case, e.g., when corroboration of an accomplice's testimony is required under Penal Code section 1111. (People v. Williams (1984) 162 Cal.App.3d 869, 874 [208 Cal.Rptr. 790].)

If intent is the only element proved by circumstantial evidence, do not give this instruction. Give CALCRIM No. 225, Circumstantial Evidence: Intent or

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Mental State. (People v. Marshall (1996) 13 Cal.4th 799, 849 [55 Cal.Rptr.2d 347, 919 P.2d 1280].)

AUTHORITY

- Direct Evidence Defined. Evid. Code, § 410.
- Inference Defined. Evid. Code, § 600(b).
- Between Two Reasonable Interpretations of Circumstantial Evidence, Accept the One That Points to Innocence. People v. Merkouris (1956) 46 Cal.2d 540, 560–562 [297 P.2d 999] [error to refuse requested instruction on this point]; People v. Johnson (1958) 163 Cal.App.2d 58, 62 [328 P.2d 809] [sua sponte duty to instruct]; see People v. Wade (1995) 39 Cal.App.4th 1487, 1492 [46 Cal.Rptr.2d 645].
- Circumstantial Evidence Must Be Entirely Consistent With a Theory of Guilt and Inconsistent With Any Other Rational Conclusion. People v. Bender (1945) 27 Cal.2d 164, 175 [163 P.2d 8] [sua sponte duty to instruct]; People v. Yrigoyen (1955) 45 Cal.2d 46, 49 [286 P.2d 1] [same].
- Difference Between Direct and Circumstantial Evidence. People v. Lim Foon (1915) 29 Cal.App. 270, 274 [155 P. 477] [no sua sponte duty to instruct, but court approves definition]; People v. Goldstein (1956) 139 Cal.App.2d 146, 152–153 [293 P.2d 495] [sua sponte duty to instruct].
- Each Fact in Chain of Circumstantial Evidence Must Be Proved. People v. Watson (1956) 46 Cal.2d 818, 831 [299 P.2d 243] [error to refuse requested instruction on this point].
- Sua Sponte Duty When Prosecutor's Case Rests Substantially on Circumstantial Evidence. People v. Bloyd (1987) 43 Cal.3d 333, 351–352 [233 Cal.Rptr. 368, 729 P.2d 802].
- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Ibarra (2007) 156 Cal.App.4th 1174, 1186–1187 [67 Cal.Rptr.3d 871].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Elements, § 3.

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Criminal Trial, § 652.

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Circumstantial Evidence, § 117.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 83, Evidence, § 83.01[2], Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.03[2][a] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

RELATED ISSUES

Extrajudicial Admissions

Extrajudicial admissions are not the type of indirect evidence requiring instruction on circumstantial evidence. (People v. Wiley (1976) 18 Cal.3d 162, 174–175 [133 Cal.Rptr. 135, 554 P.2d 881].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

225. Circumstantial Evidence: Intent or Mental State

The People must prove not only that the defendant did the acts charged, but also that (he/she) acted with a particular (intent/ [and/or] mental state). The instruction for (the/each) crime [and allegation] explains the (intent/ [and/or] mental state) required.

A[n] (intent/ [and/or] mental state) may be proved by circumstantial evidence.

Before you may rely on circumstantial evidence to conclude that a fact necessary to find the defendant guilty has been proved, you must be convinced that the People have proved each fact essential to that conclusion beyond a reasonable doubt.

Also, before you may rely on circumstantial evidence to conclude that the defendant had the required (intent/ [and/or] mental state), you must be convinced that the only reasonable conclusion supported by the circumstantial evidence is that the defendant had the required (intent/ [and/or] mental state). If you can draw two or more reasonable conclusions from the circumstantial evidence, and one of those reasonable conclusions supports a finding that the defendant did have the required (intent/ [and/or] mental state) and another reasonable conclusion supports a finding that the defendant did not, you must conclude that the required (intent/ [and/or] mental state) was not proved by the circumstantial evidence. However, when considering circumstantial evidence, you must accept only reasonable conclusions and reject any that are unreasonable.

New January 2006; Revised August 2006, June 2007

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on how to evaluate circumstantial evidence if the prosecution substantially relies on circumstantial evidence to establish the element of a specific intent or a mental state. (People v. Yrigoyen (1955) 45 Cal.2d 46, 49 [286 P.2d 1].)

Give this instruction when the defendant's intent or mental state is the only element of the offense that rests substantially or entirely on circumstantial evidence. If other elements of the offense also rest substantially or entirely on circumstantial evidence, do not give this instruction. Give CALCRIM No. 224, Circumstantial Evidence: Sufficiency of Evidence. (See People v. Marshall (1996) 13 Cal.4th 799, 849 [55 Cal.Rptr.2d 347, 919 P.2d 1280]; People v. Hughes (2002) 27 Cal.4th 287, 347 [116 Cal.Rptr.2d 401, 39 P.3d 432].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If the court is also instructing on a strict-liability offense, the court may wish to modify this instruction to clarify the charges to which it applies.

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. People v. Lizarraga (1990) 219 Cal.App.3d 476, 481–482 [268 Cal.Rptr. 262] [when both specific intent and mental state are elements].
- Intent Manifested by Circumstances. Pen. Code, § 21(a).
- Accept Reasonable Interpretation of Circumstantial Evidence That Points Against Specific Intent. People v. Yokum (1956) 145 Cal.App.2d 245, 253–254 [302 P.2d 406], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Cook (1983) 33 Cal.3d 400, 413 [189 Cal.Rptr. 159, 658 P.2d 86].
- Circumstantial Evidence Must Be Entirely Consistent With Existence of Specific Intent. People v. Yokum (1956) 145 Cal.App.2d 245, 253–254 [302 P.2d 406], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Cook (1983) 33 Cal.3d 400, 413 [189 Cal.Rptr. 159, 658 P.2d 86].
- Reject Unreasonable Interpretations. People v. Hines (1997) 15 Cal.4th 997, 1049–1050 [64 Cal.Rptr.2d 594, 938 P.2d 388].
- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Golde (2008) 163 Cal.App.4th 101, 118 [77 Cal.Rptr.3d 120].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Elements, §§ 3, 6.

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Criminal Trial, § 652.

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Circumstantial Evidence, § 117.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.03[2][a] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

General or Specific Intent Explained

A crime is a general-intent offense when the statutory definition of the crime consists of only the description of a particular act, without reference to intent to do a further act or achieve a future consequence. A crime is a specific-intent offense when the statutory definition refers to the defendant's intent to do some further act or achieve some additional consequence. (People v. McDaniel (1979) 24 Cal.3d 661, 669 [156 Cal.Rptr. 865, 597 P.2d 124]; People v. Hood (1969) 1 Cal.3d 444, 456–457 [82 Cal.Rptr. 618, 462 P.2d 370]; People v. Swanson (1983) 142 Cal.App.3d 104, 109 [190 Cal.Rptr. 768]; see, e.g., People v. Whitfield (1994) 7 Cal.4th 437, 449–450 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 858, 868 P.2d 272] [second degree murder based on implied malice is a specific-intent crime].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Only One Possible Inference

The fact that elements of a charged offense include mental elements that must necessarily be proved by inferences drawn from circumstantial evidence does not alone require an instruction on the effect to be given to such evidence. (People v. Heishman (1988) 45 Cal.3d 147, 167 [246 Cal.Rptr. 673, 753 P.2d 629]; People v. Wiley (1976) 18 Cal.3d 162, 174–176 [133 Cal.Rptr. 135, 554 P.2d 881].) When the only inference to be drawn from circumstantial evidence points to the existence of a required specific intent or mental state, a circumstantial evidence instruction need not be given sua sponte, but should be given on request. (People v. Gordon (1982) 136 Cal.App.3d 519, 531 [186 Cal.Rptr. 373]; People v. Morrisson (1979) 92 Cal.App.3d 787, 793–794 [155 Cal.Rptr. 152].)

Direct Evidence, Extrajudicial Admission, or No Substantial Reliance

This instruction should not be given if direct evidence of the mental elements exists (People v. Wiley (1976) 18 Cal.3d 162, 175 [133 Cal.Rptr. 135, 554 P.2d 881]), if the only circumstantial evidence is an extrajudicial admission (People v. Gould (1960) 54 Cal.2d 621, 629 [7 Cal.Rptr. 273, 354 P.2d 865], overruled on other grounds in People v. Cuevas (1995) 12 Cal.4th 252, 271–272 [48 Cal.Rptr.2d 135, 906 P.2d 1290]), or if the prosecution does not substantially rely on circumstantial evidence (People v. DeLeon (1982) 138 Cal.App.3d 602, 607–608 [188 Cal.Rptr. 63]).

See the Related Issues section of CALCRIM No. 224, Circumstantial Evidence: Sufficiency of Evidence.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

226. Witnesses

You alone must judge the credibility or believability of the witnesses. In deciding whether testimony is true and accurate, use your common sense and experience. You must judge the testimony of each witness by the same standards, setting aside any bias or prejudice you may have. You may believe all, part, or none of any witness's testimony. Consider the testimony of each witness and decide how much of it you believe.

In evaluating a witness's testimony, you may consider anything that reasonably tends to prove or disprove the truth or accuracy of that testimony. Among the factors that you may consider are:

- How well could the witness see, hear, or otherwise perceive the things about which the witness testified?
- How well was the witness able to remember and describe what happened?
- What was the witness's behavior while testifying?
- Did the witness understand the questions and answer them directly?
- Was the witness's testimony influenced by a factor such as bias or prejudice, a personal relationship with someone involved in the case, or a personal interest in how the case is decided?
- What was the witness's attitude about the case or about testifying?
- Did the witness make a statement in the past that is consistent or inconsistent with his or her testimony?
- How reasonable is the testimony when you consider all the other evidence in the case?
- [Did other evidence prove or disprove any fact about which the witness testified?]
- [Did the witness admit to being untruthful?]
- [What is the witness's character for truthfulness?]
- [Has the witness been convicted of a felony?]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- [Has the witness engaged in [other] conduct that reflects on his or her believability?]
- [Was the witness promised immunity or leniency in exchange for his or her testimony?]

Do not automatically reject testimony just because of inconsistencies or conflicts. Consider whether the differences are important or not. People sometimes honestly forget things or make mistakes about what they remember. Also, two people may witness the same event yet see or hear it differently.

[If the evidence establishes that a witness's character for truthfulness has not been discussed among the people who know him or her, you may conclude from the lack of discussion that the witness's character for truthfulness is good.]

[If you do not believe a witness's testimony that he or she no longer remembers something, that testimony is inconsistent with the witness's earlier statement on that subject.]

[If you decide that a witness deliberately lied about something significant in this case, you should consider not believing anything that witness says. Or, if you think the witness lied about some things, but told the truth about others, you may simply accept the part that you think is true and ignore the rest.]

New January 2006; Revised June 2007, April 2008

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on factors relevant to a witness's credibility. (People v. Rincon-Pineda (1975) 14 Cal.3d 864, 883–884 [123 Cal.Rptr. 119, 538 P.2d 247].) Although there is no sua sponte duty to instruct on inconsistencies in testimony or a witness who lies, there is authority approving instruction on both topics. (Dodds v. Stellar (1946) 77 Cal.App.2d 411, 426 [175 P.2d 607]; People v. Murillo (1996) 47 Cal.App.4th 1104, 1107 [55 Cal.Rptr.2d 21].)

The court may strike any of the enumerated impermissible bases for bias that are clearly inapplicable in a given case.

Give all of the bracketed factors that are relevant based on the evidence. (Evid. Code, § 780(e), (i), and (k).)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Give any of the final three bracketed paragraphs if relevant based on the evidence.

If the court instructs on a prior felony conviction or prior misconduct admitted pursuant to People v. Wheeler (1992) 4 Cal.4th 284 [14 Cal.Rptr.2d 418, 841 P.2d 938], the court should consider whether to give CALCRIM No. 316, Additional Instructions on Witness Credibility—Other Conduct. (See Bench Notes to that instruction.)

AUTHORITY

- Factors. Evid. Code, § 780; People v. Rincon-Pineda (1975) 14 Cal.3d 864, 883–884 [123 Cal.Rptr. 119, 538 P.2d 247].
- Inconsistencies. Dodds v. Stellar (1946) 77 Cal.App.2d 411, 426 [175 P.2d 607].
- Witness Who Lies. People v. Murillo (1996) 47 Cal.App.4th 1104, 1107 [55 Cal.Rptr.2d 21].
- Proof of Character by Negative Evidence. People v. Adams (1902) 137 Cal. 580, 582 [70 P. 662].
- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Ibarra (2007) 156 Cal.App.4th 1174, 1187–1188 [67 Cal.Rptr.3d 871].

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Criminal Trial, § 642.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, §§ 85.02[1A][b], [2][b], [c], 85.03[2][b] (Matthew Bender).

227–239. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

C. CAUSATION

240. Causation

An act causes (injury/ _____ <insert other description>) if the (injury/ _____ <insert other description>) is the direct, natural, and probable consequence of the act and the (injury/ _____ <insert other description>) would not have happened without the act. A natural and probable consequence is one that a reasonable person would know is likely to happen if nothing unusual intervenes. In deciding whether a consequence is natural and probable, consider all the circumstances established by the evidence.

<Give if multiple potential causes.>

[There may be more than one cause of (injury/ _____ <insert other description>). An act causes (injury/ _____ <insert other description>), only if it is a substantial factor in causing the (injury/ _____ <insert other description>). A substantial factor is more than a trivial or remote factor. However, it does not have to be the only factor that causes the (injury/ _____ <insert other description>).]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

If causation is at issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on proximate cause. (People v. Bernhardt (1963) 222 Cal.App.2d 567, 590–591 [35 Cal.Rptr. 401]; People v. Cervantes (2001) 26 Cal.4th 860, 866–874 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 148, 29 P.3d 225].) The committee has addressed causation in those instructions where the issue is most likely to arise. If the particular facts of the case raise a causation issue and other instructions do not adequately cover the point, give this instruction.

If there is evidence of multiple potential causes, the court should also give the bracketed paragraph. (People v. Sanchez (2001) 26 Cal.4th 834, 845–849 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 129, 29 P.3d 209]; People v. Autry (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 351, 363 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 135].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Proximate Cause. People v. Cervantes (2001) 26 Cal.4th 860, 866–874 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 148, 29 P.3d 225]; People v. Roberts (1992) 2 Cal.4th 271, 315–322 [6 Cal.Rptr.2d 276, 826 P.2d 274].
- Substantial Factor. People v. Sanchez (2001) 26 Cal.4th 834, 845–849 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 129, 29 P.3d 209]; People v. Autry (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 351, 363 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 135].
- Independent Intervening Cause. People v. Cervantes (2001) 26 Cal.4th 860, 866–874 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 148, 29 P.3d 225].
- Causation Instructions. People v. Sanchez (2001) 26 Cal.4th 834, 845–849 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 129, 29 P.3d 209]; People v. Roberts (1992) 2 Cal.4th 271, 311–322 [6 Cal.Rptr.2d 276, 826 P.2d 274]; People v. Autry (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 351, 363 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 135].
- Instructional Duty. People v. Bernhardt (1963) 222 Cal.App.2d 567, 590–591 [35 Cal.Rptr. 401].
- Natural and Probable Consequences Defined. See People v. Prettyman (1996) 14 Cal.4th 248, 291 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 827, 926 P.2d 1013] (conc. & dis. opn. of Brown, J.).

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Elements, §§ 35–44.

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 93.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.02[1A][a] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.04 (Matthew Bender).

241–249. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

D. UNION OF ACT AND INTENT

250. Union of Act and Intent: General Intent

The crime[s] [or other allegation[s]] charged in this case require[s] proof of the union, or joint operation, of act and wrongful intent.

For you to find a person guilty of the crime[s] (in this case/ of _____ <insert name[s] of alleged offense[s] and count[s], e.g., battery, as charged in Count 1> [or to find the allegation[s] of _____ <insert name[s] of enhancement[s]> true]), that person must not only commit the prohibited act [or fail to do the required act], but must do so with wrongful intent. A person acts with wrongful intent when he or she intentionally does a prohibited act; however, it is not required that he or she intend to break the law. The act required is explained in the instruction for that crime [or allegation].

New January 2006; Revised June 2007, April 2008

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the union of act and general criminal intent. (People v. Jeffers (1996) 41 Cal.App.4th 917, 920–923 [49 Cal.Rptr.2d 86].) However, this instruction must not be used if the crime requires a specific mental state, such as knowledge or malice, even if the crime is classified as a general intent offense. In such cases, the court must give CALCRIM No. 251, Union of Act and Intent: Specific Intent or Mental State.

If the case involves both offenses requiring a specific intent or mental state and offenses that do not, the court may give CALCRIM No. 252, Union of Act and Intent: General and Specific Intent Together, in place of this instruction.

The court should specify for the jury which offenses require only a general criminal intent by inserting the names of the offenses and count numbers where indicated in the second paragraph of the instruction. (People v. Hill (1967) 67 Cal.2d 105, 118 [60 Cal.Rptr. 234, 429 P.2d 586].) If all the charged crimes and allegations involve general intent, the court need not provide a list in the blank provided in this instruction.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If the defendant is charged with aiding and abetting or conspiracy to commit a general-intent offense, the court must instruct on the specific intent required for aiding and abetting or conspiracy. (See People v. McCoy (2001) 25 Cal.4th 1111, 1117–1118 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 188, 24 P.3d 1210]; People v. Bernhardt, supra, 222 Cal.App.2d at pp. 586–587.)

If the defendant is also charged with a criminal negligence or strict liability offense, insert the name of the offense where indicated in the first sentence. The court may also give CALCRIM No. 253, Union of Act and Intent: Criminal Negligence, or CALCRIM No. 254, Union of Act and Intent: Strict-Liability Crime.

Defenses—Instructional Duty

"A person who commits a prohibited act 'through misfortune or by accident, when it appears that there was no evil design, intention or culpable negligence' has not committed a crime." (People v. Jeffers (1996) 41 Cal.App.4th 917, 922 [49 Cal.Rptr.2d 86] [quoting Pen. Code, § 26].) Similarly, an honest and reasonable mistake of fact may negate general criminal intent. (People v. Hernandez (1964) 61 Cal.2d 529, 535–536 [39 Cal.Rptr. 361, 393 P.2d 673].) If there is sufficient evidence of these or other defenses, such as unconsciousness, the court has a sua sponte duty to give the appropriate defense instructions. (See Defenses and Insanity, CALCRIM No. 3400 et seq.)

AUTHORITY

- Statutory Authority. Pen. Code, § 20; see also Evid. Code, §§ 665, 668.
- Instructional Requirements. People v. Hill (1967) 67 Cal.2d 105, 117 [60 Cal.Rptr. 234, 429 P.2d 586]; People v. Bernhardt (1963) 222 Cal.App.2d 567, 586–587 [35 Cal.Rptr. 401]; People v. Jeffers (1996) 41 Cal.App.4th 917, 920–923 [49 Cal.Rptr.2d 86].
- History of General-Intent Requirement. Morissette v. United States (1952) 342 U.S. 246 [72 S.Ct. 240, 96 L.Ed.2d 288]; see also People v. Garcia (2001) 25 Cal.4th 744, 754 [107 Cal.Rptr.2d 355, 23 P.3d 590].
- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Ibarra (2007) 156 Cal.App.4th 1174, 1189 [67 Cal.Rptr.3d 871].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Elements, §§ 1–5.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.03[2][e] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Challenges to Crimes, § 140.02[1], [2] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Sex Registration and Knowledge of Legal Duty

The offense of failure to register as a sex offender requires proof that the defendant actually knew of his or her duty to register. (People v. Garcia (2001) 25 Cal.4th 744, 754 [107 Cal.Rptr.2d 355, 23 P.3d 590].) For the charge of failure to register, it is error to give an instruction on general criminal intent that informs the jury that a person is "acting with general criminal intent, even though he may not know that his act or conduct is unlawful." (People v. Barker (2004) 34 Cal.4th 345, 360 [18 Cal.Rtpr.3d 260]; People v. Edgar (2002) 104 Cal.App.4th 210, 219 [127 Cal.Rptr.2d 662].) In such cases, the court should give CALCRIM No. 251, Union of Act and Intent: Specific Intent or Mental State, instead of this instruction.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

251. Union of Act and Intent: Specific Intent or Mental State

The crime[s] [(and/or) other allegation[s]] charged in this case require proof of the union, or joint operation, of act and wrongful intent.

For you to find a person guilty of the crime[s] (in this case/ of _____ <insert name[s] of alleged offense[s] and count[s], e.g., burglary, as charged in Count 1> [or to find the allegation[s] of _____ <insert name[s] of enhancement[s]> true]), that person must not only intentionally commit the prohibited act [or intentionally fail to do the required act], but must do so with a specific (intent/ [and/or] mental state). The act and the specific (intent/ [and/or] mental state) required are explained in the instruction for that crime [or allegation].

<Repeat next paragraph as needed>

[The specific (intent/ [and/or] mental state) required for the crime of _____ <insert name[s] of alleged offense[s] e.g., burglary> is _____ <insert specific intent>.]

New January 2006; Revised August 2006, June 2007, April 2008

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the union of act and specific intent or mental state. (People v. Alvarez (1996) 14 Cal.4th 155, 220 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 385, 926 P.2d 365].) This instruction must be given if the crime requires a specific mental state, such as knowledge or malice, even if the crime is classified as a general intent offense.

Do not give this instruction if the case involves only general-intent offenses that do not require any specific mental state. (See CALCRIM No. 250, Union of Act and Intent: General Intent.) If the case involves both offenses requiring a specific intent or mental state and offenses that do not, the court may give CALCRIM No. 252, Union of Act and Intent: General and Specific Intent Together, in place of this instruction.

The court should specify for the jury which offenses are specific-intent offenses by inserting the names of the offenses and count numbers where indicated in the second paragraph of the instruction. (See People v. Hill

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(1967) 67 Cal.2d 105, 118 [60 Cal.Rptr. 234, 429 P.2d 586].) The court may use the final optional paragraph if it deems it helpful, particularly in cases with multiple counts.

If the defendant is charged with aiding and abetting or conspiracy to commit a general-intent offense, the court must instruct on the specific intent required for aiding and abetting or conspiracy. (See People v. McCoy (2001) 25 Cal.4th 1111, 1117–1118 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 188, 24 P.3d 1210]; People v. Bernhardt (1963) 222 Cal.App.2d 567, 586–587 [35 Cal.Rptr. 401].)

This instruction does not apply to criminal negligence or strict liability. If the defendant is also charged with a criminal negligence or strict liability offense, the court should give the appropriate Union of Act and Intent instruction: CALCRIM No. 253, Union of Act and Intent: Criminal Negligence, or CALCRIM No. 254, Union of Act and Intent: Strict-Liability Crime.

Defenses—Instructional Duty

Evidence of voluntary intoxication or mental impairment may be admitted to show that the defendant did not form the required mental state. (See People v. Ricardi (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1427, 1432 [12 Cal.Rptr.2d 364].) The court has no sua sponte duty to instruct on these defenses; however, the trial court must give these instructions on request if supported by the evidence. (People v. Saille (1991) 54 Cal.3d 1103, 1119 [2 Cal.Rptr.2d 364, 820 P.2d 588]; see Defenses and Insanity, CALCRIM No. 3400 et seq.)

AUTHORITY

- Statutory Authority. Pen. Code, § 20; see also Evid. Code, §§ 665, 668.
- Instructional Requirements. People v. Alvarez (1996) 14 Cal.4th 155, 220 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 385, 926 P.2d 365]; People v. Ford (1964) 60 Cal.2d 772, 792–793 [36 Cal.Rptr. 620, 388 P.2d 892]; People v. Turner (1971) 22 Cal.App.3d 174, 184 [99 Cal.Rptr. 186]; People v. Hill (1967) 67 Cal.2d 105, 117 [60 Cal.Rptr. 234, 429 P.2d 586].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Elements, §§ 1–6.

3 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 73, Defenses and Justifications, § 73.03 (Matthew Bender).

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.03[2][e] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.02[1], [3] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

252. Union of Act and Intent: General and Specific Intent Together

The crime[s] [(and/or) other allegation[s]] charged in Count[s] _____ require[s] proof of the union, or joint operation, of act and wrongful intent.

The following crime[s] [and allegation[s]] require[s] general criminal intent: _____ *<insert name[s] of alleged offense[s] and enhancement[s] and count[s], e.g., battery, as charged in Count 1>. For you to find a person guilty of (this/these) crime[s] [or to find the allegation[s] true], that person must not only commit the prohibited act [or fail to do the required act], but must do so with wrongful intent. A person acts with wrongful intent when he or she intentionally does a prohibited act, however, it is not required that he or she intend to break the law. The act required is explained in the instruction for that crime [or allegation].

The following crime[s] [and allegation[s]] require[s] a specific intent or mental state: _____ <insert name[s] of alleged offense[s] and count[s], e.g., burglary, as charged in Count 1> _____ *<insert name[s] of enhancement[s]>. For you to find a person guilty of (this/these) crimes [or to find the allegation[s] true], that person must not only intentionally commit the prohibited act [or intentionally fail to do the required act], but must do so with a specific (intent/ [and/or] mental state). The act and the specific (intent/ [and/or] mental state) required are explained in the instruction for that crime [or allegation].

<Repeat next paragraph as needed>

[The specific (intent/ [and/or] mental state) required for the crime of _____ <insert name[s] of alleged offense[s] e.g., burglary> is _____ <insert specific intent>.]

New January 2006; Revised June 2007, April 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the joint union of act and intent. (People v. Alvarez (1996) 14 Cal.4th 155, 220 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 385,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

926 P.2d 365]; People v. Ford (1964) 60 Cal.2d 772, 792–793 [36 Cal.Rptr. 620, 388 P.2d 892]; People v. Jeffers (1996) 41 Cal.App.4th 917, 920–923 [49 Cal.Rptr.2d 86].) The court may give this instruction in cases involving both offenses requiring a specific intent or mental state and offenses that do not, rather than giving both CALCRIM No. 250 and CALCRIM No. 251.

Do not give this instruction if the case involves only offenses requiring a specific intent or mental state or involves only offenses that do not. (See CALCRIM No. 250, Union of Act and Intent: General Intent, and CALCRIM No. 251, Union of Act and Intent: Specific Intent or Mental State.)

The court should specify for the jury which offenses require general criminal intent and which require a specific intent or mental state by inserting the names of the offenses where indicated in the instruction. (See People v. Hill (1967) 67 Cal.2d 105, 118 [60 Cal.Rptr. 234, 429 P.2d 586].) If the crime requires a specific mental state, such as knowledge or malice, the court must insert the name of the offense in the third paragraph, explaining the mental state requirement, even if the crime is classified as a general intent offense.

If the defendant is charged with aiding and abetting or conspiracy to commit a general-intent offense, the court must instruct on the specific intent required for aiding and abetting or conspiracy. (See People v. McCoy (2001) 25 Cal.4th 1111, 1117–1118 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 188, 24 P.3d 1210]; People v. Bernhardt (1963) 222 Cal.App.2d 567, 586–587 [35 Cal.Rptr. 401].)

If the defendant is also charged with a criminal negligence or strict-liability offense, insert the name of the offense where indicated in the first sentence. The court may also give CALCRIM No. 253, Union of Act and Intent: Criminal Negligence, or CALCRIM No. 254, Union of Act and Intent: Strict-Liability Crime.

Defenses—Instructional Duty

Evidence of voluntary intoxication or mental impairment may be admitted to show that the defendant did not form the required mental state. (See People v. Ricardi (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1427, 1432 [12 Cal.Rptr.2d 364].) The court has no sua sponte duty to instruct on these defenses; however, the trial court must give these instructions on request if supported by the evidence. (People v. Saille (1991) 54 Cal.3d 1103, 1119 [2 Cal.Rptr.2d 364, 820 P.2d 588]; see Defenses and Insanity, CALCRIM No. 3400 et seq.)

AUTHORITY

- Statutory Authority. Pen. Code, § 20; see also Evid. Code, §§ 665, 668.
- Instructional Requirements. People v. Hill (1967) 67 Cal.2d 105, 117

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[60 Cal.Rptr. 234, 429 P.2d 586]; People v. Ford (1964) 60 Cal.2d 772, 792–793 [36 Cal.Rptr. 620, 388 P.2d 892]; People v. Jeffers (1996) 41 Cal.App.4th 917, 920–923 [49 Cal.Rptr.2d 86].

- History of General-Intent Requirement. Morissette v. United States (1952) 342 U.S. 246 [72 S.Ct. 240, 96 L.Ed.2d 288]; see also People v. Garcia (2001) 25 Cal.4th 744, 754 [107 Cal.Rptr.2d 355, 23 P.3d 590].
- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Ibarra (2007) 156 Cal.App.4th 1174, 1189–1190 [67 Cal.Rptr.3d 871].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Elements, §§ 1–6.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.03[2][e] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.02[1]–[3] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

See the Bench Notes and Related Issues sections of CALCRIM No. 250, Union of Act and Intent: General Intent, and CALCRIM No. 251, Union of Act and Intent: Specific Intent or Mental State.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

253. Union of Act and Intent: Criminal Negligence

For you to find a person guilty of the crime[s] of _____ <insert name[s] of alleged offense[s]> [or to find the allegation[s] of _____ <insert name[s] of enhancement[s]> true], a person must do an act [or fail to do an act] with (criminal/gross) negligence. (Criminal/Gross) negligence is defined in the instructions on that crime.

New January 2006; Revised June 2007

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

This instruction is provided for the court to use when instructing on an offense for which criminal or gross negligence is an element. Do not give this instruction if only general or specific-intent offenses are presented to the jury. (People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 110 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].) Although no case has held that the court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction, the committee recommends that the instruction be given, if applicable, as a matter of caution.

The court must specify for the jury which offenses require criminal negligence by inserting the names of the offenses where indicated in the instruction. (See People v. Hill (1967) 67 Cal.2d 105, 118 [60 Cal.Rptr. 234, 429 P.2d 586].)

The court should select either "criminal" or "gross" based on the words used in the instruction on the elements of the underlying offense.

AUTHORITY

- Statutory Authority. Pen. Code, § 20; see also Evid. Code, §§ 665, 668.
- Criminal or Gross Negligence Defined. People v. Penny (1955) 44 Cal.2d 861, 879 [285 P.2d 926]; People v. Rodriguez (1960) 186 Cal.App.2d 433, 440 [8 Cal.Rptr. 863].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Elements, § 20.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.02[1], [4] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

254. Union of Act and Intent: Strict-Liability Crime

For you to find a person guilty of the crime[s] of _____ <insert name[s] of alleged offense[s]> [or to find the allegation[s] of _____ <insert name[s] of enhancement[s]> true], a person only needs to do the prohibited act [or to fail to do the required act]. The People do not need to prove any intent or other mental state.

New January 2006; Revised June 2007

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

This instruction is provided for the court to use when instructing on a strict-liability offense. The committee does not believe that the instruction is required. However, the instruction may be useful when the case also involves general-intent, specific-intent, or criminal negligence offenses. Do not give this instruction unless the court is completely certain that the offense is a strict-liability offense. For a discussion of the rarity of strict-liability offenses in modern criminal law, see People v. Garcia (2001) 25 Cal.4th 744, 754 [107 Cal.Rptr.2d 355, 23 P.3d 590], and People v. Simon (1995) 9 Cal.4th 493, 519–522 [37 Cal.Rptr.2d 278, 886 P.2d 1271].

The court must specify for the jury which offenses are strict-liability offenses by inserting the names of the offenses where indicated in the instruction. (See People v. Hill (1967) 67 Cal.2d 105, 118 [60 Cal.Rptr. 234, 429 P.2d 586].)

AUTHORITY

- Strict-Liability Offenses Discussed. People v. Garcia (2001) 25 Cal.4th 744, 754 [107 Cal.Rptr.2d 355, 23 P.3d 590]; People v. Simon (1995) 9 Cal.4th 493, 519–522 [37 Cal.Rptr.2d 278, 886 P.2d 1271].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Elements, §§ 17–19.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.02[5] (Matthew Bender).

255–299. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

EVIDENCE

A. GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

300. All Available Evidence
301. Single Witness's Testimony
302. Evaluating Conflicting Evidence
303. Limited Purpose Evidence in General
304. Multiple Defendants: Limited Admissibility of Evidence
305. Multiple Defendants: Limited Admissibility of Defendant's Statement
306. Untimely Disclosure of Evidence
307–314. Reserved for Future Use

B. WITNESSES

(i) Regarding Specific Testimony

315. Eyewitness Identification
316. Additional Instructions on Witness Credibility—Other Conduct
317. Former Testimony of Unavailable Witness
318. Prior Statements as Evidence
319. Prior Statements of Unavailable Witness
320. Exercise of Privilege by Witness
321–329. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Particular Types of Witnesses

330. Testimony of Child 10 Years of Age or Younger
331. Testimony of Person With Developmental, Cognitive, or Mental Disability
332. Expert Witness Testimony
333. Opinion Testimony of Lay Witness
334. Accomplice Testimony Must Be Corroborated: Dispute Whether Witness Is Accomplice
335. Accomplice Testimony: No Dispute Whether Witness Is Accomplice
336. In-Custody Informant
337. Witness in Custody or Physically Restrained
338–349. Reserved for Future Use

C. CHARACTER EVIDENCE

350. Character of Defendant

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

351. Cross-Examination of Character Witness
352–354. Reserved for Future Use

D. DEFENDANT'S TESTIMONY AND STATEMENTS

355. Defendant's Right Not to Testify
356. Miranda-Defective Statements
357. Adoptive Admissions
358. Evidence of Defendant's Statements
359. Corpus Delicti: Independent Evidence of a Charged Crime
360. Statements to an Expert
361. Failure to Explain or Deny Adverse Testimony
362. Consciousness of Guilt: False Statements
363–369. Reserved for Future Use

E. PARTICULAR TYPES OF EVIDENCE

370. Motive
371. Consciousness of Guilt: Suppression and Fabrication of Evidence
372. Defendant's Flight
373. Other Perpetrator
374. Dog Tracking Evidence
375. Evidence of Uncharged Offense to Prove Identity, Intent, Common Plan, etc.
376. Possession of Recently Stolen Property as Evidence of a Crime
377–399. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

A. GENERAL INSTRUCTIONS

300. All Available Evidence

Neither side is required to call all witnesses who may have information about the case or to produce all physical evidence that might be relevant.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court is not required to give this instruction sua sponte; however, it should be given on request. (See generally Pen. Code, §§ 1093(f), 1127; People v. Pitts (1990) 223 Cal.App.3d 606, 880, 881 [273 Cal.Rptr. 757].)

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. People v. Simms (1970) 10 Cal.App.3d 299, 313 [89 Cal.Rptr. 1].
- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Ibarra (2007) 156 Cal.App.4th 1174, 1189–1190 [67 Cal.Rptr.3d 871].

Secondary Sources

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 82, Witnesses, Ch. 83, Evidence (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Willful Suppression of or Failure to Obtain Evidence

Willful suppression of evidence by the government constitutes a denial of a fair trial and of due process. (People v. Noisey (1968) 265 Cal.App.2d 543, 549–550 [71 Cal.Rptr. 339].) Likewise, willful failure by investigating officers to obtain evidence that would clear a defendant would amount to a denial of due process of law. (Ibid.) However, failure to look for evidence is different from suppressing known evidence and "the mere fact that investigating officers did not pursue every possible means of investigation of crime does not, standing alone, constitute denial of due process or suppression of evidence." (Ibid.; see also People v. Tuthill (1947) 31 Cal.2d 92, 97–98 [187 P.2d 16], overruled on other grounds as noted by People v. Balderas (1985) 41 Cal.3d 144, 182 [222 Cal.Rptr. 184, 711 P.2d 480]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

["[t]here is no compulsion on the prosecution to call any particular witness or to make any particular tests so long as there is fairly presented to the court the material evidence bearing upon the charge for which the defendant is on trial."].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

301. Single Witness's Testimony

[Except for the testimony of _____ <insert witness's name>, which requires supporting evidence,] (the/The) testimony of only one witness can prove any fact. Before you conclude that the testimony of one witness proves a fact, you should carefully review all the evidence.

New January 2006; Revised April 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction on this issue in every case. (People v. Rincon-Pineda (1975) 14 Cal.3d 864, 884–885 [123 Cal.Rptr. 119, 538 P.2d 247].) Insert the bracketed language if the testimony of an accomplice or other witness requires corroboration. (People v. Chavez (1985) 39 Cal.3d 823, 831–832 [218 Cal.Rptr. 49, 705 P.2d 372].)

The following constitutional provisions and statutes require evidence that corroborates a witness's testimony: Cal. Const., art. I, § 18 [treason]; Pen. Code, §§ 1111 [accomplice testimony]; 653f [solicitation of felony]; 118 [perjury]; 1108 [abortion and seduction of minor]; 532 [obtaining property by false pretenses].

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. Evid. Code, § 411; People v. Rincon-Pineda (1975) 14 Cal.3d 864, 885 [123 Cal.Rptr. 119, 538 P.2d 247].
- Corroboration Required. People v. Chavez (1985) 39 Cal.3d 823, 831–832 [218 Cal.Rptr. 49, 705 P.2d 372].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Presentation, § 111.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.03[2][b] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

RELATED ISSUES

Uncorroborated Testimony of Defendant

The cautionary admonition regarding a single witness's testimony applies with equal force to uncorroborated testimony by a defendant. (People v. Turner (1990) 50 Cal.3d 668, 696, fn. 14 [268 Cal.Rptr. 706, 789 P.2d 887].)

Uncorroborated Testimony in Sex Offense Cases

In a prosecution for forcible rape, an instruction that the testimony of a single witness is sufficient may be given in conjunction with an instruction that there is no legal corroboration requirement in a sex offense case. Both instructions correctly state the law and because each focuses on a different legal point, there is no implication that the victim's testimony is more credible than the defendant's testimony. (People v. Gammage (1992) 2 Cal.4th 693, 700–702 [7 Cal.Rptr.2d 541, 828 P.2d 682] [resolving split of authority on whether the two instructions can be given together].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

302. Evaluating Conflicting Evidence

If you determine there is a conflict in the evidence, you must decide what evidence, if any, to believe. Do not simply count the number of witnesses who agree or disagree on a point and accept the testimony of the greater number of witnesses. On the other hand, do not disregard the testimony of any witness without a reason or because of prejudice or a desire to favor one side or the other. What is important is whether the testimony or any other evidence convinces you, not just the number of witnesses who testify about a certain point.

New January 2006; Revised June 2007

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on weighing contradictory evidence unless corroborating evidence is required. (People v. Rincon-Pineda (1975) 14 Cal.3d 864, 884 [123 Cal.Rptr. 119, 538 P.2d 247].)

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. People v. Rincon-Pineda (1975) 14 Cal.3d 864, 884 [123 Cal.Rptr. 119, 538 P.2d 247].
- This Instruction is Upheld. People v. Reyes (2007) 151 Cal.App.4th 1491, 1497 [60 Cal.Rptr.3d 777]; People v. Ibarra (2007) 156 Cal.App.4th 1174, 1190 [67 Cal.Rptr.3d 871].

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Criminal Trial, § 649.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.03[2][b] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

303. Limited Purpose Evidence in General

During the trial, certain evidence was admitted for a limited purpose. You may consider that evidence only for that purpose and for no other.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has no sua sponte duty to give an admonition limiting consideration of evidence; however, it must be given on request. (Evid. Code, § 355; People v. Simms (1970) 10 Cal.App.3d 299, 311 [89 Cal.Rptr. 1].)

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. Evid. Code, § 355; People v. Simms (1970) 10 Cal.App.3d 299, 311 [89 Cal.Rptr. 1].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Circumstantial Evidence, §§ 30, 31, 35.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 83, Evidence, § 83.04[3], Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.02[2][b] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Timing of Instruction

The court has discretion to give limiting instructions at the time the evidence is admitted or at the close of evidence. (People v. Dennis (1998) 17 Cal.4th 468, 533–534 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 680, 950 P.2d 1035] [giving limiting instruction regarding use of defendant's statements to psychiatrist at close of all evidence did not result in error].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

304. Multiple Defendants: Limited Admissibility of Evidence

I instructed you during the trial that certain evidence was admitted only against [a] certain defendant[s]. You must not consider that evidence against any other defendant.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has no sua sponte duty to give an instruction limiting evidence to one defendant; however, it must be given on request. (Evid. Code, § 355; People v. Miranda (1987) 44 Cal.3d 57, 83 [241 Cal.Rptr. 594, 744 P.2d 1127], disapproved of on other grounds in People v. Marshall (1990) 50 Cal.3d 907 [269 Cal.Rptr. 269, 790 P.2d 676].)

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. Evid. Code, § 355.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Circumstantial Evidence, §§ 30, 31, 35.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 83, Evidence, § 83.04[3] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section to CALCRIM No. 303, Limited Purpose Evidence in General.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

305. Multiple Defendants: Limited Admissibility of Defendant's Statement

---

You have heard evidence that defendant _____ <insert defendant's name> made a statement (out of court/before trial). You may consider that evidence only against (him/her), not against any other defendant.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has no sua sponte duty to give an instruction on defendant's statements; however, it must be given on request. (Evid. Code, § 355; People v. Simms (1970) 10 Cal.App.3d 299, 311 [89 Cal.Rptr. 1].)

If the defendant made the statement out of court, give that phrase in the parenthetical. If the statement was made in a previous proceeding, give the phrase "before trial." (See People v. Perry (1972) 7 Cal.3d 756, 787–788 [103 Cal.Rptr. 161, 499 P.2d 129].)

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. Evid. Code, § 355.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Circumstantial Evidence, §§ 30, 31, 35.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.02[2][b] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section to CALCRIM No. 303, Limited Purpose Evidence in General.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

306. Untimely Disclosure of Evidence

Both the People and the defense must disclose their evidence to the other side before trial, within the time limits set by law. Failure to follow this rule may deny the other side the chance to produce all relevant evidence, to counter opposing evidence, or to receive a fair trial.

An attorney for the (People/defense) failed to disclose: _____ <describe evidence that was not disclosed> [within the legal time period].

In evaluating the weight and significance of that evidence, you may consider the effect, if any, of that late disclosure.

[However, the fact that the defendant's attorney failed to disclose evidence [within the legal time period] is not evidence that the defendant committed a crime.]

<Consider for multiple defendant cases>

[You must not consider the fact that an attorney for defendant _____ <insert defendant's name> failed to disclose evidence when you decide the charges against defendant[s] _____ <insert names of other defendant[s]>.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

While the court has discretion to give an instruction on untimely disclosure of evidence (Pen. Code, § 1054.5(b)), in view of criticism of similar instructions (see People v. Bell (2004) 118 Cal.App.4th 249, 254–257 [12 Cal.Rptr.3d 808]; People v. Cabral (2004) 121 Cal.App.4th 748, 752–753 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 456]; People v. Saucedo (2004) 121 Cal.App.4th 937, 942–943 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 692]), the court should consider whether giving this instruction could jeopardize the defendant's right to a fair trial if the jury were to attribute a defense attorney's malfeasance to the defendant.

This instruction addresses a failure to comply with Penal Code requirements. If the court imposes additional sanctions, it may choose to instruct the jury accordingly. (See People v. Zamora (1980) 28 Cal.3d 88, 103 [167 Cal.Rptr.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

573, 615 P.2d 1361]; People v. Edwards (1993) 17 Cal.App.4th 1248, 1265 [22 Cal.Rptr.2d 3].) A court may make any order necessary to enforce the disclosure provisions, including, but not limited to, orders for immediate disclosure, contempt proceedings, delaying or prohibiting the testimony of a witness or the presentation of real evidence, continuance of the matter, or any other lawful order. (Pen. Code, § 1054.5(b).)

If the court concludes that one defendant in a multidefendant case failed to comply with the statute, the last bracketed paragraph should be given.

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. Pen. Code, § 1054.5(b); People v. Bell (2004) 118 Cal.App.4th 249, 254–257 [12 Cal.Rptr.3d 808]; People v. Cabral (2004) 121 Cal.App.4th 748, 752–753 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 456]; People v. Saucedo (2004) 121 Cal.App.4th 937, 942–943 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 692].

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Criminal Trial, § 79 et seq.

3 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 70, Discovery and Investigation, § 70.09[1] (Matthew Bender).

307–314. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

B. WITNESSES

(i) Regarding Specific Testimony

315. Eyewitness Identification

You have heard eyewitness testimony identifying the defendant. As with any other witness, you must decide whether an eyewitness gave truthful and accurate testimony.

In evaluating identification testimony, consider the following questions:

- Did the witness know or have contact with the defendant before the event?
- How well could the witness see the perpetrator?
- What were the circumstances affecting the witness's ability to observe, such as lighting, weather conditions, obstructions, distance, [and] duration of observation[, and _____ <insert any other relevant circumstances>]?
- How closely was the witness paying attention?
- Was the witness under stress when he or she made the observation?
- Did the witness give a description and how does that description compare to the defendant?
- How much time passed between the event and the time when the witness identified the defendant?
- Was the witness asked to pick the perpetrator out of a group?
- Did the witness ever fail to identify the defendant?
- Did the witness ever change his or her mind about the identification?
- How certain was the witness when he or she made an identification?
- Are the witness and the defendant of different races?

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- [Was the witness able to identify other participants in the crime?]
- [Was the witness able to identify the defendant in a photographic or physical lineup?]
- [_____ <insert other relevant factors raised by the evidence>.]
- Were there any other circumstances affecting the witness's ability to make an accurate identification?

The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that it was the defendant who committed the crime. If the People have not met this burden, you must find that the defendant not guilty.

New January 2006; Revised June 2007

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has no sua sponte duty to give an instruction on eyewitness testimony. (People v. Richardson (1978) 83 Cal.App.3d 853, 863 [148 Cal.Rptr. 120], disapproved on other grounds by People v. Saddler (1979) 24 Cal.3d 671, 682 [156 Cal.Rptr. 871, 597 P.2d 130].) An instruction relating eyewitness identification to reasonable doubt, including any relevant "pinpoint" factors, must be given by the trial court on request "[w]hen an eyewitness identification of the defendant is a key element of the prosecution's case but is not substantially corroborated by evidence giving it independent reliability." (People v. Wright (1988) 45 Cal.3d 1126, 1143–1144 [248 Cal.Rptr. 600, 755 P.2d 1049], quoting People v. McDonald (1984) 37 Cal.3d 351, 377 [208 Cal.Rptr. 236, 690 P.2d 709], overruled on other grounds in People v. Mendoza (2000) 23 Cal.4th 896, 914 [98 Cal.Rptr.2d 431, 4 P.3d 265]; People v. Fudge (1994) 7 Cal.4th 1075, 1110 [31 Cal.Rptr.2d 321, 875 P.2d 36]; People v. Palmer (1984) 154 Cal.App.3d 79, 89 [203 Cal.Rptr. 474] [error to refuse defendant's requested instruction on eyewitness testimony].)

AUTHORITY

- Factors. People v. Wright (1988) 45 Cal.3d 1126, 1139, fn. 9, 1141 [248 Cal.Rptr. 600, 755 P.2d 1049]; People v. West (1983) 139 Cal.App.3d 606, 609 [189 Cal.Rptr. 36].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Reasonable Doubt. People v. Hall (1980) 28 Cal.3d 143, 159–160 [167 Cal.Rptr. 844, 616 P.2d 826], overruled on other grounds in People v. Newman (1999) 21 Cal.4th 413, 422, fn. 6 [87 Cal.Rptr.2d 474, 981 P.2d 98].
- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Golde (2008) 163 Cal.App.4th 101, 119 [77 Cal.Rptr.3d 120].

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Criminal Trial, § 640.

2 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 31, Eyewitness Identification, §§ 31.01–31.07 (Matthew Bender).

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.03[2][b] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

The court should give the unbracketed factors, if requested, in every case in which identity is disputed. The bracketed factors should be given if requested and factually appropriate. A blank space has also been provided for the court to include any factual circumstances relevant to eyewitness identification that have not been addressed in the preceding list of factors.

In People v. Wright (1988) 45 Cal.3d 1126, 1139 [248 Cal.Rptr. 600, 755 P.2d 1049], the court suggested that the trial court select factors from an approved list of eyewitness identification factors and then give counsel the opportunity to supplement with any additional relevant factors. (Id. at pp. 1126, 1143.) Additional "pinpoint" factors should be neutrally written, brief, and nonargumentative. (Ibid.; see also People v. Gaglione (1994) 26 Cal.App.4th 1291, 1302–1303 [32 Cal.Rptr.2d 169], overruled on other grounds in People v. Martinez (1995) 11 Cal.4th 434, 452 [45 Cal.Rptr.2d 903, 908 P.2d 1037].)

RELATED ISSUES

Unreliability of Eyewitness Identification

An instruction to view eyewitness testimony with caution and that "mistaken identification is not uncommon" should not be given because it improperly singles out this testimony as suspect. (People v. Wright (1988) 45 Cal.3d 1126, 1153 [248 Cal.Rptr. 600, 755 P.2d 1049] [special cautionary instruction unnecessary as duplicative of required eyewitness "factors" instruction]; see also People v. Benson (1990) 52 Cal.3d 754, 805 fn. 12 [276 Cal.Rptr. 827, 802 P.2d 330].) If a defendant wants to present information on the unreliability of eyewitness identifications under a particular set of circumstances, he or she must use means other than a jury instruction, such as expert testimony. (People v. Wright, supra, 45 Cal.3d at pp. 1153–1154.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

316. Additional Instructions on Witness Credibility—Other Conduct

<Alternative A—felony conviction>

[If you find that a witness has been convicted of a felony, you may consider that fact [only] in evaluating the credibility of the witness's testimony. The fact of a conviction does not necessarily destroy or impair a witness's credibility. It is up to you to decide the weight of that fact and whether that fact makes the witness less believable.]

<Alternative B—prior criminal conduct with or without conviction>

[If you find that a witness has committed a crime or other misconduct, you may consider that fact [only] in evaluating the credibility of the witness's testimony. The fact that a witness may have committed a crime or other misconduct does not necessarily destroy or impair a witness's credibility. It is up to you to decide the weight of that fact and whether that fact makes the witness less believable.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

There is no sua sponte duty to give this instruction; however, the instruction must be given on request. (People v. Kendrick (1989) 211 Cal.App.3d 1273, 1278 [260 Cal.Rptr. 27]; People v. Hernandez (2004) 33 Cal.4th 1040, 1051–1052 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 880, 94 P.3d 1080] [overruling People v. Mayfield (1972) 23 Cal.App.3d 236 [100 Cal.Rptr. 104], which had found a sua sponte duty to give limiting instruction on felony conviction admitted for impeachment].)

If a felony conviction or other misconduct has been admitted only on the issue of credibility, give the bracketed word "only."

Do not give this instruction if a conviction also has been admitted to prove an element of a charged offense. (People v. Dewberry (1959) 51 Cal.2d 548, 553–554 [334 P.2d 852].)

It is unclear whether this instruction is appropriate if the evidence also has been admitted for a purpose other than to prove an element of the offense (as discussed above). For example, the evidence may have been admitted under Evidence Code section 1108. In such cases, if the court does give this instruction, the court may omit the bracketed "only."

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Limiting Instruction Must Be Given on Request. People v. Kendrick (1989) 211 Cal.App.3d 1273, 1278 [260 Cal.Rptr. 27]; People v. Hernandez (2004) 33 Cal.4th 1040, 1051–1052 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 880, 94 P.3d 1080].
- Felony Conviction Admissible for Impeachment. Evid. Code, § 788.
- Standard for Admitting Felony Conviction. People v. Castro (1985) 38 Cal.3d 301, 306–319 [211 Cal.Rptr. 719, 696 P.2d 111]; People v. Beagle (1972) 6 Cal.3d 441, 451–452 [99 Cal.Rptr. 313, 492 P.2d 1].
- Misdemeanor Conduct Admissible for Impeachment. People v. Wheeler (1992) 4 Cal.4th 284, 295–296 [14 Cal.Rptr.2d 418, 841 P.2d 938].
- Record Must Demonstrate Court Conducted Evid. Code, § 352 Weighing. People v. Navarez (1985) 169 Cal.App.3d 936, 950 [215 Cal.Rptr. 519].
- Modifications to this Instruction Created Error. People v. Gray (2007) 158 Cal.App.4th 635, 640–641 [69 Cal.Rptr.3d 876].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Presentation, §§ 292–314.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 82, Witnesses, § 82.22[3][e], Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, §§ 85.02[2][b], 85.03[2][b] (Matthew Bender).

5 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 105, Executive Clemency, § 105.04[3] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

317. Former Testimony of Unavailable Witness

The testimony that _____ <insert name of witness> has given under oath (was/will be) (read to/played for) you because (he/she) is not available. You must evaluate this testimony by the same standards that you apply to a witness who testified here in court.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has discretion to give an instruction on the weight a jury should give to former testimony of an unavailable witness. (People v. Wharton (1991) 53 Cal.3d 522, 598–599 [280 Cal.Rptr. 631, 809 P.2d 290].) No case holds that a trial court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the use of former testimony of an unavailable witness.

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. People v. Wharton (1991) 53 Cal.3d 522, 598–599 [280 Cal.Rptr. 631, 809 P.2d 290].
- Admissibility of Former Testimony. Evid. Code, § 1291.
- Admissibility of Hearsay Evidence or Deposition Testimony Generally. Pen. Code, § 686(3).
- Former Testimony Defined. Evid. Code, § 1290.
- Unavailable Witness Defined. Evid. Code, § 240.
- Admissibility of Former Testimony as Substitute for Live Testimony. People v. Reed (1996) 13 Cal.4th 217, 225–226 [52 Cal.Rptr.2d 106, 914 P.2d 184].

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Criminal Trial, § 539.

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Hearsay, §§ 18 et seq., 264 et seq.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 83, Evidence, § 83.13[2], [3][o] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

318. Prior Statements as Evidence

You have heard evidence of [a] statement[s] that a witness made before the trial. If you decide that the witness made (that/those) statement[s], you may use (that/those) statement[s] in two ways:

1. To evaluate whether the witness's testimony in court is believable;

AND

2. As evidence that the information in (that/those) earlier statement[s] is true.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has no sua sponte duty to give this instruction. (People v. Griffin (1988) 46 Cal.3d 1011, 1026 [251 Cal.Rptr. 643, 761 P.2d 103].) Use this instruction when a testifying witness has been confronted with a prior inconsistent statement.

If prior testimony of an unavailable witness was impeached with a prior inconsistent statement, use CALCRIM No. 319, Prior Statements of Unavailable Witness. (People v. Williams (1976) 16 Cal.3d 663, 668–669 [128 Cal.Rptr. 888, 547 P.2d 1000].) If the prior statements were obtained by a peace officer in violation of Miranda, give CALCRIM No. 356, Miranda-Defective Statements.

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. California v. Green (1970) 399 U.S. 149, 158 [90 S.Ct. 1930, 26 L.Ed.2d 489]; People v. Cannady (1972) 8 Cal.3d 379, 385–386 [105 Cal.Rptr. 129, 503 P.2d 585]; see Evid. Code, §§ 770, 791, 1235, 1236.
- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Golde (2008) 163 Cal.App.4th 101, 120 [77 Cal.Rptr.3d 120].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Hearsay, § 157.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 82,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Witnesses, § 82.22[3][b], Ch. 83, Evidence, § 83.13[3][e], [f], Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.03[2][b] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

319. Prior Statements of Unavailable Witness

_____ <Insert name of unavailable witness> did not testify in this trial, but (his/her) testimony, taken at another time, was (read/played) for you. In addition to this testimony, you have heard evidence that _____ <insert name of unavailable witness> made (another/other) statement[s]. [I am referring to the statement[s] about which _____ <insert name[s]> testified.]

If you conclude that _____ <insert name of unavailable witness> made (that/those) other statement[s], you may only consider (it/them) in a limited way. You may only use (it/them) in deciding whether to believe the testimony of _____ <insert name of unavailable witness> that was (read/played) here at trial. You may not use (that/those) other statement[s] as proof that the information contained in (it/them) is true, nor may you use (it/them) for any other reason.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has no sua sponte duty to give this instruction. (People v. Griffin (1988) 46 Cal.3d 1011, 1026 [251 Cal.Rptr. 643, 761 P.2d 103].)

Give this instruction when prior inconsistent statements of an unavailable witness were admitted for impeachment purposes. (People v. Williams (1976) 16 Cal.3d 663, 668–669 [128 Cal.Rptr. 888, 547 P.2d 1000].) If a testifying witness was confronted with prior inconsistent statements, give CALCRIM No. 318, Prior Statements as Evidence. If the prior statements were obtained by a peace officer in violation of Miranda, give CALCRIM No. 356, Miranda-Defective Statements.

Evidence Code section 1294 creates an exception to the impeachment-only rule in Williams for the use of prior inconsistent statements given as testimony in a preliminary hearing or prior proceeding in the same criminal matter.

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. People v. Williams (1976) 16 Cal.3d 663, 668–669 [128 Cal.Rptr. 888, 547 P.2d 1000]; see Evid. Code, §§ 145,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

240, 770, 791, 1235, 1236, 1291.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Hearsay, § 157.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 83, Evidence, § 83.13[3][e] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

320. Exercise of Privilege by Witness

A witness may refuse to answer questions that call for privileged information. Under the law, _____ <insert name of witness> was justified in refusing to answer certain questions. Do not consider (his/her) refusal to answer for any reason at all and do not guess what (his/her) answer would have been.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has no sua sponte duty to give an instruction on the exercise of privilege by witnesses; however, it must be given on request. (Evid. Code, § 913(b); see also People v. Mincey (1992) 2 Cal.4th 408, 440–441 [6 Cal.Rptr.2d 822, 827 P.2d 388].)

Related Instructions

See CALCRIM No. 355, Defendant's Right Not to Testify.

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. Evid. Code, § 913(b); People v. Mincey (1992) 2 Cal.4th 408, 440–441 [6 Cal.Rptr.2d 822, 827 P.2d 388].

Secondary Sources

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 80, Defendant's Trial Rights, § 80.06, Ch. 83, Evidence, § 83.09[2], [17], Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.03[2][b] (Matthew Bender).

321–329. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(ii) Particular Types of Witnesses

330. Testimony of Child 10 Years of Age or Younger

You have heard testimony from a child who is age 10 or younger. As with any other witness, you must decide whether the child gave truthful and accurate testimony.

In evaluating the child's testimony, you should consider all of the factors surrounding that testimony, including the child's age and level of cognitive development.

When you evaluate the child's cognitive development, consider the child's ability to perceive, understand, remember, and communicate.

While a child and an adult witness may behave differently, that difference does not mean that one is any more or less believable than the other. You should not discount or distrust the testimony of a witness just because he or she is a child.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has no sua sponte duty to give an instruction on child witnesses; however, it must be given on request. (Pen. Code, § 1127f.)

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. Pen. Code, § 1127f.

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Presentation, § 88(3).

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 82, Witnesses, §§ 82.05[1], [2][a], [b], 82.07, 82.22[3][c], Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.03[2][b] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Due Process/Equal Protection Challenges

"The instruction provides sound and rational guidance to the jury in assessing the credibility of a class of witnesses as to whom 'traditional assumptions'

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

may previously have biased the fact-finding process." (People v. Gilbert (1992) 5 Cal.App.4th 1372, 1392–1394 [7 Cal.Rptr.2d 660] [instructing jury to make credibility determinations based on child's age, level of cognitive development, and other factors surrounding child's testimony does not inflate testimony of child witness and thereby lessen prosecutor's burden of proof and deny defendant due process and equal protection].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

331. Testimony of Person With Developmental, Cognitive, or Mental Disability

In evaluating the testimony of a person with a (developmental disability[,]/ [or] [a] (cognitive[,]/ [or] mental[,]/ [or] communication) impairment), consider all of the factors surrounding that person's testimony, including his or her level of cognitive development.

Even though a person with a (developmental disability[,]/ [or] [a] (cognitive[,]/ [or] mental[,]/ [or] communication) impairment)[,] may perform differently as a witness because of his or her level of cognitive development, that does not mean he or she is any more or less credible than another witness.

You should not discount or distrust the testimony of a person with a (developmental disability[,]/ [or] [a] (cognitive[,]/ [or] mental[,]/ [or] communication) impairment)[,] solely because he or she has such a (disability/ [or] impairment).

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

This instruction must be given on request in any case "in which a person with a developmental disability, or cognitive, mental, or communication impairment testifies as a witness . . . ." (Pen. Code, § 1127g.)

The court should consider whether this instruction is appropriate if the witness has a communication impairment that is not related to a deficiency in cognitive functioning.

AUTHORITY

- Statutory Authority. Pen. Code, § 1127g.

Secondary Sources

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 82, Witnesses, §§ 82.05[2][a], 82.07, 82.22[3][c] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

332. Expert Witness Testimony

(A witness was/Witnesses were) allowed to testify as [an] expert[s] and to give [an] opinion[s]. You must consider the opinion[s], but you are not required to accept (it/them) as true or correct. The meaning and importance of any opinion are for you to decide. In evaluating the believability of an expert witness, follow the instructions about the believability of witnesses generally. In addition, consider the expert's knowledge, skill, experience, training, and education, the reasons the expert gave for any opinion, and the facts or information on which the expert relied in reaching that opinion. You must decide whether information on which the expert relied was true and accurate. You may disregard any opinion that you find unbelievable, unreasonable, or unsupported by the evidence.

[An expert witness may be asked a hypothetical question. A hypothetical question asks the witness to assume certain facts are true and to give an opinion based on the assumed facts. It is up to you to decide whether an assumed fact has been proved. If you conclude that an assumed fact is not true, consider the effect of the expert's reliance on that fact in evaluating the expert's opinion.]

[If the expert witnesses disagreed with one another, you should weigh each opinion against the others. You should examine the reasons given for each opinion and the facts or other matters on which each witness relied. You may also compare the experts' qualifications.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

When expert testimony is received at trial, the court must sua sponte instruct the jury on evaluating the expert's testimony. (Pen. Code, § 1127b.)

Give the bracketed paragraph beginning, "An expert witness may be asked a hypothetical question," if an expert witness responded to a hypothetical question.

Give the bracketed paragraph beginning, "If the expert witnesses disagreed with one another," if there is conflicting expert testimony.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. Pen. Code, § 1127b.

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Criminal Trial, § 642.

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Opinion Evidence, § 85.

3 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 71, Scientific and Expert Evidence, § 71.04 (Matthew Bender).

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, §§ 85.02[2][a][ii], 85.03[2][b], Ch. 86, Insanity Trial, § 86.04[3][a] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

333. Opinion Testimony of Lay Witness

(A witness/Witnesses)[, who (was/were) not testifying as [an] expert[s],] gave (his/her/their) opinion[s] during the trial. You may but are not required to accept (that/those) opinion[s] as true or correct. You may give the opinion[s] whatever weight you think appropriate. Consider the extent of the witness's opportunity to perceive the matters on which his or her opinion is based, the reasons the witness gave for any opinion, and the facts or information on which the witness relied in forming that opinion. You must decide whether information on which the witness relied was true and accurate. You may disregard all or any part of an opinion that you find unbelievable, unreasonable, or unsupported by the evidence.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

Give this instruction on request when a lay witness gives opinion testimony.

Give the bracketed phrase "who was not testifying as an expert" if an expert witness also testified in the case.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 332, Expert Witness Testimony.

CALCRIM No. 1860, Owner's Opinion of Value.

AUTHORITY

- Opinion Testimony. Evid. Code, §§ 800, 802.
- Opinion Testimony to Prove Character. Evid. Code, § 1100.
- Jury Must Decide What Weight to Give Lay Opinion. See People v. Pena (1977) 68 Cal.App.3d 100, 102–103 [135 Cal.Rptr. 602].
- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Golde (2008) 163 Cal.App.4th 101, 120 [77 Cal.Rptr.3d 120].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Opinion Evidence, §§ 3–25.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 82,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Witnesses, § 82.22[3][d], Ch. 83, Evidence, § 83.11 (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

334. Accomplice Testimony Must Be Corroborated: Dispute Whether Witness Is Accomplice

---

Before you may consider the (statement/ [or] testimony) of _____ <insert name[s] of witness[es]> as evidence against (the defendant/ _____ <insert names of defendants>) [regarding the crime[s] of _____ <insert name[s] of crime[s] if corroboration only required for some crime[s]>], you must decide whether _____ <insert name[s] of witness[es]>) (was/were) [an] accomplice[s] [to (that/those) crime[s]]. A person is an accomplice if he or she is subject to prosecution for the identical crime charged against the defendant. Someone is subject to prosecution if he or she personally committed the crime or if:

1. He or she knew of the criminal purpose of the person who committed the crime;

AND

2. He or she intended to, and did in fact, (aid, facilitate, promote, encourage, or instigate the commission of the crime[;]/ [or] participate in a criminal conspiracy to commit the crime).

The burden is on the defendant to prove that it is more likely than not that _____ <insert name[s] of witness[es]> (was/were) [an] accomplice[s].

[An accomplice does not need to be present when the crime is committed. On the other hand, a person is not an accomplice just because he or she is present at the scene of a crime, even if he or she knows that a crime will be committed or is being committed and does nothing to stop it.]

[A person who lacks criminal intent but who pretends to join in a crime only to detect or prosecute those who commit that crime is not an accomplice.]

[A person may be an accomplice even if he or she is not actually prosecuted for the crime.]

[You may not conclude that a child under 14 years old was an accomplice unless you also decide that when the child acted, (he/ she) understood:

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1. The nature and effect of the criminal conduct;

2. That the conduct was wrongful and forbidden;

AND

3. That (he/she) could be punished for participating in the conduct.]

If you decide that a (declarant/ [or] witness) was not an accomplice, then supporting evidence is not required and you should evaluate his or her (statement/ [or] testimony) as you would that of any other witness.

If you decide that a (declarant/ [or] witness) was an accomplice, then you may not convict the defendant of _____ <insert charged crime[s]> based on his or her (statement/ [or] testimony) alone. You may use the (statement/ [or] testimony) of an accomplice to convict the defendant only if:

1. The accomplice's (statement/ [or] testimony) is supported by other evidence that you believe;

2. That supporting evidence is independent of the accomplice's (statement/ [or] testimony);

AND

3. That supporting evidence tends to connect the defendant to the commission of the crime[s].

Supporting evidence, however, may be slight. It does not need to be enough, by itself, to prove that the defendant is guilty of the charged crime[s], and it does not need to support every fact (mentioned by the accomplice in the statement/ [or] about which the accomplice testified). On the other hand, it is not enough if the supporting evidence merely shows that a crime was committed or the circumstances of its commission. The supporting evidence must tend to connect the defendant to the commission of the crime.

[The evidence needed to support the (statement/ [or] testimony) of one accomplice cannot be provided by the (statement/ [or] testimony) of another accomplice.]

Any (statement/ [or] testimony) of an accomplice that tends to incriminate the defendant should be viewed with caution. You may not, however, arbitrarily disregard it. You should give that

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(statement/ [or] testimony) the weight you think it deserves after examining it with care and caution and in the light of all the other evidence.

New January 2006; Revised June 2007, April 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

There is a sua sponte duty to instruct on the principles governing the law of accomplices, including the need for corroboration, if the evidence at trial suggests that a witness could be an accomplice. (People v. Tobias (2001) 25 Cal.4th 327, 331 [106 Cal.Rptr.2d 80, 21 P.3d 758]; People v. Guiuan (1998) 18 Cal.4th 558, 569 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 239, 957 P.2d 928].)

"Whether a person is an accomplice is a question of fact for the jury unless the facts and the inferences to be drawn therefrom are undisputed." (People v. Coffman and Marlow (2004) 34 Cal.4th 1, 104 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 710, 96 P.3d 30].) When the court concludes that the witness is an accomplice as a matter of law or the parties agree about the witness's status as an accomplice, do not give this instruction. Give CALCRIM No. 335, Accomplice Testimony: No Dispute Whether Witness Is Accomplice.

If a codefendant's testimony tends to incriminate another defendant, the court must give an appropriate instruction on accomplice testimony. (People v. Avila (2006) 38 Cal.4th 491, 562 [43 Cal.Rptr.3d 1, 133 P.3d 1076]; citing People v. Box (2000) 23 Cal.4th 1153, 1209 [99 Cal.Rptr.2d 69, 5 P.3d 130]; People v. Alvarez (1996) 14 Cal.4th 155, 218 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 385, 926 P.2d 365].) The court must also instruct on accomplice testimony when two codefendants testify against each other and blame each other for the crime. (Id. at 218–219).

When the witness is a codefendant whose testimony includes incriminating statements, the court should not instruct that the witness is an accomplice as a matter of law. (People v. Hill (1967) 66 Cal.2d 536, 555 [58 Cal.Rptr. 340, 426 P.2d 908].) Instead, the court should give this instruction, informing the jury that it must decide whether the testifying codefendant is an accomplice. In addition, the court should instruct that when the jury considers this testimony as it relates to the testifying codefendant's defense, the jury should evaluate the testimony using the general rules of credibility, but if the jury considers testimony as incriminating evidence against the non-testifying codefendant, the testimony must be corroborated and should be viewed with caution. (See People v. Coffman and Marlow (2004) 34 Cal.4th 1, 105 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 710, 96 P.3d 30].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If the court concludes that the corroboration requirement applies to an out-of-court statement, use the word "statement" throughout the instruction. (See discussion in Related Issues section below.)

In a multiple codefendant case, if the corroboration requirement does not apply to all defendants, insert the names of the defendants for whom corroboration is required where indicated in the first sentence.

If the witness was an accomplice to only one or some of the crimes he or she testified about, the corroboration requirement only applies to those crimes and not to other crimes he or she may have testified about. (People v. Wynkoop (1958) 165 Cal.App.2d 540, 546 [331 P.2d 1040].) In such cases, the court may insert the specific crime or crimes requiring corroboration in the first sentence.

Give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "A person who lacks criminal intent" when the evidence suggests that the witness did not share the defendant's specific criminal intent, e.g., witness was an undercover police officer or an unwitting assistant.

Give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "You may not conclude that a child under 14 years old" on request if the defendant claims that a child witness's testimony must be corroborated because the child acted as an accomplice. (Pen. Code, § 26; People v. Williams (1936) 12 Cal.App.2d 207, 209 [55 P.2d 223].)

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. Pen. Code, § 1111; People v. Guiuan (1998) 18 Cal.4th 558, 569 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 239, 957 P.2d 928].
- Accomplice May Not Provide Sole Basis for Admission of Other Evidence. People v. Bowley (1963) 59 Cal.2d 855, 863 [31 Cal.Rptr. 471, 382 P.2d 591].
- Consideration of Incriminating Testimony. People v. Guiuan (1998) 18 Cal.4th 558, 569 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 239, 957 P.2d 928].
- Defendant's Burden of Proof. People v. Belton (1979) 23 Cal.3d 516, 523 [153 Cal.Rptr. 195, 591 P.2d 485].
- Defense Admissions May Provide Necessary Corroboration. People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 635, 680 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 573, 941 P.2d 752].
- Accomplice Includes Co-perpetrator. People v. Felton (2004) 122 Cal.App.4th 260, 268 [18 Cal.Rptr.3d 626].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Definition of Accomplice as Aider and Abettor. People v. Stankewitz (1990) 51 Cal.3d 72, 90–91 [270 Cal.Rptr. 817, 793 P.2d 23].
- Extent of Corroboration Required. People v. Szeto (1981) 29 Cal.3d 20, 27 [171 Cal.Rptr. 652, 623 P.2d 213].
- One Accomplice May Not Corroborate Another. People v. Montgomery (1941) 47 Cal.App.2d 1, 15 [117 P.2d 437], disapproved on other grounds in Murgia v. Municipal Court (1975) 15 Cal.3d 286, 301, fn. 11 [124 Cal.Rptr. 204, 540 P.2d 44] and People v. Dillon (1983) 34 Cal.3d 441, 454, fn. 2 [194 Cal.Rptr. 390, 668 P.2d 697].
- Presence or Knowledge Insufficient. People v. Boyd (1990) 222 Cal.App.3d 541, 557, fn. 14 [271 Cal.Rptr. 738]; In re Michael T. (1978) 84 Cal.App.3d 907, 911 [149 Cal.Rptr. 87].
- Testimony of Feigned Accomplice Need Not Be Corroborated. People v. Salazar (1962) 201 Cal.App.2d 284, 287 [20 Cal.Rptr. 25]; but see People v. Brocklehurst (1971) 14 Cal.App.3d 473, 476 [92 Cal.Rptr. 340]; People v. Bohmer (1975) 46 Cal.App.3d 185, 191–193 [120 Cal.Rptr. 136].
- Uncorroborated Accomplice Testimony May Establish Corpus Delicti. People v. Williams (1988) 45 Cal.3d 1268, 1317 [248 Cal.Rtpr. 834, 756 P.2d 221].
- Witness an Accomplice as a Matter of Law. People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 635, 679 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 573, 941 P.2d 752].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Presentation, §§ 98, 99, 105.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 82, Witnesses, § 82.03, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, §§ 85.02[2][b], 85.03[2][b], [d], Ch. 87, Death Penalty, § 87.23[4][b] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 141, Conspiracy, Solicitation, and Attempt, § 141.02[5][b] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Out-of-Court Statements

The out-of court statement of a witness may constitute "testimony" within the meaning of Penal Code section 1111, and may require corroboration. (People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 153, 245 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 123, 940 P.2d 710]; People v. Belton (1979) 23 Cal.3d 516, 526 [153 Cal.Rptr. 195, 591 P.2d 485].) The Supreme Court has quoted with approval the following summary of the corroboration requirement for out-of-court statements:

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

> '[T]estimony' within the meaning of . . . section 1111 includes . . . all out-of-court statements of accomplices and coconspirators used as substantive evidence of guilt which are made under suspect circumstances. The most obvious suspect circumstances occur when the accomplice has been arrested or is questioned by the police. [Citation.] On the other hand, when the out-of-court statements are not given under suspect circumstances, those statements do not qualify as 'testimony' and hence need not be corroborated under . . . section 1111.

(People v. Williams, supra, 16 Cal.4th at p. 245 [quoting People v. Jeffery (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 209, 218 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 526] [quotation marks, citations, and italics removed]; see also People v. Sully (1991) 53 Cal.3d 1195, 1230 [283 Cal.Rptr. 144, 812 P.2d 163] [out-of-court statement admitted as excited utterance did not require corroboration].) The court must determine whether the out-of-court statement requires corroboration and, accordingly, whether this instruction is appropriate. The court should also determine whether the statement is testimonial, as defined in Crawford v. Washington (2004) 541 U.S. 36 [124 S.Ct. 1354, 158 L.Ed.2d 177], and whether the Crawford holding effects the corroboration requirement of Penal Code section 1111.

Incest With a Minor

Accomplice instructions are not appropriate in a trial for incest with a minor. A minor is a victim, not an accomplice, to incest. (People v. Tobias (2001) 25 Cal.4th 327, 334 [106 Cal.Rptr.2d 80, 21 P.3d 758]; see CALCRIM No. 1180, Incest.)

Liable to Prosecution When Crime Committed

The test for determining if a witness is an accomplice is not whether that person is subject to trial when he or she testifies, but whether he or she was liable to prosecution for the same offense at the time the acts were committed. (People v. Gordon (1973) 10 Cal.3d 460, 469 [110 Cal.Rptr. 906, 516 P.2d 298].) However, the fact that a witness was charged for the same crime and then granted immunity does not necessarily establish that he or she is an accomplice. (People v. Stankewitz (1990) 51 Cal.3d 72, 90 [270 Cal.Rptr. 817, 793 P.2d 23].)

Threats and Fear of Bodily Harm

A person who is induced by threats and fear of bodily harm to participate in a crime, other than murder, is not an accomplice. (People v. Brown (1970) 6

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.App.3d 619, 624 [86 Cal.Rptr. 149]; People v. Perez (1973) 9 Cal.3d 651, 659–660 [108 Cal.Rptr. 474, 510 P.2d 1026].)

Defense Witness

"[A]lthough an accomplice witness instruction must be properly formulated . . . , there is no error in giving such an instruction when the accomplice's testimony favors the defendant." (United States v. Tirouda (9th Cir. 2005) 394 F.3d 683, 688.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

335. Accomplice Testimony: No Dispute Whether Witness Is Accomplice

If the crime[s] of _____ <insert charged crime[s]> (was/were) committed, then _____ <insert name[s] of witness[es]> (was/were) [an] accomplice[s] to (that/those) crime[s].

You may not convict the defendant of _____ <insert crime[s]> based on the (statement/ [or] testimony) of an accomplice alone. You may use the (statement/ [or] testimony) of an accomplice to convict the defendant only if:

1. The accomplice's (statement/ [or] testimony) is supported by other evidence that you believe;
2. That supporting evidence is independent of the accomplice's (statement/ [or] testimony);

AND

3. That supporting evidence tends to connect the defendant to the commission of the crime[s].

Supporting evidence, however, may be slight. It does not need to be enough, by itself, to prove that the defendant is guilty of the charged crime, and it does not need to support every fact (mentioned by the accomplice in the statement/ [or] about which the witness testified). On the other hand, it is not enough if the supporting evidence merely shows that a crime was committed or the circumstances of its commission. The supporting evidence must tend to connect the defendant to the commission of the crime.

[The evidence needed to support the (statement/ [or] testimony) of one accomplice cannot be provided by the (statement/ [or] testimony) of another accomplice.]

Any (statement/ [or] testimony) of an accomplice that tends to incriminate the defendant should be viewed with caution. You may not, however, arbitrarily disregard it. You should give that (statement/ [or] testimony) the weight you think it deserves after examining it with care and caution and in the light of all the other evidence.

New January 2006; Revised June 2007, April 2010

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

There is a sua sponte duty to instruct on the principles governing the law of accomplices, including the need for corroboration, if the evidence at trial suggests that a witness could be an accomplice. (People v. Tobias (2001) 25 Cal.4th 327, 331 [106 Cal.Rptr.2d 80, 21 P.3d 758].)

"Whether a person is an accomplice is a question of fact for the jury unless the facts and the inferences to be drawn therefrom are undisputed." (People v. Coffman and Marlow (2004) 34 Cal.4th 1, 104 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 710, 96 P.3d 30].) Give this instruction only if the court concludes that the witness is an accomplice as a matter of law or the parties agree about the witness's status as an accomplice. (People v. Verlinde (2002) 100 Cal.App.4th 1146, 1161 [123 Cal.Rptr.2d 322] [only give instruction " 'if undisputed evidence established the complicity' "].) If there is a dispute about whether the witness is an accomplice, give CALCRIM No. 334, Accomplice Testimony Must Be Corroborated: Dispute Whether Witness Is Accomplice.

If a codefendant's testimony tends to incriminate another defendant, the court must give an appropriate instruction on accomplice testimony. (People v. Avila (2006) 38 Cal.4th 491, 562 [43 Cal. Rptr.3d 1, 133 P.3d 1076]; citing People v. Box (2000) 23 Cal.4th 1153, 1209 [99 Cal.Rptr.2d 69, 5 P.3d 130]; People v. Alvarez (1996) 14 Cal.4th 155, 218 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 385, 926 P.2d 365].) The court must also instruct on accomplice testimony when two co-defendants testify against each other and blame each other for the crime. (Id. at 218–219).

When the witness is a codefendant whose testimony includes incriminating statements, the court should not instruct that the witness is an accomplice as a matter of law. (People v. Hill (1967) 66 Cal.2d 536, 555 [58 Cal.Rptr. 340, 426 P.2d 908].) Instead, the court should give CALCRIM No. 334, Accomplice Testimony Must Be Corroborated: Dispute Whether Witness Is Accomplice, informing the jury that it must decide whether the testifying codefendant is an accomplice. In addition, the court should instruct that when the jury considers this testimony as it relates to the testifying codefendant's defense, the jury should evaluate the testimony using the general rules of credibility, but if the jury considers testimony as incriminating evidence against the non-testifying codefendant, the testimony must be corroborated and should be viewed with caution. (See People v. Coffman and Marlow (2004) 34 Cal.4th 1, 105 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 710, 96 P.3d 30].)

If the court concludes that the corroboration requirement applies to an out-of-court statement, use the word "statement" throughout the instruction. (See discussion in Related Issues section to CALCRIM No. 334, Accomplice Testimony Must Be Corroborated: Dispute Whether Witness Is Accomplice.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. Pen. Code, § 1111; People v. Guiuan (1998) 18 Cal.4th 558, 569 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 239, 957 P.2d 928].
- Accomplice May Not Provide Sole Basis for Admission of Other Evidence. People v. Bowley (1963) 59 Cal.2d 855, 863 [31 Cal.Rptr. 471, 382 P.2d 591].
- Consideration of Incriminating Testimony. People v. Guiuan (1998) 18 Cal.4th 558, 569 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 239, 957 P.2d 928].
- Defense Admissions May Provide Necessary Corroboration. People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 635, 680 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 573, 941 P.2d 752].
- Definition of Accomplice as Aider and Abettor. People v. Stankewitz (1990) 51 Cal.3d 72, 90–91 [270 Cal.Rptr. 817, 793 P.2d 23].
- Extent of Corroboration Required. People v. Szeto (1981) 29 Cal.3d 20, 27 [171 Cal.Rptr. 652, 623 P.2d 213].
- One Accomplice May Not Corroborate Another. People v. Montgomery (1941) 47 Cal.App.2d 1, 15 [117 P.2d 437], disapproved on other grounds in Murgia v. Municipal Court (1975) 15 Cal.3d 286, 301, fn. 11 [124 Cal.Rptr. 204, 540 P.2d 44] and People v. Dillon (1983) 34 Cal.3d 441, 454, fn. 2 [194 Cal.Rptr. 390, 668 P.2d 697].
- Presence or Knowledge Insufficient. People v. Boyd (1990) 222 Cal.App.3d 541, 557, fn. 14 [271 Cal.Rptr. 738]; In re Michael T. (1978) 84 Cal.App.3d 907, 911 [149 Cal.Rptr. 87].
- Testimony of Feigned Accomplice Need Not Be Corroborated. People v. Salazar (1962) 201 Cal.App.2d 284, 287 [20 Cal.Rptr. 25]; but see People v. Brocklehurst (1971) 14 Cal.App.3d 473, 476 [92 Cal.Rptr. 340]; People v. Bohmer (1975) 46 Cal.App.3d 185, 191–193 [120 Cal.Rptr. 136].
- Uncorroborated Accomplice Testimony May Establish Corpus Delicti. People v. Williams (1988) 45 Cal.3d 1268, 1317 [248 Cal.Rptr. 834, 756 P.2d 221].
- Witness an Accomplice as a Matter of Law. People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 635, 679 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 573, 941 P.2d 752].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Presentation, §§ 98, 99, 105.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 82, Witnesses, § 82.03, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, §§ 85.02[2][b], 85.03[2][b], [d], Ch. 87, Death Penalty, § 87.23[4][b] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 141, Conspiracy, Solicitation, and Attempt, § 141.02[5][b] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

336. In-Custody Informant

The testimony of an in-custody informant should be viewed with caution and close scrutiny. In evaluating such testimony, you should consider the extent to which it may have been influenced by the receipt of, or expectation of, any benefits from the party calling that witness. This does not mean that you may arbitrarily disregard such testimony, but you should give it the weight to which you find it to be entitled in the light of all the evidence in the case.

[An in-custody informant is someone[, other than (a/an) (codefendant[,]/ [or] percipient witness[,]/ [or] accomplice[,]/ [or] coconspirator,)] whose testimony is based on [a] statement[s] the defendant allegedly made while both the defendant and the informant were held within a correctional institution.]

[_____ <insert name of witness> is an in-custody informant.]

[_____ <insert name of institution> is a correctional institution.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court must give this instruction on request. (Pen. Code, § 1127a.)

The court should also be aware of the following statutory provisions relating to in-custody informants: Penal Code sections 1127a(c) [prosecution must disclose consideration given to witness]; 1191.25 [prosecution must notify victim of in-custody informant]; and 4001.1 [limitation on payments to in-custody informants and action that may be taken by in-custody informant].

If there is no issue over whether the witness is an in-custody informant and the parties agree, the court may instruct the jury that the witness "is an in-custody informant." If there is an issue over whether the witness is an in-custody informant, give the bracketed definition of the term.

Related Instruction

CALCRIM No. 337, Witness in Custody or Physically Restrained.

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Duty. Pen. Code, § 1127a.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Criminal Trials, § 653.

2 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 30, Confessions and Admissions, § 30.32[2] (Matthew Bender).

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 82, Witnesses, § 82.03A, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, §§ 85.02[2][b], 85.03[2][b] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

337. Witness in Custody or Physically Restrained

<Alternative A—physically restrained>

[When _____ <insert name[s] of witness[es]> testified, (he/she/they) (was/were) physically restrained. Do not speculate about the reason. You must completely disregard this circumstance in deciding the issues in this case. Do not consider it for any purpose or discuss it during your deliberations. Evaluate the witness's testimony according to the instructions I have given you.]

<Alternative B—in custody>

[When _____ <insert name[s] of witness[es]> testified, (he/she/they) (was/were) in custody. [Do not speculate about the reason.] The fact that a witness is in custody does not by itself make a witness more or less believable. Evaluate the witness's testimony according to the instructions I have given you.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction if the witness has been physically restrained in a manner that is visible to the jury. (See People v. Duran (1976) 16 Cal.3d 282, 291–292 [127 Cal.Rptr. 618, 545 P.2d 1322]; Wilson v. McCarthy (9th Cir. 1985) 770 F.2d 1482, 1485; People v. Metzger (1904) 143 Cal. 447, 448 [77 P. 155].) If the restraints are not visible, do not give this instruction unless requested. For an in-custody witness, give this instruction on request.

Do not give this instruction for an in-custody informant unless the witness is also physically restrained. When an in-custody informant testifies, the court must give CALCRIM No. 336, In-Custody Informant. For an in-custody informant, the court may only give this instruction if it is limited to the issue of physical restraints.

In alternative B, always give the bracketed sentence that begins with "Do not speculate" unless the jury has been informed of the reason the witness is in custody.

The rules articulated in People v. Duran (1976) 16 Cal.3d 282, 290–292 [127 Cal.Rptr. 618, 545 P.2d 1322] regarding physical restraints of a defendant at trial also apply to physical restraint of a defense witness. (Id. at p. 288, fn. 4.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Duty. People v. Duran (1976) 16 Cal.3d 282, 291–292 [127 Cal.Rptr. 618, 545 P.2d 1322]; Wilson v. McCarthy (9th Cir. 1985) 770 F.2d 1482, 1485; People v. Metzger (1904) 143 Cal. 447, 448 [77 P. 155].
- Requirements Before Restraints Used. People v. Duran (1976) 16 Cal.3d 282, 290–292 [127 Cal.Rptr. 618, 545 P.2d 1322]; People v. Mar (2002) 28 Cal.4th 1201, 1218 [124 Cal.Rptr.2d 161, 52 P.3d 95].
- Use of Stun Belts. People v. Mar (2002) 28 Cal.4th 1201, 1205–1206 [124 Cal.Rptr.2d 161, 52 P.3d 95].

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Criminal Trial, §§ 11–16.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 80, Defendant's Trial Rights, § 80.09[6][b][v] (Matthew Bender).

338–349. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

C. CHARACTER EVIDENCE

350. Character of Defendant

You have heard character testimony that the defendant (is a _____ <insert character trait> person/ [or] has a good reputation for _____ <insert character trait> in the community where (he/she) lives or works).

You may take that testimony into consideration along with all the other evidence in deciding whether the People have proved that the defendant is guilty beyond a reasonable doubt.

Evidence of the defendant's character for _____ <insert character trait> can by itself create a reasonable doubt. However, evidence of the defendant's good character may be countered by evidence of (his/her) bad character for the same trait. You must decide the meaning and importance of the character evidence.

[If the defendant's character for certain traits has not been discussed among those who know (him/her), you may assume that (his/her) character for those traits is good.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has no sua sponte duty to give an instruction on defendant's character; however, it must be given on request. (People v. Bell (1875) 49 Cal. 485, 489–490 [jury should be instructed that evidence of good reputation should be weighed as any other fact established and may be sufficient to create reasonable doubt of guilt]; People v. Jones (1954) 42 Cal.2d 219, 222 [266 P.2d 38] [character evidence may be sufficient to create reasonable doubt of guilt]; People v. Wilson (1913) 23 Cal.App. 513, 523–524 [138 P. 971] [court erred in failing to give requested instruction or any instruction on character evidence].)

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. People v. Bell (1875) 49 Cal. 485, 489–490; People v. Wilson (1913) 23 Cal.App. 513, 523–524 [138 P. 971]; People

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

v. Jones (1954) 42 Cal.2d 219, 222 [266 P.2d 38].

- Admissibility. Evid. Code, §§ 1100–1102.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Circumstantial Evidence, § 53.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 82, Witnesses, § 82.22[3][d], [e][ii], Ch. 83, Evidence, § 83.12[1] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

No Discussion of Character Is Evidence of Good Character

The fact that the defendant's character or reputation has not been discussed or questioned among those who know him or her is evidence of the defendant's good character and reputation. (People v. Castillo (1935) 5 Cal.App.2d 194, 198 [42 P.2d 682].) However, the defendant must have resided in the community for a sufficient period of time and become acquainted with the community in order for his or her character to have become known and for some sort of reputation to have been established. (See Evid. Code, § 1324 [reputation may be shown in the community where defendant resides and in a group with which he or she habitually associates]; see also People v. Pauli (1922) 58 Cal.App. 594, 596 [209 P. 88] [witness's testimony about defendant's good reputation in community was inappropriate where defendant was a stranger in the community, working for a single employer for a few months, going about little, and forming no associations].)

Business Community

The community for purposes of reputation evidence may also be the defendant's business community and associates. (People v. Cobb (1955) 45 Cal.2d 158, 163 [287 P.2d 752].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

351. Cross-Examination of Character Witness

The attorney for the People was allowed to ask defendant's character witness[es] if (he/she/they) had heard that the defendant had engaged in certain conduct. These "have you heard" questions and their answers are not evidence that the defendant engaged in any such conduct. You may consider these questions and answers only to evaluate the meaning and importance of (the/a) character witness's testimony.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has no sua sponte duty to give an instruction on cross-examination of character witnesses; however it must be given on request. (People v. Hempstead (1983) 148 Cal.App.3d 949, 954 [196 Cal.Rptr. 412] [when cross-examination of character witness is permitted, a limiting admonition should be given]; Evid. Code, § 355.)

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. People v. Hempstead (1983) 148 Cal.App.3d 949, 954 [196 Cal.Rptr. 412]; People v. Eli (1967) 66 Cal.2d 63, 79 [56 Cal.Rptr. 916, 424 P.2d 356].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Presentation, § 243.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 82, Witnesses, § 82.22[3][d], Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.02[2][b], Ch. 87, Death Penalty, § 87.23[5] (Matthew Bender).

352–354. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

D. DEFENDANT'S TESTIMONY AND STATEMENTS

355. Defendant's Right Not to Testify

A defendant has an absolute constitutional right not to testify. He or she may rely on the state of the evidence and argue that the People have failed to prove the charges beyond a reasonable doubt. Do not consider, for any reason at all, the fact that the defendant did not testify. Do not discuss that fact during your deliberations or let it influence your decision in any way.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

This instruction should only be given on request. (Carter v. Kentucky (1981) 450 U.S. 288, 300 [101 S.Ct. 1112, 67 L.Ed.2d 241]; People v. Evans (1998) 62 Cal.App.4th 186, 191 [72 Cal.Rptr.2d 543].)

The court has no sua sponte duty to seek a personal waiver of the instruction from the defendant. (People v. Towey (2001) 92 Cal.App.4th 880, 884 [112 Cal.Rptr.2d 326].)

The United States Supreme Court has held that the court may give this instruction over the defendant's objection (Lakeside v. Oregon (1978) 435 U.S. 333, 340–341 [98 S.Ct. 1091, 55 L.Ed.2d 319]), but as a matter of state judicial policy, the California Supreme Court has found otherwise. (People v. Roberts (1992) 2 Cal.4th 271, 314 [6 Cal.Rptr.2d 276, 826 P.2d 274] ["[T]he purpose of the instruction is to protect the defendant, and if the defendant does not want it given the trial court should accede to that request, notwithstanding the lack of a constitutional requirement to do so."].)

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. People v. Lewis (1990) 50 Cal.3d 262, 282 [266 Cal.Rptr. 834, 786 P.2d 892] [no sua sponte duty to instruct].
- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Ibarra (2007) 156 Cal.App.4th 1174, 1191–1192 [67 Cal.Rptr.3d 871].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Criminal Trial, §§ 642, 658.

2 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Witnesses, § 439.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 80, Defendant's Trial Rights, § 80.08, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, §§ 85.02[1A][a], 85.04[2][b] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

356. Miranda-Defective Statements

You have heard evidence that the defendant made a statement to a peace officer. [I am referring to the statement (about which Officer[s] _____ testified/ _____ <insert other description to identify statement, e.g., time and place statement was taken>).]

If you conclude that the defendant made this statement, you may consider it only to help you decide whether to believe the defendant's testimony. You may not consider it as proof that the statement is true or for any other purpose.

[You should view an unrecorded oral statement cautiously.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

There is no sua sponte duty to give a limiting instruction on the use of statements taken in violation of the Miranda rule. (People v. Coffman and Marlow (2004) 34 Cal.4th 1, 63 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 710, 96 P.3d 30].) The court must give the instruction on request.

If the defendant made more than one statement, but not all of the statements are subject to the limiting admonition, specify the relevant statement or statements using the bracketed text in the first paragraph.

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. People v. Coffman and Marlow (2004) 34 Cal.4th 1, 63 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 710, 96 P.3d 30]; People v. May (1988) 44 Cal.3d 309 [243 Cal.Rptr. 369, 748 P.2d 307]; Harris v. New York (1971) 401 U.S. 222 [91 S.Ct. 643, 28 L.Ed.2d 1].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Presentation, §§ 318–320.

2 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 30, Confessions and Admissions, §§ 30.02[2], 30.10[3], 30.30[1], 30.57 (Matthew Bender).

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.03[2][c] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

357. Adoptive Admissions

If you conclude that someone made a statement outside of court that (accused the defendant of the crime/ [or] tended to connect the defendant with the commission of the crime) and the defendant did not deny it, you must decide whether each of the following is true:

1. The statement was made to the defendant or made in (his/her) presence;
2. The defendant heard and understood the statement;
3. The defendant would, under all the circumstances, naturally have denied the statement if (he/she) thought it was not true;

AND

4. The defendant could have denied it but did not.

If you decide that all of these requirements have been met, you may conclude that the defendant admitted the statement was true.

If you decide that any of these requirements has not been met, you must not consider either the statement or the defendant's response for any purpose.

[You must not consider this evidence in determining the guilt of (the/any) other defendant[s].]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the foundational requirements for adoptive admissions if such evidence is admitted. (People v. Vindiola (1979) 96 Cal.App.3d 370, 381 [158 Cal.Rptr. 6], citing People v. Atwood (1963) 223 Cal.App.2d 316, 332–334 [35 Cal.Rptr. 831]; see also People v. Humphries (1986) 185 Cal.App.3d 1315, 1336 [230 Cal.Rptr. 536].)

If the court instructs on adoptive admissions, the court also has a sua sponte duty to instruct on corpus delicti. (See CALCRIM No. 359, Corpus Delicti: Independent Evidence of a Charged Crime; see also People v. Jennings

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(1991) 53 Cal.3d 334, 364 [279 Cal.Rptr. 780, 807 P.2d 1009] [discussing corpus delicti rule in the case of an affirmative admission; by analogy the rule also should apply to adoptive admissions].)

The limiting admonition in the last sentence of the instruction must be given on request when other codefendants are on trial. (People v. Richards (1976) 17 Cal.3d 614, 618–619 [131 Cal.Rptr. 537, 552 P.2d 97], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Carbajal (1995) 10 Cal.4th 1114, 1126 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 681, 899 P.2d 67]; see generally Evid. Code, § 355.)

Do not give this instruction if the defendant's failure to reply was based on his or her invocation of the right to remain silent. (See Griffin v. California (1965) 380 U.S. 609 [85 S.Ct. 1229, 14 L.Ed.2d 106]; People v. Cockrell (1965) 63 Cal.2d 659 [47 Cal.Rptr. 788, 408 P.2d 116].)

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. People v. Atwood (1963) 223 Cal.App.2d 316, 332–333 [35 Cal.Rptr. 831]; People v. Vindiola (1979) 96 Cal.App.3d 370 [158 Cal.Rptr. 6]; People v. Humphries (1986) 185 Cal.App.3d 1315, 1336 [230 Cal.Rptr. 536]; see People v. Riel (2000) 22 Cal.4th 1153, 1189 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 1, 998 P.2d 969].

Secondary Sources

7 Witkin, California Procedure (4th ed. 1997) Trial, § 314(b)

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Hearsay, §§ 102–105.

2 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 30, Confessions and Admissions, §§ 30.04[4], 30.57 (Matthew Bender).

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 83, Evidence, § 83.13[3][b] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Defendant Intoxicated When Admission Made

"Declarations of a prisoner under the influence of intoxicants are not rendered inadmissible by reason of his drunkenness. That condition would go only to the weight of the evidence." (People v. MacCagnan (1954) 129 Cal.App.2d 100, 112 [276 P.2d 679].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

358. Evidence of Defendant's Statements

You have heard evidence that the defendant made [an] oral or written statement[s] (before the trial/while the court was not in session). You must decide whether the defendant made any (such/of these) statement[s], in whole or in part. If you decide that the defendant made such [a] statement[s], consider the statement[s], along with all the other evidence, in reaching your verdict. It is up to you to decide how much importance to give to the statement[s].

[Consider with caution any statement made by (the/a) defendant tending to show (his/her) guilt unless the statement was written or otherwise recorded.]

New January 2006; Revised June 2007, December 2008

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction when there is evidence of an out-of-court oral statement by the defendant.

In addition, the court has a sua sponte duty to give the bracketed cautionary instruction when there is evidence of an incriminating out-of-court oral statement made by the defendant. (People v. Beagle (1972) 6 Cal.3d 441, 455–456 [99 Cal.Rptr. 313, 492 P.2d 1].) An exception is that in the penalty phase of a capital trial, the bracketed paragraph should be given only if the defense requests it. (People v. Livaditis (1992) 2 Cal.4th 759, 784 [9 Cal.Rptr.2d 72, 831 P.2d 297].)

The bracketed cautionary instruction is not required when the defendant's incriminating statements are written or tape-recorded. (People v. Gardner (1961) 195 Cal.App.2d 829, 833 [16 Cal.Rptr. 256]; People v. Hines (1964) 61 Cal.2d 164, 173 [37 Cal.Rptr. 622, 390 P.2d 398], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Murtishaw (1981) 29 Cal.3d 733, 774, fn. 40 [175 Cal.Rptr. 738, 631 P.2d 446]; People v. Scherr (1969) 272 Cal.App.2d 165, 172 [77 Cal.Rptr. 35]; People v. Slaughter (2002) 27 Cal.4th 1187, 1200 [120 Cal.Rptr.2d 477, 47 P.3d 262] [admonition to view non-recorded statements with caution applies only to a defendant's incriminating statements].) If the jury heard both inculpatory and exculpatory, or only inculpatory, statements attributed to the defendant, give the bracketed paragraph. If the jury heard only exculpatory statements by the defendant, do not give the bracketed paragraph.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

When a defendant's statement is a verbal act, as in conspiracy cases, this instruction applies. (People v. Bunyard (1988) 45 Cal.3d 1189, 1224 [249 Cal.Rptr. 71, 756 P.2d 795]; People v. Ramirez (1974) 40 Cal.App.3d 347, 352 [114 Cal.Rptr. 916]; see also, e.g., Peabody v. Phelps (1858) 9 Cal. 213, 229 [similar, in civil cases]; but see People v. Zichko (2004) 118 Cal.App.4th 1055, 1057 [13 Cal.Rptr.3d 509] [no sua sponte duty to instruct with CALJIC 2.71 in criminal threat case because "truth" of substance of the threat was not relevant and instructing jury to view defendant's statement with caution could suggest that exercise of "caution" supplanted need for finding guilt beyond a reasonable doubt].)

Related Instructions

If out-of-court oral statements made by the defendant are prominent pieces of evidence in the trial, then CALCRIM No. 359, Corpus Delicti: Independent Evidence of a Charged Crime, may also have to be given together with the bracketed cautionary instruction.

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. People v. Beagle (1972) 6 Cal.3d 441, 455–456 [99 Cal.Rptr. 313, 492 P.2d 1]; People v. Livaditis (1992) 2 Cal.4th 759, 784 [9 Cal.Rptr.2d 72, 831 P.2d 297].

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Criminal Trial, §§ 614, 641, 650.

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Hearsay, § 51.

3 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Presentation, § 113.

2 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 30, Confessions and Admissions, § 30.57 (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

359. Corpus Delicti: Independent Evidence of a Charged Crime

The defendant may not be convicted of any crime based on (his/her) out-of-court statement[s] alone. You may only rely on the defendant's out-of-court statements to convict (him/her) if you conclude that other evidence shows that the charged crime [or a lesser included offense] was committed.

That other evidence may be slight and need only be enough to support a reasonable inference that a crime was committed.

The identity of the person who committed the crime [and the degree of the crime] may be proved by the defendant's statement[s] alone.

You may not convict the defendant unless the People have proved (his/her) guilt beyond a reasonable doubt.

New January 2006; Revised August 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on corpus delicti whenever an accused's extrajudicial statements form part of the prosecution's evidence. (People v. Howk (1961) 56 Cal.2d 687, 707 [16 Cal.Rptr. 370, 365 P.2d 426].)

The corpus delicti cannot be proved by statements made before or after the crime, but can be proved by statements made during the crime. (People v. Carpenter (1997) 15 Cal.4th 312, 394 [63 Cal.Rptr.2d 1, 935 P.2d 708].)

Give the bracketed language in the first paragraph if the court will be instructing on lesser included offenses.

Related Instructions

Since the corpus delicti instruction concerns statements of guilt by the defendant, this instruction must always be given along with CALCRIM No. 358, Evidence of Defendant's Statements. If the statements are reported oral statements, the bracketed cautionary paragraph in CALCRIM No. 358 must also be given.

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. People v. Ray (1996) 13 Cal.4th 313, 342

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[52 Cal.Rptr.2d 296, 914 P.2d 846]; People v. Jennings (1991) 53 Cal.3d 334, 368 [279 Cal.Rptr. 780, 807 P.2d 1009]; People v. Howk (1961) 56 Cal.2d 687, 707 [16 Cal.Rptr. 370, 365 P.2d 426].

- Burden of Proof. People v. Lara (1994) 30 Cal.App.4th 658, 676 [35 Cal.Rptr.2d 886].
- This Instruction Correctly States the Law. People v. Reyes (2007) 151 Cal.App.4th 1491, 1496 [60 Cal.Rptr.3d 777].
- Corpus Delicti Rule Does Not Apply Generally to All Uncharged Acts. People v. Davis (2008) 168 Cal.App.4th 617, 636 [86 Cal.Rptr.3d 55].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Elements, §§ 45–52.

2 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 30, Confessions and Admissions, §§ 30.04[2], 30.57 (Matthew Bender).

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.04[2][c], Ch. 87, Death Penalty, § 87.13[17][e] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.01 (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

Harm Caused by Criminal Conduct

The instruction states that the other evidence need only "be enough to support a reasonable inference that someone's criminal conduct caused an injury, loss, or harm." This is based in part on People v. Alvarez (2002) 27 Cal.4th 1161, 1171 [119 Cal.Rptr.2d 903, 46 P.3d 372], in which the court stated that "[t]here is no requirement of independent evidence 'of every physical act constituting an element of an offense,' so long as there is some slight or prima facie showing of injury, loss, or harm by a criminal agency." (Citing People v. Jones (1998) 17 Cal.4th 279, 303 [70 Cal.Rptr.2d 793, 949 P.2d 890].)

Scope of Corpus Delicti

The following are not elements of a crime and need not be proved by independent evidence: the degree of the crime charged (People v. Cooper (1960) 53 Cal.2d 755, 765 [3 Cal.Rptr. 148, 349 P.2d 964]), the identity of the perpetrator (People v. Westfall (1961) 198 Cal.App.2d 598, 601 [18 Cal.Rptr. 356]), elements of the underlying felony when the defendant is charged with felony murder (People v. Cantrell (1973) 8 Cal.3d 672, 680–681 [105 Cal.Rptr. 792, 504 P.2d 1256], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Wetmore (1978) 22 Cal.3d 318, 324 [149 Cal.Rptr. 265, 583 P.2d 1308] and People v. Flannel (1979) 25 Cal.3d 668, 684–685, fn. 12 [160 Cal.Rptr. 84, 603 P.2d 1]), special circumstances when the defendant is charged with a felony-based special circumstance murder as listed in Penal Code section 190.2(a)(17) (Pen. Code, § 190.41; see People v. Ray (1996) 13 Cal.4th 313, 341, fn. 13 [52 Cal.Rptr.2d 296, 914 P.2d 846]), the knowledge and intent required for aider-abettor liability (People v. Gutierrez (2002) 28 Cal.4th 1083, 1128–1129 [124 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 52 P.3d 572]; People v. Ott (1978) 84 Cal.App.3d 118, 131 [148 Cal.Rptr. 479]), or facts necessary for a sentencing enhancement (see People v. Shoemake (1993) 16 Cal.App.4th 243, 252–256 [20 Cal.Rptr.2d 36]).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

RELATED ISSUES

Truth-in-Evidence Initiative

The "truth-in-evidence" provision of the California Constitution abrogates the corpus delicti rule insofar as it restricts the admissibility of incriminatory extrajudicial statements by an accused. (People v. Alvarez (2002) 27 Cal.4th 1161, 1173–1174 [119 Cal.Rptr.2d 903, 46 P.3d 372]; see Cal. Const., art. I, § 28(d) [Proposition 8 of the June 8, 1982 General Election].) The constitutional provision, however, does not eliminate the rule insofar as it prohibits conviction when the only evidence that the crime was committed is the defendant's own statements outside of court. Thus, the provision does not affect the rule to the extent it requires a jury instruction that no person may be convicted absent evidence of the crime independent of his or her out-of-court statements. (People v. Alvarez, supra, 27 Cal.4th at p. 1180.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

360. Statements to an Expert

_____ <Insert name> testified that in reaching (his/her) conclusions as an expert witness, (he/she) considered [a] statement[s] made by _____ <insert name>. [I am referring only to the statement[s] _____ <insert or describe statements admitted for this limited purpose>.] You may consider (that/those) statement[s] only to evaluate the expert's opinion. Do not consider (that/those) statements as proof that the information contained in the statement[s] is true.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

Although the court has no sua sponte duty to give this instruction, it should be given if appropriate under the circumstances. (People v. Cantrell (1973) 8 Cal.3d 672, 683 [105 Cal.Rptr. 792, 504 P.2d 1256], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Wetmore (1978) 22 Cal.3d 318, 324 [149 Cal.Rptr. 265, 583 P.2d 1308] and People v. Flannel (1979) 25 Cal.3d 668, 684–685, fn. 12 [160 Cal.Rptr. 84, 603 P.2d 1].)

This instruction should not be given if all of the statements relied on by the expert were admitted under applicable hearsay exceptions. If some but not all of the defendant's statements were admitted for the limited purpose of evaluating the expert's testimony, specify those statements in the bracketed sentence.

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. In re Spencer (1965) 63 Cal.2d 400, 412 [46 Cal.Rptr. 753, 406 P.2d 33].

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Criminal Trial, § 113.

3 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 71, Scientific and Expert Evidence, § 71.04 (Matthew Bender).

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.02[2][b] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

361. Failure to Explain or Deny Adverse Testimony

If the defendant failed in (his/her) testimony to explain or deny evidence against (him/her), and if (he/she) could reasonably be expected to have done so based on what (he/she) knew, you may consider (his/her) failure to explain or deny in evaluating that evidence. Any such failure is not enough by itself to prove guilt. The People must still prove the defendant guilty beyond a reasonable doubt.

If the defendant failed to explain or deny, it is up to you to decide the meaning and importance of that failure.

New January 2006; Revised April 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

No authority imposes a duty to give this instruction sua sponte. This instruction should only be given when the defendant testifies and the privilege against self-incrimination has not been successfully invoked. (People v. Mask (1986) 188 Cal.App.3d 450, 455 [233 Cal.Rptr. 181]; People v. Haynes (1983) 148 Cal.App.3d 1117, 1118 [196 Cal.Rptr. 450].)

Before an instruction on this principle may be given, the trial court must ascertain as a matter of law: (1) if a question was asked that called for an explanation or denial of incriminating evidence; (2) if the defendant knew the facts necessary to answer the question or if some circumstance precluded the defendant from knowing such facts; and (3) if the defendant failed to deny or explain the incriminating evidence when answering the question. (People v. Saddler (1979) 24 Cal.3d 671, 682–683 [156 Cal.Rptr. 871, 597 P.2d 130] [instruction erroneously given because there was no evidence that defendant failed to deny or explain incriminating evidence]; People v. Marsh (1985) 175 Cal.App.3d 987, 994 [221 Cal.Rptr. 311] [same]; People v. De Larco (1983) 142 Cal.App.3d 294, 309 [190 Cal.Rptr. 757] [same]; see also People v. Marks (1988) 45 Cal.3d 1335, 1346 [248 Cal.Rptr. 874, 756 P.2d 260].)

Contradiction of the state's evidence is not by itself a failure to deny or explain. (People v. Marks (1988) 45 Cal.3d 1335, 1346 [248 Cal.Rptr. 874, 756 P.2d 260]; People v. Peters (1982) 128 Cal.App.3d 75, 86 [180 Cal.Rptr. 76].) Failure to recall is not an appropriate basis for this instruction. (People v. De Larco (1983) 142 Cal.App.3d 294, 309 [190 Cal.Rptr. 757].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

One court has cautioned against giving this instruction unless both parties agree and there is a significant omission on the part of the defendant to explain or deny adverse evidence. (People v. Haynes (1983) 148 Cal.App.3d 1117, 1119–1120 [196 Cal.Rptr. 450].)

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. Evid. Code, § 413.
- Cautionary Language. People v. Saddler (1979) 24 Cal.3d 671, 683 [156 Cal.Rptr. 871, 597 P.2d 130].
- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Rodriguez (2009) 170 Cal.App.4th 1062, 1068 [88 Cal.Rptr.3d 749].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Witnesses, §§ 440, 441.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 80, Defendant's Trial Rights, § 80.08[6][a][i], Ch. 83, Evidence, § 83.01[2][b], Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, §§ 85.01[5], 85.04[2][b] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Bizarre or Implausible Answers

If the defendant's denial or explanation is bizarre or implausible, several courts have held that the question whether his or her response is reasonable should be given to the jury with an instruction regarding adverse inferences. (People v. Mask (1986) 188 Cal.App.3d 450, 455 [233 Cal.Rptr. 181]; People v. Roehler (1985) 167 Cal.App.3d 353, 392–393 [213 Cal.Rptr. 353].) However, in People v. Kondor (1988) 200 Cal.App.3d 52, 57 [245 Cal.Rptr. 750], the court stated, "the test for giving the instruction [on failure to deny or explain] is not whether the defendant's testimony is believable. [The instruction] is unwarranted when a defendant explains or denies matters within his or her knowledge, no matter how improbable that explanation may appear."

Facts Beyond the Scope of Examination

If the defendant has limited his or her testimony to a specific factual issue, it is error for the prosecutor to comment, or the trial court to instruct, on his or her failure to explain or deny other evidence against him or her that is beyond the scope of this testimony. (People v. Tealer (1975) 48 Cal.App.3d 598, 604–607 [122 Cal.Rptr. 144].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

362. Consciousness of Guilt: False Statements

If [the] defendant [_____ <insert name of defendant when multiple defendants on trial>] made a false or misleading statement before this trial relating to the charged crime, knowing the statement was false or intending to mislead, that conduct may show (he/she) was aware of (his/her) guilt of the crime and you may consider it in determining (his/her) guilt. [You may not consider the statement in deciding any other defendant's guilt.]

If you conclude that the defendant made the statement, it is up to you to decide its meaning and importance. However, evidence that the defendant made such a statement cannot prove guilt by itself.

New January 2006; Revised August 2009, April 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

This instruction should not be given unless it can be inferred that the defendant made the false statement for self-protection rather than to protect someone else. (People v. Rankin (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 430, 436 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 735] [error to instruct on false statements and consciousness of guilt where defendant lied to protect an accomplice]; see also People v. Blakeslee (1969) 2 Cal.App.3d 831, 839 [82 Cal.Rptr. 839].)

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. People v. Najera (2008) 43 Cal.4th 1132, 1139 [77 Cal.Rptr.3d 605, 184 P.3d 732] [in context of adoptive admissions]; People v. Atwood (1963) 223 Cal.App.2d 316, 333 [35 Cal.Rptr. 831]; but see People v. Carter (2003) 30 Cal.4th 1166, 1197–1198 [135 Cal.Rptr.2d 553, 70 P.3d 981]; see also People v. Coffman and Marlow (2004) 34 Cal.4th 1, 102–103 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 710, 96 P.3d 30].
- This Instruction Upheld. People v. McGowan (2008) 160 Cal.App.4th 1099, 1104 [74 Cal.Rptr.3d 57].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Hearsay, § 110.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 83,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Evidence, § 83.13[1], Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.03[2][c] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

The word "willfully" was not included in the description of the making of the false statement. Although one court suggested that the jury be explicitly instructed that the defendant must "willfully" make the false statement (People v. Louis (1984) 159 Cal.App.3d 156, 161–162 [205 Cal.Rptr. 306]), the California Supreme Court subsequently held that such language is not required. (People v. Mickey (1991) 54 Cal.3d 612, 672, fn. 9 [286 Cal.Rptr. 801, 818 P.2d 84].)

RELATED ISSUES

Evidence

The false nature of the defendant's statement may be shown by inconsistencies in the defendant's own testimony, his or her pretrial statements, or by any other prosecution evidence. (People v. Kimble (1988) 44 Cal.3d 480, 498 [244 Cal.Rptr. 148, 749 P.2d 803] [overruling line of cases that required falsity to be demonstrated only by defendant's own testimony or statements]; accord People v. Edwards (1992) 8 Cal.App.4th 1092, 1103 [10 Cal.Rptr.2d 821]; People v. Williams (1995) 33 Cal.App.4th 467, 478–479 [39 Cal.Rptr.2d 358].)

Un-Mirandized Voluntary Statement

The Miranda rule (Miranda v. Arizona (1966) 384 U.S. 436, 444, 479 [86 S.Ct. 1602, 16 L.Ed.2d 694]) does not prohibit instructing the jury that it may draw an inference of guilt from a willfully false or deliberately misleading un-Mirandized statement that the defendant voluntarily introduces into evidence on direct examination. (People v. Williams (2000) 79 Cal.App.4th 1157, 1166–1169 [94 Cal.Rptr.2d 727].)

363–369. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

E. PARTICULAR TYPES OF EVIDENCE

370. Motive

The People are not required to prove that the defendant had a motive to commit (any of the crimes/the crime) charged. In reaching your verdict you may, however, consider whether the defendant had a motive.

Having a motive may be a factor tending to show that the defendant is guilty. Not having a motive may be a factor tending to show the defendant is not guilty.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court does not have a sua sponte duty to instruct on motive. (People v. Romo (1975) 14 Cal.3d 189, 196 [121 Cal.Rptr. 111, 534 P.2d 1015] [not error to refuse instruction on motive].)

Do not give this instruction if motive is an element of the crime charged. (See, e.g., CALCRIM No. 1122, Annoying or Molesting a Child.)

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. People v. Romo (1975) 14 Cal.3d 189, 195–196 [121 Cal.Rptr. 111, 534 P.2d 1015]; People v. Young (1970) 9 Cal.App.3d 106, 110 [87 Cal.Rptr. 767].
- Jury May Consider Motive. People v. Brown (1900) 130 Cal. 591, 594 [62 P. 1072]; People v. Gonzales (1948) 87 Cal.App.2d 867, 877–878 [198 P.2d 81].
- Proof of Presence or Absence of Motive Not Required. People v. Daly (1992) 8 Cal.App.4th 47, 59 [10 Cal.Rptr.2d 21]; People v. Scheer (1998) 68 Cal.App.4th 1009, 1017–1018 [80 Cal.Rptr.2d 676].
- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Ibarra (2007) 156 Cal.App.4th 1174, 1192–1193 [67 Cal.Rptr.3d 871].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Elements, § 4; Defenses, § 249.

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Circumstantial Evidence, § 119.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.03[2][c] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Entrapment Defense

The court should not instruct on motive if the defendant admits his guilt for the substantive crime and presents an entrapment defense, because in that instance his or her commission of the crime would not be an issue and motive would be irrelevant. (See People v. Martinez (1984) 157 Cal.App.3d 660, 669 [203 Cal.Rptr. 833]; People v. Lee (1990) 219 Cal.App.3d 829, 841 [268 Cal.Rptr. 595].)

No Conflict With Other Instructions

Motive, intent, and malice are separate and distinct mental states. Giving a motive instruction does not conflict with intent and malice instructions. (People v. Hillhouse (2002) 27 Cal.4th 469, 503–504 [117 Cal.Rptr.2d 45, 40 P.3d 754] [motive describes the reason a person chooses to commit a crime]; People v. Snead (1993) 20 Cal.App.4th 1088, 1098 [24 Cal.Rptr.2d 922].) Similarly, a motive instruction that focuses on guilt does not conflict with a special circumstance instruction, which the jury is directed to find true or not true. (People v. Heishman (1988) 45 Cal.3d 147, 178 [246 Cal.Rptr. 673, 753 P.2d 629] [defendant argued motive to prevent victim from testifying was at core of special circumstance].) A torture murder instruction that requires an intent to cause cruel pain or suffering for the purpose of revenge, extortion, or any sadistic purpose also does not conflict with the motive instruction. The torture murder instruction does not elevate motive to the status of an element of the crime. It simply makes explicit the treatment of motive as an element of proof in torture murder cases. (People v. Lynn (1984) 159 Cal.App.3d 715, 727–728 [206 Cal.Rptr. 181].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

371. Consciousness of Guilt: Suppression and Fabrication of Evidence

<Alternative A—suppression>

[If the defendant tried to hide evidence or discourage someone from testifying against (him/her), that conduct may show that (he/she) was aware of (his/her) guilt. If you conclude that the defendant made such an attempt, it is up to you to decide its meaning and importance. However, evidence of such an attempt cannot prove guilt by itself.]

<Alternative B—fabrication>

[If the defendant tried to create false evidence or obtain false testimony, that conduct may show that (he/she) was aware of (his/her) guilt. If you conclude that the defendant made such an attempt, it is up to you to decide its meaning and importance. However, evidence of such an attempt cannot prove guilt by itself.]

<Alternative C—fabrication or suppression by a third party>

[If someone other than the defendant tried to create false evidence, provide false testimony, or conceal or destroy evidence, that conduct may show the defendant was aware of (his/her) guilt, but only if the defendant was present and knew about that conduct, or, if not present, authorized the other person's actions. It is up to you to decide the meaning and importance of this evidence. However, evidence of such conduct cannot prove guilt by itself.]

<Give final paragraph if multiple defendants on trial>

[If you conclude that a defendant (tried to hide evidence[,]/ discouraged someone from testifying[,]/ [or] authorized another person to (hide evidence/ [or] discourage a witness)), you may consider that conduct only against that defendant. You may not consider that conduct in deciding whether any other defendant is guilty or not guilty.]

New January 2006

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

No authority imposes a duty to give this instruction sua sponte. However, People v. Atwood (1963) 223 Cal.App.2d 316 [35 Cal.Rptr. 831] held that the court had a sua sponte duty, under the circumstances of that case, to instruct on consciousness of guilt based on defendant's false statements because they pertained to the vital question of whether defendant admitted his guilt. (Id. at pp. 333–334.)

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. People v. Atwood (1963) 223 Cal.App.2d 316 [35 Cal.Rptr. 831]; see also People v. Coffman and Marlow (2004) 34 Cal.4th 1, 102–103 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 710, 96 P.3d 30].
- Fabrication or Suppression of Evidence. Evid. Code, § 413; People v. Jackson (1996) 13 Cal.4th 1164, 1224–1225 [56 Cal.Rptr.2d 49, 920 P.2d 1254]; People v. Rodrigues (1994) 8 Cal.4th 1060, 1138–1140 [36 Cal.Rptr.2d 235, 885 P.2d 1].
- Suppression of Evidence. Evid. Code, § 413; see People v. Farnam (2002) 28 Cal.4th 107, 165 [121 Cal.Rptr.2d 106, 47 P.3d 988] [instruction referring to defendant's refusal to provide blood or hair sample was not an erroneous pinpoint instruction].
- Defendant Present or Authorized Suppression by Third Party. People v. Hannon (1977) 19 Cal.3d 588, 597–600 [138 Cal.Rptr. 885, 564 P.2d 1203]; People v. Weiss (1958) 50 Cal.2d 535, 554 [327 P.2d 527]; People v. Kendall (1952) 111 Cal.App.2d 204, 213–214 [244 P.2d 418].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Hearsay, §§ 111, 112.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.03[2][c] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

372. Defendant's Flight

If the defendant fled [or tried to flee] (immediately after the crime was committed/ [or] after (he/she) was accused of committing the crime), that conduct may show that (he/she) was aware of (his/her) guilt. If you conclude that the defendant fled [or tried to flee], it is up to you to decide the meaning and importance of that conduct. However, evidence that the defendant fled [or tried to flee] cannot prove guilt by itself.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on flight whenever the prosecution relies on evidence of flight to show consciousness of guilt. (People v. Williams (1960) 179 Cal.App.2d 487, 491 [3 Cal.Rptr. 782].) There is, however, no reciprocal duty to instruct on the significance of the absence of flight, even on request. (People v. Staten (2000) 24 Cal.4th 434, 459 [101 Cal.Rptr.2d 213, 11 P.3d 968]; People v. Williams (1997) 55 Cal.App.4th 648, 651 [64 Cal.Rptr.2d 203].)

If the defendant's flight did not occur immediately after the crime was committed, the trial court should give the second option in the parenthetical. (People v. Carrera (1989) 49 Cal.3d 291, 313 [261 Cal.Rptr. 348, 777 P.2d 121] [flight from county jail]; People v. Farley (1996) 45 Cal.App.4th 1697, 1712 [53 Cal.Rptr.2d 702] [when flight was from custody, the instructional language "immediately after the commission of a crime" was irrelevant but harmless].)

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. Pen. Code, § 1127c; People v. Williams (1960) 179 Cal.App.2d 487, 491 [3 Cal.Rptr. 782]; People v. Bradford (1997) 14 Cal.4th 1005, 1054–1055 [60 Cal.Rptr.2d 225, 929 P.2d 544]; see People v. Mendoza (2000) 24 Cal.4th 130, 179–180 [99 Cal.Rptr.2d 485, 6 P.3d 150].
- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Paysinger (2009) 174 Cal.App.4th 26, 29–32 [93 Cal.Rptr.3d 901]; People v. Rios (2007) 151 Cal.App.4th 1154, 1159–1160 [60 Cal.Rptr.3d 591].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Hearsay, §§ 106–109.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, §§ 85.02[2][a][ii], 85.03[2][c] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Flight, Meaning

Flight does not require a person to physically run from the scene or make an escape. What is required is acting with the purpose of avoiding observation or arrest. (People v. Bradford (1997) 14 Cal.4th 1005, 1055 [60 Cal.Rptr.2d 225, 929 P.2d 544] [defendant fled when he left victim's apartment after killing her, told the assistant manager, "I really got to get the hell out of here," returned to his apartment, packed his belongings, asked a former girlfriend who lived out of the area if he could stay with her, and repeatedly pleaded with his roommate to drive him out of town].)

Identity at Issue

If evidence identifies the defendant as the person who fled, and this evidence is relied on as tending to show guilt, then it is not error to instruct the jury on flight. (People v. Mason (1991) 52 Cal.3d 909, 943 [277 Cal.Rptr. 166, 802 P.2d 950].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

373. Other Perpetrator

The evidence shows that (another person/other persons) may have been involved in the commission of the crime[s] charged against the defendant. There may be many reasons why someone who appears to have been involved might not be a codefendant in this particular trial. You must not speculate about whether (that other person has/those other persons have) been or will be prosecuted. Your duty is to decide whether the defendant on trial here committed the crime[s] charged.

[This instruction does not apply to the testimony of _____ <insert names of testifying coparticipants>.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has no sua sponte duty to give an instruction on unjoined co-participants; however, it must be given on request. (See People v. Sanders (1990) 221 Cal.App.3d 350, 359 [271 Cal.Rptr. 534].)

If other alleged participants in the crime are testifying, this instruction should not be given or the bracketed portion should be given exempting the testimony of those witnesses. (People v. Carrera (1989) 49 Cal.3d 291, 312 [261 Cal.Rptr. 348, 777 P.2d 121]; People v. Sully (1991) 53 Cal.3d 1195, 1218 [283 Cal.Rptr. 144, 812 P.2d 163]; People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 153, 226–227 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 123, 940 P.2d 710].) It is not error to give the first paragraph of this instruction if a reasonable juror would understand from all the instructions that evidence of criminal activity by a witness not being prosecuted in the current trial should be considered in assessing the witness's credibility. (People v. Fonseca (2003) 105 Cal.App.4th 543, 549–550 [129 Cal.Rptr.2d 513].)

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. People v. Farmer (1989) 47 Cal.3d 888, 918–919 [254 Cal.Rptr. 508, 765 P.2d 940], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Waidla (2000) 22 Cal.4th 690, 724, fn. 6 [94 Cal.Rptr.2d 396, 996 P.2d 46]; People v. Sanders (1990) 221 Cal.App.3d 350, 359 [271 Cal.Rptr. 534].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Secondary Sources

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 82, Witnesses, § 82.03[2], Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.03[2][d] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Jury Can Still Consider Evidence That Someone Else Was the Perpetrator

"The instruction does not tell the jury it cannot consider evidence that someone else was the perpetrator. It merely says the jury is not to speculate on whether someone else might or might not be prosecuted." (People v. Farmer (1989) 47 Cal.3d 888, 918–919 [254 Cal.Rptr. 508, 765 P.2d 940], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Waidla (2000) 22 Cal.4th 690, 724, fn. 6 [94 Cal.Rptr.2d 396, 996 P.2d 46].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

374. Dog Tracking Evidence

You have received evidence about the use of a tracking dog. You may not conclude that the defendant is the person who committed the crime based only on the fact that a dog indicated the defendant [or a location]. Before you may rely on dog tracking evidence, there must be:

1. Evidence of the dog's general reliability as a tracker;

AND

2. Other evidence that the dog accurately followed a trail that led to the person who committed the crime. This other evidence does not need to independently link the defendant to the crime.

In deciding the meaning and importance of the dog tracking evidence, consider the training, skill, and experience, if any, of the dog, its trainer, and its handler, together with everything else that you learned about the dog's work in this case.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on tracking dogs whenever they are used to prove the identity of a defendant. (People v. Malgren (1983) 139 Cal.App.3d 234, 241 [188 Cal.Rptr. 569], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Jones (1991) 53 Cal.3d 1115, 1144 [282 Cal.Rptr. 465, 811 P.2d 757].)

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. People v. Craig (1978) 86 Cal.App.3d 905, 917–918 [150 Cal.Rptr. 676].
- Dog Tracking Evidence Need Not Be Viewed With Caution. People v. Malgren (1983) 139 Cal.App.3d 234, 241 [188 Cal.Rptr. 569], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Jones (1991) 53 Cal.3d 1115, 1144 [282 Cal.Rptr. 465, 811 P.2d 757].
- Corroboration Requirement. People v. Gonzales (1990) 218 Cal.App.3d 403, 410 [267 Cal.Rptr. 138].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Opinion Evidence, § 77.

3 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 71, Scientific and Expert Evidence, § 71.04[1][d][ii] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

375. Evidence of Uncharged Offense to Prove Identity, Intent, Common Plan, etc.

<Introductory Sentence Alternative A—evidence of other offense admitted>

[The People presented evidence that the defendant committed ((another/other) offense[s]/the offense[s] of _____ <insert description of alleged offense[s]>) that (was/were) not charged in this case.]

<Introductory Sentence Alternative B—evidence of other act admitted>

[The People presented evidence (of other behavior by the defendant that was not charged in this case/that the defendant _____ <insert description of alleged conduct admitted under Evid. Code, § 1101(b)>).]

You may consider this evidence only if the People have proved by a preponderance of the evidence that the defendant in fact committed the (uncharged offense[s]/act[s]). Proof by a preponderance of the evidence is a different burden of proof than proof beyond a reasonable doubt. A fact is proved by a preponderance of the evidence if you conclude that it is more likely than not that the fact is true.

If the People have not met this burden, you must disregard this evidence entirely.

If you decide that the defendant committed the (uncharged offense[s]/act[s]), you may, but are not required to, consider that evidence for the limited purpose of deciding whether or not:

<Select specific grounds of relevance and delete all other options.>

<A. Identity>

[The defendant was the person who committed the offense[s] alleged in this case](./; or)

<B. Intent>

[The defendant acted with the intent to _____ <insert specific intent required to prove the offense[s] alleged> in this case](./; or)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

<C. Motive>

[The defendant had a motive to commit the offense[s] alleged in this case](./; or)

<D. Knowledge>

[The defendant knew _____ <insert knowledge required to prove the offense[s] alleged> when (he/she) allegedly acted in this case](./; or)

<E. Accident>

[The defendant's alleged actions were the result of mistake or accident](./; or)

<F. Common Plan>

[The defendant had a plan [or scheme] to commit the offense[s] alleged in this case](./; or)

<G. Consent>

[The defendant reasonably and in good faith believed that _____ <insert name or description of complaining witness> consented](./; or)

<H. Other Purpose>

[The defendant _____ *<insert description of other permissible purpose; see Evid. Code, § 1101(b)>.]

[In evaluating this evidence, consider the similarity or lack of similarity between the uncharged (offense[s]/ [and] act[s]) and the charged offense[s].]

Do not consider this evidence for any other purpose [except for the limited purpose of _____ *<insert other permitted purpose, e.g., determining the defendant's credibility>].

[Do not conclude from this evidence that the defendant has a bad character or is disposed to commit crime.]

If you conclude that the defendant committed the (uncharged offense[s]/ act[s]), that conclusion is only one factor to consider along with all the other evidence. It is not sufficient by itself to prove that the defendant is guilty of _____ <insert charge[s]> [or that the _____ <insert allegation[s]> has been proved]. The People must still prove (the/each) (charge/ [and] allegation) beyond a reasonable doubt.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

New January 2006; Revised April 2008

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court must give this instruction on request when evidence of other offenses has been introduced. (Evid. Code, § 1101(b); People v. Carpenter (1997) 15 Cal.4th 312, 382 [63 Cal.Rptr.2d 1, 935 P.2d 708]; People v. Collie (1981) 30 Cal.3d 43, 63–64 [177 Cal.Rptr. 458, 634 P.2d 534].) The court is only required to give this instruction sua sponte in the "occasional extraordinary case in which unprotested evidence of past offenses is a dominant part of the evidence against the accused, and is both highly prejudicial and minimally relevant to any legitimate purpose." (People v. Collie, supra, 30 Cal.3d at pp. 63–64.)

Do not give this instruction in the penalty phase of a capital case. (See CALCRIM No. 764, Death Penalty: Evidence of Other Violent Crimes.)

If evidence of uncharged conduct is admitted only under Evidence Code section 1108 or 1109, do not give this instruction. (See CALCRIM No. 1191, Evidence of Uncharged Sex Offense; CALCRIM No. 852, Evidence of Uncharged Domestic Violence; and CALCRIM No. 853, Evidence of Uncharged Abuse of Elder or Dependent Person.)

If the court admits evidence of uncharged conduct amounting to a criminal offense, give introductory sentence alternative A and select the words "uncharged offense[s]" where indicated. If the court admits evidence under Evidence Code section 1101(b) that does not constitute a criminal offense, give introductory sentence alternative B and select the word "act[s]" where indicated. (People v. Enos (1973) 34 Cal.App.3d 25, 42 [109 Cal.Rptr. 876] [evidence tending to show defendant was "casing" a home admitted to prove intent where burglary of another home charged and defendant asserted he was in the second home by accident].) The court is not required to identify the specific acts to which this instruction applies. (People v. Nicolas (2004) 34 Cal.4th 614, 668 [21 Cal.Rptr.3d 612, 101 P.3d 509].)

If the court has admitted evidence that the defendant was convicted of a felony or committed a misdemeanor for the purpose of impeachment in addition to evidence admitted under Evidence Code section 1101(b), then the court must specify for the jury what evidence it may consider under section 1101(b). (People v. Rollo (1977) 20 Cal.3d 109, 123, fn. 6 [141 Cal.Rptr. 177, 569 P.2d 771], superseded in part on other grounds as recognized in

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

People v. Olmedo (1985) 167 Cal.App.3d 1085, 1096 [213 Cal.Rptr. 742].) In alternative A, insert a description of the uncharged offense allegedly shown by the 1101(b) evidence. If the court has not admitted any felony convictions or misdemeanor conduct for impeachment, then the court may give the alternative "another offense" or "other offenses" without specifying the uncharged offenses.

The court must instruct the jury on what issue the evidence has been admitted to prove and delete reference to all other potential theories of relevance. (People v. Swearington (1977) 71 Cal.App.3d 935, 949 [140 Cal.Rptr. 5]; People v. Simon (1986) 184 Cal.App.3d 125, 131 [228 Cal.Rptr. 855].) Select the appropriate grounds from options A through H and delete all grounds that do not apply.

When giving option F, the court may give the bracketed "or scheme" at its discretion, if relevant.

The court may give the bracketed sentence that begins with "In evaluating this evidence" at its discretion when instructing on evidence of uncharged offenses that has been admitted based on similarity to the current offense. (See People v. Ewoldt (1994) 7 Cal.4th 380, 402–404 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 646, 867 P.2d 757]; People v. Balcom (1994) 7 Cal.4th 414, 424 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 666, 867 P.2d 777].) For example, when the evidence of similar offenses is admitted to prove common plan, intent, or identity, this bracketed sentence would be appropriate.

Give the bracketed sentence beginning with "Do not conclude from this evidence that" on request if the evidence is admitted only under Evidence Code section 1101(b). Do not give this sentence if the court is also instructing under Evidence Code section 1108 or 1109.

The paragraph that begins with "If you conclude that the defendant committed" has been included to prevent jury confusion regarding the standard of proof. (See People v. Reliford (2003) 29 Cal.4th 1007, 1012–1013 [130 Cal.Rptr.2d 254, 62 P.3d 601] [instruction on section 1108 evidence sufficient where it advised jury that prior offense alone not sufficient to convict; prosecution still required to prove all elements beyond a reasonable doubt].)

AUTHORITY

- Evidence Admissible for Limited Purposes. Evid. Code, § 1101(b); People v. Ewoldt (1994) 7 Cal.4th 380, 393–394 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 646, 867 P.2d 757]; People v. Balcom (1994) 7 Cal.4th 414, 422 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 666, 867 P.2d 777].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Degree of Similarity Required. People v. Ewoldt (1994) 7 Cal.4th 380, 402–404 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 646, 867 P.2d 757]; People v. Balcom (1994) 7 Cal.4th 414, 424 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 666, 867 P.2d 777].
- Analysis Under Evidence Code Section 352 Required. People v. Ewoldt (1994) 7 Cal.4th 380, 404 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 646, 867 P.2d 757]; People v. Balcom (1994) 7 Cal.4th 414, 426–427 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 666, 867 P.2d 777].
- Instructional Requirements. People v. Collie (1981) 30 Cal.3d 43, 63–64 [177 Cal.Rptr. 458, 634 P.2d 534]; People v. Morrisson (1979) 92 Cal.App.3d 787, 790 [155 Cal.Rptr. 152].
- Other Crimes Proved by Preponderance of Evidence. People v. Carpenter (1997) 15 Cal.4th 312, 382 [63 Cal.Rptr.2d 1, 935 P.2d 708].
- Potential Conflict With Circumstantial Evidence Instruction. People v. James (2000) 81 Cal.App.4th 1343, 1358–1359 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 823].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Circumstantial Evidence, §§ 74–95.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 83, Evidence, § 83.12[1][c] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Circumstantial Evidence—Burden of Proof

Evidence of other offenses is circumstantial evidence that the defendant committed the offense charged. (See People v. James (2000) 81 Cal.App.4th 1343, 1358, fn. 9 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 823].) Courts have recognized a potential conflict between the preponderance standard required to prove uncharged offenses and the reasonable doubt standard required to prove each underlying fact when the case is based primarily on circumstantial evidence. (See People v. Medina (1995) 11 Cal.4th 694, 763–764 [47 Cal.Rptr.2d 165, 906 P.2d 2]; People v. James, supra, 81 Cal.App.4th at p. 1358, fn. 9.) The court must give the general circumstantial evidence instruction (CALCRIM No. 223, Direct and Circumstantial Evidence: Defined) "only when the prosecution relies on circumstantial evidence to prove the defendant's guilt from a pattern of incriminating circumstances, not when circumstantial evidence serves solely to corroborate direct evidence." (People v. James, supra, 81 Cal.App.4th at p. 1359.) Thus, if evidence of other offenses is offered to corroborate direct evidence that the defendant committed the crime, no conflict exists. However, when the prosecution's case rests substantially or entirely on circumstantial evidence, there will be a conflict between this instruction and CALCRIM No. 223. (People v. James, supra, 81 Cal.App.4th at p. 1358, fn. 9; People v. Younger (2000) 84 Cal.App.4th 1360, 1382 [101 Cal.Rptr.2d 624]; People v. Jeffries (2000) 83 Cal.App.4th 15, 23–24, fn. 7 [98 Cal.Rptr.2d 903].) No case has determined how this conflict should be resolved. If this issue arises in a particular case, the court should consider the authorities cited and determine whether it is necessary to modify this instruction. (People v. Younger, supra, 84 Cal.App.4th at p. 1382; People v. Jeffries, supra, 83 Cal.App.4th at p. 24, fn. 7.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Issue in Dispute

The "defendant's plea of not guilty does put the elements of the crime in issue for the purpose of deciding the admissibility of evidence of uncharged misconduct, unless the defendant has taken some action to narrow the prosecution's burden of proof." (People v. Ewoldt (1994) 7 Cal.4th 380, 400, fn. 4 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 646, 867 P.2d 757]; People v. Rowland (1992) 4 Cal.4th 238, 260 [14 Cal.Rptr.2d 377, 841 P.2d 897].) The defense may seek to "narrow the prosecution's burden of proof" by stipulating to an issue. (People v. Bruce (1989) 208 Cal.App.3d 1099, 1103–1106 [256 Cal.Rptr. 647].) "[T]he prosecution in a criminal case cannot be compelled to accept a stipulation if the effect would be to deprive the state's case of its persuasiveness and forcefulness." (People v. Scheid (1997) 16 Cal.4th 1, 16–17 [65 Cal.Rptr.2d 348, 939 P.2d 748].) However, an offer to stipulate may make the evidence less probative and more cumulative, weighing in favor of exclusion under Evidence Code section 352. (People v. Thornton (2000) 85 Cal.App.4th 44, 49 [101 Cal.Rptr.2d 825] [observing that offer "not to argue" the issue is insufficient].) The court must also consider whether there could be a "reasonable dispute" about the issue. (See People v. Balcom (1994) 7 Cal.4th 414, 422–423 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 666, 867 P.2d 777] [evidence of other offense not admissible to show intent to rape because if jury believed witness's account, intent could not reasonably be disputed]; People v. Bruce, supra, 208 Cal.App.3d at pp. 1103–1106 [same].)

Subsequent Offenses Admissible

Evidence of a subsequent as well as a prior offense is admissible. (People v. Balcom (1994) 7 Cal.4th 414, 422–423, 425 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 666, 867 P.2d 777].)

Offenses Not Connected to Defendant

Evidence of other offenses committed in the same manner as the alleged offense is not admissible unless there is sufficient evidence that the defendant committed the uncharged offenses. (People v. Martinez (1992) 10 Cal.App.4th 1001, 1006–1007 [12 Cal.Rptr.2d 838] [evidence of how auto-theft rings operate inadmissible]; People v. Hernandez (1997) 55 Cal.App.4th 225, 242 [63 Cal.Rptr.2d 769] [evidence from police database of similar sexual offenses committed by unknown assailant inadmissible].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

376. Possession of Recently Stolen Property as Evidence of a Crime

---

If you conclude that the defendant knew (he/she) possessed property and you conclude that the property had in fact been recently (stolen/extorted), you may not convict the defendant of _____ <insert crime> based on those facts alone. However, if you also find that supporting evidence tends to prove (his/her) guilt, then you may conclude that the evidence is sufficient to prove (he/she) committed _____ <insert crime>.

The supporting evidence need only be slight and need not be enough by itself to prove guilt. You may consider how, where, and when the defendant possessed the property, along with any other relevant circumstances tending to prove (his/her) guilt of _____ <insert crime>.

[You may also consider whether _____ <insert other appropriate factors for consideration>.]

Remember that you may not convict the defendant of any crime unless you are convinced that each fact essential to the conclusion that the defendant is guilty of that crime has been proved beyond a reasonable doubt.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

In People v. Najera (2008) 43 Cal.4th 1132, 1141 [77 Cal.Rptr.3d 605, 184 P.3d 732], the Supreme Court abrogated People v. Clark (1953) 122 Cal.App.2d 342, 346 [265 P.2d 43] [failure to instruct that unexplained possession alone does not support finding of guilt was error]. Accordingly, there is no longer a sua sponte duty to give this instruction.

The instruction may be given when the charged crime is robbery, burglary, theft, or receiving stolen property. (See People v. McFarland (1962) 58 Cal.2d 748, 755 [26 Cal.Rptr. 473, 376 P.2d 449] [burglary and theft]; People v. Johnson (1993) 6 Cal.4th 1, 36–37 [23 Cal.Rptr.2d 593, 859 P.2d 673] [burglary]; People v. Gamble (1994) 22 Cal.App.4th 446, 453 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 451] [robbery]; People v. Anderson (1989) 210 Cal.App.3d 414, 424 [258

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.Rptr. 482] [receiving stolen property].) The crime of receiving stolen property includes receiving property that was obtained by extortion (Pen. Code, § 496). Thus, the instruction also includes optional language for recently extorted property.

Use of this instruction should be limited to theft and theft-related crimes. (People v. Barker (2001) 91 Cal.App.4th 1166, 1176 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 403] [disapproving use of instruction to infer guilt of murder]; but see People v. Harden (2003) 110 Cal.App.4th 848, 856 [2 Cal.Rptr.3d 105] [court did not err in giving modified instruction on possession of recently stolen property in relation to special circumstance of murder committed during robbery]; People v. Smithey (1999) 20 Cal.4th 936, 975–978 [86 Cal.Rptr.2d 243, 978 P.2d 1171] [in a case involving both premeditated and felony murder, no error in instructing on underlying crimes of robbery and burglary]; People v. Mendoza (2000) 24 Cal.4th 130, 176–177 [99 Cal.Rptr.2d 485, 6 P.3d 150].)

Corroborating Evidence

The bracketed paragraph that begins with "You may also consider" may be used if the court grants a request for instruction on specific examples of corroboration supported by the evidence. (See People v. Russell (1932) 120 Cal.App. 622, 625–626 [8 P.2d 209] [list of examples]; see also People v. Peters (1982) 128 Cal.App.3d 75, 85–86 [180 Cal.Rptr. 76] [reference to false or contradictory statement improper when no such evidence was introduced]). Examples include the following:

a. False, contradictory, or inconsistent statements. (People v. Anderson (1989) 210 Cal.App.3d 414, 424 [258 Cal.Rptr. 482]; see, e.g., People v. Peete (1921) 54 Cal.App. 333, 345–346 [202 P. 51] [false statement showing consciousness of guilt]; People v. Lang (1989) 49 Cal.3d 991, 1024–1025 [264 Cal.Rptr. 386, 782 P.2d 627] [false explanation for possession of property]; People v. Farrell (1924) 67 Cal.App. 128, 133–134 [227 P. 210] [same].)

b. The attributes of possession, e.g., the time, place, and manner of possession that tend to show guilt. (People v. Anderson, supra, 210 Cal.App.3d at p. 424; People v. Hallman (1973) 35 Cal.App.3d 638, 641 [110 Cal.Rptr. 891]; see, e.g., People v. Gamble (1994) 22 Cal.App.4th 446, 453–454 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 451].)

c. The opportunity to commit the crime. (People v. Anderson, supra, 210 Cal.App.3d at p. 425; People v. Mosqueira (1970) 12 Cal.App.3d 1173, 1176 [91 Cal.Rptr. 370].)

d. The defendant's conduct or statements tending to show guilt, or the failure to explain possession of the property under circumstances that indicate a "consciousness of guilt." (People v. Citrino (1956) 46 Cal.2d 284, 288–289 [294 P.2d 32]; People v. Wells (1960) 187 Cal.App.2d 324, 328–329, 331–332 [9 Cal.Rptr. 384]; People v. Mendoza (2000) 24 Cal.4th 130, 175–176 [99 Cal.Rptr.2d 485, 6 P.3d 150]; People v. Champion (1968) 265 Cal.App.2d 29, 32 [71 Cal.Rptr. 113].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

e. Flight after arrest. (People v. Scott (1924) 66 Cal.App. 200, 203 [225 P. 767]; People v. Wells, supra, 187 Cal.App.2d at p.329.)

f. Assuming a false name and being unable to find the person from whom the defendant claimed to have received the property. (People v. Cox (1916) 29 Cal.App. 419, 422 [155 P. 1010].)

g. Sale of property under a false name and at an inadequate price. (People v. Majors (1920) 47 Cal.App. 374, 375 [190 P. 636].)

h. Sale of property with identity marks removed (People v. Miller (1920) 45 Cal.App. 494, 496–497 [188 P. 52]) or removal of serial numbers (People v. Esquivel (1994) 28 Cal.App.4th 1386, 1401 [34 Cal.Rptr.2d 324]).

i. Modification of the property. (People v. Esquivel, supra, 28 Cal.App.4th at p. 1401 [shortening barrels of shotguns].)

j. Attempting to throw away the property. (People v. Crotty (1925) 70 Cal.App. 515, 518–519 [233 P. 395].)

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. People v. Williams (2000) 79 Cal.App.4th 1157, 1172 [94 Cal.Rptr.2d 727]; see People v. McFarland (1962) 58 Cal.2d 748, 755 [26 Cal.Rptr. 473, 376 P.2d 449].
- This Instruction Upheld. People v. O'Dell (2007) 153 Cal.App.4th 1569, 1577 [64 Cal.Rptr.3d 116]; People v. Solorzano (2007) 153 Cal.App.4th 1026, 1036 [63 Cal.Rptr.3d 659].
- Corroboration Defined. See Pen. Code, § 1111; People v. McFarland (1962) 58 Cal.2d 748, 754–755 [26 Cal.Rptr. 473, 376 P.2d 449].
- Due Process Requirements for Permissive Inferences. Ulster County Court v. Allen (1979) 442 U.S. 140, 157, 165 [99 S.Ct. 2213, 60 L.Ed.2d 777]; People v. Williams (2000) 79 Cal.App.4th 1157, 1172; People v. Gamble (1994) 22 Cal.App.4th 446, 454–455 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 451].
- Examples of Corroborative Evidence. People v. Russell (1932) 120 Cal.App. 622, 625–626 [8 P.2d 209].
- Recently Stolen. People v. Anderson (1989) 210 Cal.App.3d 414,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

421–422 [258 Cal.Rptr. 482]; People v. Lopez (1954) 126 Cal.App.2d 274, 278 [271 P.2d 874].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against Property, § 13 [in context of larceny]; § 82 [in context of receiving stolen property]; § 86 [in context of robbery]; § 135 [in context of burglary].

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Criminal Trial, § 526 [presumptions].

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Burden of Proof and Presumptions, § 62; Circumstantial Evidence, § 129.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.03[2][c] (Matthew Bender).

377–399. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AIDING AND ABETTING, INCHOATE, AND ACCESSORIAL CRIMES

A. AIDING AND ABETTING AND RELATED DOCTRINES

400. Aiding and Abetting: General Principles

401. Aiding and Abetting: Intended Crimes

402. Natural and Probable Consequences Doctrine (Target and Non-Target Offenses Charged)

403. Natural and Probable Consequences (Only Non-Target Offense Charged)

404. Intoxication

405–414. Reserved for Future Use

B. CONSPIRACY

415. Conspiracy (Pen. Code, § 182)

416. Evidence of Uncharged Conspiracy

417. Liability for Coconspirators' Acts

418. Coconspirator's Statements

419. Acts Committed or Statements Made Before Joining Conspiracy

420. Withdrawal From Conspiracy

421–439. Reserved for Future Use

C. ACCESSORY AND SOLICITATION

440. Accessories (Pen. Code, § 32)

441. Solicitation: Elements (Pen. Code, § 653f)

442. Solicitation of a Minor (Pen. Code, § 653j)

443. Compelling Another to Commit Crime

444–449. Reserved for Future Use

D. CORPORATE OFFICERS

450. Liability of Corporate Officers and Agents: Single Theory of Liability

451. Liability of Corporate Officers and Agents: Two Theories of Liability

452–459. Reserved for Future Use

E. ATTEMPT

460. Attempt Other Than Attempted Murder (Pen. Code, § 21a)

461–499. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

A. AIDING AND ABETTING AND RELATED DOCTRINES

400. Aiding and Abetting: General Principles

A person may be guilty of a crime in two ways. One, he or she may have directly committed the crime. I will call that person the perpetrator. Two, he or she may have aided and abetted a perpetrator, who directly committed the crime.

A person is guilty of a crime whether he or she committed it personally or aided and abetted the perpetrator.

[Under some specific circumstances, if the evidence establishes aiding and abetting of one crime, a person may also be found guilty of other crimes that occurred during the commission of the first crime.]

New January 2006; Revised June 2007, August 2009, April 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on aiding and abetting when the prosecutor relies on it as a theory of culpability. (People v. Beeman (1984) 35 Cal.3d 547, 560–561 [199 Cal.Rptr. 60, 674 P.2d 1318].)

When the prosecution is relying on aiding and abetting, give this instruction before other instructions on aiding and abetting to introduce this theory of culpability to the jury.

An aider and abettor may be found guilty of a different crime or degree of crime than the perpetrator if the aider and abettor and the perpetrator do not have the same mental state. (People v. Samaniego (2009) 172 Cal.App.4th 1148, 1166 [91 Cal.Rptr.3d 874]; People v. Woods (1992) 8 Cal.App.4th 1570, 1577–1578 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 231]; People v. McCoy (2001) 25 Cal.4th 1111, 1115–1116 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 188, 24 P.3d 1210].)

If the prosecution is also relying on the natural and probable consequences doctrine, the court should also instruct with the last bracketed paragraph.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Depending on which theories are relied on by the prosecution, the court should then instruct as follows.

Intended Crimes (Target Crimes)

If the prosecution's theory is that the defendant intended to aid and abet the crime or crimes charged (target crimes), give CALCRIM No. 401, Aiding and Abetting: Intended Crimes.

Natural & Probable Consequences Doctrine (Non-Target Crimes)

If the prosecution's theory is that any of the crimes charged were committed as a natural and probable consequence of the target crime, CALCRIM No. 402 or 403 should also be given. If both the target and non-target crimes are charged, give CALCRIM No. 402, Natural and Probable Consequences Doctrine (Target and Non-Target Offenses Charged). In some cases, the prosecution may not charge the target crime but only the non-target crime. In that case, give CALCRIM No. 403, Natural and Probable Consequences (Only Non-Target Offense Charged).

AUTHORITY

- Aiding and Abetting Defined. People v. Beeman (1984) 35 Cal.3d 547, 560–561 [199 Cal.Rptr. 60, 674 P.2d 1318].
- Murder Not Complete Until Victim Dies. People v. Celis (2006) 141 Cal.App.4th 466, 471–474 [46 Cal.Rptr.3d 139].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Introduction to Crimes, § 78.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.03[2][d] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.10 (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

401. Aiding and Abetting: Intended Crimes

To prove that the defendant is guilty of a crime based on aiding and abetting that crime, the People must prove that:

1. The perpetrator committed the crime;
2. The defendant knew that the perpetrator intended to commit the crime;
3. Before or during the commission of the crime, the defendant intended to aid and abet the perpetrator in committing the crime;

AND

4. The defendant's words or conduct did in fact aid and abet the perpetrator's commission of the crime.

Someone aids and abets a crime if he or she knows of the perpetrator's unlawful purpose and he or she specifically intends to, and does in fact, aid, facilitate, promote, encourage, or instigate the perpetrator's commission of that crime.

If all of these requirements are proved, the defendant does not need to actually have been present when the crime was committed to be guilty as an aider and abettor.

[If you conclude that defendant was present at the scene of the crime or failed to prevent the crime, you may consider that fact in determining whether the defendant was an aider and abettor. However, the fact that a person is present at the scene of a crime or fails to prevent the crime does not, by itself, make him or her an aider and abettor.]

[A person who aids and abets a crime is not guilty of that crime if he or she withdraws before the crime is committed. To withdraw, a person must do two things:

1. He or she must notify everyone else he or she knows is involved in the commission of the crime that he or she is no longer participating. The notification must be made early enough to prevent the commission of the crime.

AND

2. He or she must do everything reasonably within his or her power to prevent the crime from being committed. He or she does not have to actually prevent the crime.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant did not withdraw. If the People have not met this burden, you may not find the defendant guilty under an aiding and abetting theory.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on aiding and abetting when the prosecution relies on it as a theory of culpability. (People v. Beeman (1984) 35 Cal.3d 547, 560–561 [199 Cal.Rptr. 60, 674 P.2d 1318].)

If there is evidence that the defendant was merely present at the scene or only had knowledge that a crime was being committed, the court has a sua sponte duty to give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "If you conclude that defendant was present." (People v. Boyd (1990) 222 Cal.App.3d 541, 557 fn.14 [271 Cal.Rptr. 738]; In re Michael T. (1978) 84 Cal.App.3d 907, 911 [149 Cal.Rptr. 87].)

If there is evidence that the defendant withdrew from participation in the crime, the court has a sua sponte duty to give the bracketed portion regarding withdrawal. (People v. Norton (1958) 161 Cal.App.2d 399, 403 [327 P.2d 87]; People v. Ross (1979) 92 Cal.App.3d 391, 404–405 [154 Cal.Rptr. 783].)

Related Instructions

Give CALCRIM No. 400, Aiding and Abetting: General Principles, before this instruction. Note that Penal Code section 30 uses "principal" but that CALCRIM Nos. 400 and 401 substitute "perpetrator" for clarity.

If the prosecution charges non-target crimes under the Natural and Probable Consequences Doctrine, give CALCRIM No. 402, Natural and Probable Consequences Doctrine (Target and Non-Target Offenses Charged), if both non-target and target crimes have been charged. Give CALCRIM No. 403, Natural and Probable Consequences (Only Non-Target Offense Charged), if only the non-target crimes have been charged.

If the defendant is charged with aiding and abetting robbery and there is an issue as to when intent to aid and abet was formed, give CALCRIM No. 1603, Robbery: Intent of Aider and Abettor.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If the defendant is charged with aiding and abetting burglary and there is an issue as to when intent to aid and abet was formed, give CALCRIM No. 1702, Burglary: Intent of Aider and Abettor.

AUTHORITY

- Definition of Principals. Pen. Code, § 31.
- Parties to Crime. Pen. Code, § 30.
- Presence or Knowledge Insufficient. People v. Boyd (1990) 222 Cal.App.3d 541, 557 fn.14 [271 Cal.Rptr. 738]; In re Michael T. (1978) 84 Cal.App.3d 907, 911 [149 Cal.Rptr. 87].
- Requirements for Aiding and Abetting. People v. Beeman (1984) 35 Cal.3d 547, 560–561 [199 Cal.Rptr. 60, 674 P.2d 1318].
- Withdrawal. People v. Norton (1958) 161 Cal.App.2d 399, 403 [327 P.2d 87]; People v. Ross (1979) 92 Cal.App.3d 391, 404–405 [154 Cal.Rptr. 783].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Introduction to Crimes, § 78.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.03[2][d] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.10[3] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Perpetrator versus Aider and Abettor

For purposes of culpability the law does not distinguish between perpetrators and aiders and abettors; however, the required mental states that must be proved for each are different. One who engages in conduct that is an element of the charged crime is a perpetrator, not an aider and abettor of the crime. (People v. Cook (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 1364, 1371 [72 Cal.Rptr.2d 183].)

Accessory After the Fact

The prosecution must show that an aider and abettor intended to facilitate or encourage the target offense before or during its commission. If the defendant formed an intent to aid after the crime was completed, then he or she may be liable as an accessory after the fact. (People v. Cooper (1991) 53 Cal.3d 1158, 1160–1161 [282 Cal.Rptr. 450, 811 P.2d 742] [get-away driver, whose intent to aid was formed after asportation of property, was an accessory after the fact, not an aider and abettor]; People v. Rutkowsky (1975) 53 Cal.App.3d

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1069, 1072–1073 [126 Cal.Rptr. 104]; People v. Rodriguez (1986) 42 Cal.3d 730, 760–761 [230 Cal.Rptr. 667, 726 P.2d 113].)

Factors Relevant to Aiding and Abetting

Factors relevant to determining whether a person is an aider and abettor include: presence at the scene of the crime, companionship, and conduct before or after the offense. (People v. Singleton (1987) 196 Cal.App.3d 488, 492 [241 Cal.Rptr. 842] [citing People v. Chagolla (1983) 144 Cal.App.3d 422, 429 [193 Cal.Rptr. 711]]; People v. Campbell (1994) 25 Cal.App.4th 402, 409 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 525].)

Presence Not Required

A person may aid and abet a crime without being physically present. (People v. Bohmer (1975) 46 Cal.App.3d 185, 199 [120 Cal.Rptr. 136]; see also People v. Sarkis (1990) 222 Cal.App.3d 23, 27 [272 Cal.Rptr. 34].) Nor does a person have to physically assist in the commission of the crime; a person may be guilty of aiding and abetting if he or she intends the crime to be committed and instigates or encourages the perpetrator to commit it. (People v. Booth (1996) 48 Cal.App.4th 1247, 1256 [56 Cal.Rptr.2d 202].)

Principal Acquitted or Convicted of Lesser Offense

Although the jury must find that the principal committed the crime aided and abetted, the fact that a principal has been acquitted of a crime or convicted of a lesser offense in a separate proceeding does not bar conviction of an aider and abettor. (People v. Wilkins (1994) 26 Cal.App.4th 1089, 1092–1094 [31 Cal.Rptr.2d 764]; People v. Summersville (1995) 34 Cal.App.4th 1062, 1066–1069 [40 Cal.Rptr.2d 683]; People v. Rose (1997) 56 Cal.App.4th 990 [65 Cal.Rptr.2d 887].) A single Supreme Court case has created an exception to this principle and held that non-mutual collateral estoppel bars conviction of an aider and abettor when the principal was acquitted in a separate proceeding. (People v. Taylor (1974) 12 Cal.3d 686, 696–698 [117 Cal.Rptr.70, 527 P.2d 622].) In Taylor, the defendant was the "get-away driver" in a liquor store robbery in which one of the perpetrators inadvertently killed another during a gun battle inside the store. In a separate trial, the gunman was acquitted of the murder of his co-perpetrator because the jury did not find malice. The court held that collateral estoppel barred conviction of the aiding and abetting driver, reasoning that the policy considerations favoring application of collateral estoppel were served in the case. The court specifically limited its holding to the facts, emphasizing the clear identity of issues involved and the need to prevent inconsistent verdicts. (See also People v. Howard (1988) 44 Cal.3d 375, 411–414 [243 Cal.Rptr.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

842, 749 P.2d 279] [court rejected collateral estoppel argument and reiterated the limited nature of its holding in Taylor].)

Specific Intent Crimes

If a specific intent crime is aided and abetted, the aider and abettor must share the requisite specific intent with the perpetrator. "[A]n aider and abettor will 'share' the perpetrator's specific intent when he or she knows the full extent of the perpetrator's criminal purpose and gives aid or encouragement with the intent or purpose of facilitating the perpetrator's commission of the crime." (People v. Beeman (1984) 35 Cal.3d 547, 560 [199 Cal.Rptr. 60, 674 P.2d 1318] [citations omitted].) The perpetrator must have the requisite specific intent and the jury must be so instructed. (People v. Patterson (1989) 209 Cal.App.3d 610 [257 Cal.Rptr. 407] [trial court erred in failing to instruct jury that perpetrator must have specific intent to kill]; People v. Torres (1990) 224 Cal.App.3d 763, 768–769 [274 Cal.Rptr. 117].) And the jury must find that the aider and abettor shared the perpetrator's specific intent. (People v. Acero (1984) 161 Cal.App.3d 217, 224 [208 Cal.Rptr. 565] [to convict defendant of aiding and abetting and attempted murder, jury must find that he shared perpetrator's specific intent to kill].)

Greater Guilt Than Actual Killer

An aider and abettor may be guilty of greater homicide-related crimes than the actual killer. When a person, with the mental state necessary for an aider and abettor, helps or induces another to kill, that person's guilt is determined by the combined acts of all the participants as well as that person's own mens rea. If that person's mens rea is more culpable than another's, that person's guilt may be greater even if the other is deemed the actual killer. (People v. McCoy (2001) 25 Cal.4th 1111, 1121 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 188, 24 P.3d 1210].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

402. Natural and Probable Consequences Doctrine (Target and Non-Target Offenses Charged)

The defendant is charged in Count[s] _____ with _____ <insert target offense> and in Counts[s] _____ with _____ <insert non-target offense>.

You must first decide whether the defendant is guilty of _____ <insert target offense>. If you find the defendant is guilty of this crime, you must then decide whether (he/she) is guilty of _____ <insert non-target offense>.

Under certain circumstances, a person who is guilty of one crime may also be guilty of other crimes that were committed at the same time.

To prove that the defendant is guilty of _____ <insert non-target offense>, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant is guilty of _____ <insert target offense>;
2. During the commission of _____ <insert target offense> a coparticipant in that _____ <insert target offense> committed the crime of _____ <insert non-target offense>;

AND

3. Under all of the circumstances, a reasonable person in the defendant's position would have known that the commission of _____ <insert non-target offense> was a natural and probable consequence of the commission of the _____ <insert target offense>.

A coparticipant in a crime is the perpetrator or anyone who aided and abetted the perpetrator. It does not include a victim or innocent bystander.

A natural and probable consequence is one that a reasonable person would know is likely to happen if nothing unusual intervenes. In deciding whether a consequence is natural and probable, consider all of the circumstances established by the evidence. If the _____ <insert non-target offense> was committed for a reason independent of the common plan to commit the _____ <insert target offense>, then the commission of _____ <insert non-target offense> was not a natural and probable consequence of _____ <insert target offense>.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

To decide whether the crime of _____ <insert non-target offense> was committed, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on that crime.

[The People allege that the defendant originally intended to aid and abet the commission of either _____ <insert target offense> or _____ <insert other target offense>. The defendant is guilty of _____ <insert non-target offense> if the People have proved that the defendant aided and abetted either _____ <insert target offense> or _____ <insert other target offense> and that _____ <insert non-target offense> was the natural and probable consequence of either _____ <insert target offense> or _____ <insert other target offense>. However, you do not need to agree on which of these two crimes the defendant aided and abetted.]

New January 2006; Revised June 2007, April 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on aiding and abetting when the prosecution relies on that theory of culpability. (People v. Beeman (1984) 35 Cal.3d 547, 560–561 [199 Cal.Rptr. 60, 674 P.2d 1318].)

The court has a sua sponte duty to identify and instruct on any target offense relied on by the prosecution as a predicate offense when substantial evidence supports the theory. Give all relevant instructions on the alleged target offense or offenses. The court, however, does not have to instruct on all potential target offenses supported by the evidence if the prosecution does not rely on those offenses. (People v. Prettyman (1996) 14 Cal.4th 248, 267–268 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 827, 926 P.2d 1013]; see People v. Huynh (2002) 99 Cal.App.4th 662, 677–678 [121 Cal.Rptr.2d 340] [no sua sponte duty to instruct on simple assault when prosecutor never asked court to consider it as target offense].)

The target offense is the crime that the accused parties intended to commit.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

The non-target is an additional unintended crime that occurs during the commission of the target.

Related Instructions

Give CALCRIM No. 400, Aiding and Abetting: General Principles, and CALCRIM No. 401, Aiding and Abetting: Intended Crimes, before this instruction.

This instruction should be used when the prosecution relies on the Natural and Probable Consequences Doctrine and charges both target and non-target crimes. If only non-target crimes are charged, give CALCRIM No. 403.

AUTHORITY

- Aiding and Abetting Defined. People v. Beeman (1984) 35 Cal.3d 547, 560–561 [199 Cal.Rptr. 60, 674 P.2d 1318].
- Natural and Probable Consequences, Reasonable Person Standard. People v. Nguyen (1993) 21 Cal.App.4th 518, 531 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 323].
- Court Must Properly Instruct on Mental State for Nontarget Crime. People v. Hart (2009) 176 Cal.App.4th 662, 673 [97 Cal.Rptr.3d 827].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Introduction to Crimes, §§ 82, 84, 88.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, §§ 85.02[1A][a], 85.03[2][d] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.10[3] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

In People v. Prettyman (1996) 14 Cal.4th 248, 268 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 827, 926 P.2d 1013], the court concluded that the trial court must sua sponte identify and describe for the jury any target offenses allegedly aided and abetted by the defendant.

Although no published case to date gives a clear definition of the terms "natural" and "probable," nor holds that there is a sua sponte duty to define them, we have included a suggested definition. (See People v. Prettyman, supra, 14 Cal.4th at p. 291 (conc. & dis. opn. of Brown, J.); see also People v. Coffman and Marlow (2004) 34 Cal.4th 1, 107–109 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 710, 96 P.3d 30] [court did not err in failing to define "natural and probable"].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

RELATED ISSUES

Lesser Included Offenses

The court has a duty to instruct on lesser included offenses that could be the natural and probable consequence of the intended offense when the evidence raises a question whether the greater offense is a natural and probable consequence of the original, intended criminal act. (People v. Woods (1992) 8 Cal.App.4th 1570, 1586–1588 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 231] [aider and abettor may be found guilty of second degree murder under doctrine of natural and probable consequences although the principal was convicted of first degree murder].)

Specific Intent—Non-Target Crimes

Before an aider and abettor may be found guilty of a specific intent crime under the natural and probable consequences doctrine, the jury must first find that the perpetrator possessed the required specific intent. (People v. Patterson (1989) 209 Cal.App.3d 610, 614 [257 Cal.Rptr. 407] [trial court erroneously failed to instruct the jury that they must find that the perpetrator had the specific intent to kill necessary for attempted murder before they could find the defendant guilty as an aider and abettor under the "natural and probable" consequences doctrine], disagreeing with People v. Hammond (1986) 181 Cal.App.3d 463 [226 Cal.Rptr. 475] to the extent it held otherwise.) However, it is not necessary that the jury find that the aider and abettor had the specific intent; the jury must only determine that the specific intent crime was a natural and probable consequence of the original crime aided and abetted. (People v. Woods (1992) 8 Cal.App.4th 1570, 1586–1587 [11 Cal.Rptr. 2d 231].)

Target and Non-Target Offense May Consist of Same Act

Although generally, non-target offenses charged under the natural and probable consequences doctrine will be different and typically more serious criminal acts than the target offense alleged, they may consist of the same act with differing mental states. (People v. Laster (1997) 52 Cal.App.4th 1450, 1463–1466 [61 Cal.Rptr.2d 680] [defendants were properly convicted of attempted murder as natural and probable consequence of aiding and abetting discharge of firearm from vehicle. Although both crimes consist of same act, attempted murder requires more culpable mental state].)

Target Offense Not Committed

The Supreme Court has left open the question whether a person may be liable under the natural and probable consequences doctrine for a non-target offense, if the target offense was not committed. (People v. Prettyman (1996) 14 Cal.4th 248, 262, fn. 4 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 827, 926 P.2d 1013].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

See generally, the related issues under CALCRIM No. 401, Aiding and Abetting: Intended Crimes.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

403. Natural and Probable Consequences (Only Non-Target Offense Charged)

[Before you may decide whether the defendant is guilty of _____ <insert non-target offense>, you must decide whether (he/she) is guilty of _____ <insert target offense>.]

To prove that the defendant is guilty of _____ <insert non-target offense>, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant is guilty of _____ <insert target offense>;
2. During the commission of _____ <insert target offense> a coparticipant in that _____ <insert target offense> committed the crime of _____ <insert non-target offense>;

AND

3. Under all of the circumstances, a reasonable person in the defendant's position would have known that the commission of the _____ <insert non-target offense> was a natural and probable consequence of the commission of the _____ <insert target offense>.

A coparticipant in a crime is the perpetrator or anyone who aided and abetted the perpetrator. It does not include a victim or innocent bystander.

A natural and probable consequence is one that a reasonable person would know is likely to happen if nothing unusual intervenes. In deciding whether a consequence is natural and probable, consider all of the circumstances established by the evidence. If the _____ <insert non-target offense> was committed for a reason independent of the common plan to commit the _____ <insert target offense>, then the commission of _____ <insert non-target offense> was not a natural and probable consequence of _____ <insert target offense>.

To decide whether crime of _____ <insert non-target offense> was committed, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on (that/those) crime[s].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[The People are alleging that the defendant originally intended to aid and abet _____ <insert target offenses>.

If you decide that the defendant aided and abetted one of these crimes and that _____ <insert non-target offense> was a natural and probable consequence of that crime, the defendant is guilty of _____ <insert non-target offense>. You do not need to agree about which of these crimes the defendant aided and abetted.]

New January 2006; Revised June 2007, April 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on aiding and abetting when the prosecution relies on it as a theory of culpability. (People v. Beeman (1984) 35 Cal.3d 547, 560–561 [199 Cal.Rptr. 60, 674 P.2d 1318].)

The court has a sua sponte duty to identify and instruct on any target offense relied on by the prosecution as a predicate offense when substantial evidence supports the theory. Give all relevant instructions on the alleged target offense or offenses. The court, however, does not have to instruct on all potential target offenses supported by the evidence if the prosecution does not rely on those offenses. (People v. Prettyman (1996) 14 Cal.4th 248, 267–268 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 827, 926 P.2d 1013]; see People v. Huynh (2002) 99 Cal.App.4th 662, 677–678 [121 Cal.Rptr.2d 340] [no sua sponte duty to instruct on simple assault when prosecutor never asked court to consider it as target offense].)

The target offense is the crime that the accused parties intended to commit. The non-target is an additional unintended crime that occurs during the commission of the target.

Do not give the first bracketed paragraph in cases in which the prosecution is also pursuing a conspiracy theory.

Related Instructions

Give CALCRIM No. 400, Aiding and Abetting: General Principles, and CALCRIM No. 401, Aiding and Abetting: Intended Crimes, before this instruction.

This instruction should be used when the prosecution relies on the Natural and Probable Consequences Doctrine and charges only non-target crimes. If both target and non-target crimes are charged, give CALCRIM No. 402.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Aiding and Abetting Defined. People v. Beeman (1984) 35 Cal.3d 547, 560–561 [199 Cal.Rptr. 60, 674 P.2d 1318].
- Natural and Probable Consequences, Reasonable Person Standard. People v. Nguyen (1993) 21 Cal.App.4th 518, 531 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 323].
- No Unanimity Required. People v. Prettyman (1996) 14 Cal.4th 248, 267–268 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 827, 926 P.2d 1013].
- Presence or Knowledge Insufficient. People v. Boyd (1990) 222 Cal.App.3d 541, 557 fn. 14 [271 Cal.Rptr. 738]; In re Michael T. (1978) 84 Cal.App.3d 907, 911 [149 Cal.Rptr. 87, 926 P.2d 1013].
- Withdrawal. People v. Norton (1958) 161 Cal.App.2d 399, 403 [327 P.2d 87]; People v. Ross (1979) 92 Cal.App.3d 391, 404–405 [154 Cal.Rptr. 783].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Introduction to Crimes, §§ 82, 84, 88.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.10[3] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

In People v. Prettyman (1996) 14 Cal.4th 248, 268 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 827, 926 P.2d 1013], the court concluded that the trial court must sua sponte identify and describe for the jury any target offenses allegedly aided and abetted by the defendant.

Although no published case to date gives a clear definition of the terms "natural" and "probable," nor holds that there is a sua sponte duty to define them, we have included a suggested definition. (See People v. Prettyman, supra, 14 Cal.4th at p. 291 (conc. & dis. opn. of Brown, J.); see also People v. Coffman and Marlow (2004) 34 Cal.4th 1, 107–109 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 710, 96 P.3d 30] [court did not err in failing to define "natural and probable."])

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section under CALCRIM No. 401, Aiding and Abetting, and CALCRIM No. 402, Natural and Probable Consequences Doctrine (Target and Non-Target Offenses Charged).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

404. Intoxication

If you conclude that the defendant was intoxicated at the time of the alleged crime, you may consider this evidence in deciding whether the defendant:

A. Knew that _____ <insert name of perpetrator> intended to commit _____ <insert target offense>;

AND

B. Intended to aid and abet _____ <insert name of perpetrator> in committing _____ <insert target offense>.

Someone is intoxicated if he or she (took[,]/ [or] used[,]/[or] was given) any drug, drink, or other substance that caused an intoxicating effect.

[Do not consider evidence of intoxication in deciding whether _____ <insert charged nontarget offense> is a natural and probable consequence of _____ <insert target offense>.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has no sua sponte duty to instruct on voluntary intoxication; however, the trial court must give this instruction on request. (See People v. Ricardi (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1427, 1432 [12 Cal.Rptr.2d 364]; People v. Castillo (1997) 16 Cal.4th 1009, 1014 [68 Cal.Rptr.2d 648, 945 P.2d 1197]; People v. Saille (1991) 54 Cal.3d 1103, 1119 [2 Cal.Rptr.2d 364, 820 P.2d 588] [in context not involving aiding and abetting].) Although voluntary intoxication is not an affirmative defense to a crime, the jury may consider evidence of voluntary or involuntary intoxication and its effect on a defendant's ability to form specific mental states. (Pen. Code, §§ 22, 26; People v. Mendoza (1998) 18 Cal.4th 1114, 1131–1134 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 428, 959 P.2d 735]; People v. Scott (1983) 146 Cal.App.3d 823, 832 [194 Cal.Rptr. 633].)

Give the last bracketed paragraph on request if the defendant was charged with both target and nontarget crimes. (People v. Mendoza (1998) 18 Cal.4th 1114, 1134 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 428, 959 P.2d 735].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Related Instructions

See CALCRIM No. 3426, Voluntary Intoxication, and CALCRIM No. 3427, Involuntary Intoxication.

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. Pen. Code, § 22; People v. Mendoza (1998) 18 Cal.4th 1114, 1131–1134 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 428, 959 P.2d 735]; see People v. Castillo (1997) 16 Cal.4th 1009, 1014 [68 Cal.Rptr.2d 648, 945 P.2d 1197]; People v. Saille (1991) 54 Cal.3d 1103, 1119 [2 Cal.Rptr.2d 364, 820 P.2d 588] [in context other than aiding and abetting].
- Burden of Proof. See People v. Saille (1991) 54 Cal.3d 1103, 1118–1119 [2 Cal.Rptr.2d 364, 820 P.2d 588] [in context other than aiding and abetting].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Defenses, §§ 26–30.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.10[3][c] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Intoxication Based on Mistake of Fact Is Involuntary

Intoxication resulting from trickery is not "voluntary." (People v. Scott (1983) 146 Cal.App.3d 823, 831–833 [194 Cal.Rptr. 633] [defendant drank punch not knowing it contained hallucinogens; court held his intoxication was result of trickery and mistake and involuntary].)

Unconsciousness Based on Voluntary Intoxication Is Not a Complete Defense

Unconsciousness is typically a complete defense to a crime except when it is caused by voluntary intoxication. (People v. Heffington (1973) 32 Cal.App.3d 1, 8 [107 Cal.Rptr. 859].) Unconsciousness caused by voluntary intoxication is governed by Penal Code section 22, rather than by section 26, and is only a partial defense to a crime. (People v. Walker (1993) 14 Cal.App.4th 1615, 1621 [18 Cal.Rptr.2d 431] [no error in refusing to instruct on unconsciousness when defendant was voluntarily under the influence of drugs at the time of the crime].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

405–414. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

B. CONSPIRACY

415. Conspiracy (Pen. Code, § 182)

[I have explained that (the/a) defendant may be guilty of a crime if (he/she) either commits the crime or aids and abets the crime. (He/She) may also be guilty if (he/she) is a member of a conspiracy.]

(The defendant[s]/Defendant[s] _____ <insert name[s]>) (is/are) charged [in Count _____] with conspiracy to commit _____ <insert alleged crime[s]> [in violation of Penal Code section 182].

To prove that (the/a) defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant intended to agree and did agree with [one or more of] (the other defendant[s]/ [or] _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of coparticipant[s]>) to commit _____ <insert alleged crime[s]>;
2. At the time of the agreement, the defendant and [one or more of] the other alleged member[s] of the conspiracy intended that one or more of them would commit _____ <insert alleged crime[s]>;
3. (The/One of the) defendant[s][,] [or _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of coparticipant[s]>][,] [or (both/all) of them] committed [at least one of] the following alleged overt act[s] to accomplish _____ <insert alleged crime[s]>: _____ <insert the alleged overt acts>;

AND

4. [At least one of these/This] overt act[s] was committed in California.

To decide whether (the/a) defendant committed (this/these) overt act[s], consider all of the evidence presented about the act[s].

To decide whether (the/a) defendant and [one or more of] the other alleged member[s] of the conspiracy intended to commit _____ <insert alleged crime[s]>, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on (that/those) crime[s].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

The People must prove that the members of the alleged conspiracy had an agreement and intent to commit _____ <insert alleged crime[s]>. The People do not have to prove that any of the members of the alleged conspiracy actually met or came to a detailed or formal agreement to commit (that/one or more of those) crime[s]. An agreement may be inferred from conduct if you conclude that members of the alleged conspiracy acted with a common purpose to commit the crime[s].

An overt act is an act by one or more of the members of the conspiracy that is done to help accomplish the agreed upon crime. The overt act must happen after the defendant has agreed to commit the crime. The overt act must be more than the act of agreeing or planning to commit the crime, but it does not have to be a criminal act itself.

[You must all agree that at least one alleged overt act was committed in California by at least one alleged member of the conspiracy, but you do not have to all agree on which specific overt act or acts were committed or who committed the overt act or acts.]

[You must make a separate decision as to whether each defendant was a member of the alleged conspiracy.]

[The People allege that the defendant[s] conspired to commit the following crimes: _____ <insert alleged crime[s]>. You may not find (the/a) defendant guilty of conspiracy unless all of you agree that the People have proved that the defendant conspired to commit at least one of these crimes, and you all agree which crime (he/she) conspired to commit.] [You must also all agree on the degree of the crime.]

[A member of a conspiracy does not have to personally know the identity or roles of all the other members.]

[Someone who merely accompanies or associates with members of a conspiracy but who does not intend to commit the crime is not a member of the conspiracy.]

[Evidence that a person did an act or made a statement that helped accomplish the goal of the conspiracy is not enough, by itself, to prove that the person was a member of the conspiracy.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

New January 2006; Revised August 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime when the defendant is charged with conspiracy. (See People v. Morante (1999) 20 Cal.4th 403, 416 [84 Cal.Rptr.2d 665, 975 P.2d 1071].) If the defendant is charged with conspiracy to commit murder, do not give this instruction. Give CALCRIM No. 563, Conspiracy to Commit Murder. If the defendant is not charged with conspiracy but evidence of a conspiracy has been admitted for another purpose, do not give this instruction. Give CALCRIM No. 416, Evidence of Uncharged Conspiracy.

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the offense alleged to be the target of the conspiracy. (People v. Cortez (1998) 18 Cal.4th 1223, 1238–1239 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 733, 960 P.2d 537]; People v. Fenenbock (1996) 46 Cal.App.4th 1688, 1706 [54 Cal.Rptr.2d 608].) Give all appropriate instructions defining the elements of the offense or offenses alleged as targets of the conspiracy.

The court has a sua sponte duty to give a unanimity instruction if "the evidence suggested two discrete crimes, i.e., two discrete conspiracies . . . ." (People v. Russo (2001) 25 Cal.4th 1124, 1135 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 436, 25 P.3d 641]; see also People v. Diedrich (1982) 31 Cal.3d 263, 285–286 [182 Cal.Rptr. 354, 643 P.2d 971].) A unanimity instruction is not required if there is "merely possible uncertainty on how the defendant is guilty of a particular conspiracy." (People v. Russo, supra, 25 Cal.4th at p. 1135.) Thus, the jury need not unanimously agree as to what overt act was committed or who was part of the conspiracy. (People v. Russo, supra, 25 Cal.4th at pp. 1135–1136.) However, it appears that a unanimity instruction is required when the prosecution alleges multiple crimes that may have been the target of the conspiracy. (See People v. Diedrich, supra, 31 Cal.3d at pp. 285–286 [approving of unanimity instruction as to crime that was target of conspiracy]; but see People v. Vargas (2001) 91 Cal.App.4th 506, 560–561, 564 [110 Cal.Rptr.2d 210] [not error to decline to give unanimity instruction; if was error, harmless].) Give the bracketed paragraph that begins, "The People alleged that the defendant[s] conspired to commit the following crimes," if multiple crimes are alleged as target offenses of the conspiracy. Give the bracketed sentence regarding the degree of the crime if any target felony has different punishments for different degrees. (See Pen. Code, § 182(a).) The court must also give the jury a verdict form on which it can state the specific crime or crimes that the jury unanimously agrees the defendant conspired to commit.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

In addition, if a conspiracy case involves an issue regarding the statute of limitations or evidence of withdrawal by the defendant, a unanimity instruction may be required. (People v. Russo, supra, 25 Cal.4th at p. 1136, fn. 2; see also Related Issues section below on statute of limitations.)

In elements 1 and 3, insert the names or descriptions of alleged coconspirators if they are not defendants in the trial. (See People v. Liu (1996) 46 Cal.App.4th 1119, 1131 [54 Cal.Rptr.2d 578].) See also the Commentary section below.

Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "You must make a separate decision," if more than one defendant is charged with conspiracy. (See People v. Fulton (1984) 155 Cal.App.3d 91, 101 [201 Cal.Rptr. 879]; People v. Crain (1951) 102 Cal.App.2d 566, 581–582 [228 P.2d 307].)

Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "A member of a conspiracy does not have to personally know," on request if there is evidence that the defendant did not personally know all the alleged coconspirators. (See People v. Van Eyk (1961) 56 Cal.2d 471, 479 [15 Cal.Rptr. 150, 364 P.2d 326].)

Give the two final bracketed sentences on request. (See People v. Toledo-Corro (1959) 174 Cal.App.2d 812, 820 [345 P.2d 529].)

Defenses—Instructional Duty

If there is sufficient evidence that the defendant withdrew from the alleged conspiracy, the court has a sua sponte duty to give CALCRIM No. 420, Withdrawal From Conspiracy.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 182(a), 183; People v. Morante (1999) 20 Cal.4th 403, 416 [84 Cal.Rptr.2d 665, 975 P.2d 1071]; People v. Swain (1996) 12 Cal.4th 593, 600 [49 Cal.Rptr.2d 390, 909 P.2d 994]; People v. Liu (1996) 46 Cal.App.4th 1119, 1128 [54 Cal.Rptr.2d 578].
- Overt Act Defined. Pen. Code, § 184; People v. Saugstad (1962) 203 Cal.App.2d 536, 549–550 [21 Cal.Rptr. 740]; People v. Zamora (1976) 18 Cal.3d 538, 549, fn. 8 [134 Cal.Rptr. 784, 557 P.2d 75]; see People v. Brown (1991) 226 Cal.App.3d 1361, 1368 [277 Cal.Rptr. 309]; People v. Tatman (1993) 20 Cal.App.4th 1, 10–11 [24 Cal.Rptr.2d 480].
- Association Alone Not a Conspiracy. People v. Drolet (1973) 30 Cal.App.3d 207, 218 [105 Cal.Rptr. 824]; People v. Toledo-Corro (1959)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

174 Cal.App.2d 812, 820 [345 P.2d 529].

- Elements of Underlying Offense. People v. Cortez (1998) 18 Cal.4th 1223, 1238–1239 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 733, 960 P.2d 537]; People v. Fenenbock (1996) 46 Cal.App.4th 1688, 1706 [54 Cal.Rptr.2d 608].
- Two Specific Intents. People v. Miller (1996) 46 Cal.App.4th 412, 423–426 [53 Cal.Rptr.2d 773], disapproved on other ground in People v. Cortez (1998) 18 Cal.4th 1223, 1239 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 733, 960 P.2d 537].
- Unanimity on Specific Overt Act Not Required. People v. Russo (2001) 25 Cal.4th 1124, 1133–1135 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 436, 25 P.3d 641].
- Unanimity on Target Offenses of Single Conspiracy. People v. Diedrich (1982) 31 Cal.3d 263, 285–286 [182 Cal.Rptr. 354, 643 P.2d 971]; People v. Vargas (2001) 91 Cal.App.4th 506, 560–561, 564 [110 Cal.Rptr.2d 210].
- Penal Code Section 182 Refers to Crimes Under California Law Only. People v. Zacarias (2007) 157 Cal.App.4th 652, 660 [69 Cal.Rptr.3d 81].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Elements, §§ 68–97.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, §§ 85.02[2][a][i], 85.03[2][d] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 141, Conspiracy, Solicitation, and Attempt, §§ 141.01, 141.02, 141.10 (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

It is sufficient to refer to coconspirators in the accusatory pleading as "persons unknown." (People v. Sacramento Butchers' Protective Ass'n (1910) 12 Cal.App. 471, 483 [107 P. 712]; People v. Roy (1967) 251 Cal.App.2d 459, 463 [59 Cal.Rptr. 636]; see 1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Elements, § 82.) Nevertheless, this instruction assumes the prosecution has named at least two members of the alleged conspiracy, whether charged or not.

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct the jury on a lesser included target offense if there is substantial evidence from which the jury could find a conspiracy to commit that offense. (People v. Horn (1974) 12 Cal.3d 290,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

297 [115 Cal.Rptr. 516, 524 P.2d 1300], disapproved on other ground in People v. Cortez (1998) 18 Cal.4th 1223, 1237–1238 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 733, 960 P.2d 537]; People v. Cook (2001) 91 Cal.App.4th 910, 918 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 204]; People v. Kelley (1990) 220 Cal.App.3d 1358, 1365–1366, 1370 [269 Cal.Rptr. 900]. Alternatively, the court may look to the overt acts in the accusatory pleadings to determine if it has a duty to instruct on any lesser included offenses to the charged conspiracy. (People v. Cook, supra, 91 Cal.App.4th at pp. 919–920, 922; contra, People v. Fenenbock (1996) 46 Cal.App.4th 1688, 1708–1709 [54 Cal.Rptr.2d 608] [court should examine description of agreement in pleading, not description of overt acts, to decide whether lesser offense was necessarily the target of the conspiracy].)

RELATED ISSUES

Acquittal of Coconspirators

The "rule of consistency" has been abandoned in conspiracy cases. The acquittal of all alleged conspirators but one does not require the acquittal of the remaining alleged conspirator. (People v. Palmer (2001) 24 Cal.4th 856, 858, 864–865 [103 Cal.Rptr.2d 13, 15 P.3d 234].)

Conspiracy to Collect Insurance Proceeds

A conspiracy to commit a particular offense does not necessarily include a conspiracy to collect insurance proceeds. (People v. Leach (1975) 15 Cal.3d 419, 435 [124 Cal.Rptr. 752, 541 P.2d 296].)

Death of Coconspirator

A surviving conspirator is liable for proceeding with an overt act after the death of his or her coconspirator. (People v. Alleyne (2000) 82 Cal.App.4th 1256, 1262 [98 Cal.Rptr.2d 737].)

Factual Impossibility

Factual impossibility of accomplishing a substantive crime is not a defense to conspiracy to commit that crime. (People v. Liu (1996) 46 Cal.App.4th 1119, 1130–1131 [54 Cal.Rptr.2d 578]; see also United States v. Jimenez Recio (2003) 537 U.S. 270, 274–275 [123 S.Ct. 819, 154 L.Ed.2d 744] [rejecting the rule that a conspiracy ends when the object of the conspiracy is defeated].)

Statute of Limitations

The defendant may assert the statute of limitations defense for any felony that is the primary object of the conspiracy. The limitations period begins to run with the last overt act committed in furtherance of the conspiracy. (Parnell v. Superior Court (1981) 119 Cal.App.3d 392, 410 [173 Cal.Rptr. 906]; People v. Crosby (1962) 58 Cal.2d 713, 728 [25 Cal.Rptr. 847, 375

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

P.2d 839]; see Pen. Code, §§ 800, 801.) If the substantive offense that is the primary object of the conspiracy is successfully attained, the statute begins to run at the same time as for the substantive offense. (People v. Zamora (1976) 18 Cal.3d 538, 560 [134 Cal.Rptr. 784, 557 P.2d 75].) "[I]f there is a question regarding the statute of limitations, the court may have to require the jury to agree an overt act was committed within the limitations period." (People v. Russo (2001) 25 Cal.4th 1124, 1136, fn. 2 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 436, 25 P.3d 641] [dicta].) See generally CALCRIM No. 3410, Statute of Limitations and CALCRIM No. 3500, Unanimity.

Supplier of Goods or Services

A supplier of lawful goods or services put to an unlawful use is not liable for criminal conspiracy unless he or she both knows of the illegal use of the goods or services and intends to further that use. The latter intent may be established by direct evidence of the supplier's intent to participate, or by inference based on the supplier's special interest in the activity or the aggravated nature of the crime itself. (People v. Lauria (1967) 251 Cal.App.2d 471, 476–477, 482 [59 Cal.Rptr. 628].)

Wharton's Rule

If the cooperation of two or more persons is necessary to commit a substantive crime, and there is no element of an alleged conspiracy that is not present in the substantive crime, then the persons involved cannot be charged with both the substantive crime and conspiracy to commit the substantive crime. (People v. Mayers (1980) 110 Cal.App.3d 809, 815 [168 Cal.Rptr. 252] [known as Wharton's Rule or "concert of action" rule].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

416. Evidence of Uncharged Conspiracy

The People have presented evidence of a conspiracy. A member of a conspiracy is criminally responsible for the acts or statements of any other member of the conspiracy done to help accomplish the goal of the conspiracy.

To prove that (the/a) defendant was a member of a conspiracy in this case, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant intended to agree and did agree with [one or more of] (the other defendant[s]/ [or] _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of coparticipant[s]>) to commit _____ <insert alleged crime[s]>;
2. At the time of the agreement, the defendant and [one or more of] the other alleged member[s] of the conspiracy intended that one or more of them would commit _____ <insert alleged crime[s]>;
3. (The/One of the) defendant[s][,] [or _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of coparticipant[s]>][,] [or (both/all) of them] committed [at least one of] the following overt act[s] to accomplish _____ <insert alleged crime[s]>: _____ <insert the alleged overt acts>;

AND

4. [At least one of these/This] overt act[s] was committed in California.

To decide whether (the/a) defendant committed (this/these) overt act[s], consider all of the evidence presented about the act[s].

To decide whether (the/a) defendant and [one or more of] the other alleged member[s] of the conspiracy intended to commit _____<insert alleged crime[s]>, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on (that/those) crime[s].

The People must prove that the members of the alleged conspiracy had an agreement and intent to commit _____ <insert alleged crime[s]>. The People do not have to prove that any of the members of the alleged conspiracy actually met or came to a detailed or formal agreement to commit (that/one or more of those) crime[s]. An agreement may be inferred from conduct if you conclude that members of the alleged conspiracy acted with a common purpose to commit the crime.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

An overt act is an act by one or more of the members of the conspiracy that is done to help accomplish the agreed upon crime. The overt act must happen after the defendant has agreed to commit the crime. The overt act must be more than the act of agreeing or planning to commit the crime, but it does not have to be a criminal act itself.

[You must all agree that at least one overt act was committed in California by at least one alleged member of the conspiracy, but you do not have to all agree on which specific overt act or acts were committed or who committed the overt act or acts.]

[You must decide as to each defendant whether he or she was a member of the alleged conspiracy.]

[The People contend that the defendant[s] conspired to commit one of the following crimes: _____ <insert alleged crime[s]>. You may not find (the/a) defendant guilty under a conspiracy theory unless all of you agree that the People have proved that the defendant conspired to commit at least one of these crimes, and you all agree which crime (he/she) conspired to commit.] [You must also all agree on the degree of the crime.]

[A member of a conspiracy does not have to personally know the identity or roles of all the other members.]

[Someone who merely accompanies or associates with members of a conspiracy but who does not intend to commit the crime is not a member of the conspiracy.]

[Evidence that a person did an act or made a statement that helped accomplish the goal of the conspiracy is not enough, by itself, to prove that the person was a member of the conspiracy.]

New January 2006; Revised August 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction when the prosecution has not charged the crime of conspiracy but has introduced evidence of a conspiracy to prove liability for other offenses or to introduce hearsay statements of coconspirators. (See, e.g., People v. Pike (1962) 58 Cal.2d 70, 88 [22 Cal.Rptr. 664, 372 P.2d 656]; People v. Ditson (1962) 57 Cal.2d 415, 447 [20 Cal.Rptr. 165, 369 P.2d 714].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the offense alleged to be the target of the conspiracy. (People v. Cortez (1998) 18 Cal.4th 1223, 1238–1239 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 733, 960 P.2d 537]; People v. Fenenbock (1996) 46 Cal.App.4th 1688, 1706 [54 Cal.Rptr.2d 608].) Give all appropriate instructions defining the elements of the offense or offenses alleged as targets of the conspiracy.

The court has a sua sponte duty to give a unanimity instruction if "the evidence suggested two discrete crimes, i.e., two discrete conspiracies . . . ." (People v. Russo (2001) 25 Cal.4th 1124, 1135 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 436, 25 P.3d 641]; see also People v. Diedrich (1982) 31 Cal.3d 263, 285–286 [182 Cal.Rptr. 354, 643 P.2d 971].) See the Bench Notes to CALCRIM No. 415, Conspiracy, on when the court is required to give a unanimity instruction.

In elements 1 and 3, insert the names or descriptions of alleged coconspirators if they are not defendants in the trial. (See People v. Liu (1996) 46 Cal.App.4th 1119, 1131 [54 Cal.Rptr.2d 578].) See also the Commentary section to CALCRIM No. 415, Conspiracy.

Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "You must make a separate decision," if the prosecution alleges that more than one defendant was a member of the conspiracy. (See People v. Fulton (1984) 155 Cal.App.3d 91, 101 [201 Cal.Rptr. 879]; People v. Crain (1951) 102 Cal.App.2d 566, 581–582 [228 P.2d 307].)

Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "A member of a conspiracy does not have to personally know," on request if there is evidence that the defendant did not personally know all the alleged coconspirators. (See People v. Van Eyk (1961) 56 Cal.2d 471, 479 [15 Cal.Rptr. 150, 364 P.2d 326].)

Give the two final bracketed sentences on request. (See People v. Toledo-Corro (1959) 174 Cal.App.2d 812, 820 [345 P.2d 529].)

Defenses—Instructional Duty

If there is sufficient evidence that the defendant withdrew from the alleged conspiracy, the court has a sua sponte duty to give CALCRIM No. 420, Withdrawal from Conspiracy.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 417, Liability for Coconspirators' Acts.

CALCRIM No. 418, Coconspirator's Statements.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

CALCRIM No. 419, Acts Committed or Statements Made Before Joining Conspiracy.

AUTHORITY

- Overt Act Defined. Pen. Code, § 184; People v. Saugstad (1962) 203 Cal.App.2d 536, 549–550 [21 Cal.Rptr. 740]; People v. Zamora (1976) 18 Cal.3d 538, 549, fn. 8 [134 Cal.Rptr. 784, 557 P.2d 75]; see People v. Brown (1991) 226 Cal.App.3d 1361, 1368 [277 Cal.Rptr. 309]; People v. Tatman (1993) 20 Cal.App.4th 1, 10–11 [24 Cal.Rptr.2d 480].
- Association Alone Not a Conspiracy. People v. Drolet (1973) 30 Cal.App.3d 207, 218 [105 Cal.Rptr. 824]; People v. Toledo-Corro (1959) 174 Cal.App.2d 812, 820 [345 P.2d 529].
- Elements of Underlying Offense. People v. Fenenbock (1996) 46 Cal.App.4th 1688, 1706 [54 Cal.Rptr.2d 608]; People v. Cortez (1998) 18 Cal.4th 1223, 1238–1239 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 733, 960 P.2d 537].
- Two Specific Intents. People v. Miller (1996) 46 Cal.App.4th 412, 423–426 [53 Cal.Rptr.2d 773], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Cortez (1998) 18 Cal.4th 1223, 1240 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 733, 960 P.2d 537].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Elements, §§ 68–97.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.03[2][d] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 141, Conspiracy, Solicitation, and Attempt, §§ 141.01, 141.02 (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section to CALCRIM No. 415, Conspiracy.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

417. Liability for Coconspirators' Acts

A member of a conspiracy is criminally responsible for the crimes that he or she conspires to commit, no matter which member of the conspiracy commits the crime.

A member of a conspiracy is also criminally responsible for any act of any member of the conspiracy if that act is done to further the conspiracy and that act is a natural and probable consequence of the common plan or design of the conspiracy. This rule applies even if the act was not intended as part of the original plan. [Under this rule, a defendant who is a member of the conspiracy does not need to be present at the time of the act.]

A natural and probable consequence is one that a reasonable person would know is likely to happen if nothing unusual intervenes. In deciding whether a consequence is natural and probable, consider all of the circumstances established by the evidence.

A member of a conspiracy is not criminally responsible for the act of another member if that act does not further the common plan or is not a natural and probable consequence of the common plan.

To prove that the defendant is guilty of the crime[s] charged in Count[s] _____, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant conspired to commit one of the following crimes: _____ <insert target crime[s]>;
2. A member of the conspiracy committed _____ <insert nontarget offense[s]> to further the conspiracy;

AND

3. _____ <insert nontarget offense[s]> (was/were) [a] natural and probable consequence[s] of the common plan or design of the crime that the defendant conspired to commit.

[The defendant is not responsible for the acts of another person who was not a member of the conspiracy even if the acts of the other person helped accomplish the goal of the conspiracy.]

[A conspiracy member is not responsible for the acts of other conspiracy members that are done after the goal of the conspiracy had been accomplished.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

Give this instruction when there is an issue whether the defendant is liable for the acts of coconspirators. (See People v. Flores (1992) 7 Cal.App.4th 1350, 1363 [9 Cal.Rptr.2d 754] [no sua sponte duty when no issue of independent criminal act by coconspirator].)

The court must also give either CALCRIM No. 415, Conspiracy, or CALCRIM No. 416, Evidence of Uncharged Conspiracy, with this instruction. The court must also give all appropriate instructions on the offense or offenses alleged to be the target of the conspiracy. (People v. Prettyman (1996) 14 Cal.4th 248, 254 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 827, 926 P.2d 1013].)

Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "Under this rule," if there is evidence that the defendant was not present at the time of the act. (See People v. Benenato (1946) 77 Cal.App.2d 350, 356 [175 P.2d 296]; People v. King (1938) 30 Cal.App.2d 185, 203 [85 P.2d 928].)

Although no published case to date gives a clear definition of the terms "natural" and "probable," nor holds that there is a sua sponte duty to define them, a suggested definition is included. (See People v. Prettyman (1996) 14 Cal.4th 248, 291 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 827, 926 P.2d 1013] (conc. & dis. opn. of Brown, J.).)

Give either of the last two bracketed paragraphs on request, when supported by the evidence.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 418, Coconspirator's Statements.

AUTHORITY

- Natural and Probable Consequences; Reasonable Person Standard. People v. Superior Court (Shamis) (1997) 58 Cal.App.4th 833, 842–843 [68 Cal.Rptr.2d 388]; see People v. Nguyen (1993) 21 Cal.App.4th 518, 531 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 323] [in context of aiding and abetting].
- Vicarious Liability of Conspirators. People v. Hardy (1992) 2 Cal.4th 86, 188 [5 Cal.Rptr.2d 796, 825 P.2d 781].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Must Identify and Describe Target Offense. People v. Prettyman (1996) 14 Cal.4th 248, 254 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 827, 926 P.2d 1013].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Elements, §§ 93–94.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 141, Conspiracy, Solicitation, and Attempt, §§ 141.01[6], 141.02 (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

418. Coconspirator's Statements

In deciding whether the People have proved that (the defendant[s]/Defendant[s] _____ <insert name[s] of defendant[s] if codefendant trial and this instruction does not apply to all defendants; see Bench Notes>) committed [any of] the crime[s] charged, you may not consider any statement made out of court by _____ <insert name[s] of coconspirator[s]> unless the People have proved by a preponderance of the evidence that:

1. Some evidence other than the statement itself establishes that a conspiracy to commit a crime existed when the statement was made;
2. _____ <insert name[s] of coconspirator[s]> (was/were) members of and participating in the conspiracy when (he/she/they) made the statement;
3. _____ <insert name[s] of coconspirator[s]> made the statement in order to further the goal of the conspiracy;

AND

4. The statement was made before or during the time that (the defendant[s]/Defendant[s] _____ <insert name[s] of defendant[s] if codefendant trial and this instruction does not apply to all defendants>) (was/were) participating in the conspiracy.

A statement means an oral or written expression, or nonverbal conduct intended to be a substitute for an oral or written expression.

Proof by a preponderance of the evidence* is a different standard of proof than proof beyond a reasonable doubt. A fact is proved by a preponderance of the evidence if you conclude that it is more likely than not that the fact is true.

[You may not consider statements made by a person who was not a member of the conspiracy even if the statements helped accomplish the goal of the conspiracy.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[You may not consider statements made after the goal of the conspiracy had been accomplished.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the use of a coconspirator's statement to incriminate a defendant if the statement has been admitted under Evidence Code section 1223. (See People v. Jeffery (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 209, 215 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 526]; People v. Herrera (2000) 83 Cal.App.4th 46, 63 [98 Cal.Rptr.2d 911].)

The court must also give either CALCRIM No. 415, Conspiracy, or CALCRIM No. 416, Evidence of Uncharged Conspiracy, with this instruction.

If the coconspirator statement has been admitted against all defendants on trial, then use "the defendant[s]" in the first sentence and in element 4. If the coconspirator statement has been admitted under Evidence Code section 1223 against only one or some of the defendants on trial, insert the names of the defendants to whom this instruction applies where indicated. For example, if the prosecution is relying on a statement made by a defendant in the trial, the statement may be used against that defendant as an admission. However, as to the other defendants, the statement may be used only if it qualifies under Evidence Code section 1223 or another hearsay exception. In such cases, insert the names of the other codefendants where indicated in the first sentence and in element 4.

Give either of the last two bracketed paragraphs on request, when supported by the evidence.

AUTHORITY

- Hearsay Exception for Coconspirator's Statements. Evid. Code, § 1223; People v. Jeffery (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 209, 215 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 526]; People v. Lipinski (1976) 65 Cal.App.3d 566, 575 [135 Cal.Rptr. 451].
- Statement Defined. Evid. Code, § 225.
- Burden of Proof. People v. Herrera (2000) 83 Cal.App.4th 46, 63 [98 Cal.Rptr.2d 911].
- Independent Evidence Conspiracy Existed at Time of Statement. People v. Leach (1975) 15 Cal.3d 419, 430, fn. 10, 436 [124 Cal.Rptr. 752, 541

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

P.2d 296].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Hearsay, § 134.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 141, Conspiracy, Solicitation, and Attempt, §§ 141.01[5], 141.02 (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

419. Acts Committed or Statements Made Before Joining Conspiracy

(The/A) defendant is not responsible for any acts that were done before (he/ [or] she) joined the conspiracy.

You may consider evidence of acts or statements made before the defendant joined the conspiracy only to show the nature and goals of the conspiracy. You may not consider any such evidence to prove that the defendant is guilty of any crimes committed before (he/ [or] she) joined the conspiracy.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction if there is evidence suggesting that the defendant joined an alleged conspiracy after the crime was committed or after an act or statement was made to further the object of the conspiracy.

AUTHORITY

- Joining Conspiracy After Commission of Crime. People v. Marks (1988) 45 Cal.3d 1335, 1345 [248 Cal.Rptr. 874, 756 P.2d 260]; People v. Feldman (1959) 171 Cal.App.2d 15, 21–22 [339 P.2d 888].
- Use of Prior Acts or Statements. People v. Weiss (1958) 50 Cal.2d 535, 564–566 [327 P.2d 527].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Elements, §§ 95–96.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 141, Conspiracy, Solicitation, and Attempt, § 141.02[6] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

420. Withdrawal From Conspiracy

The defendant is not guilty of conspiracy to commit _____ <insert target offense> if (he/she) withdrew from the alleged conspiracy before any overt act was committed. To withdraw from a conspiracy, the defendant must truly and affirmatively reject the conspiracy and communicate that rejection, by word or by deed, to the other members of the conspiracy known to the defendant.

[A failure to act is not sufficient alone to withdraw from a conspiracy.]

[If you decide that the defendant withdrew from a conspiracy after an overt act was committed, the defendant is not guilty of any acts committed by remaining members of the conspiracy after (he/she) withdrew.]

The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant did not withdraw from the conspiracy [before an overt act was committed]. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of conspiracy. [If the People have not met this burden, you must also find the defendant not guilty of the additional acts committed after (he/she) withdrew.]

New January 2006; Revised December 2008

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction if there is evidence that the defendant attempted to withdraw from the conspiracy.

AUTHORITY

- Withdrawal From Conspiracy as Defense. People v. Crosby (1962) 58 Cal.2d 713, 731 [25 Cal.Rptr. 847, 375 P.2d 839].
- Ineffective Withdrawal. People v. Sconce (1991) 228 Cal.App.3d 693, 701 [279 Cal.Rptr. 59]; People v. Beaumaster (1971) 17 Cal.App.3d 996, 1003 [95 Cal.Rptr. 360].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Elements, § 92.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 141, Conspiracy, Solicitation, and Attempt, § 141.02[6], [7] (Matthew Bender).

421–439. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

C. ACCESSORY AND SOLICITATION

440. Accessories (Pen. Code, § 32)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with being an accessory to a felony [in violation of Penal Code section 32].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. Another person, whom I will call the perpetrator, committed a felony;
2. The defendant knew that the perpetrator had committed a felony or that the perpetrator had been charged with or convicted of a felony;
3. After the felony had been committed, the defendant either harbored, concealed, or aided the perpetrator;

AND

4. When the defendant acted, (he/she) intended that the perpetrator avoid or escape arrest, trial, conviction, or punishment.

[To decide whether the perpetrator committed the (felony/felonies) of _____ <insert offense[s]>, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on (that/those) crime[s].]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

There is no sua sponte duty to instruct on the underlying felony unless it is unclear that a felony occurred. However, the defendant is entitled to such an instruction on request. (People v. Shields (1990) 222 Cal.App.3d 1, 4–5 [271 Cal.Rptr. 228].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 32; People v. Duty (1969) 269 Cal.App.2d 97, 100–101 [74 Cal.Rptr. 606].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Introduction to Crimes, §§ 90, 91.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.11 (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

There is no authority defining "harbor." The committee therefore kept "harbor" in the instruction. Black's Law Dictionary defines harbor as "[t]he act of affording lodging, shelter, or refuge to a person, esp. a criminal or illegal alien." (7th ed., 1999, at p. 721.) The court may wish to give an additional definition depending on the facts of the case.

RELATED ISSUES

Accessory and Principal to the Same Crime

There is a split of authority on whether a person may ever be guilty as an accessory and a principal to the same crime. Early case law held that it was not possible to be convicted of both because either logic or policy prohibited it. (People v. Prado (1977) 67 Cal.App.3d 267, 271–273 [136 Cal.Rptr. 521]; People v. Francis (1982) 129 Cal.App.3d 241, 246–253 [180 Cal.Rptr. 873].) However, a later case disagreed with both of these cases and held "that there is no bar to conviction as both principal and accessory where the evidence shows distinct and independent actions supporting each crime." (People v. Mouton (1993) 15 Cal.App.4th 1313, 1324 [19 Cal.Rptr.2d 423], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Prettyman (1996) 14 Cal.4th 248 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 827, 926 P.2d 1013]; People v. Riley (1993) 20 Cal.App.4th 1808, 1816 [25 Cal.Rptr.2d 676]; but see People v. Nguyen (1993) 21 Cal.App.4th 518, 536 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 323] [suggesting in dicta that a person guilty as a principal can never be guilty as an accessory].)

Awareness of the Commission of Other Crimes Insufficient to Establish Guilt as an Accessory

Awareness that a co-perpetrator has committed other crimes is not enough to find a person guilty as an accessory to those crimes unless there is evidence that the person intentionally did something to help the co-perpetrator avoid or escape arrest, trial, conviction or punishment for those offenses. (People v. Nguyen (1993) 21 Cal.App.4th 518, 537 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 323] [defendants' convictions as accessories to sexual assaults committed by co-perpetrators in the course of a robbery reversed; no evidence existed that defendants did anything to help co-perpetrators escape detection].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Passive Nondisclosure

Although a person is not guilty of being an accessory if he or she fails or refuses to give incriminating information about a third party to the police, providing a false alibi for that person violates the accessory statute. (People v. Duty (1969) 269 Cal.App.2d 97, 103–104 [74 Cal.Rptr. 606].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

441. Solicitation: Elements (Pen. Code, § 653f)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with soliciting another person to commit a crime [in violation of Penal Code section 653f].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant requested [or _____ <insert other synonyms for solicit as appropriate>] another person to commit [or join in the commission of] the crime of _____ <insert target offense>;

[AND]

2. The defendant intended that the crime of _____ <insert target offense> be committed(;/.)

<Give element 3 when instructing that person solicited must receive message; see Bench Notes.>

[AND

3. The other person received the communication containing the request.]

To decide whether the defendant intended that the person commit _____ <insert target offense>, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on that crime.

<Alternative A—Corroboration by One Witness>

[The crime of solicitation must be proved by the testimony of at least one witness and corroborating evidence.]

<Alternative B—Corroboration by Two Witnesses>

[The crime of solicitation must be proved by the testimony of at least two witnesses or by the testimony of one witness and corroborating evidence.]

Corroborating evidence* is evidence that (1) tends to connect the defendant with the commission of the crime and (2) is independent of the evidence given by the witness who testified about the solicitation or independent of the facts testified to by that witness. Corroborating evidence need not be strong or even enough to establish each element by itself. Corroborating evidence may include the defendant's acts, statements, or conduct, or any other circumstance that tends to connect (him/her) to the crime.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[A person is guilty of solicitation even if the crime solicited is not completed or even started. The person solicited does not have to agree to commit the crime.]

[If you find the defendant guilty of solicitation, you must decide how many crimes (he/she) solicited. When deciding this question, consider the following factors:

1. Were the crimes solicited part of a plan with a single objective or motive or did each crime solicited have a different objective or motive?
2. Were the crimes solicited to be committed at the same time?
3. Were the crimes solicited to be committed in the same place?
4. Were the crimes solicited to be committed in the same way?
5. Was the payment, if any, for the crimes solicited one amount or were different amounts solicited for each crime?

Consider all of these factors when deciding whether the defendant's alleged acts were a single crime or _____ <insert number of solicitations alleged by the People> separate crimes of solicitation.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the target offense. (See People v. Baskins (1946) 72 Cal.App.2d 728, 732 [165 P.2d 510].) Give all relevant instructions on the target crime alleged. If the crime is solicitation to commit murder, do not instruct on implied malice murder. (People v. Bottger (1983) 142 Cal.App.3d 974, 980–981 [191 Cal.Rptr. 408].)

One court has held that the person solicited must actually receive the solicitous communication. (People v. Saephanh (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 451, 458–459 [94 Cal.Rptr.2d 910].) In Saephanh, the defendant mailed a letter from prison containing a solicitation to harm the fetus of his girlfriend. (Id. at p. 453.) The letter was intercepted by prison authorities and, thus, never received by the intended person. (Ibid.) If there is an issue over whether the intended person actually received the communication, give bracketed element 3.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

A blank has also been provided in element one to permit substituting other words for "solicit." Other approved language includes: to ask, entreat, implore, importune, to make petition to, to plead for, to try to obtain, or to offer or invite another to commit a crime. (People v. Gordon (1975) 47 Cal.App.3d 465, 472 [120 Cal.Rptr. 840]; People v. Phillips (1945) 70 Cal.App.2d 449, 453 [160 P.2d 872]; People v. Sanchez (1998) 60 Cal.App.4th 1490, 1494 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 309]; Laurel v. Superior Court for Los Angeles County (1967) 255 Cal.App.2d 292, 298 [63 Cal.Rptr. 114].)

Penal Code section 653f lists those crimes that may be the target of a solicitation. If the target crime is listed in subdivision (a) or (b) of that section, insert the bracketed portion "[or join in the commission of]." If the target crime is listed in subdivision (c), (d), or (e), of the section, omit that bracketed portion. (See People v. Herman (2002) 97 Cal.App.4th 1369, 1380 [119 Cal.Rptr.2d 199.)

When instructing on the corroboration requirements, if the target crime is listed in subdivision (d) or (e) of section 653f, give Alternative A. If the target crime is listed in subdivision (a), (b), or (c) of section 653f, give Alternative B.

Authority is divided on whether the judge or jury is to determine the number of solicitations if multiple crimes were solicited by the defendant. The bracketed portion at the end of the instruction should be given if multiple solicitations have been charged and the trial court determines that this is a question for the jury. (Compare People v. Davis (1989) 211 Cal.App.3d 317, 322–323 [259 Cal.Rptr. 348] with People v. Morocco (1987) 191 Cal.App.3d 1449, 1454 [237 Cal.Rptr. 113].) If the court decides to present this issue to the jury, multiple target offenses must be inserted in elements 1 and 2, and the paragraph immediately following the elements.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 653f.
- Corroboration. People v. Phillips (1985) 41 Cal.3d 29, 75–76 [222 Cal.Rptr. 127, 711 P.2d 423]; People v. Baskins (1946) 72 Cal.App.2d 728, 732 [165 P.2d 510].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Solicitation Defined. People v. Gordon (1975) 47 Cal.App.3d 465, 472 [120 Cal.Rptr. 840]; People v. Sanchez (1998) 60 Cal.App.4th 1490, 1494 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 309]; see People v. Herman (2002) 97 Cal.App.4th 1369, 1380 [119 Cal.Rptr.2d 199] [since a minor cannot violate § 288 by engaging in lewd conduct with an adult, an adult who asks a minor to engage in such conduct does not violate § 653f(c)].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Elements, §§ 31–33.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 141, Conspiracy, Solicitation, and Attempt, § 141.10 (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Crime Committed Outside of California

The solicitation of a person in California to commit a felony outside the state constitutes solicitation. (People v. Burt (1955) 45 Cal.2d 311, 314 [288 P.2d 503].)

Solicitation of Murder

When defining the crime of murder, in the case of a solicitation of murder, the trial court must not instruct on implied malice as an element of murder. Because the "crime of solicitation to commit murder occurs when the solicitor purposely seeks to have someone killed and tries to engage someone to do the killing," the person must have express malice to be guilty of the solicitation. (People v. Bottger (1983) 142 Cal.App.3d 974, 981 [191 Cal.Rptr. 408].) An instruction on murder that includes implied malice as an element has the potential of confusing the jury. (Ibid.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

442. Solicitation of a Minor (Pen. Code, § 653j)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with soliciting a minor to commit a crime [in violation of Penal Code section 653j].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant voluntarily (asked/ [or] encouraged / [or] induced/ [or] intimidated) a minor to commit the crime of _____ <insert target offense>;
2. (He/She) intended that the minor commit the crime of _____ <insert target offense>;

[AND]

3. At the time of the offense, the defendant was at least 18 years old(;/.)

[AND]

<Alternative 4—defendant five years older>

[4. At the time of the offense, the minor was 16 or 17 years old, and the defendant was at least 5 years older than the minor(;/.)]

<Give element 5 when instructing that person solicited must receive message; see Bench Notes.>

[AND

5. The minor received the communication containing the request.]

To decide whether the defendant intended that the minor commit _____ <insert target offense>, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on that crime.

A minor is a person under the age of 18.

[If you find the defendant guilty of solicitation, you must decide how many crimes (he/she) solicited. When deciding this question, consider the following factors:

1. Were the crimes solicited part of a plan with a single objective or motive or did each crime solicited have a different objective or motive?

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

2. Were the crimes solicited to be committed at the same time?

3. Were the crimes solicited to be committed in the same place?

4. Were the crimes solicited to be committed in the same way?

5. Was the payment, if any, for the crimes solicited one amount or were different amounts solicited for each crime?

Consider all of these factors when deciding whether the defendant's alleged acts were a single crime or _____ <insert number of solicitations alleged by the People> separate crimes of solicitation.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If the minor is 16 or 17 years old, the jury must find that the defendant is at least 5 years older and the court must instruct sua sponte on element 3A. (Pen. Code, § 653j(a).) Give element 3B if element 3A does not apply.

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the target offense. (See People v. Baskins (1946) 72 Cal.App.2d 728, 732 [165 P.2d 510].) Give all relevant instructions on the target crime alleged. Penal Code section 653j lists those offenses that may be the target of a solicitation of a minor. If the crime is solicitation to commit murder, do not instruct on implied malice murder. (People v. Bottger (1983) 142 Cal.App.3d 974, 980–981 [191 Cal.Rptr. 408].)

One court has held that the person solicited must actually receive the solicitous communication. (People v. Saephanh (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 451, 458–459 [94 Cal.Rptr.2d 910].) In Saephanh, the defendant mailed a letter from prison containing a solicitation to harm the fetus of his girlfriend. (Id. at p. 453.) The letter was intercepted by prison authorities and, thus, never received by the intended person. (Ibid.) If there is an issue over whether the intended person actually received the communication, give bracketed element 4.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Authority is divided on whether the judge or jury is to determine the number of solicitations if multiple crimes were solicited by the defendant. The bracketed portion at the end of the instruction should be given if multiple solicitations have been charged and the trial court determines that this is a question for the jury. (Compare People v. Davis (1989) 211 Cal.App.3d 317, 322–323 [259 Cal.Rptr. 348] with People v. Morocco (1987) 191 Cal.App.3d 1449, 1454 [237 Cal.Rptr. 113].) If the court decides to present this issue to the jury, multiple target offenses must be inserted in elements 1 and 2, and the paragraph immediately following the elements.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 653j.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Elements, § 34.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 141, Conspiracy, Solicitation, and Attempt, §§ 141.10, 141.11 (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section to CALCRIM No. 441, Solicitation: Elements.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

443. Compelling Another to Commit Crime

If the defendant forced another person to commit a crime by threatening, menacing, commanding, or coercing that person, then the defendant is guilty of the crime that the defendant forced the other person to commit.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the theory of liability advanced by the prosecution. (See People v. Beeman (1984) 35 Cal.3d 547, 560–561 [199 Cal.Rptr. 60, 674 P.2d 1318] [sua sponte duty to instruct on aiding and abetting].)

AUTHORITY

- Principals Defined. Pen. Code, § 31.

Secondary Sources

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.10 (Matthew Bender).

444–449. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

D. CORPORATE OFFICERS

450. Liability of Corporate Officers and Agents: Single Theory of Liability

---

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with _____ <insert offense charged> while acting as an (officer/ [or] agent) of a corporation.

The People must prove that the defendant (personally committed/ was a direct participant in) the crime charged. The fact that the defendant is an (officer/ [or] agent) of the corporation is not sufficient by itself to support a finding of guilt.

<Alternative A—prosecution alleges only that defendant committed prohibited act personally>

[To prove that the defendant personally committed the crime charged, the People must prove that the defendant _____ <insert description of conduct alleged in offense>.]

<Alternative B—prosecution alleges only that defendant had authority to control conduct of others>

[To prove that the defendant was a direct participant in the crime charged, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant had the authority to control _____ <insert description of conduct alleged in offense>;

[AND]

2. The defendant (failed to/authorized/caused/permitted) _____ <insert description of conduct alleged in offense>(;/.)

<Alternative 3A: Give if offense alleged requires only knowledge or general criminal intent.>

[AND

3. The defendant knew _____ <insert description of knowledge about conduct alleged in offense>(;/.)]

<Alternative 3B: Give if offense alleged requires specific intent.>

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[AND

3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) intended to _____ <insert description of specific intent required>.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction in any case where the defendant is charged as the officer or agent of a corporation. (See Sea Horse Ranch, Inc. v. Superior Court (1994) 24 Cal.App.4th 446, 456–458 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 681]; Otis v. Superior Court (1905) 148 Cal. 129, 131 [82 P. 853].) Repeat this instruction for each offense, inserting the specific requirements for that offense.

If the prosecution alleges that the defendant personally committed some or all of the acts alleged in the offense, give alternative A. If the prosecution's theory is solely that the defendant had control over the conduct alleged, give alternative B. If the prosecution is pursing both theories of liability, do not give this instruction. Give CALCRIM No. 451, Liability of Corporate Officers and Agents: Two Theories of Liability.

Give element 3A if the alleged offense requires knowledge or general criminal intent by the defendant. (See Sea Horse Ranch, supra, 24 Cal.App.4th at pp. 456–458; People v. Epstein (1931) 118 Cal.App. 7, 10 [4 P.2d 555].) Give element 3B if specific intent is required. If a strict-liability offense is alleged, give only elements 1 and 2. (See People v. Matthews (1992) 7 Cal.App.4th 1052, 1062 [9 Cal.Rptr.2d 348].)

Example

In Sea Horse Ranch, Inc. v. Superior Court (1994) 24 Cal.App.4th 446 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 681], the defendant was charged as the president of a corporation with involuntary manslaughter based on a horse's escape from the ranch that caused a fatal vehicle accident. The instruction in such a case could read:

> To prove that the defendant was a direct participant in the crime charged, the People must prove that:
>
> 1. The defendant had the authority to control the maintenance of the fences.
> 2. The defendant failed to ensure that the fences were properly maintained.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AND

3. The defendant knew that horses had repeatedly escaped from the ranch due to poor maintenance of the fences.

AUTHORITY

- Liability of Corporate Officer or Agent. Sea Horse Ranch, Inc. v. Superior Court (1994) 24 Cal.App.4th 446, 456–458 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 681]; see People v. Matthews (1992) 7 Cal.App.4th 1052, 1062 [9 Cal.Rptr.2d 348]; Otis v. Superior Court (1905) 148 Cal. 129, 131 [82 P. 853].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Introduction to Crimes, §§ 95–96.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.12 (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

451. Liability of Corporate Officers and Agents: Two Theories of Liability

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with _____ <insert offense charged> while acting as an (officer/ [or] agent) of a corporation.

The People must prove that the defendant either personally committed or was a direct participant in the crime charged. The fact that the defendant is an (officer/ [or] agent) of the corporation is not sufficient by itself to support a finding of guilt.

To prove that the defendant personally committed the crime charged, the People must prove that the defendant _____ <insert description of conduct alleged in offense>.

To prove that the defendant was a direct participant in the crime charged, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant had the authority to control _____ <insert description of conduct alleged in offense>;

[AND]

2. The defendant (failed to/authorized/caused/permitted) _____ <insert description of conduct alleged in offense>(;/.)

<Alternative 3A: Give if offense alleged requires only knowledge or general criminal intent.>

[AND

3. The defendant knew _____ <insert description of knowledge about conduct alleged in offense>(;/.)]

<Alternative 3B: Give if offense alleged requires specific intent.>

[AND

3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) intended to _____ <insert description of specific intent required>.]

New January 2006

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction in any case where the defendant is charged as the officer or agent of a corporation. (See Sea Horse Ranch, Inc. v. Superior Court (1994) 24 Cal.App.4th 446, 456–458 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 681]; Otis v. Superior Court (1905) 148 Cal. 129, 131 [82 P. 853].) Repeat this instruction for each offense, inserting the specific requirements for that offense.

If the prosecution alleges only one theory of liability, do not give this instruction. Give CALCRIM No. 450, Liability of Corporate Officers and Agents: Single Theory of Liability.

Give element 3A if the alleged offense requires knowledge or general criminal intent by the defendant. (See Sea Horse Ranch, supra, 24 Cal.App.4th at pp. 456–458; People v. Epstein (1931) 118 Cal.App. 7, 10 [4 P.2d 555].) Give element 3B if specific intent is required. If a strict-liability offense is alleged, give only elements 1 and 2. (See People v. Matthews (1992) 7 Cal.App.4th 1052, 1062 [9 Cal.Rptr.2d 348].)

For an example of how to complete this instruction, see the Bench Notes to CALCRIM No. 450, Liability of Corporate Officers and Agents: Single Theory of Liability.

It is unclear if the court is required to instruct on unanimity. For a discussion of instructional requirements on unanimity, see CALCRIM No. 3500, Unanimity.

AUTHORITY

- Liability of Corporate Officer or Agent. Sea Horse Ranch, Inc. v. Superior Court (1994) 24 Cal.App.4th 446, 456–458 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 681]; see People v. Matthews (1992) 7 Cal.App.4th 1052, 1062 [9 Cal.Rptr.2d 348]; Otis v. Superior Court (1905) 148 Cal. 129, 131 [82 P. 853].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Introduction to Crimes, §§ 95–96.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.12 (Matthew Bender).

452–459. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

E. ATTEMPT

460. Attempt Other Than Attempted Murder (Pen. Code, § 21a)

[The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with attempted _____<insert target offense>.]

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant took a direct but ineffective step toward committing _____ <insert target offense>;

AND

2. The defendant intended to commit _____ <insert target offense>.

A direct step requires more than merely planning or preparing to commit _____ <insert target offense> or obtaining or arranging for something needed to commit _____ <insert target offense>. A direct step is one that goes beyond planning or preparation and shows that a person is putting his or her plan into action. A direct step indicates a definite and unambiguous intent to commit _____ <insert target offense>. It is a direct movement towards the commission of the crime after preparations are made. It is an immediate step that puts the plan in motion so that the plan would have been completed if some circumstance outside the plan had not interrupted the attempt.

[A person who attempts to commit _____ <insert target offense> is guilty of attempted _____ <insert target offense> even if, after taking a direct step towards committing the crime, he or she abandoned further efforts to complete the crime or if his or her attempt failed or was interrupted by someone or something beyond his or her control. On the other hand, if a person freely and voluntarily abandons his or her plans before taking a direct step toward committing _____ <insert target offense>, then that person is not guilty of attempted _____ <insert target offense>.]

To decide whether the defendant intended to commit _____

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

<insert target offense>, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on that crime.

[The defendant may be guilty of attempt even if you conclude that _____ <insert target offense> was actually completed.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the crime of attempt when charged, or, if not charged, when the evidence raises a question whether all the elements of the charged offense are present. (See People v. Breverman (1998) 19 Cal.4th 142, 154 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 870, 960 P.2d 1094].)

If an attempted crime is charged, give the first bracketed paragraph and choose the phrase "this crime" in the opening line of the second paragraph. If an attempted crime is not charged but is a lesser included offense, omit the first bracketed paragraph and insert the attempted target offense in the opening line of the second paragraph.

Give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "A person who attempts to commit" if abandonment is an issue.

If the attempted crime is murder, do not give this instruction; instead give the specific instruction on attempted murder. (People v. Santascoy (1984) 153 Cal.App.3d 909, 918 [200 Cal.Rptr. 709]; see CALCRIM No. 600, Attempted Murder.)

Do not give this instruction if the crime charged is assault. There can be no attempt to commit assault, since an assault is by definition an attempted battery. (In re James M. (1973) 9 Cal.3d 517, 522 [108 Cal.Rptr. 89, 510 P.2d 33].)

AUTHORITY

- Attempt Defined. Pen. Code, §§ 21a, 664; People v. Toledo (2001) 26 Cal.4th 221, 229–230 [109 Cal.Rptr.2d 315, 26 P.3d 1051].
- Conviction for Charged Attempt Even If Crime Is Completed. Pen. Code, § 663.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Elements, §§ 53–67.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 141, Conspiracy, Solicitation, and Attempt, § 141.20 (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Insufficient Evidence of Attempt

The court is not required to instruct on attempt as a lesser-included offense unless there is sufficient evidence that the crime charged was not completed. (People v. Aguilar (1989) 214 Cal.App.3d 1434, 1436 [263 Cal.Rptr. 314]; People v. Llamas (1997) 51 Cal.App.4th 1729, 1743–1744 [60 Cal.Rptr.2d 357]; People v. Strunk (1995) 31 Cal.App.4th 265, 271–272 [36 Cal.Rptr.2d 868].)

Legal or Factual Impossibility

Although legal impossibility is a defense to attempt, factual impossibility is not. (People v. Cecil (1982) 127 Cal.App.3d 769, 775–777 [179 Cal.Rptr. 736]; People v. Meyer (1985) 169 Cal.App.3d 496, 504–505 [215 Cal.Rptr. 352].)

Solicitation

Some courts have concluded that a mere solicitation is not an attempt. (People v. Adami (1973) 36 Cal.App.3d 452, 457 [111 Cal.Rptr. 544]; People v. La Fontaine (1978) 79 Cal.App.3d 176, 183 [144 Cal.Rptr. 729], overruled on other grounds in People v. Lopez (1998) 19 Cal.4th 282, 292–293 [79 Cal.Rptr.2d 195, 965 P.2d 713].) At least one court disagrees, stating that simply because "an invitation to participate in the defendant's commission of a crime consists only of words does not mean it cannot constitute an 'act' toward the completion of the crime, particularly where the offense by its nature consists of or requires the requested type of participation." (People v. Herman (2002) 97 Cal.App.4th 1369, 1387 [119 Cal.Rptr.2d 199] [attempted lewd acts on a child under Pen. Code, § 288(c)(1)]; see People v. Delvalle (1994) 26 Cal.App.4th 869, 877 [31 Cal.Rptr.2d 725.)

Specific Intent Crime

An attempted offense is a specific intent crime, even if the underlying crime requires only general intent. (See People v. Martinez (1980) 105 Cal.App.3d 938, 942 [165 Cal.Rptr. 11].) However, an attempt is not possible if the underlying crime can only be committed unintentionally. (See People v.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Johnson (1996) 51 Cal.App.4th 1329, 1332 [59 Cal.Rptr.2d 798] [no attempted involuntary manslaughter].)

461–499. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

HOMICIDE

A. GENERAL PRINCIPLES

500. Homicide: General Principles

501–504. Reserved for Future Use

B. JUSTIFICATIONS AND EXCUSES

505. Justifiable Homicide: Self-Defense or Defense of Another

506. Justifiable Homicide: Defending Against Harm to Person Within Home or on Property

507. Justifiable Homicide: By Public Officer

508. Justifiable Homicide: Citizen Arrest (Non-Peace Officer)

509. Justifiable Homicide: Non-Peace Officer Preserving the Peace

510. Excusable Homicide: Accident

511. Excusable Homicide: Accident in the Heat of Passion

512. Presumption That Killing Not Criminal (Pen. Code, § 194)

513–519. Reserved for Future Use

C. MURDER: FIRST AND SECOND DEGREE

520. First or Second Degree Murder With Malice Aforethought (Pen. Code, § 187)

521. First Degree Murder (Pen. Code, § 189)

522. Provocation: Effect on Degree of Murder

523. First Degree Murder: Hate Crime (Pen. Code, § 190.03)

524. Second Degree Murder: Peace Officer (Pen. Code, § 190(b), (c))

525. Second Degree Murder: Discharge From Motor Vehicle

526–539. Reserved for Future Use

D. FELONY MURDER

Introduction to Felony-Murder Series

540A. Felony Murder: First Degree—Defendant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act (Pen. Code, § 189)

540B. Felony Murder: First Degree—Coparticipant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act (Pen. Code, § 189)

540C. Felony Murder: First Degree—Other Acts Allegedly Caused Death (Pen. Code, § 189)

541A. Felony Murder: Second Degree—Defendant Allegedly Committed

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Fatal Act
541B. Felony Murder: Second Degree—Coparticipant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act
541C. Felony Murder: Second Degree—Other Acts Allegedly Caused Death
542–547. Reserved for Future Use
548. Murder: Alternative Theories
549. Felony Murder: One Continuous Transaction—Defined
550–559. Reserved for Future Use

E. ALTERNATE THEORIES OF LIABILITY

560. Homicide: Provocative Act by Defendant
561. Homicide: Provocative Act by Accomplice
562. Transferred Intent
563. Conspiracy to Commit Murder (Pen. Code, § 182)
564–569. Reserved for Future Use

F. MANSLAUGHTER

(i) Voluntary

570. Voluntary Manslaughter: Heat of Passion—Lesser Included Offense (Pen. Code, § 192(a))
571. Voluntary Manslaughter: Imperfect Self-Defense—Lesser Included Offense (Pen. Code, § 192)
572. Voluntary Manslaughter: Murder Not Charged (Pen. Code, § 192(a))
573–579. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Involuntary

580. Involuntary Manslaughter: Lesser Included Offense (Pen. Code, § 192(b))
581. Involuntary Manslaughter: Murder Not Charged (Pen. Code, § 192(b))
582. Involuntary Manslaughter: Failure to Perform Legal Duty—Murder Not Charged (Pen. Code, § 192(b))
583–589. Reserved for Future Use

(iii) Vehicular

590. Gross Vehicular Manslaughter While Intoxicated (Pen. Code, § 191.5(a))
591. Vehicular Manslaughter While Intoxicated—Ordinary Negligence (Pen. Code, § 191.5(b))
592. Gross Vehicular Manslaughter (Pen. Code, § 192(c)(1))

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

593. Misdemeanor Vehicular Manslaughter (Pen. Code, § 192(c)(2))
594. Vehicular Manslaughter: Collision for Financial Gain (Pen. Code, § 192(c)(4))
595. Vehicular Manslaughter: Speeding Laws Defined
596–599. Reserved for Future Use

G. ATTEMPT

600. Attempted Murder (Pen. Code, §§ 21a, 663, 664)
601. Attempted Murder: Deliberation and Premeditation (Pen. Code, §§ 21a, 189, 664(a))
602. Attempted Murder: Peace Officer, Firefighter, Custodial Officer, or Custody Assistant (Pen. Code, §§ 21a, 664(e))
603. Attempted Voluntary Manslaughter: Heat of Passion—Lesser Included Offense (Pen. Code, §§ 21a, 192, 664)
604. Attempted Voluntary Manslaughter: Imperfect Self-Defense—Lesser Included Offense (Pen. Code, §§ 21a, 192, 664)
605–619. Reserved for Future Use

H. CAUSATION: SPECIAL ISSUES

620. Causation: Special Issues
621–624. Reserved for Future Use

I. IMPAIRMENT DEFENSE

625. Voluntary Intoxication: Effects on Homicide Crimes (Pen. Code, § 22)
626. Voluntary Intoxication Causing Unconsciousness: Effects on Homicide Crimes (Pen. Code, § 22)
627. Hallucination: Effect on Premeditation
628–639. Reserved for Future Use

J. CHARGE TO JURY

640. Deliberations and Completion of Verdict Forms: For Use When Defendant Is Charged With First Degree Murder and Jury Is Given Not Guilty Forms for Each Level of Homicide
641. Deliberations and Completion of Verdict Forms: For Use When Defendant Is Charged With First Degree Murder and Jury Is Given Only One Not Guilty Verdict Form for Each Count; Not to Be Used When Both Voluntary and Involuntary Manslaughter Are Lesser Included Offenses
642. Deliberations and Completion of Verdict Forms: For Use When Defendant Is Charged With Second Degree Murder and Jury Is Given Not Guilty Forms for Each Level of Homicide

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

643. Deliberations and Completion of Verdict Forms: For Use When Defendant Is Charged With Second Degree Murder and Jury Is Given Only One Not Guilty Verdict Form for Each Count; Not to Be Used When Both Voluntary and Involuntary Manslaughter Are Lesser Included Offenses

644–699. Reserved for Future Use

K. SPECIAL CIRCUMSTANCES

(i) General Instructions

700. Special Circumstances: Introduction (Pen. Code, § 190.2)

701. Special Circumstances: Intent Requirement for Accomplice Before June 6, 1990

702. Special Circumstances: Intent Requirement for Accomplice After June 5, 1990—Other Than Felony Murder (Pen. Code, § 190.2(c))

703. Special Circumstances: Intent Requirement for Accomplice After June 5, 1990—Felony Murder (Pen. Code, § 190.2(d))

704. Special Circumstances: Circumstantial Evidence— Sufficiency

705. Special Circumstances: Circumstantial Evidence—Intent or Mental State

706. Special Circumstances: Jury May Not Consider Punishment

707. Special Circumstances: Accomplice Testimony Must Be Corroborated—Dispute Whether Witness Is Accomplice (Pen. Code, § 1111)

708. Special Circumstances: Accomplice Testimony Must Be Corroborated—No Dispute Whether Witness Is Accomplice (Pen. Code, § 1111)

709–719. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Special Circumstances

720. Special Circumstances: Financial Gain (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(1))

721. Special Circumstances: Multiple Murder Convictions (Same Case) (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(3))

722. Special Circumstances: By Means of Destructive Device (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(4) & (6))

723. Special Circumstances: Murder to Prevent Arrest or Complete Escape (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(5))

724. Special Circumstances: Murder of Peace Officer, Federal Officer, or Firefighter (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(7), (8) & (9))

725. Special Circumstances: Murder of Witness (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(10))

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

726. Special Circumstances: Murder of Judge, Prosecutor, Government Official, or Juror (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(11), (12), (13) & (20))
727. Special Circumstances: Lying in Wait—Before March 8, 2000 (Former Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(15))
728. Special Circumstances: Lying in Wait—After March 7, 2000 (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(15))
729. Special Circumstances: Murder Because of Race, Religion, or Nationality (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(16))
730. Special Circumstances: Murder in Commission of Felony (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17))
731. Special Circumstances: Murder in Commission of Felony—Kidnapping With Intent to Kill After March 8, 2000 (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17))
732. Special Circumstances: Murder in Commission of Felony—Arson With Intent to Kill (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17))
733. Special Circumstances: Murder With Torture (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(18))
734. Special Circumstances: Murder by Poison (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(19))
735. Special Circumstances: Discharge From Vehicle (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(21))
736. Special Circumstances: Killing by Street Gang Member (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(22))
737. Special Circumstances: Murder of Transportation Worker (Pen. Code, § 190.25)
738–749. Reserved for Future Use

(iii) Special Circumstances With Prior Murder

750. Special Circumstances: Prior Murder Conviction (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(2))—Trial on Prior Murder (Pen. Code, § 190.1(a) & (b))
751. Second Degree Murder With Prior Prison for Murder (Pen. Code, § 190.05)
752–759. Reserved for Future Use

L. DEATH PENALTY

760. Death Penalty: Introduction to Penalty Phase
761. Death Penalty: Duty of Jury
762. Reserved for Future Use
763. Death Penalty: Factors to Consider—Not Identified as Aggravating or Mitigating (Pen. Code, § 190.3)
764. Death Penalty: Evidence of Other Violent Crimes

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

765. Death Penalty: Conviction for Other Felony Crimes
766. Death Penalty: Weighing Process
767–774. Reserved for Future Use
775. Death Penalty: Mental Retardation (Pen. Code, § 1376)
776–799. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

A. GENERAL PRINCIPLES

500. Homicide: General Principles

Homicide is the killing of one human being by another. (Murder/ [and] (Manslaughter/manslaughter)) (is/are) [a] type[s] of homicide. The defendant is charged with (murder/ [and] manslaughter). [Manslaughter is a lesser offense to murder.]

[A homicide can be lawful or unlawful. If a person kills with a legally valid excuse or justification, the killing is lawful and he or she has not committed a crime. If there is no legally valid excuse or justification, the killing is unlawful and, depending on the circumstances, the person is guilty of either murder or manslaughter. You must decide whether the killing in this case was unlawful and, if so, what specific crime was committed. I will now instruct you in more detail on what is a legally permissible excuse or justification for homicide.] [I will [also] instruct you on the different types of (murder/ [and] manslaughter).]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

This instruction should be given if there are multiple theories of homicide or evidence supporting justification or excuse, as a way of introducing the jury to the law of homicide.

If no homicide defense instructions are given, do not give the bracketed language in the second paragraph beginning "A homicide can be lawful . . . ." If no instructions will be given on offenses other than first degree murder, do not give the last bracketed sentence.

AUTHORITY

- Homicide Defined. People v. Antick (1975) 15 Cal.3d 79, 87 [123 Cal.Rptr. 475, 539 P.2d 43].
- Justification or Excuse. Pen. Code, § 189.5; People v. Frye (1992) 7 Cal.App.4th 1148, 1154–1155 [10 Cal.Rptr.2d 217], disapproved on other grounds in People v. McCoy (2001) 25 Cal.4th 1111, 1123 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 188, 24 P.3d 1210].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Genovese (2008) 168 Cal.App.4th 817, 832 [85 Cal.Rptr.3d 664].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 91.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.01, 142.02 (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

The committee decided that a short introduction on the law of homicide would help the jury understand basic principles governing a complicated body of law. By giving the jury a simple framework, this instruction will help the jurors understand the rest of the instructions. Although "homicide" is a classic legal term, the committee decided to use the word because it appears to now be a part of lay vocabulary and therefore easily recognizable by jurors.

501–504. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

B. JUSTIFICATIONS AND EXCUSES

505. Justifiable Homicide: Self-Defense or Defense of Another

---

The defendant is not guilty of (murder/ [or] manslaughter/ attempted murder/ [or] attempted voluntary manslaughter) if (he/she) was justified in (killing/attempting to kill) someone in (self-defense/ [or] defense of another). The defendant acted in lawful (self-defense/ [or] defense of another) if:

1. The defendant reasonably believed that (he/she/ [or] someone else/ [or] _____ <insert name or description of third party>) was in imminent danger of being killed or suffering great bodily injury [or was in imminent danger of being (raped/maimed/robbed/ _____ <insert other forcible and atrocious crime>)];
2. The defendant reasonably believed that the immediate use of deadly force was necessary to defend against that danger;

AND

3. The defendant used no more force than was reasonably necessary to defend against that danger.

Belief in future harm is not sufficient, no matter how great or how likely the harm is believed to be. The defendant must have believed there was imminent danger of great bodily injury to (himself/herself/ [or] someone else). Defendant's belief must have been reasonable and (he/she) must have acted only because of that belief. The defendant is only entitled to use that amount of force that a reasonable person would believe is necessary in the same situation. If the defendant used more force than was reasonable, the [attempted] killing was not justified.

When deciding whether the defendant's beliefs were reasonable, consider all the circumstances as they were known to and appeared to the defendant and consider what a reasonable person in a similar situation with similar knowledge would have believed. If the defendant's beliefs were reasonable, the danger does not need to have actually existed.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[The defendant's belief that (he/she/ [or] someone else) was threatened may be reasonable even if (he/she) relied on information that was not true. However, the defendant must actually and reasonably have believed that the information was true.]

[If you find that _____ <insert name of decedent/victim> threatened or harmed the defendant [or others] in the past, you may consider that information in deciding whether the defendant's conduct and beliefs were reasonable.]

[If you find that the defendant knew that _____ <insert name of decedent/victim> had threatened or harmed others in the past, you may consider that information in deciding whether the defendant's conduct and beliefs were reasonable.]

[Someone who has been threatened or harmed by a person in the past, is justified in acting more quickly or taking greater self-defense measures against that person.]

[If you find that the defendant received a threat from someone else that (he/she) reasonably associated with _____ <insert name of decedent/victim>, you may consider that threat in deciding whether the defendant was justified in acting in (self-defense/ [or] defense of another).]

[A defendant is not required to retreat. He or she is entitled to stand his or her ground and defend himself or herself and, if reasonably necessary, to pursue an assailant until the danger of (death/great bodily injury/ _____ <insert forcible and atrocious crime>) has passed. This is so even if safety could have been achieved by retreating.]

[Great bodily injury means significant or substantial physical injury. It is an injury that is greater than minor or moderate harm.]

The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the [attempted] killing was not justified. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of (murder/ [or] manslaughter/ attempted murder/ [or] attempted voluntary manslaughter).

New January 2006

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on self-defense when "it appears that the defendant is relying on such a defense, or if there is substantial evidence supportive of such a defense and the defense is not inconsistent with the defendant's theory of the case." (People v. Breverman (1998) 19 Cal.4th 142, 157 [77 Cal.Rtpr.2d 870, 960 P.2d 1094] [addressing duty to instruct on voluntary manslaughter as lesser included offense, but also discussing duty to instruct on defenses generally]; see also People v. Lemus (1988) 203 Cal.App.3d 470, 478 [249 Cal.Rptr. 897] [if substantial evidence of self-defense exists, court must instruct sua sponte and let jury decide credibility of witnesses].)

If there is substantial evidence of self-defense that is inconsistent with the defendant's testimony, the court must ascertain whether the defendant wants an instruction on self-defense. (People v. Breverman, supra, 19 Cal.4th at p. 156.) The court is then required to give the instruction if the defendant so requests. (People v. Elize (1999) 71 Cal.App.4th 605, 611–615 [84 Cal.Rptr.2d 35].)

On defense request and when supported by sufficient evidence, the court must instruct that the jury may consider the effect of "antecedent threats and assaults against the defendant on the reasonableness of defendant's conduct." (People v. Garvin (2003) 110 Cal.App.4th 484, 488 [1 Cal.Rptr.3d 774].) The court must also instruct that the jury may consider previous threats or assaults by the aggressor against someone else or threats received by the defendant from a third party that the defendant reasonably associated with the aggressor. (See People v. Pena (1984) 151 Cal.App.3d 462, 475 [198 Cal.Rptr. 819]; People v. Minifie (1996) 13 Cal.4th 1055, 1065, 1068 [56 Cal.Rptr.2d 133, 920 P.2d 1337].)

Forcible and atrocious crimes are generally those crimes whose character and manner reasonably create a fear of death or serious bodily harm. (People v. Ceballos (1974) 12 Cal.3d 470, 479 [116 Cal.Rptr. 233, 526 P.2d 241].) The following crimes have been deemed forcible and atrocious as a matter of law: murder, mayhem, rape, and robbery. (Id. at p. 478.) If the defendant is asserting that he or she was resisting the commission of one of these felonies or another specific felony, the court should include the bracketed language at the end of element 1 and select "raped," "maimed," or "robbed," or insert another appropriate forcible and atrocious crime. In all other cases involving death or great bodily injury, the court should use element 1 without the bracketed language.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM Nos. 506–511, Justifiable and Excusable Homicides.

CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477, Defense Instructions: Defense of Self, Another, Property.

CALCRIM No. 571, Voluntary Manslaughter: Imperfect Self-Defense—Lesser Included Offense.

AUTHORITY

- Justifiable Homicide. Pen. Code, §§ 197–199.
- Fear. Pen. Code, § 198.
- Lawful Resistance. Pen. Code, §§ 692–694.
- Burden of Proof. Pen. Code, § 189.5; People v. Banks (1976) 67 Cal.App.3d 379, 383–384 [137 Cal.Rptr. 652].
- Elements. People v. Humphrey (1996) 13 Cal.4th 1073, 1082 [56 Cal.Rptr.2d 142, 921 P.2d 1].
- Forcible and Atrocious Crimes. People v. Ceballos (1974) 12 Cal.3d 470, 478–479 [116 Cal.Rptr. 233, 526 P.2d 241].
- Imminence. People v. Aris (1989) 215 Cal.App.3d 1178, 1187 [264 Cal.Rptr. 167], overruled on other grounds in People v. Humphrey (1996) 13 Cal.4th 1073, 1089 [56 Cal.Rptr.2d 142].
- No Duty to Retreat. People v. Hughes (1951) 107 Cal.App.2d 487, 493 [237 P.2d 64]; People v. Hatchett (1942) 56 Cal.App.2d 20, 22 [132 P.2d 51].
- Reasonable Belief. People v. Humphrey (1996) 13 Cal.4th 1073, 1082 [56 Cal.Rptr.2d 142, 921 P.2d 1]; People v. Clark (1982) 130 Cal.App.3d 371, 377 [181 Cal.Rptr. 682].
- Must Act Under Influence of Fear Alone. Pen. Code, § 198.
- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Genovese (2008) 168 Cal.App.4th 817, 832 [85 Cal.Rptr.3d 664].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Defenses, §§ 64–77.

3 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 73, Defenses and Justifications, §§ 73.11, 73.12 (Matthew Bender).

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.04[1][c] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[1][b] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

Penal Code section 197, subdivision 1 provides that self-defense may be used in response to threats of death or great bodily injury, or to resist the commission of a felony. (Pen. Code, § 197, subd. 1.) However, in People v. Ceballos (1974) 12 Cal.3d 470, 477–479 [116 Cal.Rptr. 233, 526 P.2d 241], the court held that although the latter part of section 197 appears to apply when a person resists the commission of any felony, it should be read in light of common law principles that require the felony to be "some atrocious crime attempted to be committed by force." (Id. at p. 478.) This instruction is therefore written to provide that self-defense may be used in response to threats of great bodily injury or death or to resist the commission of forcible and atrocious crimes.

RELATED ISSUES

Imperfect Self-Defense

Most courts hold that an instruction on imperfect self-defense is required in every case in which a court instructs on perfect self-defense. If there is substantial evidence of a defendant's belief in the need for self-defense, there will always be substantial evidence to support an imperfect self-defense instruction because the reasonableness of that belief will always be at issue. (People v. Ceja (1994) 26 Cal.App.4th 78, 85–86 [31 Cal.Rptr.2d 475], overruled on other grounds in People v. Blakeley (2000) 23 Cal.4th 82, 91 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 451, 999 P.2d 675]; People v. De Leon (1992) 10 Cal.App.4th 815, 824 [12 Cal.Rptr.2d 825].) The court in People v. Rodriguez disagreed, however, and found that an imperfect self-defense instruction was not required sua sponte on the facts of the case where defendant's version of the crime "could only lead to an acquittal based on justifiable homicide," and when the prosecutor's version could only lead to a conviction of first degree murder. (People v. Rodriguez (1992) 53 Cal.App.4th 1250, 1275 [62 Cal.Rptr.2d 345]; see also People v. Williams

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(1997) 4 Cal.4th 354, 362 [14 Cal.Rptr.2d 441, 841 P.2d 961] [in rape prosecution, no mistake-of-fact instruction was required when two sides gave wholly divergent accounts with no middle ground to support a mistake-of-fact instruction].)

No Defense for Initial Aggressor

An aggressor whose victim fights back in self-defense may not invoke the doctrine of self-defense against the victim's legally justified acts. (In re Christian S. (1994) 7 Cal.4th 768, 773, fn. 1 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 33, 872 P.2d 574].) If the aggressor attempts to break off the fight and communicates this to the victim, but the victim continues to attack, the aggressor may use self-defense against the victim to the same extent as if he or she had not been the initial aggressor. (Pen. Code, § 197, subd. 3; People v. Trevino (1988) 200 Cal.App.3d 874, 879 [246 Cal.Rptr. 357]; see CALCRIM No. 3471, Right to Self-Defense: Mutual Combat or Initial Aggressor.) In addition, if the victim responds with a sudden escalation of force, the aggressor may legally defend against the use of force. (People v. Quach (2004) 116 Cal.App.4th 294, 301–302 [10 Cal.Rptr.3d 196]; see CALCRIM No. 3471, Right to Self-Defense: Mutual Combat or Initial Aggressor.)

Transferred Intent Applies

"[T]he doctrine of self-defense is available to insulate one from criminal responsibility where his act, justifiably in self-defense, inadvertently results in the injury of an innocent bystander." (People v. Mathews (1979) 91 Cal.App.3d 1018, 1024 [154 Cal.Rptr. 628]; see also People v. Curtis (1994) 30 Cal.App.4th 1337, 1357 [37 Cal.Rptr.2d 304].) There is no sua sponte duty to instruct on this principle, although such an instruction must be given on request when substantial evidence supports it. (People v. Mathews, supra, 91 Cal.App.3d at p. 1025; see also CALCRIM No. 562, Transferred Intent.)

Definition of "Imminent"

In People v. Aris (1989) 215 Cal.App.3d 1178, 1187 [264 Cal.Rptr. 167], overruled on other grounds in People v. Humphrey (1996) 13 Cal.4th 1073, 1089 [56 Cal.Rptr.2d 142, 921 P.2d 1], the jury requested clarification of the term "imminent." In response, the trial court instructed:

> "Imminent peril," as used in these instructions, means that the peril must have existed or appeared to the defendant to have existed at the very time the fatal shot was fired. In other words, the peril must appear to the defendant as immediate and present and not prospective or even in the near future. An imminent peril is one that, from appearances, must be instantly dealt with.

(Ibid.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

The Court of Appeal agreed with this definition of "imminent." (Id. at pp. 1187–1190 [citing People v. Scoggins (1869) 37 Cal. 676, 683–684].)

Reasonable Person Standard Not Modified by Evidence of Mental Impairment

In People v. Jefferson (2004) 119 Cal.App.4th 508, 519 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 473], the court rejected the argument that the reasonable person standard for self-defense should be the standard of a mentally ill person like the defendant. "The common law does not take account of a person's mental capacity when determining whether he has acted as the reasonable person would have acted. The law holds 'the mentally deranged or insane defendant accountable for his negligence as if the person were a normal, prudent person.' (Prosser & Keeton, Torts (5th ed. 1984) § 32, p. 177.)" (Ibid.; see also Rest.2d Torts, § 283B.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

506. Justifiable Homicide: Defending Against Harm to Person Within Home or on Property

The defendant is not guilty of (murder/ [or] manslaughter/ attempted murder/ [or] attempted voluntary manslaughter) if (he/she) (killed/attempted to kill) to defend (himself/herself) [or any other person] in the defendant's home. Such (a/an) [attempted] killing is justified, and therefore not unlawful, if:

1. The defendant reasonably believed that (he/she) was defending a home against _____ <insert name of decedent>, who (intended to or tried to commit _____ <insert forcible and atrocious crime>/ [or] violently[[,] [or] riotously[,]/ [or] tumultuously] tried to enter that home intending to commit an act of violence against someone inside);
2. The defendant reasonably believed that the danger was imminent;
3. The defendant reasonably believed that the use of deadly force was necessary to defend against the danger;

AND

4. The defendant used no more force than was reasonably necessary to defend against the danger.

Belief in future harm is not sufficient, no matter how great or how likely the harm is believed to be. The defendant must have believed there was imminent danger of violence to (himself/herself/ [or] someone else). Defendant's belief must have been reasonable and (he/she) must have acted only because of that belief. The defendant is only entitled to use that amount of force that a reasonable person would believe is necessary in the same situation. If the defendant used more force than was reasonable, then the [attempted] killing was not justified.

When deciding whether the defendant's beliefs were reasonable, consider all the circumstances as they were known to and appeared to the defendant and consider what a reasonable person in a similar situation with similar knowledge would have believed. If the defendant's beliefs were reasonable, the danger does not need to have actually existed.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[A defendant is not required to retreat. He or she is entitled to stand his or her ground and defend himself or herself and, if reasonably necessary, to pursue an assailant until the danger of (death/bodily injury/ _____ <insert forcible and atrocious crime>) has passed. This is so even if safety could have been achieved by retreating.]

The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the [attempted] killing was not justified. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of [attempted] (murder/ [or] manslaughter).

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give defense instructions supported by substantial evidence and not inconsistent with the defendant's theory of the case. (See People v. Baker (1999) 74 Cal.App.4th 243, 252 [87 Cal.Rptr.2d 803]; People v. Barton (1995) 12 Cal.4th 186, 195 [47 Cal.Rtpr.2d 569, 906 P.2d 531]; People v. Slater (1943) 60 Cal.App.2d 358, 367–368 [140 P.2d 846] [error to refuse instruction based on Pen. Code, § 197, subd. 2 when substantial evidence supported inference that victim intended to enter the habitation].)

Penal Code section 197, subdivision 2 provides that "defense of habitation" may be used to resist someone who "intends or endeavors, by violence or surprise, to commit a felony . . . ." (Pen. Code, § 197, subd. 2.) However, in People v. Ceballos (1974) 12 Cal.3d 470, 477–479 [116 Cal.Rptr. 233, 526 P.2d 241], the court held that the felony feared must be "some atrocious crime attempted to be committed by force." (Id. at p. 478.) Forcible and atrocious crimes are those crimes whose character and manner reasonably create a fear of death or serious bodily harm. (People v. Ceballos, supra, 12 Cal.3d at p. 479.) The following crimes have been deemed forcible and atrocious as a matter of law: murder, mayhem, rape, and robbery. (Id. at p. 478.) Ceballos specifically held that burglaries which "do not reasonably create a fear of great bodily harm" are not sufficient "cause for exaction of human life." (Id. at p. 479.) Thus, although the statute refers to "defense of habitation," Ceballos requires that a person be at risk of great bodily harm or an atrocious felony in order to justify homicide. (Ibid.) The instruction has been drafted accordingly.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If the defendant is asserting that he or she was resisting the commission of a forcible and atrocious crime, give the first option in element 1 and insert the name of the crime. If there is substantial evidence that the defendant was resisting a violent entry into a residence for the general purpose of committing violence against someone inside, give the second option in element 1. (See Pen. Code, § 197, subd. 2.) The court may give the bracketed words "riotously" and "tumultuously" at its discretion.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 3477, Presumption That Resident Was Reasonably Afraid of Death or Great Bodily Injury.

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. Pen. Code, § 197, subd. 2.
- Actual and Reasonable Fear. See Pen. Code, § 198; see People v. Curtis (1994) 30 Cal.App.4th 1337, 1361 [37 Cal.Rptr.2d 304].
- Burden of Proof. Pen. Code, § 189.5.
- Fear of Imminent Harm. People v. Humphrey (1996) 13 Cal.4th 1073, 1082 [56 Cal.Rtpr.2d 146, 921 P.2d 1]; People v. Lucas (1958) 160 Cal.App.2d 305, 310 [324 P.2d 933].
- Forcible and Atrocious Crimes. People v. Ceballos (1974) 12 Cal.3d 470, 478–479 [116 Cal.Rptr. 233, 526 P.2d 241].
- No Duty to Retreat. People v. Hughes (1951) 107 Cal.App.2d 487, 493 [237 P.2d 64]; People v. Hatchett (1942) 56 Cal.App.2d 20, 22 [132 P.2d 51].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Defenses, § 78.

3 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 73, Defenses and Justifications, § 73.13 (Matthew Bender).

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.04[1][c] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[1][b] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

507. Justifiable Homicide: By Public Officer

The defendant is not guilty of (murder/ [or] manslaughter/ attempted murder/ [or] attempted voluntary manslaughter) if (he/ she) (attempted to kill/killed) someone while (acting as a public officer/obeying a public officer's command for aid and assistance). Such (a/an) [attempted] killing is justified, and therefore not unlawful, if:

1. The defendant was (a public officer/obeying a public officer's command for aid and assistance);
2. The [attempted] killing was committed while (taking back into custody a convicted felon [or felons] who had escaped from prison or confinement[,]/ arresting a person [or persons] charged with a felony who (was/were) resisting arrest or fleeing from justice[,]/ overcoming actual resistance to some legal process[,]/ [or] while performing any [other] legal duty);
3. The [attempted] killing was necessary to accomplish (one of those/that) lawful purpose[s];

AND

4. The defendant had probable cause to believe that _____ <insert name of decedent> posed a threat of serious physical harm, either to the defendant or to others [or that _____ <insert name of decedent> had committed _____ <insert forcible and atrocious crime>]. <See Bench Note discussing this element.>

A person has probable cause to believe that someone poses a threat of serious physical harm when facts known to the person would persuade someone of reasonable caution that the other person is going to cause serious physical harm to another.

[An officer or employee of _____ <insert name of state or local government agency that employs public officer> is a public officer.]

The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the [attempted] killing was not justified. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[attempted] (murder/ [or] manslaughter).

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on justifiable homicide when "it appears that the defendant is relying on such a defense, or if there is substantial evidence supportive of such a defense and the defense is not inconsistent with the defendant's theory of the case." (See People v. Breverman (1998) 19 Cal.4th 142, 156 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 870, 960 P.2d 1094] [addressing sua sponte duty to instruct on self-defense].)

In element 2, select the phrase appropriate for the facts of the case.

It is unclear whether the officer must always have probable cause to believe that the victim poses a threat of future harm or if it is sufficient if the officer has probable cause to believe that the victim committed a forcible and atrocious crime. In Tennessee v. Garner (1985) 471 U.S. 1, 3, 11 [105 S.Ct. 1694, 85 L.Ed.2d 1], the Supreme Court held that, under the Fourth Amendment, deadly force may not be used to prevent the escape of an apparently unarmed suspected felon unless it is necessary to prevent the escape and the officer has probable cause to believe that the suspect poses a significant threat of death or serious physical injury to the officer or others. "Garner necessarily limits the scope of justification for homicide under section 197, subdivision 4, and other similar statutes from the date of that decision." (People v. Martin (1985) 168 Cal.App.3d 1111, 1124 [214 Cal.Rptr. 873].) In a footnote, Garner, supra, 471 U.S. 1, 16, fn. 15, noted that California law permits a killing in either situation, that is, when the suspect has committed an atrocious crime or when the suspect poses a threat of future harm. (See also Long Beach Police Officers Assn v. City of Long Beach (1976) 61 Cal.App.3d 364, 371–375 [132 Cal.Rptr. 348] [also stating the rule as "either" but quoting police regulations, which require that the officer always believe there is a risk of future harm.]) The committee has provided both options in element 4. The court should review relevant case law before giving the bracketed language.

As with a peace officer, the jury must determine whether the defendant was a public officer. (People v. Brown (1988) 46 Cal.3d 432, 444–445 [250 Cal.Rptr. 604, 758 P.2d 1135].) The court may instruct the jury in the appropriate definition of "public officer" from the statute (e.g., "a Garden Grove Regular Police Officer and a Garden Grove Reserve Police Officer are public officers"). (Ibid.) However, the court may not instruct the jury that the defendant was a public officer as a matter of law (e.g., "Officer Reed was a public officer"). (Ibid.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 508, Justifiable Homicide: Citizen Arrest (Non-Peace Officer).

CALCRIM No. 509, Justifiable Homicide: Non-Peace Officer Preserving the Peace.

AUTHORITY

- Justifiable Homicide by Public Officer. Pen. Code, §§ 196, 199.
- Burden of Proof. Pen. Code, § 189.5; People v. Frye (1992) 7 Cal.App.4th 1148, 1154–1155 [10 Cal.Rptr.2d 217]; People v. Banks (1976) 67 Cal.App.3d 379, 383–384 [137 Cal.Rptr. 652].
- Public Officer. See Pen. Code, §§ 831(a) [custodial officer], 831.4 [sheriff's or police security officer], 831.5 [custodial officer], 831.6 [transportation officer], 3089 [county parole officer]; In re Frederick B. (1987) 192 Cal.App.3d 79, 89–90 [237 Cal.Rptr. 338], disapproved on other grounds in In re Randy G. (2001) 26 Cal.4th 556, 567 fn. 2 [110 Cal.Rptr.2d 516, 28 P.3d 239] ["public officers" is broader category than "peace officers"]; see also Pen. Code, § 836.5(a) [authority to arrest without warrant].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Defenses, §§ 82, 85, 243.

3 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 73, Defenses and Justifications, § 73.15[1], [2] (Matthew Bender).

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.04[1][c] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[1][b] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Killing Committed in Obedience to Judgment

A homicide is also justifiable when committed by a public officer "in obedience to any judgment of a competent court." (Pen. Code, § 196, subd. 1.) There are no reported cases construing this subdivision. This provision appears to apply exclusively to lawful executions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

508. Justifiable Homicide: Citizen Arrest (Non-Peace Officer)

The defendant is not guilty of (murder/ [or] manslaughter/ attempted murder/ [or] attempted voluntary manslaughter) if (he/ she) (killed/attempted to kill) someone while trying to arrest him or her for a violent felony. Such (a/an) [attempted] killing is justified, and therefore not unlawful, if:

1. The defendant committed the [attempted] killing while lawfully trying to arrest or detain _____ <insert name of decedent> for committing the crime of _____ <insert forcible and atrocious crime or felony that threatened death or great bodily harm>;
2. _____ <insert name of decedent> actually committed the crime of _____ <insert forcible and atrocious crime or felony>;
3. The defendant had reason to believe that _____ <insert name of decedent> had committed _____ <insert forcible and atrocious crime>;
4. The defendant had reason to believe that _____ <insert name of decedent> posed a threat of serious physical harm, either to the defendant or to others [or knew that _____ <insert name of decedent> had committed _____ <insert forcible and atrocious crime>];

AND

5. The [attempted] killing was necessary to prevent _____'s <insert name of decedent> escape.

A person has reason to believe that someone poses a threat of serious physical harm when facts known to the person would persuade someone of reasonable caution that the other person is going to cause serious physical harm to another.

The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the [attempted] killing was not justified. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of [attempted] (murder/ [or] manslaughter).

New January 2006

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on justifiable homicide when "it appears that the defendant is relying on such a defense, or if there is substantial evidence supportive of such a defense and the defense is not inconsistent with the defendant's theory of the case." (See People v. Breverman (1998) 19 Cal.4th 142, 156 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 870, 960 P.2d 1094] [addressing sua sponte duty to instruct on self-defense].)

It is unclear whether the defendant must always have probable cause to believe that the victim poses a threat of future harm or if it is sufficient if the defendant knows that the victim committed a forcible and atrocious crime. In Tennessee v. Garner (1985) 471 U.S. 1, 3, 11 [105 S.Ct. 1694, 85 L.Ed.2d 1], the Supreme Court held that, under the Fourth Amendment, deadly force may not be used by a law enforcement officer to prevent the escape of an apparently unarmed suspected felon unless it is necessary to prevent the escape and the officer has probable cause to believe that the suspect poses a significant threat of death or serious physical injury to the officer or others. "Garner necessarily limits the scope of justification for homicide under section 197, subdivision 4, and other similar statutes from the date of that decision." (People v. Martin (1985) 168 Cal.App.3d 1111, 1124 [214 Cal.Rptr. 873].) In a footnote, Garner, supra, 471 U.S. 1, 16, fn. 15, noted that California law permits a killing in either situation, that is either when the suspect has committed an atrocious crime or when the suspect poses a threat of future harm. (See also Long Beach Police Officers Assn v. City of Long Beach (1976) 61 Cal.App.3d 364, 371–375 [132 Cal.Rptr. 348] [also stating the rule as "either" but quoting police regulations, which require that the officer always believe there is a risk of future harm].) The committee has provided both options in element 4. The court should review relevant case law before giving the bracketed language.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 507, Justifiable Homicide: By Public Officer.

CALCRIM No. 509, Justifiable Homicide: Non-Peace Officer Preserving the Peace.

AUTHORITY

- Justifiable Homicide to Preserve the Peace. Pen. Code, §§ 197, subd. 4, 199.
- Lawful Resistance to Commission of Offense. Pen. Code, §§ 692–694.
- Private Persons, Authority to Arrest. Pen. Code, § 837.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Burden of Proof. Pen. Code, § 189.5; People v. Frye (1992) 7 Cal.App.4th 1148, 1154–1155 [10 Cal.Rptr.2d 217].
- Felony Must Threaten Death or Great Bodily Injury. People v. Piorkowski (1974) 41 Cal.App.3d 324, 328–329 [115 Cal.Rptr. 830].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Defenses, §§ 80–86

3 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 73, Defenses and Justifications, § 73.15[1], [3] (Matthew Bender).

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.04[1][c] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[1][b] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Felony Must Actually Be Committed

A private citizen may use deadly force to apprehend a fleeing felon only if the suspect in fact committed the felony and the person using deadly force had reasonable cause to believe so. (People v. Lillard (1912) 18 Cal.App. 343, 345 [123 P. 221].)

Felony Committed Must Threaten Death or Great Bodily Injury

Deadly force is permissible to apprehend a felon if "the felony committed is one which threatens death or great bodily injury. . . ." (People v. Piorkowski (1974) 41 Cal.App.3d 324, 328–329 [115 Cal.Rptr. 830]).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

509. Justifiable Homicide: Non-Peace Officer Preserving the Peace

The defendant is not guilty of (murder/ [or] manslaughter/ attempted murder/ [or] attempted voluntary manslaughter) if (he/ she) (killed/attempted to kill) someone while preserving the peace. Such (a/an) [attempted] killing is justified, and therefore not unlawful, if:

1. The defendant committed the [attempted] killing while lawfully (suppressing a riot/keeping and preserving the peace);
2. The defendant had probable cause to believe that _____ <insert name of decedent> posed a threat of serious physical harm, either to the defendant or someone else;

AND

3. The [attempted] killing was necessary to lawfully (suppress a riot/keep and preserve the peace).

A person has probable cause to believe that someone poses a threat of serious physical harm when facts known to the person would persuade someone of reasonable caution that the other person is going to cause serious physical harm to another.

[A riot occurs when two or more people, acting together and without legal authority, disturb the public peace by use of force or violence or by threat to use force or violence with the immediate ability to carry out those threats.]

[A disturbance of the public peace may happen in any place of confinement. _____ <insert name of detention facility> is a place of confinement.]

The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the [attempted] killing was not justified. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of [attempted] (murder/ [or] manslaughter).

New January 2006

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on justifiable homicide when "it appears that the defendant is relying on such a defense, or if there is substantial evidence supportive of such a defense and the defense is not inconsistent with the defendant's theory of the case." (See People v. Breverman (1998) 19 Cal.4th 142, 156 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 870, 960 P.2d 1094] [addressing sua sponte duty to instruct on self-defense].)

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 507, Justifiable Homicide: By Public Officer.

CALCRIM No. 508, Justifiable Homicide: Citizen Arrest (Non-Peace Officer).

AUTHORITY

- Justifiable Homicide to Preserve the Peace. Pen. Code, §§ 197, subd. 4, 199.
- Lawful Resistance to the Commission of an Offense. Pen. Code, §§ 692–694.
- Riot Defined. Pen. Code, § 404(a).
- Burden of Proof. Pen. Code, § 189.5; People v. Frye (1992) 7 Cal.App.4th 1148, 1154–1155 [10 Cal.Rptr.2d 217].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Defenses, §§ 80–86.

3 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 73, Defenses and Justifications, § 73.14 (Matthew Bender).

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.04[1][c] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[1][b] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Person Using Force Must Fear Imminent Death or Bodily Injury

"Deadly force may not be used to prevent the escape of an apparently unarmed suspected felon unless it is necessary to prevent the escape and the officer has probable cause to believe that the suspect poses a significant threat of death or serious physical injury to the officer or others." (Tennessee v. Garner (1985) 471 U.S. 1, 3, 11 [105 S.Ct. 1694, 85 L.Ed.2d 1].) "Garner necessarily limits the scope of justification for homicide under section 197, subdivision 4, and other similar statutes from the date of that decision." (People v. Martin (1985) 168 Cal.App.3d 1111, 1124 [214 Cal.Rptr. 873].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

510. Excusable Homicide: Accident

The defendant is not guilty of (murder/ [or] manslaughter) if (he/ she) killed someone as a result of accident or misfortune. Such a killing is excused, and therefore not unlawful, if:

1. The defendant was doing a lawful act in a lawful way;

2. The defendant was acting with usual and ordinary caution;

AND

3. The defendant was acting without any unlawful intent.

A person acts with usual and ordinary caution if he or she acts in a way that a reasonably careful person would act in the same or similar situation.

The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the killing was not excused. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of (murder/ [or] manslaughter).

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The trial court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on lawful acts that excuse homicide when there is evidence supporting that defense. (See People v. Hampton (1929) 96 Cal.App. 157, 159–160 [273 P. 854] [court erred in refusing defendant's requested instruction]; People v. Slater (1943) 60 Cal.App.2d 358, 369 [140 P.2d 846]; People v. Bloyd (1987) 43 Cal.3d 333, 353–354 [233 Cal.Rptr. 368, 729 P.2d 802] [instruction not required when defendant argued the victim killed herself by accident].)

When this instruction is given, it should always be given in conjunction with CALCRIM No. 581, Involuntary Manslaughter: Murder Not Charged or CALCRIM No. 580, Involuntary Manslaughter: Lesser Included Offense, unless vehicular manslaughter with ordinary negligence is charged. (People v. Velez (1983) 144 Cal.App.3d 558, 566–568 [192 Cal.Rptr. 686].) A lawful act can be the basis of involuntary manslaughter, but only if that act is committed with criminal negligence ("in an unlawful manner or without due caution and circumspection"). (Pen. Code, § 192(b).) The level of negligence described in this instruction, 510, is ordinary negligence. While proof of ordinary negligence is sufficient to prevent a killing from being excused under Penal Code section 195, subd. 1, proof of ordinary negligence is not sufficient to find a defendant guilty of involuntary manslaughter under Penal Code section 192(b). (People v. Penny (1955) 44 Cal.2d 861, 879–880 [285 P.2d 926].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 3404, Accident.

AUTHORITY

- Excusable Homicide If Committed by Lawful Act. Pen. Code, § 195, subd. 1.
- Burden of Proof. Pen. Code, § 189.5; People v. Frye (1992) 7 Cal.App.4th 1148, 1154–1155 [10 Cal.Rptr.2d 217].
- Instructing With Involuntary Manslaughter. People v. Velez (1983) 144 Cal.App.3d 558, 566–568 [192 Cal.Rptr. 686].
- Misfortune as Accident. People v. Gorgol (1953) 122 Cal.App.2d 281, 308 [265 P.2d 69].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Defenses, § 242.

3 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 73, Defenses and Justifications, §§ 73.01[5], 73.16 (Matthew Bender).

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.04[1][c] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[1][b] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Traditional Self-Defense

In People v. Curtis (1994) 30 Cal.App.4th 1337, 1358–1359 [37 Cal.Rptr.2d 304], the court held that the claim that a killing was accidental bars the defendant from relying on traditional self-defense not only as a defense, but also to negate implied malice. However, in People v. Elize (1999) 71 Cal.App.4th 605, 610–616 [84 Cal.Rptr.2d 35], the court reached the opposite conclusion, holding that the trial court erred in refusing to give self-defense instructions where the defendant testified that the gun discharged accidentally. Elize relies on two Supreme Court opinions, People v. Barton (1995) 12 Cal.4th 186 [47 Cal.Rtpr.2d 569, 906 P.2d 531], and People v. Breverman (1998) 19 Cal.4th 142 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 870, 960 P.2d 1094]. Because Curtis predates these opinions, Elize appears to be the more persuasive authority.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

511. Excusable Homicide: Accident in the Heat of Passion

The defendant is not guilty of (murder/ [or] manslaughter) if (he/ she) killed someone by accident while acting in the heat of passion. Such a killing is excused, and therefore not unlawful, if, at the time of the killing:

1. The defendant acted in the heat of passion;
2. The defendant was (suddenly provoked by _____ <insert name of decedent>/ [or] suddenly drawn into combat by _____ <insert name of decedent>);
3. The defendant did not take undue advantage of _____ <insert name of decedent>;
4. The defendant did not use a dangerous weapon;
5. The defendant did not kill _____ <insert name of decedent> in a cruel or unusual way;
6. The defendant did not intend to kill _____ <insert name of decedent> and did not act with conscious disregard of the danger to human life;

AND

7. The defendant did not act with criminal negligence.

A person acts in the heat of passion when he or she is provoked into doing a rash act under the influence of intense emotion that obscures his or her reasoning or judgment. The provocation must be sufficient to have caused a person of average disposition to act rashly and without due deliberation, that is, from passion rather than from judgment.

Heat of passion does not require anger, rage, or any specific emotion. It can be any violent or intense emotion that causes a person to act without due deliberation and reflection.

In order for the killing to be excused on this basis, the defendant must have acted under the direct and immediate influence of provocation as I have defined it. While no specific type of provocation is required, slight or remote provocation is not sufficient. Sufficient provocation may occur over a short or long period of time.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

It is not enough that the defendant simply was provoked. The defendant is not allowed to set up (his/her) own standard of conduct. You must decide whether the defendant was provoked and whether the provocation was sufficient. In deciding whether the provocation was sufficient, consider whether a person of average disposition would have been provoked and how such a person would react in the same situation knowing the same facts.

[A dangerous weapon is any object, instrument, or weapon that is inherently deadly or dangerous or one that is used in such a way that it is capable of causing and likely to cause death or great bodily injury.]

[Great bodily injury means significant or substantial physical injury. It is an injury that is greater than minor or moderate harm.]

Criminal negligence* involves more than ordinary carelessness, inattention, or mistake in judgment. A person acts with criminal negligence when:

1. He or she acts in a way that creates a high risk of death or great bodily injury;

AND

2. A reasonable person would have known that acting in that way would create such a risk.

In other words, a person acts with criminal negligence when the way he or she acts is so different from how an ordinarily careful person would act in the same situation that his or her act amounts to disregard for human life or indifference to the consequences of that act.

The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the killing was not excused. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of (murder/ [or] manslaughter).

New January 2006

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The trial court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on accident and heat of passion that excuses homicide when there is evidence supporting the defense. (People v. Hampton (1929) 96 Cal.App. 157, 159–160 [273 P. 854] [court erred in refusing defendant's requested instruction].)

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 510, Excusable Homicide: Accident.

CALCRIM No. 3471, Right to Self-Defense: Mutual Combat or Initial Aggressor.

CALCRIM No. 570, Voluntary Manslaughter: Heat of Passion—Lesser Included Offense.

AUTHORITY

- Excusable Homicide if Committed in Heat of Passion. Pen. Code, § 195, subd. 2.
- Burden of Proof. Pen. Code, § 189.5; People v. Frye (1992) 7 Cal.App.4th 1148, 1154–1155 [10 Cal.Rptr.2d 217].
- Deadly Weapon Defined. See People v. Aguilar (1997) 16 Cal.4th 1023, 1028–1029 [68 Cal.Rptr.2d 655, 945 P.2d 1204].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Defenses, § 242; Crimes Against the Person, § 212.

3 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 73, Defenses and Justifications, § 73.16 (Matthew Bender).

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.04[1][c] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.01[1][b], [g], 142.02[2][a] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Distinguished From Voluntary Manslaughter

Under Penal Code section 195, subd. 2, a homicide is "excusable," "in the heat of passion" if done "by accident," or on "sudden . . . provocation . . . or . . . combat." (Pen. Code, § 195, subd. 2.) Thus, unlike voluntary manslaughter, the killing must have been committed without criminal intent, that is, accidentally. (See People v. Cooley (1962) 211 Cal.App.2d 173, 204

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[27 Cal.Rptr. 543], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Lew (1968) 68 Cal.2d 774, 778, fn. 1 [69 Cal.Rptr. 102, 441 P.2d 942]; Pen. Code, § 195, subd. 1 [act must be without criminal intent]; Pen. Code, § 26, subd. 5 [accident requires absence of "evil design [or] intent"].) The killing must also be on "sudden" provocation, eliminating the possibility of provocation over time, which may be considered in cases of voluntary manslaughter. (See Bench Notes to CALCRIM No. 570, Voluntary Manslaughter: Heat of Passion—Lesser Included Offense.)

Distinguished From Involuntary Manslaughter

Involuntary manslaughter requires a finding of gross or criminal negligence. (See Bench Notes to CALCRIM No. 581, Involuntary Manslaughter: Murder Not Charged; Pen. Code, § 26, subd. 5 [accident requires no "culpable negligence"].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

512. Presumption That Killing Not Criminal (Pen. Code, § 194)

The law presumes that a killing is not criminal if the person killed dies more than three years and one day from the day of the incident that caused the death.

The People must overcome this presumption by proving that the killing was criminal. If you have a reasonable doubt whether the killing was criminal, you must find the defendant not guilty.

[To count the three year and one day period, begin with the day on which the incident happened. Count that day as one whole day regardless of what time the incident happened.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on presumptions relevant to the issues of the case. (See People v. Hood (1969) 1 Cal.3d 444, 449 [82 Cal.Rptr. 618, 462 P.2d 370].)

AUTHORITY

- Presumption of Lawful Killing. Pen. Code, § 194.
- Rebuttable Presumptions Affecting Burden of Proof. Evid. Code, §§ 601, 604, 606.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 93.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[1][c] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

May Prosecute Defendant for Attempted Murder and Murder

Double jeopardy does not preclude prosecution of the defendant for attempted murder and also for murder if the victim dies after the conviction for attempted murder. (In re Saul S. (1985) 167 Cal.App.3d 1061, 1068 [213 Cal.Rptr. 541].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

513–519. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

C. MURDER: FIRST AND SECOND DEGREE

520. First or Second Degree Murder With Malice Aforethought (Pen. Code, § 187)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with murder [in violation of Penal Code section 187].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant committed an act that caused the death of (another person/ [or] a fetus);

[AND]

2. When the defendant acted, (he/she) had a state of mind called malice aforethought(;/.)

<Give element 3 when instructing on justifiable or excusable homicide.>

[AND

3. (He/She) killed without lawful (excuse/[or] justification).]

There are two kinds of malice aforethought, express malice and implied malice. Proof of either is sufficient to establish the state of mind required for murder.

The defendant acted with express malice if (he/she) unlawfully intended to kill.

The defendant acted with implied malice if:

1. (He/She) intentionally committed an act;
2. The natural and probable consequences of the act were dangerous to human life;
3. At the time (he/she) acted, (he/she) knew (his/her) act was dangerous to human life;

AND

4. (He/She) deliberately acted with conscious disregard for (human/ [or] fetal) life.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Malice aforethought does not require hatred or ill will toward the victim. It is a mental state that must be formed before the act that causes death is committed. It does not require deliberation or the passage of any particular period of time.

[It is not necessary that the defendant be aware of the existence of a fetus to be guilty of murdering that fetus.]

[A fetus is an unborn human being that has progressed beyond the embryonic stage after major structures have been outlined, which occurs at seven to eight weeks of development.]

[An act causes death if the death is the direct, natural, and probable consequence of the act and the death would not have happened without the act. A natural and probable consequence is one that a reasonable person would know is likely to happen if nothing unusual intervenes. In deciding whether a consequence is natural and probable, consider all of the circumstances established by the evidence.]

[There may be more than one cause of death. An act causes death only if it is a substantial factor in causing the death. A substantial factor is more than a trivial or remote factor. However, it does not need to be the only factor that causes the death.]

[(A/An) _____ <insert description of person owing duty> has a legal duty to (help/care for/rescue/warn/maintain the property of/ _____ <insert other required action[s]>) _____ <insert description of decedent/person to whom duty is owed>.

If you conclude that the defendant owed a duty to _____ <insert name of decedent>, and the defendant failed to perform that duty, (his/her) failure to act is the same as doing a negligent or injurious act.]

<Give the following bracketed paragraph if the second degree is the only possible degree of the crime for which the jury may return a verdict>

[If you find the defendant guilty of murder, it is murder of the second degree.]

<Give the following bracketed paragraph if there is substantial evidence of first degree murder>

[If you decide that the defendant committed murder, you must then decide whether it is murder of the first or second degree].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

New January 2006; Revised August 2009, October 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the first two elements of the crime. If there is sufficient evidence of excuse or justification, the court has a sua sponte duty to include the third, bracketed element in the instruction. (People v. Frye (1992) 7 Cal.App.4th 1148, 1155–1156 [10 Cal.Rptr.2d 217].) The court also has a sua sponte duty to give any other appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 505–627, and CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

If causation is at issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on proximate cause. (People v. Bernhardt (1963) 222 Cal.App.2d 567, 590–591 [35 Cal.Rptr. 401].) If the evidence indicates that there was only one cause of death, the court should give the "direct, natural, and probable" language in the first bracketed paragraph on causation. If there is evidence of multiple causes of death, the court should also give the "substantial factor" instruction and definition in the second bracketed causation paragraph. (See People v. Autry (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 351, 363 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 135]; People v. Pike (1988) 197 Cal.App.3d 732, 746–747 [243 Cal.Rptr. 54].) If there is an issue regarding a superseding or intervening cause, give the appropriate portion of CALCRIM No. 620, Causation: Special Issues.

If the prosecution's theory of the case is that the defendant committed murder based on his or her failure to perform a legal duty, the court may give the bracketed portion that begins, "(A/An) _____ <insert description of person owing duty> has a legal duty to." Review the Bench Notes to CALCRIM No. 582, Involuntary Manslaughter: Failure to Perform Legal Duty—Murder Not Charged.

If the defendant is charged with first degree murder, give this instruction and CALCRIM No. 521, First Degree Murder. If the defendant is charged with second degree murder, no other instruction need be given.

If the defendant is also charged with first or second degree felony murder, instruct on those crimes and give CALCRIM No. 548, Murder: Alternative Theories.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 187.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Malice. Pen. Code, § 188; People v. Dellinger (1989) 49 Cal.3d 1212, 1217–1222 [264 Cal.Rptr. 841, 783 P.2d 200]; People v. Nieto Benitez (1992) 4 Cal.4th 91, 103–105 [13 Cal.Rptr.2d 864, 840 P.2d 969]; People v. Blakeley (2000) 23 Cal.4th 82, 87 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 451, 999 P.2d 675].
- Causation. People v. Roberts (1992) 2 Cal.4th 271, 315–321 [6 Cal.Rptr.2d 276, 826 P.2d 274].
- Fetus Defined. People v. Davis (1994) 7 Cal.4th 797, 814–815 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 50, 872 P.2d 591]; People v. Taylor (2004) 32 Cal.4th 863, 867 [11 Cal.Rptr.3d 510, 86 P.3d 881].
- Ill Will Not Required for Malice. People v. Sedeno (1974) 10 Cal.3d 703, 722 [112 Cal.Rptr. 1, 518 P.2d 913], overruled on other grounds in People v. Flannel (1979) 25 Cal.3d 668, 684, fn. 12 [160 Cal.Rptr. 84, 603 P.2d 1]; People v. Breverman (1998) 19 Cal.4th 142, 163 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 870, 960 P.2d 1094].
- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Genovese (2008) 168 Cal.App.4th 817, 831 [85 Cal.Rptr.3d 664].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 91–97.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.04, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01 (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Voluntary Manslaughter. Pen. Code, § 192(a).
- Involuntary Manslaughter. Pen. Code, § 192(b).
- Attempted Murder. Pen. Code, §§ 663, 189.

Gross vehicular manslaughter while intoxicated (Pen. Code, § 191.5(a)) is not a lesser included offense of murder. (People v. Sanchez (2001) 24 Cal.4th 983, 988–992 [103 Cal.Rptr.2d 698, 16 P.3d 118].) Similarly, child abuse homicide (Pen. Code, § 273ab) is not a necessarily included offense of murder. (People v. Malfavon (2002) 102 Cal.App.4th 727, 744 [125 Cal.Rptr.2d 618].)

RELATED ISSUES

Causation—Foreseeability

Authority is divided on whether a causation instruction should include the concept of foreseeability. (See People v. Autry (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 351,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

362–363 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 135]; People v. Temple (1993) 19 Cal.App.4th 1750, 1756 [24 Cal.Rptr.2d 228] [refusing defense-requested instruction on foreseeability in favor of standard causation instruction]; but see People v. Gardner (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 473, 483 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 603] [suggesting the following language be used in a causation instruction: "[t]he death of another person must be foreseeable in order to be the natural and probable consequence of the defendant's act"].) It is clear, however, that it is error to instruct a jury that foreseeability is immaterial to causation. (People v. Roberts (1992) 2 Cal.4th 271, 315 [6 Cal.Rptr.2d 276, 826 P.2d 274] [error to instruct a jury that when deciding causation it "[w]as immaterial that the defendant could not reasonably have foreseen the harmful result"].)

Second Degree Murder of a Fetus

The defendant does not need to know a woman is pregnant to be convicted of second degree murder of her fetus. (People v. Taylor (2004) 32 Cal.4th 863, 868 [11 Cal.Rptr.3d 510, 86 P.3d 881] ["[t]here is no requirement that the defendant specifically know of the existence of each victim."]) "[B]y engaging in the conduct he did, the defendant demonstrated a conscious disregard for all life, fetal or otherwise, and hence is liable for all deaths caused by his conduct." (Id. at p. 870.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

521. First Degree Murder (Pen. Code, § 189)

<Select the appropriate section[s]. Give the final paragraph in every case.>

<Give if multiple theories alleged.>

[The defendant has been prosecuted for first degree murder under (two/ _____ <insert number>) theories: (1) _____ <insert first theory, e.g., "the murder was willful, deliberate, and premeditated"> [and] (2) _____ <insert second theory, e.g., "the murder was committed by lying in wait"> [_____ *<insert additional theories>].

Each theory of first degree murder has different requirements, and I will instruct you on (both/all _____ *<insert number>).

You may not find the defendant guilty of first degree murder unless all of you agree that the People have proved that the defendant committed murder. But all of you do not need to agree on the same theory.]

<A. Deliberation and Premeditation>

[The defendant is guilty of first degree murder if the People have proved that (he/she) acted willfully, deliberately, and with premeditation. The defendant acted willfully if (he/she) intended to kill. The defendant acted deliberately if (he/she) carefully weighed the considerations for and against (his/her) choice and, knowing the consequences, decided to kill. The defendant acted with premeditation if (he/she) decided to kill before completing the act[s] that caused death.

The length of time the person spends considering whether to kill does not alone determine whether the killing is deliberate and premeditated. The amount of time required for deliberation and premeditation may vary from person to person and according to the circumstances. A decision to kill made rashly, impulsively, or without careful consideration is not deliberate and premeditated. On the other hand, a cold, calculated decision to kill can be reached quickly. The test is the extent of the reflection, not the length of time.]

<B. Torture>

[The defendant is guilty of first degree murder if the People have proved that the defendant murdered by torture. The defendant murdered by torture if:

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1. (He/She) willfully, deliberately, and with premeditation intended to inflict extreme and prolonged pain on the person killed while that person was still alive;
2. (He/She) intended to inflict such pain on the person killed for the calculated purpose of revenge, extortion, persuasion, or any other sadistic reason;
3. The acts causing death involved a high degree of probability of death;

AND

4. The torture was a cause of death.]

[A person commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. A person deliberates if he or she carefully weighs the considerations for and against his or her choice and, knowing the consequences, decides to act. An act is done with premeditation if the decision to commit the act is made before the act is done.]

[There is no requirement that the person killed be aware of the pain.]

[A finding of torture does not require that the defendant intended to kill.]

<C. Lying in Wait>

[The defendant is guilty of first degree murder if the People have proved that the defendant murdered while lying in wait or immediately thereafter. The defendant murdered by lying in wait if:

1. (He/She) concealed (his/her) purpose from the person killed;
2. (He/She) waited and watched for an opportunity to act;

AND

3. Then, from a position of advantage, (he/she) intended to and did make a surprise attack on the person killed.

The lying in wait does not need to continue for any particular period of time, but its duration must be substantial enough to show a state of mind equivalent to deliberation or premeditation. [Deliberation means carefully weighing the considerations for and against a choice and, knowing the consequences, deciding to act. An act is done with premeditation if the decision to commit the act is made before the act is done.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[A person can conceal his or her purpose even if the person killed is aware of the person's physical presence.]

[The concealment can be accomplished by ambush or some other secret plan.]]

<D. Destructive Device or Explosive>

[The defendant is guilty of first degree murder if the People have proved that the defendant murdered by using a destructive device or explosive.]

[An explosive is any substance, or combination of substances, (1) whose main or common purpose is to detonate or rapidly combust and (2) which is capable of a relatively instantaneous or rapid release of gas and heat.]

[An explosive is [also] any substance whose main purpose is to be combined with other substances to create a new substance that can release gas and heat rapidly or relatively instantaneously.]

[_____ <insert type of explosive from Health & Saf. Code, § 12000> is an explosive.]

[A destructive device is _____ <insert definition supported by evidence from Pen. Code, § 12301>.]

[_____ <insert type of destructive device from Pen. Code, § 12301> is a destructive device.]

<E. Weapon of Mass Destruction>

[The defendant is guilty of first degree murder if the People have proved that the defendant murdered by using a weapon of mass destruction.

[_____ <insert type of weapon from Pen. Code, § 11417(a)(1)> is a weapon of mass destruction.]

[_____ <insert type of agent from Pen. Code, § 11417(a)(2)> is a chemical warfare agent.]]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

<F. Penetrating Ammunition>

[The defendant is guilty of first degree murder if the People have proved that when the defendant murdered, (he/she) used ammunition designed primarily to penetrate metal or armor to commit the murder and (he/she) knew that the ammunition was designed primarily to penetrate metal or armor.]

<G. Discharge From Vehicle>

[The defendant is guilty of first degree murder if the People have proved that the defendant murdered by shooting a firearm from a motor vehicle. The defendant committed this kind of murder if:

1. (He/She) shot a firearm from a motor vehicle;
2. (He/She) intentionally shot at a person who was outside the vehicle;

AND

3. (He/She) intended to kill that person.

A firearm is any device designed to be used as a weapon, from which a projectile is discharged or expelled through a barrel by the force of an explosion or other form of combustion.

A motor vehicle includes (a/an) (passenger vehicle/motorcycle/motor scooter/bus/school bus/commercial vehicle/truck tractor and trailer/ _____ <insert other type of motor vehicle>).]

<H. Poison>

[The defendant is guilty of first degree murder if the People have proved that the defendant murdered by using poison.

[Poison is a substance, applied externally to the body or introduced into the body, that can kill by its own inherent qualities.]]

[_____ <insert name of substance> is a poison.]

[The requirements for second degree murder based on express or implied malice are explained in CALCRIM No. 520, First or Second Degree Murder With Malice Aforethought.]

The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the killing was first degree murder rather than a lesser crime.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of first degree murder.

New January 2006; Revised August 2006, June 2007, April 2010, October 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime. Before giving this instruction, the court must give CALCRIM No. 520, Murder With Malice Aforethought. Depending on the theory of first degree murder relied on by the prosecution, give the appropriate alternatives A through H.

The court must give the final paragraph in every case.

If the prosecution alleges two or more theories for first degree murder, give the bracketed section that begins with "The defendant has been prosecuted for first degree murder under." If the prosecution alleges felony murder in addition to one of the theories of first degree murder in this instruction, give CALCRIM No. 548, Murder: Alternative Theories, instead of the bracketed paragraph contained in this instruction.

When instructing on torture or lying in wait, give the bracketed sections explaining the meaning of "deliberate" and "premeditated" if those terms have not already been defined for the jury.

When instructing on murder by weapon of mass destruction, explosive, or destructive device, the court may use the bracketed sentence stating, "_____ is a weapon of mass destruction" or "is a chemical warfare agent," only if the device used is listed in the code section noted in the instruction. For example, "Sarin is a chemical warfare agent." However, the court may not instruct the jury that the defendant used the prohibited weapon. For example, the court may not state, "the defendant used a chemical warfare agent, sarin," or "the material used by the defendant, sarin, was a chemical warfare agent." (People v. Dimitrov (1995) 33 Cal.App.4th 18, 25–26 [39 Cal.Rptr.2d 257].)

AUTHORITY

- Types of Statutory First Degree Murder. Pen. Code, § 189.
- Armor Piercing Ammunition Defined. Pen. Code, § 12323(b).
- Destructive Device Defined. Pen. Code, § 12301.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- For Torture, Act Causing Death Must Involve a High Degree of Probability of Death. People v. Cook (2006) 39 Cal.4th 566, 602 [47 Cal.Rptr.3d 22, 139 P.3d 492].
- Mental State Required for Implied Malice. People v. Knoller (2007) 41 Cal.4th 139, 143 [59 Cal.Rptr.3d 157, 158 P.3d 731].
- Explosive Defined. Health & Saf. Code, § 12000; People v. Clark (1990) 50 Cal.3d 583, 604 [268 Cal.Rptr. 399, 789 P.2d 127].
- Weapon of Mass Destruction Defined. Pen. Code, § 11417.
- Discharge From Vehicle. People v. Chavez (2004) 118 Cal.App.4th 379, 386–387 [12 Cal.Rptr.3d 837] [drive-by shooting clause is not enumerated felony for purposes of the felony murder rule].
- Lying in Wait Requirements. People v. Stanley (1995) 10 Cal.4th 764, 794 [42 Cal.Rptr.2d 543, 897 P.2d 481]; People v. Ceja (1993) 4 Cal.4th 1134, 1139 [17 Cal.Rptr.2d 375, 847 P.2d 55]; People v. Webster (1991) 54 Cal.3d 411, 448]; People v. Poindexter (2006) 144 Cal.App.4th 572, 582–585 [50 Cal.Rptr.3d 489]; People v. Laws (1993) 12 Cal.App.4th 786, 794–795 [15 Cal.Rptr.2d 668].
- Poison Defined. People v. Van Deleer (1878) 53 Cal. 147, 149.
- Premeditation and Deliberation Defined. People v. Anderson (1968) 70 Cal.2d 15, 26–27 [73 Cal.Rptr. 550, 447 P.2d 942]; People v. Bender (1945) 27 Cal.2d 164, 183–184 [163 P.2d 8]; People v. Daugherty (1953) 40 Cal.2d 876, 901–902 [256 P.2d 911].
- Torture Requirements. People v. Pensinger (1991) 52 Cal.3d 1210, 1239 [278 Cal.Rptr. 640, 805 P.2d 899]; People v. Bittaker (1989) 48 Cal.3d 1046, 1101 [259 Cal.Rptr. 630, 774 P.2d 659], habeas corpus granted in part on other grounds in In re Bittaker (1997) 55 Cal.App.4th 1004 [64 Cal.Rptr.2d 679]; People v. Wiley (1976) 18 Cal.3d 162, 168–172 [133 Cal.Rptr. 135, 554 P.2d 881]; see also People v. Pre (2004) 117 Cal.App.4th 413, 419–420 [11 Cal.Rptr.3d 739] [comparing torture murder with torture].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 102–162.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01 (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Murder. Pen. Code, § 187.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Voluntary Manslaughter. Pen. Code, § 192(a).
- Involuntary Manslaughter. Pen. Code, § 192(b).
- Attempted First Degree Murder. Pen. Code, §§ 663, 189.
- Attempted Murder. Pen. Code, §§ 663, 187.

RELATED ISSUES

Premeditation and Deliberation*—Anderson *Factors

Evidence in any combination from the following categories suggests premeditation and deliberation: (1) events before the murder that indicate planning; (2) motive, specifically evidence of a relationship between the victim and the defendant; and (3) method of the killing that is particular and exacting and evinces a preconceived design to kill. (People v. Anderson (1968) 70 Cal.2d 15, 26–27 [73 Cal.Rptr. 550, 447 P.2d 942].) Although these categories have been relied on to decide whether premeditation and deliberation are present, an instruction that suggests that each of these factors must be found in order to find deliberation and premeditation is not proper. (People v. Lucero (1988) 44 Cal.3d 1006, 1020–1021 [245 Cal.Rptr. 185, 750 P.2d 1342].) Anderson also noted that the brutality of the killing alone is not sufficient to support a finding that the killer acted with premeditation and deliberation. Thus, the infliction of multiple acts of violence on the victim without any other evidence indicating premeditation will not support a first degree murder conviction. (People v. Anderson, supra, 70 Cal.2d at pp. 24–25.) However, "[t]he Anderson guidelines are descriptive, not normative." (People v. Perez (1992) 2 Cal.4th 1117, 1125 [9 Cal.Rptr.2d 577, 831 P.2d 1159].) The holding did not alter the elements of murder or substantive law but was intended to provide a "framework to aid in appellate review." (Ibid.)

Premeditation and Deliberation—Heat of Passion Provocation

Provocation may reduce murder from first to second degree. (People v. Thomas (1945) 25 Cal.2d 880, 903 [156 P.2d 7] [provocation raised reasonable doubt about premeditation or deliberation, "leaving the homicide as murder of the second degree; i.e., an unlawful killing perpetrated with malice aforethought but without premeditation and deliberation"]; see People v. Padilla (2002) 103 Cal.App.4th 675, 679 [126 Cal.Rptr.2d 889] [evidence of hallucination is admissible at guilt phase to negate deliberation and premeditation and to reduce first degree murder to second degree murder].) There is, however, no sua sponte duty to instruct the jury on this issue. (People v. Middleton (1997) 52 Cal.App.4th 19, 31–33 [60 Cal.Rptr.2d 366], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Gonzalez (2003) 31 Cal.4th 745,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

752 [3 Cal.Rptr.3d 676, 74 P.3d 771].) On request, give CALCRIM No. 522, Provocation: Effect on Degree of Murder.

Torture—Causation

The finding of murder by torture encompasses the totality of the brutal acts and circumstances that led to a victim's death. "The acts of torture may not be segregated into their constituent elements in order to determine whether any single act by itself caused the death; rather, it is the continuum of sadistic violence that constitutes the torture [citation]." (People v. Proctor (1992) 4 Cal.4th 499, 530–531 [15 Cal.Rptr.2d 340, 842 P.2d 1100].)

Torture—Instruction on Voluntary Intoxication

"[A] court should instruct a jury in a torture-murder case, when evidence of intoxication warrants it, that intoxication is relevant to the specific intent to inflict cruel suffering." (People v. Pensinger (1991) 52 Cal.3d 1210, 1242 [278 Cal.Rptr. 640, 805 P.2d 899]; see CALCRIM No. 625, Voluntary Intoxication: Effects on Homicide Crimes.)

Torture—Pain Not an Element

All that is required for first degree murder by torture is the calculated intent to cause pain for the purpose of revenge, extortion, persuasion, or any other sadistic purpose. There is no requirement that the victim actually suffer pain. (People v. Pensinger (1991) 52 Cal.3d 1210, 1239 [278 Cal.Rptr. 640, 805 P.2d 899].)

Torture—Premeditated Intent to Inflict Pain

Torture-murder, unlike the substantive crime of torture, requires that the defendant acted with deliberation and premeditation when inflicting the pain. (People v. Pre (2004) 117 Cal.App.4th 413, 419–420 [11 Cal.Rptr.3d 739]; People v. Mincey (1992) 2 Cal.4th 408, 434–436 [6 Cal.Rptr.2d 822, 827 P.2d 388].)

Lying in Wait—Length of Time Equivalent to Premeditation and Deliberation

In People v. Stanley (1995) 10 Cal.4th 764, 794 [42 Cal.Rptr.2d 543, 897 P.2d 481], the court approved this instruction regarding the length of time a person lies in wait: "[T]he lying in wait need not continue for any particular time, provided that its duration is such as to show a state of mind equivalent to premeditation or deliberation."

Discharge From a Vehicle—Vehicle Does Not Have to Be Moving

Penal Code section 189 does not require the vehicle to be moving when the shots are fired. (Pen. Code, § 189; see also People v. Bostick (1996) 46 Cal.App.4th 287, 291 [53 Cal.Rptr.2d 760] [finding vehicle movement is not required in context of enhancement for discharging firearm from motor vehicle under Pen. Code, § 12022.55].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

522. Provocation: Effect on Degree of Murder

Provocation may reduce a murder from first degree to second degree [and may reduce a murder to manslaughter]. The weight and significance of the provocation, if any, are for you to decide.

If you conclude that the defendant committed murder but was provoked, consider the provocation in deciding whether the crime was first or second degree murder. [Also, consider the provocation in deciding whether the defendant committed murder or manslaughter.]

[Provocation does not apply to a prosecution under a theory of felony murder.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

Provocation may reduce murder from first to second degree. (People v. Thomas (1945) 25 Cal.2d 880, 903 [156 P.2d 7] [provocation raised reasonable doubt about premeditation or deliberation, "leaving the homicide as murder of the second degree; i.e., an unlawful killing perpetrated with malice aforethought but without premeditation and deliberation"]; see also People v. Cole (2004) 33 Cal.4th 1158, 1211–1212 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 532, 95 P.3d 811] [court adequately instructed on relevance of provocation to whether defendant acted with intent to torture for torture murder].) There is, however, no sua sponte duty to instruct the jury on this issue. (People v. Middleton (1997) 52 Cal.App.4th 19, 31–33 [60 Cal.Rptr.2d 366], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Gonzalez (2003) 31 Cal.4th 745, 752 [3 Cal.Rptr.3d 676, 74 P.3d 771].) This is a pinpoint instruction, to be given on request.

This instruction may be given after CALCRIM No. 521, First Degree Murder.

If the court will be instructing on voluntary manslaughter, give both bracketed portions on manslaughter.

If the court will be instructing on felony murder, give the bracketed sentence stating that provocation does not apply to felony murder.

AUTHORITY

- Provocation Reduces From First to Second Degree. People v. Thomas

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(1945) 25 Cal.2d 880, 903 [156 P.2d 7]; see also People v. Cole (2004) 33 Cal.4th 1158, 1211–1212 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 532, 95 P.3d 811].

- Pinpoint Instruction. People v. Rogers (2006) 39 Cal.4th 826, 877–878].

Secondary Sources

3 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 73, Defenses and Justifications, § 73.16 (Matthew Bender).

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.04[1][c] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.01, 142.02 (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

523. First Degree Murder: Hate Crime (Pen. Code, § 190.03)

If you find the defendant guilty of first degree murder [as charged in Count _____], you must then decide whether the People have proved the additional allegation that the murder was a hate crime.

To prove this allegation the People must prove that the defendant committed the murder, in whole or in part, because of the deceased person's actual or perceived (disability[,]/[or] gender[,]/[or] nationality[,]/[or] race or ethnicity[,]/[or] religion[,]/[or] sexual orientation[,]/ [or] association with a person or group with (this/one or more of these) actual or perceived characteristic[s]).

The defendant acted, in whole or in part, because of the actual or perceived characteristic[s] of the deceased person if:

1. The defendant was biased against the other person based on the other person's actual or perceived (disability[,]/ [or] gender[,]/ [or] nationality[,]/ [or] race or ethnicity[,]/ [or] religion[,]/ [or] sexual orientation[,]/ [or] association with a person or group having (this/one or more of these) actual or perceived characteristic[s]);

AND

2. The bias motivation caused the defendant to commit the alleged murder.

If you find that the defendant had more than one reason to commit the alleged murder, the bias described here must have been a substantial motivating factor. A substantial factor is more than a trivial or remote factor. However, it does not need to be the only factor that motivated the conduct.

[The term disability is explained in Instruction 1353, to which you should refer.]

[Gender, as used here, means sex and includes a person's gender identity and gender related appearance and behavior whether or not stereotypically associated with the person's assigned sex at birth.]

[Nationality includes citizenship, country of origin, and national origin.]

[Race or ethnicity includes ancestry, color, and ethnic background.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[Religion, as used here, includes all aspects of religious belief, observance, and practice and includes agnosticism and atheism.]

[Sexual orientation means heterosexuality, homosexuality, or bisexuality.]

[Association with a person or group with (this/one or more of these) actual or perceived characteristic[s] includes (advocacy for[,]/ identification with[,]/ [or] being on the ground owned or rented by[, or adjacent to,]) a (person[,]/ group[,]/ family[,]/ community center[,]/ educational facility[,]/ office[,]/ meeting hall[,]/ place of worship[,]/ private institution[,]/ public agency[,]/ library[,]/ [or] other entity) that has, or is identified with people who have, (that/ one or more of those) characteristic[s].]

The People have the burden of proving this allegation beyond a reasonable doubt. If the People have not met this burden, you must find this allegation has not been proved.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the sentencing enhancement. (See People v. Marshall (2000) 83 Cal.App.4th 186, 193–195 [99 Cal.Rptr.2d 441]; Apprendi v. New Jersey (2000) 530 U.S. 466, 475–476, 490 [120 S.Ct. 2348, 147 L.Ed.2d 435].)

This statute was substantially revised, effective January 1, 2005. Prior to that time, the statute was limited to murder committed because of the decedent's disability, gender, or sexual orientation.

Give all relevant bracketed definitions. If the term "disability" is used, give CALCRIM No. 1353, Hate Crime: Disability Defined.

AUTHORITY

- Murder That is a Hate Crime. Pen. Code, § 190.03(a).
- Hate Crime Defined. Pen. Code, § 422.55.
- "In Whole or in Part Because of" Defined. Pen. Code, § 422.56(d); In re M.S. (1995) 10 Cal.4th 698, 719–720 [42 Cal.Rptr.2d 355, 896 P.2d 1365]; People v. Superior Court (Aishman) (1995) 10 Cal.4th 735, 741 [42 Cal.Rptr.2d 377, 896 P.2d 1387].
- Disability Defined. Pen. Code, § 422.56(b); Gov. Code, § 12926(i)–(l).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Gender Defined. Pen. Code, §§ 422.56(c) & 422.57.
- Nationality Defined. Pen. Code, § 422.56(e).
- Race or Ethnicity Defined. Pen. Code, § 422.56(f).
- Religion Defined. Pen. Code, § 422.56(g).
- Sexual Orientation Defined. Pen. Code, § 422.56(h).
- Association With Defined. Pen. Code, § 422.56(a).

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 459.

5 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 91, Sentencing, § 91.44 (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[4][a][ii] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

524. Second Degree Murder: Peace Officer (Pen. Code, § 190(b), (c))

If you find the defendant guilty of second degree murder [as charged in Count _____], you must then decide whether the People have proved the additional allegation that (he/she) murdered a peace officer.

To prove this allegation the People must prove that:

1. _____ <insert officer's name, excluding title> was a peace officer lawfully performing (his/her) duties as a peace officer;

[AND]

2. When the defendant killed _____ <insert officer's name, excluding title>, the defendant knew, or reasonably should have known, that _____ <insert officer's name, excluding title> was a peace officer who was performing (his/her) duties(;/.)

<Give element 3 when defendant charged with Pen. Code, § 190(c)>

[AND

3. The defendant (intended to kill the peace officer/ [or] intended to inflict great bodily injury on the peace officer/ [or] personally used a (deadly weapon/ [or] firearm) in the commission of the offense).]

[Great bodily injury means significant or substantial physical injury. It is an injury that is greater than minor or moderate harm.]

[A deadly weapon is any object, instrument, or weapon that is inherently deadly or dangerous or one that is used in such a way that it is capable of causing and likely to cause death or great bodily injury.]

[A firearm is any device designed to be used as a weapon, from which a projectile is discharged or expelled through a barrel by the force of an explosion or other form of combustion.]

[The term[s] (great bodily injury[,]/ deadly weapon[,]/ [and] firearm)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(is/are) defined in another instruction to which you should refer.]

[Someone personally uses a (deadly weapon/ [or] firearm) if he or she intentionally does any of the following:

1. Displays the weapon in a menacing manner;

2. Hits someone with the weapon;

OR

3. Fires the weapon.]

[The People allege that the defendant _____ <insert all of the factors from element 3 when multiple factors are alleged>. You may not find the defendant guilty unless you all agree that the People have proved at least one of these alleged facts and you all agree on which fact or facts were proved. You do not need to specify the fact or facts in your verdict.]

[A person who is employed as a police officer by _____ <insert name of agency that employs police officer> is a peace officer.]

[A person employed by _____ <insert name of agency that employs peace officer, e.g., "the Department of Fish and Game"> is a peace officer if _____ <insert description of facts necessary to make employee a peace officer, e.g., "designated by the director of the agency as a peace officer">.]

[The duties of (a/an) _____ <insert title of peace officer> include _____ <insert job duties>.]

<When lawful performance is an issue, give the following paragraph and Instruction 2670, Lawful Performance: Peace Officer.>

[A peace officer is not lawfully performing his or her duties if he or she is (unlawfully arresting or detaining someone/ [or] using unreasonable or excessive force in his or her duties). Instruction 2670 explains (when an arrest or detention is unlawful/ [and] when force is unreasonable or excessive).]

New January 2006; Revised August 2009

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the sentencing enhancement. (See People v. Marshall (2000) 83

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.App.4th 186, 193–195 [99 Cal.Rptr.2d 441]; Apprendi v. New Jersey (2000) 530 U.S. 466, 475–476, 490 [120 S.Ct. 2348, 147 L.Ed.2d 435].)

If the defendant is charged under Penal Code section 190(b), give only elements 1 and 2. If the defendant is charged under Penal Code section 190(c), give all three elements, specifying the appropriate factors in element 3, and give the appropriate definitions, which follow in brackets. Give the bracketed unanimity instruction if the prosecution alleges more than one factor in element 3.

In order to be "engaged in the performance of his or her duties," a peace officer must be acting lawfully. (People v. Gonzalez (1990) 51 Cal.3d 1179, 1217 [275 Cal.Rptr. 729, 800 P.2d 1159].) "[D]isputed facts bearing on the issue of legal cause must be submitted to the jury considering an engaged-in-duty element." (Ibid.) If excessive force is an issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct the jury that the defendant is not guilty of the offense charged, or any lesser included offense in which lawful performance is an element, if the defendant used reasonable force in response to excessive force. (People v. Olguin (1981) 119 Cal.App.3d 39, 46–47 [173 Cal.Rptr. 663].) On request, the court must instruct that the prosecution has the burden of proving the lawfulness of the arrest beyond a reasonable doubt. (People v. Castain (1981) 122 Cal.App.3d 138, 145 [175 Cal.Rptr. 651].) If lawful performance is an issue, give the bracketed paragraph on lawful performance and the appropriate portions of CALCRIM No. 2670, Lawful Performance: Peace Officer.

Give the relevant bracketed definitions unless the court has already given the definitions in other instructions. In such cases, the court may give the bracketed sentence stating that the term is defined elsewhere.

The jury must determine whether the alleged victim is a peace officer. (People v. Brown (1988) 46 Cal.3d 432, 444–445 [250 Cal.Rptr. 604, 758 P.2d 1135].) The court may instruct the jury on the appropriate definition of "peace officer" from the statute (e.g., "a Garden Grove Regular Police Officer and a Garden Grove Reserve Police Officer are peace officers"). (Ibid.) However, the court may not instruct the jury that the alleged victim was a peace officer as a matter of law (e.g., "Officer Reed was a peace officer"). (Ibid.) If the alleged victim is a police officer, give the bracketed sentence that begins with "A person employed as a police officer." If the alleged victim is another type of peace officer, give the bracketed sentence that begins with "A person employed by."

"Peace officer," as used in this statute, means "as defined in subdivision (a) of Section 830.1, subdivision (a), (b), or (c) of Section 830.2, subdivision (a) of Section 830.33, or Section 830.5." (Pen. Code, § 190(b) & (c).)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

The court may give the bracketed sentence that begins, "The duties of a _____ <insert title . . . .> include," on request. The court may insert a description of the officer's duties such as "the correct service of a facially valid search warrant." (People v. Gonzalez (1990) 51 Cal.3d 1179, 1222 [275 Cal.Rptr. 729, 800 P.2d 1159].)

AUTHORITY

- Second Degree Murder of a Peace Officer. Pen. Code, § 190(b) & (c).
- Personally Used Deadly Weapon. Pen. Code, § 12022.
- Personally Used Firearm. Pen. Code, § 12022.5.
- Personal Use. Pen. Code, § 1203.06(b)(2).

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 164.

3 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 73, Defenses and Justifications, § 73.15[2] (Matthew Bender).

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, § 87.13[7] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[4][c] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

525. Second Degree Murder: Discharge From Motor Vehicle

If you find the defendant guilty of second degree murder [as charged in Count _____], you must then decide whether the People have proved the additional allegation that the murder was committed by shooting a firearm from a motor vehicle.

To prove this allegation, the People must prove that:

1. (The defendant/ _____ < insert name or description of principal if not defendant>) killed a person by shooting a firearm from a motor vehicle;
2. (The defendant/ _____ < insert name or description of principal if not defendant>) intentionally shot at a person who was outside the vehicle;

AND

3. When (the defendant/ _____ < insert name or description of principal if not defendant>) shot a firearm, (the defendant/ _____ < insert name or description of principal if not defendant>) intended to inflict great bodily injury on the person outside the vehicle.

[A firearm is any device designed to be used as a weapon, from which a projectile is discharged or expelled through a barrel by the force of an explosion or other form of combustion.]

[A motor vehicle includes (a/an) (passenger vehicle/motorcycle/motor scooter/bus/school bus/commercial vehicle/truck tractor and trailer/ _____ <*insert other type of motor vehicle>).]

[Great bodily injury means significant or substantial physical injury. It is an injury that is greater than minor or moderate harm.]

[The term[s] (great bodily injury[,]/ firearm[,]/ [and] motor vehicle) (is/are) defined in another instruction to which you should refer.]

[The People must prove that the defendant intended that the person shot at suffer great bodily injury when (he/she/ _____ <insert name or description of principal if not defendant>) shot from the vehicle. However, the People do not have to prove that the defendant intended to injure the specific person who was actually killed.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

The People have the burden of proving this allegation beyond a reasonable doubt. If the People have not met this burden, you must find that this allegation has not been proved.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the sentencing enhancement. (See People v. Marshall (2000) 83 Cal.App.4th 186, 193–195 [99 Cal.Rptr.2d 441]; Apprendi v. New Jersey (2000) 530 U.S. 466, 475–476, 490 [120 S.Ct. 2348, 147 L.Ed.2d 435].)

The statute does not specify whether the defendant must personally intend to inflict great bodily injury or whether accomplice liability may be based on a principal who intended to inflict great bodily injury even if the defendant did not. The instruction has been drafted to provide the court with both alternatives in element 3.

Give the relevant bracketed definitions unless the court has already given the definition in other instructions. In such cases, the court may give the bracketed sentence stating that the term is defined elsewhere.

Give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "The People must prove that the defendant intended," if the evidence shows that the person killed was not the person the defendant intended to harm when shooting from the vehicle. (People v. Sanchez (2001) 26 Cal.4th 834, 851, fn. 10 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 129, 29 P.3d 209].)

AUTHORITY

- Second Degree Murder, Discharge From Vehicle. Pen. Code, § 190(d).

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 164.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[1][a], [2][a][vii], [4][c] (Matthew Bender).

526–539. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

D. FELONY MURDER

Introduction to Felony-Murder Series

The Supreme Court recently reiterated that the analysis to be used in determining whether a defendant is liable for a death under the felony-murder rule depends in part on whether the defendant personally caused the death. (People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 193; see also People v. Billa (2003) 31 Cal.4th 1064, 1072.) Based on the reasoning of Cavitt, the committee has provided three separate instructions for both first and second degree felony murder. These instructions present the following options:

A. Defendant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act

B. Coparticipant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act

C. Other Acts Allegedly Caused Death

For a simple case in which the defendant allegedly personally caused the death by committing a direct act of force or violence against the victim, the court may use an option A instruction. This option contains the least amount of bracketed material and requires the least amount of modification by the court.

In a case where the prosecution alleges that the defendant is a "nonkiller cofelon" liable under the felony-murder rule for a death caused by another participant in the felony, then the court must use an option B instruction. This option allows the court (1) to instruct that the defendant may have committed the underlying felony or may have aided and abetted or conspired to commit an underlying felony that actually was committed by a coparticipant; and (2) to instruct on the additional logical nexus required to show that a nonkiller is liable for a death caused by a cofelon. (People v. Cavitt, supra, 33 Cal.4th at p. 193.)

If the evidence indicates that either the defendant or a coparticipant may have committed the fatal act, the court should give both option A and option B instructions.

In addition, the committee has provided option C instructions to account for the unusual factual situations where a victim dies during the course of a felony as a result of a heart attack, a fire, or a similar cause, rather than as a result of some act of force or violence committed against the victim by one of the participants. (See People v. Billa, supra, 31 Cal.4th at p. 1072.) Each option C instruction states that "[t]he commission [or attempted commission of] the _____ <insert felony or felonies> caused the death of another person." These instructions also include paragraphs on causation as well as elements requiring a temporal and logical nexus between the felony and the death. Option C is the most complicated of the three options provided. Thus, although option C is broad enough to cover most felony-murder scenarios, the committee recommends using an option A or B instruction whenever appropriate to avoid providing the jury with unnecessarily complicated instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

540A. Felony Murder: First Degree—Defendant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act (Pen. Code, § 189)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with murder, under a theory of felony murder.

To prove that the defendant is guilty of first degree murder under this theory, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant committed [or attempted to commit] _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 189>;
2. The defendant intended to commit _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 189>;

AND

3. While committing [or attempting to commit] _____, <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 189> the defendant caused the death of another person.

A person may be guilty of felony murder even if the killing was unintentional, accidental, or negligent.

To decide whether the defendant committed [or attempted to commit] _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 189>, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on (that/those) crime[s]. You must apply those instructions when you decide whether the People have proved first degree murder under a theory of felony murder.

<Make certain that all appropriate instructions on all underlying felonies are given.>

[The defendant must have intended to commit the (felony/felonies) of _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 189> before or at the time that (he/she) caused the death.]

[It is not required that the person die immediately, as long as the cause of death and the (felony/felonies) are part of one continuous transaction.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[It is not required that the person killed be the (victim/intended victim) of the (felony/felonies).]

New January 2006; Revised April 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime. The court also has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of any underlying felonies. (People v. Cain (1995) 10 Cal.4th 1, 36 [40 Cal.Rptr.2d 481, 892 P.2d 1224].) Give all appropriate instructions on all underlying felonies with this instruction. The court may need to modify the first sentence of the instruction on an underlying felony if the defendant is not separately charged with that offense.

If causation is an issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to give CALCRIM No. 240, Causation.

The felonies that support a charge of first degree felony murder are arson, rape, carjacking, robbery, burglary, kidnapping, mayhem, train wrecking, sodomy, lewd or lascivious acts on a child, oral copulation, and sexual penetration. (See Pen. Code, § 189.)

If there is evidence that the defendant did not form the intent to commit the felony until after the homicide, the defendant is entitled on request to an instruction pinpointing this issue. (People v. Hudson (1955) 45 Cal.2d 121, 124–127 [287 P.2d 497]; People v. Silva (2001) 25 Cal.4th 345, 371 [106 Cal.Rptr.2d 93, 21 P.3d 769].) Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "The defendant must have intended to commit the felony." For an instruction specially tailored to robbery-murder cases, see People v. Turner (1990) 50 Cal.3d 668, 691 [268 Cal.Rptr. 706, 789 P.2d 887].

Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "It is not required that the person die immediately" on request if relevant based on the evidence.

The felony-murder rule does not require that the person killed be the victim of the underlying felony. (People v. Johnson (1972) 28 Cal.App.3d 653, 658 [104 Cal.Rptr. 807] [accomplice]; People v. Welch (1972) 8 Cal.3d 106, 117–119 [104 Cal.Rptr. 217, 501 P.2d 225] [innocent bystander]; People v. Salas (1972) 7 Cal.3d 812, 823 [103 Cal.Rptr. 431, 500 P.2d 7] [police officer].) Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "It is not required that the person killed be" on request.

The Supreme Court has not decided whether the trial court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the meaning of "one continuous transaction." (See People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 204].) If the evidence raises an issue of whether the act causing the death and the felony were part of "one continuous transaction," the committee recommends that the court also give CALCRIM No. 549, Felony Murder: One Continuous Transaction—Defined.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Drive-By Shooting

The drive-by shooting clause in Penal Code section 189 is not an enumerated felony for purposes of the felony-murder rule. (People v. Chavez (2004) 118 Cal.App.4th 379, 386–387 [12 Cal.Rptr.3d 837].) A finding of a specific intent to kill is required in order to find first degree murder under this clause. (Ibid.)

If the prosecutor is proceeding under both malice and felony-murder theories, also give CALCRIM No. 548, Murder: Alternative Theories. If the prosecutor is relying only on a theory of felony murder, no instruction on malice should be given. (See People v. Cain (1995) 10 Cal.4th 1, 35–37 [40 Cal.Rptr.2d 481, 892 P.2d 1224] [error to instruct on malice when felony murder only theory].)

Related Instructions—Other Causes of Death

This instruction should be used only when the prosecution alleges that the defendant committed the act causing the death.

If the prosecution alleges that another coparticipant in the felony committed the fatal act, give CALCRIM No. 540B, Felony Murder: First Degree—Coparticipant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act. If the evidence indicates that either the defendant or a coparticipant may have committed the fatal act, give both instructions.

When the alleged victim dies during the course of the felony as a result of a heart attack, a fire, or a similar cause, rather than as a result of some act of force or violence committed against the victim by one of the participants, give CALCRIM No. 540C, Felony Murder: First Degree— Other Acts Allegedly Caused Death. (People v. Billa (2003) 31 Cal.4th 1064, 1072 [6 Cal.Rptr.3d 425, 79 P.3d 542]; People v. Stamp (1969) 2 Cal.App.3d 203, 209–211 [82 Cal.Rptr. 598]; People v. Hernandez (1985) 169 Cal.App.3d 282, 287 [215 Cal.Rptr. 166]; but see People v. Gunnerson (1977) 74 Cal.App.3d 370, 378–381 [141 Cal.Rptr. 488] [a simultaneous or coincidental death is not a killing].)

If the evidence indicates that someone other than the defendant or a coparticipant committed the fatal act, then the crime is not felony murder. (People v. Washington (1965) 62 Cal.2d 777, 782–783 [44 Cal.Rptr. 442, 402 P.2d 130]; People v. Caldwell (1984) 36 Cal.3d 210, 216 [203 Cal.Rptr. 433,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

681 P.2d 274]; see also People v. Gardner (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 473, 477 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 603].) Liability may be imposed, however, under the provocative act doctrine. (Pizano v. Superior Court (1978) 21 Cal.3d 128, 134 [145 Cal.Rptr. 524, 577 P.2d 659]; see CALCRIM No. 560, Homicide: Provocative Act by Defendant.)

AUTHORITY

- Felony Murder: First Degree. Pen. Code, § 189; People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 197 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].
- Specific Intent to Commit Felony Required. People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 197 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].
- Continuous Transaction Requirement. People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 206–209 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].
- Infliction of Fatal Injury. People v. Alvarez (1996) 14 Cal.4th 155, 222–223 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 385, 926 P.2d 365].
- Logical Nexus Between Felony and Killing. People v. Dominguez (2006) 39 Cal.4th 1141 [47 Cal.Rptr.3d 575, 140 P.3d 866]; People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 197–206].
- Merger Doctrine Does Not Apply to First Degree Felony Murder. People v. Farley (2009) 46 Cal.4th 1053, 1118–1120 [96 Cal.Rptr.3d 191, 210 P.3d 361].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 134–147.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, § 87.13[7] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[1][e], [2][b] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Does Not Apply Where Felony Committed Only to Facilitate Murder

If a felony, such as robbery, is committed merely to facilitate an intentional murder, then the felony-murder rule does not apply. (People v. Green (1980) 27 Cal.3d 1, 61 [164 Cal.Rptr. 1, 609 P.2d 468], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Hall (1986) 41 Cal.3d 826, 834, fn. 3 [226 Cal.Rptr. 112, 718 P.2d 99] [robbery committed to facilitate murder did not satisfy felony-murder special circumstance].) If the defense requests a special instruction on this point, see CALCRIM No. 730, Special Circumstances: Murder in Commission of Felony.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

No Duty to Instruct on Lesser Included Offenses of Uncharged Predicate Felony

"Although a trial court on its own initiative must instruct the jury on lesser included offenses of charged offenses, this duty does not extend to uncharged offenses relevant only as predicate offenses under the felony-murder doctrine." (People v. Silva (2001) 25 Cal.4th 345, 371 [106 Cal.Rptr.2d 93, 21 P.3d 769] [original italics]; see People v. Cash (2002) 28 Cal.4th 703, 736–737 [122 Cal.Rptr.2d 545] [no duty to instruct on theft as lesser included offense of uncharged predicate offense of robbery].)

Auto Burglary

Auto burglary may form the basis for a first degree felony-murder conviction. (People v. Fuller (1978) 86 Cal.App.3d 618, 622–623, 628 [150 Cal.Rptr. 515] [noting problems of applying felony-murder rule to nondangerous daytime auto burglary].)

Duress

"[D]uress can, in effect, provide a defense to murder on a felony-murder theory by negating the underlying felony." (People v. Anderson (2002) 28 Cal.4th 767, 784 [122 Cal.Rptr.2d 587, 50 P.3d 368] [dictum]; see also CALCRIM No. 3402, Duress or Threats.)

Imperfect Self-Defense

Imperfect self-defense is not a defense to felony murder because malice aforethought, which imperfect self-defense negates, is not an element of felony murder. (People v. Tabios (1998) 67 Cal.App.4th 1, 6–9 [78 Cal.Rptr.2d 753].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

540B. Felony Murder: First Degree—Coparticipant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act (Pen. Code, § 189)

<Give the following introductory sentence when not giving CALCRIM No. 540A.>

[The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with murder, under a theory of felony murder.]

The defendant may [also] be guilty of murder, under a theory of felony murder, even if another person did the act that resulted in the death. I will call the other person the perpetrator.

To prove that the defendant is guilty of first degree murder under this theory, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant (committed [or attempted to commit][,]/ [or] aided and abetted[,]/ [or] was a member of a conspiracy to commit) _____ *<insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 189>;
2. The defendant (intended to commit[,]/ [or] intended to aid and abet the perpetrator in committing[,]/ [or] intended that one or more of the members of the conspiracy commit) _____ *<insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 189>;
3. If the defendant did not personally commit [or attempt to commit] _____ *<insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 189>, then a perpetrator, (whom the defendant was aiding and abetting/ [or] with whom the defendant conspired), personally committed [or attempted to commit] _____ *<insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 189>;

[AND]

4. While committing [or attempting to commit] _____, <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 189> the perpetrator caused the death of another person(;/.)

<Give element 5 if the court concludes it must instruct on causal relationship between felony and death; see Bench Notes.>

[AND

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

5. There was a logical connection between the cause of death and the _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 189> [or attempted _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 189>]. The connection between the cause of death and the _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 189> [or attempted _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 189>] must involve more than just their occurrence at the same time and place.]

A person may be guilty of felony murder even if the killing was unintentional, accidental, or negligent.

To decide whether (the defendant/ [and] the perpetrator) committed [or attempted to commit] _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 189>, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on (that/those) crime[s]. [To decide whether the defendant aided and abetted a crime, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on aiding and abetting.] [To decide whether the defendant was a member of a conspiracy to commit a crime, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on conspiracy.] You must apply those instructions when you decide whether the People have proved first degree murder under a theory of felony murder.

<Make certain that all appropriate instructions on all underlying felonies, aiding and abetting, and conspiracy are given.>

[The defendant must have (intended to commit[,]/ [or] aid and abet[,]/ [or] been a member of a conspiracy to commit) the (felony/felonies) of _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 189> before or at the time that (he/she) caused the death.]

[It is not required that the person die immediately, as long as the cause of death and the (felony/felonies) are part of one continuous transaction.]

[It is not required that the person killed be the (victim/intended victim) of the (felony/felonies).]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[It is not required that the defendant be present when the death occurs.]

New January 2006; Revised April 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime. The court also has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of any underlying felonies. (People v. Cain (1995) 10 Cal.4th 1, 36 [40 Cal.Rptr.2d 481, 892 P.2d 1224].)

If causation is an issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to give CALCRIM No. 240, Causation.

If the prosecution's theory is that the defendant, as well as the perpetrator, committed or attempted to commit the underlying felony or felonies, then select "committed [or attempted to commit]" in element 1 and "intended to commit" in element 2. In addition, in the paragraph that begins with "To decide whether," select both "the defendant and the perpetrator." Give all appropriate instructions on any underlying felonies with this instruction. The court may need to modify the first sentence of the instruction on an underlying felony if the defendant is not separately charged with that offense. The court may also need to modify the instruction to state "the defendant and the perpetrator each committed [the crime] if . . . ."

If the prosecution's theory is that the defendant aided and abetted or conspired to commit the felony, select one or both of these options in element 1 and the corresponding intent requirements in element 2. In addition, in the paragraph that begins with "To decide whether," select "the perpetrator" in the first sentence. Give the second and/or third bracketed sentences. Give all appropriate instructions on any underlying felonies and on aiding and abetting and/or conspiracy with this instruction. The court may need to modify the first sentence of the instruction on an underlying felony if the defendant is not separately charged with that offense. The court may also need to modify the instruction to state "the perpetrator committed," rather than "the defendant," in the instructions on the underlying felony.

Bracketed element 5 is based on People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 193 [14 Cal.Rtpr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222]. In Cavitt, the Supreme Court clarified the liability of a nonkiller under the felony-murder rule when a cofelon commits a killing. The court held that "the felony-murder rule requires both a causal relationship and a temporal relationship between the underlying felony and the act causing the death. The causal relationship is established by proof of a logical nexus, beyond mere coincidence of time and place, between the homicidal act and the underlying felony the nonkiller committed or attempted to commit. The temporal relationship is established by proof the felony and the homicidal act were part of one continuous transaction." (Ibid. [italics in original].) The majority concluded that the court has no sua sponte duty to instruct on the necessary causal connection. (Id. at pp. 203–204.) In concurring opinions, Justice Werdegar, joined by Justice Kennard, and Justice Chin expressed the view that the jury should be instructed on the necessary causal relationship. (Id. at pp. 212–213.) Give bracketed element 5 if the evidence raises an issue over the causal connection between the felony and the killing. In addition, the court may give this bracketed element at its discretion in any case in which this instruction is given. If the prosecution alleges that the defendant did not commit the felony but aided and abetted or conspired to commit the felony, the committee recommends giving bracketed element 5. (See discussion of conspiracy liability in the Related Issues section below.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If there is evidence that the defendant did not form the intent to commit the felony until after the homicide, or did not join the conspiracy or aid and abet the felony until after the homicide, the defendant is entitled on request to an instruction pinpointing this issue. (People v. Hudson (1955) 45 Cal.2d 121, 124–127 [287 P.2d 497]; People v. Silva (2001) 25 Cal.4th 345, 371 [106 Cal.Rptr.2d 93, 21 P.3d 769].) Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "The defendant must have (intended to commit." For an instruction specially tailored to robbery-murder cases, see People v. Turner (1990) 50 Cal.3d 668, 691 [268 Cal.Rptr. 706, 789 P.2d 887].

Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "It is not required that the person die immediately" on request if relevant based on the evidence.

The felony-murder rule does not require that the person killed be the victim of the underlying felony. (People v. Johnson (1972) 28 Cal.App.3d 653, 658 [104 Cal.Rptr. 807] [accomplice]; People v. Welch (1972) 8 Cal.3d 106, 117–119 [104 Cal.Rptr. 217, 501 P.2d 225] [innocent bystander]; People v. Salas (1972) 7 Cal.3d 812, 823 [103 Cal.Rptr. 431, 500 P.2d 7] [police officer].) Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "It is not required that the person killed be" on request.

Give the last bracketed sentence, stating that the defendant need not be present, on request.

The Supreme Court has not decided whether the trial court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the meaning of "one continuous transaction." (See People

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 204 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].) If the evidence raises an issue of whether the act causing the death and the felony were part of "one continuous transaction," the committee recommends that the court also give CALCRIM No. 549, Felony Murder: One Continuous Transaction—Defined.

If the prosecutor is proceeding under both malice and felony-murder theories, give CALCRIM No. 548, Murder: Alternative Theories. If the prosecutor is relying only on a theory of felony murder, no instruction on malice should be given. (See People v. Cain (1995) 10 Cal.4th 1, 35–37 [40 Cal.Rptr.2d 481, 892 P.2d 1224] [error to instruct on malice when felony murder only theory].)

Related Instructions—Other Causes of Death

This instruction should be used only when the prosecution alleges that a coparticipant in the felony committed the act causing the death.

When the alleged victim dies during the course of the felony as a result of a heart attack, a fire, or a similar cause, rather than as a result of some act of force or violence committed against the victim by one of the participants, give CALCRIM No. 540C, Felony Murder: First Degree— Other Acts Allegedly Caused Death. (People v. Billa (2003) 31 Cal.4th 1064, 1072 [6 Cal.Rptr.3d 425, 79 P.3d 542]; People v. Stamp (1969) 2 Cal.App.3d 203, 209–211 [82 Cal.Rptr. 598]; People v. Hernandez (1985) 169 Cal.App.3d 282, 287 [215 Cal.Rptr. 166]; but see People v. Gunnerson (1977) 74 Cal.App.3d 370, 378–381 [141 Cal.Rptr. 488] [simultaneous or coincidental death is not killing].)

If the evidence indicates that someone other than the defendant or a coparticipant committed the fatal act, then the crime is not felony murder. (People v. Washington (1965) 62 Cal.2d 777, 782–783 [44 Cal.Rptr. 442, 402 P.2d 130]; People v. Caldwell (1984) 36 Cal.3d 210, 216 [203 Cal.Rptr. 433, 681 P.2d 274]; see also People v. Gardner (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 473, 477 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 603].) Liability may be imposed, however, under the provocative act doctrine. (Pizano v. Superior Court of Tulare County (1978) 21 Cal.3d 128, 134 [145 Cal.Rptr. 524, 577 P.2d 659]; see CALCRIM No. 560, Homicide: Provocative Act by Defendant.)

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 400 et seq., Aiding and Abetting: General Principles.

CALCRIM No. 415 et seq., Conspiracy.

AUTHORITY

- Felony Murder: First Degree. Pen. Code, § 189; People v. Cavitt (2004)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

33 Cal.4th 187, 197 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].

- Specific Intent to Commit Felony Required. People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 197 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].
- Continuous Transaction Requirement. People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 206–209 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].
- Logical Connection Required for Liability of Nonkiller. People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 206–209 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].
- Infliction of Fatal Injury. People v. Alvarez (1996) 14 Cal.4th 155, 222–223 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 385, 926 P.2d 365].
- Defendant Must Join Felonious Enterprise Before or During Killing of Victim. People v. Pulido (1997) 15 Cal.4th 713, 726 [63 Cal.Rptr.2d 625, 936 P.2d 1235].
- Logical Nexus Between Felony and Killing. People v. Dominguez (2006) 39 Cal.4th 1141]; People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 197–206].
- Merger Doctrine Does Not Apply to First Degree Felony Murder. People v. Farley (2009) 46 Cal.4th 1053, 1118–1120 [96 Cal.Rptr.3d 191, 210 P.3d 361].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Introduction to Crimes, §§ 80, 87; Crimes Against the Person, §§ 134–147, 156.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.10[3][b], Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[1][e], [2][b] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Conspiracy Liability—Natural and Probable Consequences

In the context of nonhomicide crimes, a coconspirator is liable for any crime committed by a member of the conspiracy that was a natural and probable consequence of the conspiracy. (People v. Superior Court (Shamis) (1997) 58 Cal.App.4th 833, 842–843 [68 Cal.Rptr.2d 388].) This is analogous to the rule in aiding and abetting that the defendant may be held liable for any unintended crime that was the natural and probable consequence of the intended crime. (People v. Nguyen (1993) 21 Cal.App.4th 518, 531 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 323].) In the context of felony murder, the Supreme Court has explicitly held that the natural and probable consequences doctrine does not apply to a defendant charged with felony murder based on aiding and abetting the underlying felony. (See People v. Anderson (1991) 233

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.App.3d 1646, 1658 [285 Cal.Rptr. 523].) The court has not explicitly addressed whether the natural and probable consequences doctrine continues to limit liability for felony murder where the defendant's liability is based solely on being a member of a conspiracy.

In People v. Pulido (1997) 15 Cal.4th 713, 724 [63 Cal.Rptr.2d 625, 936 P.2d 1235], the court stated in dicta, "[f]or purposes of complicity in a cofelon's homicidal act, the conspirator and the abettor stand in the same position. [Citation; quotation marks omitted.] In stating the rule of felony-murder complicity we have not distinguished accomplices whose responsibility for the underlying felony was pursuant to prior agreement (conspirators) from those who intentionally assisted without such agreement (aiders and abettors). [Citations]." In the court's two most recent opinions on felony-murder complicity, the court refers to the liability of "cofelons" or "accomplices" without reference to whether liability is based on directly committing the offense, aiding and abetting the offense, or conspiring to commit the offense. (People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 197–205 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222]; People v. Billa (2003) 31 Cal.4th 1064, 1072 [6 Cal.Rptr.3d 425, 79 P.3d 542].) On the other hand, in both of these cases, the defendants were present at the scene of the felony and directly committed the felonious acts. (People v. Cavitt, supra, 33 Cal.4th at p. 194; People v. Billa, supra, 31 Cal.4th at p. 1067.) Thus, the court has not had occasion recently to address a situation in which the defendant was convicted of felony murder based solely on a theory of coconspirator liability.

The requirement for a logical nexus between the felony and the act causing the death, articulated in People v. Cavitt, supra, 33 Cal.4th at p. 193, may be sufficient to hold a conspiring defendant liable for the resulting death under the felony-murder rule. However, Cavitt did not clearly answer this question. Nor has any case explicitly held that the natural and probable consequences doctrine does not apply in the context of felony murder based on conspiracy.

Thus, if the trial court is faced with a factual situation in which the defendant's liability is premised solely on being a member of a conspiracy in which another coparticipant killed an individual, the committee recommends that the court do the following: (1) give bracketed element 6 requiring a logical nexus between the felony and the act causing death; (2) request briefing and review the current law on conspiracy liability and felony murder; and (3) at the court's discretion, add as element 7, "The act causing the death was a natural and probable consequence of the plan to commit _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 189>."

See the Related Issues section of CALCRIM No. 540A, Felony Murder:

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

First Degree—Defendant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

540C. Felony Murder: First Degree—Other Acts Allegedly Caused Death (Pen. Code, § 189)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with murder, under a theory of felony murder.

The defendant may be guilty of murder, under a theory of felony murder, even if another person did the act that resulted in the death. I will call the other person the perpetrator.

To prove that the defendant is guilty of first degree murder under this theory, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant (committed [or attempted to commit][,]/ [or] aided and abetted[,]/ [or] was a member of a conspiracy to commit) _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 189>;
2. The defendant (intended to commit[,]/ [or] intended to aid and abet the perpetrator in committing[,]/ [or] intended that one or more of the members of the conspiracy commit) _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 189>;

<Give element 3 if defendant did not personally commit or attempt felony.>

[3. A perpetrator, (whom the defendant was aiding and abetting/ [or] with whom the defendant conspired), personally committed [or attempted to commit] _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 189>;]

(3/4). The commission [or attempted commission] of the _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 189> was a substantial factor in causing the death of another person;

(4/5). The cause of death and the _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 189> [or attempted _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 189>] were part of one continuous transaction;

AND

(5/6). There was a logical connection between the cause of death and the _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 189>. The connection between the cause of death and the _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 189> must involve more than just their occurrence at the same time and place.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

A person may be guilty of felony murder even if the killing was unintentional, accidental, or negligent.

To decide whether (the defendant/ [and] the perpetrator) committed [or attempted to commit] _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 189>, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on (that/those) crime[s]. [To decide whether the defendant aided and abetted a crime, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on aiding and abetting.] [To decide whether the defendant was a member of a conspiracy to commit a crime, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on conspiracy.] You must apply those instructions when you decide whether the People have proved first degree murder under a theory of felony murder.

<Make certain that all appropriate instructions on all underlying felonies, aiding and abetting, and conspiracy are given.>

An act causes death if the death is the direct, natural, and probable consequence of the act and the death would not have happened without the act. A natural and probable consequence is one that a reasonable person would know is likely to happen if nothing unusual intervenes. In deciding whether a consequence is natural and probable, consider all the circumstances established by the evidence.

[There may be more than one cause of death. An act causes death only if it is a substantial factor in causing the death. A substantial factor is more than a trivial or remote factor. However, it does not need to be the only factor that causes the death.]

[The defendant must have (intended to commit[,]/ [or] aid and abet[,]/ [or] been a member of a conspiracy to commit) the (felony/ felonies) of _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 189> before or at the time that (he/she) caused the death.]

[It is not required that the person die immediately, as long as the cause of death and the (felony/felonies) are part of one continuous transaction.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[It is not required that the person killed be the (victim/intended victim) of the (felony/felonies).]

[It is not required that the defendant be present when the death occurs.]

New January 2006; Revised April 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime. The court also has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of any underlying felonies. (People v. Cain (1995) 10 Cal.4th 1, 36 [40 Cal.Rptr.2d 481, 892 P.2d 1224].)

If causation is at issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on proximate cause. (People v. Bernhardt (1963) 222 Cal.App.2d 567, 590–591 [35 Cal.Rptr. 401]; see generally, People v. Cervantes (2001) 26 Cal.4th 860, 866–874 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 148, 29 P.3d 225].) Because causation is likely to be an issue in any case where this instruction is given, the committee has included the paragraph that begins with "An act causes death if." If there is evidence of multiple potential causes, the court should also give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "There may be more than one cause of death." (People v. Sanchez (2001) 26 Cal.4th 834, 845–849 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 129, 29 P.3d 209]; People v. Autry (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 351, 363 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 135].)

If the prosecution's theory is that the defendant committed or attempted to commit the underlying felony, then select "committed [or attempted to commit]" in element 1 and "intended to commit" in element 2. In addition, in the paragraph that begins with "To decide whether," select "the defendant" in the first sentence. Give all appropriate instructions on any underlying felonies with this instruction. The court may need to modify the first sentence of the instruction on an underlying felony if the defendant is not separately charged with that offense.

If the prosecution's theory is that the defendant aided and abetted or conspired to commit the felony, select one of these options in element 1 and the corresponding intent requirement in element 2. Give bracketed element 3. Give the bracketed sentence at the beginning of the instruction that begins with "The defendant may be guilty of murder." In addition, in the paragraph that begins with "To decide whether," select "the perpetrator" in the first sentence. Give the second and/or third bracketed sentences. Give all appropriate instructions on any underlying felonies and on aiding and abetting and/or conspiracy with this instruction. The court may need to modify the first sentence of the instruction on an underlying felony if the defendant is not separately charged with that offense. The court may also need to modify the instruction to state "the perpetrator committed," rather than "the defendant," in the instructions on the underlying felony.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If there is evidence that the defendant did not form the intent to commit the felony until after the homicide, or did not join the conspiracy or aid and abet the felony until after the homicide, the defendant is entitled on request to an instruction pinpointing this issue. (People v. Hudson (1955) 45 Cal.2d 121, 124–127 [287 P.2d 497]; People v. Silva (2001) 25 Cal.4th 345, 371 [106 Cal.Rptr.2d 93, 21 P.3d 769].) Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "The defendant must have (intended to commit." For an instruction specially tailored to robbery-murder cases, see People v. Turner (1990) 50 Cal.3d 668, 691 [268 Cal.Rptr. 706, 789 P.2d 887].

Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "It is not required that the person die immediately" on request if relevant based on the evidence.

The felony-murder rule does not require that the person killed be the victim of the underlying felony. (People v. Johnson (1972) 28 Cal.App.3d 653, 658 [104 Cal.Rptr. 807] [accomplice]; People v. Welch (1972) 8 Cal.3d 106, 117–119 [104 Cal.Rptr. 217, 501 P.2d 225] [innocent bystander]; People v. Salas (1972) 7 Cal.3d 812, 823 [103 Cal.Rptr. 431, 500 P.2d 7] [police officer].) Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "It is not required that the person killed be" on request.

Give the last bracketed sentence, stating that the defendant need not be present, on request.

The Supreme Court has not decided whether the trial court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the meaning of "one continuous transaction." (See People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 204 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].) If the evidence raises an issue of whether the act causing the death and the felony were part of "one continuous transaction," the committee recommends that the court also give CALCRIM No. 549, Felony Murder: One Continuous Transaction—Defined.

If the prosecutor is proceeding under both malice and felony-murder theories, give CALCRIM No. 548, Murder: Alternative Theories. If the prosecutor is relying only on a theory of felony murder, no instruction on malice should be given. (See People v. Cain (1995) 10 Cal.4th 1, 35–37 [40 Cal.Rptr.2d 481,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

892 P.2d 1224] [error to instruct on malice when felony murder only theory].)

Related Instructions—Other Causes of Death

This instruction should be used only when the alleged victim dies during the course of the felony as a result of a heart attack, fire, or a similar cause rather than as a result of some act of force or violence committed against the victim by one of the participants in the felony. (People v. Billa (2003) 31 Cal.4th 1064, 1072 [6 Cal.Rptr.3d 425, 79 P.3d 542] [arson causing death of accomplice]; People v. Stamp (1969) 2 Cal.App.3d 203, 209–211 [82 Cal.Rptr. 598] [heart attack caused by robbery]; People v. Hernandez (1985) 169 Cal.App.3d 282, 287 [215 Cal.Rptr. 166] [same]; but see People v. Gunnerson (1977) 74 Cal.App.3d 370, 378–381 [141 Cal.Rptr. 488] [simultaneous or coincidental death is not killing].)

See the Bench Notes to CALCRIM No. 540A, Felony Murder: First Degree—Defendant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act, for a discussion of other instructions to use if the evidence indicates a person committed an act of force or violence causing the death.

AUTHORITY

- Felony Murder: First Degree. Pen. Code, § 189; People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 197 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].
- Specific Intent to Commit Felony Required. People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 197 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].
- Continuous Transaction Requirement. People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 206–209 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].
- Logical Connection Required for Liability of Nonkiller. People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 206–209 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].
- Infliction of Fatal Injury. People v. Alvarez (1996) 14 Cal.4th 155, 222–223 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 385, 926 P.2d 365].
- Defendant Must Join Felonious Enterprise Before or During Killing of Victim. People v. Pulido (1997) 15 Cal.4th 713, 726 [63 Cal.Rptr.2d 625, 936 P.2d 1235].
- Death Caused by Felony but Not by Act of Force or Violence Against Victim. People v. Billa (2003) 31 Cal.4th 1064, 1072 [6 Cal.Rptr.3d 425, 79 P.3d 542] [arson causing death of accomplice]; People v. Stamp (1969) 2 Cal.App.3d 203, 209–211 [82 Cal.Rptr. 598] [heart attack caused by robbery]; People v. Hernandez (1985) 169 Cal.App.3d 282, 287 [215 Cal.Rptr. 166] [same]; but see People v. Gunnerson (1977) 74 Cal.App.3d

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

370, 378–381 [141 Cal.Rptr. 488] [simultaneous or coincidental death is not killing].

- Logical Nexus Between Felony and Killing. People v. Dominguez (2006) 39 Cal.4th 1141 [47 Cal.Rptr.3d 575, 140 P.3d 866]; People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 197–206 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].
- Merger Doctrine Does Not Apply to First Degree Felony Murder. People v. Farley (2009) 46 Cal.4th 1053, 1118–1120 [96 Cal.Rptr.3d 191, 210 P.3d 361].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 134–147.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, §§ 140.04, 140.10[3][b], Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[1][e], [2][b] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Accidental Death of Accomplice During Commission of Arson

In People v. Ferlin (1928) 203 Cal. 587, 596–597 [265 P. 230], the Supreme Court held that an aider and abettor is not liable for the accidental death of an accomplice to arson when (1) the defendant was neither present nor actively participating in the arson when it was committed; (2) the accomplice acted alone in actually perpetrating the arson; and (3) the accomplice killed only himself or herself and not another person. More recently, the court stated,

> We conclude that felony-murder liability for any death in the course of arson attaches to all accomplices in the felony at least where, as here, one or more surviving accomplices were present at the scene and active participants in the crime. We need not decide here whether Ferlin was correct on its facts.

(People v. Billa (2003) 31 Cal.4th 1064, 1072 [6 Cal.Rptr.3d 425, 79 P.3d 542].)

See the Related Issues section to CALCRIM No. 540A, Felony Murder: First Degree—Defendant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act, and CALCRIM No. 540B, Felony Murder: First Degree—Coparticipant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

541A. Felony Murder: Second Degree—Defendant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act

---

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with murder, under a theory of felony murder.

To prove that the defendant is guilty of second degree murder under this theory, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant committed [or attempted to commit] _____ <insert inherently dangerous felony or felonies>;
2. The defendant intended to commit _____ <insert inherently dangerous felony or felonies>;
3. The defendant did an act that caused the death of another person;

AND

4. The act causing the death and the _____ <insert inherently dangerous felony or felonies> [or attempted _____ <insert inherently dangerous felony or felonies>] were part of one continuous transaction.

A person may be guilty of felony murder even if the killing was unintentional, accidental, or negligent.

To decide whether the defendant committed [or attempted to commit] _____ <insert inherently dangerous felony or felonies>, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on (that/those) crime[s]. You must apply those instructions when you decide whether the People have proved second degree murder under a theory of felony murder.

<Make certain that all appropriate instructions on all underlying felonies are given.>

[The defendant must have intended to commit the (felony/felonies) of _____ <insert inherently dangerous felony or felonies> before or at the time of the act causing the death.]

[It is not required that the person die immediately, as long as the act causing the death and the (felony/felonies) are part of one continuous transaction.]

[It is not required that the person killed be the (victim/intended victim) of the (felony/felonies).]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

New January 2006; Revised August 2009

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime. The court also has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of any underlying felonies. (People v. Cain (1995) 10 Cal.4th 1, 36 [40 Cal.Rptr.2d 481, 892 P.2d 1224].) Give all appropriate instructions on all underlying felonies with this instruction. The court may need to modify the first sentence of the instruction on an underlying felony if the defendant is not separately charged with that offense.

Insert the appropriate, nonassaultive, inherently dangerous felony or felonies in the blanks provided in accordance with the Supreme Court's ruling in People v. Chun (2009) 45 Cal.4th 1172, 1199 [91 Cal.Rptr.3d 106, 203 P.3d 425] [when underlying felony is assaultive in nature, felony merges with homicide and cannot be basis of a felony-murder instruction].

If causation is an issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to give CALCRIM No. 240, Causation.

If there is evidence that the defendant did not form the intent to commit the felony until after the homicide, the defendant is entitled on request to an instruction pinpointing this issue. (People v. Hudson (1955) 45 Cal.2d 121, 124–127 [287 P.2d 497]; People v. Silva (2001) 25 Cal.4th 345, 371 [106 Cal.Rptr.2d 93, 21 P.3d 769].) Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "The defendant must have intended to commit the felony."

Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "It is not required that the person die immediately" on request if relevant based on the evidence.

The felony-murder rule does not require that the person killed be the victim of the underlying felony. (People v. Johnson (1972) 28 Cal.App.3d 653, 658 [104 Cal.Rptr. 807] [accomplice]; People v. Welch (1972) 8 Cal.3d 106, 117–119 [104 Cal.Rptr. 217, 501 P.2d 225] [innocent bystander]; People v. Salas (1972) 7 Cal.3d 812, 823 [103 Cal.Rptr. 431, 500 P.2d 7] [police officer].) Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "It is not required that the person killed be" on request.

The Supreme Court has not decided whether the trial court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the meaning of "one continuous transaction." (See People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 204 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].) If the evidence raises an issue of whether the act causing the death and the felony were part of "one continuous transaction," the committee recommends that the court also give CALCRIM No. 549, Felony Murder: One Continuous Transaction—Defined.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If the prosecutor is proceeding under both malice and felony-murder theories, give CALCRIM No. 548, Murder: Alternative Theories. If the prosecutor is relying only on a theory of felony murder, no instruction on malice should be given. (See People v. Cain (1995) 10 Cal.4th 1, 35–37 [40 Cal.Rptr.2d 481, 892 P.2d 1224] [error to instruct on malice when felony murder only theory].)

Related Instructions—Other Causes of Death

This instruction should be used only when the prosecution alleges that the defendant committed the act causing the death.

If the prosecution alleges that another coparticipant in the felony committed the fatal act, give CALCRIM No. 541B, Felony Murder: Second Degree—Coparticipant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act. If the evidence indicates that either the defendant or a coparticipant may have committed the fatal act, give both instructions.

When the alleged victim dies during the course of the felony as a result of a heart attack, a fire, or a similar cause, rather than as a result of some act of force or violence committed against the victim by one of the participants, give CALCRIM No. 541C, Felony Murder: Second Degree— Other Acts Allegedly Caused Death. (People v. Billa (2003) 31 Cal.4th 1064, 1072 [6 Cal.Rptr.3d 425, 79 P.3d 542]; People v. Stamp (1969) 2 Cal.App.3d 203, 209–211 [82 Cal.Rptr. 598]; People v. Hernandez (1985) 169 Cal.App.3d 282, 287 [215 Cal.Rptr. 166]; but see People v. Gunnerson (1977) 74 Cal.App.3d 370, 378–381 [141 Cal.Rptr. 488] [a simultaneous or coincidental death is not a killing].)

If the evidence indicates that someone other than the defendant or a coparticipant committed the fatal act, then the crime is not felony murder. (People v. Washington (1965) 62 Cal.2d 777, 782–783 [44 Cal.Rptr. 442, 402 P.2d 130]; People v. Caldwell (1984) 36 Cal.3d 210, 216 [203 Cal.Rptr. 433, 681 P.2d 274]; see also People v. Gardner (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 473, 477 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 603].) Liability may be imposed, however, under the provocative act doctrine. (Pizano v. Superior Court (1978) 21 Cal.3d 128, 134 [145 Cal.Rptr. 524, 577 P.2d 659]; see CALCRIM No. 560, Homicide: Provocative Act by Defendant.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Inherently Dangerous Felonies. People v. Satchell (1971) 6 Cal.3d 28, 33–41 [98 Cal.Rptr. 33, 489 P.2d 1361], overruled on other grounds in People v. Flood (1998) 18 Cal.4th 470, 484 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 180, 957 P.2d 869]; People v. Henderson (1977) 19 Cal.3d 86, 93 [137 Cal.Rptr. 1, 560 P.2d 1180], overruled on other grounds in People v. Flood (1998) 18 Cal.4th 470, 484 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 180, 957 P.2d 869]; People v. Patterson (1989) 49 Cal.3d 615, 622–625 [262 Cal.Rptr. 195, 778 P.2d 549].
- Specific Intent to Commit Felony Required. People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 197 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].
- Continuous Transaction Requirement. People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 206–209 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].
- Infliction of Fatal Injury. People v. Alvarez (1996) 14 Cal.4th 155, 222–223 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 385, 926 P.2d 365].
- Merger Doctrine Applies if Elements of Crime Have Assaultive Aspect. People v. Chun (2009) 45 Cal.4th 1172, 1199 [91 Cal.Rptr.3d 106, 203 P.3d 425].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 134–147.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[1][e], [2][b] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Voluntary Manslaughter. Pen. Code, § 192(a).
- Involuntary Manslaughter. Pen. Code, § 192(b).
- Attempted Murder. Pen. Code, §§ 663, 189.

RELATED ISSUES

Second Degree Felony Murder: Inherently Dangerous Felonies

The second degree felony-murder doctrine is triggered when a homicide occurs during the commission of a felony that is inherently dangerous to human life. (People v. Satchell (1971) 6 Cal.3d 28, 33–41 [98 Cal.Rptr. 33, 489 P.2d 1361] and People v. Henderson (1977) 19 Cal.3d 86, 93 [137 Cal.Rptr. 1, 560 P.2d 1180], both overruled on other grounds in People v. Flood (1998) 18 Cal.4th 470, 484 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 180, 957 P.2d 869].) In People v. Burroughs (1984) 35 Cal.3d 824, 833 [201 Cal.Rptr. 319, 678 P.2d 894], the court described an inherently dangerous felony as one that cannot be committed without creating a substantial risk that someone will be killed. However, in People v. Patterson (1989) 49 Cal.3d 615, 618, 626–627 [262 Cal.Rptr. 195, 778 P.2d 549], the court defined an inherently dangerous felony as "an offense carrying a high probability that death will result." (See People v. Coleman (1992) 5 Cal.App.4th 646, 649–650 [7 Cal.Rptr.2d 40] [court explicitly adopts Patterson definition of inherently dangerous felony].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Whether a felony is inherently dangerous is a legal question for the court to determine. (See People v. Schaefer (2004) 118 Cal.App.4th 893, 900–902 [13 Cal.Rptr.3d 442] [rule not changed by Apprendi].) In making this determination, the court should assess "the elements of the felony in the abstract, not the particular facts of the case," and consider the statutory definition of the felony in its entirety. (People v. Satchell, supra, 6 Cal.3d at p. 36; People v. Henderson, supra, 19 Cal.3d at pp. 93–94.) If the statute at issue prohibits a diverse range of conduct, the court must analyze whether the entire statute or only the part relating to the specific conduct at issue is applicable. (See People v. Patterson, supra, 49 Cal.3d at pp. 622–625 [analyzing Health & Saf. Code, § 11352, which prohibits range of drug-related behavior, and holding that only conduct at issue should be considered when determining dangerousness].)

The following felonies have been found inherently dangerous for purposes of second degree felony murder (but note that since Proposition 115 amended Penal Code section 189 in 1990, that code section includes kidnapping in its list of first degree felony murder felonies):

- Attempted Escape From Prison by Force or Violence. Pen. Code, § 4530; People v. Lynn (1971) 16 Cal.App.3d 259, 272 [94 Cal.Rptr. 16]; People v. Snyder (1989) 208 Cal.App.3d 1141, 1143–1146 [256 Cal.Rptr. 601].
- Furnishing Poisonous Substance. Pen. Code, § 347; People v. Mattison (1971) 4 Cal.3d 177, 182–184 [93 Cal.Rptr. 185, 481 P.2d 193].
- Kidnapping for Ransom, Extortion, or Reward. Pen. Code, § 209(a); People v. Ordonez (1991) 226 Cal.App.3d 1207, 1227–1228 [277 Cal.Rptr. 382].
- Manufacturing Methamphetamine. Health & Saf. Code, § 11379.6(a); People v. James (1998) 62 Cal.App.4th 244, 270–271 [74 Cal.Rptr.2d 7].
- Reckless Possession of Bomb. Pen. Code, § 12303.2; People v. Morse (1992) 2 Cal.App.4th 620, 646, 655 [3 Cal.Rptr.2d 343].
- Shooting Firearm in Grossly Negligent Manner. Pen. Code, § 246.3; People v. Clem (2000) 78 Cal.App.4th 346, 351 [92 Cal.Rptr.2d 727]; People v. Robertson (2004) 34 Cal.4th 156, 173 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 604, 95

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

P.3d 872] [merger doctrine does not apply].

- Shooting at Inhabited Dwelling. Pen. Code, § 246; People v. Tabios (1998) 67 Cal.App.4th 1, 9–10 [78 Cal.Rptr.2d 753].
- Shooting at Occupied Vehicle. Pen. Code, § 246; People v. Tabios (1998) 67 Cal.App.4th 1, 10–11 [78 Cal.Rptr.2d 753].
- Shooting From Vehicle at Inhabited Dwelling. People v. Hansen (1994) 9 Cal.4th 300, 311 [36 Cal.Rptr.2d 609, 885 P.2d 1022].

The following felonies have been found to be not inherently dangerous for purposes of second degree felony murder:

- Conspiracy to Possess Methedrine. People v. Williams (1965) 63 Cal.2d 452, 458 [47 Cal.Rptr. 7, 406 P.2d 647].
- Driving With Willful or Wanton Disregard for Safety While Fleeing a Pursuing Officer. People v. Howard (2005) 34 Cal.4th 1129, 1138 [23 Cal.Rptr.3d 306].
- Extortion. Pen. Code, §§ 518, 519; People v. Smith (1998) 62 Cal.App.4th 1233, 1237–1238 [72 Cal.Rptr.2d 918].
- False Imprisonment. Pen. Code, § 236; People v. Henderson (1977) 19 Cal.3d 86, 92–96 [137 Cal.Rptr. 1, 560 P.2d 1180], overruled on other grounds in People v. Flood (1998) 18 Cal.4th 470, 484 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 180, 957 P.2d 869].
- Felon in Possession of Firearm. Pen. Code, § 12021; People v. Satchell (1971) 6 Cal.3d 28, 39–41 [98 Cal.Rptr. 33, 489 P.2d 1361], overruled on other grounds in People v. Flood (1998) 18 Cal.4th 470, 484 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 180, 957 P.2d 869].
- Felonious Practice of Medicine Without License. People v. Burroughs (1984) 35 Cal.3d 824, 830–833 [201 Cal.Rptr. 319, 678 P.2d 894].
- Felony Child Abuse. Pen. Code, § 273a; People v. Lee (1991) 234 Cal.App.3d 1214, 1228 [286 Cal.Rptr. 117].
- Felony Escape From Prison Without Force or Violence. Pen. Code, § 4530(b); People v. Lopez (1971) 6 Cal.3d 45, 51–52 [98 Cal.Rptr. 44, 489 P.2d 1372].
- Felony Evasion of Peace Officer Causing Injury or Death. Veh. Code, § 2800.3; People v. Sanchez (2001) 86 Cal.App.4th 970, 979–980 [103 Cal.Rptr.2d 809].
- Furnishing PCP. Health & Saf. Code, § 11379.5; People v. Taylor (1992) 6 Cal.App.4th 1084, 1100–1101 [8 Cal.Rptr.2d 439].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Grand Theft Under False Pretenses. People v. Phillips (1966) 64 Cal.2d 574 [51 Cal.Rptr. 225, 414 P.2d 353], overruled on other grounds in People v. Flood (1998) 18 Cal.4th 470, 484 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 180, 957 P.2d 869].
- Grand Theft From the Person. Pen. Code, § 487(c); People v. Morales (1975) 49 Cal.App.3d 134, 142–143 [122 Cal.Rptr. 157].

See the Related Issues section of CALCRIM No. 540A, Felony Murder: First Degree—Defendant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

541B. Felony Murder: Second Degree—Coparticipant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act

<Give the following introductory sentence when not giving Instruction 541A.>

[The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with murder, under a theory of felony murder.]

The defendant may [also] be guilty of murder, under a theory of felony murder, even if another person did the act that resulted in the death. I will call the other person the perpetrator.

To prove that the defendant is guilty of second degree murder under this theory, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant (committed [or attempted to commit][,]/ [or] aided and abetted[,]/ [or] was a member of a conspiracy to commit) _____ <insert inherently dangerous felony or felonies>;
2. The defendant (intended to commit[,]/ [or] intended to aid and abet the perpetrator in committing[,]/ [or] intended that one or more of the members of the conspiracy commit) _____ <insert inherently dangerous felony or felonies>;
3. The perpetrator committed [or attempted to commit] _____ <insert inherently dangerous felony or felonies>;
4. The perpetrator did an act that caused the death of another person;

[AND]

5. The act causing the death and the _____ <insert inherently dangerous felony or felonies> [or attempted _____ <insert inherently dangerous felony or felonies>] were part of one continuous transaction(;/.)

<Give element 6 if the court concludes it must instruct on causal relationship between felony and death; see Bench Notes.>

[AND

6. There was a logical connection between the act causing the death and the _____ <insert inherently dangerous

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

felony or felonies>. The connection between the fatal act and the _____ <insert inherently dangerous felony or felonies> must involve more than just their occurrence at the same time and place.]

A person may be guilty of felony murder even if the killing was unintentional, accidental, or negligent.

To decide whether (the defendant/ [and] the perpetrator) committed [or attempted to commit] _____ <insert inherently dangerous felony or felonies>, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on (that/those) crime[s]. [To decide whether the defendant aided and abetted a crime, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on aiding and abetting.] [To decide whether the defendant was a member of a conspiracy to commit a crime, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on conspiracy.] You must apply those instructions when you decide whether the People have proved second degree murder under a theory of felony murder.

<Make certain that all appropriate instructions on all underlying felonies, aiding and abetting, and conspiracy are given.>

[The defendant must have (intended to commit[,]/ [or] aid and abet[,]/ [or] been a member of a conspiracy to commit) the (felony/felonies) of _____ <insert inherently dangerous felony or felonies> before or at the time of the act causing the death.]

[It is not required that the person die immediately, as long as the act causing the death and the (felony/felonies) are part of one continuous transaction.]

[It is not required that the person killed be the (victim/intended victim) of the underlying (felony/felonies).]

[It is not required that the defendant be present when the act causing the death occurs.]

New January 2006; Revised August 2009

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime. The court also has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of any underlying felonies. (People v. Cain (1995) 10 Cal.4th 1, 36 [40 Cal.Rptr.2d 481, 892 P.2d 1224].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If causation is an issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to give CALCRIM No. 240, Causation.

Insert the appropriate, nonassaultive, inherently dangerous felony or felonies in the blanks provided in accordance with the Supreme Court's ruling in People v. Chun (2009) 45 Cal.4th 1172, 1199 [91 Cal.Rptr.3d 106, 203 P.3d 425] [when underlying felony is assaultive in nature, felony merges with homicide and cannot be basis of a felony-murder instruction].

If the prosecution's theory is that the defendant, as well as the perpetrator, committed or attempted to commit the underlying felony or felonies, then select "committed [or attempted to commit]" in element 1 and "intended to commit" in element 2. In addition, in the paragraph that begins with "To decide whether," select both "the defendant and the perpetrator." Give all appropriate instructions on any underlying felonies with this instruction. The court may need to modify the first sentence of the instruction on an underlying felony if the defendant is not separately charged with that offense. The court may also need to modify the instruction to state "the defendant and the perpetrator each committed [the crime] if . . . ."

If the prosecution's theory is that the defendant aided and abetted or conspired to commit the felony, select one or both of these options in element 1 and the corresponding intent requirements in element 2. In addition, in the paragraph that begins with "To decide whether," select "the perpetrator" in the first sentence. Give the second and/or third bracketed sentences. Give all appropriate instructions on any underlying felonies and on aiding and abetting and/or conspiracy with this instruction. The court may need to modify the first sentence of the instruction on an underlying felony if the defendant is not separately charged with that offense. The court may also need to modify the instruction to state "the perpetrator committed," rather than "the defendant," in the instructions on the underlying felony.

Bracketed element 6 is based on People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 193 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222]. In Cavitt, the Supreme Court clarified the liability of a nonkiller under the felony-murder rule when a cofelon commits a killing. The court held that "the felony-murder rule requires both a causal relationship and a temporal relationship between the underlying felony and the act causing the death. The causal relationship is established by proof of a logical nexus, beyond mere coincidence of time and place, between the homicidal act and the underlying felony the nonkiller committed or attempted to commit. The temporal relationship is established by proof the felony and the homicidal act were part of one continuous transaction." (Ibid. [italics in original].) The majority concluded that the court has no sua sponte duty to instruct on the necessary causal connection. (Id. at pp. 203–204.) In concurring opinions, Justice Werdegar, joined by Justice Kennard, and Justice Chin expressed the view that the jury should be instructed on the necessary causal relationship. (Id. at pp. 212–213.) The court should give the bracketed element 6 if the evidence raises an issue over the causal connection between the felony and the killing. In addition, the court may give this bracketed element at its discretion in any case in which this instruction is given. If the prosecution alleges that the defendant did not commit the felony but aided and abetted or conspired to commit the felony, the committee recommends giving bracketed element 6. (See discussion of conspiracy liability in the Related Issues section of CALCRIM No. 540B, Felony Murder: First Degree—Coparticipant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If there is evidence that the defendant did not form the intent to commit the felony until after the homicide, or did not join the conspiracy or aid and abet the felony until after the homicide, the defendant is entitled on request to an instruction pinpointing this issue. (People v. Hudson (1955) 45 Cal.2d 121, 124–127 [287 P.2d 497]; People v. Silva (2001) 25 Cal.4th 345, 371 [106 Cal.Rptr.2d 93, 21 P.3d 769].) Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "The defendant must have (intended to commit." For an instruction specially tailored to robbery-murder cases, see People v. Turner (1990) 50 Cal.3d 668, 691 [268 Cal.Rptr. 706, 789 P.2d 887].

Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "It is not required that the person die immediately" on request if relevant based on the evidence.

The felony-murder rule does not require that the person killed be the victim of the underlying felony. (People v. Johnson (1972) 28 Cal.App.3d 653, 658 [104 Cal.Rptr. 807] [accomplice]; People v. Welch (1972) 8 Cal.3d 106, 117–119 [104 Cal.Rptr. 217, 501 P.2d 225] [innocent bystander]; People v. Salas (1972) 7 Cal.3d 812, 823 [103 Cal.Rptr. 431, 500 P.2d 7] [police officer].) Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "It is not required that the person killed be" on request.

Give the last bracketed sentence, stating that the defendant need not be present, on request.

The Supreme Court has not decided whether the trial court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the meaning of "one continuous transaction." (See People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 204 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].) If the evidence raises an issue of whether the act causing the death and the felony were part of "one continuous transaction," the committee recommends that the court also give CALCRIM No. 549, Felony Murder: One Continuous Transaction—Defined.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If the prosecutor is proceeding under both malice and felony-murder theories, give CALCRIM No. 548, Murder: Alternative Theories. If the prosecutor is relying only on a theory of felony murder, no instruction on malice should be given. (See People v. Cain (1995) 10 Cal.4th 1, 35–37 [40 Cal.Rptr.2d 481, 892 P.2d 1224] [error to instruct on malice when felony murder only theory].)

Related Instructions—Other Causes of Death

This instruction should be used only when the prosecution alleges that a coparticipant in the felony committed the act causing the death.

If the prosecution alleges that the defendant committed the fatal act, give CALCRIM No. 541A, Felony Murder: Second Degree—Defendant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act. If the evidence indicates that either the defendant or a coparticipant may have committed the fatal act, give both instructions.

When the alleged victim dies during the course of the felony as a result of a heart attack, a fire, or a similar cause, rather than as a result of some act of force or violence committed against the victim by one of the participants, give CALCRIM No. 541C, Felony Murder: Second Degree— Other Acts Allegedly Caused Death. (People v. Billa (2003) 31 Cal.4th 1064, 1072 [6 Cal.Rptr.3d 425, 79 P.3d 542]; People v. Stamp (1969) 2 Cal.App.3d 203, 209–211 [82 Cal.Rptr. 598]; People v. Hernandez (1985) 169 Cal.App.3d 282, 287 [215 Cal.Rptr. 166]; but see People v. Gunnerson (1977) 74 Cal.App.3d 370, 378–381 [141 Cal.Rptr. 488] [a simultaneous or coincidental death is not a killing].)

If the evidence indicates that someone other than the defendant or a coparticipant committed the fatal act, then the crime is not felony murder. (People v. Washington (1965) 62 Cal.2d 777, 782–783 [44 Cal.Rptr. 442, 402 P.2d 130]; People v. Caldwell (1984) 36 Cal.3d 210, 216 [203 Cal.Rptr. 433, 681 P.2d 274]; see also People v. Gardner (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 473, 477 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 603].) Liability may be imposed, however, under the provocative act doctrine. (Pizano v. Superior Court (1978) 21 Cal.3d 128, 134 [145 Cal.Rptr. 524, 577 P.2d 659]; see CALCRIM No. 560, Homicide: Provocative Act by Defendant.)

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 400 et seq., Aiding and Abetting: General Principles.

CALCRIM No. 415 et seq., Conspiracy.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Inherently Dangerous Felonies. People v. Satchell (1971) 6 Cal.3d 28, 33–41 [98 Cal.Rptr. 33, 489 P.2d 1361], overruled on other grounds in People v. Flood (1998) 18 Cal.4th 470, 484 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 180, 957 P.2d 869]; People v. Henderson (1977) 19 Cal.3d 86, 93 [137 Cal.Rptr. 1, 560 P.2d 1180], overruled on other grounds in People v. Flood (1998) 18 Cal.4th 470, 484 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 180, 957 P.2d 869]; People v. Patterson (1989) 49 Cal.3d 615, 622–625 [262 Cal.Rptr. 195, 778 P.2d 549].
- Specific Intent to Commit Felony Required. People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 197 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].
- Continuous Transaction Requirement. People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 206-209 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].
- Logical Connection Required for Liability of Nonkiller. People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 206-209 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].
- Infliction of Fatal Injury. People v. Alvarez (1996) 14 Cal.4th 155, 222–223 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 385, 926 P.2d 365].
- Defendant Must Join Felonious Enterprise Before or During Killing of Victim. People v. Pulido (1997) 15 Cal.4th 713, 726 [63 Cal.Rptr.2d 625, 936 P.2d 1235].
- Merger Doctrine Applies if Elements of Crime Have Assaultive Aspect. People v. Chun (2009) 45 Cal.4th 1172, 1199 [91 Cal.Rptr.3d 106, 203 P.3d 425].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Introduction to Crimes, §§ 80, 87; Crimes Against the Person, §§ 134–147, 156.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.10[3][b], Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[1][e], [2][b] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Second Degree Murder. Pen. Code, § 187.
- Voluntary Manslaughter. Pen. Code, § 192(a).
- Involuntary Manslaughter. Pen. Code, § 192(b).
- Attempted Murder. Pen. Code, §§ 663, 189.

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section of CALCRIM No. 540B, Felony Murder:

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

First Degree—Coparticipant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act and CALCRIM No. 541A, Felony Murder: Second Degree—Defendant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

541C. Felony Murder: Second Degree—Other Acts Allegedly Caused Death

---

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with murder, under a theory of felony murder.

The defendant may be guilty of murder, under a theory of felony murder, even if another person did the act that resulted in the death. I will call the other person the perpetrator.

To prove that the defendant is guilty of second degree murder under this theory, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant (committed [or attempted to commit][,]/ [or] aided and abetted[,]/ [or] was a member of a conspiracy to commit) _____ <insert inherently dangerous felony or felonies>;

2. The defendant (intended to commit[,]/ [or] intended to aid and abet the perpetrator in committing[,]/ [or] intended that one or more of the members of the conspiracy commit) _____ <insert inherently dangerous felony or felonies>;

<Give element 3 if defendant did not personally commit or attempt felony.>

[3. The perpetrator committed [or attempted to commit] _____ <insert inherently dangerous felony or felonies>;]

(3/4). The commission [or attempted commission of] the _____ <insert inherently dangerous felony or felonies> caused the death of another person;

(4/5). The act causing the death and the _____ <insert inherently dangerous felony or felonies> [or attempted _____ <insert inherently dangerous felony or felonies>] were part of one continuous transaction;

AND

(5/6). There was a logical connection between the act causing the death and the _____ <insert inherently dangerous felony or felonies>. The connection between the fatal act and the _____ <insert inherently dangerous felony or felonies> must involve more than just their occurrence at the same time and place.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

A person may be guilty of felony murder even if the killing was unintentional, accidental, or negligent.

To decide whether (the defendant/ [and] the perpetrator) committed [or attempted to commit] _____ <insert inherently dangerous felony or felonies>, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on (that/those) crime[s]. [To decide whether the defendant aided and abetted a crime, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/ have given) you on aiding and abetting.] [To decide whether the defendant was a member of a conspiracy to commit a crime, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on conspiracy.] You must apply those instructions when you decide whether the People have proved second degree murder under a theory of felony murder.

<Make certain that all appropriate instructions on all underlying felonies, aiding and abetting, and conspiracy are given.>

[The defendant must have (intended to commit[,]/ [or] aided and abetted[,]/ [or] been a member of a conspiracy to commit) the (felony/felonies) of _____ <insert inherently dangerous felony or felonies> before or at the time of the act causing the death.]

[It is not required that the person die immediately, as long as the act causing the death and the (felony/felonies) are part of one continuous transaction.]

An act causes death if the death is the direct, natural, and probable consequence of the act and the death would not have happened without the act. A natural and probable consequence is one that a reasonable person would know is likely to happen if nothing unusual intervenes. In deciding whether a consequence is natural and probable, consider all the circumstances established by the evidence.

[There may be more than one cause of death. An act causes death only if it is a substantial factor in causing the death. A substantial factor is more than a trivial or remote factor. However, it does not need to be the only factor that causes the death.]

[It is not required that the person killed be the (victim/intended victim) of the (felony/felonies).]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[It is not required that the defendant be present when the act causing the death occurs.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime. The court also has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the underlying felony. (People v. Cain (1995) 10 Cal.4th 1, 36 [40 Cal.Rptr.2d 481, 892 P.2d 1224].)

If causation is at issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on proximate cause. (People v. Bernhardt (1963) 222 Cal.App.2d 567, 590–591 [35 Cal.Rptr. 401]; People v. Cervantes (2001) 26 Cal.4th 860, 865–874].) Because causation is likely to be an issue in any case where this instruction is given, the committee has included the paragraph that begins with "An act causes death if." If there is evidence of multiple potential causes, the court should also give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "There may be more than one cause of death." (People v. Sanchez (2001) 26 Cal.4th 834, 845–849 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 129, 29 P.3d 209]; People v. Autry (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 351, 363 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 135].)

Insert the appropriate, nonassaultive, inherently dangerous felony or felonies in the blanks provided in accordance with the Supreme Court's ruling in People v. Chun (2009) 45 Cal.4th 1172, 1199 [91 Cal.Rptr.3d 106, 203 P.3d 425] [when underlying felony is assaultive in nature, felony merges with homicide and cannot be basis of a felony-murder instruction].

If the prosecution's theory is that the defendant committed or attempted to commit the underlying felony, then select "committed [or attempted to commit]" in element 1 and "intended to commit" in element 2. In addition, in the paragraph that begins with "To decide whether," select "the defendant" in the first sentence. Give all appropriate instructions on any underlying felonies with this instruction. The court may need to modify the first sentence of an instruction on the underlying felony if the defendant is not separately charged with that offense.

If the prosecution's theory is that the defendant aided and abetted or conspired to commit the felony, select one of these options in element 1 and the corresponding intent requirement in element 2. Give bracketed element 3. Give the bracketed sentence at the beginning of the instruction that begins with "The defendant may [also] be guilty of murder." In addition, in the paragraph that begins with "To decide whether," select "the perpetrator" in the first sentence. Give the second and/or third bracketed sentences. Give all appropriate instructions on any underlying felonies and on aiding and abetting and/or conspiracy with this instruction. The court may need to modify the first sentence of an instruction on the underlying felony if the defendant is not separately charged with that offense. The court may also need to modify the instruction to state "the perpetrator committed," rather than "the defendant," in the instructions on the underlying felony.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If there is evidence that the defendant did not form the intent to commit the felony until after the homicide, or did not join the conspiracy or aid and abet the felony until after the homicide, the defendant is entitled on request to an instruction pinpointing this issue. (People v. Hudson (1955) 45 Cal.2d 121, 124–127 [287 P.2d 497]; People v. Silva (2001) 25 Cal.4th 345, 371 [106 Cal.Rptr.2d 93, 21 P.3d 769].) Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "The defendant must have (intended to commit."

Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "It is not required that the person die immediately" on request if relevant based on the evidence.

The felony-murder rule does not require that the person killed be the victim of the underlying felony. (People v. Johnson (1972) 28 Cal.App.3d 653, 658 [104 Cal.Rptr. 807] [accomplice]; People v. Welch (1972) 8 Cal.3d 106, 117–119 [104 Cal.Rptr. 217, 501 P.2d 225] [innocent bystander]; People v. Salas (1972) 7 Cal.3d 812, 823 [103 Cal.Rptr. 431, 500 P.2d 7] [police officer].) Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "It is not required that the person killed be" on request.

Give the last bracketed sentence, stating that the defendant need not be present, on request.

The Supreme Court has not decided whether the trial court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the meaning of "one continuous transaction." (See People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 204 [91 P.3d 222].) If the evidence raises an issue of whether the act causing the death and the felony were part of "one continuous transaction," the committee recommends that the court also give CALCRIM No. 549, Felony Murder: One Continuous Transaction—Defined.

If the prosecutor is proceeding under both malice and felony-murder theories, give CALCRIM No. 548, Murder: Alternative Theories. If the prosecutor is relying only on a theory of felony murder, no instruction on malice should be given. (See People v. Cain (1995) 10 Cal.4th 1, 35–37 [40 Cal.Rptr.2d 481,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

892 P.2d 1224] [error to instruct on malice when felony murder only theory].)

Related Instructions—Other Causes of Death

This instruction should be used only when the alleged victim dies during the course of the felony as a result of a heart attack, fire, or a similar cause rather than as a result of some act of force or violence committed against the victim by one of the participants in the felony. (People v. Billa (2003) 31 Cal.4th 1064, 1072 [6 Cal.Rptr.3d 425, 79 P.3d 542] [arson causing death of accomplice]; People v. Stamp (1969) 2 Cal.App.3d 203, 209–211 [82 Cal.Rptr. 598] [heart attack caused by robbery]; People v. Hernandez (1985) 169 Cal.App.3d 282, 287 [215 Cal.Rptr. 166] [same]; but see People v. Gunnerson (1977) 74 Cal.App.3d 370, 378–381 [141 Cal.Rptr. 488] [a simultaneous or coincidental death is not a killing].)

See the Bench Notes to CALCRIM No. 541B, Felony Murder: Second Degree—Defendant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act for a discussion of other instructions to use if the evidence indicates a person committed an act of force or violence causing the death.

AUTHORITY

- Inherently Dangerous Felonies. People v. Satchell (1971) 6 Cal.3d 28, 33–41 [98 Cal.Rptr. 33, 489 P.2d 1361], overruled on other grounds in People v. Flood (1998) 18 Cal.4th 470, 484 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 180, 957 P.2d 869]; People v. Henderson (1977) 19 Cal.3d 86, 93 [137 Cal.Rptr. 1], overruled on other grounds in People v. Flood (1998) 18 Cal.4th 470, 484 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 180, 957 P.2d 869]; People v. Patterson (1989) 49 Cal.3d 615, 622–625 [262 Cal.Rptr. 195, 778 P.2d 549].
- Specific Intent to Commit Felony Required. People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 197 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].
- Continuous Transaction Requirement. People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 206–209 [91 P.3d 222].
- Logical Connection Required for Liability of Nonkiller. People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 206–209 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].
- Infliction of Fatal Injury. People v. Alvarez (1996) 14 Cal.4th 155, 222–223 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 385, 926 P.2d 365].
- Defendant Must Join Felonious Enterprise Before or During Killing of Victim. People v. Pulido (1997) 15 Cal.4th 713, 726 [63 Cal.Rptr.2d 625, 936 P.2d 1235].
- Death Caused by Felony but Not by Act of Force or Violence Against

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Victim. People v. Billa (2003) 31 Cal.4th 1064, 1072 [6 Cal.Rptr.3d 425, 79 P.3d 542] [arson causing death of accomplice]; People v. Stamp (1969) 2 Cal.App.3d 203, 209–211 [82 Cal.Rptr. 598] [heart attack caused by robbery]; People v. Hernandez (1985) 169 Cal.App.3d 282, 287 [215 Cal.Rptr. 166] [same]; but see People v. Gunnerson (1977) 74 Cal.App.3d 370, 378–381 [141 Cal.Rptr. 488] [a simultaneous or coincidental death is not a killing].

- Merger Doctrine Applies if Elements of Crime Have Assaultive Aspect. People v. Chun (2009) 45 Cal.4th 1172, 1199 [91 Cal.Rptr.3d 106, 203 P.3d 425].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 134–147.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, §§ 140.04, 140.10[3][b], Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[1][e], [2][b] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Voluntary Manslaughter. Pen. Code, § 192(a).
- Involuntary Manslaughter. Pen. Code, § 192(b).
- Attempted Murder. Pen. Code, §§ 663, 189.

RELATED ISSUES

Accidental Death of Accomplice During Commission of Arson

In People v. Ferlin (1928) 203 Cal. 587, 596–597 [265 P. 230], the Supreme Court held that an aider and abettor is not liable for the accidental death of an accomplice to arson when (1) the defendant was neither present nor actively participating in the arson when it was committed; (2) the accomplice acted alone in actually perpetrating the arson; and (3) the accomplice killed only himself or herself and not another person. More recently, the court stated,

> We conclude that felony-murder liability for any death in the course of arson attaches to all accomplices in the felony at least where, as here, one or more surviving accomplices were present at the scene and active participants in the crime. We need not decide here whether Ferlin was correct on its facts.

(People v. Billa (2003) 31 Cal.4th 1064, 1072 [6 Cal.Rptr.3d 425, 79 P.3d 542].)

See the Related Issues section of CALCRIM No. 540A, Felony Murder:

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

First Degree—Defendant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act; CALCRIM No. 540B, Felony Murder: First Degree—Coparticipant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act; and 541A, Felony Murder: Second Degree—Defendant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act.

542–547. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

548. Murder: Alternative Theories

The defendant has been prosecuted for murder under two theories: (1) malice aforethought, and (2) felony murder.

Each theory of murder has different requirements, and I will instruct you on both.

You may not find the defendant guilty of murder unless all of you agree that the People have proved that the defendant committed murder under at least one of these theories. You do not all need to agree on the same theory.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

This instruction is designed to be given when murder is charged on theories of malice and felony murder to help the jury distinguish between the two theories. This instruction should be given after the court has given any applicable instructions on defenses to homicide and before CALCRIM No. 520, Murder With Malice Aforethought.

If there is evidence of multiple acts from which the jury might conclude that the defendant killed the decedent, the court may be required to give CALCRIM No. 3500, Unanimity. (See People v. Dellinger (1984) 163 Cal.App.3d 284, 300–302 [209 Cal.Rpt. 503] [error not to instruct on unanimity where evidence that the victim was killed either by blunt force or by injection of cocaine].) Review the Bench Notes for CALCRIM No. 3500 discussing when a unanimity instruction is required.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

549. Felony Murder: One Continuous Transaction—Defined

In order for the People to prove that the defendant is guilty of murder under a theory of felony murder [and that the special circumstance of murder committed while engaged in the commission of _____ <insert felony> is true], the People must prove that the _____ <insert felony> [or attempted _____ <insert felony>] and the act causing the death were part of one continuous transaction. The continuous transaction may occur over a period of time and in more than one location.

In deciding whether the act causing the death and the felony were part of one continuous transaction, you may consider the following factors:

1. Whether the felony and the fatal act occurred at the same place;
2. The time period, if any, between the felony and the fatal act;
3. Whether the fatal act was committed for the purpose of aiding the commission of the felony or escape after the felony;
4. Whether the fatal act occurred after the felony but while [one or more of] the perpetrator[s] continued to exercise control over the person who was the target of the felony;
5. Whether the fatal act occurred while the perpetrator[s] (was/were) fleeing from the scene of the felony or otherwise trying to prevent the discovery or reporting of the crime;
6. Whether the felony was the direct cause of the death;

AND

7. Whether the death was a natural and probable consequence of the felony.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

It is not required that the People prove any one of these factors or any particular combination of these factors. The factors are given to assist you in deciding whether the fatal act and the felony were part of one continuous transaction.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

In People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 204 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222], the court stated that "there is no sua sponte duty to clarify the principles of the requisite relationship between the felony and the homicide without regard to whether the evidence supports such an instruction." If the evidence raises an issue of whether the felony and the homicide were part of one continuous transaction, give this instruction.

The court must also give the appropriate felony-murder instructions explaining the elements of the underlying offense.

AUTHORITY

- Continuous Transaction. People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 206–209 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222]; People v. Hart (1999) 20 Cal.4th 546, 608–609 [85 Cal.Rptr.2d 132, 976 P.2d 683]; People v. Ainsworth (1988) 45 Cal.3d 984, 1016 [248 Cal.Rptr. 568, 755 P.2d 1017]; People v. Hernandez (1988) 47 Cal.3d 315, 346 [253 Cal.Rptr. 199, 763 P.2d 1289]; People v. Stamp (1969) 2 Cal.App.3d 203, 210 [82 Cal.Rptr. 598]; People v. Whitehorn (1963) 60 Cal.2d 256, 264 [32 Cal.Rptr. 199, 383 P.2d 783].
- Continuous Control of Victim. People v. Thompson (1990) 50 Cal.3d 134, 171–172 [266 Cal.Rptr. 309, 785 P.2d 857] [lewd acts]; People v. Carter (1993) 19 Cal.App.4th 1236, 1251–1252 [23 Cal.Rptr.2d 888] [robbery].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 139–142.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[2][b][iv], [v] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

It is error to remove from the jury the factual question of whether the felony

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

and the homicide are parts of a single "continuous transaction." (People v. Sakarias (2000) 22 Cal.4th 596, 623–625 [94 Cal.Rptr.2d 17, 995 P.2d 152].)

550–559. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

E. ALTERNATE THEORIES OF LIABILITY

560. Homicide: Provocative Act by Defendant

[The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with _____ <insert underlying crime>.] The defendant is [also] charged [in Count _____] with murder. A person can be guilty of murder under the provocative act doctrine even if someone else did the actual killing.

To prove that the defendant is guilty of murder under the provocative act doctrine, the People must prove that:

1. In (committing/ [or] attempting to commit) _____ <insert underlying crime>, the defendant intentionally did a provocative act;
2. The defendant knew that the natural and probable consequences of the provocative act were dangerous to human life and then acted with conscious disregard for life;
3. In response to the defendant's provocative act, _____ <insert name or description of third party> killed _____ <insert name of decedent>;

AND

4. _____'s <insert name of decedent> death was the natural and probable consequence of the defendant's provocative act.

A provocative act is an act:

1. [That goes beyond what is necessary to accomplish the _____ <insert underlying crime>;]

[AND

2.] Whose natural and probable consequences are dangerous to human life, because there is a high probability that the act will provoke a deadly response.

In order to prove that _____'s <insert name of decedent> death was the natural and probable consequence of the defendant's provocative act, the People must prove that:

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1. A reasonable person in the defendant's position would have foreseen that there was a high probability that his or her act could begin a chain of events resulting in someone's death;
2. The defendant's act was a direct and substantial factor in causing _____'s <insert name of decedent> death;

AND

3. _____'s <insert name of decedent> death would not have happened if the defendant had not committed the provocative act.

A substantial factor is more than a trivial or remote factor. However, it does not need to be the only factor that caused the death.

<Multiple Provocative Acts>

[The People alleged that the defendant committed the following provocative acts: _____ <insert acts alleged>. You may not find the defendant guilty unless you all agree that the People have proved that the defendant committed at least one of these acts. However, you do not all need to agree on which act.]

<Independent Criminal Act>

[A defendant is not guilty of murder if the killing of _____ <insert name of decedent> was caused solely by the independent criminal act of someone else. An independent criminal act is a free, deliberate, and informed criminal act by a person who is not acting with the defendant.]

<Degree of Murder>

[If you decide that the defendant is guilty of murder, you must decide whether the murder is first or second degree.

To prove that the defendant is guilty of first degree murder, the People must prove that:

1. As a result of the defendant's provocative act, _____ <insert name of decedent> was killed during the commission of _____ <insert Pen. Code, § 189 felony>;

AND

2. Defendant intended to commit _____ <insert Pen.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Code, § 189 felony> when (he/she) did the provocative act.

In deciding whether the defendant intended to commit _____ <insert Pen. Code, § 189 felony> and whether the death occurred during the commission of _____ <insert Pen. Code, § 189 felony>, you should refer to the instructions I have given you on _____ <insert Pen. Code, § 189 felony>.

Any murder that does not meet these requirements for first degree murder is second degree murder.]

[If you decide that the defendant committed murder, that crime is murder in the second degree.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction if the provocative act doctrine is one of the general principles of law relevant to the issues raised by the evidence. (People v. Hood (1969) 1 Cal.3d 444, 449 [82 Cal.Rptr. 618, 462 P.2d 370].) If the prosecution relies on a first degree murder theory based on a Penal Code section 189 felony, the court has a sua sponte duty to give instructions relating to the underlying felony, whether or not it is separately charged.

If the defendant is an accomplice, aider and abettor, or coconspirator of the person who did the provocative act, give CALCRIM No. 561, Homicide: Provocative Act by Accomplice, instead of this instruction.

The first bracketed sentence of this instruction should only be given if the underlying felony is separately charged.

In the definition of "provocative act," the court should always give the bracketed phrase that begins, "that goes beyond what is necessary," unless the court determines that this element is not required because the underlying felony includes malice as an element. (In re Aurelio R. (1985) 167 Cal.App.3d 52, 59–60 [212 Cal.Rptr. 868].) See discussion in the Related Issues section below.

If the evidence suggests that there is more than one provocative act, give the bracketed paragraph on "multiple provocative acts," which instructs the jury that they need not unanimously agree about which provocative act caused the killing. (People v. Briscoe (2001) 92 Cal.App.4th 568, 591 [112 Cal.Rptr.2d 401].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If there is evidence that the actual perpetrator may have committed an independent criminal act, give on request the bracketed paragraph that begins with "A defendant is not guilty of murder if . . . ." (See People v. Cervantes (2001) 26 Cal.4th 860, 874 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 148, 29 P.3d 225].)

If the prosecution is not seeking a first degree murder conviction, omit those bracketed paragraphs relating to first degree murder and simply give the last bracketed sentence of the instruction. As an alternative, the court may omit all instructions relating to the degree and secure a stipulation that if a guilty verdict is returned, the degree of murder is set at second degree. If the prosecution is seeking a first degree murder conviction, give the bracketed section on "degree of murder."

AUTHORITY

- Provocative Act Doctrine. People v. Gallegos (1997) 54 Cal.App.4th 453, 461 [63 Cal.Rptr.2d 382].
- Felony-Murder Rule Invoked to Determine Degree. People v. Gilbert (1965) 63 Cal.2d 690, 705 [47 Cal.Rptr. 909, 408 P.2d 365]; Pizano v. Superior Court (1978) 21 Cal.3d 128, 139, fn. 4 [145 Cal.Rptr. 524, 577 P.2d 659]; see People v. Caldwell (1984) 36 Cal.3d 210, 216–217, fn. 2 [203 Cal.Rptr. 433, 681 P.2d 274].
- Independent Intervening Act by Third Person. People v. Cervantes (2001) 26 Cal.4th 860, 874 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 148, 29 P.3d 225].
- Natural and Probable Consequences Doctrine. People v. Gardner (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 473, 479 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 603].
- Response of Third Party Need Not Be Reasonable. People v. Gardner (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 473, 482 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 603].
- Unanimity on Which Act Constitutes Provocative Act is Not Required. People v. Briscoe (2001) 92 Cal.App.4th 568, 591 [112 Cal.Rptr.2d 401] [multiple provocative acts].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 147–155.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.02[2][a][i] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.04, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[1][a], [2][c] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

RELATED ISSUES

Act "Beyond What is Necessary"

The general rule that has arisen in the context of robbery cases is that the provocative act must be one that goes beyond what is necessary to accomplish the underlying felony. However, more recent cases make clear that this requirement is not universal. In attempted murder or assault with a deadly weapon cases, the crime itself may be a provocative act because it demonstrates either express or implied malice. (In re Aurelio R. (1985) 167 Cal.App.3d 52, 59–60 [212 Cal.Rptr. 868]; see Pizano v. Superior Court (1978) 21 Cal.3d 128, 134 [145 Cal.Rptr. 524, 577 P.2d 659].)

Death of a Fetus

The California Supreme Court has declined to decide whether the felony-murder doctrine could constitutionally apply to the death of a fetus that did not result from a direct attack on the mother. (People v. Davis (1994) 7 Cal.4th 797, 810, fn. 2 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 50, 872 P.2d 591].) That ambiguity could extend to the provocative act doctrine as well.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

561. Homicide: Provocative Act by Accomplice

[The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with _____ <insert underlying crime>.] The defendant is [also] charged [in Count _____] with murder. A person can be guilty of murder under the provocative act doctrine even if someone else did the actual killing.

To prove that the defendant is guilty of murder under the provocative act doctrine, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant was an accomplice of _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of alleged provocateur[s]> in (committing/ [or] attempting to commit) _____ <insert underlying crime>
2. In (committing/ [or] attempting to commit) _____ <insert underlying crime>, _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of alleged provocateur[s]> intentionally did a provocative act;
3. _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of alleged provocateur[s]> knew that the natural and probable consequences of the provocative act were dangerous to human life and then acted with conscious disregard for life;
4. In response to _____'s <insert name[s] or description[s] of alleged provocateur[s]> provocative act, _____ <insert name or description of third party> killed _____ <insert name of decedent>;

AND

5. _____'s <insert name of decedent> death was the natural and probable consequence of _____'s <insert name[s] or description[s] of alleged provocateur[s]> provocative act.

A provocative act is an act:

1. [That goes beyond what is necessary to accomplish the _____ <insert underlying crime>;]

[AND

2.] Whose natural and probable consequences are dangerous to human life, because there is a high probability that the act will provoke a deadly response.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

The defendant is an accomplice of _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of alleged provocateur[s]> if the defendant is subject to prosecution for the identical offense that you conclude _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of alleged provocateur[s]> (committed/ [or] attempted to commit). The defendant is subject to prosecution if (he/she) (committed/ [or] attempted to commit) the crime or if:

1. (He/She) knew of _____'s <insert name[s] or description[s] of alleged provocateur[s]> criminal purpose to commit _____ <insert underlying crime>;

AND

2. The defendant intended to, and did in fact, (aid, facilitate, promote, encourage, or instigate the commission of _____ <insert underlying crime>/ [or] participate in a criminal conspiracy to commit _____ <insert underlying crime>).

[An accomplice does not need to be present when the crime is committed. On the other hand, a person is not an accomplice just because he or she is at the scene of a crime, even if he or she knows that a crime [will be committed or] is being committed and does nothing to stop it.]

In order to prove that _____'s <insert name of decedent> death was the natural and probable consequence of _____'s <insert name[s] or description[s] of alleged provocateur[s]> provocative act, the People must prove that:

1. A reasonable person in _____'s <insert name[s] or description[s] of alleged provocateur[s]> position would have foreseen that there was a high probability that (his/her/ their) act could begin a chain of events resulting in someone's death;

2. _____'s <insert name[s] or description[s] of alleged provocateur[s]> act was a direct and substantial factor in causing _____'s <insert name of decedent> death;

AND

3. _____'s <insert name or description of decedent>

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

death would not have happened if _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of alleged provocateur[s]> had not committed the provocative act.

A substantial factor is more than a trivial or remote factor. However, it does not need to be the only factor that caused the death.

<Multiple Provocative Acts>

[The People alleged the following provocative acts: _____ <insert acts alleged>. You may not find the defendant guilty unless you all agree that the People have proved that:

1. _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of alleged provocateur[s]> committed at least one provocative act;

AND

2. At least one of the provocative acts committed by _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of alleged provocateur[s]> was a direct and substantial factor that caused the killing.

However, you do not all need to agree on which provocative act has been proved.]

<Accomplice Deceased>

[If you decide that the only provocative act that caused _____'s <insert name of deceased accomplice> death was committed by _____ <insert name of deceased accomplice>, then the defendant is not guilty of _____'s <insert name of deceased accomplice> murder.]

<Independent Criminal Act>

[A defendant is not guilty of murder if the killing of _____ <insert name or description of decedent> was caused solely by the independent criminal act of someone other than the defendant or _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of all alleged accomplice[s]>. An independent criminal act is a free, deliberate, and informed criminal act by a person who is not acting with the defendant.]

<Degree of Murder>

[If you decide that the defendant is guilty of murder, you must decide whether the murder is first or second degree.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

To prove that the defendant is guilty of first degree murder, the People must prove that:

1. As a result of _____'s <insert name[s] or description[s] of alleged provocateur[s]> provocative act, _____ <insert name of decedent> was killed while _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of alleged provocateur[s]> (was/were) committing _____ <insert Pen. Code, § 189 felony>;

AND

2. _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of alleged provocateur[s]> specifically intended to commit _____ <insert Pen. Code, § 189 felony> when (he/she/they) did the provocative act.

In deciding whether _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of alleged provocateur[s]> intended to commit _____ <insert Pen. Code, § 189 felony> and whether the death occurred during the commission of _____ <insert Pen. Code, § 189 felony>, you should refer to the instructions I have given you on _____ <insert Pen. Code, § 189 felony>.

Any murder that does not meet these requirements for first degree murder is second degree murder.]

[If you decide that the defendant committed murder, that crime is murder in the second degree.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction if the provocative act doctrine is one of the general principles of law relevant to the issues raised by the evidence. (People v. Hood (1969) 1 Cal.3d 444, 449 [82 Cal.Rptr. 618, 462 P.2d 370].) If the prosecution relies on a first degree murder theory based on a Penal Code section 189 felony, the court has a sua sponte duty to give instructions relating to the underlying felony, whether or not it is separately charged.

The first bracketed sentence of this instruction should only be given if the underlying felony is separately charged.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

In the definition of "provocative act," the court should always give the bracketed phrase that begins, "that goes beyond what is necessary," unless the court determines that this element is not required because the underlying felony includes malice as an element. (In re Aurelio R. (1985) 167 Cal.App.3d 52, 59–60 [212 Cal.Rptr. 868].) See discussion in the Related Issues section to CALCRIM No. 560, Homicide: Provocative Act by Defendant.

In the paragraph that begins with "An accomplice does not need to be present," use the bracketed phrase "will be committed or" if appropriate under the facts of the case.

If a deceased accomplice participated in provocative acts leading to his or her own death, give the bracketed sentence that begins, "If you decide that the only provocative act that caused . . . ." (See People v. Garcia (1999) 69 Cal.App.4th 1324, 1330 [82 Cal.Rptr.2d 254]; People v. Superior Court (Shamis) (1997) 58 Cal.App.4th 833, 846 [68 Cal.Rptr.2d 388]; Taylor v. Superior Court (1970) 3 Cal.3d 578, 583–584 [91 Cal.Rptr. 275, 477 P.2d 131]; People v. Antick (1975) 15 Cal.3d 79, 90 [123 Cal.Rptr. 475, 539 P.2d 43], disapproved on other grounds in People v. McCoy (20010 25 Cal.4th 1111, 1123 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 188, 24 P.3d 1210].)

If there is evidence that the actual perpetrator may have committed an independent criminal act, give on request the bracketed paragraph that begins, "A defendant is not guilty of murder if . . . ." (See People v. Cervantes (2001) 26 Cal.4th 860, 874 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 148, 29 P.3d 225].)

If the evidence suggests that there is more than one provocative act, give the bracketed section on "Multiple Provocative Acts." (People v. Briscoe (2001) 92 Cal.App.4th 568, 591 [112 Cal.Rptr.2d 401].)

If the prosecution is not seeking a first degree murder conviction, omit those bracketed paragraphs relating to first degree murder and simply give the last bracketed sentence of the instruction. As an alternative, the court may omit all instructions relating to the degree and secure a stipulation that if a murder verdict is returned, the degree of murder is set at second degree. If the prosecution is seeking a first degree murder conviction, give the bracketed section on "degree of murder."

AUTHORITY

- Provocative Act Doctrine. People v. Gallegos (1997) 54 Cal.App.4th 453, 461 [63 Cal.Rptr.2d 382].
- Felony-Murder Rule Invoked to Determine Degree. People v. Gilbert

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(1965) 63 Cal.2d 690, 705 [47 Cal.Rptr. 909, 408 P.2d 365]; Pizano v. Superior Court (1978) 21 Cal.3d 128, 139, fn. 4 [145 Cal.Rptr. 524, 577 P.2d 659]; see People v. Caldwell (1984) 36 Cal.3d 210, 216–217, fn. 2 [203 Cal.Rptr. 433, 681 P.2d 274].

- Independent Intervening Act by Third Person. People v. Cervantes (2001) 26 Cal.4th 860, 874 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 148, 29 P.3d 225].
- Natural and Probable Consequences Doctrine. People v. Gardner (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 473, 479 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 603].
- Response of Third Party Need Not Be Reasonable. People v. Gardner (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 473, 482 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 603].
- Unanimity on Which Act Constitutes Provocative Act Is Not Required. People v. Briscoe (2001) 92 Cal.App.4th 568, 591 [112 Cal.Rptr.2d 401] [multiple provocative acts].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 147–155.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.02[2][a][i] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, §§ 140.04, 140.10, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[1][a], [2][c] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section to CALCRIM No. 560, Homicide: Provocative Act by Defendant.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

562. Transferred Intent

<A. Only unintended victim is killed.>

[If the defendant intended to kill one person, but by mistake or accident killed someone else instead, then the crime, if any, is the same as if the intended person had been killed.]

<B. Both intended and unintended victims are killed.>

[If the defendant intended to kill one person, but by mistake or accident also killed someone else, then the crime, if any, is the same for the unintended killing as it is for the intended killing.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction if transferred intent is one of the general principles of law relevant to the issues raised by the evidence. (People v. Hood (1969) 1 Cal.3d 444, 449 [82 Cal.Rptr. 618, 462 P.2d 370].)

Give optional paragraph A if only an unintended victim is killed. Give optional paragraph B if both the intended victim and an unintended victim or victims are killed. (See discussion in Commentary, below.)

Any defenses that apply to the intended killing apply to the unintended killing as well. (People v. Mathews (1979) 91 Cal.App.3d 1018, 1024 [154 Cal.Rptr. 628].) This includes defenses that decrease the level of culpable homicide such as heat of passion or imperfect self-defense.

Do not give this instruction for a charge of attempted murder. The transferred intent doctrine does not apply to attempted murder. A defendant's guilt of attempted murder must be judged separately for each alleged victim. (People v. Bland (2002) 28 Cal.4th 313, 327–328, 331 [121 Cal.Rptr.2d 546, 48 P.3d 1107]; see CALCRIM No. 600, Attempted Murder.)

Related Instructions

Always give the appropriate related homicide instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Common Law Doctrine of Transferred Intent. People v. Mathews

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(1979) 91 Cal.App.3d 1018, 1024 [154 Cal.Rptr. 628].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Elements, §§ 13–15.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.02[3][b], Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[2][b][vii] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

Intent Transfers to Unintended Victim

"[A] person's intent to kill the intended target is not 'used up' once it is employed to convict the person of murdering that target. It can also be used to convict of the murder of others the person also killed. . . . [A]ssuming legal causation, a person maliciously intending to kill is guilty of the murder of all persons actually killed. If the intent is premeditated, the murder or murders are first degree. . . . Intent to kill transfers to an unintended homicide victim even if the intended target is killed." (People v. Bland (2002) 28 Cal.4th 313, 322, 323–324, 326 [121 Cal.Rptr.2d 546, 48 P.3d 1107] [disapproving People v. Birreuta (1984) 162 Cal.App.3d 454, 458, 463 [208 Cal.Rptr. 635]].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

563. Conspiracy to Commit Murder (Pen. Code, § 182)

(The defendant[s]/Defendant[s] _____ <insert name[s]>) (is/are) charged [in Count _____] with conspiracy to commit murder [in violation of Penal Code section 182].

To prove that (the/a) defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant intended to agree and did agree with [one or more of] (the other defendant[s]/ [or] _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of coparticipant[s]>) to intentionally and unlawfully kill;
2. At the time of the agreement, the defendant and [one or more of] the other alleged member[s] of the conspiracy intended that one or more of them would intentionally and unlawfully kill;
3. (The/One of the) defendant[s][,] [or _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of coparticipant[s]>][,] [or (both/all) of them] committed [at least one of] the following overt act[s] alleged to accomplish the killing: _____ <insert the alleged overt acts>;

AND

4. [At least one of these/This] overt act[s] was committed in California.

To decide whether (the/a) defendant committed (this/these) overt act[s], consider all of the evidence presented about the overt act[s].

To decide whether (the/a) defendant and [one or more of] the other alleged member[s] of the conspiracy intended to commit murder, please refer to Instructions _____, which define that crime.

The People must prove that the members of the alleged conspiracy had an agreement and intent to commit murder. The People do not have to prove that any of the members of the alleged conspiracy actually met or came to a detailed or formal agreement to commit that crime. An agreement may be inferred from conduct if you conclude that members of the alleged conspiracy acted with a common purpose to commit the crime.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

An overt act is an act by one or more of the members of the conspiracy that is done to help accomplish the agreed upon crime. The overt act must happen after the defendant has agreed to commit the crime. The overt act must be more than the act of agreeing or planning to commit the crime, but it does not have to be a criminal act itself.

[You must all agree that at least one alleged overt act was committed in California by at least one alleged member of the conspiracy, but you do not have to all agree on which specific overt act or acts were committed or who committed the overt act or acts.]

[You must make a separate decision as to whether each defendant was a member of the alleged conspiracy.]

[A member of a conspiracy does not have to personally know the identity or roles of all the other members.]

[Someone who merely accompanies or associates with members of a conspiracy but who does not intend to commit the crime is not a member of the conspiracy.]

[Evidence that a person did an act or made a statement that helped accomplish the goal of the conspiracy is not enough, by itself, to prove that the person was a member of the conspiracy.]

New January 2006; Revised August 2006; Revised April 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime when the defendant is charged with conspiracy. (See People v. Morante (1999) 20 Cal.4th 403, 416 [84 Cal.Rptr.2d 665, 975 P.2d 1071].) Use this instruction only if the defendant is charged with conspiracy to commit murder. If the defendant is charged with conspiracy to commit another crime, give CALCRIM No. 415, Conspiracy. If the defendant is not charged with conspiracy but evidence of a conspiracy has been admitted for another purpose, do not give either instruction. Give CALCRIM No. 416, Evidence of Uncharged Conspiracy.

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the offense alleged to be the target of the conspiracy. (People v. Cortez (1998) 18 Cal.4th

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1223, 1238–1239 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 733, 960 P.2d 537]; People v. Fenenbock (1996) 46 Cal.App.4th 1688, 1706 [54 Cal.Rptr.2d 608].) Give all appropriate instructions defining the elements of murder.

In elements 1 and 3, insert the names or descriptions of alleged coconspirators if they are not defendants in the trial. (See People v. Liu (1996) 46 Cal.App.4th 1119, 1131 [54 Cal.Rptr.2d 578].) See also the Commentary section below.

Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "You must all agree that at least one overt act alleged" if multiple overt acts are alleged in connection with a single conspiracy. (See People v. Russo (2001) 25 Cal.4th 1124, 1135–1136 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 436, 25 P.3d 641].)

Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "You must make a separate decision," if more than one defendant is charged with conspiracy. (See People v. Fulton (1984) 155 Cal.App.3d 91, 101 [201 Cal.Rptr. 879]; People v. Crain (1951) 102 Cal.App.2d 566, 581–582 [228 P.2d 307].)

Do not cross-reference the murder instructions unless they have been modified to delete references to implied malice. Otherwise, a reference to implied malice could confuse jurors, because conspiracy to commit murder may not be based on a theory of implied malice. (People v. Swain (1996) 12 Cal.4th 593, 602–603, 607 [49 Cal.Rptr.2d 390, 909 P.2d 994].)

Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "A member of a conspiracy does not have to personally know," on request if there is evidence that the defendant did not personally know all the alleged coconspirators. (See People v. Van Eyk (1961) 56 Cal.2d 471, 479 [15 Cal.Rptr. 150, 364 P.2d 326].)

Give the two final bracketed sentences on request. (See People v. Toledo-Corro (1959) 174 Cal.App.2d 812, 820 [345 P.2d 529].)

Defenses—Instructional Duty

If there is sufficient evidence that the defendant withdrew from the alleged conspiracy, the court has a sua sponte duty to give CALCRIM No. 420, Withdrawal From Conspiracy.

If the case involves an issue regarding the statute of limitations or evidence of withdrawal by the defendant, a unanimity instruction may be required. (People v. Russo (2001) 25 Cal.4th 1124, 1136, fn. 2 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 436,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

25 P.3d 641]; see also Related Issues section to CALCRIM No. 415, Conspiracy, and CALCRIM 3500, Unanimity.)

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 415, Conspiracy.

CALCRIM No. 520, Murder With Malice Aforethought.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 182(a), 183; People v. Morante (1999) 20 Cal.4th 403, 416 [84 Cal.Rptr.2d 665, 975 P.2d 1071]; People v. Swain (1996) 12 Cal.4th 593, 600 [49 Cal.Rptr.2d 390, 909 P.2d 994]; People v. Liu (1996) 46 Cal.App.4th 1119, 1128 [54 Cal.Rptr.2d 578].
- Overt Act Defined. Pen. Code, § 184; People v. Saugstad (1962) 203 Cal.App.2d 536, 549–550 [21 Cal.Rptr. 740]; People v. Zamora (1976) 18 Cal.3d 538, 549, fn. 8 [134 Cal.Rptr. 784, 557 P.2d 75].
- Elements of Underlying Offense. People v. Fenenbock (1996) 46 Cal.App.4th 1688, 1706 [54 Cal.Rptr.2d 608]; People v. Cortez (1998) 18 Cal.4th 1223, 1238–1239 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 733, 960 P.2d 537].
- Express Malice Murder. People v. Swain (1996) 12 Cal.4th 593, 602–603, 607 [49 Cal.Rptr.2d 390, 909 P.2d 994].
- Premeditated First Degree Murder. People v. Cortez (1998) 18 Cal.4th 1223, 1232 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 733, 960 P.2d 537].
- Two Specific Intents for Conspiracy. People v. Miller (1996) 46 Cal.App.4th 412, 423–426 [53 Cal.Rptr.2d 773], disapproved by People v. Cortez (1998) 18 Cal.4th 1223 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 733, 960 P.2d 537] to the extent it suggests instructions on premeditation and deliberation must be given in every conspiracy to murder case.
- Unanimity on Specific Overt Act Not Required. People v. Russo (2001) 25 Cal.4th 1124, 1133–1135 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 436, 25 P.3d 641].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Elements, §§ 77, 78.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 141, Conspiracy, Solicitation, and Attempt, §§ 141.01[2], 141.02[3], [4][b], [5][c], Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[2][e] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

It is sufficient to refer to coconspirators in the accusatory pleading as "persons unknown." (People v. Sacramento Butchers' Protective Association

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(1910) 12 Cal.App. 471, 483 [107 P. 712]; People v. Roy (1967) 251 Cal.App.2d 459, 463 [59 Cal.Rptr. 636]; see 1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Elements, § 82.) Nevertheless, this instruction assumes the prosecution has named at least two members of the alleged conspiracy, whether charged or not.

Conspiracy to commit murder cannot be based on a theory of implied malice. (People v. Swain (1996) 12 Cal.4th 593, 602–603, 607 [49 Cal.Rptr.2d 390, 909 P.2d 994].) All conspiracy to commit murder is necessarily conspiracy to commit premeditated first degree murder. (People v. Cortez (1998) 18 Cal.4th 1223, 1232 [77 Cal.Rptr. 2d 733, 960 P.2d 537].)

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

There is no crime of conspiracy to commit attempted murder. (People v. Iniguez (2002) 96 Cal.App.4th 75, 79 [116 Cal.Rptr.2d 634].)

RELATED ISSUES

Multiple Conspiracies

Separately planned murders are punishable as separate conspiracies, even if the separate murders are incidental to a single objective. (People v. Liu (1996) 46 Cal.App.4th 1119, 1133 [54 Cal.Rptr.2d 578].)

See the Related Issues section to CALCRIM No. 415, Conspiracy.

564–569. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

F. MANSLAUGHTER

(i) Voluntary

570. Voluntary Manslaughter: Heat of Passion—Lesser Included Offense (Pen. Code, § 192(a))

A killing that would otherwise be murder is reduced to voluntary manslaughter if the defendant killed someone because of a sudden quarrel or in the heat of passion.

The defendant killed someone because of a sudden quarrel or in the heat of passion if:

1. The defendant was provoked;
2. As a result of the provocation, the defendant acted rashly and under the influence of intense emotion that obscured (his/her) reasoning or judgment;

AND

3. The provocation would have caused a person of average disposition to act rashly and without due deliberation, that is, from passion rather than from judgment.

Heat of passion does not require anger, rage, or any specific emotion. It can be any violent or intense emotion that causes a person to act without due deliberation and reflection.

In order for heat of passion to reduce a murder to voluntary manslaughter, the defendant must have acted under the direct and immediate influence of provocation as I have defined it. While no specific type of provocation is required, slight or remote provocation is not sufficient. Sufficient provocation may occur over a short or long period of time.

It is not enough that the defendant simply was provoked. The defendant is not allowed to set up (his/her) own standard of conduct. You must decide whether the defendant was provoked and whether the provocation was sufficient. In deciding whether the provocation was sufficient, consider whether a person of average disposition, in the same situation and knowing the same facts, would have reacted from passion rather than from judgment.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[If enough time passed between the provocation and the killing for a person of average disposition to "cool off" and regain his or her clear reasoning and judgment, then the killing is not reduced to voluntary manslaughter on this basis.]

The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant did not kill as the result of a sudden quarrel or in the heat of passion. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of murder.

New January 2006; Revised December 2008

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on voluntary manslaughter on either theory, heat of passion or imperfect self-defense, when evidence of either is "substantial enough to merit consideration" by the jury. (People v. Breverman (1998) 19 Cal.4th 142, 153–163 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 870, 960 P.2d 1094]; People v. Barton (1995) 12 Cal.4th 186, 201 [47 Cal.Rptr.2d 569, 906 P.2d 531].)

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 511, Excusable Homicide: Accident in the Heat of Passion.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 192(a).
- Heat of Passion Defined. People v. Breverman (1998) 19 Cal.4th 142, 163 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 870, 960 P.2d 1094]; People v. Valentine (1946) 28 Cal.2d 121, 139 [169 P.2d 1]; People v. Lee (1999) 20 Cal.4th 47, 59 [82 Cal.Rptr.2d 625, 971 P.2d 1001].
- "Average Person" Need Not Have Been Provoked to Kill, Just to Act Rashly and Without Deliberation. People v. Najera (2006) 138 Cal.App.4th 212, 223 [41 Cal.Rptr.3d 244].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 207–219.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Submission to Jury and Verdict, §§ 85.03[2][g], 85.04[1][c] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.01[3][e], 142.02[1][a], [e], [f], [2][a], [3][c] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Voluntary Manslaughter. People v. Van Ronk (1985) 171 Cal.App.3d 818, 824–825 [217 Cal.Rptr. 581]; People v. Williams (1980) 102 Cal.App.3d 1018, 1024–1026 [162 Cal.Rptr. 748].

Involuntary manslaughter is not a lesser included offense of voluntary manslaughter. (People v. Orr (1994) 22 Cal.App.4th 780, 784 [27 Cal.Rtpr.2d 553].)

RELATED ISSUES

Heat of Passion: Sufficiency of Provocation—Examples

In People v. Breverman, sufficient evidence of provocation existed where a mob of young men trespassed onto defendant's yard and attacked defendant's car with weapons. (People v. Breverman (1998) 19 Cal.4th 142, 163–164 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 870, 960 P.2d 1094].) Provocation has also been found sufficient based on the murder of a family member (People v. Brooks (1986) 185 Cal.App.3d 687, 694 [230 Cal.Rptr. 86]); a sudden and violent quarrel (People v. Elmore (1914) 167 Cal. 205, 211 [138 P. 989]); verbal taunts by an unfaithful wife (People v. Berry (1976) 18 Cal.3d 509, 515 [134 Cal.Rptr. 415, 556 P.2d 777]); and the infidelity of a lover (People v. Borchers (1958) 50 Cal.2d 321, 328–329 [325 P.2d 97]).

In the following cases, provocation has been found inadequate as a matter of law: evidence of name calling, smirking, or staring and looking stone-faced (People v. Lucas (1997) 55 Cal.App.4th 721, 739 [64 Cal.Rptr.2d 282]); insulting words or gestures (People v. Odell David Dixon (1961) 192 Cal.App.2d 88, 91 [13 Cal.Rptr. 277]); refusing to have sex in exchange for drugs (People v. Michael Sims Dixon (1995) 32 Cal.App.4th 1547, 1555–1556 [38 Cal.Rptr.2d 859]); a victim's resistance against a rape attempt (People v. Rich (1988) 45 Cal.3d 1036, 1112 [248 Cal.Rptr. 510, 755 P.2d 960]); the desire for revenge (People v. Fenenbock (1996) 46 Cal.App.4th 1688, 1704 [54 Cal.Rptr.2d 608]); and a long history of criticism, reproach and ridicule where the defendant had not seen the victims for over two weeks prior to the killings (People v. Kanawyer (2003) 113 Cal.App.4th 1233, 1246–1247 [7 Cal.Rptr.3d 401]). In addition the Supreme Court has suggested that mere vandalism of an automobile is insufficient for provocation. (See People v. Breverman (1998) 19 Cal.4th 142, 164, fn. 11 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 870, 960 P.2d 1094]; In re Christian S. (1994) 7 Cal.4th 768, 779 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 33, 872 P.2d 574].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Heat of Passion: Types of Provocation

Heat of passion does not require anger or rage. It can be "any violent, intense, high-wrought or enthusiastic emotion." (People v. Breverman (1998) 19 Cal.4th 142, 163–164 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 870, 960 P.2d 1094].)

Heat of Passion: Defendant Initial Aggressor

"[A] defendant who provokes a physical encounter by rude challenges to another person to fight, coupled with threats of violence and death to that person and his entire family, is not entitled to claim that he was provoked into using deadly force when the challenged person responds without apparent (or actual) use of such force." (People v. Johnston (2003) 113 Cal.App.4th 1299, 1303, 1312–1313 [7 Cal.Rptr.3d 161].)

Heat of Passion: Defendant's Own Standard

Unrestrained and unprovoked rage does not constitute heat of passion and a person of extremely violent temperament cannot substitute his or her own subjective standard for heat of passion. (People v. Valentine (1946) 28 Cal.2d 121, 139 [169 P.2d 1] [court approved admonishing jury on this point]; People v. Danielly (1949) 33 Cal.2d 362, 377 [202 P.2d 18]; People v. Berry (1976) 18 Cal.3d 509, 515 [134 Cal.Rptr. 415, 556 P.2d 777].) The objective element of this form of voluntary manslaughter is not satisfied by evidence of a defendant's "extraordinary character and environmental deficiencies." (People v. Steele (2002) 27 Cal.4th 1230, 1253 [120 Cal.Rptr.2d 432, 47 P.3d 225] [evidence of intoxication, mental deficiencies, and psychological dysfunction due to traumatic experiences in Vietnam are not provocation by the victim].)

Premeditation and Deliberation—Heat of Passion Provocation

Provocation and heat of passion that is insufficient to reduce a murder to manslaughter may nonetheless reduce murder from first to second degree. (People v. Thomas (1945) 25 Cal.2d 880, 903 [156 P.2d 7] [provocation raised reasonable doubt about the idea of premeditation or deliberation].) There is, however, no sua sponte duty to instruct the jury on this issue because provocation in this context is a defense to the element of deliberation, not an element of the crime, as it is in the manslaughter context. (People v. Middleton (1997) 52 Cal.App.4th 19, 32–33 [60 Cal.Rptr.2d 366], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Gonzalez (2003) 31 Cal.4th 745, 752 [3 Cal.Rptr.3d 676, 74 P.3d 771].) On request, give CALCRIM No. 522, Provocation: Effect on Degree of Murder.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Fetus

Manslaughter does not apply to the death of a fetus. (People v. Carlson (1974) 37 Cal.App.3d 349, 355 [112 Cal.Rptr. 321].) While the Legislature has included the killing of a fetus, as well as a human being, within the definition of murder under Penal Code section 187, it has "left untouched the provisions of section 192, defining manslaughter [as] the 'unlawful killing of a human being.' " (Ibid.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

571. Voluntary Manslaughter: Imperfect Self-Defense—Lesser Included Offense (Pen. Code, § 192)

A killing that would otherwise be murder is reduced to voluntary manslaughter if the defendant killed a person because (he/she) acted in (imperfect self-defense/ [or] imperfect defense of another).

If you conclude the defendant acted in complete (self-defense/ [or] defense of another), (his/her) action was lawful and you must find (him/her) not guilty of any crime. The difference between complete (self-defense/ [or] defense of another) and (imperfect self-defense/ [or] imperfect defense of another) depends on whether the defendant's belief in the need to use deadly force was reasonable.

The defendant acted in (imperfect self-defense/ [or] imperfect defense of another) if:

1. The defendant actually believed that (he/she/ [or] someone else/ _____ <insert name of third party>) was in imminent danger of being killed or suffering great bodily injury;

AND

2. The defendant actually believed that the immediate use of deadly force was necessary to defend against the danger;

BUT

3. At least one of those beliefs was unreasonable.

Belief in future harm is not sufficient, no matter how great or how likely the harm is believed to be.

In evaluating the defendant's beliefs, consider all the circumstances as they were known and appeared to the defendant.

[If you find that _____ <insert name of decedent/victim> threatened or harmed the defendant [or others] in the past, you may consider that information in evaluating the defendant's beliefs.]

[If you find that the defendant knew that _____ <insert name of decedent/victim> had threatened or harmed others in the past, you may consider that information in evaluating the defendant's beliefs.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[If you find that the defendant received a threat from someone else that (he/she) reasonably associated with _____ <insert name of decedent/victim>, you may consider that threat in evaluating the defendant's beliefs.]

[Great bodily injury means significant or substantial physical injury. It is an injury that is greater than minor or moderate harm.]

The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant was not acting in (imperfect self-defense/ [or] imperfect defense of another). If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of murder.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on voluntary manslaughter on either theory, heat of passion or imperfect self-defense, when evidence of either is "substantial enough to merit consideration" by the jury. (People v. Breverman (1998) 19 Cal.4th 142, 153–163 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 870, 960 P.2d 1094]; People v. Barton (1995) 12 Cal.4th 186, 201 [47 Cal.Rptr.2d 569, 906 P.2d 531].)

See discussion of imperfect self-defense in related issues section of CALCRIM No. 505, Justifiable Homicide: Self-Defense or Defense of Another.

Perfect Self-Defense

Most courts hold that an instruction on imperfect self-defense is required in every case in which a court instructs on perfect self-defense. If there is substantial evidence of a defendant's belief in the need for self-defense, there will always be substantial evidence to support an imperfect self-defense instruction because the reasonableness of that belief will always be at issue. (See People v. Ceja (1994) 26 Cal.App.4th 78, 85–86 [31 Cal.Rptr.2d 475], overruled in part by People v. Blakeley (2000) 23 Cal.4th 82, 91 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 451, 999 P.2d 675]; see also People v. De Leon (1992) 10 Cal.App.4th 815, 824 [12 Cal.Rptr.2d 825].) The court in People v. Rodriguez disagreed, however, and found that an imperfect self-defense instruction was not required sua sponte on the facts of the case where the defendant's version of the crime "could only lead to an acquittal based on justifiable homicide," and when the prosecutor's version of the crime could only lead to a conviction of first degree murder. (See People v. Rodriguez (1997) 53 Cal.App.4th 1250, 1275 [62 Cal.Rptr.2d 345]; see also People v. Williams (1992) 4 Cal.4th 354, 362 [14 Cal.Rptr.2d 441, 841 P.2d 961] [in a rape prosecution, the court was not required to give a mistake-of-fact instruction where the two sides gave wholly divergent accounts with no middle ground to support a mistake-of-fact instruction].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

In evaluating whether the defendant actually believed in the need for self-defense, the jury may consider the effect of antecedent threats and assaults against the defendant, including threats received by the defendant from a third party that the defendant reasonably associated with the aggressor. (People v. Minifie (1996) 13 Cal.4th 1055, 1065, 1069 [56 Cal.Rptr.2d 133, 920 P.2d 1337].) If there is sufficient evidence, the court should give the bracketed paragraphs on prior threats or assaults on request.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 505, Justifiable Homicide: Self-Defense or Defense of Another.

CALCRIM No. 3470, Right to Self-Defense or Defense of Another (Non-Homicide).

CALCRIM No. 3471, Right to Self-Defense: Mutual Combat or Initial Aggressor.

CALCRIM No. 3472, Right to Self-Defense: May Not Be Contrived.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 192(a).
- Imperfect Self-Defense Defined. People v. Flannel (1979) 25 Cal.3d 668, 680–683 [160 Cal.Rptr. 84, 603 P.2d 1]; People v. Barton (1995) 12 Cal.4th 186, 201 [47 Cal.Rptr.2d 569, 906 P.2d 531]; In re Christian S. (1994) 7 Cal.4th 768, 773 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 33, 872 P.2d 574]; see People v. Uriarte (1990) 223 Cal.App.3d 192, 197–198 [272 Cal.Rptr. 693] [insufficient evidence to support defense of another person].
- Imperfect Defense of Others. People v. Michaels (2002) 28 Cal.4th 486, 529–531 [122 Cal.Rptr.2d 285, 49 P.3d 1032].
- Imperfect Self-Defense May be Available When Defendant Set in Motion Chain of Events Leading to Victim's Attack, but Not When Victim was Legally Justified in Resorting to Self-Defense. People v. Vasquez (2006) 136 Cal.App.4th 1176, 1179–1180 [39 Cal.Rptr.3d 433].
- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Genovese (2008) 168 Cal.App.4th

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

817, 832 [85 Cal.Rptr.3d 664].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 210.

3 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 73, Defenses and Justifications, § 73.11[1][c], [2][a] (Matthew Bender).

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, §§ 85.03[2][g], 85.04[1][c] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.01[3][d.1], [e], 142.02[1][a], [e], [f], [2][a], [3][c] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Voluntary Manslaughter. People v. Van Ronk (1985) 171 Cal.App.3d 818, 822 [217 Cal.Rptr. 581]; People v. Williams (1980) 102 Cal.App.3d 1018, 1024–1026 [162 Cal.Rptr. 748].

Involuntary manslaughter is not a lesser included offense of voluntary manslaughter. (People v. Orr (1994) 22 Cal.App.4th 780, 784 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 553].)

RELATED ISSUES

Battered Woman's Syndrome

Evidence relating to battered woman's syndrome may be considered by the jury when deciding if the defendant actually feared the batterer and if that fear was reasonable. (See People v. Humphrey (1996) 13 Cal.4th 1073, 1082–1089 [56 Cal.Rptr.2d 142, 921 P.2d 1].)

Blakeley Not Retroactive

The decision in Blakeley—that one who, acting with conscious disregard for life, unintentionally kills in imperfect self-defense is guilty of voluntary manslaughter—may not be applied to defendants whose offense occurred prior to Blakeley's June 2, 2000, date of decision. (People v. Blakeley (2000) 23 Cal.4th 82, 91–93 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 451, 999 P.2d 675].) If a defendant asserts a killing was done in an honest but mistaken belief in the need to act in self-defense and the offense occurred prior to June 2, 2000, the jury must be instructed that an unintentional killing in imperfect self-defense is involuntary manslaughter. (People v. Johnson (2002) 98 Cal.App.4th 566,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

576–577 [119 Cal.Rptr.2d 802]; People v. Blakeley, supra, 23 Cal.4th at p. 93.)

Inapplicable to Felony Murder

Imperfect self-defense does not apply to felony murder. "Because malice is irrelevant in first and second degree felony murder prosecutions, a claim of imperfect self-defense, offered to negate malice, is likewise irrelevant." (See People v. Tabios (1998) 67 Cal.App.4th 1, 6–9 [78 Cal.Rptr.2d 753]; see also People v. Anderson (1991) 233 Cal.App.3d 1646, 1666 [285 Cal.Rptr. 523]; People v. Loustaunau (1986) 181 Cal.App.3d 163, 170 [226 Cal.Rptr. 216].)

Fetus

Manslaughter does not apply to the death of a fetus. (People v. Carlson (1974) 37 Cal.App.3d 349, 355 [112 Cal.Rptr. 321].) While the Legislature has included the killing of a fetus, as well as a human being, within the definition of murder under Penal Code section 187, it has "left untouched the provisions of section 192, defining manslaughter [as] the 'unlawful killing of a human being.' " (Ibid.)

See also the Related Issues Section to CALCRIM No. 505, Justifiable Homicide: Self-Defense or Defense of Another.

Reasonable Person Standard Not Modified by Evidence of Mental Impairment

In People v. Jefferson (2004) 119 Cal.App.4th 508, 519 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 473], the court rejected the argument that the reasonable person standard for self-defense should be the standard of a mentally ill person like the defendant. "The common law does not take account of a person's mental capacity when determining whether he has acted as the reasonable person would have acted. The law holds 'the mentally deranged or insane defendant accountable for his negligence as if the person were a normal, prudent person.' (Prosser & Keeton, Torts (5th ed. 1984) § 32, p. 177.)" (Ibid.; see also Rest.2d Torts, § 283B.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

572. Voluntary Manslaughter: Murder Not Charged (Pen. Code, § 192(a))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with voluntary manslaughter [in violation of Penal Code section 192(a)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of voluntary manslaughter, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant committed an act that caused the death of another person;

[AND]

2. When the defendant acted, (he/she) unlawfully intended to kill someone(;/.)

<Give element 3 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

3. (He/She) killed without lawful excuse or justification.]

Or the People must prove that:

1. The defendant intentionally committed an act that caused the death of another person;
2. The natural consequences of the act were dangerous to human life;
3. At the time (he/she) acted, (he/she) knew the act was dangerous to human life;

[AND]

4. (He/She) deliberately acted with conscious disregard for human life(;/.)

<Give element 5 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

5. (He/She) killed without lawful excuse or justification.]

[An act causes death if the death is the direct, natural, and probable consequence of the act and the death would not have happened without the act. A natural and probable consequence is one that a reasonable person would know is likely to happen if nothing unusual intervenes. In deciding whether a consequence is natural and probable, consider all of the circumstances established by the evidence.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[There may be more than one cause of death. An act causes death only if it is a substantial factor in causing the death. A substantial factor is more than a trivial or remote factor. However, it does not need to be the only factor that causes the death.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime. The court should give this instruction only in cases where voluntary manslaughter is charged alone, without murder. In such cases,

> [A] conviction of voluntary manslaughter may be sustained upon proof and findings that the defendant committed an unlawful and intentional homicide. Provocation and imperfect self-defense are not additional elements of voluntary manslaughter which must be proved and found beyond reasonable doubt in order to permit a conviction of that offense.

(People v. Rios (2000) 23 Cal.4th 450, 463, 469 [97 Cal.Rptr.2d 512, 2 P.3d 1066].) "[V]oluntary manslaughter . . . is also committed when one kills unlawfully, and with conscious disregard for life." (People v. Rios, supra, 23 Cal.4th at p. 461, fn. 7 [emphasis in original], citing People v. Blakeley (2000) 23 Cal.4th 82, 90–91 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 451, 999 P.2d 675]; People v. Lasko (2000) 23 Cal.4th 101, 108–110 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 441, 999 P.2d 666].)

If causation is at issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on proximate cause. (People v. Bernhardt (1963) 222 Cal.App.2d 567, 590–591 [35 Cal.Rptr. 401].) If the evidence indicates that there was only one cause of death, the court should give the "direct, natural, and probable" language in the first bracketed paragraph on causation. If there is evidence of multiple causes of death, the court should also give the "substantial factor" instruction in the second bracketed paragraph on causation. (See People v. Autry (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 351, 363 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 135]; People v. Pike (1988) 197 Cal.App.3d 732, 746–747 [243 Cal.Rptr. 54].) See also CALCRIM No. 620, Causation: Special Issues.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code § 192(a); People v. Rios (2000) 23 Cal.4th 450, 463, 469 [97 Cal.Rptr.2d 512, 2 P.3d 1066].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 208–209.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.04, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.02[1][a], [e], [f], [2][a] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Blakeley Not Retroactive

The decision in Blakeley—that one who, acting with conscious disregard for life, unintentionally kills in imperfect self-defense is guilty of voluntary manslaughter—may not be applied to defendants whose offense occurred prior to Blakeley's June 2, 2000, date of decision. (People v. Blakeley (2000) 23 Cal.4th 82, 91–93 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 451, 999 P.2d 675].) If a defendant asserts a killing was done in an honest but mistaken belief in the need to act in self-defense and the offense occurred prior to June 2, 2000, the jury must be instructed that an unintentional killing in imperfect self-defense is involuntary manslaughter. (People v. Johnson (2002) 98 Cal.App.4th 566, 576–577 [119 Cal.Rptr.2d 802]; People v. Blakeley, supra, 23 Cal.4th at p. 93.) In such cases, do not give the portion of the instruction that begins, "Or the People must prove that" or any of the elements that follow.

Fetus

Manslaughter does not apply to the death of a fetus. (People v. Carlson (1974) 37 Cal.App.3d 349, 355 [112 Cal.Rptr. 321].) While the Legislature has included the killing of a fetus, as well as a human being, within the definition of murder under Penal Code section 187, it has "left untouched the provisions of section 192, defining manslaughter [as] the 'unlawful killing of a human being.' " (Ibid.)

573–579. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(ii) Involuntary

580. Involuntary Manslaughter: Lesser Included Offense (Pen. Code, § 192(b))

When a person commits an unlawful killing but does not intend to kill and does not act with conscious disregard for human life, then the crime is involuntary manslaughter.

The difference between other homicide offenses and involuntary manslaughter depends on whether the person was aware of the risk to life that his or her actions created and consciously disregarded that risk. An unlawful killing caused by a willful act done with full knowledge and awareness that the person is endangering the life of another, and done in conscious disregard of that risk, is voluntary manslaughter or murder. An unlawful killing resulting from a willful act committed without intent to kill and without conscious disregard of the risk to human life is involuntary manslaughter.

The defendant committed involuntary manslaughter if:

1. The defendant (committed a crime that posed a high risk of death or great bodily injury because of the way in which it was committed/ [or] committed a lawful act, but acted with criminal negligence);

AND

2. The defendant's acts unlawfully caused the death of another person.

[The People allege that the defendant committed the following crime[s]: _____ <*insert misdemeanor[s]/infraction[s])/ noninherently dangerous (felony/felonies)>.

Instruction[s] _____ tell[s] you what the People must prove in order to prove that the defendant committed _____ <*insert misdemeanor[s]/infraction[s])/ noninherently dangerous (felony/felonies)>.]

[The People [also] allege that the defendant committed the following lawful act[s] with criminal negligence: _____ <*insert act[s] alleged>.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[Criminal negligence involves more than ordinary carelessness, inattention, or mistake in judgment. A person acts with criminal negligence when:

1. He or she acts in a reckless way that creates a high risk of death or great bodily injury;

AND

2. A reasonable person would have known that acting in that way would create such a risk.

In other words, a person acts with criminal negligence when the way he or she acts is so different from the way an ordinarily careful person would act in the same situation that his or her act amounts to disregard for human life or indifference to the consequences of that act.]

[An act causes death if the death is the direct, natural, and probable consequence of the act and the death would not have happened without the act. A natural and probable consequence is one that a reasonable person would know is likely to happen if nothing unusual intervenes. In deciding whether a consequence is natural and probable, consider all of the circumstances established by the evidence.]

[There may be more than one cause of death. An act causes death only if it is a substantial factor in causing the death. A substantial factor is more than a trivial or remote factor. However, it does not need to be the only factor that causes the death.]

Great bodily injury* means significant or substantial physical injury. It is an injury that is greater than minor or moderate harm.

[The People allege that the defendant committed the following (crime[s]/ [and] lawful act[s] with criminal negligence): _____ <insert alleged predicate acts when multiple acts alleged>. You may not find the defendant guilty unless all of you agree that the People have proved that the defendant committed at least one of these alleged acts and you all agree that the same act or acts were proved.]

In order to prove murder or voluntary manslaughter, the People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant acted with intent to kill or with conscious disregard for human life. If the People have not met either of these burdens, you must find the defendant not guilty of murder and not guilty of voluntary manslaughter.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on involuntary manslaughter as a lesser included offense of murder when there is sufficient evidence that the defendant lacked malice. (People v. Glenn (1991) 229 Cal.App.3d 1461, 1465–1467 [280 Cal.Rptr. 609], overruled in part in People v. Blakeley (2000) 23 Cal.4th 82, 91 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 451, 999 P.2d 675].)

When instructing on involuntary manslaughter as a lesser offense, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on both theories of involuntary manslaughter (misdemeanor/infraction/noninherently dangerous felony and lawful act committed without due caution and circumspection) if both theories are supported by the evidence. (People v. Lee (1999) 20 Cal.4th 47, 61 [82 Cal.Rptr.2d 625, 971 P.2d 1001].) In element 2, instruct on either or both of theories of involuntary manslaughter as appropriate.

The court has a sua sponte duty to specify the predicate misdemeanor, infraction or noninherently dangerous felony alleged and to instruct on the elements of the predicate offense(s). (People v. Milham (1984) 159 Cal.App.3d 487, 506 [205 Cal.Rptr. 688]; People v. Ellis (1999) 69 Cal.App.4th 1334, 1339 [82 Cal.Rptr.2d 409]; People v. Burroughs (1984) 35 Cal.3d 824, 835 [201 Cal.Rptr. 319, 678 P.2d 894], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Blakeley (2000) 23 Cal.4th 82, 89 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 451].)

If causation is at issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on proximate cause. (People v. Bernhardt (1963) 222 Cal.App.2d 567, 590–591 [35 Cal.Rptr. 401].) If the evidence indicates that there was only one cause of death, the court should give the "direct, natural, and probable" language in the first bracketed paragraph on causation. If there is evidence of multiple causes of death, the court should also give the "substantial factor" instruction in the second bracketed paragraph on causation. (See People v. Autry (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 351, 363 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 135]; People v. Pike (1988) 197 Cal.App.3d 732, 746–747 [243 Cal.Rptr. 54].) See also CALCRIM No. 620, Causation: Special Issues.

In cases involving vehicular manslaughter (Pen. Code, § 192(c)), there is a split in authority on whether there is a sua sponte duty to give a unanimity instruction when multiple predicate offenses are alleged. (People v. Gary (1987) 189 Cal.App.3d 1212, 1218 [235 Cal.Rptr. 30], overruled on other grounds in People v. Flood (1998) 18 Cal.4th 470, 481 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 180, 957 P.2d 869]; People v. Durkin (1988) 205 Cal.App.3d Supp. 9, 13 [252 Cal.Rptr. 735]; People v. Mitchell (1986) 188 Cal.App.3d 216, 222 [232 Cal.Rptr. 438]; People v. Leffel (1988) 203 Cal.App.3d 575, 586–587 [249 Cal.Rptr. 906].) A unanimity instruction is included in a bracketed paragraph, should the court determine that such an instruction is appropriate.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Involuntary Manslaughter Defined. Pen. Code, § 192(b).
- Due Caution and Circumspection. People v. Penny (1955) 44 Cal.2d 861, 879–880 [285 P.2d 926]; People v. Rodriguez (1960) 186 Cal.App.2d 433, 440 [8 Cal.Rptr. 863].
- Unlawful Act Not Amounting to a Felony. People v. Thompson (2000) 79 Cal.App.4th 40, 53 [93 Cal.Rptr.2d 803].
- Unlawful Act Must Be Dangerous Under the Circumstances of Its Commission. People v. Wells (1996) 12 Cal.4th 979, 982 [50 Cal.Rptr.2d 699, 911 P.2d 1374]; People v. Cox (2000) 23 Cal.4th 665, 674 [97 Cal.Rptr.2d 647, 2 P.3d 1189].
- Proximate Cause. People v. Roberts (1992) 2 Cal.4th 271, 315–321 [6 Cal.Rptr.2d 276, 826 P.2d 274]; People v. Rodriguez (1960) 186 Cal.App.2d 433, 440 [8 Cal.Rptr. 863].
- Lack of Due Caution and Circumspection Contrasted With Conscious Disregard of Life. People v. Watson (1981) 30 Cal.3d 290, 296–297 [179 Cal.Rptr. 43, 637 P.2d 279]; People v. Evers (1992) 10 Cal.App.4th 588, 596 [12 Cal.Rptr.2d 637].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 220–234.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.02[2][a][i] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, §§ 140.02[4], 140.04, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.01[3][d.1], [e], 142.02[1][a], [b], [e], [f], [2][b], [3][c] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

Involuntary manslaughter is a lesser included offense of both degrees of murder, but it is not a lesser included offense of voluntary manslaughter. (People v. Orr (1994) 22 Cal.App.4th 780, 784 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 553].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

There is no crime of attempted involuntary manslaughter. (People v. Johnson (1996) 51 Cal.App.4th 1329, 1332 [59 Cal.Rptr.2d 798]; People v. Broussard (1977) 76 Cal.App.3d 193, 197 [142 Cal.Rptr. 664].)

Aggravated assault is not a lesser included offense of involuntary manslaughter. (People v. Murray (2008) 167 Cal.App.4th 1133, 1140 [84 Cal.Rptr.3d 676].)

RELATED ISSUES

Imperfect Self-Defense and Involuntary Manslaughter

Imperfect self-defense is a "mitigating circumstance" that "reduce[s] an intentional, unlawful killing from murder to voluntary manslaughter by negating the element of malice that otherwise inheres in such a homicide." (People v. Rios (2000) 23 Cal.4th 450, 461 [97 Cal.Rptr.2d 512, 2 P.3d 1066] [citations omitted, emphasis in original].) However, evidence of imperfect self-defense may support a finding of involuntary manslaughter, where the evidence demonstrates the absence of (as opposed to the negation of) the elements of malice. (People v. Blakeley (2000) 23 Cal.4th 82, 91 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 451, 999 P.2d 675] [discussing dissenting opinion of Mosk, J.].) Nevertheless, a court should not instruct on involuntary manslaughter unless there is evidence supporting the statutory elements of that crime.

See also the Related Issues section to CALCRIM No. 581, Involuntary Manslaughter: Murder Not Charged.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

581. Involuntary Manslaughter: Murder Not Charged (Pen. Code, § 192(b))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with involuntary manslaughter [in violation of Penal Code section 192(b)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant (committed a crime that posed a high risk of death or great bodily injury because of the way in which it was committed/ [or] committed a lawful act, but acted with criminal negligence);

AND

2. The defendant's acts caused the death of another person.

[The People allege that the defendant committed the following crime[s]: _____ <insert misdemeanor[s]/infraction[s])/ noninherently dangerous (felony/felonies)>.

Instruction[s] _____ tell[s] you what the People must prove in order to prove that the defendant committed _____ <insert misdemeanor[s]/infraction[s])/ noninherently dangerous (felony/felonies)>.]

[The People [also] allege that the defendant committed the following lawful act[s] with criminal negligence: _____ <insert act[s] alleged>.]

[Criminal negligence involves more than ordinary carelessness, inattention, or mistake in judgment. A person acts with criminal negligence when:

1. He or she acts in a reckless way that creates a high risk of death or great bodily injury;

AND

2. A reasonable person would have known that acting in that way would create such a risk.

In other words, a person acts with criminal negligence when the way he or she acts is so different from the way an ordinarily careful person would act in the same situation that his or her act

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

amounts to disregard for human life or indifference to the consequences of that act.]

[An act causes death if the death is the direct, natural, and probable consequence of the act and the death would not have happened without the act. A natural and probable consequence is one that a reasonable person would know is likely to happen if nothing unusual intervenes. In deciding whether a consequence is natural and probable, consider all of the circumstances established by the evidence.]

[There may be more than one cause of death. An act causes death only if it is a substantial factor in causing the death. A substantial factor is more than a trivial or remote factor. However, it does not need to be the only factor that causes the death.]

Great bodily injury* means significant or substantial physical injury. It is an injury that is greater than minor or moderate harm.

[The People allege that the defendant committed the following (crime[s]/ [and] lawful act[s] with criminal negligence): _____ <insert alleged predicate acts when multiple acts alleged>. You may not find the defendant guilty unless all of you agree that the People have proved that the defendant committed at least one of these alleged acts and you all agree on which act (he/she) committed.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the offense.

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on both theories of involuntary manslaughter (misdemeanor/infraction/noninherently dangerous felony and lawful act committed without due caution and circumspection) if both theories are supported by the evidence. (People v. Lee (1999) 20 Cal.4th 47, 61 [82 Cal.Rptr.2d 625, 971 P.2d 1001].) In element 1, instruct on either or both theories of involuntary manslaughter as appropriate.

The court has a sua sponte duty to specify the predicate misdemeanor, infraction or noninherently dangerous felony alleged and to instruct on the elements of the predicate offense(s). (People v. Milham (1984) 159 Cal.App.3d 487, 506 [205 Cal.Rptr. 688]; People v. Ellis (1999) 69

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.App.4th 1334, 1339 [82 Cal.Rptr.2d 409]; People v. Burroughs (1984) 35 Cal.3d 824, 835 [201 Cal.Rptr. 319, 678 P.2d 894], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Blakeley (2000) 23 Cal.4th 82, 89 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 451, 999 P.2d 675].)

If causation is at issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on proximate cause. (People v. Bernhardt (1963) 222 Cal.App.2d 567, 590–591 [35 Cal.Rptr. 401].) If the evidence indicates that there was only one cause of death, the court should give the "direct, natural, and probable" language in the first bracketed paragraph on causation. If there is evidence of multiple causes of death, the court should also give the "substantial factor" instruction in the second bracketed paragraph on causation. (See People v. Autry (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 351, 363 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 135]; People v. Pike (1988) 197 Cal.App.3d 732, 746–747 [243 Cal.Rptr. 54].)

In cases involving vehicular manslaughter (Pen. Code, § 192(c)), there is a split in authority on whether there is a sua sponte duty to give a unanimity instruction when multiple predicate offenses are alleged. (People v. Gary (1987) 189 Cal.App.3d 1212, 1218 [235 Cal.Rptr. 30], overruled on other grounds in People v. Flood (1998) 18 Cal.4th 470, 481 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 180, 957 P.2d 869]; People v. Durkin (1988) 205 Cal.App.3d Supp. 9, 13 [252 Cal.Rptr. 735]; People v. Mitchell (1986) 188 Cal.App.3d 216, 222 [232 Cal.Rptr. 438]; People v. Leffel (1988) 203 Cal.App.3d 575, 586–587 [249 Cal.Rptr. 906].) A unanimity instruction is included in a bracketed paragraph for the court to use at its discretion.

AUTHORITY

- Involuntary Manslaughter Defined. Pen. Code, § 192(b).
- Due Caution and Circumspection. People v. Penny (1955) 44 Cal.2d 861, 879–880 [285 P.2d 926]; People v. Rodriguez (1960) 186 Cal.App.2d 433, 440 [8 Cal.Rptr. 863].
- Unlawful Act Not Amounting to a Felony. People v. Thompson (2000) 79 Cal.App.4th 40, 53 [93 Cal.Rptr.2d 803].
- Unlawful Act Must Be Dangerous Under the Circumstances of Its Commission. People v. Wells (1996) 12 Cal.4th 979, 982 [50 Cal.Rptr.2d 699, 911 P.2d 1374]; People v. Cox (2000) 23 Cal.4th 665, 674 [97 Cal.Rptr.2d 647, 2 P.3d 1189].
- Proximate Cause. People v. Roberts (1992) 2 Cal.4th 271, 315–321 [6 Cal.Rptr.2d 276, 826 P.2d 274]; People v. Rodriguez (1960) 186 Cal.App.2d 433, 440 [8 Cal.Rptr. 863].
- Lack of Due Caution and Circumspection Contrasted With Conscious

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Disregard of Life. People v. Watson (1981) 30 Cal.3d 290, 296–297 [179 Cal.Rptr. 43, 637 P.2d 279]; People v. Evers (1992) 10 Cal.App.4th 588, 596 [12 Cal.Rptr.2d 637].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 220–234.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.02[2][a][i] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, §§ 140.02[4], 140.04, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.02[1][a], [b], [e], [f], [2][b], [3][c] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

There is no crime of attempted involuntary manslaughter. (People v. Johnson (1996) 51 Cal.App.4th 1329, 1332 [59 Cal.Rptr.2d 798].)

Aggravated assault is not a lesser included offense of involuntary manslaughter. (People v. Murray (2008) 167 Cal.App.4th 1133, 1140 [84 Cal.Rptr.3d 676].)

RELATED ISSUES

Due Caution and Circumspection

"The words lack of 'due caution and circumspection' have been heretofore held to be the equivalent of 'criminal negligence.' " (People v. Penny (1955) 44 Cal.2d 861, 879 [285 P.2d 926].)

Felonies as Predicate "Unlawful Act"

"[T]he only logically permissible construction of section 192 is that an unintentional homicide committed in the course of a noninherently dangerous felony may properly support a conviction of involuntary manslaughter, if that felony is committed without due caution and circumspection." (People v. Burroughs (1984) 35 Cal.3d 824, 835 [201 Cal.Rptr. 319, 678 P.2d 894], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Blakeley (2000) 23 Cal.4th 82, 89 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 451, 999 P.2d 675] [practicing medicine without a license cannot be predicate offense for second degree murder because not inherently dangerous but can be for involuntary manslaughter even though Penal Code section 192 specifies an "unlawful act, not amounting to a felony"].)

No Inherently Dangerous Requirement for Predicate Misdemeanor/Infraction

"[T]he offense which constitutes the 'unlawful act' need not be an inherently dangerous misdemeanor or infraction. Rather, to be an 'unlawful act' within the meaning of section 192(c)(1), the offense must be dangerous under the circumstances of its commission. An unlawful act committed with gross negligence would necessarily be so." (People v. Wells (1996) 12 Cal.4th 979, 982 [50 Cal.Rptr.2d 699, 911 P.2d 1374].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Fetus

Manslaughter does not apply to the death of a fetus. (People v. Carlson (1974) 37 Cal.App.3d 349, 355 [112 Cal.Rptr. 321].) While the Legislature has included the killing of a fetus, as well as a human being, within the definition of murder under Penal Code section 187, it has "left untouched the provisions of section 192, defining manslaughter [as] the 'unlawful killing of a human being.' " (Ibid.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

582. Involuntary Manslaughter: Failure to Perform Legal Duty—Murder Not Charged (Pen. Code, § 192(b))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with involuntary manslaughter [in violation of Penal Code section 192(b)] based on failure to perform a legal duty.

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant had a legal duty to _____ <insert name of decedent>;
2. The defendant failed to perform that legal duty;
3. The defendant's failure was criminally negligent;

AND

4. The defendant's failure caused the death of _____ <insert name of decedent>.

(A/An) _____ <insert description of person owing duty> has a legal duty to (help/care for/rescue/warn/maintain the property of/ _____ <insert other required action[s]>) _____ <insert description of decedent, not name>.

Criminal negligence* involves more than ordinary carelessness, inattention, or mistake in judgment. A person acts with criminal negligence when:

1. He or she acts in a reckless way that creates a high risk of death or great bodily injury;

AND

2. A reasonable person would have known that acting in that way would create such a risk.

In other words, a person acts with criminal negligence when the way he or she acts is so different from how an ordinarily careful person would act in the same situation that his or her act amounts to disregard for human life or indifference to the consequences of that act.

[Great bodily injury means significant or substantial physical injury. It is an injury that is greater than minor or moderate harm.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[An act causes death if the death is the direct, natural, and probable consequence of the act and the death would not have happened without the act. A natural and probable consequence is one that a reasonable person would know is likely to happen if nothing unusual intervenes. In deciding whether a consequence is natural and probable, consider all of the circumstances established by the evidence.]

[There may be more than one cause of death. An act causes death, only if it is a substantial factor in causing the death. A substantial factor is more than a trivial or remote factor. However, it does not need to be the only factor that causes the death.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Legal Duty

The existence of a legal duty is a matter of law to be decided by the judge. (Kentucky Fried Chicken v. Superior Court (1997) 14 Cal.4th 814, 819 [59 Cal.Rtpr.2d 756, 927 P.2d 1260]; Isaacs v. Huntington Memorial Hospital (1985) 38 Cal.3d 112, 124 [211 Cal.Rptr. 356, 695 P.2d 653].) The court should instruct the jury if a legal duty exists. (See People v. Burden (1977) 72 Cal.App.3d 603, 614 [140 Cal.Rptr. 282] [proper instruction that parent has legal duty to furnish necessary clothing, food, and medical attention for his or her minor child].) In the instruction on legal duty, the court should use generic terms to describe the relationship and duty owed. For example:

> A parent has a legal duty to care for a child.
>
> A paid caretaker has a legal duty to care for the person he or she was hired to care for.
>
> A person who has assumed responsibility for another person has a legal duty to care for that other person.

The court should not state "the defendant had a legal duty to the decedent." (See People v. Brown (1988) 46 Cal.3d 432, 444–445 [250 Cal.Rptr. 604, 758 P.2d 1135] [correct to state "a Garden Grove Regular Police Officer [is a] peace officer"; would be error to state "Officer Reed was a peace officer"].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

However, in a small number of cases where the legal duty to act is based on the defendant having created or increased risk to the victim, the existence of the legal duty may depend on facts in dispute. (See People v. Oliver (1989) 210 Cal.App.3d 138, 149 [258 Cal.Rptr. 138].) If there is a conflict in testimony over the facts necessary to establish that the defendant owed a legal duty to the victim, then the issue must be submitted to the jury. In such cases, the court should insert a section similar to the following:

> The People must prove that the defendant had a legal duty to (help/rescue/warn/ _____ <insert other required action[s]>) _____ <insert name of decedent>.
>
> In order to prove that the defendant had this legal duty, the People must prove that the defendant _____ <insert facts that establish legal duty>.
>
> If you decide that the People have proved that the defendant _____ <insert facts that establish legal duty>, then the defendant had a legal duty to (help/rescue/warn/ _____ <insert other required action[s]>) _____ <insert name of decedent>.
>
> If you have a reasonable doubt whether the defendant _____ <insert facts that establish legal duty>, then you must find (him/her) not guilty.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 192(b); People v. Oliver (1989) 210 Cal.App.3d 138, 146 [258 Cal.Rptr. 138].
- Criminal Negligence. People v. Penny (1955) 44 Cal.2d 861, 879–880 [285 P.2d 926]; People v. Rodriguez (1960) 186 Cal.App.2d 433, 440 [8 Cal.Rptr. 863].
- Legal Duty. People v. Heitzman (1994) 9 Cal.4th 189, 198–199 [37 Cal.Rptr.2d 236, 886 P.2d 1229]; People v. Oliver (1989) 210 Cal.App.3d 138, 149 [258 Cal.Rptr. 138].
- Causation. People v. Roberts (1992) 2 Cal.4th 271, 315–321 [6 Cal.Rptr.2d 276, 826 P.2d 274].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 232–234.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, §§ 140.03, 140.04, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.02[2][b] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

Aggravated assault is not a lesser included offense of involuntary manslaughter. (People v. Murray (2008) 167 Cal.App.4th 1133, 1140 [84 Cal.Rptr.3d 676].)

RELATED ISSUES

Legal Duty to Aid

In People v. Oliver (1989) 210 Cal.App.3d 138, 147 [258 Cal.Rptr. 138], the court explained the requirement of a legal duty to act as follows:

> A necessary element of negligence, whether criminal or civil, is a duty owed to the person injured and a breach of that duty. . . . Generally, one has no legal duty to rescue or render aid to another in peril, even if the other is in danger of losing his or her life, absent a special relationship which gives rise to such duty . . . . In California civil cases, courts have found a special relationship giving rise to an affirmative duty to act where some act or omission on the part of the defendant either created or increased the risk of injury to the plaintiff, or created a dependency relationship inducing reliance or preventing assistance from others. . . . Where, however, the defendant took no affirmative action which contributed to, increased, or changed the risk which would otherwise have existed, and did not voluntarily assume any responsibility to protect the person or induce a false sense of security, courts have refused to find a special relationship giving rise to a duty to act.

Duty Based on Dependency/Voluntary Assumption of Responsibility

A legal duty to act exists when the defendant is a caretaker or has voluntarily assumed responsibility for the victim. (Walker v. Superior Court (1988) 47 Cal.3d 112, 134–138 [253 Cal.Rptr. 1, 763 P.2d 852] [parent to child]; People v. Montecino (1944) 66 Cal.App.2d 85, 100 [152 P.2d 5] [contracted caretaker to dependent].)

Duty Based on Conduct Creating or Increasing Risk

A legal duty to act may also exist where the defendant's behavior created or substantially increased the risk of harm to the victim, either by creating the dangerous situation or by preventing others from rendering aid. (People v. Oliver (1989) 210 Cal.App.3d 138, 147–148 [258 Cal.Rptr. 138] [defendant had duty to act where she drove victim to her home knowing he was drunk, knowingly allowed him to use her bathroom to ingest additional drugs, and watched him collapse on the floor]; Sea Horse Ranch, Inc. v. Superior Court

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(1994) 24 Cal.App.4th 446, 456 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 681] [defendant had duty to prevent horses from running onto adjacent freeway creating risk].)

583–589. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(iii) Vehicular

590. Gross Vehicular Manslaughter While Intoxicated (Pen. Code, § 191.5(a))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with gross vehicular manslaughter while intoxicated [in violation of Penal Code section 191.5(a)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant (drove under the influence of (an alcoholic beverage/ [or] a drug) [or under the combined influence of an alcoholic beverage and a drug]/drove while having a blood alcohol level of 0.08 or higher/drove under the influence of (an alcoholic beverage/ [or] a drug) [or under the combined influence of an alcoholic beverage and a drug] when under the age of 21/drove while having a blood alcohol level of 0.05 or higher when under the age of 21);
2. While driving that vehicle under the influence of (an alcoholic beverage/ [or] a drug) [or under the combined influence of an alcoholic beverage and a drug], the defendant also committed (a/an) (misdemeanor[,]/ [or] infraction[,]/ [or] otherwise lawful act that might cause death);
3. The defendant committed the (misdemeanor[,]/ [or] infraction[,]/ [or] otherwise lawful act that might cause death) with gross negligence;

AND

4. The defendant's grossly negligent conduct caused the death of another person.

[The People allege that the defendant committed the following (misdemeanor[s]/ [and] infraction[s]): _____ <insert misdemeanor[s] /infraction[s]>.

Instruction[s] _____ tell[s] you what the People must prove in order to prove that the defendant committed _____ <insert misdemeanor[s]/infraction[s]>.]

[The People [also] allege that the defendant committed the following otherwise lawful act(s) that might cause death: _____ <insert act[s] alleged>.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Instruction[s] _____ tell[s] you what the People must prove in order to prove that the defendant (drove under the influence of (an alcoholic beverage/ [or] a drug) [or under the combined influence of an alcoholic beverage and a drug]/drove while having a blood alcohol level of 0.08 or higher/drove under the influence of (an alcoholic beverage/ [or] a drug) [or under the combined influence of an alcoholic beverage and a drug] when under the age of 21).

Gross negligence* involves more than ordinary carelessness, inattention, or mistake in judgment. A person acts with gross negligence when:

1. He or she acts in a reckless way that creates a high risk of death or great bodily injury;

AND

2. A reasonable person would have known that acting in that way would create such a risk.

In other words, a person acts with gross negligence when the way he or she acts is so different from the way an ordinarily careful person would act in the same situation that his or her act amounts to disregard for human life or indifference to the consequences of that act.

The combination of driving a vehicle while under the influence of (an alcoholic beverage/ [and/or] a drug) and violating a traffic law is not enough by itself to establish gross negligence. In evaluating whether the defendant acted with gross negligence, consider the level of the defendant's intoxication, if any; the way the defendant drove; and any other relevant aspects of the defendant's conduct.

[Great bodily injury means significant or substantial physical injury. It is an injury that is greater than minor or moderate harm.]

[A person facing a sudden and unexpected emergency situation not caused by that person's own negligence is required only to use the same care and judgment that an ordinarily careful person would use in the same situation, even if it appears later that a different course of action would have been safer.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[An act causes death if the death is the direct, natural, and probable consequence of the act and the death would not have happened without the act. A natural and probable consequence is one that a reasonable person would know is likely to happen if nothing unusual intervenes. In deciding whether a consequence is natural and probable, consider all of the circumstances established by the evidence.]

[There may be more than one cause of death. An act causes death only if it is a substantial factor in causing the death. A substantial factor is more than a trivial or remote factor. However, it does not need to be the only factor that causes the death.]

[The People allege that the defendant committed the following (misdemeanor[s][,]/ [and] infraction[s][,]/ [and] otherwise lawful act[s] that might cause death): _____ <insert alleged predicate acts when multiple acts alleged>. You may not find the defendant guilty unless all of you agree that the People have proved that the defendant committed at least one of these alleged (misdemeanors[,]/ [or] infractions[,]/ [or] otherwise lawful acts that might cause death) and you all agree on which (misdemeanor[,]/ [or] infraction[,]/ [or] otherwise lawful act that might cause death) the defendant committed.]

[The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant committed gross vehicular manslaughter while intoxicated. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of that crime. You must consider whether the defendant is guilty of the lesser crime[s] of _____ <insert lesser offense[s]>.]

New January 2006; Revised June 2007

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

The court has a sua sponte duty to specify the predicate misdemeanor(s) or infraction(s) alleged and to instruct on the elements of the predicate offense(s). (People v. Milham (1984) 159 Cal.App.3d 487, 506 [205 Cal.Rptr. 688]; People v. Ellis (1999) 69 Cal.App.4th 1334, 1339 [82 Cal.Rptr.2d 409].) In element 1, instruct on the particular "under the influence" offense charged. In element 2, instruct on either theory of vehicular manslaughter (misdemeanor/infraction or lawful act committed with negligence) as appropriate. The court must also give the appropriate instruction on the elements of the driving under the influence offense and the predicate misdemeanor or infraction.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If causation is at issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on proximate cause. (People v. Bernhardt (1963) 222 Cal.App.2d 567, 590–591 [35 Cal.Rptr. 401].) If the evidence indicates that there was only one cause of death, the court should give the "direct, natural, and probable" language in the first bracketed paragraph on causation. If there is evidence of multiple causes of death, the court should also give the "substantial factor" instruction in the second bracketed paragraph on causation. (See People v. Autry (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 351, 363 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 135]; People v. Pike (1988) 197 Cal.App.3d 732, 746–747 [243 Cal.Rptr. 54].)

There is a split in authority over whether there is a sua sponte duty to give a unanimity instruction when multiple predicate offenses are alleged. (People v. Gary (1987) 189 Cal.App.3d 1212, 1218 [235 Cal.Rptr. 30] [unanimity instruction required, overruled on other grounds in People v. Flood (1998) 18 Cal.4th 470, 481 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 180 957 P.2d 869]; People v. Durkin (1988) 205 Cal.App.3d Supp. 9, 13 [252 Cal.Rptr. 735] [unanimity instruction not required but preferable]; People v. Mitchell (1986) 188 Cal.App.3d 216, 222 [232 Cal.Rptr. 438] [unanimity instruction not required]; People v. Leffel (1988) 203 Cal.App.3d 575, 586–587 [249 Cal.Rptr. 906] [unanimity instruction not required, harmless error if was required].) A unanimity instruction is included in a bracketed paragraph for the court to use at its discretion.

If there is sufficient evidence and the defendant requests it, the court should instruct on the imminent peril/sudden emergency doctrine. (People v. Boulware (1940) 41 Cal.App.2d 268, 269–270 [106 P.2d 436].) Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "A person facing a sudden and unexpected emergency."

If the defendant is charged with one or more prior conviction (see Pen. Code, § 191.5(d)), the court should also give CALCRIM No. 3100, Prior Conviction: Nonbifurcated Trial, unless the defendant has stipulated to the prior conviction or the court has granted a bifurcated trial. (See Bench Notes to CALCRIM No. 3100.)

AUTHORITY

- Gross Vehicular Manslaughter While Intoxicated. Pen. Code, § 191.5(a).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Unlawful Act Dangerous Under the Circumstances of Its Commission. People v. Wells (1996) 12 Cal.4th 979, 982 [50 Cal.Rptr.2d 699, 911 P.2d 1374].
- Specifying Predicate Unlawful Act. People v. Milham (1984) 159 Cal.App.3d 487, 506 [205 Cal.Rptr. 688].
- Elements of the Predicate Unlawful Act. People v. Ellis (1999) 69 Cal.App.4th 1334, 1339 [82 Cal.Rptr.2d 409].
- Unanimity Instruction. People v. Gary (1987) 189 Cal.App.3d 1212, 1218 [235 Cal.Rptr. 30], overruled on other grounds in People v. Flood (1998) 18 Cal.4th 470, 481 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 180, 957 P.2d 869]; People v. Durkin (1988) 205 Cal.App.3d Supp. 9, 13 [252 Cal.Rptr. 735]; People v. Mitchell (1986) 188 Cal.App.3d 216, 222 [232 Cal.Rptr. 438]; People v. Leffel (1988) 203 Cal.App.3d 575, 586–587 [249 Cal.Rptr. 906].
- Gross Negligence. People v. Penny, (1955) 44 Cal.2d 861, 879–880 [285 P.2d 926]; People v. Rodriguez (1960) 186 Cal.App.2d 433, 440 [8 Cal.Rptr. 863].
- Gross Negligence—Overall Circumstances. People v. Bennett (1992) 54 Cal.3d 1032, 1039 [2 Cal.Rptr.2d 8, 819 P.2d 849].
- Causation. People v. Rodriguez (1960) 186 Cal.App.2d 433, 440 [8 Cal.Rptr. 863].
- Imminent Peril/Sudden Emergency Doctrine. People v. Boulware (1940) 41 Cal.App.2d 268, 269 [106 P.2d 436].
- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Hovda (2009) 176 Cal.App.4th 1355, 1358 [98 Cal.Rptr.3d 499].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 238–245.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.02[2][a][i] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.04, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.02[2][c], [4], Ch. 145, Narcotics and Alcohol Offenses, §§ 145.02[4][c], 145.03[1][a] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Vehicular Manslaughter With Gross Negligence Without Intoxication. Pen. Code, § 192(c)(1); People v. Miranda (1994) 21 Cal.App.4th 1464, 1466–1467 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 610].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Vehicular Manslaughter With Ordinary Negligence While Intoxicated. Pen. Code, § 192(c)(3); People v. Verlinde (2002) 100 Cal.App.4th 1146, 1165–1166 [123 Cal.Rptr.2d 322].
- Vehicular Manslaughter With Ordinary Negligence Without Intoxication. Pen. Code, § 192(c)(2); People v. Rodgers (1949) 94 Cal.App.2d 166, 166 [210 P.2d 71].
- Injury to Someone While Driving Under the Influence of Alcohol or Drugs. Veh. Code, § 23153; People v. Miranda (1994) 21 Cal.App.4th 1464, 1466–1467 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 610].

Gross vehicular manslaughter while intoxicated is not a lesser included offense of murder. (People v. Sanchez (2001) 24 Cal.4th 983, 992 [103 Cal.Rptr.2d 698, 16 P.3d 118].)

RELATED ISSUES

DUI Cannot Serve as Predicate Unlawful Act

The Vehicle Code driving-under-the-influence offense of the first element cannot do double duty as the predicate unlawful act for the second element. (People v. Soledad (1987) 190 Cal.App.3d 74, 81 [235 Cal.Rptr. 208].) "[T]he trial court erroneously omitted the 'unlawful act' element of vehicular manslaughter when instructing in . . . [the elements] by referring to Vehicle Code section 23152 rather than another 'unlawful act' as required by the statute." (Id. at p. 82.)

Predicate Act Need Not Be Inherently Dangerous

"[T]he offense which constitutes the 'unlawful act' need not be an inherently dangerous misdemeanor or infraction. Rather, to be an 'unlawful act' within the meaning of section 192(c)(1), the offense must be dangerous under the circumstances of its commission. An unlawful act committed with gross negligence would necessarily be so." (People v. Wells (1996) 12 Cal.4th 979, 982 [50 Cal.Rptr.2d 699, 911 P.2d 1374].)

Lawful Act in an Unlawful Manner: Negligence

The statute uses the phrase "lawful act which might produce death, in an unlawful manner." (Pen. Code, § 191.5.) "[C]ommitting a lawful act in an unlawful manner simply means to commit a lawful act with negligence, that is, without reasonable caution and care." (People v. Thompson (2000) 79 Cal.App.4th 40, 53 [93 Cal.Rptr.2d 803].) Because the instruction lists the negligence requirement as element 3, the phrase "in an unlawful manner" is omitted from element 2 as repetitive.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

591. Vehicular Manslaughter While Intoxicated—Ordinary Negligence (Pen. Code, § 191.5(b))

<If vehicular manslaughter while intoxicated—ordinary negligence is a charged offense, give alternative A; if this instruction is being given as a lesser included offense, give alternative B.>

<Introductory Sentence: Alternative A—Charged Offense>

[The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with vehicular manslaughter with ordinary negligence while intoxicated [in violation of Penal Code section 191.5(b)].]

<Introductory Sentence: Alternative B—Lesser Included Offense>

[Vehicular manslaughter with ordinary negligence while intoxicated is a lesser crime than the charged crime of gross vehicular manslaughter while intoxicated.]

To prove that the defendant is guilty of vehicular manslaughter with ordinary negligence while intoxicated, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant (drove under the influence of (an alcoholic beverage/[or] a drug) [or under the combined influence of an alcoholic beverage and a drug]/drove while having a blood alcohol level of 0.08 or higher/ drove under the influence of (an alcoholic beverage/ [or] a drug) [or under the combined influence of an alcoholic beverage and a drug] when under the age of 21/drove while having a blood alcohol level of 0.05 or higher when under the age of 21/ operated a vessel under the influence of (an alcoholic beverage/ [or] a drug) [or a combined influence of an alcoholic beverage and a drug]/operated a vessel while having a blood alcohol level of 0.08 or higher);
2. While (driving that vehicle/operating that vessel) under the influence of (an alcoholic beverage/ [or] a drug) [or under the combined influence of an alcoholic beverage and a drug], the defendant also committed (a/an) (misdemeanor[,]/ [or] infraction[,] /[or] otherwise lawful act that might cause death);
3. The defendant committed the (misdemeanor[,]/ [or] infraction[,] /[or] otherwise lawful act that might cause death) with ordinary negligence;

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AND

4. The defendant's negligent conduct caused the death of another person.

[The People allege that the defendant committed the following (misdemeanor[s]/ [and] infraction[s]): _____ <insert misdemeanor[s]/ infraction[s]>.

Instruction[s] _____ tell[s] you what the People must prove in order to prove that the defendant committed _____ <insert misdemeanor[s]/infraction[s]>.]

[The People [also] allege that the defendant committed the following otherwise lawful act(s) that might cause death: _____ <insert act[s] alleged>.]

Instruction[s] _____ tell[s] you what the People must prove in order to prove that the defendant (drove under the influence of (an alcoholic beverage/ [or] a drug) [or a combined influence of an alcoholic beverage and a drug]/drove while having a blood alcohol level of 0.08 or higher/ drove under the influence of (an alcoholic beverage/ [or] a drug) [or a combined influence of an alcoholic beverage and a drug] when under the age of 21/drove while having a blood alcohol level of 0.05 or higher when under the age of 21/ operated a vessel under the influence of (an alcoholic beverage/ [or] a drug [or a combined influence of an alcoholic beverage and a drug])/operated a vessel while having a blood alcohol level of 0.08 or higher).

[The difference between this offense and the charged offense of gross vehicular manslaughter while intoxicated is the degree of negligence required. I have already defined gross negligence for you.]

Ordinary negligence*[, on the other hand,] is the failure to use reasonable care to prevent reasonably foreseeable harm to oneself or someone else. A person is negligent if he or she (does something that a reasonably careful person would not do in the same situation/ [or] fails to do something that a reasonably careful person would do in the same situation).

[A person facing a sudden and unexpected emergency situation not caused by that person's own negligence is required only to use the same care and judgment that an ordinarily careful person would use in the same situation, even if it appears later that a different course of action would have been safer.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[An act causes death if the death is the direct, natural, and probable consequence of the act and the death would not have happened without the act. A natural and probable consequence is one that a reasonable person would know is likely to happen if nothing unusual intervenes. In deciding whether a consequence is natural and probable, consider all of the circumstances established by the evidence.]

[There may be more than one cause of death. An act causes death only if it is a substantial factor in causing the death. A substantial factor is more than a trivial or remote factor. However, it does not need to be the only factor that causes the death.]

[The People allege that the defendant committed the following (misdemeanor[s][,]/ [and] infraction[s][,]/ [and] otherwise lawful act[s] that might cause death): _____ <insert alleged predicate acts when multiple acts alleged>. You may not find the defendant guilty unless all of you agree that the People have proved that the defendant committed at least one of these alleged (misdemeanors[,]/ [or] infractions[,]/ [or] otherwise lawful acts that might cause death) and you all agree on which (misdemeanor[,]/ [or] infraction[,]/ [or] otherwise lawful act that might cause death) the defendant committed.]

[The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant committed vehicular manslaughter with ordinary negligence while intoxicated. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of that crime. You must consider whether the defendant is guilty of the lesser crime[s] of _____ <insert lesser offense[s]>.]

New January 2006; Revised June 2007

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

Important note: The legislature repealed Penal Code section 192(c)(3) in the form that was previously the basis for this instruction effective January 1, 2007.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

The court has a sua sponte duty to specify the predicate misdemeanor(s) or infraction(s) alleged and to instruct on the elements of the predicate offense(s). (People v. Milham (1984) 159 Cal.App.3d 487, 506 [205 Cal.Rptr. 688]; People v. Ellis (1999) 69 Cal.App.4th 1334, 1339 [82 Cal.Rptr.2d 409].) In element 1, instruct on the particular "under the influence" offense charged. In element 2, instruct on either theory of vehicular manslaughter (misdemeanor/infraction or lawful act committed with negligence) as appropriate. The court must also give the appropriate instruction on the elements of the driving under the influence offense and the predicate misdemeanor or infraction.

If causation is at issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on proximate cause. (People v. Bernhardt (1963) 222 Cal.App.2d 567, 590–591 [35 Cal.Rptr. 401].) If the evidence indicates that there was only one cause of death, the court should give the "direct, natural, and probable" language in the first bracketed paragraph on causation. If there is evidence of multiple causes of death, the court should also give the "substantial factor" instruction in the second bracketed paragraph on causation. (See People v. Autry (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 351, 363 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 135]; People v. Pike (1988) 197 Cal.App.3d 732, 746–747 [243 Cal.Rptr. 54].)

There is a split in authority over whether there is a sua sponte duty to give a unanimity instruction when multiple predicate offenses are alleged. (People v. Gary (1987) 189 Cal.App.3d 1212, 1218 [235 Cal.Rptr. 30] [unanimity instruction required, overruled on other grounds in People v. Flood (1998) 18 Cal.4th 470, 481 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 180, 957 P.2d 869]]; People v. Durkin (1988) 205 Cal.App.3d Supp. 9, 13 [252 Cal.Rptr. 735] [unanimity instruction not required but preferable]; People v. Mitchell (1986) 188 Cal.App.3d 216, 222 [232 Cal.Rptr. 438] [unanimity instruction not required]; People v. Leffel (1988) 203 Cal.App.3d 575, 586–587 [249 Cal.Rptr. 906] [unanimity instruction not required, harmless error if was required].) A unanimity instruction is included in a bracketed paragraph for the court to use at its discretion.

If there is sufficient evidence and the defendant requests it, the court should instruct on the imminent peril/sudden emergency doctrine. (People v. Boulware (1940) 41 Cal.App.2d 268, 269–270 [106 P.2d 436].) Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "A person facing a sudden and unexpected emergency."

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Vehicular Manslaughter While Intoxicated. Pen. Code, § 191.5(b).
- Vehicular Manslaughter During Operation of a Vessel While Intoxicated. Pen. Code, § 192.5(c).
- Unlawful Act Dangerous Under the Circumstances of Its Commission. People v. Wells (1996) 12 Cal.4th 979, 982 [50 Cal.Rptr.2d 699, 911 P.2d 1374].
- Specifying Predicate Unlawful Act. People v. Milham (1984) 159 Cal.App.3d 487, 506 [205 Cal.Rptr. 688].
- Elements of the Predicate Unlawful Act. People v. Ellis (1999) 69 Cal.App.4th 1334, 1339 [82 Cal.Rptr.2d 409].
- Unanimity Instruction. People v. Gary (1987) 189 Cal.App.3d 1212, 1218 [235 Cal.Rptr. 30], overruled on other grounds in People v. Flood (1998) 18 Cal.4th 470, 481 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 180, 957 P.2d 869]; People v. Durkin (1988) 205 Cal.App.3d Supp. 9, 13 [252 Cal.Rptr. 735]; People v. Mitchell (1986) 188 Cal.App.3d 216, 222 [232 Cal.Rptr. 438]; People v. Leffel (1988) 203 Cal.App.3d 575, 586–587 [249 Cal.Rptr. 906].
- Ordinary Negligence. Pen. Code, § 7, subd. 2; Rest.2d Torts, § 282.
- Causation. People v. Rodriguez (1960) 186 Cal.App.2d 433, 440 [8 Cal. Rptr. 863].
- Imminent Peril/Sudden Emergency Doctrine. People v. Boulware (1940) 41 Cal.App.2d 268, 269 [106 P.2d 436].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 238–245.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.02[2][a][i] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.04, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.02[1][a], [2][c], [4], Ch. 145, Narcotics and Alcohol Offenses, § 145.02[4][c] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Vehicular Manslaughter With Ordinary Negligence Without Intoxication. Pen. Code, § 192(c)(2); see People v. Miranda (1994) 21 Cal.App.4th 1464, 1466–1467 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 610].
- Injury to Someone While Driving Under the Influence of Alcohol or

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Drugs. Veh. Code, § 23153; People v. Miranda (1994) 21 Cal.App.4th 1464, 1466–1467 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 610].

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section to CALCRIM No. 590, Gross Vehicular Manslaughter While Intoxicated.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

592. Gross Vehicular Manslaughter (Pen. Code, § 192(c)(1))

<If gross vehicular manslaughter is a charged offense, give alternative A; if this instruction is being given as a lesser included offense, give alternative B.>

<Introductory Sentence: Alternative A—Charged Offense>

[The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with gross vehicular manslaughter [in violation of Penal Code section 192(c)(1)].]

<Introductory Sentence: Alternative B—Lesser Included Offense>

[Gross vehicular manslaughter is a lesser crime than gross vehicular manslaughter while intoxicated.]

To prove that the defendant is guilty of gross vehicular manslaughter, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant (drove a vehicle/operated a vessel);
2. While (driving that vehicle/operating that vessel), the defendant committed (a/an) (misdemeanor[,]/ [or] infraction[,]/ [or] otherwise lawful act that might cause death);
3. The defendant committed the (misdemeanor[,]/ [or] infraction[,]/ [or] otherwise lawful act that might cause death) with gross negligence;

AND

4. The defendant's grossly negligent conduct caused the death of another person.

[The People allege that the defendant committed the following (misdemeanor[s]/ [and] infraction[s]): _____ *<insert misdemeanor[s]/ infraction[s]>.

Instruction[s] _____ tell[s] you what the People must prove in order to prove that the defendant committed _____ *<insert misdemeanor[s]/infraction[s]>.]

[The People [also] allege that the defendant committed the following otherwise lawful act(s) that might cause death: _____ *<insert act[s] alleged>.]

Gross negligence involves more than ordinary carelessness,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

inattention, or mistake in judgment. A person acts with gross negligence when:

1. He or she acts in a reckless way that creates a high risk of death or great bodily injury;

AND

2. A reasonable person would have known that acting in that way would create such a risk.

In other words, a person acts with gross negligence when the way he or she acts is so different from how an ordinarily careful person would act in the same situation that his or her act amounts to disregard for human life or indifference to the consequences of that act.

[Great bodily injury means significant or substantial physical injury. It is an injury that is greater than minor or moderate harm.]

[A person facing a sudden and unexpected emergency situation not caused by that person's own negligence is required only to use the same care and judgment that an ordinarily careful person would use in the same situation, even if it appears later that a different course of action would have been safer.]

[An act causes death if the death is the direct, natural, and probable consequence of the act and the death would not have happened without the act. A natural and probable consequence is one that a reasonable person would know is likely to happen if nothing unusual intervenes. In deciding whether a consequence is natural and probable, consider all of the circumstances established by the evidence.]

[There may be more than one cause of death. An act causes death only if it is a substantial factor in causing the death. A substantial factor is more than a trivial or remote factor. However, it does not need to be the only factor that causes the death.]

[The People allege that the defendant committed the following (misdemeanor[s][,]/ [and] infraction[s][,]/ [and] otherwise lawful act[s] that might cause death): _____ <insert alleged predicate acts when multiple acts alleged>. You may not find the defendant guilty unless all of you agree that the People have proved that the defendant committed at least one of these alleged

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(misdemeanors[,]/ [or] infractions[,]/ [or] otherwise lawful acts that might cause death) and you all agree on which (misdemeanor[,]/ [or] infraction[,]/ [or] otherwise lawful act that might cause death) the defendant committed.]

[The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant committed gross vehicular manslaughter. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of that crime. You must consider whether the defendant is guilty of the lesser crime[s] of _____ <insert lesser offense[s]>.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

The court has a sua sponte duty to specify the predicate misdemeanor(s) or infraction(s) alleged and to instruct on the elements of the predicate offense(s). (People v. Milham (1984) 159 Cal.App.3d 487, 506 [205 Cal.Rptr. 688]; People v. Ellis (1999) 69 Cal.App.4th 1334, 1339 [82 Cal.Rptr.2d 409].) In element 2, instruct on either theory of vehicular manslaughter (misdemeanor/infraction or lawful act committed with negligence) as appropriate. The court must also give the appropriate instruction on the elements of the the predicate misdemeanor or infraction.

If causation is at issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on proximate cause. (People v. Bernhardt (1963) 222 Cal.App.2d 567, 590–591 [35 Cal.Rptr. 401].) If the evidence indicates that there was only one cause of death, the court should give the "direct, natural, and probable" language in the first bracketed paragraph on causation. If there is evidence of multiple causes of death, the court should also give the "substantial factor" instruction in the second bracketed paragraph on causation. (See People v. Autry (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 351, 363 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 135]; People v. Pike (1988) 197 Cal.App.3d 732, 746–747 [243 Cal.Rptr. 54].)

There is a split in authority over whether there is a sua sponte duty to give a unanimity instruction when multiple predicate offenses are alleged. (People v. Gary (1987) 189 Cal.App.3d 1212, 1218 [235 Cal.Rptr. 30] [unanimity instruction required, overruled on other grounds in People v. Flood (1998) 18 Cal.4th 470, 481 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 180, 957 P.2d 869]; People v. Durkin

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(1988) 205 Cal.App.3d Supp. 9, 13 [252 Cal.Rptr. 735] [unanimity instruction not required but preferable]; People v. Mitchell (1986) 188 Cal.App.3d 216, 222 [232 Cal.Rptr. 438] [unanimity instruction not required]; People v. Leffel (1988) 203 Cal.App.3d 575, 586–587 [249 Cal.Rptr. 906] [unanimity instruction not required, harmless error if was required].) A unanimity instruction is included in a bracketed paragraph for the court to use at its discretion.

If there is sufficient evidence and the defendant requests it, the court should instruct on the imminent peril/sudden emergency doctrine. (People v. Boulware (1940) 41 Cal.App.2d 268, 269–270 [106 P.2d 436].) Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "A person facing a sudden and unexpected emergency."

AUTHORITY

- Gross Vehicular Manslaughter. Pen. Code, § 192(c)(1).
- Gross Vehicular Manslaughter During Operation of a Vessel. Pen. Code, § 192.5(a).
- Unlawful Act Dangerous Under the Circumstances of Its Commission. People v. Wells (1996) 12 Cal.4th 979, 982 [50 Cal.Rptr.2d 699, 911 P.2d 1374].
- Specifying Predicate Unlawful Act. People v. Milham (1984) 159 Cal.App.3d 487, 506 [205 Cal.Rptr. 688].
- Elements of Predicate Unlawful Act. People v. Ellis (1999) 69 Cal.App.4th 1334, 1339 [82 Cal.Rptr.2d 409].
- Unanimity Instruction. People v. Gary (1987) 189 Cal.App.3d 1212, 1218 [235 Cal.Rptr. 30], overruled on other grounds in People v. Flood (1998) 18 Cal.4th 470, 481 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 180, 957 P.2d 869]; People v. Durkin (1988) 205 Cal.App.3d Supp. 9, 13 [252 Cal.Rptr. 735]; People v. Mitchell (1986) 188 Cal.App.3d 216, 222 [232 Cal.Rptr. 438]; People v. Leffel (1988) 203 Cal.App.3d 575, 586–587 [249 Cal.Rptr. 906].
- Gross Negligence. People v. Bennett (1992) 54 Cal.3d 1032, 1036 [2 Cal.Rptr.2d 8, 819 P.2d 849].
- Causation. People v. Rodriguez (1960) 186 Cal.App.2d 433, 440 [8 Cal. Rptr. 863].
- Imminent Peril/Sudden Emergency Doctrine. People v. Boulware (1940) 41 Cal.App.2d 268, 269 [106 P.2d 436].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 238–245.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.02[2][a][i] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.04, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.02[1][a], [2][c], [4] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Vehicular Manslaughter With Ordinary Negligence. Pen. Code, § 192(c)(2); see People v. Verlinde (2002) 100 Cal.App.4th 1146, 1165–1166 [123 Cal.Rptr.2d 322].
- Manslaughter During Operation of a Vessel Without Gross Negligence. Pen. Code, § 192.5(b).

RELATED ISSUES

Predicate Act Need Not Be Inherently Dangerous

"[T]he offense which constitutes the 'unlawful act' need not be an inherently dangerous misdemeanor or infraction. Rather, to be an 'unlawful act' within the meaning of section 192(c)(1), the offense must be dangerous under the circumstances of its commission. An unlawful act committed with gross negligence would necessarily be so." (People v. Wells (1996) 12 Cal.4th 979, 982 [50 Cal.Rtpr.2d 699, 911 P.2d 1374].)

Lawful Act in an Unlawful Manner: Negligence

The statute uses the phrase "lawful act which might produce death, in an unlawful manner." (Pen. Code, § 192(c)(1).) "[C]omitting a lawful act in an unlawful manner simply means to commit a lawful act with negligence, that is, without reasonable caution and care." (People v. Thompson (2000) 79 Cal.App.4th 40, 53 [93 Cal.Rptr.2d 803].) Because the instruction lists the negligence requirement as element 3, the phrase "in an unlawful manner" is omitted from element 2 as repetitive.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

593. Misdemeanor Vehicular Manslaughter (Pen. Code, § 192(c)(2))

<If misdemeanor vehicular manslaughter—ordinary negligence is a charged offense, give alternative A; if this instruction is being given as a lesser included offense, give alternative B.>

<Introductory Sentence: Alternative A—Charged Offense>

[The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with vehicular manslaughter [in violation of Penal Code section 192(c)(2)].]

<Introductory Sentence: Alternative B—Lesser Included Offense>

[Vehicular manslaughter with ordinary negligence is a lesser crime than (gross vehicular manslaughter while intoxicated/ [and] gross vehicular manslaughter/ [and] vehicular manslaughter with ordinary negligence while intoxicated.)]

To prove that the defendant is guilty of vehicular manslaughter with ordinary negligence, the People must prove that:

<If the court concludes that negligence must be established only for a "lawful act, committed in an unlawful manner," and not for a misdemeanor or infraction (see Bench Notes), give the following:>

1. While (driving a vehicle/operating a vessel), the defendant committed (a misdemeanor[,]/ [or] an infraction [or] a lawful act with ordinary negligence);
2. The (misdemeanor[,]/ [or] infraction[,]/ [or] negligent act) was dangerous to human life under the circumstances of its commission;

AND

3. The (misdemeanor[,]/ [or] infraction[,]/ [or] negligent act) caused the death of another person.

<If the court concludes that negligence must be established for a misdemeanor or infraction, as well as for a "lawful act, committed in an unlawful manner," give the following:>

1. While (driving a vehicle/operating a vessel), the defendant committed (a misdemeanor[,]/ [or] an infraction/ [or] a lawful act in an unlawful manner);

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

2. The (misdemeanor[,]/ [or] infraction/ [or] otherwise lawful act) was dangerous to human life under the circumstances of its commission;

3. The defendant committed the (misdemeanor[,]/ [or] infraction/ [or] otherwise lawful act) with ordinary negligence.

AND

4. The (misdemeanor[,]/ [or] infraction/ [or] otherwise lawful act) caused the death of another person.

[The People allege that the defendant committed the following (misdemeanor[s]/ [and] infraction[s]): _____ <insert misdemeanor[s]/ infraction[s]>.

Instruction[s] _____ tell[s] you what the People must prove in order to prove that the defendant committed _____ <insert misdemeanor[s]/infraction[s]>.]

[The People [also] allege that the defendant committed the following otherwise lawful act[s] with ordinary negligence: _____ <insert act[s] alleged>.]

[The difference between this offense and the charged offense of gross vehicular manslaughter is the degree of negligence required. I have already defined gross negligence for you.]

Ordinary negligence*[, on the other hand,] is the failure to use reasonable care to prevent reasonably foreseeable harm to oneself or someone else. A person is negligent if he or she (does something that a reasonably careful person would not do in the same situation/ [or] fails to do something that a reasonably careful person would do in the same situation).

[A person facing a sudden and unexpected emergency situation not caused by that person's own negligence is required only to use the same care and judgment that an ordinarily careful person would use in the same situation, even if it appears later that a different course of action would have been safer.]

[An act causes death if the death is the direct, natural, and probable consequence of the act and the death would not have happened without the act. A natural and probable consequence is one that a reasonable person would know is likely to happen if nothing unusual intervenes. In deciding whether a consequence is natural and probable, consider all of the circumstances established by the evidence.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[There may be more than one cause of death. An act causes death only if it is a substantial factor in causing the death. A substantial factor is more than a trivial or remote factor. However, it does not need to be the only factor that causes the death.]

[The People allege that the defendant committed the following (misdemeanor[s][,]/ [and] infraction[s][,]/ [and] lawful act[s] that might cause death): _____ <insert alleged predicate acts when multiple acts alleged>. You may not find the defendant guilty unless all of you agree that the People have proved that the defendant committed at least one of these alleged (misdemeanors[,]/ [or] infractions[,]/ [or] otherwise lawful acts that might cause death) and you all agree on which (misdemeanor[,]/ [or] infraction[,]/ [or] otherwise lawful act that might cause death) the defendant committed.]

New January 2006; Revised December 2008, October 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

The court has a sua sponte duty to specify the predicate misdemeanor(s) or infraction(s) alleged and to instruct on the elements of the predicate offense(s). (People v. Milham (1984) 159 Cal.App.3d 487, 506 [205 Cal.Rptr. 688]; People v. Ellis (1999) 69 Cal.App.4th 1334, 1339 [82 Cal.Rptr.2d 409].) In element 2, instruct on either theory of vehicular manslaughter (misdemeanor/infraction or lawful act committed with negligence) as appropriate. The court must also give the appropriate instruction on the elements of the predicate misdemeanor or infraction.

If causation is at issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on proximate cause. (People v. Bernhardt (1963) 222 Cal.App.2d 567, 590–591 [35 Cal.Rptr. 401].) If the evidence indicates that there was only one cause of death, the court should give the "direct, natural, and probable" language in the first bracketed paragraph on causation. If there is evidence of multiple causes of death, the court should also give the "substantial factor" instruction in the second bracketed paragraph on causation. (See People v. Autry (1995)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

37 Cal.App.4th 351, 363 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 135]; People v. Pike (1988) 197 Cal.App.3d 732, 746–747 [243 Cal.Rptr. 54].)

There is a split in authority over whether there is a sua sponte duty to give a unanimity instruction when multiple predicate offenses are alleged. (People v. Gary (1987) 189 Cal.App.3d 1212, 1218 [235 Cal.Rptr. 30] [unanimity instruction required, overruled on other grounds in People v. Flood (1998) 18 Cal.4th 470, 481 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 180, 957 P.2d 869]]; People v. Durkin (1988) 205 Cal.App.3d Supp. 9, 13 [252 Cal.Rptr. 735] [unanimity instruction not required but preferable]; People v. Mitchell (1986) 188 Cal.App.3d 216, 222 [232 Cal.Rptr. 438] [unanimity instruction not required]; People v. Leffel (1988) 203 Cal.App.3d 575, 586–587 [249 Cal.Rptr. 906] [unanimity instruction not required, harmless error if was required].) A unanimity instruction is included in a bracketed paragraph for the court to use at its discretion. In the definition of ordinary negligence, the court should use the entire phrase "harm to oneself or someone else" if the facts of the case show a failure by the defendant to prevent harm to him- or herself rather than solely harm to another.

Authority is ambiguous about whether the requirement of negligence applies only to the commission of an otherwise lawful act or also to an infraction or misdemeanor. (See People v. Wells (1996) 12 Cal.4th 979, 987 [50 Cal.Rptr.2d 699, 911 P.2d 1374]; People v. Burroughs (1984) 35 Cal.3d 824, 835 [201 Cal.Rptr. 319, 678 P.2d 894], overruled on other grounds in People v. Blakeley (2000) 23 Cal.4th 82, 89 [96 Cal.Rptr. 2d 451, 999 P.2d 675]; In re Dennis B. (1976) 18 Cal.3d 687, 696 [135 Cal.Rptr. 82, 557 P.2d 514]; People v. Mitchell (1946) 27 Cal.2d 678, 683–684 [166 P.2d 10]; People v. Pearne (1897) 118 Cal. 154 [50 P. 376]; People v. Thompson (2000) 79 Cal.App.4th 40, 53 [93 Cal.Rptr. 2d 803].) This instruction provides language for either alternative. The court must decide which one is legally correct.

If there is sufficient evidence and the defendant requests it, the court should instruct on the imminent peril/sudden emergency doctrine. (People v. Boulware (1940) 41 Cal.App.2d 268, 269–270 [106 P.2d 436].) Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "A person facing a sudden and unexpected emergency."

AUTHORITY

- Vehicular Manslaughter Without Gross Negligence. Pen. Code, § 192(c)(2).
- Vehicular Manslaughter During Operation of a Vessel Without Gross Negligence. Pen. Code, § 192.5(b).
- Unlawful Act Dangerous Under the Circumstances of Its Commission.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

People v. Wells (1996) 12 Cal.4th 979, 982 [50 Cal.Rptr.2d 699, 911 P.2d 1374].

- Specifying Predicate Unlawful Act. People v. Milham (1984) 159 Cal.App.3d 487, 506 [205 Cal.Rptr. 688].
- Elements of Predicate Unlawful Act. People v. Ellis (1999) 69 Cal.App.4th 1334, 1339 [82 Cal.Rptr.2d 409].
- Unanimity Instruction. People v. Gary (1987) 189 Cal.App.3d 1212, 1218 [235 Cal.Rptr. 30], overruled on other grounds in People v. Flood (1998) 18 Cal.4th 470, 481 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 180, 957 P.2d 869]; People v. Durkin (1988) 205 Cal.App.3d Supp. 9, 13 [252 Cal.Rptr. 735]; People v. Mitchell (1986) 188 Cal.App.3d 216, 222 [232 Cal.Rptr. 438]; People v. Leffel (1988) 203 Cal.App.3d 575, 586–587 [249 Cal.Rptr. 906].
- Ordinary Negligence. Pen. Code, § 7, subd. 2; Rest.2d Torts, § 282.
- Causation. People v. Rodriguez (1960) 186 Cal.App.2d 433, 440 [8 Cal.Rptr. 863].
- Imminent Peril/Sudden Emergency Doctrine. People v. Boulware (1940) 41 Cal.App.2d 268, 269 [106 P.2d 436].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 238–245.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.02[2][a][i] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.04, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.02[1][a], [2][c], [4] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section to CALCRIM No. 592, Gross Vehicular Manslaughter.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

594. Vehicular Manslaughter: Collision for Financial Gain (Pen. Code, § 192(c)(4))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with vehicular manslaughter by causing a collision for financial gain [in violation of Penal Code section 192(c)(4)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. While driving a vehicle, the defendant knowingly caused or participated in a vehicular collision;
2. When the defendant acted, (he/she) knew that the purpose of the vehicular collision was to make a false or fraudulent insurance claim for financial gain;
3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) did so with intent to defraud;

AND

4. The collision caused the death of another person.

A person intends to defraud if he or she intends to deceive another person in order to cause a loss of, or damage to, a legal, financial, or property right.

[For the purpose of this instruction, a person includes (a governmental agency/a corporation/a business/an association/the body politic).]

[An act causes death if the death is the direct, natural, and probable consequence of the act and the death would not have happened without the act. A natural and probable consequence is one that a reasonable person would know is likely to happen if nothing unusual intervenes. In deciding whether a consequence is natural and probable, consider all of the circumstances established by the evidence.]

[There may be more than one cause of death. An act causes death only if it is a substantial factor in causing the death. A substantial factor* is more than a trivial or remote factor. However, it does not need to be the only factor that causes the death.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If causation is at issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on proximate cause. (People v. Bernhardt (1963) 222 Cal.App.2d 567, 590–591 [35 Cal.Rptr. 401].) If the evidence indicates that there was only one cause of death, the court should give the "direct, natural, and probable" language in the first bracketed paragraph on causation. If there is evidence of multiple causes of death, the court should also give the "substantial factor" instruction in the second bracketed paragraph on causation. (See People v. Autry (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 351, 363 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 135]; People v. Pike (1988) 197 Cal.App.3d 732, 746–747 [243 Cal.Rptr. 54].)

Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "For the purpose of this instruction" if the evidence shows an intent to defraud an entity or association rather than a natural person. (Pen. Code, § 8.)

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 2002, Insurance Fraud: Vehicle Accident.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 192(c)(4).
- Causation. People v. Rodriguez (1960) 186 Cal.App.2d 433, 440 [8 Cal.Rptr. 863].
- Intent to Defraud—Defined. People v. Pugh (2002) 104 Cal.App.4th 66, 72 [127 Cal.Rptr.2d 770]; People v. Gaul-Alexander (1995) 32 Cal.App.4th 735, 745 [38 Cal.Rptr.2d 176].
- Intent to Defraud Entity. Pen. Code, § 8.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 236.

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against Property, § 185.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.04, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.02[2][c], [4] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Does Not Preclude Murder Charge

Section 192(c)(4) of the Penal Code states that: "This provision shall not be construed to prevent prosecution of a defendant for the crime of murder."

Probable and Natural Consequences of a Conspiracy

A nondriver coconspirator may be liable for a death that results from a conspiracy to commit a vehicular collision for insurance fraud under the natural and probable consequences doctrine. (People v. Superior Court (Shamis) (1998) 58 Cal.App.4th 833, 842–843 [68 Cal.Rptr.2d 388].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

595. Vehicular Manslaughter: Speeding Laws Defined

<A. Violation of Maximum Speed Law, Veh. Code, § 22349>

[To prove that the defendant committed a violation of the maximum speed law, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant drove a vehicle on a highway;

AND

2. The defendant drove faster than (65/55/ _____ <insert other posted speed limit>) mph.

[The term highway describes any area publicly maintained and open to the public for purposes of vehicular travel and includes a street.]]

<B. Violation of Basic Speed Law, Veh. Code, § 22350>

[To prove that the defendant committed a violation of the basic speed law, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant drove a vehicle on a highway;

AND

2. The defendant drove (faster than a reasonable person would have driven considering the weather, visibility, traffic, and conditions of the highway/ [or] at a speed that endangered the safety of other people or property).

The speed of travel, alone, does not establish whether a person did or did not violate the basic speed law. When determining whether the defendant violated the basic speed law, consider not only the speed, but also all the surrounding conditions known by the defendant and also what a reasonable person would have considered a safe rate of travel given those conditions.

[The term highway describes any area publicly maintained and open to the public for purposes of vehicular travel and includes a street.]]

<C. Violation of Prima Facie Speed Law, Veh. Code, §§ 22351, 22352>

[To prove that the defendant committed a violation of the prima

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

facie speed law, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant drove a vehicle on a highway;
2. The defendant drove faster than (15/25) mph;

[AND]

3. The defendant drove _____ <insert appropriate description from Veh. Code, § 22352 of area where alleged violation occurred>(;/.)

[AND

4. The defendant's rate of speed was faster than a reasonable person would have driven considering the weather, visibility, traffic, and conditions of the highway.]

[The term highway describes any area publicly maintained and open to the public for purposes of vehicular travel and includes a street.]

[When determining whether the defendant drove faster than a reasonable person would have driven, consider not only the speed, but also all the surrounding conditions known by the defendant and also what a reasonable person would have considered a safe rate of travel given those conditions.

The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant's rate of travel was not reasonable given the overall conditions, even if the rate of travel was faster than the prima facie speed law. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant did not violate the prima facie speed law.]]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

In a vehicular manslaughter case, the court has a sua sponte duty instruct on the elements of the predicate misdemeanors or infractions alleged. (People v. Ellis (1999) 69 Cal.App.4th 1334, 1339 [82 Cal.Rptr.2d 409].) This instruction covers some of the more common infractions alleged. The court must give all appropriate instructions defining the element of vehicular manslaughter with this instruction.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

When instructing on the prima facie speed law, insert the appropriate description of where the defendant was driving when the alleged violation occurred. If the defendant presents evidence that the rate of travel was not in violation of the basic speed law even though in violation of the prima facie speed law, give bracketed element 4 and the two bracketed paragraphs that begin, "When determining whether the defendant drove faster than a reasonable person". (Veh. Code, §§ 22351, 22352.)

The court should define the term highway; however, it need only be defined once. If the court instructs on multiple Vehicle Code sections, give the bracketed definition of highway at the end of the last Vehicle Code section instructed on.

AUTHORITY

- Maximum Speed Law. Veh. Code, § 22349.
- Basic Speed Law. Veh. Code, § 22350.
- Prima Facie Speed Law. Veh. Code, §§ 22351, 22352.
- Highway Defined. Veh. Code, § 360.
- Duty to Instruct on Elements of Predicate Offense. People v. Ellis (1999) 69 Cal.App.4th 1334, 1339 [82 Cal.Rptr.2d 409].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Public Peace and Welfare, § 253.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.02[2][c], [3][b], Ch. 145, Narcotics and Alcohol Offenses, § 145.02[1][d] (Matthew Bender).

596–599. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

G. ATTEMPT

600. Attempted Murder (Pen. Code, §§ 21a, 663, 664)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with attempted murder.

To prove that the defendant is guilty of attempted murder, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant took at least one direct but ineffective step toward killing (another person/ [or] a fetus);

AND

2. The defendant intended to kill that (person/ [or] fetus).

A direct step requires more than merely planning or preparing to commit murder or obtaining or arranging for something needed to commit murder. A direct step is one that goes beyond planning or preparation and shows that a person is putting his or her plan into action. A direct step indicates a definite and unambiguous intent to kill. It is a direct movement toward the commission of the crime after preparations are made. It is an immediate step that puts the plan in motion so that the plan would have been completed if some circumstance outside the plan had not interrupted the attempt.

[A person who attempts to commit murder is guilty of attempted murder even if, after taking a direct step toward killing, he or she abandons further efforts to complete the crime, or his or her attempt fails or is interrupted by someone or something beyond his or her control. On the other hand, if a person freely and voluntarily abandons his or her plans before taking a direct step toward committing the murder, then that person is not guilty of attempted murder.]

[A person may intend to kill a specific victim or victims and at the same time intend to kill everyone in a particular zone of harm or "kill zone." In order to convict the defendant of the attempted murder of _____ <insert name or description of victim charged in attempted murder count[s] on concurrent-intent theory>, the People must prove that the defendant not only intended to kill _____ <insert name of primary target alleged> but also either intended to kill _____ <insert name or description of victim charged in attempted murder count[s] on concurrent-intent theory>, or intended to kill everyone within the kill zone. If you have a reasonable doubt whether the defendant intended to kill _____ <insert name or description of victim charged in attempted murder count[s] on concurrent-intent theory> or intended to kill _____ <insert name or description of primary target alleged> by killing everyone in the kill zone, then you must find the defendant not guilty of the attempted murder of _____ <insert name or description of victim charged in attempted murder count[s] on concurrent-intent theory>.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[The defendant may be guilty of attempted murder even if you conclude that murder was actually completed.]

[A fetus is an unborn human being that has progressed beyond the embryonic stage after major structures have been outlined, which occurs at seven to eight weeks of development.]

New January 2006; Revised December 2008, August 2009

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the crime of attempted murder when charged, or if not charged, when the evidence raises a question whether all the elements of the charged offense are present. (See People v. Breverman (1998) 19 Cal.4th 142, 154 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 870, 960 P.2d 1094] [discussing duty to instruct on lesser included offenses in homicide generally].)

The second bracketed paragraph is provided for cases in which the prosecution theory is that the defendant created a "kill zone," harboring the specific and concurrent intent to kill others in the zone. (People v. Bland (2002) 28 Cal.4th 313, 331 [121 Cal.Rptr.2d 546, 48 P.3d 1107].) "The conclusion that transferred intent does not apply to attempted murder still permits a person who shoots at a group of people to be punished for the actions towards everyone in the group even if that person primarily targeted only one of them." (Id. at p. 329.)

The Bland court stated that a special instruction on this issue was not required. (Id. at p. 331, fn. 6.) The bracketed language is provided for the court to use at its discretion.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Give the next-to-last bracketed paragraph when the defendant has been charged only with attempt to commit murder, but the evidence at trial reveals that the murder was actually completed. (See Pen. Code, § 663.)

Related Instructions

CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477, Defense Instructions.

CALCRIM No. 601, Attempted Murder: Deliberation and Premeditation.

CALCRIM No. 602, Attempted Murder: Peace Officer, Firefighter, Custodial Officer, or Custody Assistant.

CALCRIM No. 603, Attempted Voluntary Manslaughter: Heat of Passion—Lesser Included Offense.

CALCRIM No. 604, Attempted Voluntary Manslaughter: Imperfect Self-Defense—Lesser Included Offense.

AUTHORITY

- Attempt Defined. Pen. Code, §§ 21a, 663, 664.
- Murder Defined. Pen. Code, § 187.
- Specific Intent to Kill Required. People v. Guerra (1985) 40 Cal.3d 377, 386 [220 Cal.Rptr. 374, 708 P.2d 1252].
- Fetus Defined. People v. Davis (1994) 7 Cal.4th 797, 814–815 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 50, 872 P.2d 591]; People v. Taylor (2004) 32 Cal.4th 863, 867 [11 Cal.Rptr.3d 510, 86 P.3d 881].
- Kill Zone Explained. People v. Stone (2009) 46 Cal.4th 131, 137–138 [92 Cal.Rptr.3d 362, 205 P.3d 272].
- Killer Need Not Be Aware of Other Victims in Kill Zone. People v. Adams (2008) 169 Cal.App.4th 1009, 1023 [86 Cal.Rptr.3d 915].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Elements, §§ 53–67.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.02[3]; Ch. 141, Conspiracy, Solicitation, and Attempt, § 141.20; Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[3][e] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

Attempted voluntary manslaughter is a lesser included offense. (People v. Van Ronk (1985) 171 Cal.App.3d 818, 824–825 [217 Cal.Rptr. 581]; People v. Williams (1980) 102 Cal.App.3d 1018, 1024–1026 [162 Cal.Rptr. 748].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

RELATED ISSUES

Specific Intent Required

"[T]he crime of attempted murder requires a specific intent to kill . . . ." (People v. Guerra (1985) 40 Cal.3d 377, 386 [220 Cal.Rptr. 374, 708 P.2d 1252].)

> In instructing upon the crime of attempt to commit murder, there should never be any reference whatsoever to implied malice. Nothing less than a specific intent to kill must be found before a defendant can be convicted of attempt to commit murder, and the instructions in this respect should be lean and unequivocal in explaining to the jury that only a specific intent to kill will do.

(People v. Santascoy (1984) 153 Cal.App.3d 909, 918 [200 Cal.Rptr. 709].)

Solicitation

Attempted solicitation of murder is a crime. (People v. Saephanh (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 451, 460 [94 Cal.Rptr.2d 910].)

Single Bullet, Two Victims

A shooter who fires a single bullet at two victims who are both in his line of fire can be found to have acted with express malice toward both victims. (People v. Smith (2005) 37 Cal.4th 733, 744 [37 Cal.Rptr.3d 163, 124 P.3d 730].)

No Attempted Involuntary Manslaughter

"[T]here is no such crime as attempted involuntary manslaughter." (People v. Johnson (1996) 51 Cal.App.4th 1329, 1332 [59 Cal.Rptr.2d 798].)

Transferred and Concurrent Intent

"[T]he doctrine of transferred intent does not apply to attempted murder." (People v. Bland (2002) 28 Cal.4th 313, 331 [121 Cal.Rptr.2d 546, 48 P.3d 1107].) "[T]he defendant may be convicted of the attempted murders of any[one] within the kill zone, although on a concurrent, not transferred, intent theory." (Id.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

601. Attempted Murder: Deliberation and Premeditation (Pen. Code, §§ 21a, 189, 664(a))

If you find the defendant guilty of attempted murder [under Count _____], you must then decide whether the People have proved the additional allegation that the attempted murder was done willfully, and with deliberation and premeditation.

(The defendant/ _____ <*insert name or description of principal if not defendant>) acted willfully if (he/she) intended to kill when (he/she) acted. (The defendant/ _____ <insert name or description of principal if not defendant>) deliberated if (he/she) carefully weighed the considerations for and against (his/her) choice and, knowing the consequences, decided to kill. (The defendant/ _____ <insert name or description of principal if not defendant>) premeditated if (he/she) decided to kill before acting.

[The attempted murder was done willfully and with deliberation and premeditation if either the defendant or _____ <*insert name or description of principal> or both of them acted with that state of mind.]

The length of time the person spends considering whether to kill does not alone determine whether the attempted killing is deliberate and premeditated. The amount of time required for deliberation and premeditation may vary from person to person and according to the circumstances. A decision to kill made rashly, impulsively, or without careful consideration of the choice and its consequences is not deliberate and premeditated. On the other hand, a cold, calculated decision to kill can be reached quickly. The test is the extent of the reflection, not the length of time.

The People have the burden of proving this allegation beyond a reasonable doubt. If the People have not met this burden, you must find this allegation has not been proved.

New January 2006

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the sentencing enhancement. (Apprendi v. New Jersey (2000) 530 U.S. 466, 475–476, 490 [120 S.Ct. 2348, 147 L.Ed.2d 435]; Pen. Code, § 664(a).) Give this instruction when an enhancement for deliberation and premeditation is charged.

This instruction must be given with CALCRIM No. 600, Attempted Murder.

AUTHORITY

- Willful, Deliberate, and Premeditated Murder. Pen. Code, § 189.
- Willful, Deliberate, and Premeditated Attempted Murder. Pen. Code, § 664(a).
- Premeditation and Deliberation Defined. People v. Anderson (1968) 70 Cal.2d 15, 26–27 [73 Cal.Rptr. 550, 447 P.2d 942]; People v. Bender (1945) 27 Cal.2d 164, 183–184 [163 P.2d 8]; People v. Daugherty (1953) 40 Cal.2d 876, 901–902 [256 P.2d 911].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Elements, §§ 53–67.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.02[3]; Ch. 141, Conspiracy, Solicitation, and Attempt, §§ 141.20[2], 141.21; Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[1][e], [g], [3][e] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Accomplice Liability

An aider and abettor is subject to this penalty provision where the principal attempted a willful, deliberate, and premeditated murder even though the accomplice did not personally deliberate or premeditate. (People v. Lee (2003) 31 Cal.4th 613, 622–623 [3 Cal.Rptr.3d 402, 74 P.3d 176]; People v. Laster (1997) 52 Cal.App.4th 1450, 1473 [61 Cal.Rptr.2d 680].) The accomplice must still share the intent to kill. (People v. Lee, supra, 31 Cal.4th at pp. 623–624.)

See the Related Issues Section to CALCRIM No. 521, Murder: Degrees for discussion of "deliberate and premeditated."

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

602. Attempted Murder: Peace Officer, Firefighter, Custodial Officer, or Custody Assistant (Pen. Code, §§ 21a, 664(e))

If you find the defendant guilty of attempted murder [under Count _____], you must then decide whether the People have proved the additional allegation that (he/she) attempted to murder a (peace officer/firefighter/custodial officer).

To prove this allegation, the People must prove that:

1. _____ <insert officer's name, excluding title> was a (peace officer/firefighter/custodial officer/custody assistant/ nonsworn uniformed employee of a sheriff's department) lawfully performing (his/her) duties as a (peace officer/firefighter/custodial officer/custody assistant/nonsworn uniformed employee of a sheriff's department);

AND

2. When the defendant attempted the murder, the defendant knew, or reasonably should have known, that _____ <insert officer's name, excluding title> was a (peace officer/ firefighter/custodial officer/custody assistant/nonsworn uniformed employee of a sheriff's department) who was performing (his/her) duties.

[A person who is employed as a police officer by _____ <insert name of agency that employs police officer> is a peace officer.]

[A person employed by _____ <insert name of agency that employs peace officer, e.g., "the Department of Fish and Game"> is a peace officer if _____ <insert description of facts necessary to make employee a peace officer, e.g, "designated by the director of the agency as a peace officer">.]

[The duties of (a/an) _____ <insert title of peace officer, firefighter, custodial officer, custody assistant or nonsworn uniformed employee of a sheriff's department> include _____ <insert job duties>.]

[A firefighter includes anyone who is an officer, employee, or member of a (governmentally operated (fire department/fire protection or firefighting agency) in this state/federal fire department/federal fire protection or firefighting agency), whether or not he or she is paid for his or her services.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[A custodial officer is someone who works for a law enforcement agency of a city or county, is responsible for maintaining custody of prisoners, and helps operate a local detention facility. [[A/An] (county jail/city jail/ _____ <insert other detention facility>) is a local detention facility.] [A custodial officer is not a peace officer.]]

<If the custodial officer is employed by a law enforcement agency of San Diego County, Fresno County, Kern County, Stanislaus County, Riverside County, Santa Clara County, or a county having a population of 425,000 or less, give the following sentence in place of the definition above.>

[A person designated as (a/an) (correctional officer/jailer/ _____ <insert similar title>) employed by the county of _____ <insert name of county designated by Penal Code section 831.5(a)> is a custodial officer.]

[A custody assistant is a person who is a full-time, non-peace officer employee of the county sheriff's department who assists peace officer personnel in maintaining order and security in a custody detention, court detention, or station jail facility of the sheriff's department.]

[For the purpose of this instruction, a nonsworn uniformed employee of a sheriff's department is someone whose job includes the care or control of inmates in a detention facility. [A prison, jail, camp, or other correctional facility used for the confinement of adults or both adults and minors/ _____ <insert other applicable definition from Penal Code section 289.6(c)> is a detention facility for the purpose of this definition.]]

<When lawful performance is an issue, give the following paragraph and Instruction 2670, Lawful Performance: Peace Officer.>

[A peace officer is not lawfully performing his or her duties if he or she is (unlawfully arresting or detaining someone/ [or] using unreasonable or excessive force in his or her duties). Instruction 2670 explains (when an arrest or detention is unlawful/ [and] when force is unreasonable or excessive).]

<When lawful performance is an issue, give the following paragraph

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

and Instruction 2671, Lawful Performance: Custodial Officer.>

[A custodial officer is not lawfully performing his or her duties if he or she is using unreasonable or excessive force in his or her duties. Instruction 2671 explains when force is unreasonable or excessive.]

New January 2006; Revised August 2006, June 2007

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the sentencing enhancement. (Apprendi v. New Jersey (2000) 530 U.S. 466, 475–476, 490 [120 S.Ct. 2348, 147 L.Ed.2d 435].)

In order to be "engaged in the performance of his or her duties," a peace officer or custodial officer must be acting lawfully. (People v. Gonzalez (1990) 51 Cal.3d 1179, 1217 [275 Cal.Rptr. 729, 800 P.2d 1159].) "[D]isputed facts bearing on the issue of legal cause must be submitted to the jury considering an engaged-in-duty element." (Ibid.) If excessive force is an issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct the jury that the defendant is not guilty of the offense charged, or any lesser included offense in which lawful performance is an element, if the defendant used reasonable force in response to excessive force. (People v. Olguin (1981) 119 Cal.App.3d 39, 46–47 [173 Cal.Rptr. 663].) On request, the court must instruct that the prosecution has the burden of proving the lawfulness of the arrest beyond a reasonable doubt. (People v. Castain (1981) 122 Cal.App.3d 138, 145 [175 Cal.Rptr. 651].) If lawful performance of a peace officer is an issue, give the bracketed paragraph on lawful performance of a peace officer and the appropriate portions of CALCRIM No. 2670, Lawful Performance: Peace Officer. If lawful performance of a custodial officer is an issue, give the bracketed paragraph on lawful performance of a custodial officer and the appropriate portions of CALCRIM No. 2671, Lawful Performance: Custodial Officer.

The jury must determine whether the alleged victim is a peace officer. (People v. Brown(1988) 46 Cal.3d 432, 444–445 [250 Cal.Rptr. 604, 758 P.2d 1135].) The court may instruct the jury on the appropriate definition of "peace officer" from the statute (e.g., "a Garden Grove Regular Police Officer and a Garden Grove Reserve Police Officer are peace officers"). (Ibid.) However, the court may not instruct the jury that the alleged victim was a peace officer as a matter of law (e.g., "Officer Reed was a peace officer").

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(Ibid.) If the alleged victim is a police officer, give the bracketed sentence that begins with "A person employed as a police officer." If the alleged victim is another type of peace officer, give the bracketed sentence that begins with "A person employed by."

Penal Code section 664(e) refers to the definition of peace officer used in Penal Code section 190.2(a)(7), which defines "peace officer" as "defined in Section 830.1, 830.2, 830.3, 830.31, 830.32, 830.33, 830.34, 830.35, 830.36, 830.37, 830.4, 830.5, 830.6, 830.10, 830.11, or 830.12."

Penal Code section 664(e) refers to the definition of firefighter used in Penal Code section 190.2(a)(9), which defines "firefighter" "as defined in Section 245.1."

The court may give the bracketed sentence that begins, "The duties of (a/an) _____ <insert title . . . .> include," on request.The court may insert a description of the officer's duties such as "the correct service of a facially valid search . . . warrant." (People v. Gonzalez (1990) 51 Cal.3d 1179, 1222 [275 Cal.Rptr. 729, 800 P.2d 1159].)

In the bracketed definition of "local detention facility," do not insert the name of a specific detention facility. Instead, insert a description of the type of detention facility at issue in the case. (See People v. Flood (1998) 18 Cal.4th 470, 482 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 180, 957 P.2d 869] [jury must determine if alleged victim is a peace officer]; see Penal Code section 6031.4 [defining local detention facility].)

AUTHORITY

- Attempted Murder on a Peace Officer or Firefighter. Pen. Code, § 664(e).
- Peace Officer Defined. Pen. Code, § 830 et seq.
- Firefighter Defined. Pen. Code, § 245.1.
- Custody Assistant Defined. Pen. Code, § 831.7.
- Nonsworn Uniformed Employee of Sheriff's Department Defined. Pen. Code, § 664(e).
- Custodial Officer as Referenced in Pen. Code, § 664, Defined. Pen. Code, §§ 831(a) and 831.5(a).

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 241.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 141, Conspiracy, Solicitation, and Attempt, §§ 141.20[2], 141.21; Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[3][e] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

603. Attempted Voluntary Manslaughter: Heat of Passion—Lesser Included Offense (Pen. Code, §§ 21a, 192, 664)

An attempted killing that would otherwise be attempted murder is reduced to attempted voluntary manslaughter if the defendant attempted to kill someone because of a sudden quarrel or in the heat of passion.

The defendant attempted to kill someone because of a sudden quarrel or in the heat of passion if:

1. The defendant took at least one direct but ineffective step toward killing a person;
2. The defendant intended to kill that person;
3. The defendant attempted the killing because (he/she) was provoked;
4. The provocation would have caused a person of average disposition to act rashly and without due deliberation, that is, from passion rather than from judgment;

AND

5. The attempted killing was a rash act done under the influence of intense emotion that obscured the defendant's reasoning or judgment.

Heat of passion does not require anger, rage, or any specific emotion. It can be any violent or intense emotion that causes a person to act without due deliberation and reflection.

In order for a sudden quarrel or heat of passion to reduce an attempted murder to attempted voluntary manslaughter, the defendant must have acted under the direct and immediate influence of provocation as I have defined it. While no specific type of provocation is required, slight or remote provocation is not sufficient. Sufficient provocation may occur over a short or long period of time.

It is not enough that the defendant simply was provoked. The defendant is not allowed to set up (his/her) own standard of conduct. You must decide whether the defendant was provoked and whether the provocation was sufficient. In deciding whether the provocation was sufficient, consider whether a person of average disposition would have been provoked and how such a person would react in the same situation knowing the same facts.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[If enough time passed between the provocation and the attempted killing for a person of average disposition to "cool off" and regain his or her clear reasoning and judgment, then the attempted murder is not reduced to attempted voluntary manslaughter on this basis.]

The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant attempted to kill someone and was not acting as a result of a sudden quarrel or in the heat of passion. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of attempted murder.

New January 2006; Revised August 2009, April 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on attempted voluntary manslaughter on either theory, heat of passion or imperfect self-defense, when evidence of either is "substantial enough to merit consideration" by the jury. (See People v. Breverman (1998) 19 Cal.4th 142, 153–163 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 870, 960 P.2d 1094] [discussing charge of completed murder]; People v. Barton (1995) 12 Cal.4th 186, 201 [47 Cal.Rptr.2d 569, 906 P.2d 531] [same].)

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 511, Excusable Homicide: Accident in the Heat of Passion.

CALCRIM No. 570, Voluntary Manslaughter: Heat of Passion—Lesser Included Offense.

CALCRIM No. 604, Attempted Voluntary Manslaughter: Imperfect Self-Defense—Lesser Included Offense.

AUTHORITY

- Attempt Defined. Pen. Code, §§ 21a, 664.
- Manslaughter Defined. Pen. Code, § 192.
- Attempted Voluntary Manslaughter. People v. Van Ronk (1985) 171

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.App.3d 818, 824–825 [217 Cal.Rptr. 581]; People v. Williams (1980) 102 Cal.App.3d 1018, 1024–1026 [162 Cal.Rptr. 748].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 208.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 141, Conspiracy, Solicitation, and Attempt, §§ 141.20[2], 141.21; Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.01[3][e], 142.02[2][a] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Specific Intent to Kill Required

> An attempt to commit a crime requires an intention to commit the crime and an overt act towards its completion. Where a person intends to kill another person and makes an unsuccessful attempt to do so, his intention may be accompanied by any of the aggravating or mitigating circumstances which can accompany the completed crimes. In other words, the intent to kill may have been formed after premeditation or deliberation, it may have been formed upon a sudden explosion of violence, or it may have been brought about by a heat of passion or an unreasonable but good faith belief in the necessity of self-defense.

(People v. Van Ronk (1985) 171 Cal.App.3d 818, 824 [217 Cal.Rptr. 581] [citation omitted].)

No Attempted Involuntary Manslaughter

There is no crime of attempted involuntary manslaughter. (People v. Johnson (1996) 51 Cal.App.4th 1329, 1332 [59 Cal.Rptr.2d 798].)

See the Related Issues section to CALCRIM No. 570, Voluntary Manslaughter: Heat of Passion—Lesser Included Offense.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

604. Attempted Voluntary Manslaughter: Imperfect Self-Defense—Lesser Included Offense (Pen. Code, §§ 21a, 192, 664)

An attempted killing that would otherwise be attempted murder is reduced to attempted voluntary manslaughter if the defendant attempted to kill a person because (he/she) acted in imperfect (self-defense/ [or] defense of another).

If you conclude the defendant acted in complete (self-defense/ [or] defense of another), (his/her) action was lawful and you must find (him/her) not guilty of any crime. The difference between complete (self-defense/ [or] defense of another) and imperfect (self-defense/ [or] defense of another) depends on whether the defendant's belief in the need to use deadly force was reasonable.

The defendant acted in imperfect (self-defense/ [or] defense of another) if:

1. The defendant took at least one direct but ineffective step toward killing a person.
2. The defendant intended to kill when (he/she) acted.
3. The defendant believed that (he/she/ [or] someone else/ _____ <insert name of third party>) was in imminent danger of being killed or suffering great bodily injury.

AND

4. The defendant believed that the immediate use of deadly force was necessary to defend against the danger.

BUT

5. At least one of the defendant's beliefs was unreasonable.

[Great bodily injury means significant or substantial physical injury. It is an injury that is greater than minor or moderate harm.]

Belief in future harm is not sufficient, no matter how great or how likely the harm is believed to be. The defendant must have actually believed there was imminent danger of violence to (himself/herself/ [or] someone else).

In evaluating the defendant's beliefs, consider all the circumstances as they were known and appeared to the defendant.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[If you find that _____ <insert name or description of alleged victim> threatened or harmed the defendant [or others] in the past, you may consider that information in evaluating the defendant's beliefs.]

[If you find that the defendant knew that _____ <insert name or description of alleged victim> had threatened or harmed others in the past, you may consider that information in evaluating the defendant's beliefs.]

[If you find that the defendant received a threat from someone else that (he/she) reasonably associated with _____ <insert name or description of alleged victim>, you may consider that threat in evaluating the defendant's beliefs.]

The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant was not acting in imperfect self-defense. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of attempted murder.

New January 2006; Revised August 2009, October 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on attempted voluntary manslaughter on either theory, heat of passion or imperfect self-defense, when evidence of either is "substantial enough to merit consideration" by the jury. (See People v. Breverman (1998) 19 Cal.4th 142, 153–163 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 870, 960 P.2d 1094] [discussing charge of completed murder]; People v. Barton (1995) 12 Cal.4th 186, 201 [47 Cal.Rptr.2d 569, 906 P.2d 531] [same].)

Perfect Self-Defense

Most courts hold that an instruction on imperfect self-defense is required in every case in which a court instructs on perfect self-defense. If there is substantial evidence of a defendant's belief in the need for self-defense, there will always be substantial evidence to support an imperfect self-defense instruction because the reasonableness of that belief will always be at issue. (See People v. Ceja (1994) 26 Cal.App.4th 78, 85–86 [31 Cal.Rptr.2d 475], overruled in part in People v. Blakeley (2000) 23 Cal.4th 82, 91 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 451, 999 P.2d 675]; see also People v. De Leon (1992) 10

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.App.4th 815, 824 [12 Cal.Rptr.2d 825].) The court in People v. Rodriguez disagreed, however, and found that an imperfect self-defense instruction was not required sua sponte on the facts of the case where the defendant's version of the crime "could only lead to an acquittal based on justifiable homicide," and when the prosecutor's version of the crime could only lead to a conviction of first degree murder. (People v. Rodriguez (1997) 53 Cal.App.4th 1250, 1275 [62 Cal.Rptr.2d 345]; see also People v. Williams (1992) 4 Cal.4th 354, 362 [14 Cal.Rptr.2d 441, 841 P.2d 961] [in a rape prosecution, the court was not required to give a mistake-of-fact instruction where the two sides gave wholly divergent accounts with no middle ground to support a mistake-of-fact instruction].)

In evaluating whether the defendant actually believed in the need for self-defense, the jury may consider the effect of antecedent threats and assaults against the defendant, including threats received by the defendant from a third party that the defendant reasonably associated with the aggressor. (People v. Minifie (1996) 13 Cal.4th 1055, 1065, 1069 [56 Cal.Rptr.2d 133, 920 P.2d 1337].) If there is sufficient evidence, the court should give the bracketed paragraphs on prior threats or assaults on request.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477, Defense Instructions.

CALCRIM No. 571, Voluntary Manslaughter: Imperfect Self-Defense—Lesser Included Offense.

CALCRIM No. 603, Attempted Voluntary Manslaughter: Heat of Passion—Lesser Included Offense.

AUTHORITY

- Attempt Defined. Pen. Code, §§ 21a, 664.
- Manslaughter Defined. Pen. Code, § 192.
- Attempted Voluntary Manslaughter. People v. Van Ronk (1985) 171 Cal.App.3d 818, 824–825 [217 Cal.Rptr. 581]; People v. Williams (1980) 102 Cal.App.3d 1018, 1024–1026 [162 Cal.Rptr. 748].
- Imperfect Self-Defense Defined. People v. Flannel (1979) 25 Cal.3d 668, 680–683 [160 Cal.Rptr. 84, 603 P.2d 1]; People v. Barton (1995) 12 Cal.4th 186, 201 [47 Cal.Rptr.2d 569, 906 P.2d 531]; In re Christian S. (1994) 7 Cal.4th 768, 773 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 33, 872 P.2d 574]; see People v. Uriarte (1990) 223 Cal.App.3d 192, 197–198 [272 Cal.Rptr. 693] [insufficient evidence to support defense of another person].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 208.

3 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 73, Defenses and Justifications, § 73.11 (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 141, Conspiracy, Solicitation, and Attempt, §§ 141.20[2], 141.21; Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.01[3][e], 142.02[2][a] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section to CALCRIM No. 603, Attempted Voluntary Manslaughter: Heat of Passion—Lesser Included Offense and CALCRIM No. 571, Voluntary Manslaughter: Imperfect Self-Defense—Lesser Included Offense.

605–619. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

H. CAUSATION: SPECIAL ISSUES

620. Causation: Special Issues

There may be more than one cause of death. An act causes death only if it is a substantial factor in causing the death. A substantial factor is more than a trivial or remote factor. However, it does not need to be the only factor that causes the death.

<A. Negligence of Decedent or Third Party, Not Medical Personnel>

[The failure of _____ <insert name of decedent> or another person to use reasonable care may have contributed to the death. But if the defendant's act was a substantial factor causing the death, then the defendant is legally responsible for the death even though _____ <insert name of decedent> or another person may have failed to use reasonable care.]

<B. Negligence of Medical Personnel>

[The failure of the (doctor(s)/ [or] medical staff) to use reasonable care in treating _____ <insert name of decedent> may have contributed to the death. But if the injury inflicted by the defendant was a substantial factor causing the death, then the defendant is legally responsible for the death even though the (doctor[s]/ [or] medical staff) may have failed to use reasonable care. On the other hand, if the injury inflicted by the defendant was not a substantial factor causing the death, but the death was caused by grossly improper treatment by the (doctor[s]/[or] medical staff), then the defendant is not legally responsible for the death.]

<C. Vulnerable Victim—Injury Accelerating Death>

[_____ <insert name of decedent> may have suffered from an illness or physical condition that made (him/her) more likely to die from the injury than the average person. The fact that _____ <insert name of decedent> may have been more physically vulnerable is not a defense to (murder/ [or] manslaughter). If the defendant's act was a substantial factor causing the death, then the defendant is legally responsible for the death. This is true even if _____ <insert name of decedent> would have died in a short time as a result of other causes or if another person of average health would not have died as a result of the defendant's actions.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If you have a reasonable doubt whether the defendant's act caused the death, you must find (him/her) not guilty.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

If causation is at issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on proximate cause. (People v. Bernhardt (1963) 222 Cal.App.2d 567, 590–591 [35 Cal.Rptr. 401].)

AUTHORITY

- Negligence of Third Party. People v. Clark (1951) 106 Cal.App.2d 271, 277–278 [235 P.2d 56]; People v. Pike (1988) 197 Cal.App.3d 732, 746–747 [243 Cal.Rptr. 54].
- Negligence of Medical Staff. People v. McGee (1947) 31 Cal.2d 229, 240–241 [187 P.2d 706]; People v. Roberts (1992) 2 Cal.4th 271, 312 [6 Cal.Rptr.2d 276, 826 P.2d 274].
- Vulnerable Victim. People v. Catlin (2001) 26 Cal.4th 81, 155–157 [109 Cal.Rptr.2d 31, 26 P.3d 357]; People v. Phillips (1966) 64 Cal.2d 574, 579 [51 Cal.Rptr. 225, 414 P.2d 353], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Flood (1998) 18 Cal.4th 470, 490, fn. 12 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 180, 957 P.2d 869]; People v. Stamp (1969) 2 Cal.App.3d 203, 209 [82 Cal.Rptr. 598].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Elements, §§ 37, 38, 43.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.04; Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.01[1][c], 142.02[1][c] (Matthew Bender).

621–624. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

I. IMPAIRMENT DEFENSE

625. Voluntary Intoxication: Effects on Homicide Crimes (Pen. Code, § 22)

You may consider evidence, if any, of the defendant's voluntary intoxication only in a limited way. You may consider that evidence only in deciding whether the defendant acted with an intent to kill[,] [or] [the defendant acted with deliberation and premeditation[,]] [[or] the defendant was unconscious when (he/she) acted[,]] [or the defendant _____ <insert other specific intent required in a homicide charge or other charged offense>.]

A person is voluntarily intoxicated if he or she becomes intoxicated by willingly using any intoxicating drug, drink, or other substance knowing that it could produce an intoxicating effect, or willingly assuming the risk of that effect.

You may not consider evidence of voluntary intoxication for any other purpose.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

With the statutory elimination of diminished capacity as a defense, there is no sua sponte duty to instruct on the effect of voluntary intoxication on the mental states required for homicide. (Pen. Code, § 28(b); People v. Saille (1991) 54 Cal.3d 1103, 1119–1120 [2 Cal.Rptr.2d 364, 820 P.2d 588].) However, subsequent cases affirm that voluntary intoxication can be used to negate an element of the crime that must be proven by the prosecution. (People v. Reyes (1997) 52 Cal.App.4th 975, 982 [61 Cal.Rptr.2d 39]; People v. Visciotti (1992) 2 Cal.4th 1, 56–57 [5 Cal.Rptr.2d 495, 825 P.2d 388].) Such an instruction is a "pinpoint" instruction, which must be given on request when there is sufficient evidence supporting the theory. (People v. Saille, supra, 54 Cal.3d at p. 1120.)

Include the bracketed language regarding unconsciousness if the court also gives CALCRIM No. 626, Voluntary Intoxication Causing Unconsciousness: Effects on Homicide Crimes.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If the defendant is charged with a homicide crime that has as an element an additional specific intent requirement other than intent to kill, include the required intent in the last bracketed portion of the second sentence. For example, if the defendant is charged with torture murder, include "whether the defendant intended to inflict extreme and prolonged pain." Or, if the defendant is charged with felony-murder, insert intent to commit the felony where indicated. Similarly, if the defendant is also charged with a nonhomicide crime with a specific intent requirement, include that intent requirement. For example, if the defendant is charged with murder and robbery, include "whether the defendant intended to take property by force or fear."

AUTHORITY

- Voluntary Intoxication Defined. Pen. Code, § 22(c).
- This Instruction Correctly Instructs on Penal Code Requirements. People v. Timms (2007) 151 Cal.App.4th 1292, 1298 [60 Cal.Rptr.3d 677].
- Unconsciousness Not Required. People v. Ray (1975) 14 Cal.3d 20, 28–29 [120 Cal.Rptr. 377, 533 P.2d 1017], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Blakeley (2000) 23 Cal.4th 82, 89 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 451, 999 P.2d 675].
- No Sua Sponte Duty to Instruct. People v. Saille (1991) 54 Cal.3d 1103, 1120 [2 Cal.Rptr.2d 364, 820 P.2d 588].
- Evidence of Intoxication Inapplicable to Implied Malice. Pen. Code, § 22(b); People v. Martin (2000) 78 Cal.App.4th 1107, 1114–1115 [93 Cal.Rptr.2d 433].
- Applies to Attempted Murder. People v. Castillo (1997) 16 Cal.4th 1009, 1016 [68 Cal.Rptr.2d 648, 945 P.2d 1197].
- Voluntary Intoxication Relevant to Knowledge. People v. Reyes (1997) 52 Cal.App.4th 975, 982–986 [61 Cal.Rptr.2d 39].
- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Turk (2008) 164 Cal.App.4th 1361, 1381 [80 Cal.Rptr.3d 473].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Defenses, §§ 26–30.

3 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 73, Defenses and Justifications, §§ 73.01[4], 73.04 (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.01[3][d.1], [e], 142.02[1][e], [f], [2][b], [3][c] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

General Instruction on Voluntary Intoxication

This instruction is a specific application of CALCRIM No. 3426, Voluntary Intoxication, to homicide.

Unconsciousness

Unconsciousness (as defined in CALCRIM No. 3425, Unconsciousness) is not required. (People v. Ray (1975) 14 Cal.3d 20, 28–29 [120 Cal.Rptr. 377, 533 P.2d 1017], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Blakeley (2000) 23 Cal.4th 82, 89 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 451, 999 P.2d 675].)

Not Applicable in Murder Cases Based Exclusively on Implied Malice

This instruction is inapplicable to cases where the murder charge is exclusively based on a theory of implied malice, because voluntary intoxication can only negate express malice. (Pen. Code, § 22(b); People v. Martin (2000) 78 Cal.App.4th 1107, 1114–1115 [93 Cal.Rptr.2d 433].) Drunk-driving second degree murder is one type of case that is typically based exclusively on an implied malice theory.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

626. Voluntary Intoxication Causing Unconsciousness: Effects on Homicide Crimes (Pen. Code, § 22)

Voluntary intoxication may cause a person to be unconscious of his or her actions. A very intoxicated person may still be capable of physical movement but may not be aware of his or her actions or the nature of those actions.

A person is voluntarily intoxicated if he or she becomes intoxicated by willingly using any intoxicating drug, drink, or other substance knowing that it could produce an intoxicating effect, or willingly assuming the risk of that effect.

When a person voluntarily causes his or her own intoxication to the point of unconsciousness, the person assumes the risk that while unconscious he or she will commit acts inherently dangerous to human life. If someone dies as a result of the actions of a person who was unconscious due to voluntary intoxication, then the killing is involuntary manslaughter.

Involuntary manslaughter has been proved if you find beyond a reasonable doubt that:

1. The defendant killed without legal justification or excuse;
2. The defendant did not act with the intent to kill;
3. The defendant did not act with a conscious disregard for human life;

AND

4. As a result of voluntary intoxication, the defendant was not conscious of (his/her) actions or the nature of those actions.

The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant was not unconscious. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of (murder/ [or] voluntary manslaughter).

New January 2006

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on voluntary intoxication causing unconsciousness if there is evidence to support this finding. (People v. Graham (1969) 71 Cal.2d 303, 316 [78 Cal.Rptr. 217, 455 P.2d 153] [partially abrogated by Pen. Code, § 22(c)]; People v. Ochoa (1998) 19 Cal.4th 353, 423–424 [79 Cal.Rptr.2d 408, 966 P.2d 442].) However, the court may properly refuse to give this instruction when the evidence shows that the defendant acted with malice before becoming intoxicated. (People v. Whitfield (1994) 7 Cal.4th 437, 455 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 858, 868 P.2d 272] [partially abrogated by amendments to Pen. Code, § 22(a)].)

In People v. Ochoa (1998) 19 Cal.4th 353, 423–424 [79 Cal.Rptr.2d 408, 966 P.2d 442] [quoting People v. Graham (1969) 71 Cal.2d 303, 316 [78 Cal.Rptr. 217, 455 P.2d 153]], the court stated, > [I]f the state of unconsciousness results from intoxication voluntarily induced . . . it is not a complete defense. If the intoxication is voluntarily induced, it can never excuse homicide. . . . [The] requisite element of criminal negligence is deemed to exist irrespective of unconsciousness, and a defendant stands guilty of involuntary manslaughter if he voluntarily procured his own intoxication.

The committee has chosen not to include the phrase "criminal negligence is deemed to exist" because the committee concluded that this unnecessarily complicates the issue for the jury.

AUTHORITY

- Definition of Voluntary Intoxication. Pen. Code, § 22(c).
- Presumption of Criminal Negligence. People v. Graham (1969) 71 Cal.2d 303, 317, fn. 4 [78 Cal.Rptr. 217, 455 P.2d 153] [partially abrogated by Pen. Code, § 22(c)].
- Malice Preceded Intoxication. People v. Whitfield (1994) 7 Cal.4th 437, 455 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 858, 868 P.2d 272] [partially abrogated by amendments to Pen. Code, § 22(a)].
- Criminal Negligence. People v. Penny (1955) 44 Cal.2d 861, 879–880 [285 P.2d 926]; People v. Rodriguez (1960) 186 Cal.App.2d 433, 440 [8 Cal.Rptr. 863].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 226.

3 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 73, Defenses and Justifications, §§ 73.01[4], 73.04 (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.01[3][d.1], [e], 142.02[1][e], [f], [2][b], [3][c] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Unconsciousness Does Not Require Inability to Move

"[U]nconsciousness can exist . . . where the subject physically acts in fact but is not, at the time, conscious of acting." (People v. Ochoa (1998) 19 Cal.4th 353, 424 [79 Cal.Rptr.2d 408, 966 P.2d 442] [citations and internal quotation marks omitted]; see also People v. Hughes (2002) 27 Cal.4th 287, 343–344 [116 Cal.Rptr.2d 401, 39 P.3d 432].)

Malice Preceded Intoxication: Drunk Driving

In a case in which the defendant was convicted of second degree murder following a fatal drunk driving accident, the trial court properly refused to give an unconsciousness instruction where the defendant's long history of drinking and driving established that he acted with malice prior to becoming intoxicated. (People v. Whitfield (1994) 7 Cal.4th 437, 455 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 858, 868 P.2d 272] [partially abrogated by amendments to Pen. Code, § 22(a)].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

627. Hallucination: Effect on Premeditation

A hallucination is a perception not based on objective reality. In other words, a person has a hallucination when that person believes that he or she is seeing or hearing [or otherwise perceiving] something that is not actually present or happening.

You may consider evidence of hallucinations, if any, in deciding whether the defendant acted with deliberation and premeditation.

The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant acted with deliberation and premeditation. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of first degree murder.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give defense instructions supported by substantial evidence and not inconsistent with the defendant's theory of the case. (See People v. Baker (1999) 74 Cal.App.4th 243, 252 [87 Cal.Rptr.2d 803]; People v. Barton (1995) 12 Cal.4th 186, 195 [47 Cal.Rptr.2d 569, 906 P.2d 531].)

"[E]vidence of a hallucination—a perception with no objective reality—is inadmissible to negate malice so as to mitigate murder to voluntary manslaughter but is admissible to negate deliberation and premeditation so as to reduce first degree murder to second degree murder." (People v. Padilla (2002) 103 Cal.App.4th 675, 677 [126 Cal.Rptr.2d 889].)

AUTHORITY

- Hallucination Evidence. People v. Padilla (2002) 103 Cal.App.4th 675, 677 [126 Cal.Rptr.2d 889].
- Hallucination Alone Not a Basis for Imperfect Self-Defense. People v. Mejia-Lenares (2006) 135 Cal.App.4th 1437 [38 Cal.Rptr.3d 404].

Secondary Sources

3 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 73, Defenses and Justifications, § 73.03 (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[1][g] (Matthew Bender).

628–639. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

J. CHARGE TO JURY

640. Deliberations and Completion of Verdict Forms: For Use When Defendant Is Charged With First Degree Murder and Jury Is Given Not Guilty Forms for Each Level of Homicide

---

[For each count charging murder,] (Y/y)ou (have been/will be) given verdict forms for guilty and not guilty of first degree murder (, /and) [second degree murder] [(, /and)] [voluntary manslaughter] [(, /and)] [involuntary manslaughter].

You may consider these different kinds of homicide in whatever order you wish, but I can accept a verdict of guilty or not guilty of _____ <insert second degree murder or, if the jury is not instructed on second degree murder as a lesser included offense, each form of manslaughter, voluntary and/or involuntary, on which the jury is instructed> only if all of you have found the defendant not guilty of first degree murder, [and I can accept a verdict of guilty or not guilty of (voluntary/involuntary/voluntary or involuntary) manslaughter only if all of you have found the defendant not guilty of both first and second degree murder].

[As with all of the charges in this case,] (To/to) return a verdict of guilty or not guilty on a count, you must all agree on that decision.

Follow these directions before you give me any completed and signed final verdict form[s]. [Return the unused verdict form[s] to me, unsigned.]

1. If all of you agree that the People have proved beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant is guilty of first degree murder, complete and sign that verdict form. Do not complete or sign any other verdict forms [for that count].
2. If all of you cannot agree whether the defendant is guilty of first degree murder, inform me that you cannot reach an agreement and do not complete or sign any verdict forms [for that count].

   <In addition to paragraphs 1–2, give the following if the jury is instructed on second degree murder as a lesser included offense.>

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[3. If all of you agree that the defendant is not guilty of first degree murder but also agree that the defendant is guilty of second degree murder, complete and sign the form for not guilty of first degree murder and the form for guilty of second degree murder. Do not complete or sign any other verdict forms [for that count].

4. If all of you agree that the defendant is not guilty of first degree murder but cannot agree whether the defendant is guilty of second degree murder, complete and sign the form for not guilty of first degree murder and inform me that you cannot reach further agreement. Do not complete or sign any other verdict forms [for that count].]

<In addition to paragraphs 1–4, give the following if the jury is instructed on second degree murder as the only lesser included offense.>

[5. If all of you agree that the defendant is not guilty of first degree murder and not guilty of second degree murder, complete and sign the verdict forms for not guilty of both. Do not complete or sign any other verdict forms [for that count].]

<In addition to paragraphs 1–4, give the following if the jury is instructed on second degree murder and only one form of manslaughter (voluntary or involuntary) as lesser included offenses.>

[5. If all of you agree that the defendant is not guilty of first degree murder and not guilty of second degree murder, but also agree that the defendant is guilty of (voluntary/ involuntary) manslaughter, complete and sign the forms for not guilty of first degree murder and not guilty of second degree murder and the form for guilty of (voluntary/ involuntary) manslaughter. Do not complete or sign any other verdict forms [for that count].

6. If all of you agree that the defendant is not guilty of first degree murder and not guilty of second degree murder, but cannot agree whether the defendant is guilty of (voluntary/ involuntary) manslaughter, complete and sign the forms for not guilty of first degree murder and not guilty of second degree murder and inform me that you cannot reach further agreement. Do not complete or sign any other verdict forms [for that count].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

7. If all of you agree that the defendant is not guilty of first degree murder, not guilty of second degree murder, and not guilty of (voluntary/involuntary) manslaughter, complete and sign the verdict forms for not guilty of each crime. Do not complete or sign any other verdict forms [for that count].]

<In addition to paragraphs 1–4, give the following if the jury is instructed on second degree murder and both voluntary and involuntary manslaughter as lesser included offenses.>

[5. If all of you agree that the defendant is not guilty of first degree murder and not guilty of second degree murder, complete and sign the forms for not guilty of first degree murder and not guilty of second degree murder.

6. If all of you agree on a verdict of guilty or not guilty of voluntary or involuntary manslaughter, complete and sign the appropriate verdict form for each charge on which you agree. You may not find the defendant guilty of both voluntary and involuntary manslaughter [as to any count]. Do not complete or sign any other verdict forms [for that count].

7. If you cannot reach agreement as to voluntary manslaughter or involuntary manslaughter, inform me of your disagreement. Do not complete or sign any verdict form for any charge on which you cannot reach agreement.]

<In addition to paragraphs 1–2, give the following if the jury is not instructed on second degree murder and the jury is instructed on one form of manslaughter (voluntary or involuntary) as the only lesser included offense.>

[3. If all of you agree that the defendant is not guilty of first degree murder but also agree that the defendant is guilty of (voluntary/involuntary) manslaughter, complete and sign the form for not guilty of first degree murder and the form for guilty of (voluntary/involuntary) manslaughter. Do not complete or sign any other verdict forms [for that count].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

4. If all of you agree that the defendant is not guilty of first degree murder but cannot agree whether the defendant is guilty of (voluntary/involuntary) manslaughter, complete and sign the form for not guilty of first degree murder and inform me that you cannot reach further agreement. Do not complete or sign any other verdict forms [for that count].

5. If all of you agree that the defendant is not guilty of first degree murder or (voluntary/involuntary) manslaughter, complete and sign the verdict forms for not guilty of each crime. Do not complete or sign any other verdict forms [for that count].]

<In addition to paragraphs 1–2, give the following if the jury is instructed on both voluntary and involuntary manslaughter, but not second degree murder, as lesser included offenses.>

[3. If all of you agree that the defendant is not guilty of first degree murder, complete and sign the form for not guilty of first degree murder.

4. If all of you agree on a verdict of guilty or not guilty of voluntary or involuntary manslaughter, complete and sign the appropriate verdict form for each charge on which you agree. You may not find the defendant guilty of both voluntary and involuntary manslaughter [as to any count]. Do not complete or sign any other verdict forms [for that count].

5. If you cannot reach agreement as to voluntary manslaughter or involuntary manslaughter, inform me of your disagreement. Do not complete or sign any verdict form for any charge on which you cannot reach agreement.]

New January 2006; Revised April 2008, August 2009

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

In all homicide cases in which the defendant is charged with first degree murder and one or more lesser offense is submitted to the jury, the court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction or CALCRIM No. 641,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Deliberations and Completion of Verdict Forms: For Use When Defendant Is Charged With First Degree Murder and Jury Is Given Only One Not Guilty Verdict Form for Each Count; Not to Be Used When Both Voluntary and Involuntary Manslaughter Are Lesser Included Offenses. (See People v. Avalos (1984) 37 Cal.3d 216, 228 [207 Cal.Rptr. 549, 689 P.2d 121] [must instruct jury that it must be unanimous as to degree of murder]; People v. Dixon (1979) 24 Cal.3d 43, 52 [154 Cal.Rptr. 236, 592 P.2d 752] [jury must determine degree]; People v. Breverman (1998) 19 Cal.4th 142, 162 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 870, 960 P.2d 1094] [duty to instruct on lesser included offenses]; People v. Dewberry (1959) 51 Cal.2d 548, 555–557 [334 P.2d 852] [duty to instruct that if jury has reasonable doubt of greater offense must acquit of that charge]; People v. Fields (1996) 13 Cal.4th 289, 309–310 [52 Cal.Rptr.2d 282, 914 P.2d 832] [duty to instruct that jury cannot convict of a lesser offense unless it has concluded that defendant is not guilty of the greater offense]; Stone v. Superior Court (1982) 31 Cal.3d 503, 519 [183 Cal.Rptr. 647, 646 P.2d 809] [duty to give jury opportunity to render a verdict of partial acquittal on a greater offense], clarified in People v. Marshall (1996) 13 Cal.4th 799, 826 [55 Cal.Rptr.2d 347, 919 P.2d 1280] [no duty to inquire about partial acquittal in absence of indication jury may have found defendant not guilty of greater offense].)

In Stone v. Superior Court, supra, 31 Cal.3d at p. 519, the Supreme Court suggested that the trial court provide the jury with verdict forms of guilty/not guilty on each of the charged and lesser offenses. The court later referred to this "as a judicially declared rule of criminal procedure." (People v. Kurtzman (1988) 46 Cal.3d 322, 329 [250 Cal.Rptr. 244, 758 P.2d 572].) However, this is not a mandatory procedure. (Ibid.)

If the court chooses to follow the procedure suggested in Stone, the court may give this instruction or CALCRIM No. 642, Deliberations and Completion of Verdict Forms: For Use When Defendant Is Charged With Second Degree Murder and Jury Is Given Not Guilty Forms for Each Level of Homicide, in place of this instruction.

The court should tell the jury it may not return a guilty verdict on a lesser included offense unless it has found the defendant not guilty of the greater offense. (People v. Fields, supra, 13 Cal.4th at pp. 310–311.) If the jury announces that it is deadlocked on the greater offense but, despite the court's instructions, has returned a guilty verdict on the lesser included offense, the court should again instruct the jury that it may not convict of the lesser included offense unless it has found the defendant not guilty of the greater offense. (Ibid.) The court should direct the jury to reconsider the "lone verdict of conviction of the lesser included offense" in light of this instruction. (Ibid.; Pen. Code, § 1161.) If the jury is deadlocked on the greater offense but the court nevertheless records a guilty verdict on the lesser included offense and then discharges the jury, retrial on the greater offense will be barred. (People v. Fields, supra, 13 Cal.4th at p. 307; Pen. Code, § 1023.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If, after following the procedures required by Fields, the jury declares that it is deadlocked on the greater offense, then the prosecution must elect one of the following options: (1) the prosecutor may request that the court declare a mistrial on the greater offense without recording the verdict on the lesser offense, allowing the prosecutor to retry the defendant for the greater offense; or (2) the prosecutor may ask the court to record the verdict on the lesser offense and to dismiss the greater offense, opting to accept the current conviction rather than retry the defendant on the greater offense. (People v. Fields, supra, 13 Cal.4th at p. 311.)

The court may not control the sequence in which the jury considers the various homicide offenses. (People v. Kurtzman, supra, 46 Cal.3d at pp. 330–331.)

Do not give this instruction if felony murder is the only theory for first degree murder. (People v. Mendoza (2000) 23 Cal.4th 896, 908–909 [98 Cal.Rptr.2d 431, 4 P.3d 265].)

AUTHORITY

- Lesser Included Offenses-Duty to Instruct. Pen. Code, § 1159; People v. Breverman (1998) 19 Cal.4th 142, 162 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 870, 960 P.2d 1094].
- Degree to Be Set by Jury. Pen. Code, § 1157; People v. Avalos (1984) 37 Cal.3d 216, 228 [207 Cal.Rptr. 549, 689 P.2d 121]; People v. Dixon (1979) 24 Cal.3d 43, 52 [154 Cal.Rptr. 236, 592 P.2d 752].
- Reasonable Doubt as to Degree. Pen. Code, § 1097; People v. Morse (1964) 60 Cal.2d 631, 657 [36 Cal.Rptr. 201, 388 P.2d 33]; People v. Dewberry (1959) 51 Cal.2d 548, 555–557 [334 P.2d 852].
- Conviction of Lesser Precludes Re-trial on Greater. Pen. Code, § 1023; People v. Fields (1996) 13 Cal.4th 289, 309–310 [52 Cal.Rptr.2d 282, 914 P.2d 832]; People v. Kurtzman (1988) 46 Cal.3d 322, 329 [250 Cal.Rptr. 244, 758 P.2d 572].
- Court May Ask Jury to Reconsider Conviction on Lesser Absent Finding on Greater. Pen. Code, § 1161; People v. Fields (1996) 13 Cal.4th 289, 310 [52 Cal.Rptr.2d 282, 914 P.2d 832].
- Must Permit Partial Verdict of Acquittal on Greater. People v. Marshall

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(1996) 13 Cal.4th 799, 826 [55 Cal.Rptr.2d 347, 919 P.2d 1280]; Stone v. Superior Court (1982) 31 Cal.3d 503, 519 [183 Cal.Rptr. 647, 646 P.2d 809].

- Involuntary Manslaughter Not a Lesser Included Offense of Voluntary Manslaughter. People v. Orr (1994) 22 Cal.App.4th 780, 784–785 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 553].

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Trial, § 631.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.20 (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.01[3][e], 142.02[3][c] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

641. Deliberations and Completion of Verdict Forms: For Use When Defendant Is Charged With First Degree Murder and Jury Is Given Only One Not Guilty Verdict Form for Each Count; Not to Be Used When Both Voluntary and Involuntary Manslaughter Are Lesser Included Offenses

---

[For each count charging (murder/ manslaughter),] (Y/y)ou (have been/will be) given verdict forms for [guilty of first degree murder][,] [guilty of second degree murder][,] [guilty of voluntary manslaughter][,] [guilty of involuntary manslaughter][,] and not guilty.

You may consider these different kinds of homicide in whatever order you wish, but I can accept a verdict of guilty of a lesser crime only if all of you have found the defendant not guilty of [all of] the greater crime[s].

[As with all the charges in this case,] (To/to) return a verdict of guilty or not guilty on a count, you must all agree on that decision.

Follow these directions before you give me any completed and signed, final verdict form. You will complete and sign only one verdict form [per count]. [Return the unused verdict forms to me, unsigned.]

1. If all of you agree that the People have proved beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant is guilty of first degree murder, complete and sign that verdict form. Do not complete or sign any other verdict forms [for that count].

2. If all of you cannot agree whether the defendant is guilty of first degree murder, inform me only that you cannot reach an agreement and do not complete or sign any verdict forms [for that count].

   <In addition to paragraphs 1–2, give the following if the jury is instructed on second degree murder as a lesser included offense.>

[3. If all of you agree that the defendant is not guilty of first degree murder but also agree that the defendant is guilty of second degree murder, complete and sign the form for guilty of second degree murder. Do not complete or sign any other verdict forms [for that count].]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

4. If all of you agree that the defendant is not guilty of first degree murder but cannot agree whether the defendant is guilty of second degree murder, inform me that you cannot reach agreement [on that count]. Do not complete or sign any verdict forms [for that count].

<In addition to paragraphs 1–4, give the following if the jury is instructed on second degree murder as the only lesser included offense.>

[5. If all of you agree that the defendant is not guilty of first degree murder and not guilty of second degree murder, complete and sign the not guilty verdict form.] Do not complete or sign any other verdict forms [for that count].

<In addition to paragraphs 1–4, give the following if the jury is instructed on second degree murder and only one form of manslaughter (voluntary or involuntary) as lesser included offenses.>

[5. If all of you agree that the defendant is not guilty of first degree murder and not guilty of second degree murder, but also agree that the defendant is guilty of (voluntary/involuntary) manslaughter, complete and sign the form for guilty of (voluntary/involuntary) manslaughter. Do not complete or sign any other verdict forms [for that count].

6. If all of you agree that the defendant is not guilty of first degree murder and not guilty of second degree murder, but cannot agree whether the defendant is guilty of (voluntary/involuntary) manslaughter, inform me that you cannot reach agreement [on that count]. Do not complete or sign any verdict forms [for that count].

7. If all of you agree that the defendant is not guilty of first degree murder, not guilty of second degree murder, and not guilty of (voluntary/involuntary) manslaughter, complete and sign the verdict form for not guilty. Do not complete or sign any other verdict forms [for that count].]

<In addition to paragraphs 1–2, give the following if the jury is not instructed on second degree murder and the jury is instructed on one form of manslaughter (voluntary or involuntary) as the only lesser included offense.>

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[3. If all of you agree that the defendant is not guilty of first degree murder but also agree that the defendant is guilty of (voluntary/involuntary) manslaughter, complete and sign the form for guilty of (voluntary/involuntary) manslaughter. Do not complete or sign any other verdict forms [for that count].

4. If all of you agree that the defendant is not guilty of first degree murder but cannot agree whether the defendant is guilty of (voluntary/involuntary) manslaughter, inform me that you cannot reach agreement [for that count]. Do not complete or sign any verdict forms [for that count].

5. If all of you agree that the defendant is not guilty of first degree murder or (voluntary/involuntary) manslaughter, complete and sign the verdict form for not guilty. Do not complete or sign any other verdict forms [for that count].]

<If the jury is instructed on both voluntary and involuntary manslaughter as lesser included offenses, whether the jury is instructed on second degree murder or not, the court must give the jury guilty and not guilty verdict forms as to first degree murder and all lesser crimes, and instruct pursuant to CALCRIM 640.>

New January 2006; Revised April 2008, August 2009

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

In all homicide cases in which the defendant is charged with first degree murder and one or more lesser offense is submitted to the jury, the court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction or CALCRIM No. 640, Deliberations and Completion of Verdict Forms: For Use When the Defendant Is Charged With First Degree Murder and the Jury Is Given Not Guilty Forms for Each Level of Homicide. (See People v. Avalos (1984) 37 Cal.3d 216, 228 [207 Cal.Rptr. 549, 689 P.2d 121] [must instruct jury that it must be unanimous as to degree of murder]; People v. Dixon (1979) 24 Cal.3d 43, 52 [154 Cal.Rptr. 236, 592 P.2d 752] [jury must determine degree]; People v. Breverman (1998) 19 Cal.4th 142, 162 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 870, 960 P.2d 1094] [duty to instruct on lesser included offenses]; People v.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Dewberry (1959) 51 Cal.2d 548, 555–557 [334 P.2d 852] [duty to instruct that if jury has reasonable doubt of greater offense must acquit of that charge]; People v. Fields (1996) 13 Cal.4th 289, 309–310 [52 Cal.Rptr.2d 282, 914 P.2d 832] [duty to instruct that jury cannot convict of a lesser offense unless it has concluded that defendant is not guilty of the greater offense]; Stone v. Superior Court (1982) 31 Cal.3d 503, 519 [183 Cal.Rptr. 647, 646 P.2d 809] [duty to give jury opportunity to render a verdict of partial acquittal on a greater offense], clarified in People v. Marshall (1996) 13 Cal.4th 799, 826 [55 Cal.Rptr.2d 347, 919 P.2d 1280] [no duty to inquire about partial acquittal in absence of indication jury may have found defendant not guilty of greater offense].)

In Stone v. Superior Court, supra, 31 Cal.3d at p. 519, the Supreme Court suggested that the trial court provide the jury with verdict forms of guilty/not guilty on each of the charged and lesser offenses. The court later referred to this "as a judicially declared rule of criminal procedure." (People v. Kurtzman (1988) 46 Cal.3d 322, 329 [250 Cal.Rptr. 244, 758 P.2d 572].) However, this is not a mandatory procedure. (Ibid.) If the court chooses not to follow the procedure suggested in Stone, the court may give this instruction. If the jury later declares that it is unable to reach a verdict on a lesser offense, then the court must provide the jury an opportunity to acquit on the greater offense. (People v. Marshall, supra, 13 Cal.4th at p. 826; Stone v. Superior Court, supra, 31 Cal.3d at p. 519.) In such cases, the court must give CALCRIM No. 640 and must provide the jury with verdict forms of guilty/not guilty for each offense. (People v. Marshall, supra, 13 Cal.4th at p. 826; Stone v. Superior Court, supra, 31 Cal.3d at p. 519.)

If the greatest offense charged is second degree murder, the court should give CALCRIM 643, Deliberations and Completion of Verdict Forms: For Use When Defendant Is Charged With Second Degree Murder and Jury Is Given Only One Not Guilty Verdict Form for Each Count; Not to Be Used When Both Voluntary and Involuntary Manslaughter Are Lesser Included Offenses instead of this instruction.

The court should tell the jury it may not return a guilty verdict on a lesser included offense unless it has found the defendant not guilty of the greater offense. (People v. Fields, supra, 13 Cal.4th at pp. 310–311.) If the jury announces that it is deadlocked on the greater offense but, despite the court's instructions, has returned a guilty verdict on the lesser included offense, the court should again instruct the jury that it may not convict of the lesser included offense unless it has found the defendant not guilty of the greater offense. (Ibid.) The court should direct the jury to reconsider the "lone verdict of conviction of the lesser included offense" in light of this instruction. (Ibid.; Pen. Code, § 1161.) If the jury is deadlocked on the greater offense but the court nevertheless records a guilty verdict on the lesser included offense and then discharges the jury, retrial on the greater offense will be barred. (People v. Fields, supra, 13 Cal.4th at p. 307; Pen. Code, § 1023.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If, after following the procedures required by Fields, the jury declares that it is deadlocked on the greater offense, then the prosecution must elect one of the following options: (1) the prosecutor may request that the court declare a mistrial on the greater offense without recording the verdict on the lesser offense, allowing the prosecutor to re-try the defendant for the greater offense; or (2) the prosecutor may ask the court to record the verdict on the lesser offense and to dismiss the greater offense, opting to accept the current conviction rather than re-try the defendant on the greater offense. (People v. Fields, supra, 13 Cal.4th at p. 311.)

The court may not control the sequence in which the jury considers the various homicide offenses. (People v. Kurtzman, supra, 46 Cal.3d at pp. 322, 330.)

Do not give this instruction if felony murder is the only theory for first degree murder. (People v. Mendoza (2000) 23 Cal.4th 896, 908–909 [98 Cal.Rptr.2d 431, 4 P.3d 265].)

AUTHORITY

- Lesser Included Offenses-Duty to Instruct. Pen. Code, § 1159; People v. Breverman (1998) 19 Cal.4th 142, 162 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 870, 960 P.2d 1094].
- Degree to Be Set by Jury. Pen. Code, § 1157; People v. Avalos (1984) 37 Cal.3d 216, 228 [207 Cal.Rptr. 549, 689 P.2d 121]; People v. Dixon (1979) 24 Cal.3d 43, 52 [154 Cal.Rptr. 236, 592 P.2d 752].
- Reasonable Doubt as to Degree. Pen. Code, § 1097; People v. Morse (1964) 60 Cal.2d 631, 657 [36 Cal.Rptr. 201, 388 P.2d 33]; People v. Dewberry (1959) 51 Cal.2d 548, 555–557 [334 P.2d 852].
- Conviction of Lesser Precludes Re-trial on Greater. Pen. Code, § 1023; People v. Fields (1996) 13 Cal.4th 289, 309–310 [52 Cal.Rptr.2d 282, 914 P.2d 832]; People v. Kurtzman (1988) 46 Cal.3d 322, 329 [250 Cal.Rptr. 244, 758 P.2d 572].
- Court May Ask Jury to Reconsider Conviction on Lesser Absent Finding on Greater. Pen. Code, § 1161; People v. Fields (1996) 13 Cal.4th 289, 310 [52 Cal.Rptr.2d 282, 914 P.2d 832].
- Must Permit Partial Verdict of Acquittal on Greater. People v. Marshall

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(1996) 13 Cal.4th 799, 826 [55 Cal.Rptr.2d 347, 919 P.2d 1280]; Stone v. Superior Court (1982) 31 Cal.3d 503, 519 [183 Cal.Rptr. 647, 646 P.2d 809].

- Involuntary Manslaughter Not a Lesser Included Offense of Voluntary Manslaughter. People v. Orr (1994) 22 Cal.App.4th 780, 784–785 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 553].

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Trial, § 631.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.20 (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.01[3][e], 142.02[3][c] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

642. Deliberations and Completion of Verdict Forms: For Use When Defendant Is Charged With Second Degree Murder and Jury Is Given Not Guilty Forms for Each Level of Homicide

---

[For each count charging second degree murder,] (Y/y)ou (have been/will be) given verdict forms for guilty and not guilty of second degree murder (, /and) [voluntary manslaughter (, /and)] [involuntary manslaughter].

You may consider these different kinds of homicide in whatever order you wish, but I can accept a verdict of guilty or not guilty of [voluntary] [or] [involuntary] manslaughter only if all of you have found the defendant not guilty of second degree murder.

[As with all of the charges in this case,] (To/to) return a verdict of guilty or not guilty on a count, you must all agree on that decision.

Follow these directions before you give me any completed and signed final verdict form[s]. [Return the unused verdict form[s] to me, unsigned.]

1. If all of you agree that the People have proved beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant is guilty of second degree murder, complete and sign that verdict form. Do not complete or sign any other verdict forms [for that count].

2. If all of you cannot agree whether the defendant is guilty of second degree murder, inform me that you cannot reach an agreement and do not complete or sign any verdict forms [for that count].

   <In addition to paragraphs 1–2, give the following if the jury is instructed on only one form of manslaughter (voluntary or involuntary) as a lesser included offense.>

[3. If all of you agree that the defendant is not guilty of second degree murder but also agree that the defendant is guilty of (voluntary/involuntary) manslaughter, complete and sign the form for not guilty of second degree murder and the form for guilty of (voluntary/involuntary) manslaughter. Do not complete or sign any other verdict forms [for that count].

4. If all of you agree that the defendant is not guilty of second degree murder but cannot agree whether the defendant is guilty of (voluntary/involuntary) manslaughter, complete and sign the form for not guilty of second degree murder and inform me that you cannot reach further agreement. Do not complete or sign any other verdict forms [for that count].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

5. If all of you agree that the defendant is not guilty of second degree murder and not guilty of (voluntary/involuntary) manslaughter, complete and sign the verdict forms for not guilty of both.]

<In addition to paragraphs 1–2, give the following if the jury is instructed on both voluntary and involuntary manslaughter as lesser included offenses.>

[3. If all of you agree that the defendant is not guilty of second degree murder, complete and sign the form for not guilty of second degree murder.

4. If all of you agree on a verdict of guilty or not guilty of voluntary manslaughter or involuntary manslaughter, complete and sign the appropriate verdict form for each charge on which you agree. Do not complete or sign any other verdict forms [for that count]. You may not find the defendant guilty of both voluntary and involuntary manslaughter [as to any count].

5. If you cannot reach agreement as to voluntary manslaughter or involuntary manslaughter, inform me of your disagreement. Do not complete or sign any verdict form for any charge on which you cannot reach agreement.]

New August 2009

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

In all homicide cases in which second degree murder is the greatest offense charged and one or more lesser offense is submitted to the jury, the court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction. (See People v. Avalos (1984) 37 Cal.3d 216, 228 [207 Cal.Rptr. 549, 689 P.2d 121] [must instruct jury that it must be unanimous as to degree of murder]; People v. Dixon (1979) 24 Cal.3d 43, 52 [154 Cal.Rptr. 236, 592 P.2d 752] [jury must determine degree]; People v. Breverman (1998) 19 Cal.4th 142, 162 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 870, 960 P.2d 1094] [duty to instruct on lesser included offenses]; People v. Dewberry (1959) 51 Cal.2d 548, 555–557 [334 P.2d 852] [duty to instruct that if jury has reasonable doubt of greater offense must acquit of that charge]; People v. Fields (1996) 13 Cal.4th 289, 309–310 [52 Cal.Rptr.2d 282, 914 P.2d 832] [duty to instruct that jury cannot convict of a lesser offense unless it has concluded that defendant is not guilty of the greater offense]; Stone v. Superior Court (1982) 31 Cal.3d 503, 519 [183 Cal.Rptr. 647, 646 P.2d 809] [duty to give jury opportunity to render a verdict of partial acquittal on a greater offense], clarified in People v. Marshall (1996) 13 Cal.4th 799, 826 [55 Cal.Rptr.2d 347, 919 P.2d 1280] [no duty to inquire about partial acquittal in absence of indication jury may have found defendant not guilty of greater offense].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

In Stone v. Superior Court, supra, 31 Cal.3d at p. 519, the Supreme Court suggested that the trial court provide the jury with verdict forms of guilty/not guilty on each of the charged and lesser offenses. The court later referred to this "as a judicially declared rule of criminal procedure." (People v. Kurtzman (1988) 46 Cal.3d 322, 329 [250 Cal.Rptr. 244, 758 P.2d 572].) However, this is not a mandatory procedure. (Ibid.)

If the court chooses not to follow the procedure suggested in Stone, the court may give CALCRIM No. 643, Deliberations and Completion of Verdict Forms: For Use When Defendant Is Charged With Second Degree Murder and Jury Is Given Only One Not Guilty Verdict Form for Each Count; Not to Be Used When Both Voluntary and Involuntary Manslaughter Are Lesser Included Offenses, in place of this instruction.

The court should tell the jury it may not return a guilty verdict on a lesser included offense unless it has found the defendant not guilty of the greater offense. (People v. Fields, supra, 13 Cal.4th at pp. 310–311.) If the jury announces that it is deadlocked on the greater offense but, despite the court's instructions, has returned a guilty verdict on the lesser included offense, the court should again instruct the jury that it may not convict of the lesser included offense unless it has found the defendant not guilty of the greater offense. (Ibid.) The court should direct the jury to reconsider the "lone verdict of conviction of the lesser included offense" in light of this instruction. (Ibid.; Pen. Code, § 1161.) If the jury is deadlocked on the greater offense but the court nevertheless records a guilty verdict on the lesser included offense and then discharges the jury, retrial on the greater offense will be barred. (People v. Fields, supra, 13 Cal.4th at p. 307; Pen. Code, § 1023.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If, after following the procedures required by Fields, the jury declares that it is deadlocked on the greater offense, then the prosecution must elect one of the following options: (1) the prosecutor may request that the court declare a mistrial on the greater offense without recording the verdict on the lesser offense, allowing the prosecutor to retry the defendant for the greater offense; or (2) the prosecutor may ask the court to record the verdict on the lesser offense and to dismiss the greater offense, opting to accept the current conviction rather than retry the defendant on the greater offense. (People v. Fields, supra, 13 Cal.4th at p. 311.)

The court may not control the sequence in which the jury considers the various homicide offenses. (People v. Kurtzman, supra, 46 Cal.3d at pp. 330–331.)

AUTHORITY

- Lesser Included Offenses-Duty to Instruct. Pen. Code, § 1159; People v. Breverman (1998) 19 Cal.4th 142, 162 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 870, 960 P.2d 1094].
- Degree to Be Set by Jury. Pen. Code, § 1157; People v. Avalos (1984) 37 Cal.3d 216, 228 [207 Cal.Rptr. 549, 689 P.2d 121]; People v. Dixon (1979) 24 Cal.3d 43, 52 [154 Cal.Rptr. 236, 592 P.2d 752].
- Reasonable Doubt as to Degree. Pen. Code, § 1097; People v. Morse (1964) 60 Cal.2d 631, 657 [36 Cal.Rptr. 201, 388 P.2d 33]; People v. Dewberry (1959) 51 Cal.2d 548, 555–557 [334 P.2d 852].
- Conviction of Lesser Precludes Re-trial on Greater. Pen. Code, § 1023; People v. Fields (1996) 13 Cal.4th 289, 309–310 [52 Cal.Rptr.2d 282, 914 P.2d 832]; People v. Kurtzman (1988) 46 Cal.3d 322, 329 [250 Cal.Rptr. 244, 758 P.2d 572].
- Court May Ask Jury to Reconsider Conviction on Lesser Absent Finding on Greater. Pen. Code, § 1161; People v. Fields (1996) 13 Cal.4th 289, 310 [52 Cal.Rptr.2d 282, 914 P.2d 832].
- Must Permit Partial Verdict of Acquittal on Greater. People v. Marshall (1996) 13 Cal.4th 799, 826 [55 Cal.Rptr.2d 347, 919 P.2d 1280]; Stone v. Superior Court (1982) 31 Cal.3d 503, 519 [183 Cal.Rptr. 647, 646 P.2d 809].
- Involuntary Manslaughter Not a Lesser Included Offense of Voluntary Manslaughter. People v. Orr (1994) 22 Cal.App.4th 780, 784–785 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 553].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Trial, § 631.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.20 (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.01[3][e], 142.02[3][c] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

643. Deliberations and Completion of Verdict Forms: For Use When Defendant Is Charged With Second Degree Murder and Jury Is Given Only One Not Guilty Verdict Form for Each Count; Not to Be Used When Both Voluntary and Involuntary Manslaughter Are Lesser Included Offenses

---

[For each count charging second degree murder,] (Y/y)ou (have been/will be) given verdict forms for guilty of second degree murder, guilty of (voluntary /involuntary) manslaughter and not guilty.

You may consider these different kinds of homicide in whatever order you wish, but I can accept a verdict of guilty of (voluntary/ involuntary) manslaughter only if all of you have found the defendant not guilty of second degree murder.

[As with all the charges in this case,] (To/to) return a verdict of guilty or not guilty on a count, you must all agree on that decision.

Follow these directions before you give me any completed and signed, final verdict form. You will complete and sign only one verdict form [per count]. [Return the unused verdict forms to me, unsigned.]

1. If all of you agree that the People have proved beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant is guilty of second degree murder, complete and sign that verdict form. Do not complete or sign any other verdict forms [for that count].
2. If all of you cannot agree whether the defendant is guilty of second degree murder, inform me only that you cannot reach an agreement and do not complete or sign any verdict forms [for that count].
3. If all of you agree that the defendant is not guilty of second degree murder, but also agree that the defendant is guilty of (voluntary/involuntary) manslaughter, complete and sign the form for guilty of (voluntary/involuntary) manslaughter. Do not complete or sign any other verdict forms [for that count].
4. If all of you agree that the defendant is not guilty of second degree murder and cannot agree whether the defendant is guilty of (voluntary/involuntary) manslaughter, inform me that you cannot reach agreement [on that count]. Do not complete or sign any other verdict forms [for that count].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

5. If all of you agree that the defendant is not guilty of second degree murder and not guilty of (voluntary/involuntary) manslaughter, complete and sign the verdict form for not guilty. Do not complete or sign any other verdict forms [for that count].

<If the jury is instructed on both voluntary and involuntary manslaughter as lesser included offenses, this instruction may not be used. The court must give the jury guilty and not guilty verdict forms as to second degree murder and each form of manslaughter, and must instruct pursuant to CALCRIM 642.>

New August 2009

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

In all homicide cases in which the greatest offense charged is second degree murder and one or more lesser offense is submitted to the jury, the court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction or CALCRIM No. 642, Deliberations and Completion of Verdict Forms: For Use When Defendant Is Charged With Second Degree Murder and Jury Is Given Not Guilty Forms for Each Level of Homicide. (See People v. Avalos (1984) 37 Cal.3d 216, 228 [207 Cal.Rptr. 549, 689 P.2d 121] [must instruct jury that it must be unanimous as to degree of murder]; People v. Dixon (1979) 24 Cal.3d 43, 52 [154 Cal.Rptr. 236, 592 P.2d 752] [jury must determine degree]; People v. Breverman (1998) 19 Cal.4th 142, 162 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 870, 960 P.2d 1094] [duty to instruct on lesser included offenses]; People v. Dewberry (1959) 51 Cal.2d 548, 555–557 [334 P.2d 852] [duty to instruct that if jury has reasonable doubt of greater offense must acquit of that charge]; People v. Fields (1996) 13 Cal.4th 289, 309–310 [52 Cal.Rptr.2d 282, 914 P.2d 832] [duty to instruct that jury cannot convict of a lesser offense unless it has concluded that defendant is not guilty of the greater offense]; Stone v. Superior Court (1982) 31 Cal.3d 503, 519 [183 Cal.Rptr. 647, 646 P.2d 809] [duty to give jury opportunity to render a verdict of partial acquittal on a greater offense], clarified in People v. Marshall (1996) 13 Cal.4th 799, 826 [55 Cal.Rptr.2d 347, 919 P.2d 1280] [no duty to inquire about partial acquittal in absence of indication jury may have found defendant not guilty of greater offense].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

In Stone v. Superior Court, supra, 31 Cal.3d at p. 519, the Supreme Court suggested that the trial court provide the jury with verdict forms of guilty/not guilty on each of the charged and lesser offenses. The court later referred to this "as a judicially declared rule of criminal procedure." (People v. Kurtzman (1988) 46 Cal.3d 322, 329 [250 Cal.Rptr. 244, 758 P.2d 572].) However, this is not a mandatory procedure. (Ibid.) If the court chooses not to follow the procedure suggested in Stone, the court may give this instruction. If the jury later declares that it is unable to reach a verdict on a lesser offense, then the court must provide the jury an opportunity to acquit on the greater offense. (People v. Marshall, supra, 13 Cal.4th at p. 826; Stone v. Superior Court, supra, 31 Cal.3d at p. 519.) In such cases, the court must give CALCRIM No. 642 and must provide the jury with verdict forms of guilty/not guilty for each offense. (People v. Marshall, supra, 13 Cal.4th at p. 826; Stone v. Superior Court, supra, 31 Cal.3d at p. 519.)

The court should tell the jury it may not return a guilty verdict on a lesser included offense unless it has found the defendant not guilty of the greater offense. (People v. Fields, supra, 13 Cal.4th at pp. 310–311.) If the jury announces that it is deadlocked on the greater offense but, despite the court's instructions, has returned a guilty verdict on the lesser included offense, the court should again instruct the jury that it may not convict of the lesser included offense unless it has found the defendant not guilty of the greater offense. (Ibid.) The court should direct the jury to reconsider the "lone verdict of conviction of the lesser included offense" in light of this instruction. (Ibid.; Pen. Code, § 1161.) If the jury is deadlocked on the greater offense but the court nevertheless records a guilty verdict on the lesser included offense and then discharges the jury, retrial on the greater offense will be barred. (People v. Fields, supra, 13 Cal.4th at p. 307; Pen. Code, § 1023.)

If, after following the procedures required by Fields, the jury declares that it is deadlocked on the greater offense, then the prosecution must elect one of the following options: (1) the prosecutor may request that the court declare a mistrial on the greater offense without recording the verdict on the lesser offense, allowing the prosecutor to re-try the defendant for the greater offense; or (2) the prosecutor may ask the court to record the verdict on the lesser offense and to dismiss the greater offense, opting to accept the current conviction rather than re-try the defendant on the greater offense. (People v. Fields, supra, 13 Cal.4th at p. 311.)

The court may not control the sequence in which the jury considers the various homicide offenses. (People v. Kurtzman, supra, 46 Cal.3d at pp. 322, 330.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Lesser Included Offenses-Duty to Instruct. Pen. Code, § 1159; People v. Breverman (1998) 19 Cal.4th 142, 162 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 870, 960 P.2d 1094].
- Degree to Be Set by Jury. Pen. Code, § 1157; People v. Avalos (1984) 37 Cal.3d 216, 228 [207 Cal.Rptr. 549, 689 P.2d 121]; People v. Dixon (1979) 24 Cal.3d 43, 52 [154 Cal.Rptr. 236, 592 P.2d 752].
- Reasonable Doubt as to Degree. Pen. Code, § 1097; People v. Morse (1964) 60 Cal.2d 631, 657 [36 Cal.Rptr. 201, 388 P.2d 33]; People v. Dewberry (1959) 51 Cal.2d 548, 555–557 [334 P.2d 852].
- Conviction of Lesser Precludes Re-trial on Greater. Pen. Code, § 1023; People v. Fields (1996) 13 Cal.4th 289, 309–310 [52 Cal.Rptr.2d 282, 914 P.2d 832]; People v. Kurtzman (1988) 46 Cal.3d 322, 329 [250 Cal.Rptr. 244, 758 P.2d 572].
- Court May Ask Jury to Reconsider Conviction on Lesser Absent Finding on Greater. Pen. Code, § 1161; People v. Fields (1996) 13 Cal.4th 289, 310 [52 Cal.Rptr.2d 282, 914 P.2d 832].
- Must Permit Partial Verdict of Acquittal on Greater. People v. Marshall (1996) 13 Cal.4th 799, 826 [55 Cal.Rptr.2d 347, 919 P.2d 1280]; Stone v. Superior Court (1982) 31 Cal.3d 503, 519 [183 Cal.Rptr. 647, 646 P.2d 809].
- Involuntary Manslaughter Not a Lesser Included Offense of Voluntary Manslaughter. People v. Orr (1994) 22 Cal.App.4th 780, 784–785 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 553].

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Trial, § 631.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.20 (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.01[3][e], 142.02[3][c] (Matthew Bender).

644–699. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

K. SPECIAL CIRCUMSTANCES

(i) General Instructions

700. Special Circumstances: Introduction (Pen. Code, § 190.2)

If you find (the/a) defendant guilty of first degree murder, you must also decide whether the People have proved that [one or more of] the special circumstance[s] is true.

The People have the burden of proving (the/each) special circumstance beyond a reasonable doubt. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the special circumstance has not been proved. [You must return a verdict form stating true or not true for each special circumstance on which you all agree.]

In order for you to return a finding that a special circumstance is or is not true, all 12 of you must agree.

[You must (consider each special circumstance separately/ [and you must] consider each special circumstance separately for each defendant).]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct the jury on the special circumstances and to instruct that, in the case of a reasonable doubt, the jury must find the special circumstance not true. (Pen. Code, § 190.4; see People v. Frierson (1979) 25 Cal.3d 142, 180 [158 Cal.Rptr. 281, 599 P.2d 587]; People v. Ochoa (1998) 19 Cal.4th 353, 420 [79 Cal.Rptr.2d 408, 966 P.2d 442].)

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct the jury to consider each special circumstance separately. (See People v. Holt (1997) 15 Cal.4th 619, 681 [63 Cal.Rptr.2d 782, 937 P.2d 213].) Give the bracketed paragraph if more than one special circumstance is charged or there are multiple defendants.

Where multiple special circumstances are charged, the court may accept a partial verdict if the jury is unable to unanimously agree on all of the special circumstances. (Pen. Code, § 190.4.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Reasonable Doubt. Pen. Code, § 190.4; People v. Frierson (1979) 25 Cal.3d 142, 180 [158 Cal.Rptr. 281, 599 P.2d 587]; People v. Ochoa (1998) 19 Cal.4th 353, 420 [79 Cal.Rptr.2d 408, 966 P.2d 442].
- Partial Verdict. Pen. Code, § 190.4.
- Consider Each Special Circumstance Separately. People v. Holt (1997) 15 Cal.4th 619, 681 [63 Cal.Rptr.2d 782, 937 P.2d 213].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000), Punishment, § 461.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, §§ 87.02, 87.10–87.15, 87.24 (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[4][a] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Right to Jury Trial on Special Circumstances

Unless specifically waived, the defendant has a right to jury trial on the special circumstance allegations even if the defendant pleaded guilty to the underlying charges. (People v. Granger (1980) 105 Cal.App.3d 422, 428 [164 Cal.Rptr. 363].)

Prior Conviction for Murder Requires Bifurcated Trial

If the defendant is charged with the special circumstance of a prior conviction for murder, under Penal Code section 190.2(a)(2), the court must bifurcate the trial. (Pen. Code, § 190.1.) The jury should first determine whether the defendant is guilty of first degree murder and whether any other special circumstances charged are true. (Ibid.) The prior conviction special circumstance should then be submitted to the jury in a separate proceeding. (Ibid.)

All Special Circumstances Constitutional Except Heinous or Atrocious Murder

The special circumstance for a heinous, atrocious, or cruel murder (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(14)) has been held to be unconstitutionally vague. (People v. Superior Court (Engert) (1982) 31 Cal.3d 797, 803 [183 Cal.Rptr. 800, 647 P.2d 76]; People v. Sanders (1990) 51 Cal.3d 471, 520 [273 Cal.Rptr.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

537, 797 P.2d 561].) No other special circumstance has been found unconstitutional.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

701. Special Circumstances: Intent Requirement for Accomplice Before June 6, 1990

If you decide that (the/a) defendant is guilty of first degree murder but was not the actual killer, then, when you consider the special circumstance[s] _____ <insert special circumstance[s] without intent requirement for actual killer>, you must also decide whether the defendant acted with the intent to kill.

In order to prove (this/these) special circumstance[s] for a defendant who is not the actual killer but who is guilty of first degree murder as (an aider and abettor/ [or] a member of a conspiracy), the People must prove that the defendant acted with the intent to kill.

[The People do not have to prove that the actual killer acted with the intent to kill in order for (this/these) special circumstance[s] to be true. [If you decide that the defendant is guilty of first degree murder, but you cannot agree whether the defendant was the actual killer, then, in order to find (this/these) special circumstance[s] true, you must find that the defendant acted with the intent to kill.]]

If the defendant was not the actual killer, then the People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that (he/she) acted with the intent to kill for the special circumstance[s] _____ <insert special circumstance[s] without intent requirement for actual killer> to be true. If the People have not met this burden, you must find (this/these) special circumstance[s] (has/have) not been proved true [for that defendant].

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct the jury on the mental state required for accomplice liability when a special circumstance is charged and there is sufficient evidence to support the finding that the defendant was not the actual killer. (See People v. Jones (2003) 30 Cal.4th 1084, 1117 [135 Cal.Rptr.2d 370, 70 P.3d 359].) If there is sufficient evidence to show that the defendant may have been an accomplice and not the actual killer, the court has a sua sponte duty to give the accomplice intent instruction, regardless of the prosecution's theory of the case. (Ibid.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

For all murders committed prior to June 6, 1990, the People must prove that an aider and abettor or coconspirator acted with intent to kill for all special circumstances except Penal Code section 190.2(a)(2) (prior conviction for murder). (People v. Anderson (1987) 43 Cal.3d 1104, 1147 [240 Cal.Rptr. 585, 742 P.2d 1306] [modifying Carlos v. Superior Court (1983) 35 Cal.3d 131, 135 [197 Cal.Rptr. 79, 672 P.2d 862]]; see pre-June 6, 1990, Pen. Code, § 190.2(b).) Since the Supreme Court ruling in People v. Anderson, supra, the People do not have to show intent to kill on the part of the actual killer unless specified in the special circumstance. (People v. Anderson, supra, 43 Cal.3d at p. 1147.) However, if the killing occurred during the window of time between Carlos and Anderson (1983 to 1987), then the People must also prove intent to kill on the part of the actual killer. (People v. Bolden (2002) 29 Cal.4th 515, 560 [127 Cal.Rptr.2d 802, 58 P.3d 931].)

Use this instruction for any case in which the jury could conclude that the defendant was an accomplice to a homicide that occurred prior to June 6, 1990, where any special circumstance is charged that does not require intent to kill on the part of the actual killer, other than Penal Code section 190.2(a)(2). For those special circumstances where intent to kill is required for both the actual killer and the accomplice, this instruction is not required. For those special circumstances, the instruction on the special circumstance states "the defendant intended to kill" as an element.

The court should carefully review the prior versions of Penal Code section 190.2 to determine if the special circumstance required intent to kill at the time of the killing because the special circumstances have been amended by referendum several times.

Give the bracketed paragraph stating that the People do not have to prove intent to kill on the part of the actual killer if there is a codefendant alleged to be the actual killer or if the jury could convict the defendant as either the actual killer or an accomplice.

If the jury could convict the defendant either as a principal or as an accomplice, and the defendant is charged with a special circumstance that does not require intent to kill by the principal, then jury must find intent to kill if they cannot agree that the defendant was the actual killer. (People v. Jones (2003) 30 Cal.4th 1084, 1117 [135 Cal.Rptr.2d 370, 70 P.3d 359].) In such cases, the court should give both bracketed paragraphs.

If the homicide occurred between 1983 and 1987, do not give this instruction. (People v. Bolden (2002) 29 Cal.4th 515, 560 [127 Cal.Rptr.2d

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

802, 58 P.3d 931].) For homicides during that period, the prosecution must prove intent to kill by the actual killer as well as the accomplice. The court should make sure that the instruction on the special circumstance states that the prosecution must prove that the defendant intended to kill.

Do not give this instruction if accomplice liability is not at issue in the case.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 702, Special Circumstances: Intent Requirement for Accomplice After June 5, 1990—Other Than Felony Murder.

CALCRIM No. 703, Special Circumstances: Intent Requirement for Accomplice After June 5, 1990—Felony Murder.

AUTHORITY

- Accomplice Intent Requirement. Pre-June 6, 1990, Pen. Code, § 190.2(b); People v. Anderson (1987) 43 Cal.3d 1104, 1147 [240 Cal.Rptr. 585, 742 P.2d 1306].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, §§ 453, 460.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, § 87.14 (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

702. Special Circumstances: Intent Requirement for Accomplice After June 5, 1990—Other Than Felony Murder (Pen. Code, § 190.2(c))

If you decide that (the/a) defendant is guilty of first degree murder but was not the actual killer, then, when you consider the special circumstance[s] of _____ <insert only special circumstance[s] under Pen. Code, §§ 190.2(a)(2), (3), (4), (5) or (6)>, you must also decide whether the defendant acted with the intent to kill.

In order to prove (this/these) special circumstance[s] for a defendant who is not the actual killer but who is guilty of first degree murder as (an aider and abettor/ [or] a member of a conspiracy), the People must prove that the defendant acted with the intent to kill.

[The People do not have to prove that the actual killer acted with the intent to kill in order for (this/these) special circumstance[s] to be true. [If you decide that the defendant is guilty of first degree murder, but you cannot agree whether the defendant was the actual killer, then, in order to find (this/these) special circumstance[s] true, you must find that the defendant acted with the intent to kill.]]

If the defendant was not the actual killer, then the People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that (he/she) acted with the intent to kill for the special circumstance[s] _____ <insert only special circumstance[s] under Pen. Code, §§ 190.2(a)(2), (3), (4), (5) or (6)> to be true. If the People have not met this burden, you must find (this/these) special circumstance[s] (has/ have) not been proved true [for that defendant].

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct the jury on the mental state required for accomplice liability when a special circumstance is charged and there is sufficient evidence to support the finding that the defendant was not the actual killer. (See People v. Jones (2003) 30 Cal.4th 1084, 1117 [135 Cal.Rptr.2d 370].) If there is sufficient evidence to show that the defendant may have been an accomplice and not the actual killer, the court has a sua sponte duty to give the accomplice intent instruction, regardless of the prosecution's theory of the case. (Ibid.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Proposition 115 modified the intent requirement of the special circumstance law, codifying the decisions of People v. Anderson (1987) 43 Cal.3d 1104, 1147 [240 Cal.Rptr. 585, 742 P.2d 1306], and Tison v. Arizona (1987) 481 U.S. 137, 157–158 [107 S.Ct. 1676, 95 L.Ed.2d 127]. The current law provides that the actual killer does not have to act with intent to kill unless the special circumstance specifically requires intent. (Pen. Code, § 190.2(b).) A defendant who is not the actual killer must act with intent to kill unless the felony-murder special circumstance is charged. (Pen. Code, §§ 190.2(c), (d).) If the felony-murder special circumstance is charged, then the People must prove that a defendant who was not the actual killer either acted with intent to kill or was a major participant and acted with reckless indifference to human life. (Pen. Code, § 190.2(d); People v. Estrada (1995) 11 Cal.4th 568, 571 [46 Cal.Rptr.2d 586, 904 P.2d 1197].)

Use this instruction for any case in which the jury could conclude that the defendant was an accomplice to a homicide that occurred after June 5, 1990, and the defendant is charged with a special circumstance, other than felony murder, that does not require intent to kill by the actual killer. Currently, the only special circumstances, other than felony murder, that do not require intent to kill by the actual killer are: Prior conviction for murder (§ 190.2(a)(2)); Multiple offenses of murder (§ 190.2(a)(3)); Murder by hidden explosive (§ 190.2(a)(4)); Murder to avoid arrest (§ 190.2(a)(5)); and Murder by mail bomb (§ 190.2(a)(6)). However, the court should carefully review the prior versions of Penal Code section 190.2 to determine if the special circumstance required intent to kill at the time of the killing because the special circumstances have been amended by referendum several times.

For those special circumstances where intent to kill is required for both the actual killer and the accomplice, this instruction is not required. For those special circumstances, the instruction on the special circumstance states "the defendant intended to kill" as an element.

When the felony-murder special circumstance is charged, use CALCRIM No. 703, Special Circumstances: Intent Requirement for Accomplice After June 5, 1990—Felony Murder.

Give the bracketed paragraph stating that the People do not have to prove intent to kill on the part of the actual killer if there is a codefendant alleged to be the actual killer or if the jury could convict the defendant as either the actual killer or an accomplice.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If the jury could convict the defendant either as a principal or as an accomplice, and the defendant is charged with one of the special circumstances that does not require intent to kill by the principal, then the jury must find intent to kill if they cannot agree that the defendant was the actual killer. (People v. Jones (2003) 30 Cal.4th 1084, 1117 [135 Cal.Rptr.2d 370, 70 P.3d 359].) In such cases, the court should then give both bracketed paragraphs.

Do not give this instruction if accomplice liability is not at issue in the case.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 701, Special Circumstances: Intent Requirement for Accomplice Before June 6, 1990.

CALCRIM No. 703, Special Circumstances: Intent Requirement for Accomplice After June 5, 1990—Felony Murder.

AUTHORITY

- Accomplice Intent Requirement. Pen. Code, § 190.2(c).
- Constitutional Standard for Intent by Accomplice. Tison v. Arizona (1987) 481 U.S. 137, 157–158 [107 S.Ct. 1676, 95 L.Ed.2d 127].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California. Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, §§ 453, 460.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, § 87.14 (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

703. Special Circumstances: Intent Requirement for Accomplice After June 5, 1990—Felony Murder (Pen. Code, § 190.2(d))

If you decide that (the/a) defendant is guilty of first degree murder but was not the actual killer, then, when you consider the special circumstance[s] of _____ <insert felony murder special circumstance[s]>, you must also decide whether the defendant acted either with intent to kill or with reckless indifference to human life.

In order to prove (this/these) special circumstance[s] for a defendant who is not the actual killer but who is guilty of first degree murder as (an aider and abettor/ [or] a member of a conspiracy), the People must prove either that the defendant intended to kill, or the People must prove all of the following:

1. The defendant's participation in the crime began before or during the killing;
2. The defendant was a major participant in the crime;

AND

3. When the defendant participated in the crime, (he/she) acted with reckless indifference to human life.

[A person acts with reckless indifference to human life when he or she knowingly engages in criminal activity that he or she knows involves a grave risk of death.]

[The People do not have to prove that the actual killer acted with intent to kill or with reckless indifference to human life in order for the special circumstance[s] of _____ <insert felony-murder special circumstance[s]> to be true.]

[If you decide that the defendant is guilty of first degree murder, but you cannot agree whether the defendant was the actual killer, then, in order to find (this/these) special circumstance[s] true, you must find either that the defendant acted with intent to kill or you must find that the defendant acted with reckless indifference to human life and was a major participant in the crime.]

If the defendant was not the actual killer, then the People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that (he/she) acted with either the intent to kill or with reckless indifference to human life and was a major participant in the crime for the special circumstance[s] of _____ <insert felony murder special circumstance[s]> to be true. If the People have not met this burden, you must find (this/these) special circumstance[s] (has/have) not been proved true [for that defendant].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

New January 2006; Revised April 2008

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct the jury on the mental state required for accomplice liability when a special circumstance is charged and there is sufficient evidence to support the finding that the defendant was not the actual killer. (See People v. Jones (2003) 30 Cal.4th 1084, 1117 [135 Cal.Rptr.2d 370, 70 P.3d 359].) If there is sufficient evidence to show that the defendant may have been an accomplice and not the actual killer, the court has a sua sponte duty to give the accomplice intent instruction, regardless of the prosecution's theory of the case. (Ibid.)

Proposition 115 modified the intent requirement of the special circumstance law, codifying the decisions of People v. Anderson (1987) 43 Cal.3d 1104, 1147 [240 Cal.Rptr. 585, 742 P.2d 1306], and Tison v. Arizona (1987) 481 U.S. 137, 157–158 [107 S.Ct. 1676, 95 L.Ed.2d 127]. The current law provides that the actual killer does not have to act with intent to kill unless the special circumstance specifically requires intent. (Pen. Code, § 190.2(b).) If the felony-murder special circumstance is charged, then the People must prove that a defendant who was not the actual killer was a major participant and acted with intent to kill or with reckless indifference to human life. (Pen. Code, § 190.2(d); People v. Estrada (1995) 11 Cal.4th 568, 571 [46 Cal.Rptr.2d 586, 904 P.2d 1197].)

Use this instruction for any case in which the jury could conclude that the defendant was an accomplice to a killing that occurred after June 5, 1990, when the felony-murder special circumstance is charged.

Give the bracketed paragraph stating that the People do not have to prove intent to kill or reckless indifference on the part of the actual killer if there is a codefendant alleged to be the actual killer or if the jury could convict the defendant as either the actual killer or an accomplice.

If the jury could convict the defendant either as a principal or as an accomplice, the jury must find intent to kill or reckless indifference if they cannot agree that the defendant was the actual killer. (People v. Jones (2003) 30 Cal.4th 1084, 1117 [135 Cal.Rptr.2d 370, 70 P.3d 359].) In such cases, the court should give both the bracketed paragraph stating that the People do not have to prove intent to kill or reckless indifference on the part of the actual killer, and the bracketed paragraph that begins with "[I]f you decide that the defendant is guilty of first degree murder, but you cannot agree whether the defendant was the actual killer . . . ."

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

The court does not have a sua sponte duty to define "reckless indifference to human life." (People v. Estrada (1995) 11 Cal.4th 568, 578 [46 Cal.Rptr.2d 586, 904 P.2d 1197].) However, this "holding should not be understood to discourage trial courts from amplifying the statutory language for the jury." (Id. at p. 579.) The court may give the bracketed definition of reckless indifference if requested.

Do not give this instruction if accomplice liability is not at issue in the case.

AUTHORITY

- Accomplice Intent Requirement, Felony Murder. Pen. Code, § 190.2(d).
- Reckless Indifference to Human Life. People v. Estrada (1995) 11 Cal.4th 568, 578 [46 Cal.Rptr.2d 586, 904 P.2d 1197]; Tison v. Arizona (1987) 481 U.S. 137, 157–158 [107 S.Ct. 1676, 95 L.Ed.2d 127].
- Constitutional Standard for Intent by Accomplice. Tison v. Arizona (1987) 481 U.S. 137, 157–158 [107 S.Ct. 1676, 95 L.Ed.2d 127].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, §§ 453, 460.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, § 87.14 (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

704. Special Circumstances: Circumstantial Evidence—Sufficiency

Before you may rely on circumstantial evidence to conclude that a special circumstance allegation is true, you must be convinced that the People have proved each fact essential to that conclusion beyond a reasonable doubt.

Also, before you may rely on circumstantial evidence to find that a special circumstance allegation is true, you must be convinced that the only reasonable conclusion supported by the circumstantial evidence is that the special circumstance allegation is true. If you can draw two or more reasonable conclusions from the circumstantial evidence, and one of those reasonable conclusions supports a finding that the special circumstance allegation is true and another reasonable conclusion supports a finding that it is not true, you must conclude that the allegation was not proved by the circumstantial evidence. However, when considering circumstantial evidence, you must accept only reasonable conclusions and reject any that are unreasonable.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on how to evaluate circumstantial evidence if the prosecution substantially relies on circumstantial evidence to establish any element of the case. (People v. Yrigoyen (1955) 45 Cal.2d 46, 49 [286 P.2d 1] [duty exists where circumstantial evidence relied on to prove any element, including intent]; People v. Bloyd (1987) 43 Cal.3d 333, 351–352 [233 Cal.Rptr. 368, 729 P.2d 802].)

Give CALCRIM No. 223, Direct and Circumstantial Evidence: Defined, with this instruction.

The Supreme Court has held that it is appropriate to give an instruction specifically tailored to the use of circumstantial evidence in determining the truth of a special circumstance allegation. (People v. Maury (2003) 30 Cal.4th 342, 428 [133 Cal.Rptr.2d 561, 68 P.3d 1]; People v. Hughes (2002) 27 Cal.4th 287, 346 [116 Cal.Rptr.2d 401, 39 P.3d 432]; People v. Lewis (2001) 25 Cal.4th 610, 653 [106 Cal.Rptr.2d 629, 22 P.3d 392].) However, the court is not required to give this instruction if it has also given the more general instruction on circumstantial evidence. (People v. Hines (1997) 15 Cal.4th 997, 1051 [64 Cal.Rptr.2d 594, 938 P.2d 388]; People v. Lewis, supra, 25 Cal.4th at p. 653; see CALCRIM No. 224, Circumstantial Evidence: Sufficiency of Evidence.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 223, Direct and Circumstantial Evidence: Defined.

CALCRIM No. 224, Circumstantial Evidence: Sufficiency of Evidence.

CALCRIM No. 225, Circumstantial Evidence: Intent or Mental State.

CALCRIM No. 705, Special Circumstances: Circumstantial Evidence—Intent or Mental State.

AUTHORITY

- Duty to Instruct on Circumstantial Evidence Generally. People v. Yrigoyen (1955) 45 Cal.2d 46, 49 [286 P.2d 1]; People v. Bloyd (1987) 43 Cal.3d 333, 351–352 [233 Cal.Rptr. 368, 729 P.2d 802].
- Appropriate to Instruct on Special Circumstance. People v. Maury (2003) 30 Cal.4th 342, 428 [133 Cal.Rptr.2d 561, 68 P.3d 1]; People v. Hughes (2002) 27 Cal.4th 287, 346 [116 Cal.Rptr.2d 401, 39 P.3d 432]; People v. Lewis (2001) 25 Cal.4th 610, 653 [106 Cal.Rptr.2d 629, 22 P.3d 392].
- Instruction Duplicative, Not Required. People v. Lewis (2001) 25 Cal.4th 610, 653 [106 Cal.Rptr.2d 629, 22 P.3d 392]; People v. Hines (1997) 15 Cal.4th 997, 1051 [64 Cal.Rptr.2d 594, 938 P.2d 388].

Secondary Sources

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 83, Evidence, § 83.03, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.03[2][a] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

705. Special Circumstances: Circumstantial Evidence—Intent or Mental State

In order to prove the special circumstance[s] of _____ <insert special circumstance[s] with intent requirement>, the People must prove not only that the defendant did the act[s] charged, but also that (he/she) acted with a particular intent or mental state. The instruction for (each/the) special circumstance explains the intent or mental state required.

An intent or mental state may be proved by circumstantial evidence.

Before you may rely on circumstantial evidence to conclude that the defendant had the required intent or mental state, you must be convinced that the People have proved each fact essential to that conclusion beyond a reasonable doubt.

Also, before you may rely on circumstantial evidence to conclude that the defendant had the required intent or mental state, you must be convinced that the only reasonable conclusion supported by the circumstantial evidence is that the defendant had the required intent or mental state. If you can draw two or more reasonable conclusions from the circumstantial evidence, and one of those reasonable conclusions supports a finding that the defendant did have the required intent or mental state and another reasonable conclusion supports a finding that the defendant did not have the required intent or mental state, you must conclude that the required intent or mental state was not proved by the circumstantial evidence. However, when considering circumstantial evidence, you must accept only reasonable conclusions and reject any that are unreasonable.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on how to evaluate circumstantial evidence if the prosecution substantially relies on circumstantial evidence to establish any element of the case. (People v. Yrigoyen (1955) 45 Cal.2d 46, 49 [286 P.2d 1] [duty exists where circumstantial evidence relied on to prove any element, including intent]; People v. Bloyd (1987) 43 Cal.3d 333, 351–352 [233 Cal.Rptr. 368, 729 P.2d 802].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Give CALCRIM No. 223, Direct and Circumstantial Evidence: Defined, with this instruction.

The Supreme Court has held that it is appropriate to give an instruction specifically tailored to the use of circumstantial evidence in determining the truth of a special circumstance allegation. (People v. Maury (2003) 30 Cal.4th 342, 428 [133 Cal.Rptr.2d 561, 68 P.3d 1]; People v. Hughes (2002) 27 Cal.4th 287, 346 [116 Cal.Rptr.2d 401, 39 P.3d 432]; People v. Lewis (2001) 25 Cal.4th 610, 653 [106 Cal.Rptr.2d 629, 22 P.3d 392].) However, the court is not required to give this instruction if it has also given the more general instruction on circumstantial evidence. (People v. Hines (1997) 15 Cal.4th 997, 1051 [64 Cal.Rptr.2d 594, 938 P.2d 388]; People v. Lewis, supra, 25 Cal.4th at p. 653; see CALCRIM No. 225, Circumstantial Evidence: Intent or Mental State.)

If intent or mental state is the only element of the special circumstance that rests substantially on circumstantial evidence, then this instruction should be given in place of CALCRIM No. 704, Special Circumstances: Circumstantial Evidence—Sufficiency. (See People v. Marshall (1996) 13 Cal.4th 799, 849 [55 Cal.Rptr.2d 347, 919 P.2d 1280]). If other elements of the special circumstance also rest substantially or entirely on circumstantial evidence, the court may give the more general instruction, CALCRIM No. 704, instead of this instruction. (People v. Hughes, supra, 27 Cal.4th at p. 347.) The court may choose to give both instructions (CALCRIM Nos. 704 and 705) and may also choose to give both circumstantial evidence instructions for non-special circumstance cases (CALCRIM Nos. 224 and 225). (See People v. Maury, supra, 30 Cal.4th at p. 428.)

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 223, Direct and Circumstantial Evidence: Defined.

CALCRIM No. 224, Circumstantial Evidence: Sufficiency of Evidence.

CALCRIM No. 225, Circumstantial Evidence: Intent or Mental State.

CALCRIM No. 704, Special Circumstances: Circumstantial Evidence—Sufficiency.

AUTHORITY

- Duty to Instruct on Circumstantial Evidence Generally. People v. Yrigoyen (1955) 45 Cal.2d 46, 49 [286 P.2d 1]; People v. Bloyd (1987) 43 Cal.3d 333, 351–352 [233 Cal.Rptr. 368, 729 P.2d 802].
- Appropriate to Instruct on Special Circumstance. People v. Maury

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(2003) 30 Cal.4th 342, 428 [133 Cal.Rptr.2d 561, 68 P.3d 1]; People v. Hughes (2002) 27 Cal.4th 287, 346 [116 Cal.Rptr.2d 401]; People v. Lewis (2001) 25 Cal.4th 610, 653 [106 Cal.Rptr.2d 629, 22 P.3d 392].

- Instruction Duplicative, Not Required. People v. Lewis (2001) 25 Cal.4th 610, 653 [106 Cal.Rptr.2d 629, 22 P.3d 392]; People v. Hines (1997) 15 Cal.4th 997, 1051 [64 Cal.Rtpr.2d 594, 938 P.2d 388].

Secondary Sources

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, § 87.14 (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

706. Special Circumstances: Jury May Not Consider Punishment

In your deliberations, you may not consider or discuss penalty or punishment in any way when deciding whether a special circumstance, or any other charge, has been proved.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct the jury not to consider penalty or punishment when deciding on the special circumstances or other charges. (People v. Robertson (1982) 33 Cal.3d 21, 36 [188 Cal.Rptr. 77, 655 P.2d 279]; People v. Holt (1984) 37 Cal.3d 436, 458 [208 Cal.Rptr. 547, 690 P.2d 1207] [jury may not consider punishment in deciding on special circumstances].)

AUTHORITY

- Duty to Instruct. People v. Robertson (1982) 33 Cal.3d 21, 36 [188 Cal.Rptr. 77, 655 P.2d 279].
- Jury May Not Consider Punishment. People v. Holt (1984) 37 Cal.3d 436, 458 [208 Cal.Rptr. 547, 690 P.2d 1207].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

707. Special Circumstances: Accomplice Testimony Must Be Corroborated—Dispute Whether Witness Is Accomplice (Pen. Code, § 1111)

In order to prove the special circumstance[s] of _____ <insert special circumstance[s] requiring proof of additional crime>, the People must prove that the defendant committed _____ <insert crime[s] (other than murder) that must be proved>. The People have presented the (statement[s]/ [or] testimony) of _____ <insert name[s] of witness[es]> on this issue.

Before you may consider the (statement[s]/ [or] testimony) of _____ <insert name[s] of witness[es]> on the question of whether the special circumstance[s] (was/were) proved, you must decide whether (he/she/they) (was/were) [an] accomplice[s]. A person is an accomplice if he or she is subject to prosecution for the identical offense alleged against the defendant. Someone is subject to prosecution if he or she personally committed the offense or if:

1. He or she knew of the criminal purpose of the person who committed the offense;

AND

2. He or she intended to, and did, in fact, (aid, facilitate, promote, encourage, or instigate the commission of the offense[,]/ [or] participate in a criminal conspiracy to commit the offense).

The burden is on the defendant to prove that it is more likely than not that _____ <insert name[s] of witness[es]> (was/were) subject to prosecution for the identical offense.

[An accomplice does not need to be present when the crime is committed. On the other hand, a person is not an accomplice just because he or she is present at the scene of a crime, even if he or she knows that a crime [will be committed or] is being committed and does nothing to stop it.]

[A person who lacks criminal intent but who pretends to join in a crime only to detect or prosecute (the person/those) who commit[s] that crime is not an accomplice.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[A person may be an accomplice even if he or she is not actually prosecuted for the crime.]

[You may not conclude that a child under 14 years old was an accomplice unless you also decide that when the child acted, (he/she) understood:

1. The nature and effect of the criminal conduct;
2. That the conduct was wrongful and forbidden;

AND

3. That (he/she) could be punished for participating in the conduct.]

If you find that _____ <insert name[s] of witness[es]> (was/were) [an] accomplice[s], then you may not find that the special circumstance[s] of _____ <insert special circumstance[s] requiring proof of additional crime> (is/are) true based on (his/her/their) (statement[s]/ [or] testimony) alone. You may use the (statement[s]/ [or] testimony) of an accomplice to find the special circumstance true only if:

1. The accomplice's (statement[s]/ [and] testimony) (is/are) supported by other evidence that you believe;
2. That supporting evidence is independent of the accomplice's (statement[s]/ [and] testimony);

AND

3. That supporting evidence tends to connect the defendant to the commission of _____ <insert crime[s] (other than murder) that must be proved>.

Supporting evidence, however, may be slight. It does not need to be enough, by itself, to prove that the defendant committed _____ <insert crime[s] (other than murder) that must be proved>, and it does not need to support every fact (mentioned by the witness in the statement/ [or] about which the witness testified). On the other hand, it is not enough if the supporting evidence merely shows that a crime was committed or the circumstances of its commission. The supporting evidence must tend to connect the defendant to the commission of _____ <insert crime[s] (other than murder) that must be proved>.

[The evidence needed to support the (statement[s]/ [or] testimony)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

of one accomplice cannot be provided by the (statement[s]/ [or] testimony) of another accomplice.]

Any (statement/ [or] testimony) of an accomplice that tends to incriminate the defendant should be viewed with caution. You may not, however, arbitrarily disregard it. You should give that (statement/ [or] testimony) the weight you think it deserves after examining it with care and caution and in light of all the other evidence.

If you decide that _____ <insert name[s] of witness[es]> (was/were) not [an] accomplice[s], you should evaluate (his/her/ their) (statement[s]/ [or] testimony) as you would that of any other witness.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

There is a sua sponte duty to instruct that testimony by an accomplice must be corroborated if that testimony is used to prove a special circumstance based on a crime other than the murder charged in the case. (People v. Hamilton (1989) 48 Cal.3d 1142, 1177 [259 Cal.Rptr. 701, 774 P.2d 730].) "When the special circumstance requires proof of some other crime [besides the charged murder], that crime cannot be proved by the uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice. But when . . . it requires only proof of the motive for the murder for which defendant has already been convicted, the corroboration requirement . . . does not apply." (Ibid.)

"Whether a person is an accomplice is a question of fact for the jury unless the facts and the inferences to be drawn therefrom are undisputed." (People v. Coffman and Marlow (2004) 34 Cal.4th 1, 104 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 710 96 P.3d 30].) When the court concludes that the witness is an accomplice as a matter of law or the parties agree about the witness's status as an accomplice, do not give this instruction. Give CALCRIM No. 708, Special Circumstances: Accomplice Testimony Must Be Corroborated—No Dispute Whether Witness Is Accomplice.

When the witness is a codefendant whose testimony includes incriminating statements, the court should not instruct that the witness is an accomplice as a matter of law. (People v. Hill (1967) 66 Cal.2d 536, 555 [58 Cal.Rptr. 340, 426 P.2d 908].) Instead, the court should give this instruction, informing the jury that it must decide whether the testifying codefendant is an accomplice.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

In addition, the court should instruct that when the jury considers this testimony as it relates to the testifying codefendant's defense, the jury should evaluate the testimony using the general rules of credibility, but if the jury considers testimony as incriminating evidence against the nontestifying codefendant, the testimony must be corroborated and should be viewed with caution. (See People v. Coffman and Marlow (2004) 34 Cal.4th 1, 103–106 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 710, 96 P.3d 30].)

When the witness is an accomplice as a matter of law or the parties agree about the witness's status as an accomplice, give CALCRIM No. 708, Special Circumstances: Accomplice Testimony Must Be Corroborated—No Dispute Whether Witness Is Accomplice.

Give the bracketed paragraph beginning "A person who lacks criminal intent" when the evidence suggests that the witness did not share the defendant's specific criminal intent, e.g., witness is an undercover police officer or an unwitting assistant.

Give the bracketed paragraph beginning "You may not conclude that a child under 14 years old" on request if the defendant claims that a child witness's testimony must be corroborated because the child acted as an accomplice. (Pen. Code, § 26; People v. Williams (1936) 12 Cal.App.2d 207, 209 [55 P.2d 223].)

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 708, Special Circumstances: Accomplice Testimony Must Be Corroborated—No Dispute Whether Witness Is Accomplice.

CALCRIM No. 334, Accomplice Testimony Must Be Corroborated: Dispute Whether Witness Is Accomplice.

CALCRIM No. 335, Accomplice Testimony: No Dispute Whether Witness Is Accomplice.

AUTHORITY

- Duty to Instruct. Pen. Code, § 1111; People v. Hamilton (1989) 48 Cal.3d 1142, 1177 [259 Cal.Rptr. 701, 774 P.2d 730]; People v. Guiuan (1998) 18 Cal.4th 558, 569 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 239, 957 P.2d 928].
- Accomplice May Not Provide Sole Basis for Admission of Other Evidence. People v. Bowley (1963) 59 Cal.2d 855, 863 [31 Cal.Rptr. 471, 382 P.2d 591].
- Consideration of Incriminating Testimony. People v. Guiuan (1998) 18 Cal.4th 558, 569 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 239, 957 P.2d 928].
- Defendant's Burden of Proof. People v. Belton (1979) 23 Cal.3d 516,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

523 [153 Cal.Rptr. 195, 591 P.2d 485].

- Defense Admissions May Provide Necessary Corroboration. People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 635, 680 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 573, 941 P.2d 752].
- Definition of Accomplice as Aider and Abettor. People v. Stankewitz (1990) 51 Cal.3d 72, 90–91 [270 Cal.Rptr. 817, 793 P.2d 23].
- Extent of Corroboration Required. People v. Szeto (1981) 29 Cal.3d 20, 27 [171 Cal.Rptr. 652, 623 P.2d 213].
- One Accomplice May Not Corroborate Another. People v. Montgomery (1941) 47 Cal.App.2d 1, 15 [117 P.2d 437], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Dillon (1983) 34 Cal.3d 441, 454 fn. 2 [194 Cal.Rptr. 390, 668 P.2d 697], and Murgia v. Municipal Court (1975) 15 Cal.3d 286, 301 fn. 11 [124 Cal.Rptr. 204, 540 P.2d 44].
- Presence or Knowledge Insufficient. People v. Boyd (1990) 222 Cal.App.3d 541, 557, fn. 14 [271 Cal.Rptr. 738]; In re Michael T. (1978) 84 Cal.App.3d 907, 911 [149 Cal.Rptr. 87].
- Testimony of Feigned Accomplice Need Not Be Corroborated. People v. Salazar (1962) 201 Cal.App.2d 284, 287 [20 Cal.Rptr. 25]; but see People v. Brocklehurst (1971) 14 Cal.App.3d 473, 476 [92 Cal.Rptr. 340]; People v. Bohmer (1975) 46 Cal.App.3d 185, 191–193 [120 Cal.Rptr. 136].
- Uncorroborated Accomplice Testimony May Establish Corpus Delicti. People v. Williams (1988) 45 Cal.3d 1268, 1317 [248 Cal.Rptr. 834, 756 P.2d 221].
- Witness an Accomplice as a Matter of Law. People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 635, 679 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 573, 941 P.2d 752].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Presentation, § 98, p. 134 [wrongdoers who are not accomplices]; § 99, p. 136 ["accomplices" who appear to be victims]; § 105, p. 142.

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 461.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 82, Witnesses, § 82.03, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.03[2][d], Ch. 87, Death Penalty, § 87.23[4][b] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

708. Special Circumstances: Accomplice Testimony Must Be Corroborated—No Dispute Whether Witness Is Accomplice (Pen. Code, § 1111)

In order to prove the special circumstance[s] of _____ <insert special circumstance[s] requiring proof of additional crime>, the People must prove that the defendant committed _____ <insert crime[s] (other than murder) that must be proved>. The People have presented the (statement[s]/ [or] testimony) of _____ <insert name[s] of witness[es]> on this issue.

If the crime[s] of _____ <insert crime[s]> (was/were) committed, then _____ <insert name[s] of witness[es]> (was/were) [an] accomplice[s] to (that/those) crime[s].

You may not find that the special circumstance[s] of _____ <insert special circumstance[s] requiring proof of additional crime> is true based on the (statement[s]/ [or] testimony) of an accomplice alone. You may use the (statement[s]/ [or] testimony) of an accomplice to find the special circumstance true only if:

1. The accomplice's (statement[s]/ [and] testimony) (is/are) supported by other evidence that you believe;
2. That supporting evidence is independent of the accomplice's (statement[s]/ [and] testimony);

AND

3. That supporting evidence tends to connect the defendant to the commission of _____ <insert crime[s] (other than murder) that must be proved>.

Supporting evidence, however, may be slight. It does not need to be enough, by itself, to prove that the defendant committed _____ <insert crime[s] (other than murder) that must be proved>, and it does not need to support every fact (mentioned by the witness in the statement/ [or] about which the witness testified). On the other hand, it is not enough if the supporting evidence merely shows that a crime was committed or the circumstances of its commission. The supporting evidence must tend to connect the defendant to the commission of _____ <insert crime[s] (other than murder) that must be proved>.

[The evidence needed to support the (statement[s]/ [or] testimony)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

of one accomplice cannot be provided by the (statement[s]/ [or] testimony) of another accomplice.]

Any (statement/ [or] testimony) of an accomplice that tends to incriminate the defendant should be viewed with caution. You may not, however, arbitrarily disregard it. You should give that (statement/ [or] testimony) the weight you think it deserves after examining it with care and caution and in light of all the other evidence.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

There is a sua sponte duty to instruct that testimony by an accomplice must be corroborated if that testimony is used to prove a special circumstance based on a crime other than the murder charged in the case. (People v. Hamilton (1989) 48 Cal.3d 1142, 1177 [259 Cal.Rptr. 701, 774 P.2d 730].) "When the special circumstance requires proof of some other crime [besides the charged murder], that crime cannot be proved by the uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice. But when . . . it requires only proof of the motive for the murder for which defendant has already been convicted, the corroboration requirement . . . does not apply." (Ibid.)

"Whether a person is an accomplice is a question of fact for the jury unless the facts and the inferences to be drawn therefrom are undisputed." (People v. Coffman and Marlow (2004) 34 Cal.4th 1, 104 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 710, 96 P.3d 30].) Give this instruction only if the court concludes that the witness is an accomplice as a matter of law or the parties agree about the witness's status as an accomplice. (People v. Verlinde (2002) 100 Cal.App.4th 1146, 1161 [123 Cal.Rptr.2d 322] [only give instruction " 'if undisputed evidence established the complicity' "].) If there is a dispute about whether the witness is an accomplice, give CALCRIM No. 707, Special Circumstances: Accomplice Testimony Must Be Corroborated—Dispute Whether Witness Is Accomplice

When the witness is a codefendant whose testimony includes incriminating statements, the court should not instruct that the witness is an accomplice as a matter of law. (People v. Hill (1967) 66 Cal.2d 536, 555 [58 Cal.Rptr. 340, 426 P.2d 908].) Instead, the court should give this instruction, informing the jury that it must decide whether the testifying codefendant is an accomplice. In addition, the court should instruct that when the jury considers this testimony as it relates to the testifying codefendant's defense, the jury should evaluate the testimony using the general rules of credibility, but if the jury considers testimony as incriminating evidence against the nontestifying codefendant, the testimony must be corroborated and should be viewed with caution.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 707, Special Circumstances: Accomplice Testimony Must Be Corroborated—Dispute Whether Witness Is Accomplice.

CALCRIM No. 334, Accomplice Testimony Must Be Corroborated: Dispute Whether Witness Is Accomplice.

CALCRIM No. 335, Accomplice Testimony; No Dispute Whether Witness Is Accomplice.

AUTHORITY

- Duty to Instruct. Pen. Code, § 1111; People v. Hamilton (1989) 48 Cal.3d 1142, 1177 [259 Cal.Rptr. 701, 774 P.2d 730]; People v. Guiuan (1998) 18 Cal.4th 558, 569 [957 P.2d 928].
- Accomplice May Not Provide Sole Basis for Admission of Other Evidence. People v. Bowley (1963) 59 Cal.2d 855, 863 [31 Cal.Rptr. 471, 382 P.2d 591].
- Consideration of Incriminating Testimony. People v. Guiuan (1998) 18 Cal.4th 558, 569 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 239, 957 P.2d 928].
- Defense Admissions May Provide Necessary Corroboration. People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 635, 680 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 573, 941 P.2d 752].
- Definition of Accomplice as Aider and Abettor. People v. Stankewitz (1990) 51 Cal.3d 72, 90–91 [270 Cal.Rptr. 817, 793 P.2d 23].
- Extent of Corroboration Required. People v. Szeto (1981) 29 Cal.3d 20, 27 [171 Cal.Rptr. 652, 623 P.2d 213].
- One Accomplice May Not Corroborate Another. People v. Montgomery (1941) 47 Cal.App.2d 1, 15 [117 P.2d 437], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Dillon (1983) 34 Cal.3d 441, 454 fn. 2 [194 Cal.Rptr. 390, 668 P.2d 697], and Murgia v. Municipal Court (1975) 15 Cal.3d 286, 301 fn. 11 [124 Cal.Rptr. 204, 540 P.2d 44].
- Presence or Knowledge Insufficient. People v. Boyd (1990) 222 Cal.App.3d 541, 557, fn. 14 [271 Cal.Rptr. 738]; In re Michael T. (1978) 84 Cal.App.3d 907, 911 [149 Cal.Rptr. 87].
- Testimony of Feigned Accomplice Need Not Be Corroborated. People

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

v. Salazar (1962) 201 Cal.App.2d 284, 287 [20 Cal.Rptr. 25]; but see People v. Brocklehurst (1971) 14 Cal.App.3d 473, 476 [92 Cal.Rptr. 340]; People v. Bohmer (1975) 46 Cal.App.3d 185, 191–193 [120 Cal.Rptr. 136].

- Uncorroborated Accomplice Testimony May Establish Corpus Delicti. People v. Williams (1988) 45 Cal.3d 1268, 1317 [248 Cal.Rptr. 834, 756 P.2d 221].
- Witness an Accomplice as a Matter of Law. People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 635, 679 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 573, 941 P.2d 752].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Presentation, § 98, p. 134 [wrongdoers who are not accomplices]; § 99, p. 136 ["accomplices" who appear to be victims]; § 105, p. 142.

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 461.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 82, Witnesses, § 82.03, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.03[2][d], Ch. 87, Death Penalty, § 87.23[4][b] (Matthew Bender).

709–719. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(ii) Special Circumstances

720. Special Circumstances: Financial Gain (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(1))

The defendant is charged with the special circumstance of murder for financial gain [in violation of Penal Code section 190.2(a)(1)].

To prove that this special circumstance is true, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant intended to kill;

[AND]

2. The killing was carried out for financial gain(;/.)

<Give element 3 only if robbery-murder also charged; see Bench Notes.>

[AND

3. (The defendant/ _____ *<insert name or description of principal if not defendant>) expected the financial gain to result from the death of _____ *<insert name of decedent>.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the special circumstance. (See People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 635, 689 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 573, 941 P.2d 752].)

The third element should only be given when the defendant is also charged with a robbery-murder special circumstance. (People v. Bigelow (1984) 37 Cal.3d 731, 751 [209 Cal.Rptr. 328, 691 P.2d 994]; People v. Howard (1988) 44 Cal.3d 375, 409 [243 Cal.Rptr. 842, 749 P.2d 279].) When both are charged, there is a risk that the jury will read the financial gain circumstance broadly, causing it to overlap with the robbery-murder special circumstance. (People v. Bigelow, supra, 37 Cal.3d at p. 751.) In such cases, the financial gain special circumstance is subject to "a limiting construction under which . . . [it] applies only when the victim's death is the consideration for, or an essential prerequisite to, the financial gain sought by the defendant." (Ibid.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

The third element should not be given if the robbery-murder special circumstance is not charged. (People v. Howard (1988) 44 Cal.3d 375, 410 [243 Cal.Rptr. 842, 749 P.2d 279].) "Bigelow's formulation should be applied when it is important to serve the purposes underlying that decision, but . . . it is not intended to restrict construction of 'for financial gain' when overlap is not a concern." (Ibid. [emphasis in original].) In such cases, the unadorned language of the statute is sufficiently clear for the jury to understand. (Id. at pp. 408–409; People v. Noguera (1992) 4 Cal.4th 599, 635–637 [15 Cal.Rptr.2d 400, 842 P.2d 1160].)

AUTHORITY

- Special Circumstance. Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(1).
- Cannot Overlap With Robbery Murder. People v. Bigelow (1984) 37 Cal.3d 731, 751 [209 Cal.Rptr. 328, 691 P.2d 994]; People v. Montiel (1985) 39 Cal.3d 910, 927 [218 Cal.Rptr. 572, 705 P.2d 1248].
- Language of Statute Sufficient If No Robbery-Murder Charge. People v. Howard (1988) 44 Cal.3d 375, 410 [243 Cal.Rtpr. 842, 749 P.2d 279]; People v. Noguera (1992) 4 Cal.4th 599, 635–637 [15 Cal.Rptr.2d 400, 842 P.2d 1160].
- Expectation of Financial Benefit. People v. Howard (1988) 44 Cal.3d 375, 409 [243 Cal.Rptr. 842, 749 P.2d 279]; People v. Edelbacher (1989) 47 Cal.3d 983, 1025 [254 Cal.Rptr. 586, 766 P.2d 1]; People v. Noguera (1992) 4 Cal.4th 599, 636 [15 Cal.Rptr.2d 400, 842 P.2d 1160].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 441.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, §§ 87.13[1], 87.14 (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Financial Gain Need Not Be Primary or Sole Motive

"[T]he relevant inquiry is whether the defendant committed the murder in the expectation that he would thereby obtain the desired financial gain." (People v. Howard (1988) 44 Cal.3d 375, 409 [243 Cal.Rptr. 842, 749 P.2d 279]; People v. Noguera (1992) 4 Cal.4th 599, 636 [15 Cal.Rptr.2d 400, 842 P.2d 1160].) Financial gain does not have to be "a 'dominant,' 'substantial,' or 'significant' motive." (People v. Noguera, supra, 4 Cal.4th at pp. 635–636 [special circumstance applied where defendant both wanted to kill wife in order to be with another woman and to inherit her estate]; People v. Michaels (2002) 28 Cal.4th 486, 519 [122 Cal.Rptr.2d 285, 49 P.3d 1032] [applied where defendant wanted to protect friend from abuse by victim and help friend get proceeds of insurance policy].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Need Not Actually Receive Financial Gain

"Proof of actual pecuniary benefit to the defendant from the victim's death is neither necessary nor sufficient to establish the financial-gain special circumstance." (People v. Edelbacher (1989) 47 Cal.3d 983, 1025–1026 [254 Cal.Rptr. 586, 766 P.2d 1] [financial gain element satisfied where defendant believed death would relieve him of debt to victim even though legally not true]; People v. Noguera (1992) 4 Cal.4th 599, 636 [15 Cal.Rptr.2d 400, 842 P.2d 1160]; People v. Michaels (2002) 28 Cal.4th 486, 519 [122 Cal.Rptr.2d 285, 49 P.3d 1032] [satisfied even though insurance company refused to pay].)

Defendant May Act for Another to Receive Financial Gain

"Defendant's other proffered instructions were similarly flawed. His second alternative would not have embraced the prospect that the killing was committed with the expectation that another would benefit financially . . . ." (People v. Howard (1988) 44 Cal.3d 375, 409, fn. 9 [243 Cal.Rptr. 842, 749 P.2d 279]] [emphasis in original]; see also People v. Michaels (2002) 28 Cal.4th 486, 519 [122 Cal.Rptr.2d 285, 49 P.3d 1032] [defendant killed for friend to receive insurance proceeds].)

Financial Gain Need Not Be Cash

"[A] murder for the purpose of avoiding a debt is a murder for financial gain . . . ." (People v. Edelbacher (1989) 47 Cal.3d 983, 1025 [254 Cal.Rptr. 586, 766 P.2d 1] [avoidance of child support payments]; see also People v. Silberman (1989) 212 Cal.App.3d 1099, 1114–1115 [261 Cal.Rptr. 45] [prevent discovery of embezzlement].) "A murder for purposes of eliminating a business competitor is a murder for financial gain . . . ." (People v. McLead (1990) 225 Cal.App.3d 906, 918 [276 Cal.Rptr. 187] [elimination of rival drug dealer].) "[I]t makes little difference whether the coin of the bargain is money or something else of value: the vice of the agreement is the same, the calculated hiring of another to commit premeditated murder." (People v. Padilla (1995) 11 Cal.4th 891, 933 [47 Cal.Rptr.2d 426, 906 P.2d 388] [payment in drugs sufficient].)

Murder for Hire: Hirer Need Not Receive Financial Gain

> [W]hen a person commits murder for hire, the one who did the hiring is guilty of the financial gain special circumstance only as an accomplice. (See, e.g., People v. Bigelow, supra, 37 Cal.3d at p. 750, fn. 11

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

> [construing the 1978 law].) Moreover, in this case, before defendant could be found subject to the financial gain special circumstance as an accomplice, the jury was required to find that defendant had the intent to kill. (See People v. Anderson (1987) 43 Cal.3d 1104, 1142 [240 Cal.Rptr. 585, 742 P.2d 1306] [". . . section 190.2(b) lays down a special rule for a certain class of first degree murderers: if the defendant is guilty as an aider and abettor, he must be proved to have acted with intent to kill before any special circumstance (with the exception of a prior murder conviction) can be found true."].)

(People v. Padilla (1995) 11 Cal.4th 891, 933 [47 Cal.Rptr.2d 426, 906 P.2d 388] [emphasis in original]; see also People v. Bigelow (1984) 37 Cal.3d 731, 751, fn. 11 [209 Cal.Rptr. 328, 691 P.2d 994]; People v. Freeman (1987) 193 Cal.App.3d 337, 339 [238 Cal.Rptr. 257].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

721. Special Circumstances: Multiple Murder Convictions (Same Case) (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(3))

The defendant is charged with the special circumstance of having been convicted of more than one murder in this case.

To prove that this special circumstance is true, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant has been convicted of at least one charge of first degree murder in this case;

AND

2. The defendant has also been convicted of at least one additional charge of either first or second degree murder in this case.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the special circumstance. (See People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 635, 689 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 573, 941 P.2d 752].) The court must submit the multiple-murder special circumstance to the jury unless the defendant has specifically waived jury trial on the special circumstance. (People v. Marshall (1996) 13 Cal.4th 799, 850 [55 Cal.Rptr.2d 347, 919 P.2d 1280].)

Intent to kill is not required for the actual killer but is required for an accomplice. If the evidence raises the issue of accomplice liability, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on that issue. (See People v. Jones (2003) 30 Cal.4th 1084, 1117 [135 Cal.Rptr.2d 370, 70 P.3d 359].) Give CACLCRIM No. 702, Special Circumstances: Intent Requirement for Accomplice After June 5, 1990—Other Than Felony Murder. If the homicide occurred prior to June 5, 1990, give CALCRIM No. 701, Special Circumstances: Intent Requirement for Accomplice Before June 6, 1990.

In a case in which the prosecution seeks the death penalty, only one special circumstance of multiple murder may be alleged. (People v. Harris (1984) 36 Cal.3d 36, 67 [201 Cal.Rptr. 782, 679 P.2d 433]; People v. Anderson (1987) 43 Cal.3d 1104, 1150 [240 Cal.Rptr. 585, 742 P.2d 1306].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Special Circumstance. Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(3).
- One Special Circumstance May Be Alleged When Death Penalty Sought. People v. Harris (1984) 36 Cal.3d 36, 67 [201 Cal.Rptr. 782, 679 P.2d 433]; People v. Anderson (1987) 43 Cal.3d 1104, 1150 [240 Cal.Rptr. 585, 742 P.2d 1306].
- Must Submit to Jury. People v. Marshall (1996) 13 Cal.4th 799, 850 [55 Cal.Rptr.2d 347, 919 P.2d 1280].
- Intent to Kill Not Required for Actual Killer. People v. Anderson (1987) 43 Cal.3d 1104, 1150 [240 Cal.Rptr. 585, 742 P.2d 1306].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 440.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, § 87.13[3] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Applies to Killing of Woman and Fetus

Application of the multiple-murder special circumstance to the killing of a woman and her unborn fetus is constitutional. (People v. Dennis (1998) 17 Cal.4th 468, 510 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 680, 950 P.2d 1035].)

One Count of First Degree Murder Required

The defendant must be convicted of one count of first degree murder for this special circumstance to apply. (People v. Williams (1988) 44 Cal.3d 883, 923 [245 Cal.Rptr. 336, 751 P.2d 395]; People v. Cooper (1991) 53 Cal.3d 771, 828 [281 Cal.Rptr. 90, 809 P.2d 865].) However, the additional murder or murders may be second degree. (See People v. Miller (1990) 50 Cal.3d 954, 995 [269 Cal.Rptr. 492, 790 P.2d 1289].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

722. Special Circumstances: By Means of Destructive Device (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(4) & (6))

The defendant is charged with the special circumstance of murder by use of (a/an) (bomb[,]/ [or] explosive[,]/ [or] destructive device) [in violation of _____ <insert appropriate code section[s]>].

To prove that this special circumstance is true, the People must prove that:

1. The murder was committed by using (a/an) (bomb[,]/ [or] explosive[,]/ [or] destructive device);

<Alternative 2A—device planted, Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(4)>

[2. The (bomb[,]/ [or] explosive[,]/ [or] destructive device) was planted, hidden, or concealed in (a/an) (place[,]/ [or] area[,]/ [or] dwelling[,]/ [or] building[,]/ [or] structure);]

<Alternative 2B—device mailed or delivered, Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(6)>

[2. The defendant (mailed or delivered[,]/ [or] attempted to mail or deliver[,]/ [or] caused to be mailed or delivered) the (bomb[,]/ [or] explosive[,]/ [or] destructive device);]

AND

3. The defendant knew, or reasonably should have known, that (his/her) actions would create a great risk of death to one or more human beings.

[An explosive is any substance, or combination of substances, (1) whose main or common purpose is to detonate or rapidly combust and (2) that is capable of a relatively instantaneous or rapid release of gas and heat.]

[An explosive is also any substance whose main purpose is to be combined with other substances to create a new substance that can release gas and heat rapidly or relatively instantaneously.]

[_____ <insert type of explosive from Health & Saf. Code, § 12000> is an explosive.]

[A destructive device is _____ <insert definition supported by evidence from Pen. Code, § 12301>.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[_____ <insert type of destructive device from Pen. Code, § 12301> is a destructive device.]

[For the purpose of this special circumstance, delivery of (a/an) (bomb[,]/ [or] explosive[,]/ [or] destructive device) includes throwing it.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the special circumstance. (See People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 635, 689 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 573, 941 P.2d 752].)

Intent to kill is not required for the actual killer but is required for an accomplice. If the evidence raises the issue of accomplice liability, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on that issue. (See People v. Jones (2003) 30 Cal.4th 1084, 1117 [135 Cal.Rptr.2d 370, 70 P.3d 359].) Give CALCRIM No. 702, Special Circumstances: Intent Requirement for Accomplice After June 5, 1990—Other Than Felony Murder. If the homicide occurred prior to June 5, 1990, give CALCRIM No. 701, Special Circumstances: Intent Requirement for Accomplice Before June 6, 1990.

In element 2, give alternative 2A, stating that the device was "planted," if the defendant is charged with the special circumstance under Penal Code section 190.2(a)(4). Give alternative 2B, stating that the device was "mailed or delivered," if the defendant is charged with the special circumstance under Penal Code section 190.2(a)(6).

Give the bracketed paragraphs defining "explosive" if an explosive was used. (Health & Safety Code, § 12000; People v. Clark (1990) 50 Cal.3d 583, 603 [268 Cal.Rptr. 399, 789 P.2d 127].) Give the bracketed definition of "destructive device," inserting the appropriate description from Penal Code section 12301, if a device covered by that statute was used. If the case involves a specific explosive listed in Health and Safety Code section 12000 or a specific destructive device listed in Penal Code section 12301, the court may also give the bracketed sentence stating that the listed item "is an explosive" or "is a destructive device." For example, "Dynamite is an explosive." However, the court may not instruct the jury that the defendant used an explosive. For example, the court may not state that "the defendant used an explosive, dynamite," or "the material used by the defendant, dynamite, is an explosive." (People v. Dimitrov (1995) 33 Cal.App.4th 18, 25–26 [39 Cal.Rptr.2d 257].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Appellate courts have held that the term "bomb" is not vague and is understood in its "common, accepted, and popular sense." (People v. Quinn (1976) 57 Cal.App.3d 251, 258 [129 Cal.Rptr. 139]; People v. Dimitrov, supra, 33 Cal.App.4th at p. 25.) If the court wishes to define the term "bomb," the court may use the following definition: "A bomb is a device carrying an explosive charge fused to blow up or detonate under certain conditions." (See People v. Morse (1992) 2 Cal.App.4th 620, 647, fn. 8 [3 Cal.Rptr.2d 343].)

Give the bracketed sentence stating that "deliver" includes throwing if the facts demonstrate the item was thrown. (People v. Snead (1993) 20 Cal.App.4th 1088, 1095 [24 Cal.Rptr.2d 922].)

AUTHORITY

- Special Circumstance: Planting Device. Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(4).
- Special Circumstance: Mailing or Delivering Device. Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(6).
- Explosive Defined. Health & Saf. Code, § 12000; People v. Clark (1990) 50 Cal.3d 583, 603 [268 Cal.Rptr. 399, 789 P.2d 127].
- Destructive Device Defined. Penal Code, § 12301.

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 444.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, § 87.13[4], [6] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[2][a][ii] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Gasoline Not an Explosive

"Under the statutory definition of explosive, the nature of the substance, not the manner in which a substance is used, is determinative." (People v. Clark (1990) 50 Cal.3d 583, 604 [268 Cal.Rptr. 399, 789 P.2d 127] [gasoline, by its nature, not an explosive even where used to ignite a fire].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

723. Special Circumstances: Murder to Prevent Arrest or Complete Escape (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(5))

The defendant is charged with the special circumstance of murder (to prevent arrest/ [or] to escape from custody) [in violation of Penal Code section 190.2(a)(5)].

To prove that this special circumstance is true, the People must prove that:

1. [The murder was committed to avoid or prevent a lawful arrest(./;)]

[OR

2.] [The murder was committed while completing or attempting to complete an escape from lawful custody.]

<A. Lawful Arrest>

[In order for a killing to be committed for the purpose of avoiding or preventing a lawful arrest, a lawful arrest must be [or appear to be] imminent.]

[Instruction 2670 explains when an officer is lawfully arresting someone.]

<B. Escape From Custody>

[A killing is committed while completing or attempting to complete escape from lawful custody if a person is killed during the escape itself or while the prisoner[s] (is/are) fleeing from the scene.

A killing is not committed while completing or attempting to complete escape if the prisoner[s] (has/have) actually reached a temporary place of safety before the killing.]

[Lawful custody includes (confinement/placement) in (county jail/ prison/the California Youth Authority/work furlough/ _____ *<insert name or description of other detention facility, see Pen. Code, § 4532>. [A person is in lawful custody if he or she has been entrusted to the custody of an officer or other individual during a temporary release from the place of confinement.]]

New January 2006

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the special circumstance. (See People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 635, 689 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 573, 941 P.2d 752].)

Intent to kill is not required for the actual killer but is required for an accomplice. If the evidence raises the issue of accomplice liability, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on that issue. (See People v. Jones (2003) 30 Cal.4th 1084, 1117 [135 Cal.Rptr.2d 370, 70 P.3d 359].) Give CALCRIM No. 702, Special Circumstances: Intent Requirement for Accomplice After June 5, 1990—Other Than Felony Murder. If the homicide occurred prior to June 5, 1990, give CALCRIM No. 701, Special Circumstances: Intent Requirement for Accomplice Before June 6, 1990.

Give the bracketed paragraph stating that the arrest must be "imminent" only if the evidence does not clearly establish that an arrest would have been made in the near future. (See People v. Bigelow (1984) 37 Cal.3d 731, 752 [209 Cal.Rptr. 328, 691 P.2d 994]; People v. Cummings (1993) 4 Cal.4th 1233, 1300–1301 [18 Cal.Rptr.2d 796, 850 P.2d 1].) For example, it may be appropriate to instruct that the arrest must be imminent if no peace officer is present or if the decedent is not a peace officer. (See People v. Cummings, supra, 4 Cal.4th at pp. 1300–1301; but see People v. Vorise (1999) 72 Cal.App.4th 312, 322 [85 Cal.Rptr.2d 12].)

If the lawfulness of the arrest is an issue, give relevant portion of CALCRIM No. 2670, Lawful Performance: Peace Officer, and the bracketed sentence telling the jury that CALCRIM No. 2670 explains lawful arrest.

Give the bracketed paragraphs defining "completing or attempting to complete escape" if there is an issue in the case about whether the defendant had reached a temporary place of safety prior to the killing. (See People v. Bigelow (1984) 37 Cal.3d 731, 754 [209 Cal.Rptr. 328, 691 P.2d 994].)

Give the bracketed paragraph explaining lawful custody if there is an issue about whether the defendant was in lawful custody. (See Pen. Code, § 4532; People v. Diaz (1978) 22 Cal.3d 712, 716–717 [150 Cal.Rptr. 471, 586 P.2d 952].)

AUTHORITY

- Special Circumstance. Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(5).
- Arrest Must Be Imminent. People v. Bigelow (1984) 37 Cal.3d 731, 752 [209 Cal.Rptr. 328, 691 P.2d 994]; People v. Coleman (1989) 48 Cal.3d 112, 146 [255 Cal.Rptr. 813, 768 P.2d 32]; People v. Cummings

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(1993) 4 Cal.4th 1233, 1300–1301 [18 Cal.Rptr.2d 796, 850 P.2d 1].

- Killing During Escape Must Be During Hot Pursuit. People v. Bigelow (1984) 37 Cal.3d 731, 754 [209 Cal.Rptr. 328, 691 P.2d 994].
- Lawful Custody. See Pen. Code, § 4532 (escape from custody); People v. Diaz (1978) 22 Cal.3d 712, 716–717 [150 Cal.Rptr. 471, 586 P.2d 952].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 442.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, § 87.13[5] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

724. Special Circumstances: Murder of Peace Officer, Federal Officer, or Firefighter (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(7), (8) & (9))

The defendant is charged with the special circumstance of murder of a (peace officer/federal law enforcement officer/firefighter) [in violation of Penal Code section 190.2(a)].

To prove that this special circumstance is true, the People must prove that:

1. _____ <insert officer's name, excluding title> was a (peace officer/federal law enforcement officer/firefighter) [lawfully performing (his/her) duties as a (peace officer/federal law enforcement officer/firefighter)];
2. The defendant intended to kill _____ <insert officer's name, excluding title>;

AND

<Alternative 3A—killing during performance of duties>

[3. When _____ <insert officer's name, excluding title> was killed, the defendant knew, or reasonably should have known, that _____ <insert officer's name, excluding title> was a (peace officer/federal law enforcement officer/firefighter) who was performing (his/her) duties.]

<Alternative 3B—killing in retaliation>

[3. _____ <insert officer's name, excluding title> was killed in retaliation for the performance of (his/her) official duties.]

[A person who is employed as a police officer by _____ <insert name of agency that employs police officer> is a peace officer.]

[A person employed by _____ <insert name of agency that employs peace officer, e.g., "the Department of Fish and Game"> is a peace officer if _____ <insert description of facts necessary to make employee a peace officer, e.g., "designated by the director of the agency as a peace officer">.]

[The duties of (a/an) _____ <insert title of peace officer>

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

include _____ <insert job duties>.]

[A firefighter includes anyone who is an officer, employee, or member of a (governmentally operated (fire department/fire protection or firefighting agency) in this state/federal fire department/federal fire protection or firefighting agency), whether or not he or she is paid for his or her services.]

<When lawful performance is an issue, give the following paragraph and Instruction 2670, Lawful Performance: Peace Officer.>

[A peace officer is not lawfully performing his or her duties if he or she is (unlawfully arresting or detaining someone/ [or] using unreasonable or excessive force in his or her duties). Instruction 2670 explains (when an arrest or detention is unlawful/ [and] when force is unreasonable or excessive).]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the special circumstance. (See People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 635, 689 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 573, 941 P.2d 752].)

"Lawful performance" by the officer is not an element when the prosecution's theory is that the officer was killed in retaliation for performing his or her duties but is an element when the theory is that the officer was killed while engaging in his or her duties. If the prosecution's theory is that the killing occurred while the decedent was carrying out official duties, give the bracketed phrase "lawfully performing (his/her) duties" in element 1 and give alternative 3A. If the prosecution's theory is that the killing was in retaliation for the officer's performance of his or her duties, do not give the bracketed language in element 1 and give alternative 3B. The retaliation theory does not apply to the killing of a firefighter. (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(9).)

In order to be "engaged in the performance of his or her duties," a peace officer must be acting lawfully. (People v. Gonzalez (1990) 51 Cal.3d 1179, 1217 [275 Cal.Rptr. 729, 800 P.2d 1159].) "[D]isputed facts bearing on the issue of legal cause must be submitted to the jury considering an engaged-in-duty element." (Ibid.) If excessive force is an issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct the jury that the defendant is not guilty of the offense charged, or any lesser included offense in which lawful performance is an element, if the defendant used reasonable force in response to excessive force. (People v. Olguin (1981) 119 Cal.App.3d 39, 46–47 [173 Cal.Rptr. 663].) On request, the court must instruct that the prosecution has the burden of proving the lawfulness of the arrest beyond a reasonable doubt. (People v. Castain (1981) 122 Cal.App.3d 138, 145 [175 Cal.Rptr. 651].) If lawful performance is an issue, give the bracketed paragraph on lawful performance and the appropriate portions of CALCRIM No. 2670, Lawful Performance: Peace Officer.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

The jury must determine whether the alleged victim is a peace officer. (People v. Brown (1988) 46 Cal.3d 432, 444–445 [250 Cal.Rptr. 604, 758 P.2d 1135].) The court may instruct the jury on the appropriate definition of "peace officer" from the statute (e.g., "a Garden Grove Regular Police Officer and a Garden Grove Reserve Police Officer are peace officers"). (Ibid.) However, the court may not instruct the jury that the alleged victim was a peace officer as a matter of law (e.g., "Officer Reed was a peace officer"). (Ibid.) If the alleged victim is a police officer, give the bracketed sentence that begins with "A person employed as a police officer." If the alleged victim is another type of peace officer, give the bracketed sentence that begins with "A person employed by."

Penal Code section 190.2(a)(7) defines "peace officer" as "defined in Section 830.1, 830.2, 830.3, 830.31, 830.32, 830.33, 830.34, 830.35, 830.36, 830.37, 830.4, 830.5, 830.6, 830.10, 830.11, or 830.12."

Penal Code section 190.2(a)(9) defines "firefighter" "as defined in Section 245.1."

If the decedent was a federal law enforcement officer or agent, then the term "federal law enforcement officer" may need to be defined for the jury depending on the decedent's position.

The court may give the bracketed sentence that begins, "The duties of (a/an) _____ <insert title . . . .> include," on request. The court may insert a description of the officer's duties such as "the correct service of a facially valid search warrant." (People v. Gonzalez (1990) 51 Cal.3d 1179, 1222 [275 Cal.Rptr. 729, 800 P.2d 1159].)

AUTHORITY

- Special Circumstance: Peace Officer. Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(7).
- Special Circumstance: Federal Officer. Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(8).
- Special Circumstance: Firefighter. Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(9).
- Engaged in Performance of Duties. People v. Gonzalez (1990) 51

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.3d 1179, 1217 [275 Cal.Rptr. 729, 800 P.2d 1159].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, §§ 455, 456.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, §§ 87.13[7], [8], [9], 87.14 (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Reasonable Knowledge Standard

Application of the special circumstance to a defendant who "reasonably should have known" that the decedent was a peace officer is constitutional. (People v. Rodriguez (1986) 42 Cal.3d 730, 781–782 [230 Cal.Rptr. 667, 726 P.2d 113].)

> [I]n appropriate cases it would be proper for the court to instruct that a defendant may not be found guilty of the special circumstance at issue here (even if he reasonably should have known his victim was a peace officer engaged in the performance of his duty) if, by reason of non-self-induced "diminished capacity," defendant was unable actually to know the status of his victim.

(Id. at p. 781, fn. 18 [emphasis in original].)

Such an instruction is not warranted in a case where the defendant is voluntarily intoxicated or has otherwise "self-induced diminished capacity." (People v. Brown (1988) 46 Cal.3d 432, 445, fn. 7 [250 Cal.Rptr. 604, 758 P.2d 1135].)

See the Related Issues section to CALCRIM No. 2670, Lawful Performance: Peace Officer.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

725. Special Circumstances: Murder of Witness (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(10))

The defendant is charged with the special circumstance of murder of a witness [in violation of Penal Code section 190.2(a)(10)].

To prove that this special circumstance is true, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant intended to kill _____ <insert name of decedent>;
2. _____ <insert name of decedent> was a witness to a crime;
3. The killing was not committed during the commission [or attempted commission] of the crime to which _____ <insert name of decedent> was a witness;

AND

4. The defendant intended that _____ <insert name of decedent> be killed (to prevent (him/her) from testifying in a (criminal/ [or] juvenile) proceeding/ [or] in retaliation for (his/her) testimony in a (criminal/ [or] juvenile) proceeding).

[A killing is committed during the commission [or attempted commission] of a crime if the killing and the crime are part of one continuous transaction. The continuous transaction may occur over a period of time or in more than one location.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the special circumstance. (See People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 635, 689 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 573, 941 P.2d 752].)

The last bracketed paragraph should be given if there is evidence that the killing and the crime witnessed were part of one continuous transaction. The court may also modify and give, on request, CALCRIM No. 549, Felony Murder: One Continuous Transaction— Defined. (People v. Cavitt (2004) 33

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.4th 187, 206–209 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222]; People v. Silva (1988) 45 Cal.3d 604, 631 [247 Cal.Rptr. 573, 754 P.2d 1070].)

AUTHORITY

- Special Circumstance. Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(10).
- Continuous Transaction. People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 206–209 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222]; People v. Silva (1988) 45 Cal.3d 604, 631 [247 Cal.Rptr. 573, 754 P.2d 1070]; People v. Benson (1990) 52 Cal.3d 754, 785 [276 Cal.Rptr. 827, 802 P.2d 330]; People v. Beardslee (1991) 53 Cal.3d 68, 95 [279 Cal.Rptr. 276, 806 P.2d 1311].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 457.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, §§ 87.13[10], 87.14 (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Purpose of Killing

In order for this special circumstance to apply, the defendant must kill the witness for the purpose of preventing him or her from testifying or in retaliation for his or her testimony. (People v. Stanley (1995) 10 Cal.4th 764, 800 [42 Cal.Rptr.2d 543, 897 P.2d 481].) However, this does not have to be the sole or predominant purpose of the killing. (Ibid.; People v. Sanders (1990) 51 Cal.3d 471, 519 [273 Cal.Rptr. 537, 797 P.2d 561].)

Victim Does Not Have to Be An Eyewitness or Important Witness

"[N]othing in the language of the applicable special circumstance or in our decisions applying this special circumstance supports the suggestion that the special circumstance is confined to the killing of an 'eyewitness,' as opposed to any other witness who might testify in a criminal proceeding." (People v. Jones (1996) 13 Cal.4th 535, 550 [54 Cal.Rptr.2d 42, 917 P.2d 1165].) "It is no defense to the special circumstance allegation that the victim was not an important witness in the criminal proceeding, so long as one of the defendant's purposes was to prevent the witness from testifying." (People v. Jenkins (2000) 22 Cal.4th 900, 1018 [95 Cal.Rptr.2d 377, 997 P.2d 1044]; see also People v. Bolter (2001) 90 Cal.App.4th 240, 242–243] [special circumstance applied to retaliation for testifying where witness's actual testimony was "innocuous"].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Defendant Must Believe Victim Will Be Witness

"[S]ection 190.2, subd. (a)(10) is applicable if defendant believes the victim will be a witness in a criminal prosecution, whether or not such a proceeding is pending or about to be initiated." (People v. Jenkins (2000) 22 Cal.4th 900, 1018 [95 Cal.Rptr.2d 377] [emphasis in original]; see also People v. Weidert (1985) 39 Cal.3d 836, 853 [218 Cal.Rptr. 57, 705 P.2d 380] [abrogated by statutory amendment]; People v. Sanders (1990) 51 Cal.3d 471, 518 [273 Cal.Rptr. 537, 797 P.2d 561].)

"Continuous Transaction" in Context of Witness Special Circumstance

"[T]o establish one continuous criminal transaction, the time-lag between the first and second killing does not matter so much as whether the defendant shows a common criminal intent toward all the victims upon the initiation of the first criminal act. When that criminal intent toward all victims is present, the criminal transaction does not conclude until the killing of the final victim." (People v. San Nicolas (2004) 34 Cal.4th 614, 655 [21 Cal.Rptr.3d 612, 101 P.3d 509].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

726. Special Circumstances: Murder of Judge, Prosecutor, Government Official, or Juror (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(11), (12), (13) & (20))

The defendant is charged with the special circumstance of murder of a (prosecutor/judge/government official/juror) [in violation of Penal Code section 190.2(a)].

To prove that this special circumstance is true, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant intended to kill _____ <insert name of decedent>;
2. _____ <insert name of decedent> was a (prosecutor/judge/government official/juror in _____ <insert name or description of local, state, or federal court of record in this or another state>);

AND

3. The defendant intended that _____ <insert name of decedent> be killed (to prevent (him/her) from performing (his/her) official duties as a (prosecutor/judge/government official/juror)/ [or] in retaliation for _____'s <insert name[s] of decedent[s]> performance of (his/her) official duties as a (prosecutor/judge/government official/juror)).

[(A/An) _____ <insert title of government official's position> is an (elected/appointed) government official.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the special circumstance. (See People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 635, 689 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 573, 941 P.2d 752].)

The jury must determine whether the decedent is a prosecutor, judge, juror, or government official. (People v. Brown (1988) 46 Cal.3d 432, 444–445 [250 Cal.Rptr. 604, 758 P.2d 1135].) The court may instruct the jury on the appropriate definition of "government official" (e.g., "a Garden Grove

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Regular Police Officer and a Garden Grove Reserve Police Officer are government officials"). (Ibid.) However, the court may not instruct the jury that the decedent was a government official as a matter of law (e.g., "Officer Reed was a government official"). (Ibid.)

AUTHORITY

- Special Circumstance: Prosecutor. Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(11).
- Special Circumstance: Judge. Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(12).
- Special Circumstance: Government Official. Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(13).
- Special Circumstance: Juror. Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(20).

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 458.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, §§ 87.13[11], [12], [13], [20], 87.14 (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

727. Special Circumstances: Lying in Wait—Before March 8, 2000 (Former Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(15))

The defendant is charged with the special circumstance of murder committed while lying in wait [in violation of former Penal Code section 190.2(a)(15)].

To prove that this special circumstance is true, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant intentionally killed _____ <insert name of decedent>;

AND

2. The defendant committed the murder while lying in wait.

A person commits murder while lying in wait if:

1. He or she concealed his or her purpose from the person killed;
2. He or she waited and watched for an opportunity to act;
3. Immediately after watching and waiting, he or she made a surprise attack on the person killed from a position of advantage;

AND

4. He or she intended to kill the person by taking the person by surprise.

The lying in wait does not need to continue for any particular period of time, but its duration must be substantial and must show a state of mind equivalent to deliberation and premeditation.

The defendant acted deliberately if (he/she) carefully weighed the considerations for and against (his/her) choice and, knowing the consequences, decided to kill. The defendant acted with premeditation if (he/she) decided to kill before committing the act that caused death.

In order for a murder to be committed while lying in wait, the attack must immediately follow the period of watching and waiting. The lethal acts must begin at and flow continuously from the moment the concealment and watchful waiting ends. If there is a detectable interval between the period of watching and waiting and the period during which the killing takes place, then the murder is not committed while lying in wait. If you have a reasonable doubt whether the murder was committed while lying in wait, you must find this special circumstance has not been proved.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[A person can conceal his or her purpose even if the person killed is aware of the other person's physical presence.]

[The concealment can be accomplished by ambush or some other secret plan.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the special circumstance. (See People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 635, 689 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 573, 941 P.2d 752].)

Prior to March 8, 2000, the lying in wait special circumstance required that the murder be committed "while" lying in wait. Effective March 8, 2000, the special circumstance was amended to require that the murder be committed "by means of" lying in wait. Use this instruction only for homicides alleged to have occurred prior to March 8, 2000. (See Domino v. Superior Court (1982) 129 Cal.App.3d 1000, 1007 [181 Cal.Rptr. 486] ["while lying in wait" distinguished from "by means of lying in wait"]; People v. Morales (1989) 48 Cal.3d 527, 558 [257 Cal.Rptr. 64, 770 P.2d 244].)

For cases after March 8, 2000, use CALCRIM No. 728, Special Circumstances: Lying in Wait—After March 7, 2000, Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(15). (People v. Michaels (2002) 28 Cal.4th 486, 516–517 [122 Cal.Rptr.2d 285, 49 P.3d 1032] [noting amendment to statute].)

Give the bracketed paragraph stating that physical concealment is not required if the evidence shows that the decedent was aware of the defendant's presence. (People v. Morales (1989) 48 Cal.3d 527, 554–556 [257 Cal.Rptr. 64, 770 P.2d 244].) Give the bracketed paragraph stating that concealment may be accomplished by ambush if the evidence shows an attack from a hidden position.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Special Circumstance. Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(15) (before March 8, 2000).
- While Lying in Wait. Domino v. Superior Court (1982) 129 Cal.App.3d 1000, 1007 [181 Cal.Rptr. 486]; People v. Morales (1989) 48 Cal.3d 527, 558 [257 Cal.Rptr. 64, 770 P.2d 244]; People v. Michaels (2002) 28 Cal.4th 486, 516–517 [122 Cal.Rptr.2d 285, 49 P.3d 1032].
- Physical Concealment Not Required. People v. Morales (1989) 48 Cal.3d 527, 554–556 [257 Cal.Rptr. 64, 770 P.2d 244].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 445.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, §§ 87.13[15][a], 87.14 (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[2][a][iv] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Dual Purpose

"[I]f a person lies in wait intending first to rape and second to kill, then immediately proceeds to carry out that intent (or attempts to rape, then kills), the elements of the lying-in-wait special circumstance are met." (People v. Carpenter (1997) 15 Cal.4th 312, 389 [63 Cal.Rptr.2d 1, 935 P.2d 708].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

728. Special Circumstances: Lying in Wait—After March 7, 2000 (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(15))

The defendant is charged with the special circumstance of murder committed by means of lying in wait [in violation of Penal Code section 190.2(a)(15)].

To prove that this special circumstance is true, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant intentionally killed _____ <insert name of decedent>;

AND

2. The defendant committed the murder by means of lying in wait.

A person commits a murder by means of lying in wait if:

1. He or she concealed his or her purpose from the person killed;
2. He or she waited and watched for an opportunity to act;
3. Then he or she made a surprise attack on the person killed from a position of advantage;

AND

4. He or she intended to kill the person by taking the person by surprise.

The lying in wait does not need to continue for any particular period of time, but its duration must be substantial and must show a state of mind equivalent to deliberation or premeditation.

The defendant acted deliberately if (he/she) carefully weighed the considerations for and against (his/her) choice and, knowing the consequences, decided to kill. The defendant acted with premeditation if (he/she) decided to kill before committing the act that caused death.

[A person can conceal his or her purpose even if the person killed is aware of the other person's physical presence.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[The concealment can be accomplished by ambush or some other secret plan.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the special circumstance. (See People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 635, 689 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 573, 941 P.2d 752].)

Effective March 8, 2000, the special circumstance was amended to require that the murder be committed "by means of" lying in wait rather than "while" lying in wait. (People v. Michaels (2002) 28 Cal.4th 486, 516–517 [122 Cal.Rptr.2d 285, 49 P.3d 1032] [noting amendment to statute]; People v. Superior Court (Bradway) (2003) 105 Cal.App.4th 297, 309 [129 Cal.Rptr.2d 324] [holding amended statute is not unconstitutionally vague].) Use this instruction for cases in which the alleged homicide occurred on or after March 8, 2000.

Give the bracketed paragraph stating that physical concealment is not required if the evidence shows that the decedent was aware of the defendant's presence. (People v. Morales (1989) 48 Cal.3d 527, 554–556 [257 Cal.Rptr. 64, 770 P.2d 244].) Give the bracketed paragraph stating that concealment may be accomplished by ambush if the evidence shows an attack from a hidden position.

AUTHORITY

- Special Circumstance. Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(15).
- Amended Statute Not Unconstitutionally Vague. People v. Superior Court of San Diego County (Bradway) (2003) 105 Cal.App.4th 297, 309 [129 Cal.Rptr.2d 324].
- Physical Concealment Not Required. People v. Morales (1989) 48 Cal.3d 527, 554–556 [257 Cal.Rptr. 64, 770 P.2d 244].
- Definition of Lying in Wait. People v. Poindexter (2006) 144 Cal.App.4th 572, 582–585 [50 Cal.Rptr.3d 489].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 445.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Death Penalty, §§ 87.13[15][b], 87.14 (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[2][a][iv] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Dual Purpose

"[I]f a person lies in wait intending first to rape and second to kill, then immediately proceeds to carry out that intent (or attempts to rape, then kills), the elements of the lying-in-wait special circumstance are met." (People v. Carpenter (1997) 15 Cal.4th 312, 389 [63 Cal.Rptr.2d 1, 935 P.2d 708].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

729. Special Circumstances: Murder Because of Race, Religion, or Nationality (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(16))

The defendant is charged with the special circumstance of murder committed because of the deceased's (race[,]/ color[,]/ religion[,]/ nationality[,]/ [or] country of origin) [in violation of Penal Code section 190.2(a)(16)].

To prove that this special circumstance is true, the People must prove that the defendant intended to kill because of the deceased person's (race[,]/ color[,]/ religion[,]/ nationality[,]/ [or] country of origin).

[If the defendant had more than one reason to (commit[,]/ participate in[,]/ [or] aid and abet) the murder, the deceased person's (race[,]/ color[,]/ religion[,]/ nationality[,]/ [or] country of origin) must have been a substantial factor motivating the defendant's conduct. A substantial factor is more than a trivial or remote factor, but it does not need to be the only factor that motivated the defendant.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the special circumstance. (See People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 635, 689 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 573, 941 P.2d 752].)

Give the bracketed paragraph if there is evidence that the defendant had more than one reason to commit the murder. (In re M.S. (1995) 10 Cal.4th 698, 719–720 [42 Cal.Rptr.2d 355, 896 P.2d 1365].)

AUTHORITY

- Special Circumstance. Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(16).
- Special Circumstance Constitutional. People v. Sassounian (1986) 182 Cal.App.3d 361, 413 [226 Cal.Rptr. 880]; People v. Talamantez (1985) 169 Cal.App.3d 443, 469 [215 Cal.Rptr. 542].
- "Because of" Defined. Pen. Code, § 190.03(c); People v. Superior Court (Aishman) (1995) 10 Cal.4th 735, 741 [42 Cal.Rptr.2d 377, 896

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

P.2d 1387]; In re M.S. (1995) 10 Cal.4th 698, 719–720 [42 Cal.Rptr.2d 355, 896 P.2d 1365].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 449.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, §§ 87.13[16], 87.14 (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[4][a][ii] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

730. Special Circumstances: Murder in Commission of Felony (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17))

The defendant is charged with the special circumstance of murder committed while engaged in the commission of _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17)> [in violation of Penal Code section 190.2(a)(17)].

To prove that this special circumstance is true, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant (committed [or attempted to commit][,]/ [or] aided and abetted[,]/ [or] was a member of a conspiracy to commit) _____ *<insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17)>;
2. The defendant (intended to commit[,]/ [or] intended to aid and abet the perpetrator in committing[,]/ [or] intended that one or more of the members of the conspiracy commit) _____ *<insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17)>;

<Give element 3 if defendant did not personally commit or attempt felony.>

[3. If the defendant did not personally commit [or attempt to commit] _____ *<insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17)>, then a perpetrator, (whom the defendant was aiding and abetting before or during the killing/ [or] with whom the defendant conspired), personally committed [or attempted to commit] _____ *<insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17)>;]

(3/4). (The defendant/ _____ *<insert name or description of person causing death if not defendant>) did an act that caused the death of another person;

[AND]

(4/5). The act causing the death and the _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17)> [or attempted _____ *<insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17)>] were part of one continuous transaction(;/.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

<Give element 5/6 if the court concludes it must instruct on causal relationship between felony and death; see Bench Notes.>

[AND

(5/6). There was a logical connection between the act causing the death and the _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17)> [or attempted _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17)>]. The connection between the fatal act and the _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17)> [or attempted _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17)>] must involve more than just their occurrence at the same time and place.]

To decide whether (the defendant/ [and] the perpetrator) committed [or attempted to commit] _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17)>, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on (that/ those) crime[s]. [To decide whether the defendant aided and abetted a crime, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on aiding and abetting.] [To decide whether the defendant was a member of a conspiracy to commit a crime, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/ have given) you on conspiracy.] You must apply those instructions when you decide whether the People have proved this special circumstance.

<Make certain that all appropriate instructions on all underlying felonies, aiding and abetting, and conspiracy are given.>

[The defendant must have (intended to commit[,]/ [or] aided and abetted/ [or] been a member of a conspiracy to commit) the (felony/felonies) of _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17)> before or at the time of the act causing the death.]

[In addition, in order for this special circumstance to be true, the People must prove that the defendant intended to commit _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17)> independent of the killing. If you find that the defendant only intended to commit murder and the commission of _____ <insert felony or felonies from Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17)> was merely part of or incidental to the commission of that murder, then the special circumstance has not been proved.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

New January 2006; Revised August 2006, April 2008

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the special circumstance. (See People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 635, 689 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 573, 941 P.2d 752].) The court also has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of any felonies alleged. (People v. Cain (1995) 10 Cal.4th 1, 36 [40 Cal.Rptr.2d 481, 892 P.2d 1224].)

If the evidence raises the potential for accomplice liability, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on that issue. Give CALCRIM No. 703, Special Circumstances: Intent Requirement for Accomplice After June 5, 1990—Felony Murder, Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17). If the homicide occurred on or before June 5, 1990, give CALCRIM No. 701, Special Circumstances: Intent Requirement for Accomplice Before June 6, 1990.

If causation is an issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to give CALCRIM No. 240, Causation.

If the prosecution's theory is that the defendant committed or attempted to commit the underlying felony, then select "committed [or attempted to commit]" in element 1 and "intended to commit" in element 2. In addition, in the paragraph that begins with "To decide whether," select "the defendant" in the first sentence. Give all appropriate instructions on any underlying felonies.

If the prosecution's theory is that the defendant aided and abetted or conspired to commit the felony, select one or both of these options in element 1 and the corresponding intent requirement in element 2. Give bracketed element 3. In addition, in the paragraph that begins with "To decide whether," select "the perpetrator" in the first sentence. Give the second and/or third bracketed sentences. Give all appropriate instructions on any underlying felonies and on aiding and abetting and/or conspiracy with this instruction.

Bracketed element 6 is based on People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 193 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222]. In Cavitt, the Supreme Court clarified the liability of a nonkiller under the felony-murder rule when a cofelon commits a killing. The court held that "the felony-murder rule requires both a causal relationship and a temporal relationship between the underlying felony and the act causing the death. The causal relationship is established by proof of a logical nexus, beyond mere coincidence of time and place, between the homicidal act and the underlying felony the nonkiller committed or attempted to commit. The temporal relationship is established by proof the felony and the homicidal act were part of one continuous transaction." (Ibid. [italics in original].) The majority concluded that the court has no sua sponte duty to instruct on the necessary causal connection. (Id. at pp. 203–204.) In concurring opinions, Justice Werdegar, joined by Justice Kennard, and Justice Chin expressed the view that the jury should be instructed on the necessary causal relationship. (Id. at pp. 212–213.) The court should give bracketed element 6 if the evidence raises an issue over the causal connection between the felony and the killing. In addition, the court may give this bracketed element at its discretion in any case in which this instruction is given. If the prosecution alleges that the defendant did not commit the felony but aided and abetted or conspired to commit the felony, the committee recommends giving bracketed element 6. (See discussion of conspiracy liability in the Related Issues section of CALCRIM No. 540B, Felony Murder: First Degree—Coparticipant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If there is evidence that the defendant did not form the intent to commit the felony until after the homicide, the defendant is entitled on request to an instruction pinpointing this issue. (People v. Hudson (1955) 45 Cal.2d 121, 124–127 [287 P.2d 497]; People v. Silva (2001) 25 Cal.4th 345, 371 [106 Cal.Rptr.2d 93, 21 P.3d 769].) Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "The defendant must have (intended to commit." For an instruction specially tailored to robbery-murder cases, see People v. Turner (1990) 50 Cal.3d 668, 691 [268 Cal.Rptr. 706, 789 P.2d 887].

In addition, the court must give the final bracketed paragraph stating that the felony must be independent of the murder if the evidence supports a reasonable inference that the felony was committed merely to facilitate the murder. (People v. Green (1980) 27 Cal.3d 1, 61 [164 Cal.Rptr. 1, 609 P.2d 468]; People v. Clark (1990) 50 Cal.3d 583, 609 [268 Cal.Rptr. 399, 789 P.2d 127]; People v. Kimble (1988) 44 Cal.3d 480]; People v. Navarette (2003) 30 Cal.4th 458, 505 [133 Cal.Rptr.2d 89, 66 P.3d 1182].)

The Supreme Court has not decided whether the trial court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the meaning of "one continuous transaction." (See People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 204 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].) If the evidence raises an issue of whether the act causing the death and the felony were part of "one continuous transaction," the committee recommends that the court also give CALCRIM No. 549, Felony Murder: One Continuous Transaction—Defined.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Proposition 115 added Penal Code section 190.41, eliminating the corpus delicti rule for the felony-murder special circumstance. (Pen. Code, § 190.41; Tapia v. Superior Court (1991) 53 Cal.3d 282, 298 [279 Cal.Rptr. 592, 807 P.2d 434].) If, however, the alleged homicide predates the effective date of the statute (June 6, 1990), then the court must modify this instruction to require proof of the corpus delicti of the underlying felony independent of the defendant's extrajudicial statements. (Tapia v. Superior Court, supra, 53 Cal.3d at p. 298.)

If the alleged homicide occurred between 1983 and 1987 (the window of time between Carlos v. Superior Court (1983) 35 Cal.3d 131, 135 [197 Cal.Rptr. 79, 672 P.2d 862] and People v. Anderson (1987) 43 Cal.3d 1104, 1147 [240 Cal.Rptr. 585, 742 P.2d 1306]), then the prosecution must also prove intent to kill on the part of the actual killer. (People v. Bolden (2002) 29 Cal.4th 515, 560 [127 Cal.Rptr.2d 802, 58 P.3d 931]; People v. Mendoza (2000) 24 Cal.4th 130, 182 [99 Cal.Rptr.2d 485, 6 P.3d 150].) The court should then modify this instruction to specify intent to kill as an element.

AUTHORITY

- Special Circumstance. Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17).
- Specific Intent to Commit Felony Required. People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 197 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222]; People v. Valdez (2004) 32 Cal.4th 73, 105 [8 Cal.Rptr.3d 271, 82 P.3d 296].
- Continuous Transaction Requirement. People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 206–209 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222]; People v. Coffman and Marlow (2004) 34 Cal.4th 1, 88 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 710, 96 P.3d 30] [applying rule to special circumstance]; People v. Hernandez (1988) 47 Cal.3d 315, 348 [253 Cal.Rptr. 199, 763 P.2d 1289]; People v. Fields (1983) 35 Cal.3d 329, 364–368 [197 Cal.Rptr. 803, 673 P.2d 680]; People v. Ainsworth (1988) 45 Cal.3d 984, 1025–1026 [248 Cal.Rptr. 568, 755 P.2d 1017].
- Logical Connection Required for Liability of Nonkiller. People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 206–209 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].
- Provocative Act Murder. People v. Briscoe (2001) 92 Cal.App.4th 568, 596 [112 Cal.Rptr.2d 401] [citing People v. Kainzrants (1996) 45 Cal.App.4th 1068, 1081 [53 Cal.Rptr.2d 207]].
- Concurrent Intent. People v. Mendoza (2000) 24 Cal.4th 130, 183 [99 Cal.Rptr.2d 485, 6 P.3d 150]; People v. Clark (1990) 50 Cal.3d 583,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

608–609 [268 Cal.Rptr. 399, 789 P.2d 127].

- Felony Cannot Be Incidental to Murder. People v. Green (1980) 27 Cal.3d 1, 61 [164 Cal.Rptr. 1, 609 P.2d 468], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Hall (1986) 41 Cal.3d 826, 834, fn. 3 [226 Cal.Rptr. 112, 718 P.2d 99]; People v. Mendoza (2000) 24 Cal.4th 130, 182 [99 Cal.Rptr.2d 485, 6 P.3d 150].
- Instruction on Felony as Incidental to Murder. People v. Kimble (1988) 44 Cal.3d 480, 501 [244 Cal.Rptr. 148, 749 P.2d 803]; People v. Clark (1990) 50 Cal.3d 583, 609 [268 Cal.Rptr. 399, 789 P.2d 127]; People v. Navarette (2003) 30 Cal.4th 458, 505 [133 Cal.Rptr.2d 89, 66 P.3d 1182].
- Proposition 115 Amendments to Special Circumstance. Tapia v. Superior Court (1991) 53 Cal.3d 282, 298 [279 Cal.Rptr. 592, 807 P.2d 434].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, §§ 450, 451, 452, 453.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, § 87.13[17] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[2][b] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Applies to Felony Murder and Provocative Act Murder

"The fact that the defendant is convicted of murder under the application of the provocative act murder doctrine rather than pursuant to the felony-murder doctrine is irrelevant to the question of whether the murder qualified as a special-circumstances murder under former section 190.2, subdivision (a)(17). The statute requires only that the murder be committed while the defendant was engaged in the commission of an enumerated felony." (People v. Briscoe (2001) 92 Cal.App.4th 568, 596 [112 Cal.Rptr.2d 401] [citing People v. Kainzrants (1996) 45 Cal.App.4th 1068, 1081 [53 Cal.Rptr.2d 207]].)

Concurrent Intent to Kill and Commit Felony

"Concurrent intent to kill and to commit an independent felony will support a felony-murder special circumstance." (People v. Mendoza (2000) 24 Cal.4th 130, 183 [99 Cal.Rptr.2d 485, 6 P.3d 150]; People v. Clark (1990) 50 Cal.3d 583, 608–609 [268 Cal.Rptr. 399, 789 P.2d 127].)

Multiple Special Circumstances May Be Alleged

The defendant may be charged with multiple felony-related special circumstances based on multiple felonies committed against one victim or multiple victims of one felony. (People v. Holt (1997) 15 Cal.4th 619, 682 [63 Cal.Rptr.2d 782, 937 P.2d 213]; People v. Andrews (1989) 49 Cal.3d 200, 225–226 [260 Cal.Rptr. 583, 776 P.2d 285].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

731. Special Circumstances: Murder in Commission of Felony—Kidnapping With Intent to Kill After March 8, 2000 (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17))

The defendant is charged with the special circumstance of intentional murder while engaged in the commission of kidnapping [in violation of Penal Code section 190.2(a)(17)].

To prove that this special circumstance is true, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant (committed [or attempted to commit][,]/ [or] aided and abetted[,]/ [or] was a member of a conspiracy to commit) kidnapping;
2. The defendant (intended to commit[,]/ [or] intended to aid and abet the perpetrator in committing[,]/ [or] intended that one or more of the members of the conspiracy commit) kidnapping;

<Give element 3 if defendant did not personally commit or attempt kidnapping.>

[3. If the defendant did not personally commit [or attempt to commit] kidnapping, then another perpetrator, (whom the defendant was aiding and abetting/ [or] with whom the defendant conspired), personally committed [or attempted to commit] kidnapping;]

(3/4). (The defendant/ _____ <insert name or description of person causing death if not defendant>) did an act that was a substantial factor in causing the death of another person;

(4/5). The defendant intended that the other person be killed;

[AND]

(5/6). The act causing the death and the kidnapping [or attempted kidnapping] were part of one continuous transaction(;/.)

<Give element 7 if the court concludes it must instruct on causal relationship between kidnapping and death; see Bench Notes.>

[AND

(6/7). There was a logical connection between the act causing

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

the death and the kidnapping [or attempted kidnapping]. The connection between the fatal act and the kidnapping [or attempted kidnapping] must involve more than just their occurrence at the same time and place.]

To decide whether (the defendant/ [and] the perpetrator) committed [or attempted to commit] kidnapping, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on that crime. [To decide whether the defendant aided and abetted the crime, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/ have given) you on aiding and abetting.] [To decide whether the defendant was a member of a conspiracy to commit the crime, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on conspiracy.] You must apply those instructions when you decide whether the People have proved this special circumstance.

<Make certain that all appropriate instructions on underlying kidnapping, aiding and abetting, and conspiracy are given.>

An act causes death if the death is the direct, natural, and probable consequence of the act and the death would not have happened without the act. A natural and probable consequence is one that a reasonable person would know is likely to happen if nothing unusual intervenes. In deciding whether a consequence is natural and probable, consider all the circumstances established by the evidence.

There may be more than one cause of death. An act causes death only if it is a substantial factor in causing the death. A substantial factor is more than a trivial or remote factor. However, it does not need to be the only factor that causes the death.

[If all the listed elements are proved, you may find this special circumstance true even if the defendant intended solely to commit murder and the commission of kidnapping was merely part of or incidental to the commission of that murder.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the special circumstance. (See People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 635, 689 [66

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.Rptr.2d 573, 941 P.2d 752].) The court also has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the kidnapping alleged. (People v. Cain (1995) 10 Cal.4th 1, 36 [40 Cal.Rptr.2d 481, 892 P.2d 1224].)

Subparagraph (M) of Penal Code section 190.2(a)(17) eliminates the application of People v. Green (1980) 27 Cal.3d 1, 61 [164 Cal.Rptr. 1, 609 P.2d 468], to intentional murders during the commission of kidnapping or arson of an inhabited structure. The statute may only be applied to alleged homicides after the effective date, March 8, 2000. This instruction may be given alone or with CALCRIM No. 730, Special Circumstances: Murder in Commission of Felony, Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17).

For the standard felony-murder special circumstance, it is not necessary for the actual killer to intend to kill. (Pen. Code, § 190.2(b).) However, an accomplice who is not the actual killer must either act with intent to kill or be a major participant and act with reckless indifference to human life. (Pen. Code, § 190.2(d).) Subparagraph (M) of Penal Code section 190.2(a)(17) does not specify whether the defendant must personally intend to kill or whether accomplice liability may be based on an actual killer who intended to kill even if the defendant did not. (See Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17)(M).) This instruction has been drafted to require that the defendant intend to kill, whether the defendant is an accomplice or the actual killer. If the evidence raises the potential for accomplice liability and the court concludes that the accomplice need not personally intend to kill, then the court must modify element 5 to state that the person who caused the death intended to kill. In such cases, the court also has a sua sponte duty give CALCRIM No. 703, *Special Circumstances: Intent Requirement for Accomplice After June 5, 1990—Felony Murder, Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17).

If causation is an issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to give CALCRIM No. 240, Causation.

If the prosecution's theory is that the defendant committed or attempted to commit kidnapping, then select "committed [or attempted to commit]" in element 1 and "intended to commit" in element 2. In addition, in the paragraph that begins with "To decide whether," select "the defendant" in the first sentence. Give all appropriate instructions on kidnapping.

If the prosecution's theory is that the defendant aided and abetted or conspired to commit kidnapping, select one or both of these options in element 1 and the corresponding intent requirement in element 2. Give bracketed element 3. In addition, in the paragraph that begins with "To decide whether," select "the perpetrator" in the first sentence. Give the second and/or third bracketed sentences. Give all appropriate instructions on kidnapping and on aiding and abetting and/or conspiracy with this instruction.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Bracketed element 7 is based on People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 193 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222]. In Cavitt, the Supreme Court clarified the liability of a nonkiller under the felony-murder rule when a cofelon commits a killing. The court held that "the felony-murder rule requires both a causal relationship and a temporal relationship between the underlying felony and the act resulting in death. The causal relationship is established by proof of a logical nexus, beyond mere coincidence of time and place, between the homicidal act and the underlying felony the nonkiller committed or attempted to commit. The temporal relationship is established by proof the felony and the homicidal act were part of one continuous transaction." (Ibid. [italics in original].) The majority concluded that the court has no sua sponte duty to instruct on the necessary causal connection. (Id. at pp. 203–204.) In concurring opinions, Justice Werdegar, joined by Justice Kennard, and Justice Chin expressed the view that the jury should be instructed on the necessary causal relationship. (Id. at pp. 212–213.) The court should give bracketed element 7 if the evidence raises an issue over the causal connection between the felony and the killing. In addition, the court may give this bracketed element at its discretion in any case in which this instruction is given. If the prosecution alleges that the defendant did not commit the felony but aided and abetted or conspired to commit the felony, the committee recommends giving bracketed element 7. (See discussion of conspiracy liability in the Related Issues section of CALCRIM No. 540B, Felony Murder: First Degree—Coparticipant Allegedly Committed Fatal Act.)

When giving this instruction with CALCRIM No. 730, give the final bracketed paragraph.

The Supreme Court has not decided whether the trial court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the meaning of "one continuous transaction." (See People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 204 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].) If the evidence raises an issue of whether the act causing the death and the felony were part of "one continuous transaction," the committee recommends that the court also give CALCRIM No. 549, Felony Murder: One Continuous Transaction—Defined.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 1200, Kidnapping: For Child Molestation.

CALCRIM No. 1201, Kidnapping: Child or Person Incapable of Consent.

CALCRIM No. 1202, Kidnapping: For Ransom, Reward, or Extortion.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

CALCRIM No. 1203, Kidnapping: For Robbery, Rape, or Other Sex Offenses.

CALCRIM No. 1204, Kidnapping During Carjacking.

CALCRIM No. 1215, Kidnapping.

AUTHORITY

- Special Circumstance. Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17)(B), (H) & (M).
- Continuous Transaction Requirement. People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 206–209 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222]; People v. Coffman and Marlow (2004) 34 Cal.4th 1, 88 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 710, 96 P.3d 30] [applying rule to special circumstance]; People v. Hernandez (1988) 47 Cal.3d 315, 348 [253 Cal.Rptr. 199, 763 P.2d 1289]; People v. Fields (1983) 35 Cal.3d 329, 364–368 [197 Cal.Rptr. 803, 673 P.2d 680]; People v. Ainsworth (1988) 45 Cal.3d 984, 1025–1026 [248 Cal.Rptr. 568, 755 P.2d 1017].
- Logical Connection Required for Liability of Nonkiller. People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 206–209 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 450.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, §§ 87.13[17], 87.14 (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.01[2][b], 142.14[3] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

732. Special Circumstances: Murder in Commission of Felony—Arson With Intent to Kill (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17))

The defendant is charged with the special circumstance of intentional murder while engaged in the commission of arson that burned an inhabited structure [in violation of Penal Code section 190.2(a)(17)].

To prove that this special circumstance is true, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant (committed [or attempted to commit][,]/ [or] aided and abetted[,]/ [or] was a member of a conspiracy to commit) arson that burned an inhabited structure;
2. The defendant (intended to commit[,]/ [or] intended to aid and abet the perpetrator in committing[,]/ [or] intended that one or more of the members of the conspiracy commit) arson that burned an inhabited structure;

<Give element 3 if defendant did not personally commit or attempt arson.>

[3. If the defendant did not personally commit [or attempt to commit] arson, then another perpetrator, (whom the defendant was aiding and abetting/ [or] with whom the defendant conspired), personally committed [or attempted to commit] arson that burned an inhabited structure;]

(3/4). The commission [or attempted commission] of the arson was a substantial factor in causing the death of another person;

(4/5). The defendant intended that the other person be killed;

(5/6). The act causing the death and the arson [or attempted arson] were part of one continuous transaction;

AND

(6/7). There was a logical connection between the act causing the death and the arson [or attempted arson]. The connection between the fatal act and the arson must involve more than just their occurrence at the same time and place.

To decide whether (the defendant/ [and] the perpetrator)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

committed [or attempted to commit] arson that burned an inhabited structure, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on that crime. [To decide whether the defendant aided and abetted the crime, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on aiding and abetting.] [To decide whether the defendant was a member of a conspiracy to commit the crime, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on conspiracy.] You must apply those instructions when you decide whether the People have proved this special circumstance.

<Make certain that all appropriate instructions on underlying arson, aiding and abetting, and conspiracy are given.>

An act causes death if the death is the direct, natural, and probable consequence of the act and the death would not have happened without the act. A natural and probable consequence is one that a reasonable person would know is likely to happen if nothing unusual intervenes. In deciding whether a consequence is natural and probable, consider all the circumstances established by the evidence.

There may be more than one cause of death. An act causes death only if it is a substantial factor in causing the death. A substantial factor is more than a trivial or remote factor. However, it does not need to be the only factor that causes the death.

[If all the listed elements are proved, you may find this special circumstance true even if the defendant intended solely to commit murder and the commission of arson was merely part of or incidental to the commission of that murder.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the special circumstance. (See People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 635, 689 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 573, 941 P.2d 752].) The court also has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the arson alleged. (People v. Cain (1995) 10 Cal.4th 1, 36 [40 Cal.Rptr.2d 481, 892 P.2d 1224].)

Subparagraph (M) of Penal Code section 190.2(a)(17) eliminates the application of People v. Green (1980) 27 Cal.3d 1, 61 [164 Cal.Rptr. 1, 609 P.2d 468], to intentional murders during the commission of kidnapping or arson of an inhabited structure. The statute may only be applied to alleged homicides after the effective date, March 8, 2000. This instruction may be given alone or with CALCRIM No. 730, Special Circumstances: Murder in Commission of Felony, Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

For the standard felony-murder special circumstance, it is not necessary for the actual killer to intend to kill. (Pen. Code, § 190.2(b).) However, an accomplice who is not the actual killer must either act with intent to kill or be a major participant and act with reckless indifference to human life. (Pen. Code, § 190.2(d).) Subparagraph (M) of Penal Code section 190.2(a)(17) does not specify whether the defendant must personally intend to kill or whether accomplice liability may be based on an actual killer who intended to kill even if the defendant did not. (See Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17)(M).) This instruction has been drafted to require that the defendant intend to kill, whether the defendant is an accomplice or the actual killer. If the evidence raises the potential for accomplice liability and the court concludes that the accomplice need not personally intend to kill, then the court must modify element 5 to state that the person who caused the death intended to kill. In such cases, the court also has a sua sponte duty give CALCRIM No. 703, Special Circumstances: Intent Requirement for Accomplice After June 5, 1990—Felony Murder, Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17).

If causation is at issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on proximate cause. (People v. Bernhardt (1963) 222 Cal.App.2d 567, 590–591 [35 Cal.Rptr. 401]; People v. Cervantes (2001) 26 Cal.4th 860, 865–874].) Because causation is likely to be an issue in any case where this instruction is given, the committee has included the paragraph that begins with "An act causes death if." If there is evidence of multiple potential causes, the court should also give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "There may be more than one cause of death." (People v. Sanchez (2001) 26 Cal.4th 834, 845–849 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 129, 29 P.3d 209]; People v. Autry (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 351, 363 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 135].)

If the prosecution's theory is that the defendant committed or attempted to commit arson, then select "committed [or attempted to commit]" in element 1 and "intended to commit" in element 2. In addition, in the paragraph that begins with "To decide whether," select "the defendant" in the first sentence. Give all appropriate instructions on arson.

If the prosecution's theory is that the defendant aided and abetted or conspired to commit arson, select one or both of these options in element 1 and the corresponding intent requirement in element 2. Give bracketed element 3. In addition, in the paragraph that begins with "To decide whether," select "the perpetrator" in the first sentence. Give the second and/or third bracketed sentences. Give all appropriate instructions on arson and on aiding and abetting and/or conspiracy with this instruction.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

When giving this instruction with CALCRIM No. 730, give the final bracketed paragraph.

The Supreme Court has not decided whether the trial court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the meaning of "one continuous transaction." (See People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 204 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].) If the evidence raises an issue of whether the act causing the death and the felony were part of "one continuous transaction," the committee recommends that the court also give CALCRIM No. 549, Felony Murder: One Continuous Transaction—Defined.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 1502, Arson: Inhabited Structure.

AUTHORITY

- Special Circumstance. Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(17)(B), (H) & (M).
- Continuous Transaction Requirement. People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 206–209 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222]; People v. Hernandez (1988) 47 Cal.3d 315, 348 [253 Cal.Rptr. 199, 763 P.2d 1289]; People v. Fields (1983) 35 Cal.3d 329, 364–368 [197 Cal.Rptr. 803, 673 P.2d 680]; People v. Ainsworth (1988) 45 Cal.3d 984, 1025–1026 [248 Cal.Rptr. 568, 755 P.2d 1017].
- Logical Connection Required for Liability of Nonkiller. People v. Cavitt (2004) 33 Cal.4th 187, 206–209 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 281, 91 P.3d 222].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 450.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, §§ 87.13[17], 87.14 (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[2][b] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

733. Special Circumstances: Murder With Torture (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(18))

The defendant is charged with the special circumstance of murder involving the infliction of torture [in violation of Penal Code section 190.2(a)(18)].

To prove that this special circumstance is true, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant intended to kill _____ <insert name of decedent>;
2. The defendant also intended to inflict extreme physical pain and suffering on _____ <insert name of decedent> while that person was still alive;
3. The defendant intended to inflict such pain and suffering on _____ <insert name of decedent> for the calculated purpose of revenge, extortion, persuasion, or any other sadistic reason;

AND

<Alternative A—on or after June 6, 1990>

[4. The defendant did an act involving the infliction of extreme physical pain and suffering on _____ <insert name of decedent>.]

<Alternative B—before June 6, 1990>

[4. The defendant in fact inflicted extreme physical pain on _____ <insert name of decedent>.]

There is no requirement that the person killed be aware of the pain.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the special circumstance. (See People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 635, 689 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 573, 941 P.2d 752].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

In element 4, always give alternative 4A unless the homicide occurred prior to June 6, 1990. (People v. Davenport (1985) 41 Cal.3d 247, 271 [221 Cal.Rptr. 794, 710 P.2d 861].) If the homicide occurred prior to June 6, 1990, give alternative 4B. For homicides after that date, alternative 4B should not be given. (People v. Crittenden (1994) 9 Cal.4th 83, 140, fn. 14 [36 Cal.Rptr.2d 474, 885 P.2d 887].)

AUTHORITY

- Special Circumstance. Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(18).
- Must Specifically Intend to Torture. People v. Davenport (1985) 41 Cal.3d 247, 265–266 [221 Cal.Rptr. 794, 710 P.2d 861]; People v. Pensinger (1991) 52 Cal.3d 1210, 1255 [278 Cal.Rptr. 640, 805 P.2d 899].
- Causation Not Required. People v. Crittenden (1994) 9 Cal.4th 83, 141–142 [36 Cal.Rptr.2d 474, 885 P.2d 887].
- Pain Not an Element. People v. Davenport (1985) 41 Cal.3d 247, 271 [221 Cal.Rptr. 794, 710 P.2d 861]; People v. Crittenden (1994) 9 Cal.4th 83, 140, fn. 14. [36 Cal.Rptr.2d 474, 885 P.2d 887]
- Intent to Torture Need Not be Deliberate, and Premeditated. People v. Cole (2004) 33 Cal.4th 1158, 1227–1228 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 532, 95 P.3d 811].
- Prolonged Pain Not Required. People v. Cole (2004) 33 Cal.4th 1158, 1227–1228 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 532, 95 P.3d 811].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 446.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, §§ 87.13[18], 87.14 (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[2][a][v] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Causation Not Required for Special Circumstance

"[T]he prosecution was not required to prove that the acts of torture inflicted upon [the victim] were the cause of his death" in order to prove the torture-murder special circumstance. (People v. Crittenden (1994) 9 Cal.4th 83, 142

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[36 Cal.Rptr.2d 474, 885 P.2d 887].) Causation is required for first degree murder by torture. (Ibid.)

Instruction on Voluntary Intoxication

"[A] court should instruct a jury in a torture-murder case, when evidence of intoxication warrants it, that intoxication is relevant to the specific intent to inflict cruel suffering." (People v. Pensinger (1991) 52 Cal.3d 1210, 1242 [278 Cal.Rptr. 640, 805 P.2d 899]; see CALCRIM No. 625, Voluntary Intoxication: Effects on Homicide Crimes.)

Pain Not an Element

As with first degree murder by torture, all that is required for the special circumstance is the calculated intent to cause pain for the purpose of revenge, extortion, persuasion, or any other sadistic purpose. Prior to June 6, 1990, the special circumstance stated "torture requires proof of the infliction of extreme physical pain." (Pre-June 6, 1990, Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(18).) Proposition 115 eliminated this language. Thus, for all homicides after June 6, 1990, there is no requirement under the special circumstance that the victim actually suffer pain. (People v. Pensinger (1991) 52 Cal.3d 1210, 1239 [278 Cal.Rptr. 640, 805 P.2d 899]; People v. Davenport (1985) 41 Cal.3d 247, 271 [221 Cal.Rptr. 794, 710 P.2d 861]; People v. Crittenden (1994) 9 Cal.4th 83, 140, fn. 14 [36 Cal.Rptr.2d 474, 885 P.2d 887].)

Deliberate, and Premeditated Intent to Inflict Pain Not Required

"[P]remeditated and deliberate intent to torture is not an element of the torture-murder special circumstance." (People v. Cole (2004) 33 Cal.4th 1158, 1227 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 532, 95 P.3d 811] [italics omitted].)

Prolonged Pain Not Required

"We have held that by enacting the torture-murder special circumstance statute (§ 190.2, subd. (a)(18)), the electorate meant to foreclose any requirement that the defendant be proved to have intended to inflict prolonged pain." (People v. Cole (2004) 33 Cal.4th 1158, 1228 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 532, 95 P.3d 811] [italics in original, citation and internal quotation marks omitted].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

734. Special Circumstances: Murder by Poison (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(19))

The defendant is charged with the special circumstance of murder by poison [in violation of Penal Code section 190.2(a)(19)].

To prove that this special circumstance is true, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant intended to kill _____ <insert name of decedent>;

AND

2. The defendant killed _____ <insert name of decedent> by the administration of poison.

[Poison is a substance, applied externally to the body or introduced into the body, that can kill by its own inherent qualities.]

[_____ <insert name of substance> is a poison.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the special circumstance. (See People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 635, 689 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 573, 941 P.2d 752].)

Give the bracketed definition of poison if there is a dispute over whether the substance is a poison. Give the bracketed paragraph stating that the substance is a poison if the parties agree that the substance is a poison.

AUTHORITY

- Special Circumstance. Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(19).
- Special Circumstance Is Constitutional. People v. Catlin (2001) 26 Cal.4th 81, 159 [109 Cal.Rptr.2d 31, 26 P.3d 357].
- Poison Defined. People v. Van Deleer (1878) 53 Cal. 147, 149.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 446.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, §§ 87.13[19], 87.14 (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[2][a][iii] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

735. Special Circumstances: Discharge From Vehicle (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(21))

The defendant is charged with the special circumstance of committing murder by shooting a firearm from a motor vehicle [in violation of Penal Code section 190.2(a)(21)].

To prove that this special circumstance is true, the People must prove that:

1. (The defendant/ _____ <insert name or description of principal if not defendant>) shot a firearm from a motor vehicle, killing _____ <insert name of decedent>;
2. (The defendant/ _____ <insert name or description of principal if not defendant>) intentionally shot at a person who was outside the vehicle;

AND

3. At the time of the shooting, the defendant intended to kill.

[A firearm is any device designed to be used as a weapon, from which a projectile is discharged or expelled through a barrel by the force of an explosion or other form of combustion.]

[A motor vehicle includes (a/an) (passenger vehicle/motorcycle/motor scooter/bus/school bus/commercial vehicle/truck tractor and trailer/ _____ <insert other type of motor vehicle>).]

[The terms (firearm/ [and] motor vehicle) (is/are) defined elsewhere in another instruction to which you should refer.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the special circumstance. (See People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 635, 689 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 573, 941 P.2d 752].)

AUTHORITY

- Special Circumstance. Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(21).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Motor Vehicle Defined. Veh. Code, § 415.
- Special Circumstance Is Constitutional. People v. Rodriguez (1998) 66 Cal.App.4th 157, 172 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 676].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 447.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, §§ 87.13[21], 87.14 (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[2][a][vii] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

736. Special Circumstances: Killing by Street Gang Member (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(22))

The defendant is charged with the special circumstance of committing murder while an active participant in a criminal street gang [in violation of Penal Code section 190.2(a)(22)].

To prove that this special circumstance is true, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant intentionally killed _____ <insert name of victim>;
2. At the time of the killing, the defendant was an active participant in a criminal street gang;
3. The defendant knew that members of the gang engage in or have engaged in a pattern of criminal gang activity;

AND

4. The murder was carried out to further the activities of the criminal street gang.

Active participation means involvement with a criminal street gang in a way that is more than passive or in name only.

[The People do not have to prove that the defendant devoted all or a substantial part of (his/her) time or efforts to the gang, or that (he/she) was an actual member of the gang.]

<If criminal street gang has already been defined>

[A criminal street gang is defined in another instruction to which you should refer.]

<If criminal street gang has not already been defined in another instruction>

[A criminal street gang is any ongoing organization, association, or group of three or more persons, whether formal or informal:

1. That has a common name or common identifying sign or symbol;
2. That has, as one or more of its primary activities, the commission of _____ <insert one or more crimes listed in Pen. Code, § 186.22(e)(1)–(25), (31)–(33)>;

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AND

3. Whose members, whether acting alone or together, engage in or have engaged in a pattern of criminal gang activity.

In order to qualify as a primary activity, the crime must be one of the group's chief or principal activities rather than an occasional act committed by one or more persons who happen to be members of the group.

A pattern of criminal gang activity, as used here, means:

1. [The] (commission of[,]/ [or] attempted commission of[,]/ [or] conspiracy to commit[,]/ [or] solicitation to commit[,]/ [or] conviction of[,]/ [or] (Having/having) a juvenile petition sustained for commission of):

<Give 1A if the crime or crimes are in Pen. Code, § 186.22(e)(1)–(25), (31)–(33)>

1A. (any combination of two or more of the following crimes/ [,][or] two or more occurrences of [one or more of the following crimes]:) _____ <insert one or more crimes listed in Pen. Code, § 186.22(e)(1)–(25), (31)–(33)>;

[OR]

<Give 1B if one or more of the crimes are in Pen. Code, § 186.22(e)(26)–(30)>

1B. [at least one of the following crimes:] _____ <insert one or more crimes from Pen. Code, § 186.22(e)(1)–(25), (31)–(33)>

AND

[at least one of the following crimes:] _____ <insert one or more crimes in Pen. Code, § 186.22(e)(26)–(30)>;

2. At least one of those crimes was committed after September 26, 1988;

3. The most recent crime occurred within three years of one of the earlier crimes;

AND

4. The crimes were committed on separate occasions, or by two or more persons.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[The crimes, if any, that establish a pattern of criminal gang activity, need not be gang-related.]

[If you find the defendant guilty of a crime in this case, you may consider that crime in deciding whether one of the group's primary activities was commission of that crime and whether a pattern of criminal gang activity has been proved.]

[You may not find that there was a pattern of criminal gang activity unless all of you agree that two or more crimes that satisfy these requirements were committed, but you do not have to all agree on which crimes were committed.]

[Other instructions explain what is necessary for the People to prove that a member of the gang [or the defendant] committed _____ <insert crimes from Pen. Code, § 186.22(e)(1)–(30), (31)–(33) inserted in definition of pattern of criminal gang activity>.]

New January 2006; Revised August 2006, June 2007

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the special circumstance. (See People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 635, 689 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 573, 941 P.2d 752].) The effective date of this special circumstance was March 8, 2000.

In element 2 of the paragraph defining a "criminal street gang," insert one or more of the crimes listed in Penal Code section 186.22(e)(1)–(25), (31)–(33) that are alleged to be the primary activities of the gang. (See People v. Sengpadychith (2001) 26 Cal.4th 316, 323–324 [109 Cal.Rptr.2d 851, 27 P.3d 739].)

In element 1A of the paragraph defining a "pattern of criminal gang activity," insert one or more of the crimes listed in Penal Code section 186.22(e) that have been committed, attempted, or solicited two or more times (See In re Nathaniel C. (1991) 228 Cal.App.3d 990, 1002–1003 [279 Cal.Rptr. 236] [two instances of same offense, or single incident with multiple participants committing one or more specified offenses, are sufficient].) if the alleged crime or crimes are listed in Penal Code section 186.22(e)(1)–(25), (31)–(33). Give on request the bracketed phrase "any combination of" if two or more different crimes are inserted in the blank. If one or more of the alleged crimes are listed in Penal Code section 186.22(e)(26)–(30), give element 1B and insert that crime or crimes and one or more of the crimes listed in Penal Code section 186.22(e)(1)–(25), (31)–(33). (See Pen. Code, § 186.22(j) ["A pattern of gang activity cannot be established solely by proof of commission of offenses enumerated in paragraphs (26) to (30), inclusive, of subdivision (e), alone."].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

On request, give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "The People do not need to prove that the defendant devoted all or a substantial part of . . . ." (See Pen. Code, § 186.22(i).)

On request, give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "If you find the defendant guilty of a crime in this case." (People v. Sengpadychith (2001) 26 Cal.4th 316, 322–323 [109 Cal.Rptr.2d 851, 27 P.3d 739]; People v. Duran (2002) 97 Cal.App.4th 1448, 1464–1465 [119 Cal.Rptr.2d 272].)

On request, give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "You may not find that there was a pattern of criminal gang activity." (People v. Funes (1994) 23 Cal.App.4th 1506, 1527–1528 [28 Cal.Rptr.2d 758]; see also Related Issues section to CALCRIM No. 1400, Active Participation in Criminal Street Gang.)

On request, the court must give a limiting instruction on the gang evidence. (People v. Hernandez (2004) 33 Cal.4th 1040, 1051–1052 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 880, 94 P.3d 1080].) If requested, give CALCRIM No. 1403, Limited Purpose of Evidence of Gang Activity.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 562, Transferred Intent.

CALCRIM No. 1400, Active Participation in Criminal Street Gang.

AUTHORITY

- Special Circumstance. Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(22).
- Active Participation Defined. Pen. Code, § 186.22(i); People v. Castenada (2000) 23 Cal.4th 743, 747 [97 Cal.Rptr.2d 906, 3 P.3d 278].
- Criminal Street Gang Defined. Pen. Code, § 186.22(f); see People v. Duran (2002) 97 Cal.App.4th 1448, 1464–1465 [119 Cal.Rptr.2d 272].
- Transferred Intent Under Penal Code Section 190.2(a)(22). People v. Shabazz (2006) 38 Cal.4th 55 [40 Cal.Rptr.3d 750, 130 P.3d 519].
- Pattern of Criminal Gang Activity Defined. Pen. Code, § 186.22(e), (j); People v. Gardeley (1996) 14 Cal.4th 605, 624–625 [59 Cal.Rptr.2d 356, 927 P.2d 713]; In re Nathaniel C. (1991) 228 Cal.App.3d 990, 1002–1003 [279 Cal.Rptr. 236].
- Felonious Criminal Conduct Defined. People v. Green (1991) 227

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.App.3d 692, 704 [278 Cal.Rptr. 140].

- Separate Intent From Underlying Felony. People v. Herrera (1999) 70 Cal.App.4th 1456, 1467–1468 [83 Cal.Rptr.2d 307].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 443.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, §§ 87.13[22], 87.14 (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.03[3][a] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

See the Bench Notes and Related Issues section to CALCRIM No. 1400, Active Participation in Criminal Street Gang.

The criminal street gang special circumstance applies when a participant in a criminal street gang intends to kill one person but kills someone else by mistake. People v. Shabazz (2006) 38 Cal.4th 55, 66 [40 Cal.Rptr.3d 750, 130 P.3d 519]; see CALCRIM No. 562, Transferred Intent.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

737. Special Circumstances: Murder of Transportation Worker (Pen. Code, § 190.25)

The defendant is charged with the special circumstance of murdering (a/an) (operator/driver/station agent/ticket agent) of (a/an) _____ <insert name of vehicle or transportation entity specified in Pen. Code, § 190.25> [in violation of Penal Code section 190.25].

To prove that this special circumstance is true, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant intended to kill _____ <insert name of decedent>;
2. _____ <insert name of decedent> was (a/an) (operator/ driver/station agent/ticket agent) of (a/an) _____ <insert name of vehicle or transportation entity specified in Pen. Code, § 190.25> performing (his/her) duties;

AND

3. When _____ <insert name of decedent> was killed, the defendant knew, or reasonably should have known, that _____ <insert name of decedent> was (a/an) (operator/ driver/station agent/ticket agent) of (a/an) _____ <insert name of vehicle or transportation entity specified in Pen. Code, § 190.25> and that (he/she) was performing (his/her) duties.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the special circumstance. (See People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 635, 689 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 573, 941 P.2d 752].)

This special circumstance alone does not provide for the death penalty. (People v. Marks (2003) 31 Cal.4th 197, 234 [2 Cal.Rptr.3d 252, 72 P.3d 1222].) However, if the defendant is also convicted of a special circumstances listed in Penal Code section 190.2(a), the defendant may be eligible for the death penalty. (Ibid.; see also Pen. Code, § 190.25(c).)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Special Circumstance. Pen. Code, § 190.25.

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 459.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, § 87.14 (Matthew Bender).

738–749. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(iii) Special Circumstances With Prior Murder

750. Special Circumstances: Prior Murder Conviction (Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(2))—Trial on Prior Murder (Pen. Code, § 190.1(a) & (b))

The defendant is charged with the special circumstance of having been convicted previously of murder. You must now decide if the People have proved that this special circumstance is true.

To prove that this special circumstance is true, the People must prove that the defendant was convicted previously of murder in the (first/second) degree.

[A conviction of _____ <insert name of offense from other state> is the same as a conviction for (first/second) degree murder.]

[In deciding whether the People have proved this special circumstance, consider only the evidence presented in this proceeding. Do not consider your verdict or any evidence from the earlier part of the trial.]

[You may not return a finding that this special circumstance has or has not been proved unless all 12 of you agree on that finding.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the special circumstance. (See People v. Williams (1997) 16 Cal.4th 635, 689 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 573, 941 P.2d 752].) The court must bifurcate trial on this special circumstance from trial on the other charges unless the defendant specifically waives bifurcation. (Pen. Code, § 190.1(b); [276 Cal.Rptr. 49, 801 P.2d 292]; Curl v. Superior Court (1990) 51 Cal.3d 1292, 1302 [276 Cal.Rptr. 49, 801 P.2d 292].)

The court must also give CALCRIM No. 221, Reasonable Doubt: Bifurcated Trial, and CALCRIM No. 3550, Pre-Deliberation Instructions.

If the defendant has waived bifurcation, the court should give paragraphs one and two. The court may also give paragraph three if appropriate. The remainder of the instruction should not be given.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

"The jury sitting as trier of fact must determine 'the truth of' the prior conviction—i.e., the fact that defendant was previously convicted of first or second degree murder." (Curl v. Superior Court (1990) 51 Cal.3d 1292, 1301 [276 Cal.Rptr. 49, 801 P.2d 292].) The court must determine the validity of the prior conviction. (Id. at p. 1302.) For an out-of-state prior, the court must determine whether the elements of the offense for which the defendant was convicted satisfy the elements of first or second degree murder in California. (People v. Martinez (2003) 31 Cal.4th 673, 684–686 [3 Cal.Rptr.3d 648, 74 P.3d 748]; People v. Andrews (1989) 49 Cal.3d 200, 223 [260 Cal.Rptr. 583, 776 P.2d 285].)

Give the bracketed paragraph that begins, "In deciding whether the People have proved," on request.

AUTHORITY

- Special Circumstance. Pen. Code, § 190.2(a)(2).
- Bifurcated Trial. Pen. Code, § 190.1(a) & (b).
- Fact of Conviction Determined by Jury. Curl v. Superior Court (1990) 51 Cal.3d 1292, 1301 [276 Cal.Rptr. 49, 801 P.2d 292].
- Validity of Conviction Determined by Court. Curl v. Superior Court (1990) 51 Cal.3d 1292, 1302 [276 Cal.Rptr. 49, 801 P.2d 292].
- Out-of-State Priors. People v. Martinez (2003) 31 Cal.4th 673, 684–686 [3 Cal.Rptr.3d 648, 74 P.3d 748]; People v. Trevino (2001) 26 Cal.4th 237, 242 [109 Cal.Rptr.2d 567, 27 P.3d 283]; People v. Andrews (1989) 49 Cal.3d 200, 223 [260 Cal.Rptr. 583, 776 P.2d 285].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 439.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, §§ 87.02[1], 87.12, 87.13[2] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Order of Conviction Relevant, Not Order of Murders

"The unambiguous language and purpose of section 190.2(a)(2) thus require that a person such as defendant, already convicted of murder in a prior proceeding, must be considered eligible for the death penalty if convicted of first degree murder in a subsequent trial. The order of the commission of the homicides is immaterial." (People v. Hendricks (1987) 43 Cal.3d 584, 596

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[238 Cal.Rptr. 66, 737 P.2d 1350]; People v. Gurule (2002) 28 Cal.4th 557, 636 [123 Cal.Rtpr.2d 345, 51 P.3d 224].)

Intent to Kill Not Required

"Defendant also contends that section 190.2(a)(2) requires a finding of intent to kill. Plainly, the provision does not expressly require such a finding." (People v. Hendricks (1987) 43 Cal.3d 584, 596 [238 Cal.Rptr. 66, 737 P.2d 1350]; People v. Gurule (2002) 28 Cal.4th 557, 633 [123 Cal.Rtpr.2d 345, 51 P.3d 224].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

751. Second Degree Murder With Prior Prison for Murder (Pen. Code, § 190.05)

The defendant is charged with the additional allegation of having previously served a prison term for murder. You must now decide if the People have proved this allegation.

To prove that this allegation is true, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant was convicted previously of murder in the (first/second) degree;

AND

2. The defendant served time in prison as a result of that conviction.

[A conviction of _____ <insert name of offense from other state> is the same as a conviction for (first/second) degree murder.]

[For the purpose of this allegation, serving time in _____ <insert name of institution from Pen. Code, § 190.05> qualifies as serving time in prison.]

<Limiting instruction alternative A—bifurcated trial>

[In deciding whether the People have proved this allegation, consider only the evidence presented in this proceeding. Do not consider your verdict or any evidence from the earlier part of the trial.]

<Limiting instruction alternative B—nonbifurcated trial>

[Consider the evidence presented on this allegation only when deciding whether the defendant was previously convicted of the crime[s] alleged [or for the limited purpose of _____ <insert other permitted purpose, e.g., assessing credibility of the defendant>]. Do not consider this evidence for any other purpose.]

[You may not return a finding that this allegation has or has not been proved unless all 12 of you agree on that finding.]

New January 2006

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the additional allegation. (See Pen. Code, § 190.05(c) [must submit special allegation to jury].)

Penal Code section 190.05 provides for possible sentences of either life without parole or 15 years to life for a defendant convicted of second degree murder who has served a prior prison term for first or second degree murder. (Pen. Code, § 190.05(a).) The statute requires the jury to find the fact of the conviction true beyond a reasonable doubt. (Pen. Code, § 190.05(c), (d).) The statute does not require that trial on the prior conviction be bifurcated from trial on the underlying charge. If the court does use a bifurcated trial, the court must also give CALCRIM No. 221, Reasonable Doubt: Bifurcated Trial, and CALCRIM No. 3550, Pre-Deliberation Instructions. (See People v. Gutierrez (1994) 23 Cal.App.4th 1576, 1579 [28 Cal.Rptr.2d 897].) The court must also give the last bracketed sentence.

On request, the court should give one of the appropriate limiting instruction, depending on whether the court has granted a bifurcated trial.

If the prior is found true, the court must then proceed with a separate penalty phase in which the jury determines which of the two possible sentences is appropriate. (Pen. Code, § 190.05(e); People v. Gutierrez, supra, 23 Cal.App.4th at p. 1579.) The court should then modify the death penalty phase instructions for use in this penalty phase trial. The factors for the jury to consider under Penal Code section 190.05(e) are identical to the factors to be considered in a death penalty trial. Thus, the court needs to change only the penalties that the jury must choose between.

AUTHORITY

- Second Degree Murder With Prior Prison for Murder. Pen. Code, § 190.05.
- Right to Jury Trail on Prior Conviction. Pen. Code, § 190.05(c).
- Reasonable Doubt Standard. Pen. Code, § 190.05(d).
- Separate Penalty Phase. Pen. Code, § 190.05(e).

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 164.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, §§ 87.02[2], 87.12 (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.01[4][d] (Matthew Bender).

752–759. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

L. DEATH PENALTY

760. Death Penalty: Introduction to Penalty Phase

This [phase of the] trial is to determine (the/each) defendant's penalty. The law provides for two possible penalties: death or life in prison without the possibility of parole. You must decide which penalty (the/each) defendant will receive.

[You must disregard all of the instructions I gave you earlier. I will give you a set of instructions that apply only to this phase of the trial. Some of these instructions will be the same or similar to instructions you have heard before. However, you must follow only this new set of instructions in this phase of the trial.]

[The first step in this process is the opening statements.

Next, the People will offer evidence. Evidence usually includes witness testimony and exhibits. After the People's case, the defense (will/may) also present evidence.

After you have heard all the evidence and [before] the attorneys have given their final arguments, I will instruct you on the law that applies to the case.

After you have heard the arguments and instructions, you will go to the jury room to deliberate.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on general concepts of law. (People v. Babbitt (1988) 45 Cal.3d 660, 718 [248 Cal.Rptr. 69, 755 P.2d 253].) Because the introductory instructions for the guilt phase contain concepts that do not apply to the penalty phase, the court must clarify for the jury which instructions apply to the penalty phase. (People v. Babbitt, supra, 45 Cal.3d at p. 718, fn. 26; People v. Weaver (2001) 26 Cal.4th 876, 982 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 2, 29 P.3d 103], cert. den. sub nom. Weaver v. California (2002) 535 U.S. 1058 [122 S.Ct. 1920, 152 L.Ed.2d 828.]) The Supreme Court has stated that, in order to avoid confusion, the trial court should provide the jury with a completely new set of instructions for the penalty phase. (People v. Weaver, supra, 26 Cal.4th at p. 982.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

The court has a sua sponte duty to give the bracketed paragraph instructing the jury to disregard all previous instructions unless the current jury did not hear the guilt phase of the case. (See People v. Arias (1996) 13 Cal.4th 92, 171 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 770, 913 P.2d 980], cert. den. sub nom. Arias v. California (1997) 520 U.S. 1251 [117 S.Ct. 2408, 138 L.Ed.2d 175].)

This instruction should be followed by any other introductory instructions the court deems appropriate prior to the presentation of penalty phase evidence. The committee recommends that the court give CALCRIM No. 101, Cautionary Admonitions: Jury Conduct (Before or After Jury Is Selected). The court may also consider giving CALCRIM No. 102, Note-Taking; CALCRIM No. 104, Evidence; and CALCRIM No. 105, Witnesses.

When CALCRIM No. 101, Cautionary Admonitions: Jury Conduct (Before or After Jury Is Selected), is given, the court has a sua sponte duty to delete the sentence which reads "Do not let bias, sympathy, prejudice, or public opinion influence your decision." (People v. Lanphear (1984) 36 Cal.3d 163, 165 [203 Cal.Rptr. 122, 680 P.2d 1081]; California v. Brown (1987) 479 U.S. 538, 545 [107 S.Ct. 837, 93 L.Ed.2d 934].)

If the current jury did not hear the previous phases of the case, the court should give the bracketed paragraphs that begin with "The first step in this process."

AUTHORITY

- Death Penalty Statute. Pen. Code, § 190.3.
- Must Tell Jury Which Instructions Apply. People v. Babbitt (1988) 45 Cal.3d 660, 718, fn. 26 [248 Cal.Rptr. 69, 755 P.2d 253].
- Should Give Jury New Set of Instructions. People v. Weaver (2001) 26 Cal.4th 876, 982 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 2, 29 P.3d 103], cert. den. sub nom. Weaver v. California (2002) 535 U.S. 1058 [122 S.Ct. 1920, 152 L.Ed.2d 828].
- Error to Instruct Not to Consider Sympathy. People v. Easley (1983) 34 Cal.3d 858, 876 [196 Cal.Rptr. 309, 671 P.2d 813]; People v. Lanphear (1984) 36 Cal.3d 163, 165 [203 Cal.Rptr. 122, 680 P.2d 1081]; California v. Brown (1987) 479 U.S. 538, 542 [107 S.Ct. 837, 93 L.Ed.2d 934].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 495.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, §§ 87.20–87.26 (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

761. Death Penalty: Duty of Jury

I will now instruct you on the law that applies to this [phase of the] case. [I will give you a copy of the instructions to use in the jury room.] [Each of you has a copy of these instructions to use in the jury room.]

[You must disregard all of the instructions I gave you earlier. I will give you a set of instructions that apply only to this phase of the trial. Some of these instructions will be the same or similar to instructions you have heard before. However, you must follow only this new set of instructions in this phase of the trial.]

You must decide whether (the/each) defendant will be sentenced to death or life in prison without the possibility of parole. It is up to you and you alone to decide what the penalty will be. [In reaching your decision, consider all of the evidence from the entire trial [unless I specifically instruct you not to consider something from an earlier phase].] Do not allow bias, prejudice, or public opinion to influence your opinion in any way.

You must follow the law as I explain it to you, even if you disagree with it. If you believe that the attorneys' comments on the law conflict with my instructions, you must follow my instructions.

Pay careful attention to all of these instructions and consider them together. If I repeat any instruction or idea, do not conclude that it is more important than any other instruction or idea just because I repeated it.

Some words or phrases used during this trial have legal meanings that are different from their meanings in everyday use. These words and phrases will be specifically defined in these instructions. Please be sure to listen carefully and follow the definitions that I give you. Words and phrases not specifically defined in these instructions are to be applied using their ordinary, everyday meanings.

Some of these instructions may not apply, depending on your findings about the facts of the case. [Do not assume just because I give a particular instruction that I am suggesting anything about the facts.] After you have decided what the facts are, follow the instructions that apply to the facts as you find them.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on general concepts of law. (People v. Babbitt (1988) 45 Cal.3d 660, 718 [248 Cal.Rptr. 69, 755 P.2d 253].) Because the introductory instructions for the guilt phase contain concepts that do not apply to the penalty phase, the court must clarify for the jury which instructions apply to the penalty phase. (People v. Babbitt (1988) 45 Cal.3d 660, 718, fn. 26 [248 Cal.Rptr. 69, 755 P.2d 253]; People v. Weaver (2001) 26 Cal.4th 876, 982 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 2, 29 P.3d 103], cert. den. sub nom. Weaver v. California (2002) 535 U.S. 1058 [122 S.Ct. 1920, 152 L.Ed.2d 828].) The Supreme Court has stated that, in order to avoid confusion, the trial court should provide the jury with a completely new set of instructions for the penalty phase. (People v. Weaver, supra, 26 Cal.4th at p. 982.)

The court has a sua sponte duty to give the bracketed paragraph instructing the jury to disregard all previous instructions unless the current jury did not hear the guilt phase of the case. (See People v. Arias (1996) 13 Cal.4th 92, 171 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 770, 913 P.2d 980], cert. den. sub nom. Arias v. California (1997) 520 U.S. 1251 [117 S.Ct. 2408, 138 L.Ed.2d 175].)

The court should give the bracketed portion of the last paragraph that begins with "Do not assume just because," unless the court will be commenting on the evidence pursuant to Penal Code section 1127. The committee recommends against any comment on the evidence in the penalty phase of a capital case.

This instruction should be followed by any other general instructions on evidence or principles of law the court deems appropriate based on the facts of the case. Specifically:

- The court has a sua sponte duty to give CALCRIM No. 222, Evidence and CALCRIM No. 226, Witnesses. (See People v. Miranda (1987) 44 Cal.3d 57, 107–108 [241 Cal.Rptr. 594, 744 P.2d 1127].)
- The court has a sua sponte duty to give CALCRIM No. 221, Reasonable Doubt: Bifurcated Trial, if the prosecution offers aggravating evidence of other criminal conduct or other felony convictions. However, the reasonable doubt standard does not apply to the question of whether the jury should impose the death penalty or to proof of other aggravating factors. (People v. Miranda, supra, 44 Cal.3d at p. 107; People v. Rodriguez (1986) 42 Cal.3d 730, 777–779 [230 Cal.Rptr. 667, 726 P.2d 113].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- If the prosecution relies on circumstantial evidence to prove other criminal conduct, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on circumstantial evidence in the penalty phase. (See People v. Brown (2003) 31 Cal.4th 518, 564 [3 Cal.Rptr.3d 145, 73 P.3d 1137] [no error where prosecution relied exclusively on direct evidence].)
- When requested, the court must give instructions admonishing the jury not to consider the defendant's failure to testify during the penalty phase. (People v. Melton (1988) 44 Cal.3d 713, 757–758 [244 Cal.Rptr. 867, 750 P.2d 741].)

AUTHORITY

- Death Penalty Statute. Pen. Code, § 190.3.
- Must Tell Jury Which Instructions Apply. People v. Babbitt (1988) 45 Cal.3d 660, 718, fn. 26 [248 Cal.Rptr. 69, 755 P.2d 253].
- Should Give Jury New Set of Instructions. People v. Weaver (2001) 26 Cal.4th 876, 982 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 2, 29 P.3d 103], cert. den. sub nom. Weaver v. California (2002) 535 U.S. 1058 [122 S.Ct. 1920, 152 L.Ed.2d 828].
- Error to Instruct Not to Consider Sympathy. People v. Lanphear (1984) 36 Cal.3d 163, 165 [203 Cal.Rptr. 122, 680 P.2d 1081]; California v. Brown (1987) 479 U.S. 538, 542 [107 S.Ct. 837, 93 L.Ed.2d 934].
- Reasonable Doubt. People v. Miranda (1987) 44 Cal.3d 57, 107 [241 Cal.Rptr. 594, 744 P.2d 1127]; People v. Rodriguez (1986) 42 Cal.3d 730, 777–779 [230 Cal.Rptr. 667, 726 P.2d 113].
- Circumstantial Evidence. People v. Brown (2003) 31 Cal.4th 518, 564 [3 Cal.Rptr.3d 145, 73 P.3d 1137].
- Defendant's Failure to Testify. People v. Melton (1988) 44 Cal.3d 713, 757–758 [244 Cal.Rptr. 867, 750 P.2d 741].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 495.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, § 87.24 (Matthew Bender).

762. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

763. Death Penalty: Factors to Consider—Not Identified as Aggravating or Mitigating (Pen. Code, § 190.3)

In reaching your decision, you must consider and weigh the aggravating and mitigating circumstances or factors shown by the evidence.

An aggravating circumstance or factor is any fact, condition, or event relating to the commission of a crime, above and beyond the elements of the crime itself, that increases the wrongfulness of the defendant's conduct, the enormity of the offense, or the harmful impact of the crime. An aggravating circumstance may support a decision to impose the death penalty.

A mitigating circumstance or factor is any fact, condition, or event that makes the death penalty less appropriate as a punishment, even though it does not legally justify or excuse the crime. A mitigating circumstance is something that reduces the defendant's blameworthiness or otherwise supports a less severe punishment. A mitigating circumstance may support a decision not to impose the death penalty.

Under the law, you must consider, weigh, and be guided by specific factors, where applicable, some of which may be aggravating and some of which may be mitigating. I will read you the entire list of factors. Some of them may not apply to this case. If you find there is no evidence of a factor, then you should disregard that factor.

The factors are:

(a) The circumstances of the crime[s] of which the defendant was convicted in this case and any special circumstances that were found true.

(b) Whether or not the defendant has engaged in violent criminal activity other than the crime[s] of which the defendant was convicted in this case. Violent criminal activity is criminal activity involving the unlawful use, attempt to use, or direct or implied threat to use force or violence against a person. [The other violent criminal activity alleged in this case will be described in these instructions.]

(c) Whether or not the defendant has been convicted of any prior felony other than the crime[s] of which (he/she) was convicted in this case.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(d) Whether the defendant was under the influence of extreme mental or emotional disturbance when (he/she) committed the crime[s] of which (he/she) was convicted in this case.

(e) Whether the victim participated in the defendant's homicidal conduct or consented to the homicidal act.

(f) Whether the defendant reasonably believed that circumstances morally justified or extenuated (his/her) conduct in committing the crime[s] of which (he/she) was convicted in this case.

(g) Whether at the time of the murder the defendant acted under extreme duress or under the substantial domination of another person.

(h) Whether, at the time of the offense, the defendant's capacity to appreciate the criminality of (his/her) conduct or to follow the requirements of the law was impaired as a result of mental disease, defect, or intoxication.

(i) The defendant's age at the time of the crime[s] of which (he/she) was convicted in this case.

(j) Whether the defendant was an accomplice to the murder and (his/her) participation in the murder was relatively minor.

(k) Any other circumstance, whether related to these charges or not, that lessens the gravity of the crime[s] even though the circumstance is not a legal excuse or justification. These circumstances include sympathy or compassion for the defendant or anything you consider to be a mitigating factor, regardless of whether it is one of the factors listed above.

Do not consider the absence of a mitigating factor as an aggravating factor.

[You may not consider as an aggravating factor anything other than the factors contained in this list that you conclude are aggravating in this case. You must not take into account any other facts or circumstances as a basis for imposing the death penalty.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[Even if a fact is both a "special circumstance" and also a "circumstance of the crime," you may consider that fact only once as an aggravating factor in your weighing process. Do not double-count that fact simply because it is both a "special circumstance" and a "circumstance of the crime."]

[Although you may consider sympathy or compassion for the defendant, you may not let sympathy for the defendant's family influence your decision. [However, you may consider evidence about the impact the defendant's execution would have on (his/her) family if that evidence demonstrates some positive quality of the defendant's background or character.]]

New January 2006; Revised August 2006, June 2007, April 2008, December 2008

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct the jury on the factors to consider in reaching a decision on the appropriate sentence. (Lockett v. Ohio (1978) 438 U.S. 586, 604–605 [98 S.Ct. 2954, 57 L.Ed.2d 973]; People v. Benson (1990) 52 Cal.3d 754, 799 [276 Cal.Rptr. 827, 802 P.2d 330].)

Although not required, "[i]t is . . . the better practice for a court to instruct on all the statutory penalty factors, directing the jury to be guided by those that are applicable on the record." (People v. Marshall (1990) 50 Cal.3d 907, 932 [269 Cal.Rptr. 269, 790 P.2d 676], cert. den. sub nom. Marshall v. California (1991) 498 U.S. 1110]; People v. Miranda (1987) 44 Cal.3d 57, 104–105 [241 Cal.Rptr. 594, 744 P.2d 1127]; People v. Melton (1988) 44 Cal.3d 713, 770 [244 Cal.Rptr. 867, 750 P.2d 741].) The jury must be instructed to consider only those factors that are "applicable." (Williams v. Calderon (1998) 48 F.Supp.2d 979, 1023.)

When the court will be instructing the jury on prior violent criminal activity in aggravation, give the bracketed sentence that begins with "The other violent criminal activity alleged in this case." (See People v. Robertson (1982) 33 Cal.3d 21, 55 [188 Cal.Rptr. 77, 655 P.2d 279]; People v. Yeoman (2003) 31 Cal.4th 93, 151 [2 Cal.Rptr.3d 186, 72 P.3d 1166].) The court also has a sua sponte duty to give CALCRIM No. 764, Death Penalty: Evidence of Other Violent Crimes, in addition to this instruction.

When the court will be instructing the jury on prior felony convictions, the court also has a sua sponte duty to give CALCRIM No. 765, Death Penalty:

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Conviction for Other Felony Crimes, in addition to this instruction.

On request, the court must instruct the jury not to double-count any "circumstances of the crime" that are also "special circumstances." (People v. Melton, supra, 44 Cal.3d at p. 768.) When requested, give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "Even if a fact is both a 'special circumstance' and also a 'circumstance of the crime'."

On request, give the bracketed sentence that begins with "You may not let sympathy for the defendant's family." (People v. Ochoa (1998) 19 Cal.4th 353, 456 [79 Cal.Rptr.2d 408, 966 P.2d 442].) On request, give the bracketed sentence that begins with "However, you may consider evidence about the impact the defendant's execution." (Ibid.)

AUTHORITY

- Death Penalty Statute. Pen. Code, § 190.3.
- Jury Must Be Instructed to Consider Any Mitigating Evidence and Sympathy. Lockett v. Ohio (1978) 438 U.S. 586, 604–605 [98 S.Ct. 2954, 57 L.Ed.2d 973]; People v. Benson (1990) 52 Cal.3d 754, 799 [276 Cal.Rptr. 827, 802 P.2d 330]; People v. Easley (1983) 34 Cal.3d 858, 876 [196 Cal.Rptr. 309, 671 P.2d 813].
- Should Instruct on All Factors. People v. Marshall (1990) 50 Cal.3d 907, 932 [269 Cal.Rptr. 269, 790 P.2d 676], cert. den. sub nom. Marshall v. California (1991) 498 U.S. 1110 [111 S.Ct. 1023, 112 L.Ed.2d 1105].
- Must Instruct to Consider Only "Applicable Factors". Williams v. Calderon (1998) 48 F.Supp.2d 979, 1023; People v. Marshall (1990) 50 Cal.3d 907, 932 [269 Cal.Rptr. 269, 790 P.2d 676], cert. den. sub nom. Marshall v. California (1991) 498 U.S. 1110 [111 S.Ct. 1023, 112 L.Ed.2d 1105].
- Mitigating Factor Must Be Supported by Evidence. Delo v. Lashley (1993) 507 U.S. 272, 275, 277 [113 S.Ct. 1222, 122 L.Ed.2d 620].
- Aggravating and Mitigating Defined. People v. Dyer (1988) 45 Cal.3d 26, 77–78 [246 Cal.Rptr. 209, 753 P.2d 1]; People v. Adcox (1988) 47 Cal.3d 207, 269–270 [253 Cal.Rptr. 55, 763 P.2d 906].
- On Request Must Instruct to Consider Only Statutory Aggravating Factors. People v. Hillhouse (2002) 27 Cal.4th 469, 509 [117 Cal.Rptr. 2d 45, 40 P.3d 754], cert. den. sub nom. Hillhouse v. California (2003) 537 U.S. 1114 [123 S.Ct. 869, 154 L.Ed.2d 789]; People v. Gordon (1990) 50 Cal.3d 1223, 1275, fn. 14 [270 Cal.Rptr. 451, 792 P.2d 251].
- Mitigating Factors Are Examples. People v. Melton (1988) 44 Cal.3d

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

713, 760 [244 Cal.Rptr. 867, 750 P.2d 741]; Belmontes v. Woodford (2003) 350 F.3d 861, 897.

- Must Instruct to Not Double-Count. People v. Melton (1988) 44 Cal.3d 713, 768 [244 Cal.Rptr. 867, 750 P.2d 741].
- Threats of Violence Must Be Directed at Persons. People v. Kirkpatrick (1994) 7 Cal.4th 988, 1016 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 818, 874 P.2d 248].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, §§ 462, 466–467, 475, 480, 483–484, 493–497.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, §§ 87.23, 87.24 (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

Aggravating and Mitigating Factors—Need Not Specify

The court is not required to identify for the jury which factors may be aggravating and which may be mitigating. (People v. Hillhouse (2002) 27 Cal.4th 469, 509 [117 Cal.Rptr.2d 45, 40 P.3d 754], cert. den. sub nom. Hillhouse v. California (2003) 537 U.S. 1114 [123 S.Ct. 869, 154 L.Ed.2d 789].) "The aggravating or mitigating nature of the factors is self-evident within the context of each case." (Ibid.) However, the court is required on request to instruct the jury to consider only the aggravating factors listed. (Ibid.; People v. Gordon (1990) 50 Cal.3d 1223, 1275, fn. 14 [270 Cal.Rptr. 451, 792 P.2d 251].) In People v. Hillhouse, the Supreme Court stated, "we suggest that, on request, the court merely tell the jury it may not consider in aggravation anything other than the aggravating statutory factors." The committee has rephrased this for clarity and included in the text of this instruction, "You may not consider as an aggravating factor anything other than the factors contained in this list that you conclude are aggravating in this case." (People v. Hillhouse (2002) 27 Cal.4th 469, 509, fn. 6 [117 Cal.Rptr.2d 45, 40 P.3d 754], cert. den. sub nom. Hillhouse v. California (2003) 537 U.S. 1114 [123 S.Ct. 869, 154 L.Ed.2d 789].)

Although the court is not required to specify which factors are the aggravating factors, it is not error for the court to do so. (People v. Musselwhite (1998) 17 Cal.4th 1216, 1269 [74 Cal.Rptr.2d 212, 954 P.2d 475].) In People v. Musselwhite, supra, 17 Cal.4th at p. 1269, decided prior to Hillhouse, the Supreme Court held that the trial court properly instructed the jury that "only factors (a), (b) and (c) of section 190.3 could be considered in aggravation . . ." (italics in original).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

764. Death Penalty: Evidence of Other Violent Crimes

The People allege as an aggravating circumstance that (the defendant/ _____ <insert name of defendant>) committed _____ <insert specific description of alleged offense[s]>.

The People must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that (the defendant/ _____ <insert name of defendant>) committed [each of] the alleged crime[s]. [Consider each of the alleged crimes separately.] If you have a reasonable doubt whether (the defendant/ _____ <insert name of defendant>) committed (the/an) alleged crime, you must completely disregard any evidence of that crime. If the People have proved that (the defendant/ _____ <insert name of defendant>) committed (the/an) alleged crime, you may consider the evidence of that alleged crime as an aggravating circumstance.

[To decide whether the defendant committed _____ <insert specific description of alleged offense[s]>, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on (that/ those) crime[s].]

Each of you must decide for yourself whether the People have proved that the defendant committed an alleged crime. You do not all need to agree whether an alleged crime has been proved. If any juror individually concludes that an alleged crime has been proved, that juror may give the evidence whatever weight he or she believes is appropriate. On the other hand, if any juror individually concludes that an alleged crime has not been proved, that juror must disregard the evidence completely.

You may not consider any other evidence of alleged criminal activity as an aggravating circumstance [except for the alleged prior felony conviction[s] about which I will now instruct you].

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct that alleged prior crimes offered in aggravation must be proved beyond a reasonable doubt. (People v.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Robertson (1982) 33 Cal.3d 21, 53–55 [188 Cal.Rptr. 77, 655 P.2d 279]; People v. Davenport (1985) 41 Cal.3d 247, 281 [221 Cal.Rptr. 794, 710 P.2d 861].) Evidence of prior crimes is limited to offenses involving the "use or attempted use of force or violence or the express or implied threat to use force or violence." (Pen. Code, § 190.3(b).)

The prosecution must specify what prior crimes are alleged in aggravation and the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct the jury to consider only evidence relating to those alleged crimes. (People v. Robertson (1982) 33 Cal.3d 21, 55 [188 Cal.Rptr. 77, 655 P.2d 279]; People v. Yeoman (2003) 31 Cal.4th 93, 151 [2 Cal.Rptr.3d 186, 72 P.3d 1166].)

The court has a sua sponte duty to give any necessary instructions on defenses to the alleged prior crimes, including instructions on voluntary intoxication as a defense. (People v. Montiel (1993) 5 Cal.4th 877, 942 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 705, 855 P.2d 1277].)

When requested by the defense, the court must instruct on the elements of the alleged prior offense. (People v. Brown (2003) 31 Cal.4th 518, 571 [3 Cal.Rptr.3d 145, 73 P.3d 1137]; (People v. Cox (2003) 30 Cal.4th 916, 964 [135 Cal.Rptr.2d 272, 70 P.3d 277]; People v. Anderson (2001) 25 Cal.4th 543, 589, fn. 14 [106 Cal.Rptr.2d 575, 22 P.3d 347] [rule not changed by Apprendi v. New Jersey (2000) 530 U.S. 466, 475–476, 490 [120 S.Ct. 2348, 147 L.Ed.2d 435]], cert. den. sub nom. Anderson v. California (2002) 534 U.S. 1136 [122 S.Ct. 1082, 151 L.Ed.2d 982].) However, the court is not required to instruct on the elements sua sponte. (People v. Brown, supra, 31 Cal.4th at p. 571; People v. Cox, supra, 30 Cal.4th at p. 964.) The defense may, for tactical reasons, prefer not to have the jury hear the elements.

Give the bracketed portion in the final paragraph when the court is also instructing the jury on prior felony convictions alleged in aggravation. (See CALCRIM No. 765, Death Penalty: Conviction for Other Felony Crimes.)

If the case involves only one defendant, the court should use the word "defendant" throughout the instruction. If the case involves codefendants tried jointly, the court should insert the name of the specific defendant alleged to have committed the prior crimes in the places indicated in the instruction.

AUTHORITY

- Factor (b). Pen. Code, § 190.3.
- Must Instruct on Reasonable Doubt. People v. Robertson (1982) 33 Cal.3d 21, 53–55 [188 Cal.Rptr. 77, 655 P.2d 279]; People v. Davenport (1985) 41 Cal.3d 247, 281 [221 Cal.Rptr. 794, 710 P.2d 861].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Must Instruct Jury to Consider Only Specified Prior Crimes Evidence. People v. Robertson (1982) 33 Cal.3d 21, 55 [188 Cal.Rptr. 77, 655 P.2d 279]; People v. Yeoman (2003) 31 Cal.4th 93, 151 [2 Cal.Rptr.3d 186, 72 P.3d 1166].
- Instruct on Elements Only When Requested. People v. Brown (2003) 31 Cal.4th 518, 571 [3 Cal.Rptr.3d 145, 73 P.3d 1137]; People v. Cox (2003) 30 Cal.4th 916, 964 [135 Cal.Rptr.2d 272, 70 P.3d 277]; People v. Anderson (2001) 25 Cal.4th 543, 589, fn. 14 [106 Cal.Rptr.2d 575, 22 P.3d 347], cert. den. sub nom. Anderson v. California (2002) 534 U.S. 1136 [122 S.Ct. 1082, 151 L.Ed.2d 982].
- Defense Instructions to Uncharged Crimes. People v. Montiel (1993) 5 Cal.4th 877, 942 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 705, 855 P.2d 1277].
- Constitutional to Admit Evidence of Uncharged Crimes. People v. Balderas (1985) 41 Cal.3d 144, 205 [222 Cal.Rptr. 184, 711 P.2d 480]; People v. Brown (2003) 31 Cal.4th 518, 571 [3 Cal.Rptr.3d 145, 73 P.3d 1137].
- No Unanimity Requirement. People v. Benson (1990) 52 Cal.3d 754, 811 [276 Cal.Rptr. 827, 802 P.2d 330].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 473.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, §§ 87.23, 87.24 (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Need Not Instruct on Presumption of Innocence

The court is not required to instruct on the presumption of innocence regarding alleged prior crimes. (People v. Benson (1990) 52 Cal.3d 754, 809–810 [276 Cal.Rptr. 827, 802 P.2d 330].)

No Unanimity Requirement

"We see nothing improper in permitting each juror individually to decide whether uncharged criminal activity has been proved beyond a reasonable doubt and, if so, what weight that activity should be given in deciding the penalty." (People v. Benson (1990) 52 Cal.3d 754, 811 [276 Cal.Rptr. 827, 802 P.2d 330].)

No Requirement to Instruct Jury Must Find "Violence or Threat of Violence" Beyond a Reasonable Doubt

The court is required to instruct the jury that the alleged prior crime must be proved beyond a reasonable doubt. However, the court does not have to instruct the jury that the fact that the alleged crime involved violence or the threat of violence must be proved beyond a reasonable doubt. (People v. Ochoa (2002) 26 Cal.4th 398, 453 [110 Cal.Rptr.2d 324, 28 P.3d 78], cert. den. sub nom. Ochoa v. California (1999) 535 U.S. 1040 [122 S.Ct. 1803, 152 L.Ed.2d 660].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

May Use Same Conduct Under Factor (b) and Factor (c)

"Where violent 'criminal activity' results in a 'prior felony conviction,' it shows both a propensity for violence and an inability or unwillingness to be deterred by prior criminal sanctions. The jury was entitled to consider the relevance of defendant's prior conviction for both purposes under factors (b) and (c)." (People v. Whitt (1990) 51 Cal.3d 620, 654 [274 Cal.Rptr. 252, 798 P.2d 849] [emphasis in original]; People v. Yeoman (2003) 31 Cal.4th 93, 156 [2 Cal.Rptr.3d 186, 72 P.3d 1166].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

765. Death Penalty: Conviction for Other Felony Crimes

The People allege as an aggravating circumstance that (the defendant/ _____ <insert name of defendant>) was convicted of _____ <insert name of felony conviction> on _____ <insert date of conviction>. <Repeat for each felony conviction alleged.>

The People must prove (this/these) allegation[s] beyond a reasonable doubt. If you have a reasonable doubt whether (the defendant/ _____ <insert name of defendant>) was convicted of (the/an) alleged crime, you must completely disregard any evidence of that crime. If the People have proved that (the defendant/ _____ <insert name of defendant>) was convicted of (the/an) alleged prior crime, you may consider the fact of that prior conviction as an aggravating circumstance.

You may not consider any other evidence of alleged criminal activity as an aggravating circumstance [except for the alleged criminal activity I discussed in the previous instruction].

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct that alleged prior felony convictions offered in aggravation must be proved beyond a reasonable doubt. (See People v. Robertson (1982) 33 Cal.3d 21, 53–55 [188 Cal.Rptr. 77, 655 P.2d 279]; People v. Davenport (1985) 41 Cal.3d 247, 281 [221 Cal.Rptr. 794, 710 P.2d 861].)

The prosecution must specify what convictions are alleged in aggravation, and the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct the jury to consider only evidence relating to those prior convictions. (See People v. Robertson (1982) 33 Cal.3d 21, 55 [188 Cal.Rptr. 77, 655 P.2d 279]; People v. Yeoman (2003) 31 Cal.4th 93, 151 [2 Cal.Rptr.3d 186, 72 P.3d 1166].)

To be admissible under factor (c), the defendant must have been convicted of the other felony offense prior to the commission of the offenses charged in the current case. (People v. Balderas (1985) 41 Cal.3d 144, 205 [222 Cal.Rptr. 184, 711 P.2d 480]; People v. Kaurish (1990) 52 Cal.3d 648, 702. [276 Cal.Rptr. 788, 802 P.2d 278].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Give the bracketed portion in the final paragraph when the court is also instructing the jury on prior violent crimes alleged in aggravation. (See CALCRIM No. 764, Death Penalty: Evidence of Other Violent Crimes.)

In People v. Benson (1990) 52 Cal.3d 754, 811 [276 Cal.Rptr. 827, 802 P.2d 330], the Supreme Court held that the jury need not be unanimous about whether prior violent crimes offered under factor (b) have been proved beyond a reasonable doubt. The Supreme Court has not ruled on whether this also applies to prior felony convictions offered under factor (c). If the court determines that the jury need not be unanimous about whether prior felony convictions have been proved beyond a reasonable doubt, the court may, on request, add the following paragraph:

> Each of you must decide for yourself whether the People have proved that the defendant was convicted of an alleged crime. You do not all need to agree whether an alleged conviction has been proved. If any juror individually concludes that an alleged conviction has been proved, that juror may give the evidence whatever weight he or she believes is appropriate. On the other hand, if any juror individually concludes that an alleged conviction has not been proved, that juror must disregard the evidence completely.

If the case involves only one defendant, the court should use the word "defendant" throughout the instruction. If the case involves codefendants tried jointly, the court should insert the name of the specific defendant alleged to have been convicted of the prior felony in the places indicated in the instruction.

AUTHORITY

- Factor (c). Pen. Code, § 190.3.
- Must Be Proved Beyond a Reasonable Doubt. People v. Robertson (1982) 33 Cal.3d 21, 53–55]; People v. Davenport (1985) 41 Cal.3d 247, 281 [221 Cal.Rptr. 794, 710 P.2d 861].
- Must Pre-Date Current Offense. People v. Balderas (1985) 41 Cal.3d 144, 205 [222 Cal.Rptr. 184, 711 P.2d 480]; People v. Kaurish (1990) 52 Cal.3d 648, 702 [276 Cal.Rptr. 788, 802 P.2d 278].
- Defendant May Raise Constitutional Challenge to Prior. People v. La Fargue (1983) 147 Cal.App.3d 878, 890 [195 Cal.Rptr. 438].
- Out-of-State Convictions. People v. Lang (1989) 49 Cal.3d 991, 1038–1039 [264 Cal.Rptr. 386, 782 P.2d 627].
- Constitutional to Admit Evidence of Prior Convictions. People v. Kaurish (1990) 52 Cal.3d 648, 701 [276 Cal.Rptr. 788, 802 P.2d 278].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 474.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, §§ 87.23, 87.24 (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Out-of-State Felony Convictions

"In the absence of limitation, a reference to 'prior felony convictions' is deemed to include any prior conviction which was a felony under the laws of the convicting jurisdiction." (People v. Lang (1989) 49 Cal.3d 991, 1038–1039 [264 Cal.Rptr. 386, 782 P.2d 627].) Thus, the out-of-state prior does not have to qualify as a felony under California law. (Ibid.)

Constitutional Challenge

The defendant may bring a constitutional challenge to the validity of the prior conviction. (People v. La Fargue (1983) 147 Cal.App.3d 878, 890 [195 Cal.Rptr. 438].) If the conviction is from another country, the defendant may challenge the prior on the basis that the foreign jurisdiction does not provide the procedural safeguards mandated by the United States Constitution. (Ibid.)

Evidence of Charges and Underlying Facts Not Admissible, Only Conviction

"Because the . . . burglaries were nonviolent crimes, only evidence authenticating defendant's conviction for these crimes was relevant and admissible under section 190.3, factor (c). Unlike violent criminal activity admissible under factor (b), the charges leading to a conviction of a nonviolent crime are inadmissible." (People v. Kaurish (1990) 52 Cal.3d 648, 703 [276 Cal.Rptr. 788, 802 P.2d 278] [emphasis in original]; People v. Stanley (1995) 10 Cal.4th 764, 819 [42 Cal.Rptr.2d 543, 897 P.2d 481] [facts admissible under factor (b) but not under factor (c)].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

766. Death Penalty: Weighing Process

You have sole responsibility to decide which penalty (the/each) defendant will receive.

You must consider the arguments of counsel and all the evidence presented [during (both/all) phases of the trial] [except for the items of evidence I specifically instructed you not to consider].

In reaching your decision, you must consider, take into account, and be guided by the aggravating and mitigating circumstances. Each of you is free to assign whatever moral or sympathetic value you find appropriate to each individual factor and to all of them together. Do not simply count the number of aggravating and mitigating factors and decide based on the higher number alone. Consider the relative or combined weight of the factors and evaluate them in terms of their relative convincing force on the question of punishment.

Each of you must decide for yourself whether aggravating or mitigating factors exist. You do not all need to agree whether such factors exist. If any juror individually concludes that a factor exists, that juror may give the factor whatever weight he or she believes is appropriate.

Determine which penalty is appropriate and justified by considering all the evidence and the totality of any aggravating and mitigating circumstances. Even without mitigating circumstances, you may decide that the aggravating circumstances, are not substantial enough to warrant death. To return a judgment of death, each of you must be persuaded that the aggravating circumstances both outweigh the mitigating circumstances and are also so substantial in comparison to the mitigating circumstances that a sentence of death is appropriate and justified.

[In making your decision about penalty, you must assume that the penalty you impose, death or life without the possibility of parole, will be carried out.]

To return a verdict of either death or life without the possibility of parole, all 12 of you must agree on that verdict.

[You must separately consider which sentence to impose on each defendant. If you cannot agree on the sentence[s] for one [or more] defendant[s] but you do agree on the sentence[s] for the other defendant[s], then you must return a verdict for (the/each) defendant on whose sentence you do agree.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct the jury on the weighing process in a capital case. (People v. Brown (1985) 40 Cal.3d 512, 544 [230 Cal.Rptr. 834, 726 P.2d 516]; People v. Benson (1990) 52 Cal.3d 754, 799 [276 Cal.Rptr. 827, 802 P.2d 330].)

Following this instruction, the court must give CALCRIM No. 3550, Pre-Deliberation Instructions, explaining how to proceed in deliberations.

On request, give the bracketed sentence that begins with "In making your decision about penalty." (People v. Kipp (1988) 18 Cal.4th 349, 378–379 [75 Cal.Rptr.2d 716, 956 P.2d 1169].)

AUTHORITY

- Death Penalty Statute. Pen. Code, § 190.3.
- Error to Instruct "Shall Impose Death." People v. Brown (1985) 40 Cal.3d 512, 544 [230 Cal.Rptr. 834, 726 P.2d 516].
- Must Instruct on Weighing Process. People v. Brown (1985) 40 Cal.3d 512, 544 [230 Cal.Rptr. 834, 726 P.2d 516]; People v. Benson (1990) 52 Cal.3d 754, 799 [276 Cal.Rptr. 827, 802 P.2d 330]; People v. Duncan (1991) 53 Cal.3d 955, 977–979 [281 Cal.Rptr. 273, 810 P.2d 131].
- Aggravating Factors "So Substantial in Comparison to" Mitigating. People v. Duncan (1991) 53 Cal.3d 955, 977–979 [281 Cal.Rptr. 273, 810 P.2d 131].
- Error to Instruct on Commutation. People v. Ramos (1982) 37 Cal.3d 136, 159 [207 Cal.Rptr. 800, 689 P.2d 430].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, §§ 466–467, 493–494, 496–497.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, §§ 87.23[2], 87.24[1] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

RELATED ISSUES

No Presumption of Life and No Reasonable Doubt Standard

The court is not required to instruct the jury that there is a presumption in favor of a life sentence; that the aggravating factors (other than prior crimes) must be found beyond a reasonable doubt; or that the jury must find beyond a reasonable doubt that the aggravating factors substantially outweigh the mitigating factors. (People v. Benson (1990) 52 Cal.3d 754, 800 [276 Cal.Rptr. 827, 802 P.2d 330]; People v. Miranda (1987) 44 Cal.3d 57, 107 [241 Cal.Rptr. 594, 744 P.2d 1127]; People v. Rodriguez (1986) 42 Cal.3d 730, 777–779 [230 Cal.Rptr. 667, 726 P.2d 113].)

Unanimity on Factors Not Required

The court is not required to instruct the jury that they must unanimously agree on any aggravating circumstance. (People v. Rodriguez (1986) 42 Cal.3d 730, 777–779 [230 Cal.Rtpr. 667, 726 P.2d 113].)

Commutation Power

It is error for the court to instruct on the Governor's commutation power unless specifically requested by the defense. (People v. Ramos (1982) 37 Cal.3d 136, 159 [207 Cal.Rptr. 800, 689 P.2d 430].) If the jury inquires about commutation, the court may inform the jury that the Governor has the power to commute either sentence, but the jury may not consider this in reaching its decision. (Id. at 159, fn. 12; see 3 Witkin & Epstein, Califronia Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 496 [collecting cases in which court required to respond to inquiries from jury regarding commutation].) The court must not state or imply to the jury that the ultimate authority for selecting the sentence to be imposed lies elsewhere. (Caldwell v. Mississippi (1985) 472 U.S. 320, 328–329 [105 S.Ct. 2633, 86 L.Ed.2d 231].)

Deadlock—No Duty to Inform Jury Not Required to Return Verdict

"[W]here, as here, there is no jury deadlock, a court is not required to instruct the jury that it has the choice not to deliver any verdict." (People v. Miranda (1987) 44 Cal.3d 57, 105 [241 Cal.Rptr. 594, 744 P.2d 1127].)

Deadlock—Questions From the Jury About What Will Happen

If the jury inquires about what will happen in the event of a deadlock, the court should refuse to answer. (People v. Bell (1989) 49 Cal.3d 502, 553 [262 Cal.Rptr. 1, 778 P.2d 129].)

No Duty to Instruct Not to Consider Deterrence or Costs

"Questions of deterrence or cost in carrying out a capital sentence are for the Legislature, not for the jury considering a particular case." (People v. Benson (1990) 52 Cal.3d 754, 807 [276 Cal.Rptr. 827, 802 P.2d 330] [citation and internal quotation marks omitted].) Where "[t]he issue of deterrence or cost [is] not raised at trial, either expressly or by implication," the court need not instruct the jury to disregard these matters. (Ibid.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

767. Response to Juror Inquiry About Commutation of Sentence in Death Penalty Case

The (governor/legislature/courts) (have/has) the power to reduce criminal sentences. This power applies equally to a death sentence or a sentence of life without the possibility of parole. In your deliberations, you must assume that whatever sentence you choose will be carried out. Do not consider the possibility of some future action by a (governor/legislature/court).

New April 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

This instruction should be given only in response to a jury question about commutation of sentence or at the request of the defendant. (People v. Ramos (1984) 37 Cal.3d 136, 159, fn. 12 [207 Cal.Rptr. 800, 689 P.2d 430]). "The key in Ramos is whether the jury raises the commutation issue so that it 'cannot be avoided.'" (People v. Bramit (2009) 46 Cal.4th 1221, 1251 [96 Cal.Rptr.3d 574, 210 P.3d 1171] (conc. opn. of Moreno, J.)) Commutation instructions are proper, however, when the jury implicitly raises the issue of commutation. No direct question is necessary. (People v. Beames (2007) 40 Cal.4th 907, 932 [55 Cal.Rptr.3d 865, 153 P.3d 955].)

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. Pen. Code, § 190.3; People v. Bramit (2009) 46 Cal.4th 1221, 1247–1248 [96 Cal.Rptr.3d 574, 210 P.3d 1171]; People v. Ramos (1984) 37 Cal.3d 136, 153–159 [207 Cal.Rptr. 800, 689 P.2d 430].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 496.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, § 87.02 (Matthew Bender).

768–774. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

775. Death Penalty: Mental Retardation (Pen. Code, § 1376)

I will now instruct you on the law that applies to this [phase of the] case.

[You must disregard all the instructions I gave you earlier and decide this phase of the trial applying only the instructions that I am giving you now. Some of these instructions will be the same or similar to instructions you have heard before. However, you must follow only this new set of instructions in this phase of the trial.]

You must decide whether the defendant is mentally retarded.

In order to establish that (he/she) is mentally retarded, the defendant must prove by a preponderance of the evidence that:

1. (His/Her) general intellectual functioning is significantly below average;
2. (He/She) also has deficits in two or more areas of adaptive behavior;

AND

3. These conditions were observable before the defendant reached the age of 18 years.

Adaptive behavior is the set of learned skills that people generally need to function in their everyday lives. Those skill areas include communication, self-care, home-living, social/interpersonal skills, use of community resources, self-direction, functional academic skills, work, leisure, health and safety.

Proof by a preponderance of the evidence is a different standard than proof beyond a reasonable doubt. To meet the burden of proof by a preponderance of the evidence, the defendant must prove that it is more likely than not that (he/she) is mentally retarded. If the defendant has not met this burden, you must find that (he/she) has not proved that (he/she) is mentally retarded. In order to return a finding that the defendant is or is not mentally retarded, you must all agree on that finding.

New January 2006

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on general concepts of law. (People v. Babbitt (1988) 45 Cal.3d 660, 718 [248 Cal.Rptr. 69, 755 P.2d 253].) In the context of penalty phase instructions, the Supreme Court has stated that the trial court must clarify for the jury which instructions apply to the penalty phase. (People v. Babbitt, supra, 45 Cal.3d at p. 718, fn. 26; People v. Weaver (2001) 26 Cal.4th 876, 982 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 2, 29 P.3d 103], cert. den. sub nom. Weaver v. California (2002) 535 U.S. 1058 [122 S.Ct. 1920, 152 L.Ed.2d 828].) In order to avoid confusion, the Supreme Court has indicated that the preferable practice is for the court to provide the jury with a completely new set of instructions. (People v. Weaver, supra, 26 Cal.4th at p. 982.) The committee recommends this approach in the mental retardation phase as well.

When the defendant in a capital trial raises the issue of mental retardation, the jury must decide the question unless the defendant has waived a jury on the issue. (Pen. Code, § 1376(b)(1).) The hearing on mental retardation shall be conducted after the guilt phase and prior to the penalty phase. (Ibid.) If the defendant has entered a plea of not guilty by insanity, the hearing on mental retardation shall be conducted after the sanity phase. (Pen. Code, § 1376(e).) The defense bears the burden of proving mental retardation by a preponderance of the evidence. (Pen. Code, § 1376(b)(2).)

The court must also give any necessary instructions on witnesses and evidence, such as CALCRIM No. 222, Evidence, CALCRIM No. 226, Witnesses, and CALCRIM No. 332, Expert Witness. The court must conclude with CALCRIM No. 3550, Pre-Deliberation Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Hearing on Mental Retardation in Death Penalty Case. Pen. Code, § 1376.
- Execution of Mentally Retarded Unconstitutional. Atkins v. Virginia (2002) 536 U.S. 304, 319–321 [122 S.Ct. 2242, 153 L.Ed.2d 335].
- Mental Retardation Defined. Pen. Code, § 1376(a); In re Hawthorne (2005) 35 Cal.4th 40, 47–49 [24 Cal.Rptr.3d 189, 105 P.3d 552]; American Association on Mental Retardation, http://www.aamr.org/Policies/faq_mental_retardation.shtml (accessed August 16, 2006 [case sensitive]).
- Should Give Jury New Set of Instructions (Penalty Phase). People v. Weaver (2001) 26 Cal.4th 876, 982 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 2, 29 P.3d 103], cert.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

den. sub nom. Weaver v. California (2002) 535 U.S. 1058 [122 S.Ct. 1920, 152 L.Ed.2d 828].

Secondary Sources

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 87, Death Penalty, §§ 87.16, 87.17, 87.18 (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Scope of Expert Testing

When the defendant places at issue the question of whether he or she is mentally retarded, the defendant must submit to examination by a prosecution expert. (Centeno v. Superior Court (2004) 117 Cal.App.4th 30, 40 [11 Cal.Rptr.3d 533].) "However, those examinations are permissible only to the extent they are reasonably related to the determination of the existence of the mental condition raised. . . . [On] a defense objection to specific proposed prosecution tests, the trial court must make a threshold determination that the tests bear some reasonable relation to measuring mental retardation, including factors that might confound or explain the testing, such as malingering. . . . The trial court must prohibit any tests it concludes are not reasonably related to determining mental retardation." (Id. at p. 45.)

776–799. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

ASSAULTIVE AND BATTERY CRIMES

A. MAYHEM

800. Aggravated Mayhem (Pen. Code, § 205)

801. Mayhem (Pen. Code, § 203)

802–809. Reserved for Future Use

B. TORTURE

810. Torture (Pen. Code, § 206)

811–819. Reserved for Future Use

C. ABUSE OF OR INJURY TO CHILD, ELDER OR DEPENDENT ADULT, SPOUSE

(i) Child

820. Assault Causing Death of Child (Pen. Code, § 273a(b))

821. Child Abuse Likely to Produce Great Bodily Harm or Death (Pen. Code, § 273a(a))

822. Inflicting Physical Punishment on Child (Pen. Code, § 273d(a))

823. Child Abuse (Misdemeanor) (Pen. Code, § 273a(b))

824–829. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Elder or Dependent Adult

830. Abuse of Elder or Dependent Adult Likely to Produce Great Bodily Harm or Death (Pen. Code, § 368(b)(1))

831. Abuse of Elder or Dependent Adult (Pen. Code, § 368(c))

832–839. Reserved for Future Use

(iii) Spouse, etc.

840. Inflicting Injury on Spouse, Cohabitant, or Fellow Parent Resulting in Traumatic Condition (Pen. Code, § 273.5(a))

841. Simple Battery: Against Spouse, Cohabitant, or Fellow Parent (Pen. Code, § 243(e)(1))

842–849. Reserved for Future Use

(iv) Evidence

850. Testimony on Intimate Partner Battering and Its Effects: Credibility of Complaining Witness

851. Testimony on Intimate Partner Battering and Its Effects: Offered by the Defense

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

852. Evidence of Uncharged Domestic Violence
853. Evidence of Uncharged Abuse of Elder or Dependent Person
854–859. Reserved for Future Use

D. ASSAULT

(i) With Weapon or Force Likely

(A) On Specified People

860. Assault on Firefighter or Peace Officer With Deadly Weapon or Force Likely to Produce Great Bodily Injury (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 245(c) & (d))
861. Assault on Firefighter or Peace Officer With Stun Gun or Less Lethal Weapon (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 244.5(c))
862. Assault on Custodial Officer With Deadly Weapon or Force Likely to Produce Great Bodily Injury (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 245, 245.3)
863. Assault on Transportation Personnel or Passenger With Deadly Weapon or Force Likely to Produce Great Bodily Injury (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 245, 245.2)
864–874. Reserved for Future Use

(B) General

875. Assault With Deadly Weapon or Force Likely to Produce Great Bodily Injury (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 245(a)(1)–(3), (b))
876. Assault With Stun Gun or Less Lethal Weapon (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 244.5(b))
877. Assault With Caustic Chemicals (Pen. Code, § 244)
878–889. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) With Intent to Commit Other Offense

890. Assault With Intent to Commit Specified Crimes [While Committing First Degree Burglary] (Pen. Code, § 220(a), (b))
891. Assault With Intent to Commit Mayhem (Pen. Code, § 220(a))
892–899. Reserved for Future Use

(iii) Simple Assault on Specified People or in Specified Location

900. Assault on Firefighter, Peace Officer or Other Specified Victim (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241)
901. Assault on Custodial Officer (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.1)
902. Assault on Military Personnel (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.8)
903. Assault on School District Peace Officer (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.4)
904. Assault on School Employee (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.6)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

905. Assault on Juror (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.7)
906. Assault Committed on School or Park Property (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.2)
907. Assault Committed on Public Transportation Provider's Property or Vehicle (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.3)
908–914. Reserved for Future Use

(iv) Simple Assault

915. Simple Assault (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241(a))
916. Assault by Conditional Threat
917. Insulting Words Are Not a Defense
918–924. Reserved for Future Use

E. BATTERY

(i) Causing Injury

925. Battery Causing Serious Bodily Injury (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243(d))
926. Battery Causing Injury to Specified Victim Not a Peace Officer (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243(b)–(c)(1))
927–934. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Sexual Battery

935. Sexual Battery: Felony (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.4(a) & (d))
936. Sexual Battery on Institutionalized Victim (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.4(b) & (d))
937. Sexual Battery: By Fraudulent Representation (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.4(c))
938. Sexual Battery: Misdemeanor (Pen. Code, § 243.4(e)(1))
939–944. Reserved for Future Use

(iii) On Specified Person or in Specified Location

945. Battery Against Peace Officer (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243(b), (c)(2))
946. Battery Against Custodial Officer (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.1)
947. Simple Battery on Military Personnel (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.10)
948. Battery Against Transportation Personnel or Passenger (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.3)
949. Battery Against School Employee (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.6)
950. Battery Against a Juror (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.7)
951. Battery Committed on School, Park, or Hospital Property (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.2)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

952–959. Reserved for Future Use

(iv) Simple Battery

960. Simple Battery (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243(a))

961–964. Reserved for Future Use

F. SHOOTING AND BRANDISHING

(i) Shooting

965. Shooting at Inhabited House or Occupied Motor Vehicle (Pen. Code, § 246)

966. Shooting at Uninhabited House or Unoccupied Motor Vehicle (Pen. Code, § 247(b))

967. Shooting at Unoccupied Aircraft (Pen. Code, § 247(a))

968. Shooting From Motor Vehicle (Pen. Code, § 12034(c) & (d))

969. Permitting Someone to Shoot From Vehicle (Pen. Code, § 12034(b))

970. Shooting Firearm or BB Device in Grossly Negligent Manner (Pen. Code, § 246.3)

971–979. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Brandishing

980. Brandishing Firearm in Presence of Occupant of Motor Vehicle (Pen. Code, § 417.3)

981. Brandishing Firearm in Presence of Peace Officer (Pen. Code, § 417(c) & (e))

982. Brandishing Firearm or Deadly Weapon to Resist Arrest (Pen. Code, § 417.8)

983. Brandishing Firearm or Deadly Weapon: Misdemeanor (Pen. Code, § 417(a)(1) & (2))

984. Brandishing Firearm: Misdemeanor—Public Place (Pen. Code, § 417(a)(2)(A))

985. Brandishing Imitation Firearm (Pen. Code, § 417.4)

986–999. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

A. MAYHEM

800. Aggravated Mayhem (Pen. Code, § 205)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with aggravated mayhem [in violation of Penal Code section 205].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant unlawfully and maliciously (disabled or disfigured someone permanently/ [or] deprived someone else of a limb, organ, or part of (his/her) body);
2. When the defendant acted, (he/she) intended to (permanently disable or disfigure the other person/ [or] deprive the other person of a limb, organ, or part of (his/her) body);

AND

3. Under the circumstances, the defendant's act showed extreme indifference to the physical or psychological well-being of the other person.

Someone acts maliciously when he or she intentionally does a wrongful act or when he or she acts with the unlawful intent to annoy or injure someone else.

[A disfiguring injury may be permanent even if it can be repaired by medical procedures.]

[The People do not have to prove that the defendant intended to kill.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

In element 1, give the first option if the defendant was prosecuted for permanently disabling or disfiguring the victim. Give the second option if the defendant was prosecuted for depriving someone of a limb, organ, or body part. (See Pen. Code, § 205.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

The bracketed sentence regarding "permanent injury" may be given on request if there is evidence that the injury may be repaired by medical procedures. (People v. Hill (1994) 23 Cal.App.4th 1566, 1574–1575 [28 Cal.Rptr.2d 783] [not error to instruct that an injury may be permanent even though cosmetic repair may be medically feasible].)

The bracketed sentence stating that "The People do not have to prove that the defendant intended to kill," may be given on request if there is no evidence or conflicting evidence that the defendant intended to kill someone. (See Pen. Code, § 205.)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 205.
- Malicious Defined. Pen. Code, § 7, subd. 4; People v. Lopez (1986) 176 Cal.App.3d 545, 550 [222 Cal.Rptr. 101].
- Permanent Disability. See, e.g., People v. Thomas (1979) 96 Cal.App.3d 507, 512 [158 Cal.Rptr. 120] [serious ankle injury lasting over six months], overruled on other grounds People v. Kimble (1988) 44 Cal.3d 480, 498 [244 Cal.Rptr. 148, 749 P.2d 803].
- Permanent Disfigurement. See People v. Hill (1994) 23 Cal.App.4th 1566, 1571 [28 Cal.Rptr.2d 783]; see also People v. Newble (1981) 120 Cal.App.3d 444, 451 [174 Cal.Rptr. 637] [head is member of body for purposes of disfigurement].
- Specific Intent to Cause Maiming Injury. People v. Ferrell (1990) 218 Cal.App.3d 828, 833 [267 Cal.Rptr. 283]; People v. Lee (1990) 220 Cal.App.3d 320, 324–325 [269 Cal.Rptr. 434].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 87.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.16 (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Aggravated Mayhem. Pen. Code, §§ 205, 663.
- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Battery with Serious Bodily Injury. Pen. Code, § 243(d); People v.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Ausbie (2004) 123 Cal.App.4th 855 [20 Cal.Rptr.3d 371].

- Battery. Pen. Code, § 242.

Assault with force likely to produce great bodily injury (Pen. Code, § 245(a)(1)) is not a lesser included offense to mayhem. (People v. Ausbie (2004) 123 Cal.App.4th 855, 862–863 [20 Cal.Rptr.3d 371].)

RELATED ISSUES

Victim Must Be Alive

A victim of mayhem must be alive at the time of the act. (People v. Kraft (2000) 23 Cal.4th 978, 1058 [99 Cal.Rptr.2d 1, 5 P.3d 68]; see People v. Jentry (1977) 69 Cal.App.3d 615, 629 [138 Cal.Rptr. 250].)

Evidence of Indiscriminate Attack or Actual Injury Constituting Mayhem Insufficient to Show Specific Intent

"Aggravated mayhem . . . requires the specific intent to cause the maiming injury. [Citation.] Evidence that shows no more than an 'indiscriminate attack' is insufficient to prove the required specific intent. [Citation.] Furthermore, specific intent to maim may not be inferred solely from evidence that the injury inflicted actually constitutes mayhem; instead, there must be other facts and circumstances which support an inference of intent to maim rather than to attack indiscriminately. [Citation.]" (People v. Park (2000) 112 Cal.App.4th 61, 64 [4 Cal.Rptr.3d 815].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

801. Mayhem (Pen. Code, § 203)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with mayhem [in violation of Penal Code section 203].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of mayhem, the People must prove that the defendant caused serious bodily injury when (he/she) unlawfully and maliciously:

[1. Removed a part of someone's body(;/.)]

[OR]

[2. Disabled or made useless a part of someone's body and the disability was more than slight or temporary(;/.)]

[OR]

[3. Permanently disfigured someone(;/.)]

[OR]

[4. Cut or disabled someone's tongue(;/.)]

[OR]

[5. Slit someone's (nose[,]/ear[,]/ [or] lip) (;/.)]

[OR]

[6. Put out someone's eye or injured someone's eye in a way that so significantly reduced (his/her) ability to see that the eye was useless for the purpose of ordinary sight.]

Someone acts maliciously when he or she intentionally does a wrongful act or when he or she acts with the unlawful intent to annoy or injure someone else.

[A serious bodily injury means a serious impairment of physical condition. Such an injury may include[, but is not limited to]: (protracted loss or impairment of function of any bodily member or organ/ a wound requiring extensive suturing/ [and] serious disfigurement).]

[_____ <Insert description of injury when appropriate; see Bench Notes> is a serious bodily injury.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[A disfiguring injury may be permanent even if it can be repaired by medical procedures.]

New January 2006; Revised August 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Whether the complaining witness suffered a serious bodily injury is a question for the jury to determine. If the defendant disputes that the injury suffered was a serious bodily injury, use the first bracketed paragraph. If the parties stipulate that the injury suffered was a serious bodily injury, use the second bracketed paragraph.

The last bracketed sentence may be given on request if there is evidence of a disfiguring injury that may be repaired by medical procedures. (See People v. Hill (1994) 23 Cal.App.4th 1566, 1574–1575 [28 Cal.Rptr.2d 783] [not error to instruct that injury may be permanent even though cosmetic repair may be medically feasible].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 203.
- Malicious Defined. Pen. Code, § 7, subd. 4; People v. Lopez (1986) 176 Cal.App.3d 545, 550 [222 Cal.Rptr. 101].
- Serious Bodily Injury Defined. People v. Pitts (1990) 223 Cal.App.3d 1547, 1559–1560 [273 Cal.Rptr. 389].
- Disabled. See, e.g., People v. Thomas (1979) 96 Cal.App.3d 507, 512 [158 Cal.Rptr. 120] [serious ankle injury lasting over six months], overruled on other grounds in People v. Kimble (1988) 44 Cal.3d 480, 498 [244 Cal.Rptr. 148, 749 P.2d 803].
- General Intent Crime. People v. Villegas (2001) 92 Cal.App.4th 1217, 1226 [113 Cal.Rptr.2d 1]; People v. Sekona (1994) 27 Cal.App.4th 443, 453 [32 Cal.Rptr.2d 606].
- Permanent Disfigurement. People v. Hill (1994) 23 Cal.App.4th 1566, 1571 [28 Cal.Rptr.2d 783]; Goodman v. Superior Court (1978) 84 Cal.App.3d 621, 624 [148 Cal.Rptr. 799]; see also People v. Newble (1981) 120 Cal.App.3d 444, 451 [174 Cal.Rptr. 637] [head is member of body for purposes of disfigurement].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Put Out Eye. People v. Dennis (1985) 169 Cal.App.3d 1135, 1138 [215 Cal.Rptr. 750]; People v. Green (1976) 59 Cal.App.3d 1, 3–4 [130 Cal.Rptr. 318] [addressing corrective lenses]; People v. Nunes (1920) 47 Cal.App. 346, 350 [190 P. 486].
- Slit Lip. People v. Caldwell (1984) 153 Cal.App.3d 947, 952 [200 Cal.Rptr. 508] [defendant bit through victim's lower lip].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 84–86.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.16 (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Mayhem. Pen. Code, §§ 203, 663.
- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240; see People v. De Angelis (1979) 97 Cal.App.3d 837, 841 [159 Cal.Rptr. 111] [mayhem occurred during continuing assault].
- Battery With Serious Bodily Injury. Pen. Code, § 243(d); People v. Ausbie (2004) 123 Cal.App.4th 855, 859 [20 Cal.Rptr.3d 371].
- Battery. Pen. Code, § 242.

Assault with force likely to produce great bodily injury (Pen. Code, § 245(a)(1)) is not a lesser included offense to mayhem. (People v. Ausbie (2004) 123 Cal.App.4th 855, 862–863 [20 Cal.Rptr.3d 371].)

RELATED ISSUES

Disfigurement

Disfigurement constitutes mayhem "only when the injury is permanent." (Goodman v. Superior Court (1978) 84 Cal.App.3d 621, 624 [148 Cal.Rptr. 799]; People v. Hill (1994) 23 Cal.App.4th 1566, 1571 [28 Cal.Rptr.2d 783].) However, the "possibility that a victim's disfigurement might be alleviated through reconstructive surgery is no bar to a finding of 'permanent' injury." (People v. Williams (1996) 46 Cal.App.4th 1767, 1774 [54 Cal.Rptr.2d 521].) "We . . . reject [the] contention that evidence of medical alleviation may be used in a mayhem trial to prove an injury, permanent by its nature, may be corrected by medical procedures." (People v. Hill, supra, 23 Cal.App.4th at 1574.) In addition, "[t]he fact that [disfiguring injuries] are on a normally unexposed portion of [a] body does not render them any less significant."

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(People v. Keenan (1991) 227 Cal.App.3d 26, 36 [277 Cal.Rptr. 687] [burns inflicted on victim's breasts by a cigarette].)

Imperfect Self-Defense Not Available

"[A]part from the McKelvy lead opinion, there is no authority to support [the] claim that the mere use of the term 'malicious' in section 203 requires a court to instruct a jury that an actual but unreasonable belief will negate the malice required to convict for mayhem . . . . [Mayhem] involves a different requisite mental state and has no statutory history recognizing a malice aforethought element or the availability of the Flannel defense." (People v. Sekona (1994) 27 Cal.App.4th 443, 457 [32 Cal.Rptr.2d 606]; contra, People v. McKelvy (1987) 194 Cal.App.3d 694, 702–704 [239 Cal.Rptr. 782] (lead opn. of Kline, P.J.).)

Victim Must Be Alive

A victim of mayhem must be alive at the time of the act. (People v. Kraft (2000) 23 Cal.4th 978, 1058 [99 Cal.Rptr.2d 1, 5 P.3d 68]; see People v. Jentry (1977) 69 Cal.App.3d 615, 629 [138 Cal.Rptr. 250].)

802–809. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

B. TORTURE

810. Torture (Pen. Code, § 206)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with torture [in violation of Penal Code section 206].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant inflicted great bodily injury on someone else;

AND

2. When inflicting the injury, the defendant intended to cause cruel or extreme pain and suffering for the purpose of revenge, extortion, persuasion, or for any sadistic purpose.

Great bodily injury means significant or substantial physical injury. It is an injury that is greater than minor or moderate harm.

[It is not required that a victim actually suffer pain.]

[Someone acts for the purpose of extortion if he or she intends to (1) obtain a person's property with the person's consent and (2) obtain the person's consent through the use of force or fear.]

[Someone acts for the purpose of extortion if he or she (1) intends to get a public official to do an official act and (2) uses force or fear to make the official do the act. An official act is an act that an officer does in his or her official capacity using the authority of his or her public office.]

[Someone acts with a sadistic purpose if he or she intends to inflict pain on someone else in order to experience pleasure himself or herself.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Unlike murder by torture, the crime of torture does not require that the intent to cause pain be premeditated or that any cruel or extreme pain be prolonged. (People v. Pre (2004) 117 Cal.App.4th 413, 419–420 [11 Cal.Rptr.3d 739]; People v. Aguilar (1997) 58 Cal.App.4th 1196, 1204–1205 [68 Cal.Rptr.2d 619]; People v. Vital (1996) 45 Cal.App.4th 441, 444 [52 Cal.Rptr.2d 676].) Torture as defined in section 206 of the Penal Code focuses on the mental state of the perpetrator and not the actual pain inflicted. (People v. Hale (1999) 75 Cal.App.4th 94, 108 [88 Cal.Rptr.2d 904].) Give the first bracketed paragraph on request if there is no proof that the alleged victim actually suffered pain. (See Pen. Code, § 206.)

"Extortion" need not be defined for purposes of torture. (People v. Barrera (1993) 14 Cal.App.4th 1555, 1564 [18 Cal.Rptr.2d 395]; but see People v. Hill (1983) 141 Cal.App.3d 661, 668 [190 Cal.Rptr. 628] [term should be defined for kidnapping under Pen. Code, § 209].) Nevertheless, either of the bracketed definitions of extortion, and the related definition of "official act," may be given on request if any of these issues are raised in the case. (See Pen. Code, § 518 [defining "extortion"]; People v. Norris (1985) 40 Cal.3d 51, 55–56 [219 Cal.Rptr. 7, 706 P.2d 1141] [defining "official act"].) Extortion may also be committed by using "the color of official right" to make an official do an act. (Pen. Code, § 518; see Evans v. United States (1992) 504 U.S. 255, 258 [112 S.Ct. 1881, 119 L.Ed.2d 57]; McCormick v. United States (1990) 500 U.S. 257, 273 [111 S.Ct. 1807, 114 L.Ed.2d 307] [both discussing common law definition of the term].) It appears that this type of extortion would rarely occur in the context of torture, so it is excluded from this instruction.

"Sadistic purpose" may be defined on request. (See People v. Barrera, supra, 14 Cal.App.4th at p. 1564; People v. Raley (1992) 2 Cal.4th 870, 899–901 [8 Cal.Rptr.2d 678, 830 P.2d 712] [approving use of phrase in torture-murder and special circumstances torture-murder instructions].)

Related Instructions

First degree murder by torture defines torture differently for the purposes of murder. See CALCRIM No. 521, Murder: Degrees.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 206.
- Extortion Defined. Pen. Code, § 518.
- Great Bodily Injury Defined. Pen. Code, § 12022.7(f); see, e.g., People v. Hale (1999) 75 Cal.App.4th 94, 108 [88 Cal.Rptr.2d 904] [broken and smashed teeth, split lip, and facial cut sufficient evidence of great bodily injury].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Cruel Pain Equivalent to Extreme or Severe Pain. People v. Aguilar (1997) 58 Cal.App.4th 1196, 1202 [68 Cal.Rptr.2d 619].
- Intent. People v. Pre (2004) 117 Cal.App.4th 413, 419–420 [11 Cal.Rptr.3d 739]; People v. Hale (1999) 75 Cal.App.4th 94, 106–107 [88 Cal.Rptr.2d 904]; People v. Jung (1999) 71 Cal.App.4th 1036, 1042–1043 [84 Cal.Rptr.2d 5]; see People v. Aguilar (1997) 58 Cal.App.4th 1196, 1204–1206 [68 Cal.Rptr.2d 619] [neither premeditation nor intent to inflict prolonged pain are elements of torture].
- Sadistic Purpose Defined. People v. Raley (1992) 2 Cal.4th 870, 899–901 [8 Cal.Rptr.2d 678, 830 P.2d 712]; People v. Aguilar (1997) 58 Cal.App.4th 1196, 1202–1204 [68 Cal.Rptr.2d 619]; see People v. Healy (1993) 14 Cal.App.4th 1137, 1142 [18 Cal.Rptr.2d 274] [sexual element not required].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 88–90.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.15 (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

In People v. Martinez (2005) 125 Cal.App.4th 1035, 1042–1046 [23 Cal.Rptr.3d 508], the court held that none of the following offenses were lesser included offenses to torture: assault with a deadly weapon (Pen. Code, § 245(a)(1)); corporal injury on a cohabitant (Pen. Code, § 273.5); forcible rape (Pen. Code, § 261(a)(2)); forcible oral copulation (Pen. Code, § 288a(c)); criminal threats (Pen. Code, § 422); dissuading a witness by force or threats (Pen. Code, § 136.1(c)(1)); false imprisonment by violence. (Pen. Code, § 236.)

The court did not decide whether assault with force likely to cause great bodily injury is a lesser included offense to torture. (Id. at p. 1043–1044.)

811–819. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

C. ABUSE OF OR INJURY TO CHILD, ELDER OR DEPENDENT ADULT, SPOUSE

(i) Child

820. Assault Causing Death of Child (Pen. Code, § 273a(b))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with killing a child under the age of 8 by assaulting the child with force likely to produce great bodily injury [in violation of Penal Code section 273a(b)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant had care or custody of a child who was under the age of 8;
2. The defendant did an act that by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to the child;
3. The defendant did that act willfully;
4. The force used was likely to produce great bodily injury;
5. When the defendant acted, (he/she) was aware of facts that would lead a reasonable person to realize that (his/her) act by its nature would directly and probably result in great bodily injury to the child;
6. When the defendant acted, (he/she) had the present ability to apply force likely to produce great bodily injury to the child;

[AND]

7. The defendant's act caused the child's death(;/.)

<Give element 8 when instructing on parental right to discipline>

[AND

8. When the defendant acted, (he/she) was not reasonably disciplining a child.]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

Great bodily injury means significant or substantial physical injury. It is an injury that is greater than minor or moderate harm.

An act causes death if:

1. The death was the natural and probable consequence of the act;
2. The act was a direct and substantial factor in causing the death;

AND

3. The death would not have happened without the act.

A natural and probable consequence is one that a reasonable person would know is likely to happen if nothing unusual intervenes. In deciding whether a consequence is natural and probable, consider all of the circumstances established by the evidence.

A substantial factor is more than a trivial or remote factor. However, it does not need to be the only factor that caused the death.

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense of disciplining a child. (People v. Whitehurst (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1045, 1049 [12 Cal.Rptr.2d 33].) Give bracketed element 8 and CALCRIM No. 3405, Parental Right to Punish a Child.

Give the bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

§ 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 875, Assault With Deadly Weapon or Force Likely to Produce Great Bodily Injury.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 273a(b); see People v. Malfavon (2002) 102 Cal.App.4th 727, 735 [125 Cal.Rptr.2d 618] [sometimes called "child abuse homicide"].
- Great Bodily Injury Defined. Pen. Code, § 12022.7(f); People v. Albritton (1998) 67 Cal.App.4th 647, 658 [79 Cal.Rptr.2d 169].
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7, subd. 1; see People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Force Likely to Produce Great Bodily Injury. People v. Preller (1997) 54 Cal.App.4th 93, 97–98 [62 Cal.Rptr.2d 507] [need not prove that reasonable person would believe force would be likely to result in child's death].
- General Intent Crime. People v. Albritton (1998) 67 Cal.App.4th 647, 658–659 [79 Cal.Rptr.2d 169].
- Mental State for Assault. People v. Williams (2001) 26 Cal.4th 779, 790 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 114, 29 P.3d 197].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 99.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.13[2A], 142.23[7] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Assault on Child With Force Likely to Produce Great Bodily Injury. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 273a(b).
- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Assault With Force Likely to Produce Great Bodily Injury. Pen. Code, § 245(a)(1); People v. Basuta (2001) 94 Cal.App.4th 370, 392 [114 Cal.Rptr.2d 285].

Involuntary manslaughter is not a lesser included offense of Penal Code section 273ab. (People v. Stewart (2000) 77 Cal.App.4th 785, 796 [91

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.Rptr.2d 888]; Orlina v. Superior Court (1999) 73 Cal.App.4th 258, 261–262 [86 Cal.Rptr.2d 384].)

Neither murder nor child abuse homicide is a necessarily included offense within the other. (People v. Malfavon (2002) 102 Cal.App.4th 727, 743–744 [125 Cal.Rptr.2d 618].)

RELATED ISSUES

Care or Custody

"The terms 'care or custody' do not imply a familial relationship but only a willingness to assume duties correspondent to the role of a caregiver." (People v. Cochran (1998) 62 Cal.App.4th 826, 832 [73 Cal.Rptr.2d 257].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

821. Child Abuse Likely to Produce Great Bodily Harm or Death (Pen. Code, § 273a(a))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with child abuse likely to produce (great bodily harm/ [or] death) [in violation of Penal Code section 273a(a)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

<Alternative A—inflicted pain>

[1. The defendant willfully inflicted unjustifiable physical pain or mental suffering on a child;]

<Alternative B—caused or permitted to suffer pain>

[1. The defendant willfully caused or permitted a child to suffer unjustifiable physical pain or mental suffering;]

<Alternative C—while having custody, caused or permitted to suffer injury>

[1. The defendant, while having care or custody of a child, willfully caused or permitted the child's person or health to be injured;]

<Alternative D—while having custody, caused or permitted to be placed in danger>

[1. The defendant, while having care or custody of a child, willfully caused or permitted the child to be placed in a situation where the child's person or health was endangered;]

[AND]

2. The defendant (inflicted pain or suffering on the child/ [or] caused or permitted the child to (suffer/ [or] be injured/ [or] be endangered)) under circumstances or conditions likely to produce (great bodily harm/ [or] death)(;/.)

<Give element 3 when giving alternatives 1B, 1C or 1D>

[AND]

[3. The defendant was criminally negligent when (he/she)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

caused or permitted the child to (suffer/ [or] be injured/ [or] be endangered)(;/.)]

<Give element 4 when instructing on parental right to discipline>

[AND

4. The defendant did not act while reasonably disciplining a child.]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose.

The phrase likely to produce (great bodily harm/ [or] death) means the probability of (great bodily harm/ [or] death) is high.

Great bodily harm* means significant or substantial physical injury. It is an injury that is greater than minor or moderate harm.

A child is any person under the age of 18 years.

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

[Unjustifiable physical pain or mental suffering is pain or suffering that is not reasonably necessary or is excessive under the circumstances.]

Criminal negligence* involves more than ordinary carelessness, inattention, or mistake in judgment. A person acts with criminal negligence when:

1. He or she acts in a reckless way that is a gross departure from the way an ordinarily careful person would act in the same situation;

2. The person's acts amount to disregard for human life or indifference to the consequences of his or her acts;

AND

3. A reasonable person would have known that acting in that way would naturally and probably result in harm to others.

[A child does not need to actually suffer great bodily harm. But if a child does suffer great bodily harm, you may consider that fact, along with all the other evidence, in deciding whether the defendant committed the offense.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

New January 2006; Revised August 2006, April 2010, October 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense of disciplining a child. (People v. Whitehurst (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1045, 1049 [12 Cal.Rptr.2d 33].) Give bracketed element 4 and CALCRIM No. 3405, Parental Right to Punish a Child.

Give element 1A if it is alleged that the defendant directly inflicted unjustifiable physical pain or mental suffering. Give element 1B if it is alleged that the defendant caused or permitted a child to suffer. If it is alleged that the defendant had care or custody of a child and caused or permitted the child's person or health to be injured, give element 1C. Finally, give element 1D if it is alleged that the defendant had care or custody of a child and endangered the child's person or health. (See Pen. Code, § 273a(a).)

Give bracketed element 3 and the bracketed definition of "criminally negligent" if element 1B, 1C, or 1D is given alleging that the defendant committed any indirect acts. (See People v. Valdez (2002) 27 Cal.4th 778, 788–789 [118 Cal.Rptr.2d 3, 42 P.3d 511]; People v. Peabody (1975) 46 Cal.App.3d 43, 48–49 [119 Cal.Rptr. 780].)

Give on request the bracketed definition of "unjustifiable" physical pain or mental suffering if there is a question about the necessity or degree of pain or suffering. (See People v. Curtiss (1931) 116 Cal.App. Supp. 771, 779–780 [300 P. 801].)

Give on request the bracketed paragraph stating that a child need not actually suffer great bodily harm. (See People v. Cortes (1999) 71 Cal.App.4th 62, 80 [83 Cal.Rptr.2d 519]; People v. Jaramillo (1979) 98 Cal.App.3d 830, 835 [159 Cal.Rptr. 771].)

Give the bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 273a(a); People v. Cortes (1999) 71 Cal.App.4th 62, 80 [83 Cal.Rptr.2d 519]; People v. Smith (1984) 35 Cal.3d 798, 806 [201 Cal.Rptr. 311, 678 P.2d 886].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Child Defined. See Fam. Code, § 6500; People v. Thomas (1976) 65 Cal.App.3d 854, 857–858 [135 Cal.Rptr. 644] [in context of Pen. Code, § 273d].
- Likely Defined. People v. Chaffin (2009) 173 Cal.App.4th 1348, 1351–1352 [93 Cal.Rptr.3d 531] [questioning analysis of term in People v. Wilson]; People v. Wilson (2006) 138 Cal.App.4th 1197, 1204 [41 Cal.Rptr.3d 919].
- Great Bodily Harm or Injury Defined. Pen. Code, § 12022.7(f); People v. Cortes (1999) 71 Cal.App.4th 62, 80 [83 Cal.Rptr.2d 519].
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7, subd. 1; see People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402]; People v. Vargas (1988) 204 Cal.App.3d 1455, 1462, 1468–1469 [251 Cal.Rptr. 904].
- Criminal Negligence Required for Indirect Conduct. People v. Valdez (2002) 27 Cal.4th 778, 788, 789 [118 Cal.Rptr.2d 3, 42 P.3d 511]; People v. Peabody (1975) 46 Cal.App.3d 43, 47, 48–49 [119 Cal.Rptr. 780]; see People v. Penny (1955) 44 Cal.2d 861, 879–880 [285 P.2d 926] [criminal negligence for homicide]; Walker v. Superior Court (1988) 47 Cal.3d 112, 135 [253 Cal.Rptr. 1, 763 P.2d 852].
- General Criminal Intent Required for Direct Infliction of Pain or Suffering. People v. Sargent (1999) 19 Cal.4th 1206, 1224 [81 Cal.Rptr.2d 835, 970 P.2d 409]; see People v. Atkins (1975) 53 Cal.App.3d 348, 361 [125 Cal.Rptr. 855]; People v. Wright (1976) 60 Cal.App.3d 6, 14 [131 Cal.Rptr. 311].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 159–163.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.01[2][a][v], 142.23[7] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

Any violation of Penal Code section 273a(a) must be willful. (People v. Smith (1984) 35 Cal.3d 798, 806 [678 P.2d 886]; People v. Cortes (1999) 71 Cal.App.4th 62, 80 [83 Cal.Rptr.2d 519]; but see People v. Valdez (2002) 27 Cal.4th 778, 789 [118 Cal.Rptr.2d 3, 42 P.3d 511] [the prong punishing a direct infliction of unjustifiable physical pain or mental suffering does not expressly require that the conduct be willful].) Following Smith and Cortes, the committee has included "willfully" in element 1A regarding direct infliction of abuse until there is further guidance from the courts.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Child Abuse. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 273a(a).
- Misdemeanor Child Abuse. Pen. Code, § 273a(b).

RELATED ISSUES

Care or Custody

"The terms 'care or custody' do not imply a familial relationship but only a willingness to assume duties correspondent to the role of a caregiver." (People v. Toney (1999) 76 Cal.App.4th 618, 621–622 [90 Cal.Rptr.2d 578] [quoting People v. Cochran (1998) 62 Cal.App.4th 826, 832 [73 Cal.Rptr.2d 257]].)

Prenatal Conduct

Penal Code section 273a does not apply to prenatal conduct endangering an unborn child. (Reyes v. Superior Court (1977) 75 Cal.App.3d 214, 217–218, 219 [141 Cal.Rptr. 912].)

Unanimity

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on unanimity when the prosecution has presented evidence of multiple acts to prove a single count. (People v. Russo (2001) 25 Cal.4th 1124, 1132 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 436, 25 P.3d 641].) However, the court does not have to instruct on unanimity if the offense constitutes a "continuous course of conduct." (People v. Napoles (2002) 104 Cal.App.4th 108, 115–116 [127 Cal.Rptr.2d 777].) Child abuse may be a continuous course of conduct or a single, isolated incident. (Ibid.) The court should carefully examine the statute charged, the pleadings, and the evidence presented to determine whether the offense constitutes a continuous course of conduct. (Ibid.) See generally CALCRIM No. 3500, Unanimity.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

822. Inflicting Physical Punishment on Child (Pen. Code, § 273d(a))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with inflicting on a child cruel or inhuman physical punishment or injury that caused a traumatic condition [in violation of Penal Code section 273d(a)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant willfully inflicted (cruel or inhuman physical punishment/ [and/or] an injury) on a child;

[AND]

2. The (punishment/ [and/or] injury) inflicted by the defendant caused a traumatic physical condition to the child(;/.)

<Give element 3 when instructing on parental right to discipline>

[AND

3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) was not reasonably disciplining a child.]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose.

A child is any person under the age of 18 years.

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

A traumatic physical condition is a wound or other bodily injury, whether minor or serious, caused by the direct application of physical force.

A (punishment/ [and/or] injury) caused a traumatic physical condition if:

1. The traumatic condition was the natural and probable consequence of the (punishment/ [and/or] injury);
2. The (punishment/ [and/or] injury) was a direct and substantial factor in causing the condition;

AND

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

3. The condition would not have happened without the (punishment/ [and/or] injury).

A natural and probable consequence is one that a reasonable person would know is likely to happen if nothing unusual intervenes. In deciding whether a consequence is natural and probable, consider all of the circumstances established by the evidence.

A substantial factor is more than a trivial or remote factor. However, it does not need to be the only factor that caused the traumatic condition.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense of disciplining a child. (People v. Whitehurst (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1045, 1049 [12 Cal.Rptr.2d 33].) Give bracketed element 3 and CALCRIM No. 3405, Parental Right to Punish a Child.

Give the bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 273d(a).
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7, subd. 1; see People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Child Defined. People v. Thomas (1976) 65 Cal.App.3d 854, 857–858 [135 Cal.Rptr. 644] [victim's size and age relevant to reasonableness of corporal punishment]; see Fam. Code, § 6500.
- Duty to Define Traumatic Condition. People v. Burns (1948) 88 Cal.App.2d 867, 873–874 [200 P.2d 134].
- General Intent Crime. People v. Atkins (1975) 53 Cal.App.3d 348, 358 [125 Cal.Rptr. 855].
- Traumatic Condition Defined. People v. Thomas (1976) 65 Cal.App.3d

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

854, 857 [135 Cal.Rptr. 644]; People v. Stewart (1961) 188 Cal.App.2d 88, 91 [10 Cal.Rptr. 217]; see People v. Gutierrez (1985) 171 Cal.App.3d 944, 951–953 [217 Cal.Rptr. 616] [in context of Pen. Code, § 273.5].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 164, 165.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.13[2], 142.23[7] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Infliction of Corporal Punishment. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 273d.
- Simple Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Simple Battery. Pen. Code, § 242; see People v. Sargent (1999) 19 Cal.4th 1206, 1220 [81 Cal.Rptr.2d 835, 970 P.2d 409]; People v. Stewart (1961) 188 Cal.App.2d 88, 89 [10 Cal.Rptr. 217].

Willfully causing or permitting a child to suffer, or willfully inflicting on a child, unjustifiable physical pain or mental suffering under circumstances other than those likely to produce great bodily harm or death (Pen. Code, § 273a(b)) is not a lesser included offense of Penal Code section 273d. (See People v. Lofink (1988) 206 Cal.App.3d 161, 166 [253 Cal.Rptr. 384].)

RELATED ISSUES

Spanking

It is not unlawful for a parent to spank a child for disciplinary purposes with an object other than the hand. The punishment, however, must be necessary and not excessive in relation to the individual circumstances. (80 Ops.Cal.Atty.Gen. 203 (1997).)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

823. Child Abuse (Misdemeanor) (Pen. Code, § 273a(b))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with child abuse [in violation of Penal Code section 273a(b)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

<Alternative 1A—inflicted pain>

[1. The defendant willfully inflicted unjustifiable physical pain or mental suffering on a child;]

<Alternative 1B—caused or permitted to suffer pain>

[1. The defendant willfully caused or permitted a child to suffer unjustifiable physical pain or mental suffering;]

<Alternative 1C—while having custody, caused or permitted to suffer injury>

[1. The defendant, while having care or custody of a child, willfully caused or permitted the child's person or health to be injured;]

<Alternative 1D—while having custody, caused or permitted to be placed in danger>

[1. The defendant, while having care or custody of a child, willfully caused or permitted the child to be placed in a situation where the child's person or health was endangered;]

<Give element 2 when giving alternative 1B, 1C, or 1D.>

[AND]

[2. The defendant was criminally negligent when (he/she) caused or permitted the child to (suffer[,]/ [or] be injured[,]/ [or] be endangered)(;/.)]

<Give element 2/3 when instructing on parental right to discipline.>

[AND

(2/3). The defendant did not act while reasonably disciplining a child.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose.

A child is any person under the age of 18 years.

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

[Unjustifiable physical pain or mental suffering is pain or suffering that is not reasonably necessary or is excessive under the circumstances.]

Criminal negligence* involves more than ordinary carelessness, inattention, or mistake in judgment. A person acts with criminal negligence when:

1. He or she acts in a reckless way that is a gross departure from the way an ordinarily careful person would act in the same situation;
2. The person's acts amount to disregard for human life or indifference to the consequences of his or her acts;

AND

3. A reasonable person would have known that acting in that way would naturally and probably result in harm to others.

New January 2006; Revised August 2006, August 2009, October 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense of disciplining a child. (People v. Whitehurst (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1045, 1049 [12 Cal.Rptr.2d 33].) Give bracketed element 2/3 and CALCRIM No. 3405, Parental Right to Punish a Child.

Give alternative 1A if it is alleged that the defendant directly inflicted unjustifiable physical pain or mental suffering. Give alternative 1B if it is alleged that the defendant caused or permitted a child to suffer. If it is alleged that the defendant had care or custody of a child and caused or permitted the child's person or health to be injured, give alternative 1C. Finally, give alternative 1D if it is alleged that the defendant had care or custody of a child and endangered the child's person or health. (See Pen. Code, § 273a(b).)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Give bracketed element 2 and the bracketed definition of "criminal negligence" if alternative 1B, 1C, or 1D is given alleging that the defendant committed any indirect acts. (See People v. Valdez (2002) 27 Cal.4th 778, 788–789 [118 Cal.Rptr.2d 3, 42 P.3d 511]; People v. Peabody (1975) 46 Cal.App.3d 43, 48–49 [119 Cal.Rptr. 780].)

Give on request the bracketed definition of "unjustifiable" physical pain or mental suffering if there is a question about the necessity or degree of pain or suffering. (See People v. Curtiss (1931) 116 Cal.App. Supp. 771, 779–780 [300 P. 801].)

Give the bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 273a(b); People v. Burton (2006) 143 Cal.App.4th 447, 453–457 [49 Cal.Rptr.3d 334]; People v. Cortes (1999) 71 Cal.App.4th 62, 80 [83 Cal.Rptr.2d 519]; People v. Smith (1984) 35 Cal.3d 798, 806 [201 Cal.Rptr. 311, 678 P.2d 886].
- Child Defined. See Fam. Code, § 6500; People v. Thomas (1976) 65 Cal.App.3d 854, 857–858 [135 Cal.Rptr. 644] [in context of Pen. Code, § 273d].
- Willfully Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(1); see People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402]; People v. Vargas (1988) 204 Cal.App.3d 1455, 1462, 1468–1469 [251 Cal.Rptr. 904].
- Criminal Negligence Required for Indirect Conduct. People v. Valdez (2002) 27 Cal.4th 778, 788–789 [118 Cal.Rptr.2d 3, 42 P.3d 511]; People v. Peabody (1975) 46 Cal.App.3d 43, 47, 48–49 [119 Cal.Rptr. 780]; see People v. Penny (1955) 44 Cal.2d 861, 879–880 [285 P.2d 926] [criminal negligence for homicide]; Walker v. Superior Court (1988) 47 Cal.3d 112, 135 [253 Cal.Rptr.1, 763 P.2d 852].
- General Criminal Intent Required for Direct Infliction of Pain or Suffering. People v. Sargent (1999) 19 Cal.4th 1206, 1224 [81 Cal.Rptr.2d 835, 970 P.2d 409]; see People v. Atkins (1975) 53 Cal.App.3d 348, 358 [125 Cal.Rptr. 855]; People v. Wright (1976) 60 Cal.App.3d 6, 14 [131 Cal.Rptr. 311].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 159–165.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.13[1], 142.23[7] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

See Commentary to CALCRIM No. 821, Child Abuse Likely to Produce Great Bodily Harm or Death.

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section of CALCRIM No. 821, Child Abuse Likely to Produce Great Bodily Harm or Death.

824–829. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(ii) Elder or Dependent Adult

830. Abuse of Elder or Dependent Adult Likely to Produce Great Bodily Harm or Death (Pen. Code, § 368(b)(1))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with (elder/dependent adult) abuse likely to produce great bodily harm or death [in violation of Penal Code section 368(b)(1)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

<Alternative A—inflicted pain>

[1. The defendant willfully inflicted unjustifiable physical pain or mental suffering on _____ <insert name or description of elder or dependent adult>;]

<Alternative B—caused or permitted to suffer pain>

[1. The defendant willfully caused or permitted _____ <insert name or description of elder or dependent adult> to suffer unjustifiable physical pain or mental suffering;]

<Alternative C—while having custody, caused or permitted to be injured>

[1. The defendant, while having care or custody of _____ <insert name or description of elder or dependent adult> willfully caused or permitted (his/her) person or health to be injured;]

<Alternative D—while having custody, caused or permitted to be placed in danger>

[1. The defendant, while having care or custody of _____ <insert name or description of elder or dependent adult> willfully caused or permitted (him/her) to be placed in a situation where (his/her) person or health was endangered;]

2. The defendant (inflicted suffering on _____ <insert name or description of elder or dependent adult>/ [or] caused or permitted _____ <insert name of elder or dependent adult> to (suffer/ [or] be injured/ [or] be endangered)) under circumstances or conditions likely to produce great bodily harm or death;

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

3. _____ <insert name or description of elder or dependent adult> (is/was) (an elder/a dependent adult)(;/.)

[AND]

4. When the defendant acted, (he/she) knew or reasonably should have known that _____ <insert name or description of elder or dependent adult> was (an elder/a dependent adult)(;/.)

<Give element 5 when giving alternative 1B and it is alleged the defendant permitted the suffering.>

[AND]

[5. The defendant had a legal duty to supervise and control the conduct of the person[s] who caused or inflicted unjustifiable physical pain or mental suffering on _____ <insert name or description of elder or dependent adult>, but failed to supervise or control that conduct(;/.)]

<Give element 6 when giving alternative 1B, 1C, or 1D.>

[AND

6. The defendant was criminally negligent when (he/she) caused or permitted _____ <insert name or description of elder or dependent adult> to (suffer/ [or] be injured/ [or] be endangered).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose.

Great bodily injury* means significant or substantial physical injury. It is an injury that is greater than minor or moderate harm.

[An elder is someone who is at least 65 years old.]

[A dependent adult is someone who is between 18 and 64 years old and has physical or mental limitations that restrict his or her ability to carry out normal activities or to protect his or her rights. [This definition includes an adult who has physical or developmental disabilities or whose physical or mental abilities have decreased because of age.] [A dependent adult is also someone between 18 and 64 years old who is an inpatient in a (health facility/psychiatric health facility/ [or] chemical dependency recovery hospital)].]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[Unjustifiable physical pain or mental suffering is pain or suffering that is not reasonably necessary or is excessive under the circumstances.]

[A person who does not have care or custody of (an elder/a dependent adult) may still have a legal duty to supervise and control the conduct of a third person who can inflict abuse on the (elder/dependent adult) if the person has a special relationship with the third person. A special relationship is created, for example, when (1) a person takes charge of a third person whom (he/she) knows or should know is likely to cause bodily harm to others if not controlled, and (2) the person has the ability to control the third person's conduct.]

[Criminal negligence involves more than ordinary carelessness, inattention, or mistake in judgment. A person acts with criminal negligence when:

1. He or she acts in a reckless way that creates a high risk of death or great bodily harm;

AND

2. A reasonable person would have known that acting in that way would create such a risk.

In other words, a person acts with criminal negligence when the way he or she acts is so different from the way an ordinarily careful person would act in the same situation that his or her act amounts to disregard for human life or indifference to the consequences of that act.]

[(An elder/A dependent adult) does not need to actually suffer great bodily harm. But if (an elder/a dependent adult) does suffer great bodily harm, you may consider that fact, along with all the other evidence, in deciding whether the defendant committed the offense.]

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Give element 1A if it is alleged that the defendant directly inflicted unjustifiable physical pain or mental suffering. Give element 1B if it is alleged that the defendant caused or permitted an elder or dependent adult to suffer. If it is alleged that the defendant had care or custody of an elder or dependent adult and that the defendant caused or permitted the elder's or dependent adult's person or health to be injured, give element 1C. Finally, give element 1D if it is alleged that the defendant had care or custody of an elder or dependent adult and that the defendant endangered the elder's or dependent adult's person or health. (See Pen. Code, § 368(b)(1).)

Give bracketed element 5 if it is alleged under element 1B that the defendant permitted an elder or dependent adult to suffer unjustifiable pain or mental suffering. (See People v. Heitzman (1994) 9 Cal.4th 189, 212 [37 Cal.Rptr.2d 236, 886 P.2d 1229].) If element 5 is given, also give the bracketed paragraph defining who has a "legal duty to control the conduct of a third person."

Give bracketed element 6 regarding criminal negligence, and the bracketed definition of "criminally negligent," if element 1B, 1C, or 1D is given alleging that the defendant committed any indirect act. (People v. Manis (1992) 10 Cal.App.4th 110, 114 [12 Cal.Rptr.2d 619], disapproved on other grounds by People v. Heitzman (1994) 9 Cal.4th 189, 212 [37 Cal.Rptr.2d 236, 886 P.2d 1229]; People v. Superior Court (Holvey) (1988) 205 Cal.App.3d 51, 60 [252 Cal.Rptr. 335], disapproved on other grounds by People v. Heitzman (1994) 9 Cal.4th 189, 212 [37 Cal.Rptr.2d 236, 886 P.2d 1229]; see People v. Valdez (2002) 27 Cal.4th 778, 788, 789 [118 Cal.Rptr.2d 3, 42 P.3d 511]; People v. Peabody (1975) 46 Cal.App.3d 43, 48–49 [119 Cal.Rptr. 780] [latter two cases in context of parallel child abuse statute].)

Give the bracketed definition of "elder" or "dependent adult" depending on the status of the alleged victim. (See Pen. Code, § 368(g) & (h).)

Give on request the bracketed definition of "unjustifiable" physical pain or mental suffering if there is a question about the necessity for or the degree of pain or suffering. (See People v. Curtiss (1931) 116 Cal.App. Supp. 771, 779–780 [300 P. 801].)

If there is a question whether an elder or dependent adult suffered great bodily harm, give on request the bracketed paragraph stating that a person

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

"does not need to actually suffer great bodily harm." (See People v. Cortes (1999) 71 Cal.App.4th 62, 80 [83 Cal.Rptr.2d 519]; People v. Jaramillo (1979) 98 Cal.App.3d 830, 835 [159 Cal.Rptr. 771] [in context of parallel child abuse statute].)

If a victim actually suffers great bodily injury or dies, the defendant's sentence may be enhanced based on the victim's age. (See Pen. Code, § 368(b)(2) & (3); see People v. Adams (2001) 93 Cal.App.4th 1192, 1198 [113 Cal.Rptr.2d 722].) Give CALCRIM No. 3162, Great Bodily Injury: Age of Victim, or any other appropriate instructions on enhancements. (See series 3100–3399.)

Give the bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 368(b)(1).
- Great Bodily Harm or Injury Defined. Pen. Code, §§ 368(b)(2), 12022.7(f); see People v. Cortes (1999) 71 Cal.App.4th 62, 80 [83 Cal.Rptr.2d 519] [in context of parallel child abuse statute].
- Sentence Enhancements. Pen. Code, § 368(b)(2) & (3); see People v. Adams (2001) 93 Cal.App.4th 1192, 1198 [113 Cal.Rptr.2d 722].
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7, subd. 1; see People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402]; People v. Vargas (1988) 204 Cal.App.3d 1455, 1462, 1468–1469 [251 Cal.Rptr. 904].
- Criminal Negligence Required for Indirect Conduct. People v. Manis (1992) 10 Cal.App.4th 110, 114 [12 Cal.Rptr.2d 619]; People v. Superior Court (Holvey) (1988) 205 Cal.App.3d 51, 60 [252 Cal.Rptr. 335]; see People v. Valdez (2002) 27 Cal.4th 778, 788, 789 [118 Cal.Rptr.2d 3, 42 P.3d 511]; People v. Peabody (1975) 46 Cal.App.3d 43, 47, 48–49 [119 Cal.Rptr. 780] [in context of parallel child abuse statute].
- Duty to Control Conduct of Person Inflicting Abuse. People v. Heitzman (1994) 9 Cal.4th 189, 212 [37 Cal.Rptr.2d 236, 886 P.2d 1229].
- General Criminal Intent Required for Direct Infliction of Pain or Suffering. See People v. Sargent (1999) 19 Cal.4th 1206, 1224 [81 Cal.Rptr.2d 835, 970 P.2d 409] [in context of parallel child abuse statute].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 168–170.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.11[1][f], 142.13[5] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

Any violation of Penal Code section 368(b)(1) must be willful. (See People v. Smith (1984) 35 Cal.3d 798, 806 [201 Cal.Rptr. 311, 678 P.2d 886]; People v. Cortes (1999) 71 Cal.App.4th 62, 80 [83 Cal.Rptr.2d 519] [both in context of parallel child abuse statute]; but see People v. Valdez (2002) 27 Cal.4th 778, 789 [118 Cal.Rptr.2d 3, 42 P.3d 511] [the prong punishing a direct infliction of unjustifiable physical pain or mental suffering does not expressly require that the conduct be willful].) Following Smith and Cortes, the committee has included "willfully" in element 1A regarding direct infliction of abuse until there is further guidance from the courts.

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Abuse of Elder or Dependent Adult. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 368(b)(1).
- Misdemeanor Abuse of Elder or Dependent Adult. Pen. Code, § 368(c).

RELATED ISSUES

Care or Custody

"The terms 'care or custody' do not imply a familial relationship but only a willingness to assume duties correspondent to the role of a caregiver." (See People v. Toney (1999) 76 Cal.App.4th 618, 621–622 [90 Cal.Rptr.2d 578] [quoting People v. Cochran (1998) 62 Cal.App.4th 826, 832 [73 Cal.Rptr.2d 257]; both in context of parallel child abuse statute].)

Unanimity

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on unanimity when the prosecution has presented evidence of multiple acts to prove a single count. (People v. Russo (2001) 25 Cal.4th 1124, 1132 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 436, 25 P.3d 641].) However, the court does not have to instruct on unanimity if the offense constitutes a "continuous course of conduct." (People v. Napoles (2002) 104 Cal.App.4th 108, 115–116 [127 Cal.Rptr.2d 777].) Elder abuse may be a continuous course of conduct or a single, isolated incident. (People v. Rae (2002) 102 Cal.App.4th 116, 123 [125 Cal.Rptr.2d 312].) The court should carefully examine the statute charged, the pleadings, and the evidence presented to determine whether the offense constitutes a continuous course of conduct. (People v. Napoles, supra, 104 Cal.App.4th at pp. 115–116.) See generally CALCRIM No. 3500, Unanimity.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

831. Abuse of Elder or Dependent Adult (Pen. Code, § 368(c))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with (elder/dependent adult) abuse [in violation of Penal Code section 368(c)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

<Alternative 1A—inflicted pain>

[1. The defendant willfully inflicted unjustifiable physical pain or mental suffering on _____ *<insert name or description of elder or dependent adult>;]

<Alternative 1B—caused or permitted to suffer pain>

[1. The defendant allowed someone, whose conduct the defendant had a duty to supervise and control, to inflict unjustifiable physical pain or mental suffering on _____ *<insert name or description of elder or dependent adult>;]

<Alternative 1C—while having custody, caused or permitted to be injured>

[1. The defendant, while having care or custody of _____ *<insert name or description of elder or dependent adult>, willfully caused or permitted that person or (his/her) health to be injured;]

<Alternative 1D—while having custody, caused or permitted to be placed in danger>

[1. The defendant, while having care or custody of _____ *<insert name or description of elder or dependent adult>, willfully caused or permitted that person to be placed in a situation where (his/her) person or health was endangered;]

2. _____ <insert name or description of elder or dependent adult> (is/was) (an elder/a dependent adult);

[AND]

3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) knew or reasonably should have known that _____ <insert name or

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

description of elder or dependent adult> was (an elder/a dependent adult)(;/.)

<Give element 4 when giving alternative 1B and it is alleged the defendant permitted the suffering.>

[AND]

[4. The defendant had a legal duty to supervise and control the conduct of the person[s] who caused or inflicted unjustifiable physical pain or mental suffering on _____ *<insert name or description of elder or dependent adult>, but failed to supervise or control that conduct(;/.)]

<Give element 5 when giving alternative 1B, 1C, or 1D.>

[AND

(4/5). The defendant was criminally negligent when (he/she) caused or permitted _____ <insert name or description of elder or dependent adult> to (suffer[,]/ [or] be injured[,]/ [or] be endangered).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose.

[An elder is someone who is at least 65 years old.]

[A dependent adult is someone who is between 18 and 64 years old and has physical or mental limitations that restrict his or her ability to carry out normal activities or to protect his or her rights. [This definition includes an adult who has physical or developmental disabilities or whose physical or mental abilities have decreased because of age.] [A dependent adult is also someone between 18 and 64 years old who is an inpatient in a (health facility/psychiatric health facility/ [or] chemical dependency recovery hospital)].]

[Unjustifiable physical pain or mental suffering is pain or suffering that is not reasonably necessary or is excessive under the circumstances.]

[A person who does not have care or custody of (an elder/a dependent adult) may still have a legal duty to supervise and control the conduct of a third person who can inflict abuse on the (elder/dependent adult) if the person has a special relationship with the third person. A special relationship is created, for example, when (1) a person takes charge of a third person whom (he/she) knows or should know is likely to cause bodily harm to others if not controlled, and (2) the person has the ability to control the third person's conduct.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[Criminal negligence involves more than ordinary carelessness, inattention, or mistake in judgment. A person acts with criminal negligence when:

1. He or she acts in a reckless way that creates a high risk of death or great bodily harm;

AND

2. A reasonable person would have known that acting in that way would create such a risk.

In other words, a person acts with criminal negligence when the way he or she acts is so different from the way an ordinarily careful person would act in the same situation that his or her act amounts to disregard for human life or indifference to the consequences of that act.]

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Give alternative 1A if it is alleged that the defendant directly inflicted unjustifiable physical pain or mental suffering. Give alternative 1B if it is alleged that the defendant caused or permitted an elder or dependent adult to suffer. If it is alleged that the defendant had care or custody of an elder or dependent adult and that the defendant caused or permitted the elder's or dependent adult's person or health to be injured, give alternative 1C. Finally, give alternative 1D if it is alleged that the defendant had care or custody of an elder or dependent adult and that the defendant endangered the elder's or dependent adult's person or health. (See Pen. Code, § 368(c).)

Give bracketed element 4 if it is alleged under alternative 1B that the defendant permitted an elder or dependent adult to suffer unjustifiable pain or mental suffering. (See People v. Heitzman (1994) 9 Cal.4th 189, 212 [37 Cal.Rptr.2d 236, 886 P.2d 1229].) If element 4 is given, also give the bracketed paragraph defining who has a "legal duty to supervise and control the conduct of a third person."

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Give bracketed element 5 regarding criminal negligence, and the bracketed definition of "criminal negligence," if alternative 1B, 1C, or 1D is given alleging that the defendant committed any indirect act. (People v. Manis (1992) 10 Cal.App.4th 110, 114 [12 Cal.Rptr.2d 619], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Heitzman (1994) 9 Cal.4th 189, 212 [37 Cal.Rptr.2d 236, 886 P.2d 1229]; People v. Superior Court (Holvey) (1988) 205 Cal.App.3d 51, 60 [252 Cal.Rptr. 335], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Heitzman (1994) 9 Cal.4th 189, 212 [37 Cal.Rptr.2d 236, 886 P.2d 1229]; see People v. Valdez (2002) 27 Cal.4th 778, 788, 789 [118 Cal.Rptr.2d 3, 42 P.3d 511]; People v. Peabody (1975) 46 Cal.App.3d 43, 48–49 [119 Cal.Rptr. 780] [latter two cases in context of parallel child abuse statute].)

Give the bracketed definition of "elder" or "dependent adult" depending on the status of the alleged victim. (See Pen. Code, § 368(g) & (h).)

Give on request the bracketed definition of "unjustifiable" physical pain or mental suffering if there is a question about the necessity for or the degree of pain or suffering. (See People v. Curtiss (1931) 116 Cal.App. Supp. 771, 779–780 [300 P. 801].)

Give the bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 368(c).
- Willfully Defined. Pen. Code, § 7, subd. 1; see People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402]; People v. Vargas (1988) 204 Cal.App.3d 1455, 1462, 1468–1469 [251 Cal.Rptr. 904].
- Criminal Negligence Required for Indirect Conduct. People v. Manis (1992) 10 Cal.App.4th 110, 114 [12 Cal.Rptr.2d 619]; People v. Superior Court (Holvey) (1988) 205 Cal.App.3d 51, 60 [252 Cal.Rptr. 335]; see People v. Valdez (2002) 27 Cal.4th 778, 788, 789 [118 Cal.Rptr.2d 3, 42 P.3d 511]; People v. Peabody (1975) 46 Cal.App.3d 43, 47, 48–49 [119 Cal.Rptr. 780] [in context of parallel child abuse statute].
- Duty to Control Conduct of Person Inflicting Abuse. People v. Heitzman (1994) 9 Cal.4th 189, 212 [37 Cal.Rptr.2d 236, 886 P.2d 1229].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- General Criminal Intent Required for Direct Infliction of Pain or Suffering. See People v. Sargent (1999) 19 Cal.4th 1206, 1224 [81 Cal.Rptr.2d 835, 970 P.2d 409] [in context of parallel child abuse statute].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 168–170.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.13[5] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

See Commentary to CALCRIM No. 830, Abuse of Elder or Dependent Adult Likely to Produce Great Bodily Harm or Death.

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section of CALCRIM No. 830, Abuse of Elder or Dependent Adult Likely to Produce Great Bodily Harm or Death.

832–839. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(iii) Spouse, etc.

840. Inflicting Injury on Spouse, Cohabitant, or Fellow Parent Resulting in Traumatic Condition (Pen. Code, § 273.5(a))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with inflicting an injury on [his/her] ([former] spouse/[former] cohabitant/the (mother/father) of (his/her) child) that resulted in a traumatic condition [in violation of Penal Code section 273.5(a)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant willfully [and unlawfully] inflicted a physical injury on [his/her] ([former] spouse/[former] cohabitant/the (mother/father) of (his/her) child);

[AND]

2. The injury inflicted by the defendant resulted in a traumatic condition.

<Give element 3 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another>

[AND

3. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose.

A traumatic condition is a wound or other bodily injury, whether minor or serious, caused by the direct application of physical force.

[The term cohabitants means two unrelated persons living together for a substantial period of time, resulting in some permanency of the relationship. Factors that may determine whether people are cohabiting include, but are not limited to, (1) sexual relations between the parties while sharing the same residence, (2) sharing of income or expenses, (3) joint use or ownership of property, (4) the parties' holding themselves out as (husband and wife/domestic partners), (5) the continuity of the relationship, and (6) the length of the relationship.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[A person may cohabit simultaneously with two or more people at different locations, during the same time frame, if he or she maintains substantial ongoing relationships with each person and lives with each person for significant periods.]

[A person is considered to be the (mother/father) of another person's child if the alleged male parent is presumed under law to be the natural father. _____ <insert name of presumed father> is presumed under law to be the natural father of _____ <insert name of child>.]

[A traumatic condition is the result of an injury if:

1. The traumatic condition was the natural and probable consequence of the injury;
2. The injury was a direct and substantial factor in causing the condition;

AND

3. The condition would not have happened without the injury.

A natural and probable consequence is one that a reasonable person would know is likely to happen if nothing unusual intervenes. In deciding whether a consequence is natural and probable, consider all of the circumstances established by the evidence.

A substantial factor is more than a trivial or remote factor. However, it does not need to be the only factor that resulted in the traumatic condition.]

New January 2006; Revised June 2007

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 3 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If causation is at issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on proximate cause. (People v. Bernhardt (1963) 222 Cal.App.2d 567, 590–591 [35 Cal.Rptr. 401]; People v. Cervantes (2001) 26 Cal.4th 860, 865-874 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 148, 29 P.3d 225].) Give the bracketed paragraph that begins, "A traumatic condition is the result of an injury if . . . ."

If there is sufficient evidence that an alleged victim's injuries were caused by an accident, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on accident. (People v. Gonzales (1999) 74 Cal.App.4th 382, 390 [88 Cal.Rptr.2d 111].) Give CALCRIM No. 3404, Accident.

Give the bracketed language "[and unlawfully]" in element 1 if there is evidence that the defendant acted in self-defense.

Give the third bracketed sentence that begins "A person may cohabit simultaneously with two or more people," on request if there is evidence that the defendant cohabited with two or more people. (See People v. Moore (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 1323, 1335 [52 Cal.Rptr.2d 256].)

Give on request the bracketed paragraph that begins "A person is considered to be the (mother/father)" if an alleged parental relationship is based on the statutory presumption that the male parent is the natural father. (See Pen. Code, § 273.5(d); see also People v. Vega (1995) 33 Cal.App.4th 706, 711 [39 Cal.Rptr.2d 479] [parentage can be established without resort to any presumption].)

If the defendant is charged with an enhancement for a prior conviction for a similar offense within seven years and has not stipulated to the prior conviction, give CALCRIM No. 3100, Prior Conviction: Nonbifurcated Trial. If the court has granted a bifurcated trial, see CALCRIM No. 3101, Prior Conviction: Bifurcated Trial.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 273.5(a).
- Traumatic Condition Defined. Pen. Code, § 273.5(c); People v. Gutierrez (1985) 171 Cal.App.3d 944, 952 [217 Cal.Rptr. 616].
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7, subd. 1; see People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Cohabitant Defined. People v. Holifield (1988) 205 Cal.App.3d 993, 1000 [252 Cal.Rptr. 729]; People v. Ballard (1988) 203 Cal.App.3d 311, 318–319 [249 Cal.Rptr. 806].
- Direct Application of Force. People v. Jackson (2000) 77 Cal.App.4th 574, 580 [91 Cal.Rptr.2d 805].
- Duty to Define Traumatic Condition. People v. Burns (1948) 88

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.App.2d 867, 873–874 [200 P.2d 134].

- General Intent Crime. See People v. Thurston (1999) 71 Cal.App.4th 1050, 1055 [84 Cal.Rptr.2d 221]; People v. Campbell (1999) 76 Cal.App.4th 305, 307–309 [90 Cal.Rptr.2d 315]; contra, People v. Rodriguez (1992) 5 Cal.App.4th 1398, 1402 [7 Cal.Rptr.2d 495] [dictum].
- Simultaneous Cohabitation. People v. Moore (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 1323, 1335 [52 Cal.Rptr.2d 256].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 63, 64.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.13[3] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Infliction of Corporal Punishment on Spouse. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 273.5(a); People v. Kinsey (1995) 40 Cal.App.4th 1621, 1627, 1628 [47 Cal.Rptr.2d 769] [attempt requires intent to cause traumatic condition, but does not require a resulting "traumatic condition"].
- Misdemeanor Battery. Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243(a); see People v. Gutierrez (1985) 171 Cal.App.3d 944, 952 [217 Cal.Rptr. 616].
- Battery Against Spouse, Cohabitant, or Fellow Parent. Pen. Code, § 243(e)(1); see People v. Jackson (2000) 77 Cal.App.4th 574, 580 [91 Cal.Rptr.2d 805].
- Simple Assault. Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241(a); People v. Van Os (1950) 96 Cal.App.2d 204, 206 [214 P.2d 554].

RELATED ISSUES

Continuous Course of Conduct

Penal Code section 273.5 is aimed at a continuous course of conduct. The prosecutor is not required to choose a particular act and the jury is not required to unanimously agree on the same act or acts before a guilty verdict can be returned. (People v. Thompson (1984) 160 Cal.App.3d 220, 224–225 [206 Cal.Rptr. 516].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Multiple Acts of Abuse

A defendant can be charged with multiple violations of Penal Code section 273.5 when each battery satisfies the elements of section 273.5. (People v. Healy (1993) 14 Cal.App.4th 1137, 1140 [18 Cal.Rptr.2d 274].)

Prospective Parents of Unborn Children

Penal Code section 273.5(a) does not apply to a man who inflicts an injury upon a woman who is pregnant with his unborn child. "A pregnant woman is not a 'mother' and a fetus is not a 'child' as those terms are used in that section." (People v. Ward (1998) 62 Cal.App.4th 122, 126, 129 [72 Cal.Rptr.2d 531].)

Termination of Parental Rights

Penal Code section 273.5 "applies to a man who batters the mother of his child even after parental rights to that child have been terminated." (People v. Mora (1996) 51 Cal.App.4th 1349, 1356 [59 Cal.Rptr.2d 801].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

841. Simple Battery: Against Spouse, Cohabitant, or Fellow Parent (Pen. Code, § 243(e)(1))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with battery against [his/her] ([former] spouse/[former] cohabitant/fiancé[e]/a person with whom the defendant currently has, or previously had, a (dating/ [or] engagement) relationship/the (mother/father) of (his/her) child) [in violation of Penal Code section 243(e)(1)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant willfully [and unlawfully] touched _____ <insert name of complaining witness> in a harmful or offensive manner;

[AND]

2. _____ <insert name of complaining witness> is (the/a) (defendant's [former] spouse/defendant's [former] cohabitant/defendant's fiancé[e]/person with whom the defendant currently has, or previously had, a (dating/ [or] engagement) relationship/(mother/father) of the defendant's child)(;/.)

<Give element 3 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

3. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

The slightest touching can be enough to commit a battery if it is done in a rude or angry way. Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough. The touching does not have to cause pain or injury of any kind.

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or someone else] to touch the other person.]

[The term cohabitants means two unrelated persons living together

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

for a substantial period of time, resulting in some permanency of the relationship. Factors that may determine whether people are cohabiting include, but are not limited to, (1) sexual relations between the parties while sharing the same residence, (2) sharing of income or expenses, (3) joint use or ownership of property, (4) the parties' holding themselves out as (husband and wife/domestic partners), (5) the continuity of the relationship, and (6) the length of the relationship.]

[A person may cohabit simultaneously with two or more people at different locations, during the same time frame, if he or she maintains substantial ongoing relationships with each person and lives with each person for significant periods.]

[The term dating relationship means frequent, intimate associations primarily characterized by the expectation of affection or sexual involvement independent of financial considerations.]

[A person is considered to be the (mother/father) of another person's child if the alleged male parent is presumed under the law to be the natural father. _____ <insert name of presumed father> is presumed under law to be the natural father of _____ <insert name of child>.]

New January 2006; Revised June 2007

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 3 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

Give the bracketed language "[and unlawfully]" in element 1 if there is evidence that the defendant acted in self-defense.

Give the bracketed paragraph on indirect touching if that is an issue.

Give the third bracketed sentence that begins with "A person may cohabit simultaneously with two or more people" on request if there is evidence that the defendant cohabited with two or more people. (See People v. Moore (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 1323, 1335 [52 Cal.Rptr.2d 256].)

Give on request the bracketed paragraph that begins with "A person is considered to be the (mother/father)" if an alleged parental relationship is based on the statutory presumption that the male parent is the natural father. (See Pen. Code, § 273.5(d); see also People v. Vega (1995) 33 Cal.App.4th 706, 711 [39 Cal.Rptr.2d 479] [parentage can be established without resort to any presumption].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 243(e)(1).
- Willfully Defined. Pen. Code, § 7, subd. 1; People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Least Touching. People v. Myers (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 328, 335 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 518] [citing People v. Rocha (1971) 3 Cal.3d 893, 899–900, fn. 12 [92 Cal.Rptr. 172, 479 P.2d 372]].
- Cohabitant Defined. People v. Holifield (1988) 205 Cal.App.3d 993, 1000 [252 Cal.Rptr. 729]; People v. Ballard (1988) 203 Cal.App.3d 311, 318–319 [249 Cal.Rptr. 806].
- Dating Relationship Defined. Pen. Code, § 243(f)(10).
- Simultaneous Cohabitation. People v. Moore (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 1323, 1335 [52 Cal.Rptr.2d 256].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 19.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.12[2] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Simple Battery. Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243(a).

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section of CALCRIM No. 960, Simple Battery.

842–849. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(iv) Evidence

850. Testimony on Intimate Partner Battering and Its Effects: Credibility of Complaining Witness

---

You have heard testimony from _____ <insert name of expert> regarding the effect of (battered women's syndrome/intimate partner battering/ _____ <insert other description used by expert for syndrome>).

_____'s <insert name of expert> testimony about (battered women's syndrome/intimate partner battering/ _____ <insert other description used by expert for syndrome>) is not evidence that the defendant committed any of the crimes charged against (him/her).

You may consider this evidence only in deciding whether or not _____'s <insert name of alleged victim of abuse> conduct was not inconsistent with the conduct of someone who has been abused, and in evaluating the believability of (his/her) testimony.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction if an expert testifies on intimate partner battering and its effects, previously referred to as battered women's syndrome. (See People v. Housley (1992) 6 Cal.App.4th 947, 958–959 [8 Cal.Rptr.2d 431] [sua sponte duty in context of child sexual abuse accommodation syndrome]; People v. Bledsoe (1984) 36 Cal.3d 236, 250 [203 Cal.Rptr. 450, 681 P.2d 291] [rape trauma syndrome not admissible to prove rape occurred].) In People v. Brown (2004) 33 Cal.4th 892, 906–908 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 447, 94 P.3d 574], the Supreme Court held that testimony from an expert in battered women's syndrome could be admitted under Evidence Code section 801 even though there was no evidence of prior incidents of violence between the defendant and the alleged victim. The court held that the expert could testify generally about the "cycle of violence" and the frequency of recantation by victims of domestic abuse, without testifying specifically about "battered women's syndrome". (Ibid.) It is unclear if the court is required to give a cautionary admonition sua sponte when such evidence is admitted.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Related Instructions

If this instruction is given, also give CALCRIM No. 303, Limited Purpose Evidence in General, and CALCRIM No. 332, Expert Witness Testimony.

See also CALCRIM No. 851, Testimony on Intimate Partner Battering and Its Effects: Offered by the Defense.

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. See Evid. Code, § 1107(a); People v. Humphrey (1996) 13 Cal.4th 1073, 1088, fn. 5 [56 Cal.Rptr.2d 142, 921 P.2d 1].
- Abuse Defined. Evid. Code, § 1107(c); Fam. Code, § 6203.
- Domestic Violence Defined. Evid. Code, § 1107(c); Fam. Code, § 6211.
- Relevant After Single Incident of Abuse. See People v. Brown (2004) 33 Cal.4th 892, 906–908 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 447, 94 P.3d 574]; People v. Williams (2000) 78 Cal.App.4th 1118, 1129 [93 Cal.Rptr.2d 356].
- Relevant to Rehabilitate Victim's Credibility. People v. Gadlin (2000) 78 Cal.App.4th 587, 594–595 [92 Cal.Rptr.2d 890] [victim recanted incident and reunited with abuser]; People v. Morgan (1997) 58 Cal.App.4th 1210, 1215–1217 [68 Cal.Rptr.2d 772] [victim recanted].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Opinion Evidence, §§ 48–51.

3 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 71, Scientific and Expert Evidence, § 71.04[1][d][v][C] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Assumptions Underlying Expert Testimony

It is unnecessary, and potentially misleading, to instruct that the expert testimony assumes that physical or mental abuse has in fact occurred. (See People v. Gilbert (1992) 5 Cal.App.4th 1372, 1387 [7 Cal.Rptr.2d 660] [in context of child sexual abuse accommodation syndrome].)

Definition and Preferred Name

In 2004, the Legislature amended Evidence Code section 1107(d), changing all references from "battered women's syndrome" to "intimate partner battering and its effects." Previous decisional law continues to apply. (Evid. Code, § 1107(f).) Battered women's syndrome has been defined as "a series of common characteristics that appear in women who are abused physically and psychologically over an extended period of time by the dominant male figure in their lives." (People v. Humphrey (1996) 13 Cal.4th 1073, 1083–1084 [56 Cal.Rptr.2d 142, 921 P.2d 1].) The Supreme Court had previously noted that experts prefer to call the syndrome "expert testimony on battered women's experiences." (See People v. Humphrey, supra, 13 Cal.4th at pp. 1083–1084, fn. 3.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

No Testimony on Actual State of Mind

While evidence is admissible "to explain how [a] defendant's asserted subjective perception of a need to defend herself 'would reasonably follow from the defendant's experience as a battered woman,' " an expert may not give an opinion "that the defendant actually perceived that she was in danger and needed to defend herself." (People v. Erickson (1997) 57 Cal.App.4th 1391, 1400, 1401 [67 Cal.Rptr.2d 740] [§ 1107(a) codifies existing rules regarding battered women's syndrome testimony; original italics].) Section 1107 "does not create an exception to Penal Code section 29," which prohibits an expert who is testifying about a mental defect from testifying about whether a defendant had a required mental state. (People v. Erickson, supra, 57 Cal.App.4th at pp. 1401–1402 [syndrome was characterized as mental defect].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

851. Testimony on Intimate Partner Battering and Its Effects: Offered by the Defense

---

You have heard testimony from _____ <insert name of expert> regarding the effect of (battered women's syndrome/intimate partner battering/ _____ <insert other description used by expert for syndrome>).

_____'s <insert name of expert> testimony about (battered women's syndrome/intimate partner battering/ _____ <insert other description used by expert for syndrome>) is not evidence that the defendant committed any of the crimes charged against (him/her).

You may consider this evidence only in deciding whether the defendant actually believed that (he/she) needed to defend (himself/herself) against an immediate threat of great bodily injury or death, and whether that belief was reasonable or unreasonable.

When deciding whether the defendant's belief was reasonable or unreasonable, consider all the circumstances as they were known by or appeared to the defendant. Also consider what conduct would appear to be necessary to a reasonable person in a similar situation with similar knowledge.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction if an expert testifies on intimate partner battering and its effects, previously known as battered women's syndrome. (See People v. Housley (1992) 6 Cal.App.4th 947, 958–959 [8 Cal.Rptr.2d 431] [sua sponte duty in context of child sexual abuse accommodation syndrome]; People v. Bledsoe (1984) 36 Cal.3d 236, 250 [203 Cal.Rptr. 450, 681 P.2d 291] [rape trauma syndrome not admissible to prove rape occurred].)

The court may need to modify this instruction if the defense offers testimony on intimate partner battering and its effects on an issue other than whether the defendant actually and reasonably believed in the need for self-defense. (See People v. Coffman and Marlow (2004) 34 Cal.4th 1, 98–101 [17

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.Rptr.3d 710, 96 P.3d 30] [evidence offered to show defendant did not act with intent to kill but acted out of fear of codefendant].)

Related Instructions

If this instruction is given, also give CALCRIM No. 303, Limited Purpose Evidence in General, and CALCRIM No. 332, Expert Witness Testimony.

See also:

CALCRIM No. 850, Testimony on Intimate Partner Battering and Its Effects: Credibility of Complaining Witness.

CALCRIM No. 505, Justifiable Homicide: Self-Defense or Defense of Another.

CALCRIM No. 571, Voluntary Manslaughter: Imperfect Self-Defense.

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. See Evid. Code, § 1107(a); People v. Humphrey (1996) 13 Cal.4th 1073, 1088, fn. 5 [56 Cal.Rptr.2d 142, 921 P.2d 1]; People v. Jaspar (2002) 98 Cal.App.4th 99, 111, fn. 6 [119 Cal.Rptr.2d 470].
- Abuse Defined. Evid. Code, § 1107(c); Fam. Code, § 6203.
- Domestic Violence Defined. Evid. Code, § 1107(c); Fam. Code, § 6211.
- Relevant After Single Incident of Abuse. See People v. Brown (2004) 33 Cal.4th 892, 906–908 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 447, 94 P.3d 574]; People v. Williams (2000) 78 Cal.App.4th 1118, 1129 [93 Cal.Rptr.2d 356].
- Relevant to Claim of Self-Defense. People v. Humphrey (1996) 13 Cal.4th 1073, 1082–1083, 1088–1089 [56 Cal.Rptr.2d 142, 921 P.2d 1].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Opinion Evidence, §§ 48–51.

3 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 71, Scientific and Expert Evidence, § 71.04[1][d][v][C]; Ch. 73, Defenses and Justifications, § 73.11[1][c] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section of CALCRIM No. 850, Testimony on Intimate Partner Battering and Its Effects: Credibility of Complaining Witness.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

852. Evidence of Uncharged Domestic Violence

The People presented evidence that the defendant committed domestic violence that was not charged in this case[, specifically: _____ <insert other domestic violence alleged>.]

<Alternative A—As defined in Pen. Code, § 13700>

[Domestic violence means abuse committed against (an adult/a fully emancipated minor) who is a (spouse[,]/ [or] former spouse[,]/ [or] cohabitant[,]/ [or] former cohabitant[,]/ [or] person with whom the defendant has had a child[,]/ [or] person who dated or is dating the defendant[,]/ [or] person who was or is engaged to the defendant).]

<Alternative B—As defined in Fam. Code, § 6211>

[Domestic violence means abuse committed against a (child/ grandchild/parent/grandparent/brother/sister) of the defendant.]

Abuse* means intentionally or recklessly causing or attempting to cause bodily injury, or placing another person in reasonable fear of imminent serious bodily injury to himself or herself or to someone else.

[A fully emancipated minor is a person under the age of 18 who has gained certain adult rights by marrying, being on active duty for the United States armed services, or otherwise being declared emancipated under the law.]

[The term cohabitants means two unrelated persons living together for a substantial period of time, resulting in some permanency of the relationship. Factors that may determine whether people are cohabiting include, but are not limited to, (1) sexual relations between the parties while sharing the same residence, (2) sharing of income or expenses, (3) joint use or ownership of property, (4) the parties' holding themselves out as husband and wife, (5) the parties' registering as domestic partners, (6) the continuity of the relationship, and (7) the length of the relationship.]

You may consider this evidence only if the People have proved by a preponderance of the evidence that the defendant in fact committed the uncharged domestic violence. Proof by a preponderance of the evidence is a different burden of proof from proof beyond a reasonable doubt. A fact is proved by a preponderance of the evidence if you conclude that it is more likely than not that the fact is true.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If the People have not met this burden of proof, you must disregard this evidence entirely.

If you decide that the defendant committed the uncharged domestic violence, you may, but are not required to, conclude from that evidence that the defendant was disposed or inclined to commit domestic violence and, based on that decision, also conclude that the defendant was likely to commit [and did commit] _____ <insert charged offense[s] involving domestic violence>, as charged here. If you conclude that the defendant committed the uncharged domestic violence, that conclusion is only one factor to consider along with all the other evidence. It is not sufficient by itself to prove that the defendant is guilty of _____ <insert charged offense[s] involving domestic violence>. The People must still prove (the/each) (charge/ [and] allegation) beyond a reasonable doubt.

[Do not consider this evidence for any other purpose [except for the limited purpose of _____ <insert other permitted purpose, e.g., determining the defendant's credibility>].]

New January 2006; Revised August 2006, June 2007, April 2008

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court must give this instruction on request when evidence of other domestic violence has been introduced. (See People v. Falsetta (1999) 21 Cal.4th 903, 924 [89 Cal.Rptr.2d 847, 986 P.2d 182] [error to refuse limiting instruction on request]; People v. Jennings (2000) 81 Cal.App.4th 1301, 1317–1318 [97 Cal.Rptr.2d 727]; People v. Willoughby (1985) 164 Cal.App.3d 1054, 1067 [210 Cal.Rptr. 880] [general limiting instructions should be given when evidence of past offenses would be highly prejudicial without them].)

If the court has admitted evidence that the defendant was convicted of a felony or committed a misdemeanor for the purpose of impeachment in addition to evidence admitted under Evidence Code section 1109, then the court must specify for the jury what evidence it may consider under section 1109. (People v. Rollo (1977) 20 Cal.3d 109, 123, fn. 6 [141 Cal.Rptr. 177,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

569 P.2d 771] [discussing section 1101(b); superseded in part on other grounds as recognized in People v. Olmedo (1985) 167 Cal.App.3d 1085, 1096 [213 Cal.Rptr. 742]].) In the first sentence, insert a description of the uncharged offense allegedly shown by the section 1109 evidence. If the court has not admitted any felony convictions or misdemeanor conduct for impeachment, then, in the first sentence, the court is not required to insert a description of the conduct alleged.

The definition of "domestic violence" contained in Evidence Code section 1109(d) was amended, effective January 1, 2006. The definition is now in subd. (d)(3), which states that, as used in section 1109:

> 'Domestic violence' has the meaning set forth in Section 13700 of the Penal Code. Subject to a hearing conducted pursuant to section 352, which shall include consideration of any corroboration and remoteness in time, 'domestic violence' has the further meaning as set forth in section 6211 of the Family Code, if the act occurred no more than five years before the charged offense.

If the court determines that the evidence is admissible pursuant to the definition of domestic violence contained in Penal Code section 13700, give the definition of domestic violence labeled alternative A. If the court determines that the evidence is admissible pursuant to the definition contained in Family Code section 6211, give the definition labeled alternative B.

Depending on the evidence, give on request the bracketed paragraphs defining "emancipated minor" (see Fam. Code, § 7000 et seq.) and "cohabitant" (see Pen. Code, § 13700(b)).

In the paragraph that begins with "If you decide that the defendant committed," the committee has placed the phrase "and did commit" in brackets. One appellate court has criticized instructing the jury that it may draw an inference about disposition. (People v. James (2000) 81 Cal.App.4th 1343, 1357, fn. 8 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 823].) The court should review the Commentary section below and give the bracketed phrase at its discretion.

Give the final sentence that begins with "Do not consider" on request.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 375, Evidence of Uncharged Offense to Prove Identity, Intent, Common Plan, etc.

CALCRIM No. 1191, Evidence of Uncharged Sex Offense.

CALCRIM No. 853, Evidence of Uncharged Abuse of Elder or Dependent Person.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirement. Evid. Code, § 1109(a)(1); see People v. Reliford (2003) 29 Cal.4th 1007, 1012–1016 [130 Cal.Rptr.2d 254, 62 P.3d 601]; People v. Frazier (2001) 89 Cal.App.4th 30, 37 [107 Cal.Rptr.2d 100]; People v. Falsetta (1999) 21 Cal.4th 903, 923–924 [89 Cal.Rptr.2d 847, 986 P.2d 182] [dictum].
- Abuse Defined. Pen. Code, § 13700(a).
- Cohabitant Defined. Pen. Code, § 13700(b).
- Domestic Violence Defined. Evid. Code, § 1109(d)(3); Pen. Code, § 13700(b); Fam. Code, § 6211; see People v. Poplar (1999) 70 Cal.App.4th 1129, 1139 [83 Cal.Rptr.2d 320] [spousal rape is higher level of domestic violence].
- Emancipation of Minors Law. Fam. Code, § 7000 et seq.
- Other Crimes Proved by Preponderance of Evidence. People v. Carpenter (1997) 15 Cal.4th 312, 382 [63 Cal.Rptr.2d 1, 935 P.2d 708]; People v. James (2000) 81 Cal.App.4th 1343, 1359 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 823].
- Propensity Evidence Alone Is Not Sufficient to Support Conviction Beyond a Reasonable Doubt. People v. Younger (2000) 84 Cal.App.4th 1360, 1382 [101 Cal.Rptr.2d 624]; People v. James (2000) 81 Cal.App.4th 1343, 1357–1358, fn. 8 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 823]; see People v. Hill (2001) 86 Cal.App.4th 273, 277–278 [103 Cal.Rptr.2d 127] [in context of prior sexual offenses].
- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Johnson (2008) 164 Cal.App.4th 731, 738 [79 Cal.Rptr.3d 568].

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Trial, § 640.

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Circumstantial Evidence, § 98.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 83, Evidence, § 83.12[1] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.13 (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

The paragraph that begins with "If you decide that the defendant committed" tells the jury that they may draw an inference of disposition. (See People v. Hill (2001) 86 Cal.App.4th 273, 275–279 [103 Cal.Rptr.2d 127]; People v. Brown (2000) 77 Cal.App.4th 1324, 1334–1335 [92 Cal.Rptr.2d 433].) One appellate court, however, suggests using more general terms to instruct the jury how they may use evidence of other domestic violence offenses, "leaving particular inferences for the argument of counsel and the jury's common sense." (People v. James (2000) 81 Cal.App.4th 1343, 1357, fn. 8 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 823] [includes suggested instruction].) If the trial court adopts this approach, the paragraph that begins with "If you decide that the defendant committed the uncharged domestic violence" may be replaced with the following:

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

> If you decide that the defendant committed the uncharged domestic violence, you may consider that evidence and weigh it together with all the other evidence received during the trial to help you determine whether the defendant committed _____ <insert charged offense involving domestic violence>. Remember, however, that evidence of uncharged domestic violence is not sufficient alone to find the defendant guilty of _____ <insert charged offense involving domestic violence>. The People must still prove (the/each) (charge/ [and] allegation) of _____ <insert charged offense involving domestic violence> beyond a reasonable doubt.

RELATED ISSUES

Constitutional Challenges

Evidence Code section 1109 does not violate a defendant's rights to due process (People v. Escobar (2000) 82 Cal.App.4th 1085, 1095–1096 [98 Cal.Rptr.2d 696]; People v. Hoover (2000) 77 Cal.App.4th 1020, 1028–1029 [92 Cal.Rptr.2d 208]; People v. Johnson (2000) 77 Cal.App.4th 410, 420 [91 Cal.Rptr.2d 596]; see People v. Falsetta (1999) 21 Cal.4th 903, 915–922 [89 Cal.Rptr.2d 847, 986 P.2d 182] (construing Evid. Code, § 1108, a parallel statute to Evid. Code, § 1109); People v. Branch (2001) 91 Cal.App.4th 274, 281 [109 Cal.Rptr.2d 870] (construing Evid. Code, § 1108) or equal protection (People v. Jennings (2000) 81 Cal.App.4th 1301, 1310–1313 [97 Cal.Rptr.2d 727]; see People v. Fitch (1997) 55 Cal.App.4th 172, 184–185 [63 Cal.Rptr.2d 753] (construing Evid. Code, § 1108).

Exceptions

Evidence of domestic violence occurring more than 10 years before the charged offense is inadmissible under section 1109 of the Evidence Code, unless the court determines that the admission of this evidence is in the interest of justice. (Evid. Code, § 1109(e).) Evidence of the findings and determinations of administrative agencies regulating health facilities is also inadmissible under section 1109. (Evid. Code, § 1109(f).)

See the Related Issues sections of CALCRIM No. 375, Evidence of

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Uncharged Offense to Prove Identity, Intent, Common Plan, etc., and CALCRIM No. 1191, Evidence of Uncharged Sex Offense.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

853. Evidence of Uncharged Abuse of Elder or Dependent Person

---

The People presented evidence that the defendant committed abuse of (an elder/a dependent person) that was not charged in this case[, specifically: _____ <insert other abuse alleged>.]

Abuse of* (an elder/a dependent person) means (physical abuse[,] [or] sexual abuse[,]/ [or] neglect[,]/ [or] financial abuse[,]/ [or] abandonment[,]/ [or] isolation[,]/ [or] abduction[,]/[or] the act by a care custodian of not providing goods or services that are necessary to avoid physical harm or mental suffering[,]/ [or] [other] treatment that results in physical harm or pain or mental suffering).

[An elder is a person residing in California who is age 65 or older.]

[A dependent person is a person who has physical or mental impairments that substantially restrict his or her ability to carry out normal activities or to protect his or her rights. This definition includes, but is not limited to, those who have developmental disabilities or whose physical or mental abilities have significantly diminished because of age.]

You may consider this evidence only if the People have proved by a preponderance of the evidence that the defendant in fact committed the uncharged abuse of (an elder/a dependent person). Proof by a preponderance of the evidence is a different burden of proof from proof beyond a reasonable doubt. A fact is proved by a preponderance of the evidence if you conclude that it is more likely than not that the fact is true.

If the People have not met this burden of proof, you must disregard this evidence entirely.

If you decide that the defendant committed the uncharged abuse of (an elder/a dependent person), you may, but are not required to, conclude from that evidence that the defendant was disposed or inclined to commit abuse of (an elder/a dependent person), and based on that decision, also conclude that the defendant was likely to commit [and did commit] _____ <insert charged offense[s] involving abuse of elder or dependent person>, as charged here. If you conclude that the defendant committed the uncharged abuse of (an elder/a dependent person), that conclusion is only one factor to consider along with all the other evidence. It is not sufficient by itself to prove that the defendant is guilty of _____ <insert charged offense[s] involving abuse of elder or dependent person>. The People must still prove (the/each) (charge/ [and] allegation) beyond a reasonable doubt.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[Do not consider this evidence for any other purpose [except for the limited purpose of _____ <insert other permitted purpose, e.g., determining the defendant's credibility>].]

New January 2006; Revised April 2008

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court must give this instruction on request when evidence of other abuse of an elder or dependent person has been introduced. (See People v. Falsetta (1999) 21 Cal.4th 903, 924 [89 Cal.Rptr.2d 847, 986 P.2d 182] [error to refuse limiting instruction on request]; People v. Jennings (2000) 81 Cal.App.4th 1301, 1317–1318 [97 Cal.Rptr.2d 727]; People v. Willoughby (1985) 164 Cal.App.3d 1054, 1067 [210 Cal.Rptr. 880] [general limiting instructions should be given when evidence of past offenses would be highly prejudicial without them].)

If the court has admitted evidence that the defendant was convicted of a felony or committed a misdemeanor for the purpose of impeachment in addition to evidence admitted under Evidence Code section 1109, then the court must specify for the jury what evidence it may consider under section 1109. (People v. Rollo (1977) 20 Cal.3d 109, 123, fn. 6 [141 Cal.Rptr. 177, 569 P.2d 771] [discussing section 1101(b); superseded in part on other grounds as recognized in People v. Olmedo (1985) 167 Cal.App.3d 1085, 1096 [213 Cal.Rptr. 742]].) In the first sentence, insert a description of the uncharged offense allegedly shown by the section 1109 evidence. If the court has not admitted any felony convictions or misdemeanor conduct for impeachment, then, in the first sentence, the court is not required to insert a description of the conduct alleged.

Depending on the evidence, give on request the bracketed definition of an elder or dependent person. (See Welf. & Inst. Code, §§ 15610.23 [dependent adult], 15610.27 [elder].) Other terms may be defined on request depending on the evidence. See the Authority section below for references to selected definitions from the Elder Abuse and Dependent Adult Civil Protection Act. (See Welf. & Inst. Code, § 15600 et seq.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

In the paragraph that begins with "If you decide that the defendant committed," the committee has placed the phrase "and did commit" in brackets. One appellate court has criticized instructing the jury that it may draw an inference about disposition. (People v. James (2000) 81 Cal.App.4th 1343, 1357, fn. 8 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 823].) The court should review the Commentary section below and give the bracketed phrase at its discretion.

Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "Do not consider" on request.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 375, Evidence of Uncharged Offense to Prove Identity, Intent, or Common Plan, etc.

CALCRIM No. 852, Evidence of Uncharged Domestic Violence.

CALCRIM No. 1191, Evidence of Uncharged Sex Offense.

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirement. Evid. Code, § 1109(a)(2).
- Abandonment Defined. Welf. & Inst. Code, § 15610.05.
- Abduction Defined. Welf. & Inst. Code, § 15610.06.
- Abuse of Elder or Dependent Person Defined. Evid. Code, § 1109(d)(1).
- Care Custodian Defined. Welf. & Inst. Code, § 15610.17.
- Dependent Person Defined. Evid. Code, § 177.
- Elder Defined. Welf. & Inst. Code, § 15610.27.
- Financial Abuse Defined. Welf. & Inst. Code, § 15610.30.
- Goods and Services Defined. Welf. & Inst. Code, § 15610.35.
- Isolation Defined. Welf. & Inst. Code, § 15610.43.
- Mental Suffering Defined. Welf. & Inst. Code, § 15610.53.
- Neglect Defined. Welf. & Inst. Code, § 15610.57.
- Physical Abuse Defined. Welf. & Inst. Code, § 15610.63.
- Other Crimes Proved by Preponderance of Evidence. People v. Carpenter (1997) 15 Cal.4th 312, 382 [63 Cal.Rptr.2d 1, 935 P.2d 708]; People v. James (2000) 81 Cal.App.4th 1343, 1359 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 823].
- Propensity Evidence Alone Is Not Sufficient to Support Conviction Beyond a Reasonable Doubt. People v. Younger (2000) 84 Cal.App.4th 1360, 1382 [101 Cal.Rptr.2d 624]; People v. James (2000) 81 Cal.App.4th 1343, 1357–1358, fn. 8 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 823] [in context of prior domestic violence offenses]; see People v. Hill (2001) 86

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.App.4th 273, 277–278 [103 Cal.Rptr.2d 127] [in context of prior sexual offenses].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Circumstantial Evidence, § 98.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 83, Evidence, § 83.12[1] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.13[5] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

The paragraph that begins with "If you decide that the defendant committed" tells the jury that they may draw an inference of disposition. (See People v. Hill (2001) 86 Cal.App.4th 273, 275–279 [103 Cal.Rptr.2d 127]; People v. Brown (2000) 77 Cal.App.4th 1324, 1334–1335 [92 Cal.Rptr.2d 433].) One appellate court, however, suggests using more general terms to instruct the jury how they may use evidence of other domestic violence offenses, "leaving particular inferences for the argument of counsel and the jury's common sense." (People v. James (2000) 81 Cal.App.4th 1343, 1357, fn. 8 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 823] [includes suggested instruction].) If the trial court adopts this approach, the paragraph that begins with "If you decide that the defendant committed the uncharged abuse of (an elder/a dependent person)" may be replaced with the following:

> If you decide that the defendant committed the uncharged abuse of (an elder/a dependent person), you may consider that evidence and weigh it together with all the other evidence received during the trial to help you determine whether the defendant committed _____ <insert charged offense involving abuse of elder or dependent person>. Remember, however, that evidence of uncharged abuse of (an elder/a dependent person) is not sufficient alone to find the defendant guilty of _____ <insert charged offense involving abuse of elder or dependent person>. The People must still prove (the/each) (charge/ [and] allegation) of _____ <insert charged offense involving abuse of elder or dependent person> beyond a reasonable doubt.

RELATED ISSUES

Exceptions

Evidence of abuse of an elder or dependent person occurring more than 10 years before the charged offense is inadmissible under Evidence Code section 1109, unless the court determines that the admission of this evidence is in the interest of justice. (Evid. Code, § 1109(e).) Evidence of the findings and determinations of administrative agencies regulating health facilities is also inadmissible under section 1109. (Evid. Code, § 1109(f).)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

See the Related Issues sections of CALCRIM No. 375, Evidence of Uncharged Offense to Prove Identity, Intent, Common Plan, etc., CALCRIM No. 852, Evidence of Uncharged Domestic Violence, and CALCRIM No. 1191, Evidence of Uncharged Sex Offense.

854–859. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

D. ASSAULT

(i) With Weapon or Force Likely

(A) On Specified People

860. Assault on Firefighter or Peace Officer With Deadly Weapon or Force Likely to Produce Great Bodily Injury (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 245(c) & (d))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with assault with (force likely to produce great bodily injury/a deadly weapon/a firearm/a semiautomatic firearm/a machine gun/an assault weapon/ a .50 BMG rifle) on a (firefighter/peace officer) [in violation of Penal Code section 245].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

<Alternative 1A—force with weapon>

[1. The defendant did an act with (a deadly weapon/a firearm/ a semiautomatic firearm/a machine gun/an assault weapon/ a .50 BMG rifle) that by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to a person;]

<Alternative 1B—force without weapon>

[1A. The defendant did an act that by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to a person, and

1B. The force used was likely to produce great bodily injury;]

2. The defendant did that act willfully;

3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) was aware of facts that would lead a reasonable person to realize that (his/her) act by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to someone;

4. When the defendant acted, (he/she) had the present ability to apply force (likely to produce great bodily injury/with a deadly weapon/with a firearm/with a semiautomatic firearm/with a machine gun/with an assault weapon/with a .50 BMG rifle) to a person;

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

5. When the defendant acted, the person assaulted was lawfully performing (his/her) duties as a (firefighter/peace officer);

[AND]

6. When the defendant acted, (he/she) knew, or reasonably should have known, that the person assaulted was a (firefighter/peace officer) who was performing (his/her) duties(;/.)

<Give element 7 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

7. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

[The terms application of force and apply force mean to touch in a harmful or offensive manner. The slightest touching can be enough if it is done in a rude or angry way. Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough. The touching does not have to cause pain or injury of any kind.]

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or someone else] to touch the other person.]

[The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually touched someone.]

The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually intended to use force against someone when (he/she) acted.

No one needs to actually have been injured by defendant's act. But if someone was injured, you may consider that fact, along with all the other evidence, in deciding whether the defendant committed an assault[, and if so, what kind of assault it was].

[Voluntary intoxication is not a defense to assault.]

[Great bodily injury means significant or substantial physical injury. It is an injury that is greater than minor or moderate harm.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[A deadly weapon is any object, instrument, or weapon that is inherently deadly or dangerous or one that is used in such a way that it is capable of causing and likely to cause death or great bodily injury.]

[A firearm is any device designed to be used as a weapon, from which a projectile is discharged or expelled through a barrel by the force of an explosion or other form of combustion.]

[A semiautomatic firearm extracts a fired cartridge and chambers a fresh cartridge with each single pull of the trigger.]

[A machine gun is any weapon that (shoots/is designed to shoot/ [or] can readily be restored to shoot) automatically more than one shot by a single function of the trigger and without manual reloading.]

[An assault weapon includes _____ *<insert names of appropriate designated assault weapons listed in Pen. Code, §§ 12276 and 12276.1>.]

[A .50 BMG rifle is a center fire rifle that can fire a .50 BMG cartridge [and that is not an assault weapon or a machine gun]. A .50 BMG cartridge is a cartridge that is designed and intended to be fired from a center fire rifle and that has all three of the following characteristics:

1. The overall length is 5.54 inches from the base of the cartridge to the tip of the bullet;
2. The bullet diameter for the cartridge is from .510 to, and including, .511 inch;

AND

3. The case base diameter for the cartridge is from .800 inch to, and including, .804 inch.]

[The term[s] (great bodily injury[,]/ deadly weapon[,]/ firearm[,]/ machine gun[,]/assault weapon[,]/ [and] .50 BMG rifle) (is/are) defined in another instruction to which you should refer.]

[A person who is employed as a police officer by _____ <insert name of agency that employs police officer> is a peace officer.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[A person employed by _____ <insert name of agency that employs peace officer, e.g., "the Department of Fish and Game"> is a peace officer if _____ <insert description of facts necessary to make employee a peace officer, e.g., "designated by the director of the agency as a peace officer">.]

[The duties of a _____ <insert title of officer> include _____ <insert job duties>.]

[A firefighter includes anyone who is an officer, employee, or member of a (governmentally operated (fire department/fire protection or firefighting agency) in this state/federal fire department/federal fire protection or firefighting agency), whether or not he or she is paid for his or her services.]

<When lawful performance is an issue, give the following paragraph and Instruction 2670, Lawful Performance: Peace Officer.>

[A peace officer is not lawfully performing his or her duties if he or she is (unlawfully arresting or detaining someone/ [or] using unreasonable or excessive force in his or her duties). Instruction 2670 explains (when an arrest or detention is unlawful/ [and] when force is unreasonable or excessive).]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 7 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

In addition, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on defendant's reliance on self-defense as it relates to the use of excessive force. (People v. White (1980) 101 Cal.App.3d 161, 167–168 [161 Cal.Rptr. 541].) If excessive force is an issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct the jury that the defendant is not guilty of the offense charged, or any lesser included offense in which lawful performance is an element, if the defendant used reasonable force in response to excessive force. (People v. Olguin (1981) 119 Cal.App.3d 39, 46–47 [173 Cal.Rptr. 663].) On request, the court must instruct that the prosecution has the burden of proving the lawfulness of the arrest beyond a reasonable doubt. (People v. Castain (1981) 122 Cal.App.3d 138, 145 [175 Cal.Rptr. 651].) If lawful performance is an issue, give the bracketed paragraph on lawful performance and the appropriate portions of CALCRIM No. 2670, Lawful Performance: Peace Officer. In addition, give CALCRIM No. 2672, Lawful Performance: Resisting Unlawful Arrest With Force, if requested.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Give element 1A if it is alleged the assault was committed with a deadly weapon, a firearm, a semiautomatic firearm, a machine gun, an assault weapon, or .50 BMG rifle. Give element 1B if it is alleged that the assault was committed with force likely to produce great bodily injury. (See Pen. Code, § 245(c) & (d).)

Give the bracketed definition of "application or force and apply force" on request.

Give the relevant bracketed definitions unless the court has already given the definition in other instructions. In such cases, the court may give the bracketed sentence stating that the term is defined elsewhere.

The jury must determine whether the alleged victim is a peace officer. (People v. Brown (1988) 46 Cal.3d 432, 444–445 [250 Cal.Rptr. 604, 758 P.2d 1135].) The court may instruct the jury on the appropriate definition of "peace officer" from the statute (e.g., "a Garden Grove Regular Police Officer and a Garden Grove Reserve Police Officer are peace officers"). (Ibid.) However, the court may not instruct the jury that the alleged victim was a peace officer as a matter of law (e.g., "Officer Reed was a peace officer"). (Ibid.) If the alleged victim is a police officer, give the bracketed sentence that begins with "A person employed as a police officer." If the alleged victim is another type of peace officer, give the bracketed sentence that begins with "A person employed by."

The court may give the bracketed sentence that begins, "The duties of a _____ <insert title . . . .> include," on request. The court may insert a description of the officer's duties such as "the correct service of a facially valid search warrant." (People v. Gonzalez (1990) 51 Cal.3d 1179, 1222 [275 Cal.Rptr. 729, 800 P.2d 1159].)

Do not give an attempt instruction in conjunction with this instruction. There is no crime of "attempted assault" in California. (In re James M. (1973) 9 Cal.3d 517 [108 Cal.Rptr. 89, 510 P.2d 33].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 240, 245(c) & (d)(1)–(3).
- Assault Weapon Defined. Pen. Code, §§ 12276, 12276.1.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Firearm Defined. Pen. Code, § 12001(b).
- Machine Gun Defined. Pen. Code, § 12200.
- Semiautomatic Pistol Defined. Pen. Code, § 12126(e).
- .50 BMG Rifle Defined. Pen. Code, § 12278.
- Peace Officer Defined. Pen. Code, § 830 et seq.
- Firefighter Defined. Pen. Code, § 245.1.
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(1); People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Deadly Weapon Defined. People v. Aguilar (1997) 16 Cal.4th 1023, 1028–1029 [68 Cal.Rptr.2d 655, 945 P.2d 1204].
- Mental State for Assault. People v. Williams (2001) 26 Cal.4th 779, 790 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 114, 29 P.3d 197].
- Least Touching. People v. Myers (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 328, 335 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 518] [citing People v. Rocha (1971) 3 Cal.3d 893, 899–900, fn. 12 [92 Cal.Rptr. 172, 479 P.2d 372]].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 65.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.11; Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.01[1][j] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Assault With a Deadly Weapon. Pen. Code, § 245.
- Assault on a Peace Officer. Pen. Code, § 241(b).

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section to CALCRIM No. 2670, Lawful Performance: Peace Officer.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

861. Assault on Firefighter or Peace Officer With Stun Gun or Less Lethal Weapon (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 244.5(c))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with assault with a (stun gun/ [or] less lethal weapon) on a (firefighter/peace officer) [in violation of Penal Code section 244.5(c)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant did an act with a (stun gun/[or] less lethal weapon) that by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to a person;
2. The defendant did that act willfully;
3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) was aware of facts that would lead a reasonable person to realize that (his/her) act by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to someone;
4. When the defendant acted, (he/she) had the present ability to apply force with a (stun gun/[or] less lethal weapon) to a person;
5. When the defendant acted, the person assaulted was lawfully performing (his/her) duties as a (firefighter/peace officer);

[AND]

6. When the defendant acted, (he/she) knew, or reasonably should have known, that the person assaulted was a (firefighter/peace officer) who was performing (his/her) duties(;/.)

<Give element 7 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

7. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

[A stun gun is anything, except a less lethal weapon, that is used or intended to be used as either an offensive or defensive weapon

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

and is capable of temporarily immobilizing someone by inflicting an electrical charge.]

[A _____ is a less lethal weapon.]

[_____ is less lethal ammunition.]

[A less lethal weapon is any device that is either designed to or that has been converted to expel or propel less lethal ammunition by any action, mechanism, or process for the purpose of incapacitating, immobilizing, or stunning a human being through the infliction of any less than lethal impairment of physical condition, function, or senses, including physical pain or discomfort. It is not necessary that the weapon leave any lasting or permanent incapacitation, discomfort, pain, or other injury or disability in order to qualify as a less lethal weapon.]

[Less lethal ammunition is any ammunition that is designed to be used in any less lethal weapon or any other kind of weapon, including, but not limited to, firearms, pistols, revolvers, shotguns, rifles, and spring, compressed air, and compressed gas weapons. When used in a less lethal weapon or other weapon, less lethal ammunition is designed to immobilize or incapacitate or stun a human being by inflicting less than lethal impairment of physical condition, function, or senses, including physical pain or discomfort.]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

The terms application of force and apply force mean to touch in a harmful or offensive manner. The slightest touching can be enough if it is done in a rude or angry way. Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough. The touching does not have to cause pain or injury of any kind.

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or someone else] to touch the other person.]

[The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually touched someone.]

The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually intended to use force against someone when (he/she) acted.

No one needs to actually have been injured by the defendant's act.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

But if someone was injured, you may consider that fact, along with all the other evidence, in deciding whether the defendant committed an assault[, and if so, what kind of assault it was].

[Voluntary intoxication is not a defense to assault.]

[A person who is employed as a police officer by _____ <insert name of agency that employs police officer> is a peace officer.]

[A person employed by _____ <insert name of agency that employs peace officer, e.g., "the Department of Fish and Game"> is a peace officer if _____ <insert description of facts necessary to make employee a peace officer, e.g., "designated by the director of the agency as a peace officer">.]

[The duties of a _____ <insert title of officer> include _____ <insert job duties>.]

[A firefighter includes anyone who is an officer, employee, or member of a (governmentally operated (fire department/fire protection or firefighting agency) in this state/federal fire department/federal fire protection or firefighting agency), whether or not he or she is paid for his or her services.]

<When lawful performance is an issue, give the following paragraph and Instruction 2670, Lawful Performance: Peace Officer.>

[A peace officer is not lawfully performing his or her duties if he or she is (unlawfully arresting or detaining someone/ [or] using unreasonable or excessive force in his or her duties). Instruction 2670 explains (when an arrest or detention is unlawful/ [and] when force is unreasonable or excessive).]

New January 2006; Revised August 2009

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 7 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

In addition, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on defendant's reliance on self-defense as it relates to the use of excessive force. (People v. White (1980) 101 Cal.App.3d 161, 167–168 [161 Cal.Rptr. 541].) If excessive force is an issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct the jury that the defendant is not guilty of the offense charged, or any lesser included offense in which lawful performance is an element, if the defendant used reasonable force in response to excessive force. (People v. Olguin (1981) 119 Cal.App.3d 39, 46–47 [173 Cal.Rptr. 663].) On request, the court must instruct that the prosecution has the burden of proving the lawfulness of the arrest beyond a reasonable doubt. (People v. Castain (1981) 122 Cal.App.3d 138, 145 [175 Cal.Rptr. 651].) If lawful performance is an issue, give the bracketed paragraph on lawful performance and the appropriate portions of CALCRIM No. 2670, Lawful Performance: Peace Officer. In addition, give CALCRIM No. 2672, Lawful Performance: Resisting Unlawful Arrest With Force, if requested.

The jury must determine whether the alleged victim is a peace officer. (People v. Brown (1988) 46 Cal.3d 432, 444–445 [250 Cal.Rptr. 604, 758 P.2d 1135].) The court may instruct the jury on the appropriate definition of "peace officer" from the statute (e.g., "a Garden Grove Regular Police Officer and a Garden Grove Reserve Police Officer are peace officers"). (Ibid.) However, the court may not instruct the jury that the alleged victim was a peace officer as a matter of law (e.g., "Officer Reed was a peace officer"). (Ibid.) If the alleged victim is a police officer, give the bracketed sentence that begins with "A person employed as a police officer." If the alleged victim is another type of peace officer, give the bracketed sentence that begins with "A person employed by."

The court may give the bracketed sentence that begins, "The duties of a _____ <insert title . . . .> include," on request. The court may insert a description of the officer's duties such as "the correct service of a facially valid search warrant." (People v. Gonzalez (1990) 51 Cal.3d 1179, 1222 [275 Cal.Rptr. 729, 800 P.2d 1159].)

Do not give an attempt instruction in conjunction with this instruction. There is no crime of "attempted assault" in California. (In re James M. (1973) 9 Cal.3d 517, 519 [108 Cal.Rptr. 89, 510 P.2d 33].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 240, 244.5.
- Firefighter Defined. Pen. Code, § 245.1.
- Peace Officer Defined. Pen. Code, § 830 et seq.
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(1); People v. Lara (1996) 44

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].

- Mental State for Assault. People v. Williams (2001) 26 Cal.4th 779, 790 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 114, 29 P.3d 197].
- Least Touching. People v. Myers (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 328, 335 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 518] [citing People v. Rocha (1971) 3 Cal.3d 893, 899–900, fn. 12 [92 Cal.Rptr. 172, 479 P.2d 372]].
- Less Lethal Weapon and Less Lethal Ammunition Defined. Pen. Code, § 12601.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 65.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.11[3]; Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.01[1][j] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

862. Assault on Custodial Officer With Deadly Weapon or Force Likely to Produce Great Bodily Injury (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 245, 245.3)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with assault with (force likely to produce great bodily injury/a deadly weapon) on a custodial officer [in violation of Penal Code section 245.3].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

<Alternative 1A—force with weapon>

[1. The defendant willfully did an act with a deadly weapon that by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to a person;]

<Alternative 1B—force without weapon>

[1A. The defendant did an act that by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to a person, and

1B. The force used was likely to produce great bodily injury;]

2. The defendant did that act willfully;

3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) was aware of facts that would lead a reasonable person to realize that (his/her) act by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to someone;

4. When the defendant acted, (he/she) had the present ability to apply force (likely to produce great bodily injury/with a deadly weapon) to a person;

5. When the defendant acted, the person assaulted was lawfully performing (his/her) duties as a custodial officer;

[AND]

6. When the defendant acted, (he/she) knew, or reasonably should have known, both that the person assaulted was a custodial officer and that (he/she) was performing (his/her) duties as a custodial officer(;/.)

<Give element 7 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[AND

7. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

[The terms application of force and apply force mean to touch in a harmful or offensive manner. The slightest touching can be enough if it is done in a rude or angry way. Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough. The touching does not have to cause pain or injury of any kind.]

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or someone else] to touch the other person.]

[The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually touched someone.]

The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually intended to use force against someone when (he/she) acted.

No one needs to actually have been injured by defendant's act. But if someone was injured, you may consider that fact, along with all the other evidence, in deciding whether the defendant committed an assault[, and if so, what kind of assault it was].

[Voluntary intoxication is not a defense to assault.]

[Great bodily injury means significant or substantial physical injury. It is an injury that is greater than minor or moderate harm.]

[A deadly weapon is any object, instrument, or weapon that is inherently deadly or dangerous or one that is used in such a way that it is capable of causing and likely to cause death or great bodily injury.]

[The term[s] (great bodily injury/ [and] deadly weapon) (is/are) defined in another instruction to which you should refer.]

A custodial officer is someone who works for a law enforcement agency of a city or county, is responsible for maintaining custody of prisoners, and helps operate a local detention facility. [A (county jail/city jail/ _____ <insert other detention facility>) is a local

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

detention facility.] [A custodial officer is not a peace officer.]

<When lawful performance is an issue, give the following paragraph and Instruction 2671, Lawful Performance: Custodial Officer.>

[A custodial officer is not lawfully performing his or her duties if he or she is using unreasonable or excessive force in his or her duties. Instruction 2671 explains when force is unreasonable or excessive.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 7 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

In addition, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on defendant's reliance on self-defense as it relates to the use of excessive force. (People v. White (1980) 101 Cal.App.3d 161, 167–168 [161 Cal.Rptr. 541].) If excessive force is an issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct the jury that the defendant is not guilty of the offense charged, or any lesser included offense in which lawful performance is an element, if the defendant used reasonable force in response to excessive force. (People v. Olguin (1981) 119 Cal.App.3d 39, 46–47 [173 Cal.Rptr. 663].) If lawful performance is an issue, give the bracketed paragraph on lawful performance and the appropriate portions of CALCRIM No. 2671, Lawful Performance: Custodial Officer.

Give element 1A if it is alleged the assault was committed with a deadly weapon. Give element 1B if it is alleged that the assault was committed with force likely to produce great bodily injury. (See Pen. Code, § 245.3.)

Give the bracketed definition of "application or force and apply force" on request.

Give the relevant bracketed definitions unless the court has already given the definition in other instructions. In such cases, the court may give the bracketed sentence stating that the term is defined elsewhere.

In the bracketed definition of "local detention facility," do not insert the name of a specific detention facility. Instead, insert a description of the type of detention facility at issue in the case. (See People v. Flood (1998) 18 Cal.4th 470, 482 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 180, 957 P.2d 869] [jury must determine if alleged victim is a peace officer]; see Penal Code section 6031.4 [defining local detention facility].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Do not give an attempt instruction in conjunction with this instruction. There is no crime of "attempted assault" in California. (In re James M. (1973) 9 Cal.3d 517, 519 [108 Cal.Rptr. 89, 510 P.2d 33].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 240, 245, 245.3.
- Custodial Officer Defined. Pen. Code, § 831.
- Local Detention Facility Defined. Pen. Code, § 6031.4.
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(1); People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Deadly Weapon Defined. People v. Aguilar (1997) 16 Cal.4th 1023, 1028–1029 [68 Cal.Rptr.2d 655, 945 P.2d 1204].
- Mental State for Assault. People v. Williams (2001) 26 Cal.4th 779, 790 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 114, 29 P.3d 197].
- Least Touching. People v. Myers (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 328, 335 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 518] [citing People v. Rocha (1971) 3 Cal.3d 893, 899–900, fn. 12 [92 Cal.Rptr. 172, 479 P.2d 372]].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 67.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.11; Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.01[1][j] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

863. Assault on Transportation Personnel or Passenger With Deadly Weapon or Force Likely to Produce Great Bodily Injury (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 245, 245.2)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with assault with (force likely to produce great bodily injury/a deadly weapon) on (a/an) (operator/driver/station agent/ticket agent/passenger) of (a/an) _____ <insert name of vehicle or transportation entity specified in Pen. Code, § 245.2> [in violation of Penal Code section 245.2].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

<Alternative 1A—force with weapon>

[1. The defendant willfully did an act with a deadly weapon that by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to a person;]

<Alternative 1B—force without weapon>

[1A. The defendant did an act that by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to a person, and

1B. The force used was likely to produce great bodily injury;]

2. The defendant did that act willfully;

3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) was aware of facts that would lead a reasonable person to realize that (his/her) act by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to someone;

4. When the defendant acted, (he/she) had the present ability to apply force (likely to produce great bodily injury/with a deadly weapon) to a person;

<Alternative 5A—transportation personnel>

[5. When the defendant acted, the person assaulted was performing (his/her) duties as (a/an) (operator/driver/station agent/ticket agent) of (a/an) _____ <insert name of vehicle or transportation entity specified in Pen. Code, § 245.2>;]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

<Alternative 5B—passenger>

[5. The person assaulted was a passenger of (a/an) _____ <insert name of vehicle or transportation entity specified in Pen. Code, § 245.2>;]

[AND]

6. When the defendant acted, (he/she) knew, or reasonably should have known, [both] that the person assaulted was (a/an) (operator/driver/station agent/ticket agent/passenger) of (a/an) _____ <insert name of vehicle or transportation entity specified in Pen. Code, § 245.2> and that (he/she) was performing (his/her) duties

<Give element 7 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

7. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

[The terms application of force and apply force mean to touch in a harmful or offensive manner. The slightest touching can be enough if it is done in a rude or angry way. Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough. The touching does not have to cause pain or injury of any kind.]

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or someone else] to touch the other person.]

[The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually touched someone.]

The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually intended to use force against someone when (he/she) acted.

No one needs to actually have been injured by defendant's act. But if someone was injured, you may consider that fact, along with all the other evidence, in deciding whether the defendant committed an assault[, and if so, what kind of assault it was].

[Voluntary intoxication is not a defense to assault.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[Great bodily injury means significant or substantial physical injury. It is an injury that is greater than minor or moderate harm.]

[A deadly weapon is any object, instrument, or weapon that is inherently deadly or dangerous or one that is used in such a way that it is capable of causing and likely to cause death or great bodily injury.]

[The term[s] (great bodily injury/ [and] deadly weapon) (is/are) defined in another instruction to which you should refer.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 7 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

Give element 1A if it is alleged the assault was committed with a deadly weapon. Give element 1B if it is alleged that the assault was committed with force likely to produce great bodily injury. (See Pen. Code, § 245.2.)

If the victim was an operator, driver, station agent, or ticket agent of an identified vehicle or transportation entity, give element 5A and the bracketed language in element 6. If the victim was a passenger, give element 5B and omit the bracketed language in element 6.

Give the bracketed definition of "application or force and apply force" on request.

Give the relevant bracketed definitions unless the court has already given the definition in other instructions. In such cases, the court may give the bracketed sentence stating that the term is defined elsewhere.

Do not give an attempt instruction in conjunction with this instruction. There is no crime of "attempted assault" in California. (In re James M. (1973) 9 Cal.3d 517, 519 [108 Cal.Rptr. 89, 510 P.2d 33].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 240, 245, 245.2.
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(1); People v. Lara (1996) 44

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].

- Deadly Weapon Defined. People v. Aguilar (1997) 16 Cal.4th 1023, 1028–1029 [68 Cal.Rptr.2d 655, 945 P.2d 1204].
- Mental State for Assault. People v. Williams (2001) 26 Cal.4th 779, 790 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 114, 29 P.3d 197].
- Least Touching. People v. Myers (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 328, 335 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 518] [citing People v. Rocha (1971) 3 Cal.3d 893, 899–900, fn. 12 [92 Cal.Rptr. 172, 479 P.2d 372]].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 72.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.11[3]; Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.01[1][j] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.

864–874. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(B) General

875. Assault With Deadly Weapon or Force Likely to Produce Great Bodily Injury (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 245(a)(1)–(3), (b))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with assault with (force likely to produce great bodily injury/a deadly weapon other than a firearm/a firearm/a semiautomatic firearm/a machine gun/ an assault weapon/a .50 BMG rifle) [in violation of Penal Code section 245].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

<Alternative 1A—force with weapon>

[1. The defendant did an act with (a deadly weapon other than a firearm/a firearm/a semiautomatic firearm/a machine gun/ an assault weapon/a .50 BMG rifle) that by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to a person;]

<Alternative 1B—force without weapon>

[1A. The defendant did an act that by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to a person, and

1B. The force used was likely to produce great bodily injury;]

2. The defendant did that act willfully;

3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) was aware of facts that would lead a reasonable person to realize that (his/her) act by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to someone;

[AND]

4. When the defendant acted, (he/she) had the present ability to apply force (likely to produce great bodily injury/with a deadly weapon other than a firearm/with a firearm/with a semiautomatic firearm/with a machine gun/with an assault weapon/with a .50 BMG rifle) to a person(;/.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

<Give element 5 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

5. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

[The terms application of force and apply force mean to touch in a harmful or offensive manner. The slightest touching can be enough if it is done in a rude or angry way. Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough. The touching does not have to cause pain or injury of any kind.]

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or someone else] to touch the other person.]

[The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually touched someone.]

The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually intended to use force against someone when (he/she) acted.

No one needs to actually have been injured by defendant's act. But if someone was injured, you may consider that fact, along with all the other evidence, in deciding whether the defendant committed an assault[, and if so, what kind of assault it was].

[Voluntary intoxication is not a defense to assault.]

[Great bodily injury means significant or substantial physical injury. It is an injury that is greater than minor or moderate harm.]

[A deadly weapon other than a firearm is any object, instrument, or weapon that is inherently deadly or dangerous or one that is used in such a way that it is capable of causing and likely to cause death or great bodily injury.]

[A firearm is any device designed to be used as a weapon, from which a projectile is discharged or expelled through a barrel by the force of an explosion or other form of combustion.]

[A semiautomatic firearm extracts a fired cartridge and chambers a

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

fresh cartridge with each single pull of the trigger.]

[A machine gun is any weapon that (shoots/is designed to shoot/ [or] can readily be restored to shoot) automatically more than one shot by a single function of the trigger and without manual reloading.]

[An assault weapon includes _____ <insert names of appropriate designated assault weapons listed in Pen. Code, §§ 12276 and 12276.1>.]

[A .50 BMG rifle is a center fire rifle that can fire a .50 BMG cartridge [and that is not an assault weapon or a machine gun]. A .50 BMG cartridge is a cartridge that is designed and intended to be fired from a center fire rifle and that has all three of the following characteristics:

1. The overall length is 5.54 inches from the base of the cartridge to the tip of the bullet;
2. The bullet diameter for the cartridge is from .510 to, and including, .511 inch;

AND

3. The case base diameter for the cartridge is from .800 inch to, and including, .804 inch.]

[The term[s] (great bodily injury[,]/ deadly weapon other than a firearm[,]/ firearm[,]/ machine gun[,]/assault weapon[,]/ [and] .50 BMG rifle) (is/are) defined in another instruction to which you should refer.]

New January 2006; Revised June 2007, August 2009, October 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 4 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

Give element 1A if it is alleged the assault was committed with a deadly weapon other than a firearm, firearm, semiautomatic firearm, machine gun, an assault weapon, or .50 BMG rifle. Give 1B if it is alleged that the assault was committed with force likely to produce great bodily injury. (See Pen. Code, § 245(a).)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Give the bracketed definition of "application or force and apply force" on request.

Give the relevant bracketed definitions unless the court has already given the definition in other instructions. In such cases, the court may give the bracketed sentence stating that the term is defined elsewhere.

Do not give an attempt instruction in conjunction with this instruction. There is no crime of "attempted assault" in California. (In re James M. (1973) 9 Cal.3d 517, 519 [108 Cal.Rptr. 89, 510 P.2d 33].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 240, 245(a)(1)–(3) & (b).
- To Have Present Ability to Inflict Injury, Gun Must Be Loaded Unless Used as Club or Bludgeon. People v. Rodriguez (1999) 20 Cal.4th 1, 11, fn. 3 [82 Cal.Rptr.2d 413, 971 P.2d 618].
- This Instruction Affirmed. People v. Golde (2008) 163 Cal.App.4th 101, 122-123 [77 Cal.Rptr.3d 120].
- Assault Weapon Defined. Pen. Code, §§ 12276, 12276.1.
- Semiautomatic Firearm Defined. Pen. Code, § 12126(e).
- Firearm Defined. Pen. Code, § 12001(b).
- Machine Gun Defined. Pen. Code, § 12200.
- .50 BMG Rifle Defined. Pen. Code, § 12278.
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7, subd. 1; People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Deadly Weapon Defined. People v. Aguilar (1997) 16 Cal.4th 1023, 1028–1029 [68 Cal.Rptr.2d 655, 945 P.2d 1204].
- Mental State for Assault. People v. Williams (2001) 26 Cal.4th 779, 790 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 114, 29 P.3d 197].
- Least Touching. People v. Myers (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 328, 335 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 518] [citing People v. Rocha (1971) 3 Cal.3d 893, 899–900, fn. 12 [92 Cal.Rptr. 172, 479 P.2d 372]].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 40–47.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.11[3] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.

A misdemeanor brandishing of a weapon or firearm under Penal Code section 417 is not a lesser and necessarily included offense of assault with a deadly weapon. (People v. Escarcega (1974) 43 Cal.App.3d 391, 398 [117 Cal.Rptr. 595]; People v. Steele (2000) 83 Cal.App.4th 212, 218, 221 [99 Cal.Rptr.2d 458].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

876. Assault With Stun Gun or Less Lethal Weapon (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 244.5(b))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with assault with a (stun gun/[or] less lethal weapon) [in violation of Penal Code section 244.5(b)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant did an act with a (stun gun/[or] less lethal weapon) that by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to a person;
2. The defendant did that act willfully;
3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) was aware of facts that would lead a reasonable person to realize that (his/her) act by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to someone;

[AND]

4. When the defendant acted, (he/she) had the present ability to apply force with a (stun gun/[or] less lethal weapon) to a person(;/.)

<Give element 5 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

5. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

[A stun gun is anything, except a less lethal weapon, that is used or intended to be used as either an offensive or defensive weapon and is capable of temporarily immobilizing someone by inflicting an electrical charge.]

[A less lethal weapon is any device that is either designed to or that has been converted to expel or propel less lethal ammunition by any action, mechanism, or process for the purpose of incapacitating, immobilizing, or stunning a human being through the infliction of any less than lethal impairment of physical condition, function, or senses, including physical pain or

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

discomfort. It is not necessary that the weapon leave any lasting or permanent incapacitation, discomfort, pain, or other injury or disability in order to qualify as a less lethal weapon.]

[Less lethal ammunition is any ammunition that is designed to be used in any less lethal weapon or any other kind of weapon, including, but not limited to, firearms, pistols, revolvers, shotguns, rifles, and spring, compressed air, and compressed gas weapons. When used in a less lethal weapon or other weapon, less lethal ammunition is designed to immobilize or incapacitate or stun a human being by inflicting less than lethal impairment of physical condition, function, or senses, including physical pain or discomfort.]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

The terms application of force and apply force mean to touch in a harmful or offensive manner. The slightest touching can be enough if it is done in a rude or angry way. Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough. The touching does not have to cause pain or injury of any kind.

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or someone else] to touch the other person.]

[The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually touched someone.]

The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually intended to use force against someone when (he/she) acted.

No one needs to actually have been injured by the defendant's act. But if someone was injured, you may consider that fact, along with all the other evidence, in deciding whether the defendant committed an assault[, and if so, what kind of assault it was].

[Voluntary intoxication is not a defense to assault.]

New January 2006; Revised August 2009

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 5 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

Do not give an attempt instruction in conjunction with this instruction. There is no crime of "attempted assault" in California. (In re James M. (1973) 9 Cal.3d 517, 519 [108 Cal.Rptr. 89, 510 P.2d 33].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 240, 244.5.
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7, subd. 1; People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Mental State for Assault. People v. Williams (2001) 26 Cal.4th 779, 790 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 114, 29 P.3d 197].
- Least Touching. People v. Myers (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 328, 335 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 518] [citing People v. Rocha (1971) 3 Cal.3d 893, 899–900, fn. 12 [92 Cal.Rptr. 172, 479 P.2d 372]].
- Less Lethal Weapon and Less Lethal Ammunition Defined. Pen. Code, § 12601.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 52.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.11[3] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

877. Assault With Caustic Chemicals (Pen. Code, § 244)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with (placing/ [or] throwing) caustic chemicals on someone else [in violation of Penal Code section 244].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant willfully and maliciously (placed[,]/ threw[,]/ caused to be placed[,]/ [or] caused to be thrown) any (caustic chemical[,]/ corrosive acid[,]/ flammable substance[,]/ [or] vitriol) on someone else;

[AND]

2. When the defendant acted, (he/she) intended to injure the flesh of or disfigure the other person's body(;/.)

<Give element 3 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another>

[AND

3. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

[A flammable substance includes gasoline, petroleum products, or flammable liquids with a flashpoint of 150 degrees Fahrenheit or less.]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose.

Someone acts maliciously when he or she intentionally does a wrongful act or when he or she acts with the unlawful intent to disturb, defraud, annoy, or injure someone else.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 3 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 244.
- Malicious Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(4).
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(1); People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Simple Assault Not a Lesser Included Offense. People v. Warren (1963) 223 Cal.App.2d 798, 801 [36 Cal.Rptr. 127].
- Threat of Great Bodily Harm Not Required. People v. Day (1926) 199 Cal. 78, 85–86 [248 P. 250].
- Mental State for Assault. People v. Williams (2001) 26 Cal.4th 779, 790 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 114, 29 P.3d 197].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 53.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.11 (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

Although Penal Code section 244 is titled "assault with caustic chemicals," this statute does not truly define an assault crime since actual contact with the other person is required.

878–889. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(ii) With Intent to Commit Other Offense

890. Assault With Intent to Commit Specified Crimes [While Committing First Degree Burglary] (Pen. Code, § 220(a), (b))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with assault with intent to commit _____ <insert crime specified in Penal Code section 220(a)> [while committing first degree burglary] [in violation of Penal Code section 220((a)/ [and] (b))].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant did an act that by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to a person;
2. The defendant did that act willfully;
3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) was aware of facts that would lead a reasonable person to realize that (his/her) act by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to someone;
4. When the defendant acted, (he/she) had the present ability to apply force to a person;

[AND]

5. When the defendant acted, (he/she) intended to commit _____<insert crime specified in Pen. Code, § 220(a)>;

[AND

6. When the defendant acted, (he/she) was committing a first degree burglary.]

<If the court concludes that the first degree burglary requirement in Pen. Code, § 220(b) is a penalty allegation and not an element of the offense, give the bracketed language below in place of element 6.>

[If you find the defendant guilty of the charged crime, you must then decide whether the People have proved the additional allegation that the crime was committed in the commission of a first degree burglary.]

[First degree burglary is defined in another instruction to which you should refer.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose.

The terms application of force and apply force mean to touch in a harmful or offensive manner. The slightest touching can be enough if it is done in a rude or angry way. Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough. The touching does not have to cause pain or injury of any kind.

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or someone else] to touch the other person.]

[The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually touched someone.]

No one needs to actually have been injured by the defendant's act. But if someone was injured, you may consider that fact, along with all the other evidence, in deciding whether the defendant committed an assault[, and if so, what kind of assault it was].

To decide whether the defendant intended to commit _____ <insert crime specified in Pen. Code, § 220(a)> please refer to Instruction[s] _____ which define[s] (that/those) crime[s].

New January 2006; Revised April 2010, October 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

The court has a sua sponte duty to give a Mayberry consent instruction if the defense is supported by substantial evidence and is consistent with the defense raised at trial. (People v. May (1989) 213 Cal.App.3d 118, 124–125 [261 Cal.Rptr. 502]; see People v. Mayberry (1975) 15 Cal.3d 143 [125 Cal.Rptr. 745, 542 P.2d 1337]; see also CALCRIM No. 1000, Rape or Spousal Rape by Force, Fear, or Threats [alternative paragraph on reasonable and actual belief in consent].)

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the sex offense or offense alleged. (People v. May (1989) 213 Cal.App.3d 118, 129 [261 Cal.Rptr. 502].) In the blanks, specify the sex offense or offenses that the defendant is charged with intending to commit. Included sex offenses are: rape (Pen. Code, § 261); oral copulation (Pen. Code, § 288a [including in-concert offense]); sodomy (Pen. Code, § 286 [including in-concert offense]); sexual penetration (Pen. Code, § 289); rape, spousal rape, or sexual penetration in concert (Pen. Code, § 264.1); and lewd or lascivious acts (Pen. Code, § 288). (See Pen. Code, § 220.) Give the appropriate instructions on the offense or offenses alleged.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

The court should also give CALCRIM Nos. 1700 and 1701 on burglary, if defendant is charged with committing the offense during a first degree burglary, as well as the appropriate CALCRIM instruction on the target crime charged pursuant to Penal Code section 220.

If the specified crime is mayhem, give CALCRIM No. 891, Assault With Intent to Commit Mayhem.

Element 6 is in brackets because there is no guidance from courts of review regarding whether the first degree burglary requirement in Penal Code section 220(b) is an element or an enhancement.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 915, Simple Assault.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 220.
- Elements for Assault. Pen. Code, § 240; People v. Williams (2001) 26 Cal.4th 779, 790 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 114, 29 P.3d 197].
- Court Must Instruct on Elements of Intended Crime. People v. May (1989) 213 Cal.App.3d 118, 129 [261 Cal.Rptr. 502] [in context of assault to commit rape].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 28–34.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.11 (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Simple Assault. Pen. Code, § 240; see People v. Greene (1973) 34 Cal.App.3d 622, 653 [110 Cal.Rptr. 160] [in context of charged assault with intent to commit rape].

There is no crime of attempted assault to commit an offense. (See People v. Duens (1976) 64 Cal.App.3d 310, 314 [134 Cal.Rptr. 341] [in context of assault to commit rape].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

RELATED ISSUES

Abandonment

An assault with intent to commit another crime is complete at any point during the incident when the defendant entertains the intent to commit the crime. "It makes no difference whatsoever that he later abandons that intent." (See People v. Trotter (1984) 160 Cal.App.3d 1217, 1223 [207 Cal.Rptr. 165]; People v. Meichtry (1951) 37 Cal.2d 385, 388–389 [231 P.2d 847] [both in context of assault to commit rape].)

Secondary Sources

5 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 91, Sentencing, § 91.60 (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

891. Assault With Intent to Commit Mayhem (Pen. Code, § 220(a))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with assault with intent to commit mayhem [in violation of Penal Code section 220(a)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant did an act that by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to a person;
2. The defendant did that act willfully;
3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) was aware of facts that would lead a reasonable person to realize that (his/her) act by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to someone;
4. When the defendant acted, (he/she) had the present ability to apply force to a person;

AND

5. When the defendant acted, (he/she) intended to commit mayhem.

The defendant intended to commit mayhem if (he/she) intended to unlawfully and maliciously:

[1. Remove a part of someone's body(;/.)]

[OR]

[2. Disable or make useless a part of someone's body by inflicting a more than slight or temporary disability(;/.)]

[OR]

[3. Permanently disfigure someone(;/.)]

[OR]

[4. Cut or disable someone's tongue(;/.)]

[OR]

[5. Slit someone's (nose[,]/ear[,]/ [or] lip) (;/.)]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[OR]

[6. Put out someone's eye or injure someone's eye in a way that would so significantly reduce (his/her) ability to see that the eye would be useless for the purpose of ordinary sight.]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose.

Someone acts maliciously when he or she intentionally does a wrongful act or when he or she acts with the unlawful intent to annoy or injure someone else.

The terms application of force and apply force mean to touch in a harmful or offensive manner. The slightest touching can be enough if it is done in a rude or angry way. Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough. The touching does not have to cause pain or injury of any kind.

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or someone else] to touch the other person.]

[The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually touched someone.]

No one needs to actually have been injured by the defendant's act. But if someone was injured, you may consider that fact, along with all the other evidence, in deciding whether the defendant committed an assault[, and if so, what kind of assault it was].

[A disfiguring injury may be permanent even if it can be repaired by medical procedures.]

New January 2006; Revised April 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Do not use this instruction if defendant is charged with having committed this crime during the commission of a first degree burglary. Use CALCRIM No. 890, Assault With Intent to Commit Specified Crimes [While Committing First Degree Burglary] instead.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Depending on the evidence, select the appropriate elements of mayhem. (See People v. May (1989) 213 Cal.App.3d 118, 129 [261 Cal.Rptr. 502] [in context of assault to commit rape].) See generally CALCRIM No. 801, Mayhem.

The last bracketed sentence may be given on request if there is evidence of a disfiguring injury that may be repaired by medical procedures. (See People v. Hill (1994) 23 Cal.App.4th 1566, 1574–1575 [28 Cal.Rptr.2d 783] [not error to instruct that injury may be permanent even though cosmetic repair may be medically feasible].)

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 915, Simple Assault.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 220.
- Elements for Assault. Pen. Code, § 240; People v. Williams (2001) 26 Cal.4th 779, 790 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 114, 29 P.3d 197].
- Elements for Mayhem. Pen. Code, § 203.
- Court Must Instruct on Elements of Intended Crime. People v. May (1989) 213 Cal.App.3d 118, 129 [261 Cal.Rptr. 502] [in context of assault to commit rape].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 28–34.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.11, 142.16 (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Mayhem. Pen. Code, §§ 663, 203.
- Simple Assault. Pen. Code, § 240; see People v. Greene (1973) 34 Cal.App.3d 622, 653 [110 Cal.Rptr. 160] [in context of charged assault with intent to commit rape].

There is no crime of attempted assault to commit an offense. (See People v. Duens (1976) 64 Cal.App.3d 310, 314 [134 Cal.Rptr. 341] [in context of assault to commit rape].)

RELATED ISSUES

Abandonment

An assault with intent to commit another crime is complete at any point during the incident when the defendant entertains the intent to commit the crime. "It makes no difference whatsoever that he later abandons that intent." (See People v. Trotter (1984) 160 Cal.App.3d 1217, 1223 [207 Cal.Rptr. 165]; People v. Meichtry (1951) 37 Cal.2d 385, 388–389 [231 P.2d 847] [both in context of assault to commit rape].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

892–899. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(iii) Simple Assault on Specified People or in Specified Location

900. Assault on Firefighter, Peace Officer or Other Specified Victim (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with assault on a (firefighter/peace officer/ _____ <insert description of other person from Pen. Code, § 241(b/c)>) [in violation of Penal Code section 241(b/c)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant did an act that by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to a person;
2. The defendant did that act willfully;
3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) was aware of facts that would lead a reasonable person to realize that (his/her) act would directly, naturally, and probably result in the application of force to someone;
4. When the defendant acted, (he/she) had the present ability to apply force to a person;
5. When the defendant acted, the person assaulted was lawfully performing (his/her) duties as a (firefighter/peace officer/ _____ <insert description of other person from Pen. Code, § 241(b) or (c)>);

[AND]

6. When the defendant acted, (he/she) knew, or reasonably should have known, that the person assaulted was a (firefighter/peace officer/ _____ <insert description of other person from Pen. Code, § 241(b) or (c)>) (who was performing (his/her) duties/ providing emergency medical care)(;/.)

<Give element 7 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

7. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

The terms application of force and apply force mean to touch in a harmful or offensive manner. The slightest touching can be enough if it is done in a rude or angry way. Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough. The touching does not have to cause pain or injury of any kind.

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or someone else] to touch the other person.]

[The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually touched someone.]

The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually intended to use force against someone when (he/she) acted.

No one needs to actually have been injured by the defendant's act. But if someone was injured, you may consider that fact, along with all the other evidence, in deciding whether the defendant committed an assault[, and if so, what kind of assault it was].

[Voluntary intoxication is not a defense to assault.]

[A person employed as a police officer by _____ <insert name of agency that employs police officer> is a peace officer.]

[A person employed by _____ <insert name of agency that employs peace officer, e.g., "the Department of Fish and Game"> is a peace officer if _____ <insert description of facts necessary to make employee a peace officer, e.g., "designated by the director of the agency as a peace officer">.]

[The duties of a _____ <insert title of peace officer specified in Pen. Code, § 830 et seq.> include _____ <insert job duties>.]

[A firefighter includes anyone who is an officer, employee, or member of a (governmentally operated (fire department/fire protection or firefighting agency) in this state/federal fire department/federal fire protection or firefighting agency), whether or not he or she is paid for his or her services.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

<When lawful performance is an issue, give the following paragraph and Instruction 2670, Lawful Performance: Peace Officer.>

[A peace officer is not lawfully performing his or her duties if he or she is (unlawfully arresting or detaining someone/ [or] using unreasonable or excessive force in his or her duties). Instruction 2670 explains (when an arrest or detention is unlawful/ [and] when force is unreasonable or excessive).]

New January 2006; Revised April 2008

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 7 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

Select the option in element six for "providing emergency medical care" if the victim is a physician or nurse engaged in rendering emergency medical care.

In order to be "engaged in the performance of his or her duties," a peace officer must be acting lawfully. (People v. Gonzalez (1990) 51 Cal.3d 1179, 1217 [275 Cal.Rptr. 729, 800 P.2d 1159].) "[D]isputed facts bearing on the issue of legal cause must be submitted to the jury considering an engaged-in-duty element." (Ibid.) The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on defendant's reliance on self-defense as it relates to the use of excessive force. (People v. White (1980) 101 Cal.App.3d 161, 167–168 [161 Cal.Rptr. 541].) If excessive force is an issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct the jury that the defendant is not guilty of the offense charged, or any lesser included offense in which lawful performance is an element, if the defendant used reasonable force in response to excessive force. (People v. Olguin (1981) 119 Cal.App.3d 39, 46–47 [173 Cal.Rptr. 663].) On request, the court must also instruct that the People have the burden of proving the lawfulness of an arrest beyond a reasonable doubt. (People v. Castain (1981) 122 Cal.App.3d 138, 145 [175 Cal.Rptr. 651].) Give the appropriate portions of CALCRIM No. 2670, Lawful Performance: Peace Officer.

The jury must determine whether the alleged victim is a peace officer. (People v. Brown (1988) 46 Cal.3d 432, 444–445 [250 Cal.Rptr. 604, 758

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

P.2d 1135].) The court may instruct the jury on the appropriate definition of "peace officer" from the statute (e.g., "a Garden Grove Regular Police Officer and a Garden Grove Reserve Police Officer are peace officers"). (Ibid.) However, the court may not instruct the jury that the alleged victim was a peace officer as a matter of law (e.g., "Officer Reed was a peace officer"). (Ibid.) If the alleged victim is a police officer, give the bracketed sentence that begins with "A person employed as a police officer." If the alleged victim is another type of peace officer, give the bracketed sentence that begins with "A person employed by."

The court may give the bracketed sentence that begins with "The duties of a _____ <insert title of peace officer specified in Pen. Code, § 830 et seq.> include" on request. The court may insert a description of the officer's duties such as "the correct service of a facially valid search warrant." (People v. Gonzalez, supra, 51 Cal.3d at p. 1222.)

Do not give an attempt instruction in conjunction with this instruction. There is no crime of "attempted assault" in California. (In re James M. (1973) 9 Cal.3d 517, 519 [108 Cal.Rptr. 89, 510 P.2d 33].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.
- Firefighter Defined. Pen. Code, § 245.1.
- Peace Officer Defined. Pen. Code, § 830 et seq.
- Willfully Defined. Pen. Code, § 7, subd. 1; People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Mental State for Assault. People v. Williams (2001) 26 Cal.4th 779, 790 [29 P.3d 197].
- Least Touching. People v. Myers (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 328, 335 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 518] [citing People v. Rocha (1971) 3 Cal.3d 893, 899–900, fn. 12 [92 Cal.Rptr. 172, 479 P.2d 372]].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 65.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.11 (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Simple Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

RELATED ISSUES

Resisting Arrest

"[A] person may not use force to resist any arrest, lawful or unlawful, except that he may use reasonable force to defend life and limb against excessive force . . . ." (People v. Curtis (1969) 70 Cal.2d 347, 357 [74 Cal.Rptr. 713, 450 P.2d 33].) "[I]f the arrest is ultimately determined factually to be unlawful [but the officer did not use excessive force], the defendant can be validly convicted only of simple assault or battery," not assault or battery of a peace officer. (Id. at pp. 355–356.) See CALCRIM No. 2672, Lawful Performance: Resisting Unlawful Arrest With Force.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

901. Assault on Custodial Officer (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.1)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with assault on a custodial officer [in violation of Penal Code section 241.1].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant did an act that by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to a person;
2. The defendant did that act willfully;
3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) was aware of facts that would lead a reasonable person to realize that (his/her) act by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to someone;
4. When the defendant acted, (he/she) had the present ability to apply force to a person;
5. When the defendant acted, the person assaulted was lawfully performing (his/her) duties as a custodial officer;

[AND]

6. When the defendant acted, (he/she) knew, or reasonably should have known, both that the person assaulted was a custodial officer and that (he/she) was performing (his/her) duties as a custodial officer(;/.)

<Give element 7 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another>

[AND

7. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

The terms application of force and apply force mean to touch in a harmful or offensive manner. The slightest touching can be enough if it is done in a rude or angry way. Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough. The touching does not have to cause pain or injury of any kind.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or someone else] to touch the other person.]

[The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually touched someone.]

The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually intended to use force against someone when (he/she) acted.

No one needs to actually have been injured by the defendant's act. But if someone was injured, you may consider that fact, along with all the other evidence, in deciding whether the defendant committed an assault[, and if so, what kind of assault it was].

[Voluntary intoxication is not a defense to assault.]

A custodial officer is someone who works for a law enforcement agency of a city or county, is responsible for maintaining custody of prisoners, and helps operate a local detention facility. [A (county jail/city jail/ _____ <insert other detention facility>) is a local detention facility.] [A custodial officer is not a peace officer.]

<When lawful performance is an issue, give the following paragraph and Instruction 2671, Lawful Performance: Custodial Officer.>

[A custodial officer is not lawfully performing his or her duties if he or she is using unreasonable or excessive force in his or her duties. Instruction 2671 explains when force is unreasonable or excessive.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 7 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

In addition, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on defendant's reliance on self-defense as it relates to the use of excessive force. (People v. White (1980) 101 Cal.App.3d 161, 167–168 [161 Cal.Rptr. 541].) If excessive force is an issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct the jury that the defendant is not guilty of the offense charged, or any lesser included offense in which lawful performance is an element, if the defendant used reasonable force in response to excessive force. (People v. Olguin (1981) 119 Cal.App.3d 39, 46–47 [173 Cal.Rptr. 663].) If lawful performance is an issue, give the bracketed paragraph on lawful performance and the appropriate portions of CALCRIM No. 2671, Lawful Performance: Custodial Officer.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

In the bracketed definition of "local detention facility," do not insert the name of a specific detention facility. Instead, insert a description of the type of detention facility at issue in the case. (See People v. Flood (1998) 18 Cal.4th 470, 482 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 180, 957 P.2d 869] [jury must determine if alleged victim is a peace officer]; see Penal Code section 6031.4 [defining local detention facility].)

Do not give an attempt instruction in conjunction with this instruction. There is no crime of "attempted assault" in California. (In re James M. (1973) 9 Cal.3d 517, 519 [108 Cal.Rptr. 89, 510 P.2d 33].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.1.
- Custodial Officer Defined. Pen. Code, § 831.
- Local Detention Facility Defined. Pen. Code, § 6031.4.
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7, subd. 1; People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Mental State for Assault. People v. Williams (2001) 26 Cal.4th 779, 790 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 114, 29 P.3d 197].
- Least Touching. People v. Myers (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 328, 335 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 518] [citing People v. Rocha (1971) 3 Cal.3d 893, 899–900, fn. 12 [92 Cal.Rptr. 172, 479 P.2d 372]].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 67.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.11 (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

902. Assault on Military Personnel (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.8)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with assault on a member of the United States Armed Forces [in violation of Penal Code section 241.8].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant did an act that by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to a person;
2. The defendant did that act willfully;
3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) was aware of facts that would lead a reasonable person to realize that (his/her) act would directly, naturally, and probably result in the application of force to someone;
4. When the defendant acted, (he/she) had the present ability to apply force to a person;
5. The person assaulted was a member of the United States Armed Forces at the time of the assault;

[AND]

6. The defendant knew the other person was a member of the United States Armed Forces and assaulted the other person because of that person's service(;/.)

<Give element 7 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

7. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

The terms application of force and apply force mean to touch in a harmful or offensive manner. The slightest touching can be enough if it is done in a rude or angry way. Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough. The touching does not have to cause pain or injury of any kind.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or someone else] to touch the other person.]

[The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually touched someone.]

The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually intended to use force against someone when (he/she) acted.

No one needs to actually have been injured by the defendant's act. But if someone was injured, you may consider that fact, along with all the other evidence, in deciding whether the defendant committed an assault[, and if so, what kind of assault it was].

A _____ <insert description, e.g., "private in the United States Army"> is a *member of the United States Armed Forces.

A person commits an assault because of someone's service in the Armed Forces if:

1. That person is biased against the assaulted person based on the assaulted person's military service;

AND

2. That bias caused the person to commit the alleged assault.

If the defendant had more than one reason to commit the alleged assault, the bias described here must have been a substantial motivating factor. A substantial factor is more than a trivial or remote factor. However, it does not need to be the only factor that motivated the assault.

[Voluntary intoxication is not a defense to assault.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on that defense. Give bracketed element 7

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

The jury must determine whether the alleged victim is a member of the United States Armed Forces. (See People v. Brown (1988) 46 Cal.3d 432, 444–445 [250 Cal.Rptr. 604, 758 P.2d 1135].) The court may instruct the jury on the appropriate definition of member of the armed forces. However, the court may not instruct the jury that the alleged victim was a member of the armed forces as a matter of law. (Ibid.)

Do not give an attempt instruction in conjunction with this instruction. There is no crime of "attempted assault" in California. (In re James M. (1973) 9 Cal.3d 517, 519 [108 Cal.Rptr. 89, 510 P.2d 33].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.8.
- Willfully Defined. Pen. Code, § 7, subd. 1; People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Mental State for Assault. People v. Williams (2001) 26 Cal.4th 779, 790 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 114, 29 P.3d 197].
- Least Touching. People v. Myers (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 328, 335 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 518] [citing People v. Rocha (1971) 3 Cal.3d 893, 899–900, fn. 12 [92 Cal.Rptr. 172, 479 P.2d 372]].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 65.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.11 (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Simple Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

903. Assault on School District Peace Officer (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.4)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with assault on a school district peace officer [in violation of Penal Code section 241.4].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant did an act that by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to a person;
2. The defendant did that act willfully;
3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) was aware of facts that would lead a reasonable person to realize that (his/her) act by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to someone;
4. When the defendant acted, (he/she) had the present ability to apply force to a person;
5. When the defendant acted, the person assaulted was lawfully performing (his/her) duties as a school district peace officer;

[AND]

6. When the defendant acted, (he/she) knew, or reasonably should have known, both that the person assaulted was a school district peace officer and that (he/she) was performing (his/her) duties as a school district peace officer(;/.)

<Give element 7 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

7. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

The terms application of force and apply force mean to touch in a harmful or offensive manner. The slightest touching can be enough if it is done in a rude or angry way. Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough. The touching does not have to cause pain or injury of any kind.

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or someone else] to touch the other person.]

[The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually touched someone.]

The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually intended to use force against someone when (he/she) acted.

No one needs to actually have been injured by defendant's act. But if someone was injured, you may consider that fact, along with all the other evidence, in deciding whether the defendant committed an assault[, and if so, what kind of assault it was].

[Voluntary intoxication is not a defense to assault.]

A school district peace officer is a peace officer who is a member of a police department of a school district under Education Code section 38000.

<When lawful performance is an issue, give the following paragraph and Instruction 2670, Lawful Performance: Peace Officer.>

[A school district peace officer is not lawfully performing his or her duties if he or she is (unlawfully arresting or detaining someone/ [or] using unreasonable or excessive force in his or her duties). Instruction 2670 explains (when an arrest or detention is unlawful/ [and] when force is unreasonable or excessive).]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 7 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

In addition, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on defendant's reliance on self-defense as it relates to the use of excessive force. (People v. White (1980) 101 Cal.App.3d 161, 167–168 [161 Cal.Rptr. 541].) If excessive force is an issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct the jury that the defendant is not guilty of the offense charged, or any lesser included offense in which lawful performance is an element, if the defendant used reasonable force in response to excessive force. (People v. Olguin (1981) 119 Cal.App.3d 39, 46–47 [173 Cal.Rptr. 663].) On request, the court must instruct that the prosecution has the burden of proving the lawfulness of the arrest beyond a reasonable doubt. (People v. Castain (1981) 122 Cal.App.3d 138, 145 [175 Cal.Rptr. 651].) If lawful performance is an issue, give the bracketed paragraph on lawful performance and the appropriate portions of CALCRIM No. 2670, Lawful Performance: Peace Officer. In addition, give CALCRIM No. 2672, Lawful Performance: Resisting Unlawful Arrest With Force, if requested.

Do not give an attempt instruction in conjunction with this instruction. There is no crime of "attempted assault" in California. (In re James M. (1973) 9 Cal.3d 517 [108 Cal.Rptr. 89, 510 P.2d 33].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.4; Educ. Code, § 38000.
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(1); People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Mental State for Assault. People v. Williams (2001) 26 Cal.4th 779, 790 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 114, 29 P.3d 197].
- Least Touching. People v. Myers (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 328, 335 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 518] [citing People v. Rocha (1971) 3 Cal.3d 893, 899–900, fn. 12 [92 Cal.Rptr. 172, 479 P.2d 372]].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 67.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.11; Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.02 (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

A school district peace officer is anyone so designated by the superintendent of the school district, but is not vested with general police powers. (See Educ. Code, § 38000(a).) The scope of authority for school district peace officers is set forth in Penal Code section 830.32. (See Educ. Code, § 38001.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

904. Assault on School Employee (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.6)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with assault on a school employee [in violation of Penal Code section 241.6].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant did an act that by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to a person;
2. The defendant did that act willfully;
3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) was aware of facts that would lead a reasonable person to realize that (his/her) act by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to someone;
4. When the defendant acted, (he/she) had the present ability to apply force to a person;
5. When the defendant acted, (he/she) knew, or reasonably should have known, that the person assaulted was a school employee [and that (he/she) was performing (his/her) duties as a school employee];

[AND]

6. (When the defendant acted, the person assaulted was performing (his/her) duties[,]/ [or] (The/the) defendant acted in retaliation for something the school employee had done in the course of (his/her) duties)(;/.)

<Give element 7 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

7. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

The terms application of force and apply force mean to touch in a harmful or offensive manner. The slightest touching can be enough if it is done in a rude or angry way. Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough. The touching does not have to cause pain or injury of any kind.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or someone else] to touch the other person.]

[The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually touched someone.]

The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually intended to use force against someone when (he/she) acted.

No one needs to actually have been injured by defendant's act. But if someone was injured, you may consider that fact, along with all the other evidence, in deciding whether the defendant committed an assault[, and if so, what kind of assault it was].

[Voluntary intoxication is not a defense to assault.]

A school employee is any person employed as a permanent or probationary certificated or classified employee of a school district on a part-time or full-time basis, including a substitute teacher, student teacher, or school board member.

[It is not a defense that an assault took place off campus or outside of school hours.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 7 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

If the sole motivation alleged for the assault is retaliation, do not give the bracketed clause in element 4 and give only the second option in element 5.

Do not give an attempt instruction in conjunction with this instruction. There is no crime of "attempted assault" in California. (In re James M. (1973) 9 Cal.3d 517, 519 [108 Cal.Rptr. 89, 510 P.2d 33].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.6.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7, subd. 1; People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Mental State for Assault. People v. Williams (2001) 26 Cal.4th 779, 790 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 114, 29 P.3d 197].
- Least Touching. People v. Myers (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 328, 335 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 518] [citing People v. Rocha (1971) 3 Cal.3d 893, 899–900, fn. 12 [92 Cal.Rptr. 172, 479 P.2d 372]].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 20, 73.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.11; Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.02 (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

905. Assault on Juror (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.7)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with assault on a juror [in violation of Penal Code section 241.7].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant was a party to a case for which a jury had been selected;
2. The defendant did an act that by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to someone who had been sworn as a juror [or alternate juror] to decide that case;
3. The defendant did that act willfully;
4. When the defendant acted, (he/she) was aware of facts that would lead a reasonable person to realize that (his/her) act by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to someone;

[AND]

5. When the defendant acted, (he/she) had the present ability to apply force to a person(;/.)

<Give element 6 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

6. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

The terms application of force and apply force mean to touch in a harmful or offensive manner. The slightest touching can be enough if it is done in a rude or angry way. Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough. The touching does not have to cause pain or injury of any kind.

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

someone else] to touch the other person.]

[The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually touched someone.]

The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually intended to use force against someone when (he/she) acted.

No one needs to actually have been injured by defendant's act. But if someone was injured, you may consider that fact, along with all the other evidence, in deciding whether the defendant committed an assault[, and if so, what kind of assault it was].

[Voluntary intoxication is not a defense to assault.]

[It is not a defense that an assault was committed after the trial was completed.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 6 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

Do not give an attempt instruction in conjunction with this instruction. There is no crime of "attempted assault" in California. (In re James M. (1973) 9 Cal.3d 517, 519 [108 Cal.Rptr. 89, 510 P.2d 33].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.7.
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(1); People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Mental State for Assault. People v. Williams (2001) 26 Cal.4th 779, 790 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 114, 29 P.3d 197].
- Least Touching. People v. Myers (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 328, 335 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 518] [citing People v. Rocha (1971) 3 Cal.3d 893, 899–900, fn. 12 [92 Cal.Rptr. 172, 479 P.2d 372]].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 71.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.11 (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

Unlike other statutes penalizing assault on a particular person, Penal Code section 241.7 does not state that the defendant must have known that the person assaulted was a juror. Thus, the committee has not included knowledge among the elements.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

906. Assault Committed on School or Park Property (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.2)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with assaulting a person on (school/park) property [in violation of Penal Code section 241.2].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant did an act that by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to a person;
2. The defendant did that act willfully;
3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) was aware of facts that would lead a reasonable person to realize that (his/her) act by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to someone;
4. When the defendant acted, (he/she) had the present ability to apply force to a person;

[AND]

5. When the defendant acted, (he/she) was on (school/park) property.

<Give element 6 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

6. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

The terms application of force and apply force mean to touch in a harmful or offensive manner. The slightest touching can be enough if it is done in a rude or angry way. Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough. The touching does not have to cause pain or injury of any kind.

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

someone else] to touch the other person.]

[The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually touched someone.]

The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually intended to use force against someone when (he/she) acted.

No one needs to actually have been injured by the defendant's act. But if someone was injured, you may consider that fact, along with all the other evidence, in deciding whether the defendant committed an assault[, and if so, what kind of assault it was].

[Voluntary intoxication is not a defense to assault.]

[A school is any (elementary school/junior high school/four-year high school/senior high school/adult school [or any branch thereof]/ opportunity school/continuation high school/regional occupational center/evening high school/technical school/community college).]

[A park is any publicly maintained or operated park. It does not include any facility that is being used for professional sports or commercial events.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 6 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

Do not give an attempt instruction in conjunction with this instruction. There is no crime of "attempted assault" in California. (In re James M. (1973) 9 Cal.3d 517, 519 [108 Cal.Rptr. 89, 510 P.2d 33].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.2.
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7, subd. 1; People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Mental State for Assault. People v. Williams (2001) 26 Cal.4th 779, 790 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 114, P.3d 197].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Least Touching. People v. Myers (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 328, 335 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 518] [citing People v. Rocha (1971) 3 Cal.3d 893, 899–900, fn. 12 [92 Cal.Rptr. 172, 479 P.2d 372]].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 22.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.11; Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.02 (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

907. Assault Committed on Public Transportation Provider's Property or Vehicle (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.3)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with assaulting a person on a public transportation provider's (property/vehicle) [in violation of Penal Code section 241.3].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant did an act that by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to a person;
2. The defendant did that act willfully;
3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) was aware of facts that would lead a reasonable person to realize that (his/her) act by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to someone;
4. When the defendant acted, (he/she) had the present ability to apply force to a person;

[AND]

5. When the defendant acted, (he/she) was on (the property of a public transportation provider/a motor vehicle of a public transportation provider)(;/.)

<Give element 6 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

6. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

The terms application of force and apply force mean to touch in a harmful or offensive manner. The slightest touching can be enough if it is done in a rude or angry way. Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough. The touching does not have to cause pain or injury of any kind.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or someone else] to touch the other person.]

[The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually touched someone.]

The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually intended to use force against someone when (he/she) acted.

No one needs to actually have been injured by the defendant's act. But if someone was injured, you may consider that fact, along with all the other evidence, in deciding whether the defendant committed an assault[, and if so, what kind of assault it was].

[Voluntary intoxication is not a defense to assault.]

A public transportation provider is a public or private operator of a (bus/taxicab/streetcar/cable car/trackless trolley/school bus/ [or] other motor vehicle) that transports people for (money/hire).

[A motor vehicle includes a vehicle that runs on stationary rails or on a track or rail suspended in the air.]

[The property of the transportation provider includes the entire station where public transportation is available and the parking lot reserved for those who use the system.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 6 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

Do not give an attempt instruction in conjunction with this instruction. There is no crime of "attempted assault" in California. (In re James M. (1973) 9 Cal.3d 517, 519 [108 Cal.Rptr. 89, 510 P.2d 33].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241.3.
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7, subd. 1; People v. Lara (1996) 44

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].

- Mental State for Assault. People v. Williams (2001) 26 Cal.4th 779, 790 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 114, 29 P.3d 197].
- Least Touching. People v. Myers (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 328, 335 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 518] [citing People v. Rocha (1971) 3 Cal.3d 893, 899–900, fn. 12 [92 Cal.Rptr. 172, 479 P.2d 372]].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 6 (assault generally).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.11 (Matthew Bender).

908–914. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(iv) Simple Assault

915. Simple Assault (Pen. Code, §§ 240, 241(a))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with assault [in violation of Penal Code section 241(a)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant did an act that by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to a person;
2. The defendant did that act willfully;
3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) was aware of facts that would lead a reasonable person to realize that (his/her) act by its nature would directly and probably result in the application of force to someone;

[AND]

4. When the defendant acted, (he/she) had the present ability to apply force to a person(;/.)

<Give element 5 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

5. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

The terms application of force and apply force mean to touch in a harmful or offensive manner. The slightest touching can be enough if it is done in a rude or angry way. Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough. The touching does not have to cause pain or injury of any kind.

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or someone else] to touch the other person.]

[The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually touched someone.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

The People are not required to prove that the defendant actually intended to use force against someone when (he/she) acted.

No one needs to actually have been injured by the defendant's act. But if someone was injured, you may consider that fact, along with all the other evidence, in deciding whether the defendant committed an assault[, and if so, what kind of assault it was].

[Voluntary intoxication is not a defense to assault.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 5 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

Do not give an attempt instruction in conjunction with this instruction. There is no crime of "attempted assault" in California. (In re James M. (1973) 9 Cal.3d 517, 519 [108 Cal.Rptr. 89, 510 P.2d 33].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(1); People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Mental State for Assault. People v. Williams (2001) 26 Cal.4th 779, 790 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 114, 29 P.3d 197]; People v. Wright (2002) 100 Cal.App.4th 703, 706 [123 Cal.Rptr.2d 494].
- Least Touching. People v. Myers (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 328, 335 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 518] [citing People v. Rocha (1971) 3 Cal.3d 893, 899–900, fn. 12 [92 Cal.Rptr. 172, 479 P.2d 372]].
- This Instruction Upheld. People v. Ibarra (2007) 156 Cal.App.4th 1174, 1193–1195 [67 Cal.Rptr.3d 871].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 6–11, 15.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Crimes Against the Person, § 142.11 (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Transferred Intent

The doctrine of transferred intent does not apply to general intent crimes such as assault. (People v. Lee (1994) 28 Cal.App.4th 1724, 1737 [34 Cal.Rptr.2d 723].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

916. Assault by Conditional Threat

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with assault committed by a conditional threat to use force.

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant willfully threatened to use force on another person unless that person immediately did an act that the defendant demanded;
2. The defendant intended to use force immediately to compel the other person to do the act;
3. The defendant had no right to demand that the other person do the act;
4. When the defendant made the threat, (he/she) had the present ability to use force on the other person;

[AND]

5. The defendant placed (himself/herself) in a position to compel performance of the act (he/she) demanded and took all steps necessary to carry out (his/her) intention(;/.)

<Give element 6 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

6. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose.

[The term use force means to touch in a harmful or offensive manner. The slightest touching can be enough if it is done in a rude or angry way. It is enough if the touching makes contact with the person, including through his or her clothing. The touching need not cause pain or injury of any kind.]

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or someone else] to touch the other person.]

No one needs to actually have been injured by defendant's act. But if someone was injured, you may consider that fact, along with all the other evidence, in deciding whether the defendant committed an assault[, and if so, what kind of assault it was].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 6 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

Do not give an attempt instruction in conjunction with this instruction. There is no crime of "attempted assault" in California. (In re James M. (1973) 9 Cal.3d 517, 519 [108 Cal.Rptr. 89, 510 P.2d 33].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. People v. McMakin (1857) 8 Cal. 547, 548–549; People v. McCoy (1944) 25 Cal.2d 177, 192–193 [153 P.2d 315]; People v. Lipscomb (1993) 17 Cal.App.4th 564, 570 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 445]; see also People v. Page (2004) 123 Cal.App.4th 1466, 1473 [20 Cal.Rptr.3d 857].
- Mental State for Assault. People v. Williams (2001) 26 Cal.4th 779, 790 [111 Cal.Rptr.2d 114, 29 P.3d 197].
- Least Touching. People v. Myers (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 328, 335 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 518] [citing People v. Rocha (1971) 3 Cal.3d 893, 899–900, fn. 12 [92 Cal.Rptr. 172, 479 P.2d 372]].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 45.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.11, 142.11A[1] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

917. Insulting Words Are Not a Defense

Words, no matter how offensive, and acts that are not threatening, are not enough to justify an assault or battery.

[However, if you conclude that _____ <insert name> spoke or acted in a way that threatened _____ <insert name of defendant or third party allegedly threatened> with immediate harm [[or an unlawful touching]/ [or] great bodily injury/ [or] trespass on land/ [or] trespass against goods], you may consider that evidence in deciding whether _____ <insert name of defendant> acted in (self-defense/ [or] defense of others).]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

There is no sua sponte duty to give this instruction. It is no defense to battery or assault that insulting or offensive words, or acts that fall short of a threat of immediate harm, were used. (People v. Mayes (1968) 262 Cal.App.2d 195, 197 [68 Cal.Rptr. 476]; People v. Mueller (1956) 147 Cal.App.2d 233, 239–240 [305 P.2d 178].)

If the evidence raises the issue of defense of self or others, give the bracketed paragraph along with any other appropriate defense instruction. (See People v. Johnston (2003) 113 Cal.App.4th 1299, 1303 [7 Cal.Rptr.3d 161]; see CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. See People v. Davis (1995) 10 Cal.4th 463, 542 [41 Cal.Rptr.2d 826, 896 P.2d 119]; People v. Mueller (1956) 147 Cal.App.2d 233, 239–240 [305 P.2d 178].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 6.

3 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 73, Defenses and Justifications, § 73.11 (Matthew Bender).

918–924. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

E. BATTERY

(i) Causing Injury

925. Battery Causing Serious Bodily Injury (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243(d))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with battery causing serious bodily injury [in violation of Penal Code section 243(d)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this charge, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant willfully [and unlawfully] touched _____ <insert name> in a harmful or offensive manner;

[AND]

2. _____ <insert name> suffered serious bodily injury as a result of the force used(;/.)

<Give element 3 when instructing on self-defense, defense of another, or reasonable discipline.>

[AND

3. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else/ [or] while reasonably disciplining a child).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough to commit a battery.

[A serious bodily injury means a serious impairment of physical condition. Such an injury may include[, but is not limited to]: (loss of consciousness/ concussion/ bone fracture/ protracted loss or impairment of function of any bodily member or organ/ a wound requiring extensive suturing/ [and] serious disfigurement).]

[_____ <Insert description of injury when appropriate; see Bench Notes> is a serious bodily injury.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or someone else] to touch the other person.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 3, the bracketed words "and unlawfully" in element 1, and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

If there is sufficient evidence of reasonable parental discipline, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 3, the bracketed words "and unlawfully" in element 1, and CALCRIM No. 3405, Parental Right to Punish a Child.

Whether the complaining witness suffered a serious bodily injury is a question for the jury to determine. If the defendant disputes that the injury suffered was a serious bodily injury, use the first bracketed paragraph. If the parties stipulate that the injury suffered was a serious bodily injury, use the second bracketed paragraph.

Give the final bracketed paragraph if indirect touching is an issue.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243(d); see People v. Martinez (1970) 3 Cal.App.3d 886, 889 [83 Cal.Rptr. 914] [harmful or offensive touching].
- Serious Bodily Injury Defined. Pen. Code, § 243(f)(4); People v. Burroughs (1984) 35 Cal.3d 824, 831 [201 Cal.Rptr. 319, 678 P.2d 894] [serious bodily injury and great bodily injury are essentially equivalent elements], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Blakeley (2000) 23 Cal.4th 82, 89 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 451, 999 P.2d 675]; People v. Taylor (2004) 118 Cal.App.4th 11, 25, fn. 4 [12 Cal.Rptr.3d 693].
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(1); People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Defense of Parental Discipline. People v. Whitehurst (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1045, 1051 [12 Cal.Rptr.2d 33].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 12–14, 39.

5 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 91, Sentencing, § 91.35 (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.12 (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Battery. Pen. Code, § 242.

Assault by means of force likely to produce great bodily injury is not a lesser included offense. (Pen. Code, § 245; In re Jose H. (2000) 77 Cal.App.4th 1090, 1095 [92 Cal.Rptr.2d 228].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

926. Battery Causing Injury to Specified Victim Not a Peace Officer (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243(b)–(c)(1))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with battery against (a/an) _____ <insert title specified in Pen. Code, § 243(c)(1)> [in violation of Penal Code section 243].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this charge, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant willfully [and unlawfully] touched _____ <insert name> in a harmful or offensive manner;

<Alternative 2A—specified person performing duties>

[2. When the defendant acted, _____ <insert name> was a _____ <insert title specified in Pen. Code, §243(c)(1)> and was performing the duties of (a/an) _____ <insert title specified in Pen. Code, § 243(c)(1)>;]

<Alternative 2B—nurse or doctor>

[2. When the defendant used that force, _____ <insert name> was a (nurse/medical doctor) who was giving emergency medical care outside of a hospital, clinic, or other health care facility;]

[AND]

3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) knew or reasonably should have known, that _____ <insert name> was (a/an) _____ <insert title specified in Pen. Code, § 243(c)(1)> who was performing (his/her) duties(;/.)

<Give element 4 when the defendant is charged with Pen. Code, § 243(c)(1).>

[AND

4. _____ <insert name> suffered injury as a result of the force used(;/.)]

<Give element 5 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[AND

(4/5). The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough to commit a battery.

[The duties of (a/an) _____ <insert title specified in Pen. Code, § 243(c)(1)> include _____ <insert appropriate list of job duties from statutory definition of professions, if available>.]

[It does not matter whether _____ <insert name> was actually on duty at the time.]

[An injury is any physical injury that requires professional medical treatment. The question whether an injury requires such treatment cannot be answered simply by deciding whether or not a person sought or received treatment. You may consider those facts, but you must decide this question based on the nature, extent, and seriousness of the injury itself.]

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or someone else] to touch the other person.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime. This instruction should be used when the alleged victim is not a peace officer. If the alleged victim is a peace officer, use CALCRIM No. 945, Battery Against Peace Officer.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 2, the bracketed words "and unlawfully" in element 1, and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

If the alleged victim is a doctor or nurse, give element 2B. Otherwise give element 2A.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If the defendant is charged under Penal Code section 243(c)(1), give bracketed element 4 and the definition of "injury." If the defendant is charged with misdemeanor battery under Penal Code section 243(b), do not give element 4 or the definition of "injury"

Give the appropriate list of job duties for the alleged victim's profession from the current Penal Code section, if one is provided. Emergency medical technician, nurse, custodial officer, lifeguard, traffic officer, and animal control officer are defined in Penal Code section 243(f). Firefighter is defined in Penal Code section 245.1. If a definition is provided in the statute, it should be given. (See People v. Lara (1994) 30 Cal.App.4th 658, 669 [35 Cal.Rptr.2d 886].)

Give the final bracketed paragraph if indirect touching is an issue.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243(b)–(c)(1); see People v. Martinez (1970) 3 Cal.App.3d 886, 889 [83 Cal.Rptr. 914] [harmful or offensive touching].
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(1); People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Injury Defined. Pen. Code, § 243(f)(6); People v. Longoria (1995) 34 Cal.App.4th 12, 17 [40 Cal.Rptr.2d 213].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 12–14, 20, 66, 67.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.12 (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

People v. Longoria (1995) 34 Cal.App.4th 12, 17 [40 Cal.Rptr.2d 213], explains the meaning of injury as defined in the statute:

> It is the nature, extent, and seriousness of the injury—not the inclination or disinclination of the victim to seek medical treatment—which is determinative. A peace officer who obtains "medical treatment" when none is required, has not sustained an "injury" within the meaning of section 243, subdivision (c). And a peace officer who does not obtain "medical treatment" when such treatment is required, has sustained an "injury" within the meaning of section 243, subdivision (c). The test is objective and factual.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Assault on Specified Victim. Pen. Code, § 241(b).
- Battery. Pen. Code, § 242.
- Misdemeanor Battery on Specified Victim. Pen. Code, § 243(b).
- Resisting Officer. Pen. Code, § 148.

927–934. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(ii) Sexual Battery

935. Sexual Battery: Felony (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.4(a) & (d))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with sexual battery [in violation of Penal Code section 243.4].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant [or an accomplice] unlawfully restrained _____ <insert name of complaining witness>;

<Alternative 2A—defendant touched>

[2. While _____ <insert name of complaining witness> was restrained, the defendant touched an intimate part of _____ <insert name of complaining witness>;]

<Alternative 2B—caused complaining witness to touch>

[2. While _____ <insert name of complaining witness> was restrained, the defendant (caused _____ <insert name of complaining witness> to touch (his/her) own intimate part/ [or] caused _____ <insert name of complaining witness> to touch the intimate part of defendant [or someone else]);]

3. The touching was done against _____'s <insert name of complaining witness> will;

AND

4. The touching was done for the specific purpose of sexual arousal, sexual gratification, or sexual abuse.

An intimate part is a female's breast or the anus, groin, sexual organ or buttocks of anyone.

Contact must have been made with _____'s <insert name of complaining witness> bare skin. This means that:

1. The defendant must have touched the bare skin of _____'s <insert name of complaining witness> intimate part;

OR

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

2. _____'s <insert name of complaining witness> bare skin must have touched the defendant's [or _____'s <insert name or description of third person>] intimate part either directly or through (his/her) clothing.

Someone is unlawfully restrained when his or her liberty is controlled by words, acts, or authority of another and the restraint is against his or her will. Unlawful restraint requires more than just the physical force necessary to accomplish the sexual touching. [A person does not unlawfully restrain someone if he or she only uses lawful authority for a lawful purpose.]

[A touching is done against a person's will if that person does not consent to it. To consent, a person must act freely and voluntarily and know the nature of the touching.]

[A person is an accomplice if he or she is subject to prosecution for the identical crime charged against the defendant. Someone is subject to prosecution if he or she personally committed the crime or if:

1. He or she knew of the criminal purpose of the person who committed the crime;

AND

2. He or she intended to, and did in fact, (aid, facilitate, promote, encourage, or instigate the commission of the crime/ [or] participate in a criminal conspiracy to commit the crime).]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Give either alternative 2A or 2B depending on the evidence in the case. The committee has concluded that the direct touching requirement for felony sexual battery is satisfied when (1) the defendant forces the alleged victim to touch the defendant's intimate parts through the defendant's clothing with the alleged victim's bare skin; (2) the defendant forces the alleged victim to touch any part of the defendant with the victim's unclothed intimate part, whether the defendant's body is clothed or not; or (3) the defendant touches the alleged victim's bare intimate part either directly or through clothing. If a defendant is only charged under Penal Code section 243.4(a), the defendant must touch the victim's intimate part, not the other way around. (People v. Elam (2001) 91 Cal.App.4th 298, 309–310 [110 Cal.Rptr.2d 185].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

The committee omitted the word "masturbate" from the elements because the plain language of Penal Code section 243.4(d) requires only that the victim be compelled to touch him- or herself, and a further finding of whether that act of touching was actually masturbation is unnecessary.

Give the bracketed definition of "against a person's will" on request.

If the court gives the bracketed phrase "or an accomplice" in element 1, the court must also give the bracketed definition of "accomplice." (People v. Verlinde (2002) 100 Cal.App.4th 1146, 1167–1168 [123 Cal.Rptr.2d 322].) Additional paragraphs providing further explanation of the definition of "accomplice" are contained in CALCRIM No. 334, Accomplice Testimony Must Be Corroborated: Dispute Whether Witness Is Accomplice. The court should review that instruction and determine whether any of these additional paragraphs should be given.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.4(a) & (d).
- Intimate Part. Pen. Code, § 243.4(g)(1).
- Touches Defined. Pen. Code, § 243.4(f).
- Otherwise Lawful Restraint for Unlawful Purpose. People v. Alford (1991) 235 Cal.App.3d 799, 803–804 [286 Cal.Rptr. 762].
- Sexual Abuse Defined. People v. White (1986) 179 Cal.App.3d 193, 205 [224 Cal.Rptr. 467] [discussing Pen. Code, § 289].
- Specific Intent Crime. People v. Chavez (2000) 84 Cal.App.4th 25, 29 [100 Cal.Rptr.2d 680].
- Caused to Masturbate. People v. Reeves (2001) 91 Cal.App.4th 14, 50 [109 Cal.Rptr.2d 728].
- Accomplice Defined. See Pen. Code, § 1111; People v. Verlinde (2002) 100 Cal.App.4th 1146, 1167–1168 [123 Cal.Rptr.2d 322]; People v. Stankewitz (1990) 51 Cal.3d 72, 90–91 [270 Cal.Rptr. 817, 793 P.2d 23].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 26, 74–76.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.22[1] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Misdemeanor Sexual Battery. Pen. Code, § 243.4(e)(1).

COMMENTARY

In a case addressing the meaning of "for the purpose of . . . sexual abuse" in the context of Penal Code section 289, one court stated, "when a penetration is accomplished for the purpose of causing pain, injury or discomfort, it becomes sexual abuse, even though the perpetrator may not necessarily achieve any sexual arousal or gratification whatsoever." (People v. White (1986) 179 Cal.App.3d 193, 205 [224 Cal.Rptr. 467].) If the court concludes it this reasoning applies to the crime sexual battery and a party requests a definition of "sexual abuse," the following language can be used:

> Sexual abuse means any touching of a person's intimate parts in order to cause pain, injury, or discomfort. The perpetrator does not need to achieve any sexual arousal or sexual gratification.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

936. Sexual Battery on Institutionalized Victim (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.4(b) & (d))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with sexual battery [in violation of Penal Code section 243.4].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

<Alternative 1A—defendant touched>

[1. While _____ <insert name of complaining witness> was institutionalized for medical treatment and was seriously disabled or medically incapacitated, the defendant touched an intimate part of _____ <insert name of complaining witness>;]

<Alternative 1B—caused complaining witness to touch>

[1. While _____ <insert name of complaining witness> was institutionalized for medical treatment and was seriously disabled or medically incapacitated, the defendant (caused _____ <insert name of complaining witness> to touch (his/her) own intimate part/ [or] caused _____ <insert name of complaining witness> to touch the intimate part of defendant [or someone else]);]

2. The touching was done against _____'s <insert name of complaining witness> will;

AND

3. The touching was done for the specific purpose of sexual arousal, sexual gratification, or sexual abuse.

An intimate part is a female's breast or the anus, groin, sexual organ or buttocks of anyone.

Contact must have been made with _____'s <insert name of complaining witness> bare skin. This means that:

1. The defendant must have touched the bare skin of _____'s <insert name of complaining witness> intimate part;

OR

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

2. _____'s <insert name of complaining witness> bare skin must have touched the defendant's [or _____'s <insert name or description of third person>] intimate part either directly or through (his/her) clothing.

[Someone is institutionalized if he or she is a patient in a hospital, medical treatment facility, nursing home, acute care facility, or mental hospital.]

[Someone is seriously disabled if he or she has severe physical or sensory disabilities.]

[Someone is medically incapacitated if he or she is incapacitated because of prescribed sedatives, anesthesia, or other medication.]

[An act is done against a person's will if that person does not consent to the act. In order to consent, a person must act freely and voluntarily and know the nature of the act.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Give either alternative 2A or 2B depending on the evidence in the case. The committee has concluded that the direct touching requirement for felony sexual battery is satisfied when (1) the defendant forces the alleged victim to touch the defendant's intimate parts through the defendant's clothing with the alleged victim's bare skin; (2) the defendant forces the alleged victim to touch any part of the defendant with the victim's unclothed intimate part, whether the defendant's body is clothed or not; or (3) the defendant touches the alleged victim's bare intimate part either directly or through clothing. If a defendant is only charged under Penal Code section 243.4(a), the defendant must touch the victim's intimate part, not the other way around. (People v. Elam (2001) 91 Cal.App.4th 298, 309–310 [110 Cal.Rptr.2d 185].)

The committee omitted the word "masturbate" from the elements because the plain language of Penal Code section 243.4(d) requires only that the victim be compelled to touch him- or herself, and a further finding of whether that act of touching was actually masturbation is unnecessary.

Give the bracketed definition of "against a person's will" on request.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.4(b) & (d).
- Institutionalized. Pen. Code, § 243.4(g)(5).
- Intimate Part. Pen. Code, § 243.4(g)(1).
- Medically Incapacitated. Pen. Code, § 243.4(g)(4).
- Seriously Disabled. Pen. Code, § 243.4(g)(3).
- Touches Defined. Pen. Code, § 243.4(f).
- Sexual Abuse Defined. People v. White (1986) 179 Cal.App.3d 193, 205 [224 Cal.Rptr. 467].
- Specific Intent Crime. People v. Chavez (2000) 84 Cal.App.4th 25, 29 [100 Cal.Rptr.2d 680].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 26.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.22[1] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Misdemeanor Sexual Battery. Pen. Code, § 243.4(e)(1).

COMMENTARY

In a case addressing the meaning of "for the purpose of . . . sexual abuse" in the context of Penal Code section 289, one court stated, "when a penetration is accomplished for the purpose of causing pain, injury or discomfort, it becomes sexual abuse, even though the perpetrator may not necessarily achieve any sexual arousal or gratification whatsoever." (People v. White (1986) 179 Cal.App.3d 193, 205 [224 Cal.Rptr. 467].) If the court concludes it this reasoning applies to the crime sexual battery and a party requests a definition of "sexual abuse," the following language can be used:

> Sexual abuse means any touching of a person's intimate parts in order to cause pain, injury, or discomfort. The perpetrator does not need to achieve any sexual arousal or sexual gratification.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

937. Sexual Battery: By Fraudulent Representation (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.4(c))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with sexual battery by fraudulent representation [in violation of Penal Code section 243.4(c)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant touched an intimate part of _____'s <insert name of complaining witness> body;
2. The touching was done for the specific purpose of sexual arousal, sexual gratification, or sexual abuse;
3. The defendant fraudulently represented that the touching served a professional purpose;

AND

4. The person touched was not conscious of the sexual nature of the act because of the fraudulent representation.

An intimate part is a female's breast or the anus, groin, sexual organ or buttocks of anyone.

Contact must have been made with _____'s <insert name of complaining witness> bare skin. This means that the defendant must have touched the bare skin of _____'s <insert name of complaining witness> intimate part either directly or though the defendant's clothing.

A person is not conscious of the sexual nature of the act if he or she is not aware of the essential characteristics of the act because the perpetrator fraudulently represented that the touching served a professional purpose when it did not.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.4(c).
- Intimate Part Defined. Pen. Code, § 243.4(g)(1).
- Touches Defined. Pen. Code, § 243.4(f).
- Unconscious of Nature of Act Defined. See Pen. Code, § 261(a)(4)(D) [in context of rape].
- Sexual Abuse Defined. People v. White (1986) 179 Cal.App.3d 193, 205 [224 Cal.Rptr. 467].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 74.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.22[1] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Neither sexual battery nor attempted sexual battery is a lesser included offense of sexual battery by fraudulent representation. People v. Babaali (2009) 171 Cal.App.4th 982, 1000 [90 Cal.Rptr.3d 278].

COMMENTARY

In a case addressing the meaning of for the "purpose of . . . sexual abuse" in the context of Penal Code section 289, one court stated, "when a penetration is accomplished for the purpose of causing pain, injury or discomfort, it becomes sexual abuse, even though the perpetrator may not necessarily achieve any sexual arousal or gratification whatsoever." (People v. White (1986) 179 Cal.App.3d 193, 205 [224 Cal.Rptr. 467].) If the court concludes it this reasoning applies to the crime sexual battery and a party requests a definition of "sexual abuse," the following language can be used:

> Sexual abuse means any touching of a person's intimate parts in order to cause pain, injury, or discomfort. The perpetrator does not need to achieve any sexual arousal or sexual gratification.

RELATED ISSUES

Consent Obtained by Fraudulent Representation

A person may induce someone else to consent to engage in a sexual act by a false or fraudulent representation made with an intent to create fear, and which does induce fear and would cause a reasonable person to act contrary to his or her free will. (Pen. Code, § 266c.) While section 266c requires coercion and fear to obtain consent, it does not involve physical force or violence. (See People v. Cardenas (1994) 21 Cal.App.4th 927, 937–938 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 567].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

938. Sexual Battery: Misdemeanor (Pen. Code, § 243.4(e)(1))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with sexual battery [in violation of Penal Code section 243.4(e)(1)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant touched an intimate part of _____ <insert name of complaining witness>;
2. The touching was done against _____'s <insert name of complaining witness> will;

AND

3. The touching was done for the specific purpose of sexual arousal, sexual gratification, or sexual abuse.

An intimate part is a female's breast or the anus, groin, sexual organ, or buttocks of anyone.

Touching*, as used here, means making physical contact with another person. Touching includes contact made through the clothing.

[An act is done against a person's will if that person does not consent to the act. In order to consent, a person must act freely and voluntarily and know the nature of the act.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Give the bracketed definition of "against a person's will" on request.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 243.4(e)(1).
- Touches Defined. Pen. Code, § 243.4(e)(2).
- Intimate Part Defined. Pen. Code, § 243.4(g)(1).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Consent Defined. Pen. Code, §§ 261.6, 261.7.
- Specific-Intent Crime. People v. Chavez (2000) 84 Cal.App.4th 25, 29 [100 Cal.Rptr.2d 680].
- Defendant Must Touch Intimate Part of Victim. People v. Elam (2001) 91 Cal.App.4th 298, 309–310 [110 Cal.Rptr.2d 185].
- Defendant Need Not Touch Skin. People v. Dayan (1995) 34 Cal.App.4th 707, 716 [40 Cal.Rptr.2d 391].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 26.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.22[2] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

In a case addressing the meaning of for the "purpose of . . . sexual abuse" in the context of Penal Code section 289, one court has stated that "when a penetration is accomplished for the purpose of causing pain, injury or discomfort, it becomes sexual abuse, even though the perpetrator may not necessarily achieve any sexual arousal or gratification whatsoever." (People v. White (1986) 179 Cal.App.3d 193, 205 [224 Cal.Rptr. 467].) If the court concludes that this reasoning applies to the crime of sexual battery and a party requests a definition of "sexual abuse," the following language may be used:

> Sexual abuse means any touching of a person's intimate parts in order to cause pain, injury, or discomfort. The perpetrator does not need to achieve any sexual arousal or sexual gratification.

939–944. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(iii) On Specified Person or in Specified Location

945. Battery Against Peace Officer (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243(b), (c)(2))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with battery against a peace officer [in violation of Penal Code section 243].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. _____ <Insert officer's name, excluding title> was a peace officer performing the duties of (a/an) _____ <insert title of peace officer specified in Pen. Code, § 830 et seq.>;
2. The defendant willfully [and unlawfully] touched _____ <insert officer's name, excluding title> in a harmful or offensive manner;

[AND]

3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) knew, or reasonably should have known, that _____ <insert officer's name, excluding title> was a peace officer who was performing (his/her) duties(;/.)

<Give element 4 when instructing on felony battery against a peace officer.>

[AND

4. _____ <insert officer's name, excluding title> suffered injury as a result of the touching(;/.)]

<Give element 5 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

5. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

<Do not give this paragraph when instructing on felony battery against a peace officer.>

[The slightest touching can be enough to commit a battery if it is done in a rude or angry way. Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough. The touching does not have to cause pain or injury of any kind.]

<Give this definition when instructing on felony battery against a peace officer.>

[An injury is any physical injury that requires professional medical treatment. The question whether an injury requires such treatment cannot be answered simply by deciding whether or not a person sought or received treatment. You may consider those facts, but you must decide this question based on the nature, extent, and seriousness of the injury itself.]

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or someone else] to touch the other person.]

[A person who is employed as a police officer by _____ <insert name of agency that employs police officer> is a peace officer.]

[A person employed by _____ <insert name of agency that employs peace officer, e.g., "the Department of Fish and Game"> is a peace officer if _____ <insert description of facts necessary to make employee a peace officer, e.g, "designated by the director of the agency as a peace officer">.]

[The duties of a _____ <insert title of officer> include _____ <insert job duties>.]

[It does not matter whether _____ <insert officer's name, excluding title> was actually on duty at the time.]

[A _____ <insert title of peace officer specified in Pen. Code, § 830 et seq.> is also performing the duties of a peace officer if (he/she) is in a police uniform and performing the duties required of (him/her) as a peace officer and, at the same time, is working in a private capacity as a part-time or casual private security guard or (patrolman/patrolwoman).]

New January 2006; Revised August 2006, December 2008, October 2010

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 5, the bracketed words "and unlawfully" in element 2, and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

In addition, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on defendant's reliance on self-defense as it relates to the use of excessive force. (People v. White (1980) 101 Cal.App.3d 161, 167–168 [161 Cal.Rptr. 541].) If excessive force is an issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct the jury that the defendant is not guilty of the offense charged, or any lesser included offense in which lawful performance is an element, if the defendant used reasonable force in response to excessive force. (People v. Olguin (1981) 119 Cal.App.3d 39, 46–47 [173 Cal.Rptr. 663].) On request, the court must instruct that the prosecution has the burden of proving the lawfulness of the arrest beyond a reasonable doubt. (People v. Castain (1981) 122 Cal.App.3d 138, 145 [175 Cal.Rptr. 651].) If lawful performance is an issue, give the appropriate portions of CALCRIM No. 2670, Lawful Performance: Peace Officer. In addition, give CALCRIM No. 2672, Lawful Performance: Resisting Unlawful Arrest With Force, if requested.

Give the bracketed paragraph on indirect touching if that is an issue.

The jury must determine whether the alleged victim is a peace officer. (People v. Brown (1988) 46 Cal.3d 432, 444–445 [250 Cal.Rptr. 604, 758 P.2d 1135].) The court may instruct the jury on the appropriate definition of "peace officer" from the statute (e.g., "a Garden Grove Regular Police Officer and a Garden Grove Reserve Police Officer are peace officers"). (Ibid.) However, the court may not instruct the jury that the alleged victim was a peace officer as a matter of law (e.g., "Officer Reed was a peace officer"). (Ibid.) If the alleged victim is a police officer, give the bracketed sentence that begins with "A person employed as a police officer." If the alleged victim is another type of peace officer, give the bracketed sentence that begins with "A person employed by."

The court may give the bracketed sentence that begins, "The duties of a _____ <insert title . . .> include," on request. The court may insert a description of the officer's duties such as "the correct service of a facially valid search warrant." (People v. Gonzalez (1990) 51 Cal.3d 1179, 1222 [275 Cal.Rptr. 729, 800 P.2d 1159].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Give the bracketed language about a peace officer working in a private capacity if relevant. (Pen. Code, § 70.)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243(b), (c)(2); see People v. Martinez (1970) 3 Cal.App.3d 886, 889 [83 Cal.Rptr. 914] [harmful or offensive touching].
- Peace Officer Defined. Pen. Code, § 830 et seq.
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(1); People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Physical Injury Defined. Pen. Code, § 243(f)(5); People v. Longoria (1995) 34 Cal.App.4th 12, 17–18 [40 Cal.Rptr.2d 213].
- Least Touching. People v. Myers (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 328, 335 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 518] [citing People v. Rocha (1971) 3 Cal.3d 893, 899–900, fn. 12 [92 Cal.Rptr. 172, 479 P.2d 372]].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 5.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.12 (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Assault on Specified Victim. Pen. Code, § 241(b).
- Battery. Pen. Code, § 242.
- Misdemeanor Battery on Specified Victim. Pen. Code, § 243(b).
- Resisting Officer. Pen. Code, § 148.

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues sections to CALCRIM No. 960, Simple Battery and 2670, Lawful Performance: Peace Officer.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

946. Battery Against Custodial Officer (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.1)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with battery against a custodial officer [in violation of Penal Code section 243.1].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. _____ <insert officer's name, excluding title> was a custodial officer performing the duties of a custodial officer;
2. The defendant willfully [and unlawfully] touched _____ <insert officer's name, excluding title> in a harmful or offensive manner;

[AND]

3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) knew, or reasonably should have known, that _____ <insert officer's name, excluding title> was a custodial officer who was performing (his/her) duties(;/.)

<Give element 4 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

4. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

The slightest touching can be enough to commit a battery if it is done in a rude or angry way. Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough. The touching does not have to cause pain or injury of any kind.

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or someone else] to touch the other person.]

A custodial officer is someone who works for a law enforcement agency of a city or county, is responsible for maintaining custody of prisoners, and helps operate a local detention facility. [A (county jail/city jail/ _____ <insert description>) is a local detention facility.] [A custodial officer is not a peace officer.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

<When lawful performance is an issue, give the following paragraph and Instruction 2671, Lawful Performance: Custodial Officer.>

[A custodial officer is not lawfully performing his or her duties if he or she is using unreasonable or excessive force in his or her duties. Instruction 2671 explains when force is unreasonable or excessive.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 4, the bracketed words "and unlawfully" in element 2, and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

In addition, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on defendant's reliance on self-defense as it relates to the use of excessive force. (People v. White (1980) 101 Cal.App.3d 161, 167–168 [161 Cal.Rptr. 541].) If excessive force is an issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct the jury that the defendant is not guilty of the offense charged, or any lesser included offense in which lawful performance is an element, if the defendant used reasonable force in response to excessive force. (People v. Olguin (1981) 119 Cal.App.3d 39, 46–47 [173 Cal.Rptr. 663].) If lawful performance is an issue, give the bracketed paragraph on lawful performance and the appropriate portions of CALCRIM No. 2671, Lawful Performance: Custodial Officer.

Give the bracketed paragraph on indirect touching if that is an issue.

The jury must determine whether the alleged victim is a custodial officer. (See People v. Brown (1988) 46 Cal.3d 432, 444–445 [250 Cal.Rptr. 604, 758 P.2d 1135] [discussing definition of "peace officer"].) The court may instruct the jury on the appropriate definition of "custodial officer" from the statute. (Ibid.) However, the court may not instruct the jury that the alleged victim was a custodial officer as a matter of. (Ibid.)

If there is a dispute about whether the site of an alleged crime is a local detention facility, see Penal Code section 6031.4.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.1; see In re Rochelle B. (1996) 49 Cal.App.4th 1212, 1221 [57 Cal.Rptr.2d 851] [section 243.1 applies only to batteries committed against custodial officers in adult penal institutions]; People v. Martinez (1970) 3 Cal.App.3d 886, 889 [83 Cal.Rptr. 914] [harmful or offensive touching].
- Custodial Officer Defined. Pen. Code, § 831.
- Local Detention Facility Defined. Pen. Code, § 6031.4.
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(1); People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Least Touching. People v. Myers (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 328, 335 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 518] [citing People v. Rocha (1971) 3 Cal.3d 893, 899–900, fn. 12 [92 Cal.Rptr. 172, 479 P.2d 372]].
- Statute Constitutional. People v. Wilkinson (2004) 33 Cal.4th 821, 840–841 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 420, 94 P.3d 551].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 12–14, 67.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.12 (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Battery on Person Not Confined. Pen. Code, § 4131.5.

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues sections to CALCRIM No. 960, Simple Battery, and CALCRIM No. 2671, Lawful Performance: Custodial Officer.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

947. Simple Battery on Military Personnel (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.10)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with battery against a member of the United States Armed Forces [in violation of Penal Code section 243.10].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant willfully [and unlawfully] touched _____ <insert name of complaining witness> in a harmful or offensive manner;
2. _____ <insert name of complaining witness> was a member of the United States Armed Forces at the time of the touching;

[AND]

3. The defendant knew _____ <insert name of complaining witness> was a member of the United States Armed Forces and touched _____ <insert name of complaining witness> in a harmful or offensive manner because of _____ <insert name of complaining witness>'s service(;/.)

<Give element 4 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

4. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

The slightest touching can be enough to commit a battery if it is done in a rude or angry way. Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough. The touching does not have to cause pain or injury of any kind.

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or someone else] to touch the other person.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

A _____ <insert description, e.g., "private in the United States Army"> is a member of the United States Armed Forces.

A person commits a battery because of someone's service in the armed forces if:

1. He or she is biased against the person battered based on that person's military service;

AND

2. That bias caused him or her to commit the alleged battery.

If the defendant had more than one reason to commit the alleged battery, the bias described here must have been a substantial motivating factor. A substantial factor is more than a trivial or remote factor. However, it does not need to be the only factor that motivated the battery.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 3 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

Give the bracketed paragraph on indirect touching if that is an issue.

The jury must determine whether the alleged victim is a member of the armed forces. (See People v. Brown (1988) 46 Cal.3d 432, 444–445 [250 Cal.Rptr. 604, 758 P.2d 1135].) The court may instruct the jury on the appropriate definition of "member of the armed forces." However, the court may not instruct the jury that the alleged victim was a member of the armed forces as a matter of law. (Ibid.)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.10.
- Willfully Defined. Pen. Code, § 7, subd. 1; People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Least Touching. People v. Myers (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 328, 335 [71

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.Rptr.2d 518] [citing People v. Rocha (1971) 3 Cal.3d 893, 899–900, fn. 12 [92 Cal.Rptr. 172, 479 P.2d 372]].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 19.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.12 (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Simple Battery. Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243(a).

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section of CALCRIM No. 960, Simple Battery.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

948. Battery Against Transportation Personnel or Passenger (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.3)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with battery against (a/an) (operator/driver/ passenger/station agent/ticket agent) of (a/an) _____ <insert name of vehicle or transportation entity specified in Pen. Code, § 243.3> [in violation of Penal Code section 243.3].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. _____ <Insert name> was (a/an) (operator/driver/ station agent/ticket agent/passenger) of (a/an) _____ <insert name of vehicle or transportation entity specified in Pen. Code, § 243.3>;
2. The defendant willfully [and unlawfully] touched _____ <insert name> in a harmful or offensive manner;

<Give element 3 when alleged victim is an operator, driver, station agent, or ticket agent.>

[3. When the defendant acted, _____ <insert name> was performing (his/her) duties as (a/an) (operator/driver/station agent/ticket agent) of (a/an) _____ <insert name of vehicle or transportation entity specified in Pen. Code, § 243.3>;]

[AND]

4. When the defendant acted, (he/she) knew, or reasonably should have known, that _____ <insert name> was (a/an) (operator/driver/station agent/ticket agent/passenger) of (a/an) _____ <insert name of vehicle or transportation entity specified in Pen. Code, § 243.3> and that _____ <insert name> was performing (his/her) duties

<Give element 5 when the defendant is charged with felony battery based on injury.>

[AND]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[5. _____ <insert name> suffered an injury as a result of the force used(;/.)]

<Give element 6 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

6. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough to commit a battery. [The slightest touching can be enough if it is done in a rude or angry way.] [The touching does not have to cause pain or injury of any kind.]

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or someone else] to touch the other person.]

[An injury is any physical injury that requires professional medical treatment. The question whether an injury requires such treatment cannot be answered simply by deciding whether or not a person sought or received treatment. You may consider those facts, but you must decide this question based on the nature, extent, and seriousness of the injury itself.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 6, the bracketed words "and unlawfully" in element 2, and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

If the alleged victim was an operator, driver, station agent, or ticket agent of a statutorily specified vehicle or transportation entity, give bracketed element 3 and the bracketed language in element 4. If the alleged victim was a passenger, omit bracketed element 3 and the bracketed language in element 4.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Give bracketed element 5 and the bracketed definition of "injury" if the defendant is charged with felony battery based on an injury to the alleged victim. (See Pen. Code, § 243.3.)

Give the final bracketed paragraph if indirect touching is an issue.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.3; see People v. Martinez (1970) 3 Cal.App.3d 886, 889 [83 Cal.Rptr. 914] [harmful or offensive touching].
- Injury Defined. Pen. Code, § 243(f)(6); People v. Longoria (1995) 34 Cal.App.4th 12, 17 [40 Cal.Rptr.2d 213].
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(1); People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Least Touching. People v. Myers (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 328, 335 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 518] [citing People v. Rocha (1971) 3 Cal.3d 893, 899–900, fn. 12 [92 Cal.Rptr. 172, 479 P.2d 372]].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 12–14, 20, 72, pp. 645–647, 650–651, 689.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.12 (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Battery. Pen. Code, § 242.

If the defendant is charged with felony battery on transportation personnel or passenger based on an injury to the alleged victim, then the misdemeanor battery on the specified victim is a lesser included offense. (See Pen. Code, § 243.3.)

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues sections to CALCRIM No. 960, Simple Battery.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

949. Battery Against School Employee (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.6)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with battery against a school employee [in violation of Penal Code section 243.6].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. _____ <Insert name> was a school employee;
2. The defendant willfully [and unlawfully] touched _____ <insert name> in a harmful or offensive manner;

<Alternative 3A—performing duties>

[3. When the defendant acted, _____ <insert name> was performing (his/her) duties as a school employee;]

<Alternative 3B—retaliation>

[3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) was retaliating against _____ <insert name> because of something _____ <insert name> had done while performing (his/her) duties as a school employee;]

[AND]

4. When the defendant acted, (he/she) knew, or reasonably should have known, that _____ <insert name> was a school employee(;/.)

<Give element 5 when the defendant is charged with felony battery based on injury.>

[AND]

[5. _____ <insert name> suffered injury as a result of the force used(;/.)]

<Give element 6 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

6. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough to commit a battery. [The slightest touching can be enough if it is done in a rude or angry way.] [The touching does not have to cause pain or injury of any kind.]

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or someone else] to touch the other person.]

[It is not a defense that the touching occurred off campus or outside regular school hours.]

A school employee is any person employed as a permanent or probationary certificated or classified employee of a school district on a part-time or full-time basis, including a substitute teacher, student teacher, or school board member.

[An injury is any physical injury that requires professional medical treatment. The question whether an injury requires such treatment cannot be answered simply by deciding whether or not a person sought or received treatment. You may consider those facts, but you must decide this question based on the nature, extent, and seriousness of the injury itself.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 6, the bracketed words "and unlawfully" in element 2, and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

Give alternative 3A or 3B, depending on whether there is evidence that the defendant used force while the employee was performing job duties or used force in retaliation for something the employee previously did while performing job duties. (See Pen. Code, § 243.6.)

Give element 5 and the bracketed definition of "injury" if the defendant is charged with a felony based on an injury to the alleged victim. (See Pen. Code, § 243.6.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Give the bracketed paragraph on touching if indirect touching is an issue.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.6; People v. Martinez (1970) 3 Cal.App.3d 886, 889 [83 Cal.Rptr. 914] [harmful or offensive touching].
- Injury Defined. Pen. Code, § 243(f)(6); People v. Longoria (1995) 34 Cal.App.4th 12, 17 [40 Cal.Rptr.2d 213].
- School Employee Defined. Pen. Code, § 245.5(d).
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(1); People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Least Touching. People v. Myers (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 328, 335 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 518] [citing People v. Rocha (1971) 3 Cal.3d 893, 899–900, fn. 12 [92 Cal.Rptr. 172, 479 P.2d 372]].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 12–14, 73.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.12; Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.02 (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Battery. Pen. Code, § 242.

If the defendant is charged with felony battery on a school employee based on an injury to the alleged victim, then the misdemeanor battery on the specified victim is a lesser included offense. (See Pen. Code, § 243.6.)

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues sections to CALCRIM No. 960, Simple Battery.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

950. Battery Against a Juror (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.7)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with battery against a juror [in violation of Penal Code section 243.7].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant was a party to a case for which a jury had been selected;
2. _____ <insert name> had been sworn as a juror [or alternate juror] to decide that case;

[AND]

3. The defendant willfully [and unlawfully] touched _____ <insert name> in a harmful or offensive manner(;/.)

<Give element 4 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

4. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

The slightest touching can be enough to commit a battery if it is done in a rude or angry way. Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough. The touching does not have to cause pain or injury of any kind.

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or someone else] to touch the other person.]

[The touching may have taken place either while the case was pending or after it was concluded.]

New January 2006

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 4, the bracketed words "and unlawfully" in element 3, and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

Give the final bracketed paragraph on touching if indirect touching is an issue.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.7; see People v. Martinez (1970) 3 Cal.App.3d 886, 889 [83 Cal.Rptr. 914] [harmful or offensive touching].
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(1); People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Least Touching. People v. Myers (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 328, 335 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 518] [citing People v. Rocha (1971) 3 Cal.3d 893, 899–900, fn. 12 [92 Cal.Rptr. 172, 479 P.2d 372]].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 12–14, 71.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.12 (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Battery. Pen. Code, § 242.

COMMENTARY

Unlike other statutes penalizing battery on a particular person, Penal Code section 243.7 does not state that the defendant must have known that the person assaulted was a juror. Thus, the committee has not included knowledge among the elements.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

951. Battery Committed on School, Park, or Hospital Property (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.2)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with battery against a person on (school property/park property/hospital grounds) [in violation of Penal Code section 243.2].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant willfully [and unlawfully] touched _____ <insert name> in a harmful or offensive manner;

[AND]

2. When the defendant acted, (he/she) was on (school property/park property/the grounds of a hospital)(;/.)

<Give element 3 when instructing on self-defense, defense of another, of reasonable discipline>

[AND

3. The defendant did not act (in self-defense[,]/ [or] in defense of someone else[,]/ [or] while reasonably disciplining a child).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

The slightest touching can be enough to commit a battery if it is done in a rude or angry way. Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough. The touching does not have to cause pain or injury of any kind.

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or someone else] to touch the other person.]

[A school is any (elementary school/junior high school/four-year high school/senior high school/adult school [or any branch thereof]/ opportunity school/continuation high school/regional occupational center/evening high school/technical school/community college).]

[A park is any publicly maintained or operated park. It does not include any facility that is being used for professional sports or commercial events.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[A hospital is any facility for the diagnosis, care, and treatment of human illness that is (licensed/specifically exempt from licensing) under state law.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 3, the bracketed words "and unlawfully" in element 1, and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

Give the bracketed paragraph on indirect touching if that is an issue. Give any of the bracketed definitions on request depending on the facts in the case.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 960, Simple Battery.

CALCRIM No. 906, Assault Committed on School or Park Property.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243.2.
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7, subd. 1; People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Least Touching. People v. Myers (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 328, 335 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 518] [citing People v. Rocha (1971) 3 Cal.3d 893, 899–900, fn. 12 [92 Cal.Rptr. 172, 479 P.2d 372]].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 22, 23.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.02 (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

RELATED ISSUES

Touching of Something Attached to or Closely Connected with Person

The committee could not locate any authority on whether it is sufficient to commit a battery if the defendant touches something attached to or closely connected with the person. Thus, the committee has not included this principle in the instruction.

Labor Dispute

Penal Code section 243.2 does not apply to conduct arising during the course of an otherwise lawful labor dispute. (Pen. Code, § 243.2(c).)

952–959. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(iv) Simple Battery

960. Simple Battery (Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243(a))

The defendant is charged with battery [in violation of Penal Code section 243(a)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant willfully [and unlawfully] touched _____ <insert name> in a harmful or offensive manner(;/.)

<Give element 2 when instructing on self-defense, defense of another, or reasonable discipline.>

[AND

2. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else/ [or] while reasonably disciplining a child).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

The slightest touching can be enough to commit a battery if it is done in a rude or angry way. Making contact with another person, including through his or her clothing, is enough. The touching does not have to cause pain or injury of any kind.

[The touching can be done indirectly by causing an object [or someone else] to touch the other person.]

[It is no defense to this crime that the defendant was responding to a provocative act that was not a threat or an attempt to inflict physical injury.] [Words alone, no matter how offensive or exasperating, are not an excuse for this crime.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 2, the bracketed words "and unlawfully" in element 1, and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

If there is sufficient evidence of reasonable parental discipline, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 2, the bracketed words "and unlawfully" in element 1, and CALCRIM No. 3405, Parental Right to Punish a Child.

Give the bracketed paragraph on indirect touching if that is an issue.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 242, 243(a); see People v. Martinez (1970) 3 Cal.App.3d 886, 889 [83 Cal.Rptr. 914] [harmful or offensive touching].
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(1); People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Least Touching. People v. Myers (1998) 61 Cal.App.4th 328, 335 [71 Cal.Rptr.2d 518] [citing People v. Rocha (1971) 3 Cal.3d 893, 899–900, fn. 12 [92 Cal.Rptr. 172, 479 P.2d 372]].
- Defense of Parental Discipline. People v. Whitehurst (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1045, 1051 [12 Cal.Rptr.2d 33].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 12–15.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.12 (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.

RELATED ISSUES

Touching of Something Attached to or Closely Connected with Person

The committee could not locate any authority on whether it is sufficient to commit a battery if the defendant touches something attached to or closely connected with the person. Thus, the committee has not included this principle in the instruction.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Battery Against Elder or Dependent Adult

When a battery is committed against an elder or dependent adult as defined in Penal Code section 368, with knowledge that the victim is an elder or a dependent adult, special punishments apply. (Pen. Code, § 243.25.)

961–964. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

F. SHOOTING AND BRANDISHING

(i) Shooting

965. Shooting at Inhabited House or Occupied Motor Vehicle (Pen. Code, § 246)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with shooting at an (inhabited house/inhabited house car/inhabited camper/occupied building/occupied motor vehicle/occupied aircraft) [in violation of Penal Code section 246].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant willfully and maliciously shot a firearm;

[AND]

2. The defendant shot the firearm at an (inhabited house/inhabited house car/inhabited camper/occupied building/occupied motor vehicle/occupied aircraft)(;/.)

<Give element 3 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

3. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose.

Someone acts maliciously when he or she intentionally does a wrongful act or when he or she acts with the unlawful intent to disturb, defraud, annoy, or injure someone else.

[A (house/house car/camper) is inhabited if someone uses it as a dwelling, whether or not someone is inside at the time of the alleged shooting.]

[A (house/house car/camper) is inhabited if someone used it as a dwelling and left only because a natural or other disaster caused him or her to leave.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[A (house/house car/camper) is not inhabited if the former residents have moved out and do not intend to return, even if some personal property remains inside.]

[A house includes any (structure/garage/office/ _____ <insert other structure>) that is attached to the house and functionally connected with it.]

[A motor vehicle includes a (passenger vehicle/motorcycle/motor scooter/bus/school bus/commercial vehicle/truck tractor and trailer/ _____ <insert other type of motor vehicle>).]

[A house car is a motor vehicle originally designed, or permanently altered, and equipped for human habitation, or to which a camper has been permanently attached.]

[A camper is a structure designed to be mounted upon a motor vehicle and to provide facilities for human habitation or camping purposes.]

[An aircraft is an airplane or other craft intended for and capable of transporting persons through the air.]

[A firearm is any device designed to be used as a weapon, from which a projectile is discharged or expelled through a barrel by the force of an explosion or other form of combustion.]

[The term[s] (firearm/ _____ <insert other term>) (is/are) defined in another instruction to which you should refer.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 3 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

Give the relevant bracketed definitions unless the court has already given the definition in other instructions. In such cases, the court may give the bracketed sentence stating that the term is defined elsewhere.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 966, Shooting at Uninhabited House or Unoccupied Motor Vehicle.

CALCRIM No. 967, Shooting at Unoccupied Aircraft.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 246.
- Aircraft Defined. Pen. Code, § 247.
- Camper Defined. Veh. Code, § 243.
- Firearm Defined. Pen. Code, § 12001(b).
- House Car Defined. Veh. Code, § 362.
- Malicious Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(4); People v. Watie (2002) 100 Cal.App.4th 866, 879 [124 Cal.Rptr.2d 258].
- Motor Vehicle Defined. Veh. Code, § 415.
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(1); In re Jerry R. (1994) 29 Cal.App.4th 1432, 1438 [35 Cal.Rptr.2d 155].
- General Intent Crime. People v. Jischke (1996) 51 Cal.App.4th 552, 556 [59 Cal.Rptr.2d 269]; People v. Cruz (1995) 38 Cal.App.4th 427, 431–433 [45 Cal.Rptr.2d 148] [intent to strike building not required].
- Occupied Building. People v. Adams (1982) 137 Cal.App.3d 346, 354–355 [187 Cal.Rptr. 505] [attached garage].
- Occupied Motor Vehicle. People v. Buttles (1990) 223 Cal.App.3d 1631, 1638 [273 Cal.Rptr. 397] [tractor/trailer rig being operated on a road].
- House Not Inhabited Means Former Residents Not Returning. People v. Cardona (1983) 142 Cal.App.3d 481, 483 [191 Cal.Rptr. 109].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 49.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, §§ 144.01[1][i], 144.03[2], [4] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

Assault with a deadly weapon (Pen. Code, § 245) is not necessarily included in the offense of discharging a firearm at an occupied vehicle. (In re Daniel

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

R. (1993) 20 Cal.App.4th 239, 244, 247 [24 Cal.Rptr.2d 414].)

Grossly negligent discharge of a firearm pursuant to Penal Code section 246.3(a) is a lesser included offense of discharging a firearm at an occupied building. (People v. Ramirez (2009) 45 Cal.4th 980, 990 [89 Cal.Rptr.3d 586, 201 P.3d 466].)

RELATED ISSUES

Concurrent Sentence for Firearm Possession

If a prior felon arrives at the scene already in possession of a firearm and then shoots at an inhabited dwelling, Penal Code section 654 does not preclude imposing sentences for both offenses. (People v. Jones (2002) 103 Cal.App.4th 1139 [127 Cal.Rptr.2d 319].)

Shooting Weapon Inside Dwelling

"[T]he firing of a pistol within a dwelling house does not constitute a violation of Penal Code section 246." (People v. Stepney (1981) 120 Cal.App.3d 1016, 1021 [175 Cal.Rptr. 102] [shooting television inside dwelling].) However, shooting from "inside [an] apartment . . . in the direction of the apartment below" is a violation of section 246. (People v. Jischke (1996) 51 Cal.App.4th 552, 556 [59 Cal.Rptr.2d 269].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

966. Shooting at Uninhabited House or Unoccupied Motor Vehicle (Pen. Code, § 247(b))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with shooting at an (uninhabited house[,]/ [or] uninhabited building[,]/ [or] unoccupied motor vehicle) [in violation of Penal Code section 247(b)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

[1.] The defendant willfully shot a firearm at an (uninhabited house[,]/ [or] uninhabited building[,]/ [or] unoccupied motor vehicle)(;/.)

<Give element 2 when consent of the owner is an issue; see Bench Notes.>

[AND]

[2. The defendant did the shooting without the owner's permission(;/.)]

<Give element 3 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

3. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

[A house includes any (structure/garage/office/ _____ <insert other structure>) that is attached to the house and functionally connected with it.]

[A motor vehicle includes a (passenger vehicle/motorcycle/motor scooter/bus/school bus/commercial vehicle/truck tractor and trailer/ _____ <insert other type of motor vehicle>).]

[A firearm is any device designed to be used as a weapon, from which a projectile is discharged or expelled through a barrel by the force of an explosion or other form of combustion.]

[The term[s] (firearm/ _____ <insert other term>) (is/are) defined in another instruction to which you should refer.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Consent of the owner of the vehicle or building is an affirmative defense. (Pen. Code, § 247(b); People v. Lam (2004) 122 Cal.App.4th 1297, 1301 [19 Cal.Rptr.3d 431].) If there is sufficient evidence of consent, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 2.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 3 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

Give the relevant bracketed definitions unless the court has already given the definition in other instructions. In such cases, the court may give the bracketed sentence stating that the term is defined elsewhere.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 965, Shooting at Inhabited House or Occupied Motor Vehicle.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 247(b).
- Firearm Defined. Pen. Code, § 12001(b).
- Motor Vehicle Defined. Veh. Code, § 415.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 49.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.01[1][i] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

967. Shooting at Unoccupied Aircraft (Pen. Code, § 247(a))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with shooting at an unoccupied aircraft [in violation of Penal Code section 247(a)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant willfully and maliciously shot a firearm;

[AND]

2. The defendant shot the firearm at an unoccupied aircraft(;/.)

<Give element 3 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

3. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose.

Someone acts maliciously when he or she intentionally does a wrongful act or when he or she acts with the unlawful intent to disturb, defraud, annoy, or injure someone else.

[An aircraft is an airplane or other craft intended for and capable of transporting persons through the air.]

[A firearm is any device designed to be used as a weapon, from which a projectile is discharged or expelled through a barrel by the force of an explosion or other form of combustion.]

[The term[s] (firearm/ _____ <insert other term>) (is/are) defined in another instruction to which you should refer.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 3 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

Give the relevant bracketed definitions unless the court has already given the definition in other instructions. In such cases, the court may give the bracketed sentence stating that the term is defined elsewhere.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 965, Shooting at Inhabited House or Occupied Motor Vehicle.

CALCRIM No. 966, Shooting at Uninhabited House or Unoccupied Motor Vehicle.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 247(a).
- Firearm Defined. Pen. Code, § 12001(b).
- Malicious Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(4).
- Aircraft Defined. Pen. Code, § 247.
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(1); In re Jerry R. (1994) 29 Cal.App.4th 1432, 1438 [35 Cal.Rptr.2d 155] [in context of Pen. Code, § 246].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 51.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.01[1][i] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Laser

Willfully and maliciously discharging a laser at an occupied aircraft that is in motion or flight is a separate crime. (See Pen. Code, § 247.5.) It is also a crime to willfully shine a light or other bright device at an aircraft with the intent to interfere with the aircraft's operation. (See Pen. Code, § 248.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

968. Shooting From Motor Vehicle (Pen. Code, § 12034(c) & (d))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with shooting from a motor vehicle [at another person] [in violation of Penal Code section 12034].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant willfully and maliciously shot a firearm from a motor vehicle(;/.)

<Give element 2 when defendant charged with Pen. Code, § 12034(c).>

[AND]

[2. The defendant shot the firearm at another person who was not in a motor vehicle(;/.)]

<Give element 3 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

3. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose.

Someone acts maliciously when he or she intentionally does a wrongful act or when he or she acts with the unlawful intent to disturb, defraud, annoy, or injure someone else.

[A motor vehicle includes a (passenger vehicle/motorcycle/motor scooter/bus/school bus/commercial vehicle/truck tractor and trailer/ _____ <insert other type of motor vehicle>).]

[A firearm is any device designed to be used as a weapon, from which a projectile is discharged or expelled through a barrel by the force of an explosion or other form of combustion.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[The term[s] (firearm/ _____ <insert other term>) (is/are) defined in another instruction to which you should refer.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 3 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

Give the bracketed phrase "at another person" in the first sentence plus bracketed element 2 if the defendant is charged with shooting at someone who was not in a motor vehicle. (See Pen. Code, § 12034(c).) If the defendant is only charged with shooting from a motor vehicle (see Pen. Code, § 12034(d)), give element 1 but not element 2.

Give the relevant bracketed definitions unless the court has already given the definition in other instructions. In such cases, the court may give the bracketed sentence stating that the term is defined elsewhere.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 969, Permitting Someone to Shoot From Vehicle.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 12034(c) & (d).
- Firearm Defined. Pen. Code, § 12001(b).
- Malicious Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(4).
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(1); In re Jerry R. (1994) 29 Cal.App.4th 1432, 1438 [35 Cal.Rptr.2d 155] [in context of Pen. Code, § 246].
- General Intent Crime. People v. Laster (1997) 52 Cal.App.4th 1450, 1468 [61 Cal.Rptr.2d 680] [dictum].
- Assault With a Firearm is not a Lesser Included Offense. People v. Licas (2007) 41 Cal.4th 362 [60 Cal.Rptr.3d 31].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 50.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, §§ 144.01[1][i], 144.03[2], [4] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Shooting at Animal

It is a separate crime to shoot from a motor vehicle at any game bird or mammal. (See Fish & G. Code, § 3002.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

969. Permitting Someone to Shoot From Vehicle (Pen. Code, § 12034(b))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with permitting someone to shoot from a vehicle [in violation of Penal Code section 12034(b)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant was the (driver/ [or] owner) of a vehicle;
2. The defendant permitted someone to shoot a firearm from the vehicle;
3. The defendant knew that (he/she) was permitting someone to shoot a firearm from the vehicle;

AND

4. The other person shot the firearm from the vehicle.

[A vehicle owner who permits someone else to shoot a firearm from the vehicle is guilty even if the owner is not in the vehicle when the shooting happens.]

[A vehicle is a device by which people or things may be moved on a road or highway. A vehicle does not include a device that is moved only by human power or used only on stationary rails or tracks.]

[A firearm is any device designed to be used as a weapon, from which a projectile is discharged or expelled through a barrel by the force of an explosion or other form of combustion.]

[The term[s] (firearm/_____ <insert other term>) (is/are) defined in another instruction to which you should refer.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Give the relevant bracketed definitions unless the court has already given the definition in other instructions. In such cases, the court may give the bracketed sentence stating that the term is defined elsewhere.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 968, Shooting From Motor Vehicle.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 12034(b).
- Firearm Defined. Pen. Code, § 12001(b).
- General Intent Crime. People v. Laster (1997) 52 Cal.App.4th 1450, 1468 [61 Cal.Rptr.2d 680].
- Vehicle Defined. Veh. Code, § 670.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 50.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, §§ 144.01[1][i], 144.03[2] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

970. Shooting Firearm or BB Device in Grossly Negligent Manner (Pen. Code, § 246.3)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with shooting a (firearm/BB Device) in a grossly negligent manner [in violation of Penal Code section 246.3].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant intentionally shot a (firearm/BB device);
2. The defendant did the shooting with gross negligence;

[AND]

3. The shooting could have resulted in the injury or death of a person(;/.)

<Give element 4 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

4. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

Gross negligence involves more than ordinary carelessness, inattention, or mistake in judgment. A person acts with gross negligence when:

1. He or she acts in a reckless way that creates a high risk of death or great bodily injury.

AND

2. A reasonable person would have known that acting in that way would create such a risk.

In other words, a person acts with gross negligence when the way he or she acts is so different from the way an ordinarily careful person would act in the same situation that his or her act amounts to disregard for human life or indifference to the consequences of that act.

[Great bodily injury means significant or substantial physical injury. It is an injury that is greater than minor or moderate harm.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[A firearm is any device designed to be used as a weapon, from which a projectile is discharged or expelled through a barrel by the force of an explosion or other form of combustion.]

[A BB device is any instrument that expels a projectile, such as a BB or a pellet, through the force of air pressure, gas pressure, or spring action.]

[The term[s] (great bodily injury/ [and] firearm) (is/are) defined in another instruction to which you should refer.]

New January 2006; Revised June 2007

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 4 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

Give the relevant bracketed definitions unless the court has already given the definition in other instructions. In such cases, the court may give the bracketed sentence stating that the term is defined elsewhere.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 246.3.
- Discharge Must be Intentional. People v. Robertson (2004) 34 Cal.4th 156, 167 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 604, 95 P.3d 872]; In re Jerry R. (1994) 29 Cal.App.4th 1432, 1438 [35 Cal.Rptr.2d 155]; People v. Alonzo (1993) 13 Cal.App.4th 535, 538 [16 Cal.Rptr.2d 656].
- Firearm Defined. Pen. Code, § 12001(b).
- BB Device Defined. Pen. Code, § 246.3(c).
- Willful Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(1).
- Gross Negligence Defined. People v. Alonzo (1993) 13 Cal.App.4th 535, 540 [16 Cal.Rptr.2d 656]; see People v. Penny (1955) 44 Cal.2d 861, 879–880 [285 P.2d 926].
- Actual Belief Weapon Not Loaded Negates Mental State. People v. Robertson (2004) 34 Cal.4th 156, 167 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 604, 95 P.3d 872]; In re Jerry R. (1994) 29 Cal.App.4th 1432, 1438–1439, 1440 [35

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.Rptr.2d 155].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, § 48.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.01[1][i] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

Unlawful possession by a minor of a firearm capable of being concealed on the person (see Pen. Code, § 12101(a)) is not a necessarily included offense of unlawfully discharging a firearm with gross negligence. (In re Giovani M. (2000) 81 Cal.App.4th 1061, 1066 [97 Cal.Rptr.2d 319].)

RELATED ISSUES

Second Degree Felony-Murder

Grossly negligent discharged of a firearm is an inherently dangerous felony and may serve as the predicate offense to second degree felony-murder. (People v. Robertson (2004) 34 Cal.4th 156, 173 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 604, 95 P.3d 872] [merger doctrine does not apply]; People v. Clem (2000) 78 Cal.App.4th 346, 351 [92 Cal.Rptr.2d 727]; see CALCRIM Nos. 541A–541C, Felony Murder: Second Degree.)

Actual Belief Weapon Not Loaded Negates Mental State

"A defendant who believed that the firearm he or she discharged was unloaded . . . would not be guilty of a violation of section 246.3." (People v. Robertson (2004) 34 Cal.4th 156, 167 [17 Cal.Rptr.3d 604, 95 P.3d 872] [citing In re Jerry R. (1994) 29 Cal.App.4th 1432, 1438–1439, 1440 [35 Cal.Rptr.2d 155]].)

971–979. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(ii) Brandishing

980. Brandishing Firearm in Presence of Occupant of Motor Vehicle (Pen. Code, § 417.3)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with brandishing a firearm in the presence of someone in a motor vehicle [in violation of Penal Code section 417.3].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant drew or exhibited a firearm in the presence of another person who was in a motor vehicle that was being driven on a public street or highway;

[AND]

2. The defendant drew or exhibited the firearm against the other person in a threatening manner that would cause a reasonable person to fear bodily harm(;/.)

<Give element 3 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

3. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

[A motor vehicle includes a (passenger vehicle/motorcycle/motor scooter/bus/school bus/commercial vehicle/truck tractor and trailer/_____ <insert other type of motor vehicle>).]

[A motor vehicle is proceeding on a public street or highway if it is moving on a street or highway with its engine running and propelling the vehicle.]

[A firearm is any device designed to be used as a weapon, from which a projectile is discharged or expelled through a barrel by the force of an explosion or other form of combustion.]

[The term[s] (firearm/_____ <insert other term>) (is/are) defined in another instruction to which you should refer.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[It is not required that the firearm be loaded.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 3 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

Give the relevant bracketed definitions unless the court has already given the definition in other instructions. In such cases, the court may give the bracketed sentence stating that the term is defined elsewhere.

Give the bracketed paragraph about the lack of any requirement that the firearm be loaded on request. (See Pen. Code, § 417.3.)

Related Instructions

For misdemeanor brandishing instructions, see CALCRIM No. 983, Brandishing Firearm or Deadly Weapon: Misdemeanor.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 417.3; People v. Lara (1996) 43 Cal.App.4th 1560, 1565–1566 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 349] [brandishing must be directed against occupant of vehicle].
- Firearm Defined. Pen. Code, § 12001(b).
- Motor Vehicle Defined. Veh. Code, §§ 415, 670.
- Proceeding Defined. People v. Howard (2002) 100 Cal.App.4th 94, 97 [121 Cal.Rptr.2d 892].
- Victim's Awareness of Firearm Not a Required Element. People v. McKinzie (1986) 179 Cal.App.3d 789, 794 [224 Cal.Rptr. 891] [in context of misdemeanor brandishing under Pen. Code, § 417(a)].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against Public Peace and Welfare, § 5.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.01[1][e] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Brandishing a Firearm. Pen. Code, § 417.3; People v. Howard (2002) 100 Cal.App.4th 94, 99 [121 Cal.Rptr.2d 892].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

981. Brandishing Firearm in Presence of Peace Officer (Pen. Code, § 417(c) & (e))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with brandishing a firearm in the presence of a peace officer [in violation of Penal Code section 417].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant drew or exhibited a firearm in the immediate presence of a peace officer;
2. The defendant drew or exhibited the firearm in a rude, angry, or threatening manner;
3. When the defendant acted, the officer was lawfully performing (his/her) duties;

[AND]

4. When the defendant acted, (he/she) knew, or reasonably should have known, from the person's uniform or other identifying action[s] that the person was a peace officer who was performing (his/her) duties(;/.)

<Give element 5 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

5. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

[A firearm is any device designed to be used as a weapon, from which a projectile is discharged or expelled through a barrel by the force of an explosion or other form of combustion.]

[The term firearm is defined in another instruction to which you should refer.]

[It is not required that the firearm be loaded.]

[A person who is employed as a police officer by _____ <insert name of agency that employs police officer> is a peace officer.]

[A person employed by _____ <insert name of agency that

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

employs peace officer, e.g., "the Department of Fish and Game"> is a peace officer if _____ <insert description of facts necessary to make employee a peace officer, e.g., "designated by the director of the agency as a peace officer">.]

[The duties of a _____ <insert title of officer> include _____ <insert job duties>.]

<When lawful performance is an issue, give the following paragraph and Instruction 2670, Lawful Performance: Peace Officer.>

[A peace officer is not lawfully performing his or her duties if he or she is (unlawfully arresting or detaining someone/ [or] using unreasonable or excessive force in his or her duties). Instruction 2670 explains (when an arrest or detention is unlawful/ [and] when force is unreasonable or excessive).]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 5 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

In addition, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on defendant's reliance on self-defense as it relates to the use of excessive force. (People v. White (1980) 101 Cal.App.3d 161, 167–168 [161 Cal.Rptr. 541].) If excessive force is an issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct the jury that the defendant is not guilty of the offense charged, or any lesser included offense in which lawful performance is an element, if the defendant used reasonable force in response to excessive force. (People v. Olguin (1981) 119 Cal.App.3d 39, 46–47 [173 Cal.Rptr. 663].) On request, the court must instruct that the prosecution has the burden of proving the lawfulness of the arrest beyond a reasonable doubt. (People v. Castain (1981) 122 Cal.App.3d 138, 145 [175 Cal.Rptr. 651].) If lawful performance is an issue, give the bracketed paragraph on lawful performance and the appropriate portions of CALCRIM No. 2670, Lawful Performance: Peace Officer.

Give the bracketed definition of "firearm" unless the court has already given the definition in other instructions. In such cases, the court may give the bracketed sentence stating that the term is defined elsewhere.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Give the bracketed paragraph about the lack of any requirement that the firearm be loaded on request.

The jury must determine whether the alleged victim is a peace officer. (People v. Brown (1988) 46 Cal.3d 432, 444–445 [250 Cal.Rptr. 604, 758 P.2d 1135].) The court may instruct the jury on the appropriate definition of "peace officer" from the statute (e.g., "a Garden Grove Regular Police Officer and a Garden Grove Reserve Police Officer are peace officers"). (Ibid.) However, the court may not instruct the jury that the alleged victim was a peace officer as a matter of law (e.g., "Officer Reed was a peace officer"). (Ibid.) If the alleged victim is a police officer, give the bracketed sentence that begins with "A person employed as a police officer." If the alleged victim is another type of peace officer, give the bracketed sentence that begins with "A person employed by."

The court may give the bracketed sentence that begins, "The duties of a _____ <insert title . . .> include," on request. The court may insert a description of the officer's duties such as "the correct service of a facially valid search warrant." (People v. Gonzalez (1990) 51 Cal.3d 1179, 1222 [275 Cal.Rptr. 729, 800 P.2d 1159].)

Related Instructions

For misdemeanor brandishing instructions, see CALCRIM No. 983, Brandishing Firearm or Deadly Weapon: Misdemeanor.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 417(c) & (e).
- Firearm Defined. Pen. Code, § 12001(b); see In re Jose A. (1992) 5 Cal.App.4th 697, 702 [7 Cal.Rptr.2d 44] [pellet gun not a "firearm" within meaning of Pen. Code, § 417(a)].
- Peace Officer Defined. Pen. Code, § 830 et seq.
- Victim's Awareness of Firearm Not a Required Element. People v. McKinzie (1986) 179 Cal.App.3d 789, 794 [224 Cal.Rptr. 891] [in context of misdemeanor brandishing under Pen. Code, § 417(a)].
- Weapon Need Not Be Pointed Directly at Victim. People v. Sanders (1995) 11 Cal.4th 475, 542 [46 Cal.Rptr.2d 751, 905 P.2d 420] [in context of Pen. Code, § 417(a)].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against Public Peace and Welfare, §§ 6, 7.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.01[1][e] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Brandishing a Firearm. Pen. Code, § 417(a)(2).

RELATED ISSUES

Infliction of Serious Bodily Injury

It is a separate offense to intentionally inflict serious bodily injury while drawing or exhibiting a firearm in the presence of a peace officer. (See Pen. Code, § 417.6(a); see also Pen. Code, § 417.6(b) [defining "serious bodily injury"].)

Multiple Peace Officers

A "single act of exhibiting a firearm in the presence of a peace officer . . . cannot be punished as many times as there are peace officers observing the act. . . . [T]he multiple-victim exception [under Neal v. State of California (1960) 55 Cal.2d 11, 20–21 [9 Cal.Rptr. 607, 357 P.2d 839] for acts of violence against multiple victims] is just that, a multiple-victim exception, not a multiple-observer exception." (People v. Hall (2000) 83 Cal.App.4th 1084, 1095–1096 [100 Cal.Rptr.2d 279].)

Reasonable Person Standard for Physically Disabled Defendant

A defendant with a physical disability is entitled to an instruction that the reasonable person standard as used in this instruction means a person with the same physical disability. (People v. Mathews (1994) 25 Cal.App.4th 89, 99 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 330]; see CALCRIM No. 3429, Reasonable Person Standard for Physically Disabled Person.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

982. Brandishing Firearm or Deadly Weapon to Resist Arrest (Pen. Code, § 417.8)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with brandishing a (firearm/deadly weapon) to resist arrest or detention [in violation of Penal Code section 417.8].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant drew or exhibited a (firearm/deadly weapon);

AND

2. When the defendant drew or exhibited the (firearm/deadly weapon), (he/she) intended to resist arrest or to prevent a peace officer from arresting or detaining (him/her/someone else).

[A firearm is any device designed to be used as a weapon, from which a projectile is discharged or expelled through a barrel by the force of an explosion or other form of combustion.]

[A deadly weapon is any object, instrument, or weapon that is inherently deadly or dangerous or one that is used in such a way that it is capable of causing and likely to cause death or great bodily injury.] [Great bodily injury means significant or substantial physical injury. It is an injury that is greater than minor or moderate harm.]

[The term[s] (firearm[,]/ deadly weapon[,]/ [and] great bodily injury) (is/are) defined in another instruction to which you should refer.]

[A person who is employed as a police officer by _____ <insert name of agency that employs police officer> is a peace officer.]

[A person employed by _____ <insert name of agency that employs peace officer, e.g., "the Department of Fish and Game"> is a peace officer if _____ <insert description of facts necessary to make employee a peace officer, e.g., "designated by the director of the agency as a peace officer">.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Give the relevant bracketed definitions unless the court has already given the definition in other instructions. In such cases, the court may give the bracketed sentence stating that the term is defined elsewhere.

Give the bracketed paragraph about the lack of any requirement that the firearm be loaded on request.

The jury must determine whether the alleged victim is a peace officer. (People v. Brown (1988) 46 Cal.3d 432, 444–445 [250 Cal.Rptr. 604, 758 P.2d 1135].) The court may instruct the jury on the appropriate definition of "peace officer" from the statute (e.g., "a Garden Grove Regular Police Officer and a Garden Grove Reserve Police Officer are peace officers"). (Ibid.) However, the court may not instruct the jury that the alleged victim was a peace officer as a matter of law (e.g., "Officer Reed was a peace officer"). (Ibid.) If the alleged victim is a police officer, give the bracketed sentence that begins with "A person employed as a police officer." If the alleged victim is another type of peace officer, give the bracketed sentence that begins with "A person employed by."

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 983, Brandishing Firearm or Deadly Weapon: Misdemeanor.

CALCRIM No. 981, Brandishing Firearm in Presence of Peace Officer.

CALCRIM No. 2653, Taking Firearm or Weapon While Resisting Peace Officer or Public Officer.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 417.8.
- Firearm Defined. Pen. Code, § 12001(b); see In re Jose A. (1992) 5 Cal.App.4th 697, 702 [7 Cal.Rptr.2d 44] [pellet gun not a "firearm" within meaning of Pen. Code, § 417(a)].
- Peace Officer Defined. Pen. Code, § 830 et seq.
- Deadly Weapon Defined. People v. Aguilar (1997) 16 Cal.4th 1023,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1028–1029 [68 Cal.Rptr.2d 655, 945 P.2d 1204] [hands and feet not deadly weapons]; see, e.g., People v. Simons (1996) 42 Cal.App.4th 1100, 1107 [50 Cal.Rptr.2d 351] [screwdriver was capable of being used as a deadly weapon and defendant intended to use it as one if need be]; People v. Henderson (1999) 76 Cal.App.4th 453, 469–470 [90 Cal.Rptr.2d 450] [pit bulls were deadly weapons under the circumstances].

- Lawful Performance of Duties Not an Element. People v. Simons (1996) 42 Cal.App.4th 1100, 1109–1110 [50 Cal.Rptr.2d 351].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against Public Peace and Welfare, §§ 6, 7.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.01[1][e] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

Resisting arrest by a peace officer engaged in the performance of his or her duties in violation of Penal Code section 148(a) is not a lesser included offense of Penal Code section 417.8. (People v. Simons (1996) 42 Cal.App.4th 1100, 1108–1110 [50 Cal.Rptr.2d 351].) Brandishing a deadly weapon in a rude, angry, or threatening manner in violation of Penal Code section 417(a)(1) is also not a lesser included offense of section 417.8. (People v. Pruett (1997) 57 Cal.App.4th 77, 88 [66 Cal.Rptr.2d 750].)

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section to CALCRIM No. 981, Brandishing Firearm in Presence of Peace Officer.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

983. Brandishing Firearm or Deadly Weapon: Misdemeanor (Pen. Code, § 417(a)(1) & (2))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with brandishing a (firearm/deadly weapon) [in violation of Penal Code section 417(a)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant drew or exhibited a (firearm/deadly weapon) in the presence of someone else;

[AND]

<Alternative 2A—displayed in rude, angry, or threatening manner>

[2. The defendant did so in a rude, angry, or threatening manner(;/.)]

<Alternative 2B—used in fight>

[2. The defendant [unlawfully] used the (firearm/deadly weapon) in a fight or quarrel(;/.)]

<Give element 3 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

3. The defendant did not act (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

[A firearm is any device designed to be used as a weapon, from which a projectile is discharged or expelled through a barrel by the force of an explosion or other form of combustion.]

[A deadly weapon is any object, instrument, or weapon that is inherently deadly or dangerous or one that is used in such a way that it is capable of causing and likely to cause death or great bodily injury.] [Great bodily injury means significant or substantial physical injury. It is an injury that is greater than minor or moderate harm.]

[The term[s] (firearm[,]/ deadly weapon[,]/ [and] great bodily injury) (is/are) defined in another instruction to which you should refer.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[It is not required that the firearm be loaded.]

New January 2006; Revised October 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 3 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

If the prosecution alleges that the defendant displayed the weapon in a rude, angry, or threatening manner, give alternative 2A. If the prosecution alleges that the defendant used the weapon in a fight, give alternative 2B.

If the defendant is charged under Penal Code section 417(a)(2)(A), the court must also give CALCRIM No. 984, Brandishing Firearm: Misdemeanor—Public Place.

Give the bracketed definition of "firearm" or "deadly weapon" unless the court has already given the definition in other instructions. In such cases, the court may give the bracketed sentence stating that the term is defined elsewhere.

On request, give the bracketed sentence stating that the firearm need not be loaded.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 417(a)(1) & (2).
- Firearm Defined. Pen. Code, § 12001(b).
- Deadly Weapon Defined. People v. Aguilar (1997) 16 Cal.4th 1023, 1028–1029 [68 Cal.Rptr.2d 655, 945 P.2d 1204].
- Victim's Awareness of Firearm Not a Required Element. People v. McKinzie (1986) 179 Cal.App.3d 789, 794 [224 Cal.Rptr. 891].
- Weapon Need Not Be Pointed Directly at Victim. People v. Sanders (1995) 11 Cal.4th 475, 542 [46 Cal.Rptr.2d 751, 905 P.2d 420].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against Public Peace and Welfare, § 5.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Crimes Against Order, § 144.01[1][e] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

984. Brandishing Firearm: Misdemeanor—Public Place (Pen. Code, § 417(a)(2)(A))

If you find the defendant guilty of brandishing a firearm, you must then decide whether the People have proved the additional allegation that the defendant brandished a firearm that was capable of being concealed on the person while in a public place [in violation of Penal Code section 417(a)(2)(A)].

To prove this allegation, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant drew or exhibited a firearm that was capable of being concealed on the person;

AND

2. When the defendant did so, (he/she) was (in a public place in an incorporated city/ [or] on a public street).

A firearm capable of being concealed on the person is a firearm that has a barrel less than 16 inches in length. [A firearm capable of being concealed on the person also includes any device that has a barrel 16 inches or more in length that is designed to be interchanged with a barrel less than 16 inches in length.]

[As used here, a public place is a place that is open and accessible to anyone who wishes to go there.]

The People have the burden of proving this allegation beyond a reasonable doubt. If the People have not met this burden, you must find that this allegation has not been proved.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

If the defendant is charged under Penal Code section 417(a)(2)(A), the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on this sentencing factor.

This instruction must be given with CALCRIM No. 983, Brandishing Firearm or Deadly Weapon: Misdemeanor.

The court must provide the jury with a verdict form on which the jury will indicate if the prosecution has or has not been proved this allegation.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Penal Code section 417(a)(2)(A) applies to a firearm that "is a pistol, revolver, or other firearm capable of being concealed upon the person." Penal Code section 12001(a)(1) provides a single definition for this class of weapons. Thus, the committee has chosen to use solely the all-inclusive phrase "firearm capable of being concealed on the person."

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 417(a)(2)(A).
- Firearm Capable of Being Concealed Defined. Pen. Code, § 12001(a)(1).
- Public Place Defined. In re Zorn (1963) 59 Cal.2d 650, 652 [30 Cal.Rptr. 811, 381 P.2d 635]; People v. Belanger (1966) 243 Cal.App.2d 654, 657 [52 Cal.Rptr. 660]; People v. Perez (1976) 64 Cal.App.3d 297, 300–301 [134 Cal.Rptr. 338]; but see People v. White (1991) 227 Cal.App.3d 886, 892–893 [278 Cal.Rptr. 48] [fenced yard of defendant's home not a "public place"].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against Public Peace and Welfare, § 5.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.01[1][d], [e] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

985. Brandishing Imitation Firearm (Pen. Code, § 417.4)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with brandishing an imitation firearm [in violation of Penal Code section 417.4].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant drew or exhibited an imitation firearm in a threatening manner against another person;
2. The defendant's act caused someone to fear bodily harm to himself or herself or someone else;

[AND]

3. That fear of harm was reasonable(;/.)

<Give element 4 when instructing on self-defense or defense of another.>

[AND

4. When the defendant drew or exhibited the imitation firearm, (he/she) was not acting (in self-defense/ [or] in defense of someone else).]

An imitation firearm is a device[, or a toy gun, replica of a firearm, or BB device,] that is so substantially similar to a real firearm in color and overall appearance that a reasonable person would believe that it is a real firearm. [A BB device is an instrument that expels a projectile, such as a BB or other pellet, not exceeding 6 mm caliber, through the force of air pressure, gas pressure, or spring action, or any spot marker gun.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence of self-defense or defense of another, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. Give bracketed element 4 and any appropriate defense instructions. (See CALCRIM Nos. 3470–3477.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 417.4.
- Imitation Firearm. Pen. Code, § 12550.
- BB Device Defined. Pen. Code, § 12001.
- Reasonable Person Must Be Placed in Fear. In re Michael D. (2002) 100 Cal.App.4th 115, 124 [121 Cal.Rptr.2d 909].
- Person Placed in Fear May Be Bystander. In re Michael D. (2002) 100 Cal.App.4th 115, 120–123 [121 Cal.Rptr.2d 909].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against Public Peace and Welfare, § 5.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.01[1][e] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Reasonable Person Who Fears Harm May Be Bystander

Penal Code section 417.4 requires not "only the presence of another person against whom the imitation firearm is displayed or exhibited, but also some person's knowledge of, and a reaction to, the perpetrator's action." (In re Michael D. (2002) 100 Cal.App.4th 115, 124 [121 Cal.Rptr.2d 909].) Thus, someone must be placed in fear as a result of the defendant's conduct; however, this does not have to be the person against whom the object is exhibited. (Id. at pp. 120–123.) The term "reasonable person," as used in the statute "refers to anyone who witnesses the actions of the perpetrator, not just to the person against whom the device is drawn or exhibited." (Id. at p. 123.)

986–999. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

SEX OFFENSES

A. AGAINST ADULT OR MINOR

(i) Rape

1000. Rape or Spousal Rape by Force, Fear, or Threats (Pen. Code, § 261(a)(2), (6) & (7))

1001. Rape or Spousal Rape in Concert (Pen. Code, § 264.1)

1002. Rape of Intoxicated Woman or Spouse (Pen. Code, §§ 261(a)(3), 262(a)(2))

1003. Rape of Unconscious Woman or Spouse (Pen. Code, §§ 261(a)(4), 262(a)(3))

1004. Rape of a Disabled Woman (Pen. Code, § 261(a)(1))

1005. Rape by Fraud (Pen. Code, § 261(a)(5))

1006–1014. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Oral Copulation

1015. Oral Copulation by Force, Fear, or Threats (Pen. Code, § 288a(c)(2) & (3), (k))

1016. Oral Copulation in Concert (Pen. Code, § 288a(d))

1017. Oral Copulation of an Intoxicated Person (Pen. Code, § 288a(a), (i))

1018. Oral Copulation of an Unconscious Person (Pen. Code, § 288a(a), (f))

1019. Oral Copulation of a Disabled Person (Pen. Code, § 288a(a), (g))

1020. Oral Copulation of a Disabled Person in a Mental Hospital (Pen. Code, § 288a(a), (h))

1021. Oral Copulation by Fraud (Pen. Code, § 288a(a), (j))

1022. Oral Copulation While in Custody (Pen. Code, § 288a(a), (e))

1023–1029. Reserved for Future Use

(iii) Sodomy

1030. Sodomy by Force, Fear, or Threats (Pen. Code, § 286(c)(2), (3), (k))

1031. Sodomy in Concert (Pen. Code, § 286(d))

1032. Sodomy of an Intoxicated Person (Pen. Code, § 286(i))

1033. Sodomy of an Unconscious Person (Pen. Code, § 286(f))

1034. Sodomy of a Disabled Person (Pen. Code, § 286(g))

1035. Sodomy of a Disabled Person in a Mental Hospital (Pen. Code, § 286(h))

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1036. Sodomy by Fraud (Pen. Code, § 286(j))
1037. Sodomy While in Custody (Pen. Code, § 286(e))
1038–1044. Reserved for Future Use

(iv) Sexual Penetration

1045. Sexual Penetration by Force, Fear, or Threats (Pen. Code, § 289(a)(1), (2), (g))
1046. Sexual Penetration in Concert (Pen. Code, §§ 264.1, 289(a)(1))
1047. Sexual Penetration of an Intoxicated Person (Pen. Code, § 289(e))
1048. Sexual Penetration of an Unconscious Person (Pen. Code, § 289(d))
1049. Sexual Penetration of a Disabled Person (Pen. Code, § 289(b))
1050. Sexual Penetration of a Disabled Person in a Mental Hospital (Pen. Code, § 289(c))
1051. Sexual Penetration by Fraud (Pen. Code, § 289(f))
1052–1059. Reserved for Future Use

(v) Lewd and Lascivious Act

1060. Lewd or Lascivious Act: Dependent Person (Pen. Code, § 288(b)(2) & (c)(2))
1061–1069. Reserved for Future Use

B. AGAINST MINORS ONLY

(i) Unlawful Sexual Intercourse

1070. Unlawful Sexual Intercourse: Defendant 21 or Older (Pen. Code, § 261.5(a) & (d))
1071. Unlawful Sexual Intercourse: Minor More Than Three Years Younger (Pen. Code, § 261.5(a) & (c))
1072. Misdemeanor Unlawful Sexual Intercourse: Minor Within Three Years of Defendant's Age (Pen. Code, § 261.5(a) & (b))
1073–1079. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Oral Copulation

1080. Oral Copulation With Person Under 14 (Pen. Code, § 288a(c)(1))
1081. Oral Copulation With Minor: Defendant 21 or Older (Pen. Code, § 288a(b)(2))
1082. Oral Copulation With Person Under 18 (Pen. Code, § 288a(b)(1))
1083–1089. Reserved for Future Use

(iii) Sodomy

1090. Sodomy With Person Under 14 (Pen. Code, § 286(c)(1))

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1091. Sodomy With Minor: Defendant 21 or Older (Pen. Code, § 286(b)(2))
1092. Sodomy With Person Under 18 (Pen. Code, § 286(b)(1))
1093–1099. Reserved for Future Use

(iv) Sexual Penetration

1100. Sexual Penetration With Person Under 14 (Pen. Code, § 289(j))
1101. Sexual Penetration With Minor: Defendant 21 or Older (Pen. Code, § 289(i))
1102. Sexual Penetration With Person Under 18 (Pen. Code, § 289(h))
1103–1109. Reserved for Future Use

(v) Lewd And Lascivious Act

1110. Lewd or Lascivious Act: Child Under 14 Years (Pen. Code, § 288(a))
1111. Lewd or Lascivious Act: By Force or Fear (Pen. Code, § 288(b)(1))
1112. Lewd or Lascivious Act: Child 14 or 15 Years (Pen. Code, § 288(c)(1))
1113–1119. Reserved for Future Use

(vi) Other Offenses

1120. Continuous Sexual Abuse (Pen. Code, § 288.5(a))
1121. Annoying or Molesting a Child in a Dwelling (Pen. Code, § 647.6(a)–(c))
1122. Annoying or Molesting a Child (Pen. Code, § 647.6(a)–(c))
1123. Aggravated Sexual Assault of Child Under 14 Years (Pen. Code, § 269(a))
1124. Contacting Minor With Intent to Commit Certain Felonies (Pen. Code, § 288.3(a))
1125. Arranging Meeting With Minor for Lewd Purpose (Pen. Code, § 288.4(a)(1))
1126. Going to Meeting With Minor for Lewd Purpose (Pen. Code, § 288.4(b))
1127. Engaging in Sexual Intercourse or Sodomy With Child 10 Years of Age or Younger (Pen. Code, § 288.7(a))
1128. Engaging in Oral Copulation or Sexual Penetration With Child 10 Years of Age or Younger (Pen. Code, § 288.7(b))
1129–1139. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

C. OTHER SEX RELATED OFFENSES

(i) Obscene or Harmful Matter

1140. Showing or Sending Harmful Material to Seduce a Minor (Pen. Code, § 288.2(a) & (b))
1141. Distributing Obscene Matter Showing Sexual Conduct by a Minor (Pen. Code, §§ 311.1(a), 311.2(b))
1142. Distributing or Intending to Distribute Obscene Material (Pen. Code, § 311.2(a))
1143. Obscene Live Conduct (Pen. Code, § 311.6)
1144–1149. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Pimping, Pandering, Prostitution

1150. Pimping (Pen. Code, § 266h)
1151. Pandering (Pen. Code, § 266i)
1152. Child Procurement (Pen. Code, § 266j)
1153. Prostitution: Engaging in Act (Pen. Code, § 647(b))
1154. Prostitution: Soliciting Another (Pen. Code, § 647(b))
1155. Prostitution: Agreeing to Engage in Act (Pen. Code, § 647(b))
1156. Loitering: For Prostitution (Pen. Code, § 653.22(a))
1157–1159. Reserved for Future Use

(iii) Conduct in Public

1160. Indecent Exposure (Pen. Code, § 314)
1161. Lewd Conduct in Public (Pen. Code, § 647(a))
1162. Soliciting Lewd Conduct in Public (Pen. Code, § 647(a))
1163–1169. Reserved for Future Use

(iv) Failure to Register

1170. Failure to Register as Sex Offender (Pen. Code, § 290(b))
1171–1179. Reserved for Future Use

(v) Other Offenses

1180. Incest (Pen. Code, § 285)
1181. Sexual Abuse of Animal (Pen. Code, §§ 286.5, 597f)
1182–1189. Reserved for Future Use

D. EVIDENCE

1190. Other Evidence Not Required to Support Testimony in Sex Offense Case
1191. Evidence of Uncharged Sex Offense

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

SEX OFFENSES

1192. Testimony on Rape Trauma Syndrome
1193. Testimony on Child Sexual Abuse Accommodation Syndrome
1194. Consent: Prior Sexual Intercourse
1195–1199. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

A. AGAINST ADULT OR MINOR

(i) Rape

1000. Rape or Spousal Rape by Force, Fear, or Threats (Pen. Code, § 261(a)(2), (6) & (7))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with rape [of his wife] by force [in violation of Penal Code section 261(a)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant had sexual intercourse with a woman;
2. He and the woman were (not married/married) to each other at the time of the intercourse;
3. The woman did not consent to the intercourse;

AND

4. The defendant accomplished the intercourse by

<Alternative 4A—force or fear>

[force, violence, duress, menace, or fear of immediate and unlawful bodily injury to the woman or to someone else.]

<Alternative 4B—future threats of bodily harm>

[threatening to retaliate in the future against the woman or someone else when there was a reasonable possibility that the defendant would carry out the threat. A threat to retaliate is a threat to kidnap, falsely imprison, or inflict extreme pain, serious bodily injury, or death.]

<Alternative 4C—threat of official action>

[threatening to use the authority of a public office to incarcerate, arrest, or deport someone. A public official is a person employed by federal, state, or local government who has authority to incarcerate, arrest, or deport. The woman must have reasonably believed that the defendant was a public official even if he was not.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Sexual intercourse means any penetration, no matter how slight, of the vagina or genitalia by the penis. [Ejaculation is not required.]

[To _consent,_ a woman must act freely and voluntarily and know the nature of the act.]

[A woman who initially consents to an act of intercourse may change her mind during the act. If she does so, under the law, the act of intercourse is then committed without her consent if:

1. She communicated to the defendant that she objected to the act of intercourse and attempted to stop the act;
2. She communicated her objection through words or acts that a reasonable person would have understood as showing her lack of consent;

AND

3. The defendant forcibly continued the act of intercourse despite her objection.]

[Evidence that the defendant and the woman (dated/were married/had been married) is not enough by itself to constitute consent.]

[Evidence that the woman (requested/suggested/communicated) that the defendant use a condom or other birth control device is not enough by itself to constitute consent.]

[Intercourse is _accomplished by force_ if a person uses enough physical force to overcome the woman's will.]

[_Duress_ means a direct or implied threat of force, violence, danger, or retribution that would cause a reasonable person to do [or submit to] something that she would not do [or submit to] otherwise. When deciding whether the act was accomplished by duress, consider all the circumstances, including the woman's age and her relationship to the defendant.]

[_Retribution_ is a form of payback or revenge.]

[_Menace_ means a threat, statement, or act showing an intent to injure someone.]

[Intercourse is _accomplished by fear_ if the woman is actually and reasonably afraid [or she is actually but unreasonably afraid and the defendant knows of her fear and takes advantage of it].]

[A woman must be alive at the time of the sexual intercourse for the crime of rape to occur.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

<Defense: Reasonable Belief in Consent>

[The defendant is not guilty of rape if he actually and reasonably believed that the woman consented to the intercourse. The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant did not actually and reasonably believe that the woman consented. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of rape or spousal rape. If spousal rape is charged, the court must include the appropriate bracketed language throughout the instruction to indicate that the parties were married.

The court should select the appropriate alternative in element 4 describing how the sexual intercourse was allegedly accomplished.

Rape requires that the victim be alive at the moment of intercourse. (People v. Ramirez (1990) 50 Cal.3d 1158, 1175–1177 [270 Cal.Rptr. 286, 791 P.2d 965]; People v. Carpenter (1997) 15 Cal.4th 312, 391 [63 Cal.Rptr.2d 1, 935 P.2d 708].) Intercourse with a deceased victim may constitute attempted rape if the defendant intended to rape a live victim. (People v. Kelly (1992) 1 Cal.4th 495, 524–526 [3 Cal.Rptr.2d 677, 822 P.2d 385].) If this is an issue in the case, give the bracketed sentence that begins with "A woman must be alive . . ."

Defenses—Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense of reasonable belief in consent if there is "substantial evidence of equivocal conduct that would have led a defendant to reasonably and in good faith believe consent existed where it did not." (See People v. Williams (1992) 4 Cal.4th 354]; People v. Mayberry (1975) 15 Cal.3d 143, 153–158 [125 Cal.Rptr. 745, 542 P.2d 1337].)

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 1001, Rape or Spousal Rape in Concert, may be given in conjunction with this instruction, if appropriate.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

Rape:

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 261(a)(2), (6) & (7).
- Consent Defined. Pen. Code, §§ 261.6, 261.7.
- Duress Defined. Pen. Code, § 261(b).
- Menace Defined. Pen. Code, § 261(c).
- Penetration Defined. Pen. Code, § 263; People v. Karsai (1982) 131 Cal.App.3d 224, 233–234 [182 Cal.Rptr. 406], disapproved on other grounds by People v. Jones (1988) 46 Cal.3d 585, 600 [250 Cal.Rptr. 635, 758 P.2d 1165].
- Fear Defined. People v. Iniguez (1994) 7 Cal.4th 847, 856–857 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 258, 872 P.2d 1183] [level of fear].
- Force Defined. People v. Griffin (2004) 33 Cal.4th 1015, 1023–1024 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 891, 94 P.3d 1089].
- Mistake of Fact Regarding Consent. People v. Mayberry (1975) 15 Cal.3d 143, 153–158 [125 Cal.Rptr. 745, 542 P.2d 1337]; People v. May (1989) 213 Cal.App.3d 118, 124 [261 Cal.Rptr. 502].
- Circumstances Requiring Mayberry Instruction. People v. Dominguez (2006) 39 Cal.4th 1141 [47 Cal.Rptr.3d 575, 140 P.3d 866].
- Withdrawal of Consent. In re John Z. (2003) 29 Cal.4th 756, 760 [128 Cal.Rptr.2d 783, 60 P.3d 183].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 1–12.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.20[1][a], [2], 142.23[1][e] (Matthew Bender).

Spousal Rape:

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 262(a)(1), (4) & (5).
- Duress Defined. Pen. Code, § 262(b).
- Menace Defined. Pen. Code, § 261(c).
- Mistake of Fact Regarding Consent. People v. Burnham (1986) 176 Cal.App.3d 1134, 1148–1149 [222 Cal.Rptr. 630, 542 P.2d 1337]; see People v. Mayberry (1975) 15 Cal.3d 143, 153–158 [125 Cal.Rptr. 745, 542 P.2d 1337]; People v. May (1989) 213 Cal.App.3d 118, 124 [261

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.Rptr. 502].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, § 18.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.20[1][a], [2], 142.23[1][e] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

Gender-specific language is used because rape usually occurs between a man and a woman. In keeping with plain English principles, the committee used those terms to make the instruction clear and concrete.

Penal Code section 262 requires that the intercourse be "against the person's [or victim's] will." (Pen. Code, § 262(a)(1), (4) & (5).) "Against the will" has been defined as without consent. (People v. Key (1984) 153 Cal.App.3d 888, 895 [203 Cal.Rptr. 144]; see also People v. Young (1987) 190 Cal.App.3d 248, 257 [235 Cal.Rptr. 361].)

"[T]he offense of forcible rape occurs when, during apparently consensual intercourse, the victim expresses an objection and attempts to stop the act and the defendant forcibly continues despite the objection. . . . '[I]t is immaterial at what point the victim withdraws her consent, so long as that withdrawal is communicated to the male and he thereafter ignores it.' " (In re John Z. (2003) 29 Cal.4th 756, 760 [128 Cal.Rptr.2d 783, 60 P.3d 183].)

The instruction includes definitions of "duress," "menace," and the sufficiency of "fear" because those terms have meanings in the context of rape that are technical and may not be readily apparent to jurors. (See Pen. Code, §§ 262(b) [duress] and (c) [menace]; People v. Iniguez (1994) 7 Cal.4th 847, 856–857 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 258, 872 P.2d 1183] [fear].)

The term "force" as used in the rape statutes does not have a specialized meaning and court is not required to define the term sua sponte. (People v. Griffin (2004) 33 Cal.4th 1015, 1023–1024 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 891, 94 P.3d 1089].) In People v. Griffin, supra, the Supreme Court further stated,

> Nor is there anything in the common usage definitions of the term "force," or in the express statutory language of section 261 itself, that suggests force in a forcible rape prosecution actually means force "substantially different from or substantially greater than" the physical force normally inherent in an act of consensual sexual intercourse. [People v. Cicero (1984) 157 Cal.App.3d 465, 474 [204 Cal.Rptr. 582].] To the contrary, it has long been recognized that "in order to establish > force within the meaning of section 261, subdivision (2), the prosecution need only show the defendant used physical force of a degree sufficient to support a finding that the act of sexual intercourse was against the will of the [victim]." (People v. Young (1987) 190 Cal.App.3d 248, 257–258 [235 Cal.Rptr. 361] . . . .)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(Ibid. [emphasis in original].)

The committee has provided a bracketed definition of "force," consistent with People v. Griffin, supra, that the court may give on request.

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Assault With Intent to Commit Rape. Pen. Code, § 220; In re Jose M. (1994) 21 Cal.App.4th 1470, 1477 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 55]; People v. Moran (1973) 33 Cal.App.3d 724, 730 [109 Cal.Rptr. 287] [where forcible rape is charged].
- Attempted Rape. Pen. Code, §§ 663, 261.
- Attempted Spousal Rape. Pen. Code, §§ 663, 262.
- Battery. Pen. Code, § 242; People v. Guiterrez (1991) 232 Cal.App.3d 1624, 1636 [284 Cal.Rptr. 230], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Cromer (2001) 24 Cal.4th 889, 901, fn. 3 [103 Cal.Rptr.2d 23, 15 P.3d 243]; but see People v. Marshall (1997) 15 Cal.4th 1, 38–39 [61 Cal.Rptr.2d 84, 931 P.2d 262] [battery not a lesser included of attempted rape].

RELATED ISSUES

Consent Obtained by Fraudulent Representation

A person may also induce someone else to consent to engage in sexual intercourse by a false or fraudulent representation made with an intent to create fear, and which does induce fear and would cause a reasonable person to act contrary to his or her free will. (Pen. Code, § 266c.) While section 266c requires coercion and fear to obtain consent, it does not involve physical force or violence. (See People v. Cardenas (1994) 21 Cal.App.4th 927, 937–938 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 567] [rejecting defendant's argument that certain acts were consensual and without physical force, and were only violations of section 266c].)

Minor Victim and Unanimity

"Generic testimony" by a victim who was 15 and 16 years old does not deprive a defendant of a due process right to defend against the charges. If the victim "specifies the type of conduct involved, its frequency, and that the conduct occurred during the limitation period, nothing more is required to establish the substantiality of the victim's testimony." (People v. Matute (2002) 103 Cal.App.4th 1437, 1446 [127 Cal.Rptr.2d 472] [affirming conviction for multiple counts of rape under Pen. Code, § 261(a)(2); citing People v. Jones (1990) 51 Cal.3d 294, 316 [270 Cal.Rptr. 611, 792 P.2d 643]].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

When there is no reasonable likelihood the jury will disagree on particular acts of molestation, and the only question is whether or not the defendant in fact committed all of them, the jury should be given a modified unanimity instruction which, in addition to allowing a conviction if the jurors unanimously agree on specific acts, also allows a conviction if the jury unanimously agrees the defendant committed all the acts described by the victim. (People v. Matute, supra, 103 Cal.App.4th at p. 1448; People v. Jones, supra, 51 Cal.3d at pp. 321–322; see CALCRIM No. 3501, Unanimity: When Generic Testimony of Offense Presented.)

Mistake-of-Fact Defense and Developmental Disability

A defendant cannot base a reasonable-belief-of-consent defense on the fact that he is developmentally disabled and, as a result, did not act as a reasonable person would have acted. (People v. Castillo (1987) 193 Cal.App.3d 119, 124–125 [238 Cal.Rptr. 207].)

Multiple Rapes

A penetration, however slight, completes the crime of rape; therefore a separate conviction is proper for each penetration that occurs. (People v. Harrison (1989) 48 Cal.3d 321, 329–334 [256 Cal.Rptr. 401, 768 P.2d 1078].)

Resistance Is Not Required

Resistance by the victim is not required for rape; any instruction to that effect is erroneous. (People v. Barnes (1986) 42 Cal.3d 284, 292, 302 [228 Cal.Rptr. 228, 721 P.2d 110].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1001. Rape or Spousal Rape in Concert (Pen. Code, § 264.1)

The defendant[s] [_____ <insert name[s] if not all defendants in trial charged with this count>] (is/are) charged [in Count _____] with committing rape by acting in concert [with _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of uncharged participant[s]>] [in violation of Penal Code section 264.1].

To prove that a defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

<Alternative A—defendant committed rape>

[1.] [The defendant personally committed forcible rape and voluntarily acted with someone else who aided and abetted its commission(;/.)]

[OR]

<Alternative B—defendant aided and abetted>

[(1/2).] [The defendant voluntarily aided and abetted someone else who personally committed forcible rape.]

To decide whether the defendant[s] [or _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of uncharged participant[s]>] committed rape, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on that crime. To decide whether the defendant[s] [or _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of uncharged participant[s]>] aided and abetted rape, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on aiding and abetting. You must apply those instructions when you decide whether the People have proved rape in concert.

<Make certain that all appropriate instructions on rape and aiding and abetting are given.>

[To prove the crime of rape in concert, the People do not have to prove a prearranged plan or scheme to commit rape.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime. (See Pen. Code, § 264.1; People v. Ramirez (1987) 189

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.App.3d 603, 621 [236 Cal.Rptr. 404] [rape in concert is a separate crime, not an enhancement].) The court also has a sua sponte duty to instruct on rape. Give one or more of the following instructions defining rape: CALCRIM No. 1000, or CALCRIM Nos. 1005–1114.

Select alternative A or B, or both, depending on whether the defendant personally committed the crime or aided and abetted someone else.

Depending on the evidence, give the final bracketed paragraph on request regarding the lack of a prearranged plan. (See People v. Calimee (1975) 49 Cal.App.3d 337, 341–342 [122 Cal.Rptr. 658].)

Related Instructions

See generally CALCRIM No. 400, Aiding and Abetting: General Principles and CALCRIM No. 401, Aiding and Abetting: Intended Crimes.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 264.1; see People v. Mom (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 1217, 1224 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 172] [requires no greater force than that necessary for forcible rape], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Griffin (2004) 33 Cal.4th 1015, 1028 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 891, 94 P.3d 1089].
- Forcible Rape Defined. Pen. Code, § 261(a)(2).
- Spousal Rape Defined. Pen. Code, § 262(a)(1).
- Aiding and Abetting. People v. Adams (1993) 19 Cal.App.4th 412, 445–446 [23 Cal.Rptr.2d 512]; see People v. Beeman (1984) 35 Cal.3d 547, 560–561 [199 Cal.Rptr. 60, 674 P.2d 1318].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, § 19.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][a], [2][c] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

There is conflicting authority whether all types of forcible rape may be the basis for charging a rape in concert. (Compare In re Jose M. (1994) 21 Cal.App.4th 1470, 1477 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 55] [rape by duress, menace, and fear unavailable under Pen. Code, § 264.1] and People v. Mom (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 1217, 1222–1223 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 172] [§ 264.1 only includes rape involving "force" and "violence"], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Griffin (2004) 33 Cal.4th 1015, 1028 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 891, 94 P.3d 1089], with People v. Wheeler (1977) 71 Cal.App.3d 902, 907 [139 Cal.Rptr.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

737] [§ 264.1 includes any unlawful use of force, including threat of harm].) The instruction addresses rape accomplished by force or violence. (See Pen. Code, §§ 261(a)(2), 264.1.) If another basis for charging rape in concert is argued, for example, rape by duress, menace, fear, or threats (see Pen. Code, § 261(a)(2), (6), & (7)), see CALCRIM No. 1000, Rape or Spousal Rape by Force, Fear, or Threats for appropriate language that may be included on request.

Penal Code section 264.1 deals with a crime of substance, and is not an enhancement statute, as discussed in People v. Best (1983) 143 Cal.App.3d 232, 237 [191 Cal.Rptr. 614].

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Assault With Intent to Commit Rape. Pen. Code, § 220; In re Jose M. (1994) 21 Cal.App.4th 1470, 1477 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 55]; People v. Moran (1973) 33 Cal.App.3d 724, 730 [109 Cal.Rptr. 287] [where forcible rape is charged].
- Attempted Rape. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 261.
- Battery. Pen. Code, § 242.
- Rape. Pen. Code, §§ 261, 262.

RELATED ISSUES

Need Not Personally Participate

A defendant may be convicted of rape in concert if he or she was at the general scene of the rape and aided and abetted another person in accomplishing the act, even if the defendant did not personally participate in the act or was not personally present at the exact scene of the act. (See People v. Lopez (1981) 116 Cal.App.3d 882, 887–888 [172 Cal.Rptr. 374]; People v. Barnett (1976) 54 Cal.App.3d 1046, 1049 [127 Cal.Rptr. 88] [oral copulation in concert although not in room when act took place]; People v. Champion (1995) 9 Cal.4th 879, 933 [39 Cal.Rptr.2d 547] [rape in concert by holding victim's family at gun point in another room].) However, the Supreme Court has not resolved whether a person acts in concert when his accomplice assists in the commission of the crime, but is not present at the general scene (for example, when the accomplice provides the rapist with information about the victim, or pays the rapist to commit the act). (People v. Champion (1995) 9 Cal.4th 879, 933, fn. 22 [891 P.2d 93].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1002. Rape of Intoxicated Woman or Spouse (Pen. Code, §§ 261(a)(3), 262(a)(2))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with raping (a woman/his wife) while she was intoxicated [in violation of _____ <insert appropriate code section[s]>].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant had sexual intercourse with a woman;
2. He and the woman were (not married/married) to each other at the time of the intercourse;
3. The effect of (a/an) (intoxicating/anesthetic/controlled) substance prevented the woman from resisting;

AND

4. The defendant knew or reasonably should have known that the effect of (a/an) (intoxicating/anesthetic/controlled) substance prevented the woman from resisting.

Sexual intercourse means any penetration, no matter how slight, of the vagina or genitalia by the penis. [Ejaculation is not required.]

A person is prevented from resisting if he or she is so intoxicated that he or she cannot give legal consent. In order to give legal consent, a person must be able to exercise reasonable judgment. In other words, the person must be able to understand and weigh the physical nature of the act, its moral character, and probable consequences. Legal consent is consent given freely and voluntarily by someone who knows the nature of the act involved.

[_____ <If appropriate, insert controlled substance> (is/are) [a] controlled substance[s].]

<Defense: Reasonable Belief Capable of Consent>

[The defendant is not guilty of this crime if he actually and reasonably believed that the woman was capable of consenting to sexual intercourse, even if that belief was wrong. The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant did not actually and reasonably believe that the woman was capable of consenting. If the People have not met this burden,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

you must find the defendant not guilty.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

A space is provided to identify controlled substances, if the parties agree.

Defenses—Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense of reasonable belief the person was capable of consent if there is sufficient evidence to support the defense. (See People v. Giardino (2000) 82 Cal.App.4th 454, 472 [98 Cal.Rptr.2d 315].)

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 1001, Rape or Spousal Rape in Concert, may be given in conjunction with this instruction, if appropriate.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 261(a)(3), 262(a)(2).
- Consent Defined. Pen. Code, § 261.6.
- Controlled Substances. Health & Safety Code, §§ 11054–11058; see People v. Avila (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 791, 798, fn. 7 [95 Cal.Rptr.2d 651].
- Penetration Defined. Pen. Code, § 263; People v. Karsai (1982) 131 Cal.App.3d 224, 233–234 [182 Cal.Rptr. 406], disapproved on other grounds by People v. Jones (1988) 46 Cal.3d 585, 600 [250 Cal.Rptr. 635, 758 P.2d 1165].
- Anesthetic Effect. See People v. Avila (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 791, 798–799 [95 Cal.Rptr.2d 651] [in context of sodomy].
- General Intent and Knowledge Requirements. People v. Linwood (2003) 105 Cal.App.4th 59, 67–72 [129 Cal.Rptr.2d 73] [statute is not impermissibly vague and uses appropriate criminal negligence standard].
- "Prevented From Resisting" Defined. People v. Giardino (2000) 82 Cal.App.4th 454, 465–466 [98 Cal.Rptr.2d 315].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 1–8, 16, 18.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.20[1][a], [5], 142.23[1][e] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

Gender-specific language is used because rape usually occurs between a man and a woman. In keeping with plain English principles, the committee used those terms to make the instruction clear and concrete.

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Rape. Pen. Code, §§ 663, 261(a)(3).
- Attempted Rape of Intoxicated Spouse. Pen. Code, §§ 663, 262(a)(2).

RELATED ISSUES

Administering Drugs to Assist Commission of Felony

A person who administers to someone else any chloroform, ether, laudanum, or any controlled substance, anesthetic, or intoxicating agent, with the intent to enable or assist himself or herself or any other person to commit a felony is guilty of a felony. (Pen. Code, § 222.)

See the Related Issues section to CALCRIM No. 1000, Rape or Spousal Rape by Force, Fear, or Threats.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1003. Rape of Unconscious Woman or Spouse (Pen. Code, §§ 261(a)(4), 262(a)(3))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with raping (a woman/his wife) who was unconscious of the nature of the act [in violation of _____ <insert appropriate code section[s]>].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant had sexual intercourse with a woman;
2. He and the woman were (not married/married) to each other at the time of the intercourse;
3. The woman was unable to resist because she was unconscious of the nature of the act;

AND

4. The defendant knew that the woman was unable to resist because she was unconscious of the nature of the act.

Sexual intercourse means any penetration, no matter how slight, of the vagina or genitalia by the penis. [Ejaculation is not required.]

A woman is unconscious of the nature of the act if she is (unconscious or asleep/ [or] not aware that the act is occurring/ [or] not aware of the essential characteristics of the act because the perpetrator tricked, lied to, or concealed information from her/ [or] not aware of the essential characteristics of the act because the perpetrator fraudulently represented that the sexual penetration served a professional purpose when it served no professional purpose).

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If spousal rape is charged, include the appropriate language throughout the instruction to indicate that the parties were married.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Select the appropriate language defining "unconscious of the nature of the act" based on the facts of the case.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 1001, Rape or Spousal Rape in Concert, may be given in conjunction with this instruction, if appropriate.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 261(a)(4), 262(a)(3).
- Penetration Defined. Pen. Code, § 263; People v. Karsai (1982) 131 Cal.App.3d 224, 233–234 [182 Cal.Rptr. 406], disapproved on other grounds by People v. Jones (1988) 46 Cal.3d 585, 600 [250 Cal.Rptr. 635, 758 P.2d 1165].
- Unconscious of Nature of Act. People v. Howard (1981) 117 Cal.App.3d 53, 55 [172 Cal.Rptr. 539] [total unconsciousness is not required]; see Boro v. Superior Court (1985) 163 Cal.App.3d 1224, 1229–1231 [210 Cal.Rptr. 122] [rape victim not unconscious of nature of act; fraud in the inducement].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 1–8, 15.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][a], [5] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

The statutory language describing unconsciousness includes "was not aware, knowing, perceiving, or cognizant that the act occurred." (See Pen. Code, §§ 261(a)(4)(B)–(D), 262(a)(3)(B), (C).) The committee did not discern any difference among the statutory terms and therefore used "aware" in the instruction. If there is an issue over a particular term, that term should be inserted in the instruction.

Gender-specific language is used because rape usually occurs between a man and a woman. In keeping with plain English principles, the committee used those terms to make the instruction clear and concrete.

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Rape of Unconscious Woman. Pen. Code, §§ 663, 261(a)(4).
- Attempted Rape of Unconscious Spouse. Pen. Code, §§ 663, 262(a)(3).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

RELATED ISSUES

Advance Consent

Neither a woman's actual "advance consent" nor a man's belief in "advance consent" eliminates the wrongfulness of a man's conduct in knowingly depriving an unconscious woman of her freedom of choice both at the initiation of and during sexual intercourse. A person who commits the prohibited act necessarily acts with a wrongful intent. (People v. Dancy (2002) 102 Cal.App.4th 21, 37 [124 Cal.Rptr.2d 898].)

See the Related Issues section in CALCRIM No. 1000, Rape or Spousal Rape by Force, Fear, or Threats.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1004. Rape of a Disabled Woman (Pen. Code, § 261(a)(1))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with raping a mentally or physically disabled woman [in violation of Penal Code section 261(a)(1)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant had sexual intercourse with a woman;
2. He and the woman were not married to each other at the time of the intercourse;
3. The woman had a (mental disorder/developmental or physical disability) that prevented her from legally consenting;

AND

4. The defendant knew or reasonably should have known that the woman had a (mental disorder/developmental or physical disability) that prevented her from legally consenting.

Sexual intercourse means any penetration, no matter how slight, of the vagina or genitalia by the penis. [Ejaculation is not required.]

A woman is prevented from legally consenting if she is unable to understand the act, its nature, and possible consequences.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 1001, Rape or Spousal Rape in Concert, may be given in conjunction with this instruction, if appropriate.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 261(a)(1).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Consent Defined. Pen. Code, § 261.6; People v. Boggs (1930) 107 Cal.App. 492, 495–496 [290 P. 618].
- Penetration Defined. Pen. Code, § 263; People v. Karsai (1982) 131 Cal.App.3d 224, 233–234 [182 Cal.Rptr. 406], disapproved on other grounds by People v. Jones (1988) 46 Cal.3d 585, 600 [250 Cal.Rptr. 635, 758 P.2d 1165].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 1–8, 17.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][a], [5] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

Gender-specific language is used because rape usually occurs between a man and a woman. In keeping with plain English principles, the committee used those terms to make the instruction clear and concrete.

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Rape. Pen. Code, §§ 663, 261.

RELATED ISSUES

No Duty to Define "Developmental Disability"

There is no sua sponte duty to define "developmental disability" under Welfare and Institutions Code section 4512(a) or Penal Code section 1370.1(a)(1). The Legislature did not intend to limit this phrase to such technical medical or legal definitions, although a pinpoint instruction may be requested if it helps the jury in any particular case. (People v. Mobley (1999) 72 Cal.App.4th 761, 781–783 [85 Cal.Rptr.2d 474] [in context of oral copulation].)

See the Related Issues section under CALCRIM No. 1000, Rape or Spousal Rape by Force, Fear, or Threats.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1005. Rape by Fraud (Pen. Code, § 261(a)(5))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with rape by fraud [in violation of Penal Code section 261(a)(5)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant had sexual intercourse with a woman;
2. He and the woman were not married to each other at the time of the intercourse;
3. The woman submitted to the intercourse because she believed the defendant was her husband;

AND

4. The defendant tricked her, lied to her, [used an artifice or pretense,] or concealed information from her, intending to make her believe they were married to each other.

Sexual intercourse means any penetration, no matter how slight, of the vagina or genitalia by the penis. [Ejaculation is not required.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 261(a)(5).
- Penetration Defined. Pen. Code, § 263; People v. Karsai (1982) 131 Cal.App.3d 224, 233–234 [182 Cal.Rptr. 406], disapproved on other grounds by People v. Jones (1988) 46 Cal.3d 585, 600 [250 Cal.Rptr. 635, 758 P.2d 1165].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 1–8, 13.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][a], [6] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

Gender-specific language is used because rape usually occurs between a man and a woman. In keeping with plain English principles, the committee used those terms to make the instruction clear and concrete.

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Rape. Pen. Code, §§ 663, 261.

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section to CALCRIM No. 1000, Rape or Spousal Rape by Force, Fear, or Threats.

1006–1014. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(ii) Oral Copulation

1015. Oral Copulation by Force, Fear, or Threats (Pen. Code, § 288a(c)(2) & (3), (k))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with oral copulation by force [in violation of Penal Code section 288a].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant committed an act of oral copulation with someone else;
2. The other person did not consent to the act;

AND

3. The defendant accomplished the act by

<Alternative 3A—force or fear>

[force, violence, duress, menace, or fear of immediate and unlawful bodily injury to someone.]

<Alternative 3B—future threats of bodily harm>

[threatening to retaliate against someone when there was a reasonable possibility that the threat would be carried out. A threat to retaliate is a threat to kidnap, unlawfully restrain or confine, or inflict extreme pain, serious bodily injury, or death.]

<Alternative 3C—threat of official action>

[threatening to use the authority of a public office to incarcerate, arrest, or deport someone. A public official is a person employed by a government agency who has the authority to incarcerate, arrest, or deport. The other person must have reasonably believed that the defendant was a public official even if (he/she) was not.]

Oral copulation* is any contact, no matter how slight, between the mouth of one person and the sexual organ or anus of another person. Penetration is not required.

[In order to consent, a person must act freely and voluntarily and know the nature of the act.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[Evidence that the defendant and the person (dated/were married/had been married) is not enough by itself to constitute consent.]

[Evidence that the person (requested/suggested/communicated) that the defendant use a condom or other birth control device is not enough by itself to constitute consent.]

[An act is accomplished by force if a person uses enough physical force to overcome the other person's will.]

[Duress means a direct or implied threat of force, violence, danger, hardship, or retribution that causes a reasonable person to do [or submit to] something that he or she would not otherwise do [or submit to]. When deciding whether the act was accomplished by duress, consider all the circumstances, including the age of the other person and (his/her) relationship to the defendant.]

[Retribution is a form of payback or revenge.]

[Menace means a threat, statement, or act showing an intent to injure someone.]

[An act is accomplished by fear if the other person is actually and reasonably afraid [or (he/she) is actually but unreasonably afraid and the defendant knows of (his/her) fear and takes advantage of it].]

[The defendant is not guilty of forcible oral copulation if he or she actually and reasonably believed that the other person consented to the act. The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant did not actually and reasonably believe that the person consented. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty.]

New January 2006; Revised August 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Select the appropriate alternative in element 3 to instruct how the act was allegedly accomplished.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 288a(c)(2) & (3), (k).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Consent Defined. Pen. Code, §§ 261.6, 261.7.
- Duress Defined. People v. Leal (2004) 33 Cal.4th 999, 1004–1010 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 869, 94 P.3d 1071]; People v. Pitmon (1985) 170 Cal.App.3d 38, 50 [216 Cal.Rptr. 221].
- Menace Defined. Pen. Code, § 261(c) [in context of rape].
- Oral Copulation Defined. Pen. Code, § 288a(a); People v. Grim (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1240, 1242–1243 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 884].
- Threatening to Retaliate Defined. Pen. Code, § 288a(l).
- Fear Defined. People v. Reyes (1984) 153 Cal.App.3d 803, 810 [200 Cal.Rptr. 651]; People v. Iniguez (1994) 7 Cal.4th 847 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 258, 872 P.2d 1183] [in context of rape].
- Force Defined. People v. Griffin (2004) 33 Cal.4th 1015, 1023–1024 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 891, 94 P.3d 1089]; People v. Guido (2005) 125 Cal.App.4th 566, 574–576 [22 Cal.Rptr.3d 826].
- Threatening to Retaliate. People v. White (2005) 133 Cal.App.4th 473, 484–485 [34 Cal.Rptr.3d 848]; People v. Ward (1986) 188 Cal.App.3d 459, 468 [233 Cal.Rptr. 477].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 31–34.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][c], [2] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

Penal Code section 288a requires that the oral copulation be "against the will" of the other person. (Pen. Code, § 288a(c)(2) & (3), (k).) "Against the will" has been defined as "without consent." (People v. Key (1984) 153 Cal.App.3d 888, 895 [203 Cal.Rptr. 144]; see also People v. Young (1987) 190 Cal.App.3d 248, 257 [235 Cal.Rptr. 361].)

The instruction includes a definition of the sufficiency of "fear" because that term has meaning in the context of forcible oral copulation that is technical and may not be readily apparent to jurors. (See People v. Iniguez (1994) 7 Cal.4th 847, 856–857 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 258, 872 P.2d 1183] [fear in context of rape].)

The court is not required to instruct sua sponte on the definition of "duress" or "menace" and Penal Code section 288a does not define either term. (People v. Pitmon (1985) 170 Cal.App.3d 38, 52 [216 Cal.Rptr. 221] [duress]). Optional definitions are provided for the court to use at its discretion. The definition of "duress" is based on People v. Leal (2004) 33 Cal.4th 999, 1004–1010 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 869, 94 P.3d 1071], and People v. Pitmon (1985) 170 Cal.App.3d 38, 50 [216 Cal.Rptr. 221]. The definition of "menace" is based on the statutory definitions contained in Penal Code sections 261 and 262 [rape]. (See People v. Cochran (2002) 103 Cal.App.4th 8, 13–14 [126 Cal.Rptr.2d 416] [using rape definition in case involving forcible lewd acts].) In People v. Leal, supra, 33 Cal.4th at pp. 1004–1010, the court held that the statutory definition of "duress" contained in Penal Code sections 261 and 262 does not apply to the use of that term in any other statute. The court did not discuss the statutory definition of "menace." The court should consider the Leal opinion before giving the definition of "menace."

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

The term "force" as used in the forcible sex offense statutes does not have a specialized meaning and court is not required to define the term sua sponte. (People v. Griffin (2004) 33 Cal.4th 1015, 1023–1024; People v. Guido (2005) 125 Cal.App.4th 566, 574–576 [22 Cal.Rptr.3d 826]). In People v. Griffin, supra, the Supreme Court further stated,

> Nor is there anything in the common usage definitions of the term "force," or in the express statutory language of section 261 itself, that suggests force in a forcible rape prosecution actually means force "substantially different from or substantially greater than" the physical force normally inherent in an act of consensual sexual intercourse. [People v. Cicero (1984) 157 Cal.App.3d 465, 474 [204 Cal.Rptr. 582].] To the contrary, it has long been recognized that "in order to establish force within the meaning of section 261, subdivision (2), the prosecution need only show the defendant used physical force of a degree sufficient to support a finding that the act of sexual intercourse was against the will of the [victim]." (People v. Young (1987) 190 Cal.App.3d 248, 257–258 [235 Cal.Rptr. 361].)

(People v. Griffin, supra, 33 Cal.4th at pp. 1023–1024 [emphasis in original]; see also People v. Guido (2005) 125 Cal.App.4th 566, 574–576 [22 Cal.Rptr.3d 826] [Griffin reasoning applies to violation of Pen. Code, § 288a(c)(2)].)

The committee has provided a bracketed definition of "force," consistent with People v. Griffin, supra, that the court may give on request.

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Assault With Intent to Commit Oral Copulation. Pen. Code, § 220; see In re Jose M. (1994) 21 Cal.App.4th 1470, 1477 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 55] [in context of rape]; People v. Moran (1973) 33 Cal.App.3d 724, 730 [109 Cal.Rptr. 287] [where forcible crime is charged].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Attempted Oral Copulation. Pen. Code, §§ 663, 288a.
- Battery. Pen. Code, § 242.

RELATED ISSUES

Consent Obtained by Fraudulent Representation

A person may also induce someone else to consent to engage in oral copulation by a false or fraudulent representation made with an intent to create fear, and which does induce fear and would cause a reasonable person to act contrary to his or her free will. (Pen. Code, § 266c.) While section 266c requires coercion and fear to obtain consent, it does not involve physical force or violence. (See People v. Cardenas (1994) 21 Cal.App.4th 927, 937–938 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 567] [rejecting defendant's argument that certain acts were consensual and without physical force, and were only violations of section 266c].)

Consent Withdrawn

A forcible rape occurs when, during apparently consensual intercourse, the victim expresses an objection and attempts to stop the act and the defendant forcibly continues despite the objection. (In re John Z. (2003) 29 Cal.4th 756, 760 [128 Cal.Rptr.2d 783, 60 P.3d 183].) If there is an issue whether consent to oral copulation was withdrawn, see CALCRIM No. 1000, Rape or Spousal Rape by Force, Fear, or Threats, for language that may be adapted for use in this instruction.

Multiple Acts of Oral Copulation

An accused may be convicted for multiple, nonconsensual sex acts of an identical nature that follow one another in quick, uninterrupted succession. (People v. Catelli (1991) 227 Cal.App.3d 1434, 1446–1447 [278 Cal.Rptr. 452] [defendant properly convicted of multiple violations of Pen. Code, § 288a where he interrupted the acts of copulation and forced victims to change positions].)

Sexual Organ

A man's "sexual organ" for purposes of Penal Code section 288a includes the penis and the scrotum. (Pen. Code, § 288a; People v. Catelli (1991) 227 Cal.App.3d 1434, 1448–1449 [278 Cal.Rptr. 452].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1016. Oral Copulation in Concert (Pen. Code, § 288a(d))

The defendant[s] [_____ <insert name[s] if not all defendants in trial charged with this count>] (is/are) charged [in Count _____] with committing oral copulation by acting in concert [with _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of uncharged participant[s]>] [in violation of Penal Code section 288a(d)].

To prove that a defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

<Alternative A—defendant committed oral copulation>

[1.] [The defendant personally committed oral copulation and voluntarily acted with someone else who aided and abetted its commission(;/.)]

[OR]

<Alternative B—defendant aided and abetted>

[(1/2).] [The defendant voluntarily aided and abetted someone else who personally committed oral copulation.]

To decide whether the defendant[s] [or _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of uncharged participant[s]>] committed oral copulation, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on that crime. To decide whether the defendant[s] [or _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of uncharged participant[s]>] aided and abetted oral copulation, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on aiding and abetting. You must apply those instructions when you decide whether the People have proved oral copulation in concert.

<MAKE CERTAIN THAT ALL APPROPRIATE INSTRUCTIONS ON ORAL COPULATION AND AIDING AND ABETTING ARE GIVEN.>

[To prove the crime of oral copulation in concert, the People do not have to prove a prearranged plan or scheme to commit oral copulation.]

New January 2006

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime. (See Pen. Code, § 288a(d).) The court also has a sua sponte duty to instruct on oral copulation. Give one or more of the following instructions defining oral copulation: CALCRIM No. 1015 or CALCRIM Nos. 1017–1022.

Select alternative A or B, or both, depending on whether the defendant personally committed the crime or aided and abetted someone else.

Depending on the evidence, give the final bracketed paragraph on request regarding the lack of a prearranged plan. (See People v. Calimee (1975) 49 Cal.App.3d 337, 341–342 [122 Cal.Rptr. 658].)

Related Instructions

See generally CALCRIM No. 400, Aiding and Abetting: General Principles, and CALCRIM No. 401, Aiding and Abetting: Intended Crimes.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 288a(d).
- Aiding and Abetting. People v. Adams (1993) 19 Cal.App.4th 412, 429, 444–446 [23 Cal.Rptr.2d 512]; People v. Caldwell (1984) 153 Cal.App.3d 947, 951–952 [200 Cal.Rptr. 508]; People v. Calimee (1975) 49 Cal.App.3d 337, 341–342 [122 Cal.Rptr. 658] [in context of sodomy in concert].
- Consent Defined. People v. Boggs (1930) 107 Cal.App. 492, 495–496 [290 P. 618].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 31, 36.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][c], [2][c] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Assault With Intent to Commit Oral Copulation. Pen. Code, § 220; see In re Jose M. (1994) 21 Cal.App.4th 1470, 1477 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 55] [in context of rape]; People v. Moran (1973) 33 Cal.App.3d 724, 730 [109 Cal.Rptr. 287] [when forcible crime is charged].
- Attempted Oral Copulation. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 288a.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Attempted Oral Copulation in Concert. Pen. Code, §§ 663, 288a(d).
- Battery. Pen. Code, § 242.
- Oral Copulation. Pen. Code, § 288a.

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues sections under CALCRIM No. 1015, Oral Copulation by Force, Fear, or Threats, and CALCRIM No. 1001, Rape or Spousal Rape in Concert.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1017. Oral Copulation of an Intoxicated Person (Pen. Code, § 288a(a), (i))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with oral copulation of a person while that person was intoxicated [in violation of Penal Code section 288a(i)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant committed an act of oral copulation with another person;
2. An (intoxicating/anesthetic/controlled) substance prevented the other person from resisting;

AND

3. The defendant knew or reasonably should have known that the effect of an (intoxicating/anesthetic/controlled) substance prevented the other person from resisting.

Oral copulation is any contact, no matter how slight, between the mouth of one person and the sexual organ or anus of another person. Penetration is not required.

A person is prevented from resisting if he or she is so intoxicated that he or she cannot give legal consent. In order to give legal consent, a person must be able to exercise reasonable judgment. In other words, the person must be able to understand and weigh the physical nature of the act, its moral character, and probable consequences. Legal consent is consent given freely and voluntarily by someone who knows the nature of the act involved.

[_____ <If appropriate, insert controlled substance> (is/are) [a] controlled substance[s].]

<Defense: Reasonable Belief Capable of Consent>

[The defendant is not guilty of this crime if (he/she) actually and reasonably believed that the person was capable of consenting to oral copulation, even if the defendant's belief was wrong. The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant did not actually and reasonably believe that the woman was capable of consenting. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

A space is provided to identify controlled substances if the parties agree that there is no issue of fact.

Defenses—Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense of reasonable belief the person was capable of consent if there is sufficient evidence to support the defense. (See People v. Giardino (2000) 82 Cal.App.4th 454, 472 [98 Cal.Rptr.2d 315].)

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 1016, Oral Copulation in Concert, may be given in conjunction with this instruction, if appropriate.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 288a(a), (i).
- Consent Defined. Pen. Code, § 261.6.
- Controlled Substances. Health & Safety Code, §§ 11054–11058; see People v. Avila(2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 791, 798, fn. 7 [95 Cal.Rptr.2d 651].
- Anesthetic Effect. See People v. Avila (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 791, 798–799 [95 Cal.Rptr.2d 651] [in context of sodomy].
- Oral Copulation Defined. People v. Grim (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1240, 1242–1243 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 884].
- "Prevented From Resisting" Defined. See People v. Giardino (2000) 82 Cal.App.4th 454, 465–466 [98 Cal.Rptr.2d 315] [rape of intoxicated woman].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 31–33, 35.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][c], [5] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Oral Copulation. Pen. Code, §§ 663, 288a.

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section to CALCRIM No. 1015, Oral Copulation by Force, Fear, or Threats.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1018. Oral Copulation of an Unconscious Person (Pen. Code, § 288a(a), (f))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with oral copulation of a person who was unconscious of the nature of the act [in violation of Penal Code section 288a(f)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant committed an act of oral copulation with another person;
2. The other person was unable to resist because (he/she) was unconscious of the nature of the act;

AND

3. The defendant knew that the other person was unable to resist because (he/she) was unconscious of the nature of the act.

Oral copulation is any contact, no matter how slight, between the mouth of one person and the sexual organ or anus of another person. Penetration is not required.

A person is unconscious of the nature of the act if he or she is (unconscious or asleep/ [or] not aware that the act is occurring/ [or] not aware of the essential characteristics of the act because the perpetrator tricked, lied to, or concealed information from the person/ [or] not aware of the essential characteristics of the act because the perpetrator fraudulently represented that the oral copulation served a professional purpose when it served no professional purpose).

New January 2006

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 1016, Oral Copulation in Concert, may be given in conjunction with this instruction, if appropriate.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 288a(a), (f).
- Oral Copulation Defined. People v. Grim (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1240, 1242–1243 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 884].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 31–33, 35.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][c], [5] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

The statutory language describing unconsciousness includes "was not aware, knowing, perceiving, or cognizant that the act occurred." (See Pen. Code, § 288a(f)(2)–(4).) The committee did not discern any difference among the statutory terms and therefore used "aware" in the instruction. If there is an issue over a particular term, that term should be inserted in the instruction.

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Oral Copulation. Pen. Code, §§ 663, 288a.

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues Section to CALCRIM No. 1015, Oral Copulation by Force, Fear, or Threats.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1019. Oral Copulation of a Disabled Person (Pen. Code, § 288a(a), (g))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with oral copulation of a mentally or physically disabled person [in violation of Penal Code section 288a(g)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant committed an act of oral copulation with someone else;
2. The other person had a (mental disorder/developmental or physical disability) that prevented (him/her) from legally consenting;

AND

3. The defendant knew or reasonably should have known that the other person had a (mental disorder/developmental or physical disability) that prevented (him/her) from legally consenting.

Oral copulation is any contact, no matter how slight, between the mouth of one person and the sexual organ or anus of another person. Penetration is not required.

A person is prevented from legally consenting if he or she is unable to understand the act, its nature, and possible consequences.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 1016, Oral Copulation in Concert, may be given in conjunction with this instruction, if appropriate.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 288a(a), (g).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Consent Defined. Pen. Code, § 261.6; People v. Boggs (1930) 107 Cal.App. 492, 495–496 [290 P. 618].
- Oral Copulation Defined. People v. Grim (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1240, 1242–1243 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 884].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 31–33, 35.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][c], [5] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Oral Copulation. Pen. Code, §§ 663, 288a.

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues Section to CALCRIM No. 1015, Oral Copulation by Force, Fear, or Threats, and CALCRIM No. 1004, Rape of a Disabled Woman.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1020. Oral Copulation of a Disabled Person in a Mental Hospital (Pen. Code, § 288a(a), (h))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with oral copulation of a mentally or physically disabled person in a mental hospital [in violation of Penal Code section 288a(h)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant committed an act of oral copulation with someone else;
2. The other person had a (mental disorder/developmental or physical disability) that prevented (him/her) from legally consenting;
3. The defendant knew or reasonably should have known that the other person had a (mental disorder/developmental or physical disability) that prevented (him/her) from legally consenting;

AND

4. At the time of the act, both people were confined in a state hospital or other mental health facility.

Oral copulation* is any contact, no matter how slight, between the mouth of one person and the sexual organ or anus of another person. Penetration is not required.

A person is incapable of giving legal consent if he or she is unable to understand the act, its nature, and possible consequences.

[_____ <Insert name of facility> is a (state hospital/mental health facility).] [A state hospital or other mental health facility includes a state hospital for the care and treatment of the mentally disordered or any other public or private facility approved by a county mental health director for the care and treatment of the mentally disordered.]

New January 2006

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

A space is provided to identify a facility as a state hospital or other mental health facility if the parties agree that there is no issue of fact. Alternatively, if there is a factual dispute about whether an institution is a state hospital or other mental health facility, give the final bracketed sentence. (See Pen. Code, § 288a(h).)

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 1016, Oral Copulation in Concert, may be given in conjunction with this instruction, if appropriate.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 288a(a), (h).
- State Hospital or Mental Health Facility Defined. Pen. Code, § 288a(h); see Welf. & Inst. Code, § 7100 [county psychiatric facilities], § 7200 [state hospitals for mentally disordered], § 7500 [state hospitals for developmentally disabled].
- Legal Consent. People v. Boggs (1930) 107 Cal.App. 492, 495–496 [290 P. 618].
- Oral Copulation Defined. People v. Grim (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1240, 1242–1243 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 884].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 31–33, 35.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][c], [5] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Oral Copulation. Pen. Code, §§ 663, 288a.

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues Section to CALCRIM No. 1015, Oral Copulation by Force, Fear, or Threats, and CALCRIM No. 1004, Rape of a Disabled Woman.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1021. Oral Copulation by Fraud (Pen. Code, § 288a(a), (j))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with oral copulation by fraud [in violation of Penal Code section 288a(j)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant committed an act of oral copulation with someone else;
2. The other person submitted to the oral copulation because (he/she) believed the person was (his/her) spouse;

AND

3. The defendant tricked, lied, [used an artifice or pretense,] or concealed information, intending to make the other person believe they were married to each other.

Oral copulation is any contact, no matter how slight, between the mouth of one person and the sexual organ or anus of another person. Penetration is not required.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 288a(a), (j).
- Oral Copulation Defined. People v. Grim (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1240, 1242–1243 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 884].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crime Against Decency, §§ 31–34.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][c], [6] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Oral Copulation. Pen. Code, §§ 663, 288a.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues Section to CALCRIM No. 1015, Oral Copulation by Force, Fear, or Threats.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1022. Oral Copulation While in Custody (Pen. Code, § 288a(a), (e))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with oral copulation committed while (he/she) was confined in (state prison/a local detention facility) [in violation of Penal Code section 288a(e)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant participated in an act of oral copulation with someone else;

AND

2. At the time of the act, the defendant was confined in a (state prison/local detention facility).

Oral copulation is any contact, no matter how slight, between the mouth of one person and the sexual organ or anus of another person. Penetration is not required.

[_____ <insert name of facility> is a (state prison/local detention facility).] [A state prison is any prison or institution maintained by the Department of Corrections.] [A local detention facility includes any city, county, or regional jail or other facility used to confine adults [or both adults and minors].]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

A space is provided to identify a state prison or local detention facility if the parties agree that there is no issue of fact. Alternatively, if there is a factual dispute about whether the defendant was confined in a state prison or local detention facility, give the second or third bracketed sentences (or both, if necessary). (See Pen. Code, §§ 4504, 5003, 6031.4.)

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 1016, Oral Copulation in Concert, may be given in conjunction with this instruction, if appropriate.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 288a(a), (e).
- Local Detention Facility Defined. Pen. Code, § 6031.4.
- State Prison Defined. Pen. Code, §§ 4504, 5003.
- Oral Copulation Defined. People v. Grim (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1240, 1242–1243 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 884].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 31–32.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][c], [4] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Oral Copulation. Pen. Code, §§ 663, 288a.

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues Section to CALCRIM No. 1015, Oral Copulation by Force, Fear, or Threats.

1023–1029. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(iii) Sodomy

1030. Sodomy by Force, Fear, or Threats (Pen. Code, § 286(c)(2), (3), (k))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with sodomy by force [in violation of Penal Code section 286].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant committed an act of sodomy with another person;
2. The other person did not consent to the act;

AND

3. The defendant accomplished the act:

<Alternative 3A—force or fear>

[by force, violence, duress, menace, or fear of immediate and unlawful bodily injury to another person.]

<Alternative 3B—future threats of bodily harm>

[by threatening to retaliate against someone when there was a reasonable possibility that the defendant would carry out the threat. A threat to retaliate is a threat to kidnap, unlawfully restrain or confine, or inflict extreme pain, serious bodily injury, or death.]

<Alternative 3C—threat of official action>

[by threatening to use the authority of a public office to incarcerate, arrest, or deport someone. A public official is a person employed by a government agency who has authority to incarcerate, arrest, or deport. The other person must have reasonably believed that the defendant was a public official even if (he/she) was not.]

Sodomy* is any penetration, no matter how slight, of the anus of one person by the penis of another person. [Ejaculation is not required.]

[In order to consent, a person must act freely and voluntarily and know the nature of the act.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[Evidence that the defendant and the other person (dated/were married/had been married) is not enough by itself to constitute consent.]

[Evidence that the other person (requested/suggested/communicated) that the defendant use a condom or other birth control device is not enough by itself to constitute consent.]

[An act is accomplished by force if a person uses enough physical force to overcome the other person's will.]

[Duress means a direct or implied threat of force, violence, danger, hardship, or retribution that causes a reasonable person to do [or submit to] something that he or she would not otherwise do [or submit to]. When deciding whether the act was accomplished by duress, consider all the circumstances, including the age of the other person and (his/her) relationship to the defendant.]

[Retribution is a form of payback or revenge.]

[Menace means a threat, statement, or act showing an intent to injure someone.]

[An act is accomplished by fear if the other person is actually and reasonably afraid [or he or she is actually but unreasonably afraid and the defendant knows of his or her fear and takes advantage of it].]

<Defense: Reasonable Belief in Consent>

[The defendant is not guilty of forcible sodomy if (he/she) actually and reasonably believed that the other person consented to the act. The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant did not actually and reasonably believe that the other person consented. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty.]

New January 2006; Revised August 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of sodomy. (Pen. Code, § 286(c)(2), (3), (k); People v. Martinez (1986) 188 Cal.App.3d 19, 24–26 [232 Cal.Rptr. 736]; People v. Moore (1989) 211

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.App.3d 1400, 1407 [260 Cal.Rptr. 134].)

The court should select the appropriate alternative in element 3 to instruct how the sodomy was accomplished.

Defenses—Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense of reasonable belief in consent if there is "substantial evidence of equivocal conduct that would have led a defendant to reasonably and in good faith believe consent existed where it did not." (See People v. Williams (1992) 4 Cal.4th 354, 362 [14 Cal.Rptr.2d 441, 841 P.2d 961]; People v. Mayberry (1975) 15 Cal.3d 143, 153–158 [125 Cal.Rptr. 745, 542 P.2d 1337].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 286(c)(2), (3), (k).
- Consent Defined. Pen. Code, §§ 261.6, 261.7.
- Duress Defined. People v. Leal (2004) 33 Cal.4th 999, 1004–1010 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 869, 94 P.3d 1071]; People v. Pitmon (1985) 170 Cal.App.3d 38, 50 [216 Cal.Rptr. 221].
- Menace Defined. Pen. Code, § 261(c) [in context of rape].
- Sodomy Defined. Pen. Code, § 286(a); see People v. Singh (1923) 62 Cal.App. 450, 452 [217 P. 121] [ejaculation is not required].
- Threatening to Retaliate Defined. Pen. Code, § 286(l).
- Fear Defined. People v. Reyes (1984) 153 Cal.App.3d 803, 810 [200 Cal.Rptr. 651]; People v. Iniguez (1994) 7 Cal.4th 847, 856 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 258, 872 P.2d 1183] [in context of rape].
- Force Defined. People v. Griffin (2004) 33 Cal.4th 1015, 1023–1024 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 891, 94 P.3d 1089]; see also People v. Guido (2005) 125 Cal.App.4th 566, 574 [22 Cal.Rptr.3d 826].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 25, 26, 28.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][b], [2] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

Penal Code section 286 requires that the sodomy be "against the will" of the other person. (Pen. Code, § 286(c)(2), (3), (k).) "Against the will" has been defined as "without consent." (People v. Key (1984) 153 Cal.App.3d 888, 895

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[203 Cal.Rptr. 144] [in context of rape]; see also People v. Young (1987) 190 Cal.App.3d 248, 257 [235 Cal.Rptr. 361].)

The instruction includes a definition of the sufficiency of "fear" because that term has meaning in the context of forcible sodomy that is technical and may not be readily apparent to jurors. (See People v. Reyes (1984) 153 Cal.App.3d 803, 810 [200 Cal.Rptr. 651] [fear]; People v. Iniguez (1994) 7 Cal.4th 847, 856–857 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 258, 872 P.2d 1183] [fear in context of rape].)

The court is not required to instruct sua sponte on the definition of "duress" or "menace" and Penal Code section 286 does not define either term. (People v. Pitmon (1985) 170 Cal.App.3d 38, 52 [216 Cal.Rptr. 221] [duress]). Optional definitions are provided for the court to use at its discretion. The definition of "duress" is based on People v. Leal (2004) 33 Cal.4th 999, 1004–1010 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 869, 94 P.3d 1071], and People v. Pitmon, supra, 170 Cal.App.3d at 50. The definition of "menace" is based on the statutory definitions contained in Penal Code sections 261 and 262 [rape]. (See People v. Cochran (2002) 103 Cal.App.4th 8, 13–14 [126 Cal.Rptr.2d 416] [using rape definition in case involving forcible lewd acts].) In People v. Leal, supra, 33 Cal.4th at pp. 1004–1010, the court held that the statutory definition of "duress" contained in Penal Code sections 261 and 262 does not apply to the use of that term in any other statute. The court did not discuss the statutory definition of "menace." The court should consider the Leal opinion before giving the definition of "menace."

The term "force" as used in the forcible sex offense statutes does not have a specialized meaning and court is not required to define the term sua sponte. (People v. Griffin (2004) 33 Cal.4th 1015, 1023–1024 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 891, 94 P.3d 1089].) In People v. Griffin, supra, the Supreme Court further stated,

> Nor is there anything in the common usage definitions of the term "force," or in the express statutory language of section 261 itself, that suggests force in a forcible rape prosecution actually means force "substantially different from or substantially greater than" the physical force normally inherent in an act of consensual sexual intercourse. (People v. Cicero (1984) 157 Cal.App.3d 465, 474 [204 Cal.Rptr. 582].) To the contrary, it has long been recognized that "in order to establish force within the meaning of section 261, [former] subdivision (2), the prosecution need only show the defendant used physical force of a degree sufficient to support a finding that the act of sexual intercourse was against the will of the [victim]." (People v. Young (1987) 190 Cal.App.3d 248, 257–258 [235 Cal.Rptr. 361].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(Ibid. [emphasis in original]; see also People v. Guido (2005) 125 Cal.App.4th 566, 574 [22 Cal.Rptr.3d 826].)

The committee has provided a bracketed definition of "force," consistent with People v. Griffin, supra, that the court may give on request.

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Assault With Intent to Commit Sodomy. Pen. Code, § 220; see In re Jose M. (1994) 21 Cal.App.4th 1470, 1477 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 55] [in context of rape]; People v. Moran (1973) 33 Cal.App.3d 724, 730 [109 Cal.Rptr. 287] [where forcible crime is charged].
- Attempted Forcible Sodomy. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 286.
- Battery. Pen. Code, § 242; People v. Hughes (2002) 27 Cal.4th 287, 366 [116 Cal.Rptr.2d 401, 39 P.3d 432].

Non-forcible sex crimes requiring the perpetrator and victim to be within certain age limits are not lesser included offenses of forcible sex crimes. (People v. Scott (2000) 83 Cal.App.4th 784, 794 [100 Cal.Rptr.2d 70].)

RELATED ISSUES

Consent Obtained by Fraudulent Representation

A person may also induce someone else to consent to engage in sodomy by a false or fraudulent representation made with an intent to create fear, and which does induce fear and would cause a reasonable person to act contrary to his or her free will. (Pen. Code, § 266c.) While section 266c requires coercion and fear to obtain consent, it does not involve physical force or violence. (See People v. Cardenas (1994) 21 Cal.App.4th 927, 937–938 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 567] [rejecting defendant's argument that certain acts were consensual and without physical force, and were only violations of section 266c].)

Consent Withdrawn

A forcible rape occurs when, during apparently consensual intercourse, the victim expresses an objection and attempts to stop the act and the defendant forcibly continues despite the objection. (In re John Z. (2003) 29 Cal.4th 756, 760 [128 Cal.Rptr.2d 783, 60 P.3d 183].) If there is an issue whether consent to sodomy was withdrawn, see CALCRIM No. 1000, Rape or

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Spousal Rape by Force, Fear, or Threats, for language that may be adapted for use in this instruction.

Victim Must Be Alive

Sodomy requires that the victim be alive at the moment of penetration. (People v. Davis (1995) 10 Cal.4th 463, 521, fn. 20 [41 Cal.Rptr.2d 826, 896 P.2d 119]; People v. Ramirez (1990) 50 Cal.3d 1158, 1176 [270 Cal.Rptr. 286, 791 P.2d 965].) Sodomy with a deceased victim can constitute attempted sodomy if the defendant attempted an act of forcible sodomy while the victim was alive or with the mistaken belief that the victim was alive. (People v. Davis, supra, 10 Cal.4th at p. 521, fn. 20; People v. Hart (1999) 20 Cal.4th 546, 611 [85 Cal.Rptr.2d 132, 976 P.2d 683].)

Penetration May Be Through Victim's Clothing

If there is penetration into a victim's anus by a perpetrator's sexual organ, it is sodomy, even if the victim is wearing clothing at the time. (People v. Ribera (2005) 133 Cal.App.4th 81, 85–86 [34 Cal.Rptr.3d 538]).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1031. Sodomy in Concert (Pen. Code, § 286(d))

The defendant[s] [_____ <insert name[s] if not all defendants in trial charged with this count>] (is/are) charged [in Count _____] with committing sodomy by acting in concert [with _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of uncharged participant[s]>] [in violation of Penal Code section 286(d)].

To prove that a defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

<Alternative A—defendant committed sodomy>

[1.] [The defendant personally committed sodomy and voluntarily acted with someone else who aided and abetted its commission(;/.)]

[OR]

<Alternative B—defendant aided and abetted>

[(1/2).] [The defendant voluntarily aided and abetted someone else who personally committed sodomy.]

To decide whether the defendant[s] [or _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of uncharged participant[s]>] committed sodomy, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on that crime. To decide whether the defendant[s] [or _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of uncharged participant[s]>] aided and abetted sodomy, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on aiding and abetting. You must apply those instructions when you decide whether the People have proved sodomy in concert.

<MAKE CERTAIN THAT ALL APPROPRIATE INSTRUCTIONS ON SODOMY AND AIDING AND ABETTING ARE GIVEN.>

[To prove the crime of sodomy in concert, the People do not have to prove a prearranged plan or scheme to commit sodomy.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime. (People v. Ramirez (1987) 189 Cal.App.3d 603, 621 [236

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.Rptr. 404] [rape in concert is a separate crime, not an enhancement].) The court also has a sua sponte duty to instruct on sodomy. Give one or more of the following instructions defining sodomy: CALCRIM No. 1030 or CALCRIM Nos. 1032–1037.

Select alternative A or B, or both, depending on whether the defendant personally committed the crime or aided and abetted someone else.

Depending on the evidence, give the final bracketed paragraph on request regarding the lack of a prearranged plan. (See People v. Calimee (1975) 49 Cal.App.3d 337, 341–342 [122 Cal.Rptr. 658].)

Related Instructions

See CALCRIM No. 400, Aiding and Abetting: General Principles, and CALCRIM No. 401, Aiding and Abetting: Intended Crimes.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 286(d).
- Aiding and Abetting. People v. Adams (1993) 19 Cal.App.4th 412, 429, 444–446 [23 Cal.Rptr.2d 512]; People v. Caldwell (1984) 153 Cal.App.3d 947, 951–952 [200 Cal.Rptr. 508]; People v. Calimee (1975) 49 Cal.App.3d 337, 341–342 [122 Cal.Rptr. 658].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, § 30.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][b], [2][c] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Assault With Intent to Commit Sodomy. Pen. Code, § 220; see In re Jose M. (1994) 21 Cal.App.4th 1470, 1477 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 55] [in context of rape]; People v. Moran (1973) 33 Cal.App.3d 724, 730 [109 Cal.Rptr. 287] [where forcible crime is charged].
- Attempted Sodomy. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 286.
- Attempted Sodomy in Concert. Pen. Code, §§ 663, 286(d).
- Battery. Pen. Code, § 242.
- Sodomy. Pen. Code, §§ 663, 286.

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section under CALCRIM No. 1030, Sodomy by Force,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Fear, or Threats, and CALCRIM No. 1001, Rape or Spousal Rape in Concert.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1032. Sodomy of an Intoxicated Person (Pen. Code, § 286(i))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with sodomy of a person while that person was intoxicated [in violation of Penal Code section 286(i)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant committed an act of sodomy with another person;
2. The effect of (a/an) (intoxicating/anesthetic/controlled) substance prevented the other person from resisting;

AND

3. The defendant knew or reasonably should have known that the effect of that substance prevented the other person from resisting.

Sodomy* is any penetration, no matter how slight, of the anus of one person by the penis of another person. [Ejaculation is not required.]

A person is prevented from resisting if he or she is so intoxicated that he or she cannot give legal consent. In order to give legal consent, a person must be able to exercise reasonable judgment. In other words, the person must be able to understand and weigh the physical nature of the act, its moral character, and probable consequences. Legal consent is consent given freely and voluntarily by someone who knows the nature of the act involved.

[_____ <If appropriate, insert controlled substance[s]> (is/are) [a] controlled substance[s].]

<Defense: Reasonable Belief Capable of Consent>

[The defendant is not guilty of this crime if (he/she) actually and reasonably believed that the other person was capable of consenting to the act, even if that belief was wrong. The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant did not actually and reasonably believe that the other person was capable of consenting. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

A space is provided to identify controlled substances if the parties agree that there is no issue of fact.

Defenses—Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense of reasonable belief the person was capable of consent if there is sufficient evidence to support the defense. (See People v. Giardino (2000) 82 Cal.App.4th 454, 472 [98 Cal.Rptr.2d 315].)

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 1031, Sodomy in Concert, may be given in conjunction with this instruction if appropriate.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 286(i); People v. Avila (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 791, 802–803 [95 Cal.Rptr.2d 651].
- Anesthetic Effect Defined. People v. Avila (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 791, 798–799 [95 Cal.Rptr.2d 651].
- Consent Defined. Pen. Code, § 261.6.
- Controlled Substances Defined. Health & Safety Code, §§ 11054–11058; see People v. Avila (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 791, 798, fn. 7 [95 Cal.Rptr.2d 651].
- Prevented From Resisting Defined. See People v. Giardino (2000) 82 Cal.App.4th 454, 465–467 [in context of rape].
- Sodomy Defined. Pen. Code, § 286(a); see People v. Singh (1923) 62 Cal.App. 450, 452 [217 P. 121] [ejaculation is not required].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 26, 29.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][b], [5] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Attempted Sodomy of Intoxicated Person. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 286(i).
- Battery. Pen. Code, § 242.

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section under CALCRIM No. 1030, Sodomy by Force, Fear, or Threats.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1033. Sodomy of an Unconscious Person (Pen. Code, § 286(f))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with sodomy of a person who was unconscious of the nature of the act [in violation of Penal Code section 286(f)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant committed an act of sodomy with another person;
2. The other person was unable to resist because (he/she) was unconscious of the nature of the act;

AND

3. The defendant knew that the other person was unable to resist because (he/she) was unconscious of the nature of the act.

Sodomy* is any penetration, no matter how slight, of the anus of one person by the penis of another person. [Ejaculation is not required.]

A person is unconscious of the nature of the act if he or she is (unconscious or asleep/ [or] not aware that the act is occurring/ [or] not aware of the essential characteristics of the act because the perpetrator tricked, lied to, or concealed information from the person/ [or] not aware of the essential characteristics of the act because the perpetrator fraudulently represented that the sexual penetration served a professional purpose when it served no professional purpose).

New January 2006

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 1031, Sodomy in Concert, may be given in conjunction with this instruction if appropriate.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 286(f).
- Sodomy Defined. Pen. Code, § 286(a); see People v. Singh (1923) 62 Cal.App. 450, 452 [217 P. 121] [ejaculation is not required].
- Unconscious of Nature of Act. People v. Howard (1981) 117 Cal.App.3d 53, 55 [172 Cal.Rptr. 539] [total unconsciousness is not required]; see Boro v. Superior Court (1985) 163 Cal.App.3d 1224, 1229–1231 [210 Cal.Rptr. 122] [rape victim not unconscious of nature of act; fraud in the inducement].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 26, 29.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][b], [5] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

The statutory language describing unconsciousness includes "was not aware, knowing, perceiving, or cognizant that the act occurred." (See Pen. Code, § 286(f)(2)–(4).) The committee did not discern any difference among the statutory terms and therefore used "aware" in the instruction. If there is an issue over a particular term, that term should be inserted in the instruction.

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Sodomy of Unconscious Person. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 286(f).

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section under CALCRIM No. 1030, Sodomy by Force, Fear, or Threats.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1034. Sodomy of a Disabled Person (Pen. Code, § 286(g))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with sodomy of a mentally or physically disabled person [in violation of Penal Code section 286(g)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant committed an act of sodomy with another person;
2. The other person had a (mental disorder/developmental or physical disability) that prevented (him/her) from legally consenting;

AND

3. The defendant knew or reasonably should have known that the other person had a (mental disorder/developmental or physical disability) that prevented (him/her) from legally consenting.

Sodomy* is any penetration, no matter how slight, of the anus of one person by the penis of another person. [Ejaculation is not required.]

A person is prevented from legally consenting if he or she is unable to understand the act, its nature, and possible consequences.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 1031, Sodomy in Concert, may be given in conjunction with this instruction, if appropriate.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 286(g).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Prevented from Legally Consenting, Defined. People v. Boggs (1930) 107 Cal.App. 492, 495–496 [290 P.618].
- Sodomy Defined. Pen. Code, § 286(a); see People v. Singh (1928) 62 Cal.App. 450, 452 [217 P.121] [ejaculation is not required].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 26, 29.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][b], [5] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Sodomy of Disabled Person. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 286(g).

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section under CALCRIM No. 1030, Sodomy by Force, Fear, or Threats, and CALCRIM No. 1004, Rape of a Disabled Woman.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1035. Sodomy of a Disabled Person in a Mental Hospital (Pen. Code, § 286(h))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with sodomy of a mentally or physically disabled person in a mental hospital [in violation of Penal Code section 286(h)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant committed an act of sodomy with another person;
2. The other person had a (mental disorder/developmental or physical disability) that prevented (him/her) from legally consenting;
3. The defendant knew or reasonably should have known that the other person had a (mental disorder/developmental or physical disability) that prevented (him/her) from legally consenting;

AND

4. At the time of the act, both people were confined in a state hospital or other mental health facility.

Sodomy is any penetration, no matter how slight, of the anus of one person by the penis of another person. [Ejaculation is not required.]

A person is prevented from legally consenting if he or she is unable to understand the act, its nature, and probable consequences.

[_____ <If appropriate, insert name of facility> is a (state hospital/mental health facility).] [A state hospital or other mental health facility includes a state hospital for the care and treatment of the mentally disordered or any other public or private facility approved by a county mental health director for the care and treatment of the mentally disordered.]

New January 2006

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

A space is provided to identify a facility as a state hospital or other mental health facility if the parties agree that there is no issue of fact. Alternatively, if there is a factual dispute about whether an institution is a state hospital or other mental health facility, give the final bracketed sentence. (See Pen. Code, § 286(h).)

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 1031, Sodomy in Concert, may be given in conjunction with this instruction, if appropriate.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 286(h).
- Sodomy Defined. Pen. Code, § 286(a); see People v. Singh (1928) 62 Cal.App. 450, 452 [217 P. 121] [ejaculation is not required].
- State Hospital or Mental Health Facility Defined. Pen. Code, § 286(h); see Welf. & Inst. Code, § 7100 [county psychiatric facilities], § 7200 [state hospitals for mentally disordered], § 7500 [state hospitals for developmentally disabled].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 26, 29.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][b], [5] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Sodomy of Disabled Person. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 286(h).

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section under CALCRIM No. 1030, Sodomy by Force, Fear, or Threats, and CALCRIM No. 1004, Rape of a Disabled Woman.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1036. Sodomy by Fraud (Pen. Code, § 286(j))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with sodomy by fraud [in violation of Penal Code section 286(j)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant committed an act of sodomy with someone else;
2. The other person submitted to the sodomy because (she/he) believed the defendant was (her/his) spouse;

AND

3. The defendant tricked, lied, [used an artifice or pretense,] or concealed information, intending to make the other person believe that they were married to each other.

Sodomy* is any penetration, no matter how slight, of the anus of one person by the penis of another person. [Ejaculation is not required.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 1031, Sodomy in Concert, may be given in conjunction with this instruction if appropriate.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 286(j).
- Sodomy Defined. Pen. Code, § 286(a); see People v. Singh (1923) 62 Cal.App. 450, 452 [217 P. 121] [ejaculation is not required].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 26, 28.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][b], [6] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Sodomy by Fraud. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 286(j).

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section under CALCRIM No. 1030, Sodomy by Force, Fear, or Threats.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1037. Sodomy While in Custody (Pen. Code, § 286(e))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with sodomy while he was confined in (state prison/a local detention facility) [in violation of Penal Code section 286(e)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant participated in an act of sodomy with another person;

AND

2. At the time of the act, the defendant was confined in (state prison/a local detention facility).

Sodomy* is any penetration, no matter how slight, of the anus of one person by the penis of another person. [Ejaculation is not required.]

[_____ <Insert name of facility> is a (state prison/local detention facility).] [A state prison is any prison or institution maintained by the Department of Corrections.] [A local detention facility includes any city, county, or regional jail or other facility used to confine adults [or both adults and minors].]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

A space is provided to identify a state prison or local detention facility if the parties agree that there is no issue of fact. Alternatively, if there is a factual dispute about whether the defendant was confined in a state prison or local detention facility, give the second or third bracketed sentences (or both, if necessary). (See Pen. Code, §§ 4504, 5003, 6031.4.)

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 1031, Sodomy in Concert, may be given in conjunction with this instruction if appropriate.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 286(e); People v. West (1991) 226 Cal.App.3d 892, 898 [277 Cal.Rptr. 237] [only applies to inmates].
- Local Detention Facility Defined. Pen. Code, § 6031.4.
- Sodomy Defined. Pen. Code, § 286(a); see People v. Singh (1923) 62 Cal.App. 450, 452 [217 P.121] [ejaculation is not required].
- State Prison Defined. Pen. Code, §§ 4504, 5003.

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, § 26.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][b], [4] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Sodomy While in Custody. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 286(e).

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section under CALCRIM No. 1030, Sodomy by Force, Fear, or Threats.

1038–1044. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(iv) Sexual Penetration

1045. Sexual Penetration by Force, Fear, or Threats (Pen. Code, § 289(a)(1), (2), (g))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with sexual penetration by force [in violation of Penal Code section 289].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant committed an act of sexual penetration with another person;
2. The penetration was accomplished by using (a/an) (foreign object[,]/ [or] substance[,]/ [or] instrument[,]/ [or] device[,]/ [or] unknown object);
3. The other person did not consent to the act;

AND

4. The defendant accomplished the act:

<Alternative 4A—force or fear>

[by force, violence, duress, menace, or fear of immediate and unlawful bodily injury to another person.]

<Alternative 4B—future threats of bodily harm>

[by threatening to retaliate against someone when there was a reasonable possibility that the defendant would carry out the threat. A threat to retaliate is a threat to kidnap, unlawfully restrain or confine, or inflict extreme pain, serious bodily injury, or death.]

<Alternative 4C—threat of official action>

[by threatening to use the authority of a public office to incarcerate, arrest, or deport someone. A public official is a person employed by a government agency who has authority to incarcerate, arrest, or deport. The other person must have reasonably believed that the defendant was a public official even if (he/she) was not.]

Sexual penetration* means (penetration, however slight, of the genital or anal opening of the other person/ [or] causing the other person to penetrate, however slightly, the defendant's or someone else's genital or anal opening/ [or] causing the other person to penetrate, however slightly, his or her own genital or anal opening) for the purpose of sexual abuse, arousal, or gratification.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[A foreign object, substance, instrument, or device includes any part of the body except a sexual organ.] [An unknown object includes any foreign object, substance, instrument, or device, or any part of the body, including a penis, if it is not known what object penetrated the opening.]

[Penetration for sexual abuse means penetration for the purpose of causing pain, injury, or discomfort.]

[In order to consent, a person must act freely and voluntarily and know the nature of the act.]

[Evidence that the defendant and the other person (dated/were married/had been married) is not enough by itself to constitute consent.]

[Evidence that the other person (requested/suggested/ communicated) that the defendant use a condom or other birth control device is not enough by itself to constitute consent.]

[An act is accomplished by force if a person uses enough physical force to overcome the other person's will.]

[Duress means a direct or implied threat of force, violence, danger, hardship, or retribution that is enough to cause a reasonable person of ordinary sensitivity to do [or submit to] something that he or she would not otherwise do [or submit to]. When deciding whether the act was accomplished by duress, consider all the circumstances, including the age of the other person and (his/her) relationship to the defendant.]

[Retribution is a form of payback or revenge.]

[Menace means a threat, statement, or act showing an intent to injure someone.]

[An act is accomplished by fear if the other person is actually and reasonably afraid [or (he/she) is actually but unreasonably afraid and the defendant knows of (his/her) fear and takes advantage of it].]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

<Defense: Reasonable Belief in Consent>

[The defendant is not guilty of forcible sexual penetration if (he/she) actually and reasonably believed that the other person consented to the act. The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant did not actually and reasonably believe that the other person consented. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of sexual penetration.

The court should select the appropriate alternative in element 4 to instruct how the sexual penetration was accomplished.

Defenses—Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense of reasonable belief in consent if there is "substantial evidence of equivocal conduct that would have led a defendant to reasonably and in good faith believe consent existed where it did not." (See People v. Williams (1992) 4 Cal.4th 354, 362 [14 Cal.Rptr.2d 441, 841 P.2d 961]; People v. Mayberry (1975) 15 Cal.3d 143, 153–158 [125 Cal.Rptr. 745, 542 P.2d 1337].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 289(a)(1), (2), (g).
- Consent Defined. Pen. Code, §§ 261.6, 261.7.
- Duress Defined. People v. Leal (2004) 33 Cal.4th 999, 1004–1010 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 869, 94 P.3d 1071]; People v. Pitmon (1985) 170 Cal.App.3d 38, 50 [216 Cal.Rptr. 221].
- Foreign Object, Substance, Instrument, or Device Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(2); People v. Wilcox (1986) 177 Cal.App.3d 715, 717 [223 Cal.Rtpr. 170] [a finger is a "foreign object"].
- Menace Defined. Pen. Code, § 261(c) [in context of rape].
- Sexual Penetration Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k); see People v. Quintana (2001) 89 Cal.App.4th 1362, 1371 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 235] [penetration of genital opening refers to penetration of labia majora, not the vagina].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Threatening to Retaliate Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(l).
- Unknown Object Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(3).
- Fear Defined. People v. Reyes (1984) 153 Cal.App.3d 803, 810 [200 Cal.Rptr. 651]; People v. Iniguez (1994) 7 Cal.4th 847 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 258, 872 P.2d 1183] [in context of rape].
- Force Defined. People v. Griffin (2004) 33 Cal.4th 1015, 1023–1024 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 891, 94 P.3d 1089].
- Intent. People v. Senior (1992) 3 Cal.App.4th 765, 776 [5 Cal.Rptr.2d 14] [specific intent is "purpose of sexual arousal, gratification, or abuse"].
- Mistake of Fact Regarding Consent. See People v. Mayberry (1975) 15 Cal.3d 143, 153–158 [125 Cal.Rptr. 745, 542 P.2d 1337] [in context of kidnapping and rape].
- Sexual Abuse Defined. People v. White (1986) 179 Cal.App.3d 193, 205–206 [224 Cal.Rptr. 467].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 47, 49.

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, § 165.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][d], [2] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

Penal Code section 289 requires that the sexual penetration be "against the victim's will." (Pen. Code, § 289(a)(1), (2), (g).) "Against the will" has been defined as "without consent." (See People v. Key (1984) 153 Cal.App.3d 888, 895 [203 Cal.Rptr. 144] [in context of rape]; see also People v. Young (1987) 190 Cal.App.3d 248, 257 [235 Cal.Rptr. 361].)

The instruction includes an optional definition of the sufficiency of "fear" because that term has meaning in the context of forcible sex offenses that is technical and may not be readily apparent to jurors. (See People v. Reyes (1984) 153 Cal.App.3d 803, 810 [200 Cal.Rptr. 651] [fear in context of sodomy and oral copulation]; People v. Iniguez (1994) 7 Cal.4th 847, 856–857 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 258, 872 P.2d 1183] [fear in context of rape].)

The court is not required to instruct sua sponte on the definition of "duress" or "menace" and Penal Code section 289 does not define either term. (People v. Pitmon (1985) 170 Cal.App.3d 38, 52 [216 Cal.Rptr. 221] [duress]). Optional definitions are provided for the court to use at its discretion. The definition of "duress" is based on People v. Leal (2004) 33 Cal.4th 999, 1004–1010 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 869, 94 P.3d 1071], and People v. Pitmon (1985) 170 Cal.App.3d 38, 50 [216 Cal.Rptr. 221]. The definition of "menace" is based on the statutory definitions contained in Penal Code sections 261 and 262 [rape]. (See People v. Cochran (2002) 103 Cal.App.4th 8, 13–14 [126 Cal.Rptr.2d 416] [using rape definition in case involving forcible lewd acts].) In People v. Leal, supra, 33 Cal.4th at pp. 1004–1010, the court held that the statutory definition of "duress" contained in Penal Code sections 261 and 262 does not apply to the use of that term in any other statute. The court did not discuss the statutory definition of "menace." The court should consider the Leal opinion before giving the definition of "menace."

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

The term "force" as used in the forcible sex offense statutes does not have a specialized meaning and court is not required to define the term sua sponte. (People v. Griffin (2004) 33 Cal.4th 1015, 1023–1024 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 891, 94 P.3d 1089].) In People v. Griffin, supra, the Supreme Court further stated,

> Nor is there anything in the common usage definitions of the term "force," or in the express statutory language of section 261 itself, that suggests force in a forcible rape prosecution actually means force "substantially different from or substantially greater than" the physical force normally inherent in an act of consensual sexual intercourse. [People v. Cicero (1984) 157 Cal.App.3d 465, 474 [204 Cal.Rptr. 582].] To the contrary, it has long been recognized that "in order to establish force within the meaning of section 261, subdivision (2), the prosecution need only show the defendant used physical force of a degree sufficient to support a finding that the act of sexual intercourse was against the will of the [victim]." (People v. Young (1987) 190 Cal.App.3d 248, 257–258 [235 Cal.Rptr. 361] . . . .)

(Ibid. at 1023–1024 [emphasis in original].)

The committee has provided a bracketed definition of "force," consistent with People v. Griffin, supra, that the court may give on request.

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Assault With Intent to Commit Forcible Sexual Penetration. See Pen. Code, § 220; In re Jose M. (1994) 21 Cal.App.4th 1470, 1477 [27 Cal.Rptr.2d 55] [in context of rape].
- Attempted Forcible Sexual Penetration. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 289(a)(1), (2), (g).
- Battery. Pen. Code, § 242.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Nonforcible sex crimes requiring the perpetrator and victim to be within certain age limits are not lesser included offenses of forcible sex crimes. (People v. Scott (2000) 83 Cal.App.4th 784, 794 [100 Cal.Rptr.2d 70].)

RELATED ISSUES

Consent Obtained by Fraudulent Representation

A person may also induce someone else to consent to engage in sexual penetration by a false or fraudulent representation made with an intent to create fear, and which does induce fear and would cause a reasonable person to act contrary to his or her free will. (Pen. Code, § 266c [wobbler offense].) While section 266c requires coercion and fear to obtain consent, it does not involve physical force or violence. (See People v. Cardenas (1994) 21 Cal.App.4th 927, 937–938 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 567] [rejecting defendant's argument that certain acts were consensual and without physical force, and were only violations of section 266c].)

Consent Withdrawn

A forcible rape occurs when, during apparently consensual intercourse, the victim expresses an objection and attempts to stop the act and the defendant forcibly continues despite the objection. (In re John Z. (2003) 29 Cal.4th 756, 760 [128 Cal.Rptr.2d 783, 60 P.3d 183].) If there is an issue whether consent to sexual penetration was withdrawn, see CALCRIM No. 1000, Rape or Spousal Rape by Force, Fear, or Threats, for language that may be adapted for use in this instruction.

Minor Victim

When sexual penetration is committed against the will of a person who is incapable of consent, such as a baby, and is accomplished by physical force that results in physical injury to the victim, the statutory requirements "against the will" and "use of force" are fully satisfied. (People v. White (1986) 179 Cal.App.3d 193, 202 [224 Cal.Rptr. 467].)

Multiple Penetrations

A violation of section 289 is complete when "slight" penetration occurs. A new and separate violation is completed each time a new and separate penetration, however slight, occurs. (People v. Harrison (1989) 48 Cal.3d 321, 329, 334 [256 Cal.Rtpr. 401, 768 P.2d 1078] [disapproving People v. Hammon (1987) 191 Cal.App.3d 1084, 1097 [236 Cal.Rptr. 822]].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1046. Sexual Penetration in Concert (Pen. Code, §§ 264.1, 289(a)(1))

The defendant[s] [_____ <insert name[s] if not all defendants in trial charged with this count>] (is/are) charged [in Count _____] with committing sexual penetration by acting in concert [with _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of uncharged participant[s]>] [in violation of Penal Code sections 264.1 and 289(a)(1)].

To prove that a defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

<Alternative A—defendant committed sexual penetration>

[1.] [The defendant personally committed sexual penetration and voluntarily acted with someone else who aided and abetted its commission(;/.)]

[OR]

<Alternative B—defendant aided and abetted>

[(1/2).] [The defendant voluntarily aided and abetted someone else who personally committed sexual penetration.]

To decide whether the defendant[s] [or _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of uncharged participant[s]>] committed sexual penetration, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on that crime. To decide whether the defendant[s] [or _____ <insert name[s] or description[s] of uncharged participant[s]>] aided and abetted sexual penetration, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on aiding and abetting. You must apply those instructions when you decide whether the People have proved sexual penetration in concert.

<MAKE CERTAIN THAT ALL APPROPRIATE INSTRUCTIONS ON SEXUAL PENETRATION AND AIDING AND ABETTING ARE GIVEN.>

[To prove the crime of sexual penetration in concert, the People do not have to prove a prearranged plan or scheme to commit sexual penetration.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime. (People v. Ramirez (1987) 189 Cal.App.3d 603, 621 [236 Cal.Rptr. 404] [rape in concert is a separate crime, not an enhancement].) The court also has a sua sponte duty to instruct on sexual penetration. Give one or more of the following instructions defining sexual penetration: CALCRIM Nos. 1045 or 1047–1051.

Select alternative A or B, or both, depending on whether the defendant personally committed the crime or aided and abetted someone else.

Depending on the evidence, give the final bracketed paragraph on request regarding the lack of a prearranged plan. (See People v. Calimee (1975) 49 Cal.App.3d 337, 341–342 [122 Cal.Rtpr. 658].)

Related Instructions

See generally CALCRIM No. 400, Aiding and Abetting: General Principles, and CALCRIM No. 401, Aiding and Abetting: Intended Crimes.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 264.1, 289(a)(1); see People v. Mom (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 1217, 1224 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 172] [rape in concert requires no greater force than that necessary for forcible rape], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Griffin (2004) 33 Cal.4th 1015, 1028 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 891, 94 P.3d 1089].
- Aiding and Abetting. People v. Adams (1993) 19 Cal.App.4th 412, 445–446 [23 Cal.Rptr.2d 512]; see People v. Beeman (1984) 35 Cal.3d 547, 560–561 [199 Cal.Rptr. 60, 674 P.2d 1318].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, § 19.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][d], [2][c] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Attempted Sexual Penetration. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 289(a)(1).
- Attempted Sexual Penetration in Concert. Pen. Code, §§ 663, 264.1, 289(a)(1).
- Battery. Pen. Code, § 242.
- Sexual Penetration. Pen. Code, § 289(a)(1).

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section under CALCRIM No. 1045, Sexual Penetration by Force, Fear, or Threats, and CALCRIM No. 1001, Rape or Spousal Rape in Concert.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1047. Sexual Penetration of an Intoxicated Person (Pen. Code, § 289(e))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with sexual penetration of a person while that person was intoxicated [in violation of Penal Code section 289(e)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant committed an act of sexual penetration with another person;
2. The penetration was accomplished by using (a/an) (foreign object[,]/ [or] substance[,]/ [or]instrument[,]/ [or]device[,]/ [or] unknown object);
3. The effect of (a/an) (intoxicating/anesthetic/controlled) substance prevented the other person from resisting the act;

AND

4. The defendant knew or reasonably should have known that the effect of that substance prevented the other person from resisting the act.

Sexual penetration means (penetration, however slight, of the genital or anal opening of the other person/ [or] causing the other person to penetrate, however slightly, the defendant's or someone else's genital or anal opening/ [or] causing the other person to penetrate, however slightly, his or her own genital or anal opening) for the purpose of sexual abuse, arousal, or gratification.

A person is prevented from resisting if he or she is so intoxicated that he or she cannot give legal consent. In order to give legal consent, a person must be able to exercise reasonable judgment. In other words, the person must be able to understand and weigh the physical nature of the act, its moral character, and probable consequences. Legal consent is consent given freely and voluntarily by someone who knows the nature of the act involved.

[_____ <If appropriate, insert controlled substance> (is/are) [a] controlled substance[s].]

[A foreign object, substance, instrument, or device includes any part of the body except a sexual organ.] [An unknown object includes any foreign object, substance, instrument, or device, or any part of the body, including a penis, if it is not known what object penetrated the opening.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[Penetration for sexual abuse means penetration for the purpose of causing pain, injury, or discomfort.]

<Defense: Reasonable Belief Capable of Consent>

[The defendant is not guilty of this crime if (he/she) actually and reasonably believed that the person was capable of consenting to the act, even if the defendant's belief was wrong. The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant did not actually and reasonably believe that the woman was capable of consenting. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

A space is provided to identify controlled substances if the parties agree that there is no issue of fact.

Defenses—Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense of reasonable belief the person was capable of consent if there is sufficient evidence to support the defense. (See People v. Giardino (2000) 82 Cal.App.4th 454, 472 [98 Cal.Rptr.2d 315].)

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 1046, Sexual Penetration in Concert, may be given in conjunction with this instruction if appropriate.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 289(e).
- Controlled Substances Defined. Health & Safety Code, §§ 11054–11058; see People v. Avila (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 791, 798, fn. 7 [95 Cal.Rptr.2d 651].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Foreign Object, Substance, Instrument, or Device Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(2); People v. Wilcox (1986) 177 Cal.App.3d 715, 717 [223 Cal.Rptr. 170] [a finger is a "foreign object"].
- Sexual Penetration Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(1); see People v. Quintana (2001) 89 Cal.App.4th 1362, 1371 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 235] [penetration of genital opening refers to penetration of labia majora, not the vagina].
- Unknown Object Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(3).
- Anesthetic Effect Defined. See People v. Avila (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 791, 798–799 [95 Cal.Rptr.2d 651] [in context of sodomy].
- Prevented From Resisting Defined. See People v. Giardino (2000) 82 Cal.App.4th 454, 465–467 [98 Cal.Rptr.2d 315] [in context of rape].
- Sexual Abuse Defined. People v. White (1986) 179 Cal.App.3d 193, 205–206 [224 Cal.Rptr. 467].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 47, 50.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][d], [5] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Attempted Sexual Penetration. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 289(a)(1) & (2), (g).
- Attempted Sexual Penetration of Intoxicated Person. Pen. Code, §§ 663, 289(e).
- Battery. Pen. Code, § 242.

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section under CALCRIM No. 1045, Sexual Penetration by Force, Fear, or Threats.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1048. Sexual Penetration of an Unconscious Person (Pen. Code, § 289(d))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with sexual penetration of a person who was unconscious of the nature of the act [in violation of Penal Code section 289(d)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant committed an act of sexual penetration with another person;
2. The penetration was accomplished by using (a/an) (foreign object[,]/ [or] substance[,]/ [or] instrument[,]/ [or] device[,]/ [or] unknown object);
3. The other person was unable to resist because (he/she) was unconscious of the nature of the act;

AND

4. The defendant knew that the other person was unable to resist because (he/she) was unconscious of the nature of the act.

Sexual penetration means (penetration, however slight, of the genital or anal opening of the other person/ [or] causing the other person to penetrate, however slightly, the defendant's or someone else's genital or anal opening/ [or] causing the other person to penetrate, however slightly, his or her own genital or anal opening) for the purpose of sexual abuse, arousal, or gratification.

A person is unconscious of the nature of the act if he or she is (unconscious or asleep/ [or] not aware that the act is occurring/ [or] not aware of the essential characteristics of the act because the perpetrator tricked, lied to, or concealed information from the person/ [or] not aware of the essential characteristics of the act because the perpetrator fraudulently represented that the sexual penetration served a professional purpose when it served no professional purpose).

[A foreign object, substance, instrument, or device includes any part of the body except a sexual organ.] [An unknown object includes any foreign object, substance, instrument, or device, or any part of the body, including a penis, if it is not known what object penetrated the opening.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[Penetration for sexual abuse means penetration for the purpose of causing pain, injury, or discomfort.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 1046, Sexual Penetration in Concert, may be given in conjunction with this instruction if appropriate.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 289(d).
- Foreign Object, Substance, Instrument, or Device Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(2); see People v. Wilcox (1986) 177 Cal.App.3d 715, 717 [223 Cal.Rptr. 170] [a finger is a "foreign object"].
- Sexual Penetration Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(1); see People v. Quintana (2001) 89 Cal.App.4th 1362, 1371 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 235] [penetration of genital opening refers to penetration of labia majora, not the vagina].
- Unknown Object Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(3).
- Sexual Abuse Defined. People v. White (1986) 179 Cal.App.3d 193, 205–206 [224 Cal.Rptr. 467].
- Unconscious of Nature of Act. People v. Howard (1981) 117 Cal.App.3d 53, 55 [172 Cal.Rptr. 539] [total unconsciousness is not required; in context of sodomy and oral copulation]; see Boro v. Superior Court (1985) 163 Cal.App.3d 1224, 1229–1231 [210 Cal.Rptr. 122] [rape victim not unconscious of nature of act; fraud in the inducement].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 47, 50.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][d], [5] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

COMMENTARY

The statutory language describing unconsciousness includes "was not aware, knowing, perceiving, or cognizant that the act occurred." (See Pen. Code, § 289(d)(2).) The committee did not discern any difference among the statutory terms and therefore used "aware" in the instruction. If there is an issue over a particular term, that term should be inserted in the instruction.

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Attempted Sexual Penetration of Unconscious Person. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 289(d).
- Battery. Pen. Code, § 242.

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section under CALCRIM No. 1045, Sexual Penetration by Force, Fear, or Threats.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1049. Sexual Penetration of a Disabled Person (Pen. Code, § 289(b))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with sexual penetration of a mentally or physically disabled person [in violation of Penal Code section 289(b)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant committed an act of sexual penetration with another person;
2. The penetration was accomplished by using (a/an) (foreign object[,]/ [or] substance[,]/ [or] instrument[,]/ [or] device[,]/ [or] unknown object);
3. The other person had a (mental disorder/developmental or physical disability) that prevented (him/her) from legally consenting;

AND

4. The defendant knew or reasonably should have known that the other person had a (mental disorder/developmental or physical disability) that prevented (him/her) from legally consenting.

Sexual penetration means (penetration, however slight, of the genital or anal opening of the other person/ [or] causing the other person to penetrate, however slightly, the defendant's or someone else's genital or anal opening/ [or] causing the other person to penetrate, however slightly, his or her own genital or anal opening) for the purpose of sexual abuse, arousal, or gratification.

A person is prevented from legally consenting if he or she is unable to understand the act, its nature, and probable consequences.

[A foreign object, substance, instrument, or device includes any part of the body except a sexual organ.] [An unknown object includes any foreign object, substance, instrument, or device, or any part of the body, including a penis, if it is not known what object was used to accomplish the penetration.]

[Penetration for sexual abuse means penetration for the purpose of

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

causing pain, injury, or discomfort.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 1046, Sexual Penetration in Concert, may be given in conjunction with this instruction if appropriate.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 289(b).
- Consent Defined. Pen. Code, § 261.6; see People v. Boggs (1930) 107 Cal.App. 492, 495–496 [290 P. 618].
- Foreign Object, Substance, Instrument, or Device Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(2); see People v. Wilcox (1986) 177 Cal.App.3d 715, 717 [223 Cal.Rptr. 170] [a finger is a "foreign object"].
- Sexual Penetration Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(1); see People v. Quintana (2001) 89 Cal.App.4th 1362, 1371 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 235] [penetration of genital opening refers to penetration of labia majora, not the vagina].
- Unknown Object Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(3).
- Sexual Abuse Defined. People v. White (1986) 179 Cal.App.3d 193, 205–206 [224 Cal.Rptr. 467].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 47, 50.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][d], [5] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Attempted Sexual Penetration of Disabled Person. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 289(b).
- Battery. Pen. Code, § 242.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section under CALCRIM No. 1045, Sexual Penetration by Force, Fear, or Threats, and CALCRIM No. 1004, Rape of a Disabled Woman.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1050. Sexual Penetration of a Disabled Person in a Mental Hospital (Pen. Code, § 289(c))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with sexual penetration of a mentally or physically disabled person in a mental hospital [in violation of Penal Code section 289(c)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant committed an act of sexual penetration with another person;
2. The penetration was accomplished by using (a/an) (foreign object[,]/ [or] substance[,]/ [or] instrument[,]/ [or] device[,]/ [or] unknown object);
3. The other person had a (mental disorder/developmental or physical disability) that prevented (him/her) from legally consenting;
4. The defendant knew or reasonably should have known that the other person had a (mental disorder/developmental or physical disability) that prevented (him/her) from legally consenting;

AND

5. At the time of the act, both people were confined in a state hospital or other mental health facility.

Sexual penetration means (penetration, however slight, of the genital or anal opening of the other person/ [or] causing the other person to penetrate, however slightly, the defendant's or someone else's genital or anal opening/ [or] causing the other person to penetrate, however slightly, his or her own genital or anal opening) for the purpose of sexual abuse, arousal, or gratification.

A person is prevented from legally consenting if he or she is unable to understand the act, its nature, and probable consequences.

[A foreign object, substance, instrument, or device includes any part of the body except a sexual organ.] [An *unknown object includes any foreign object, substance, instrument, or device, or any part of the body, including a penis, if it is not known what object was used to accomplish the penetration.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[Penetration for sexual abuse means penetration for the purpose of causing pain, injury, or discomfort.]

[_____ <If appropriate, insert name of facility> is a (state hospital/mental health facility).] [A state hospital or other mental health facility includes a state hospital for the care and treatment of the mentally disordered or any other public or private facility approved by a county mental health director for the care and treatment of the mentally disordered.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

A space is provided to identify a facility as a state hospital or other mental health facility if the parties agree that there is no issue of fact. Alternatively, if there is a factual dispute about whether an institution is a state hospital or other mental health facility, give the final bracketed sentence. (See Pen. Code, § 289(c).)

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 1046, Sexual Penetration in Concert, may be given in conjunction with this instruction if appropriate.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 289(c).
- Consent Defined. Pen. Code, § 261.6; see People v. Boggs (1930) 107 Cal.App. 492, 495–496 [290 P. 618].
- Foreign Object, Substance, Instrument, or Device Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(2); see People v. Wilcox (1986) 177 Cal.App.3d 715, 717 [223 Cal.Rptr. 170] [a finger is a "foreign object"].
- Sexual Penetration Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(1); see People v. Quintana (2001) 89 Cal.App.4th 1362, 1371 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 235] [penetration of genital opening refers to penetration of labia majora, not the vagina].
- State Hospital or Mental Health Facility Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(c); see Welf. & Inst. Code, § 7100 [county psychiatric facilities], § 7200 [state hospitals for mentally disordered], § 7500 [state hospitals for developmentally disabled].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Unknown Object Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(3).
- Sexual Abuse Defined. People v. White (1986) 179 Cal.App.3d 193, 205–206 [224 Cal.Rptr. 467].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 47, 50.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][d], [5] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Attempted Sexual Penetration of Disabled Person. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 289(c).
- Battery. Pen. Code, § 242.

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section under CALCRIM No. 1045, Sexual Penetration by Force, Fear, or Threats, and CALCRIM No. 1004, Rape of a Disabled Woman.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1051. Sexual Penetration by Fraud (Pen. Code, § 289(f))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with sexual penetration by fraud [in violation of Penal Code section 289(f)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant committed an act of sexual penetration with another person;
2. At the time of the act, the defendant and the other person were not married to each other;
3. The penetration was accomplished by using (a/an) (foreign object[,]/ [or] substance[,]/ [or] instrument[,]/ [or] device[,]/ [or] unknown object);
4. The other person submitted to the act because (he/she) believed the person (committing the act/causing the act to be committed) was (his/her) spouse;

AND

5. The defendant tricked, lied, [used an artifice or pretense,] or concealed information, intending to make the other person believe that they were married to each other.

Sexual penetration means (penetration, however slight, of the genital or anal opening of the other person/ [or] causing the other person to penetrate, however slightly, the defendant's or someone else's genital or anal opening/ [or] causing the other person to penetrate, however slightly, his or her own genital or anal opening) for the purpose of sexual abuse, arousal, or gratification.

[A foreign object, substance, instrument, or device includes any part of the body except a sexual organ.] [An unknown object includes any foreign object, substance, instrument, or device, or any part of the body, including a penis, if it is not known what object was used to accomplish the penetration.]

[Penetration for sexual abuse means penetration for the purpose of causing pain, injury, or discomfort.]

New January 2006

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 1046, Sexual Penetration in Concert, may be given in conjunction with this instruction if appropriate.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 289(f).
- Foreign Object, Substance, Instrument, or Device Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(2); see People v. Wilcox (1986) 177 Cal.App.3d 715, 717 [223 Cal.Rptr. 170] [a finger is a "foreign object"].
- Sexual Penetration Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(1); see People v. Quintana (2001) 89 Cal.App.4th 1362, 1371 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 235] [penetration of genital opening refers to penetration of labia majora, not the vagina].
- Unknown Object Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(3).
- Sexual Abuse Defined. People v. White (1986) 179 Cal.App.3d 193, 205–206 [224 Cal.Rptr. 467].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 47, 49.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][d], [6] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Attempted Sexual Penetration by Fraud. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 289(f).
- Battery. Pen. Code, § 242.

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section under CALCRIM No. 1045, Sexual Penetration by Force, Fear, or Threats.

1052–1059. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(v) Lewd and Lascivious Act

1060. Lewd or Lascivious Act: Dependent Person (Pen. Code, § 288(b)(2) & (c)(2))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with a lewd or lascivious act on a dependent person [by force or fear] [in violation of Penal Code section 288].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant was a caretaker of a dependent person;
2. The defendant, while serving as a caretaker, willfully (committed/conspired to commit/aided and abetted/facilitated) a lewd or lascivious act on that person;

[AND]

3. The defendant (committed/conspired to commit/aided and abetted/facilitated) the act with the intent of arousing, appealing to, or gratifying the lust, passions, or sexual desires of (himself/herself) or the dependent person(;/.)

<Give element 4 when instructing on force or violence>

[AND

4. In (committing/conspiring to commit/aiding and abetting/facilitating) the act, the defendant used force, violence, duress, menace, or fear of immediate and unlawful bodily injury to the dependent person or someone else.]

A lewd or lascivious act is any touching of a person with the intent to sexually arouse the perpetrator or the other person. The touching need not be done in a lewd or sexual manner. A lewd or lascivious act includes touching any part of the person's body, either on the bare skin or through the clothes the person is wearing. [A lewd or lascivious act includes causing someone to touch his or her own body or someone else's body at the instigation of the perpetrator who has the required intent.]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

A caretaker is an owner, operator, administrator, employee, independent contractor, agent, or volunteer of a public or private facility, including (a/an) _____ <insert specific facility from Pen. Code, § 288(f)(1)>, that provides care for dependent persons or for those aged 65 or older.

A dependent person is someone who has physical or mental impairments that substantially restrict his or her ability to carry out normal activities or to protect his or her rights. This definition includes, but is not limited to, those who have developmental disabilities or whose physical or mental abilities have been significantly diminished by age.

[Actually arousing, appealing to, or gratifying the lust, passions, or sexual desires of the perpetrator or dependent person is not required.]

[The force used must be substantially different from or substantially greater than the force needed to accomplish the lewd and lascivious act itself.]

[Duress is a direct or implied threat of force, violence, danger, hardship, or retribution that causes a reasonable person to do [or submit to] something that he or she would not do [or submit to] otherwise. When deciding whether the act was accomplished by duress, consider all the circumstances, including the age of the dependent person and (his/her) relationship to the defendant.] [Retribution is a form of payback or revenge.]

[Menace means a threat, statement, or act showing an intent to injure someone.]

[An act is accomplished by fear if the dependent person is actually and reasonably afraid [or (he/she) is actually but unreasonably afraid and the defendant knows of (his/her) fear and takes advantage of it].]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If the defendant is charged in a single count with multiple alleged acts, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on unanimity. (People v. Jones (1990) 51 Cal.3d 294, 321–322 [270 Cal.Rptr. 611, 792 P.2d 643].) The court must determine whether it is appropriate to give the standard unanimity instruction, CALCRIM No. 3500, Unanimity, or the modified unanimity instruction, CALCRIM No. 3501, Unanimity: When Generic Testimony Of Offense Presented. Review the discussion in the bench notes to these two instructions and People v. Jones, supra, 51 Cal.3d at pp. 321–322.

If the defendant is charged with using force or fear in committing the lewd act on a dependent person, give bracketed element 4 and the bracketed sentence that begins with "The force must be substantially different." (See People v. Pitmon (1985) 170 Cal.App.3d 38, 52 [216 Cal.Rptr. 221] [court has sua sponte duty to define "force" as used in Pen. Code, § 288(b)(1)]; People v. Griffin (2004) 33 Cal.4th 1015, 1018–1019 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 891, 94 P.3d 1089].) On request, give any of the relevant bracketed definitions of duress, menace, or fear.

In the paragraph defining "caretaker," insert applicable caretaker facilities listed in Penal Code section 288(f)(1), such as a 24-hour health facility, a home health agency, or a community care or respite care facility, depending on the facts of the case.

Penal Code section 288(b)(2) or (c)(2) does not apply to a caretaker who is a spouse of, or who is in an equivalent domestic relationship with, the dependent person. (Pen. Code, § 288(h).)

Give the bracketed sentence that begins, "Actually arousing, appealing to," on request. (People v. McCurdy (1923) 60 Cal.App. 499, 502 [213 P. 59].)

Defenses—Instructional Duty

In the context of lewd acts accomplished by force on a minor, there is disagreement as to whether knowing consent by the minor is an affirmative defense. (See People v. Cicero (1984) 157 Cal.App.3d 465, 484–485 [204 Cal.Rptr. 582] [when no physical harm, knowing consent of minor is an affirmative defense]; People v. Quinones (1988) 202 Cal.App.3d 1154, 1158 [249 Cal.Rptr. 435] [lewd act need not be against will of victim, following dissent in Cicero, supra, 157 Cal.App.3d at pp. 487–488, dis. opn. of Regan, Acting P.J.]; People v. Cardenas (1994) 21 Cal.App.4th 927, 937, fn. 7 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 567] [dicta].) If the court concludes that consent is a defense and there is sufficient evidence, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. (See consent defense instructions in CALCRIM No. 1000, Rape or Spousal Rape by Force, Fear, or Threats.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 288(b)(2) & (c)(2).
- Caretaker Defined. Pen. Code, § 288(f)(1) & (g).
- Dependent Person Defined. Pen. Code, § 288(f)(3).
- Duress Defined. People v. Leal (2004) 33 Cal.4th 999, 1004–1010 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 869]; People v. Pitmon (1985) 170 Cal.App.3d 38, 50 [216 Cal.Rptr. 221]; People v. Cochran (2002) 103 Cal.App.4th 8, 13–14 [126 Cal.Rptr.2d 416].
- Elder Defined. See Pen. Code, § 368(g).
- Menace Defined. See Pen. Code, § 261(c) [in context of rape].
- Actual Arousal Not Required. See People v. McCurdy (1923) 60 Cal.App. 499, 502 [213 P. 59].
- Any Touching With Intent to Arouse. See People v. Martinez (1995) 11 Cal.4th 434, 444, 452 [45 Cal.Rptr.2d 905, 903 P.2d 1037] [disapproving People v. Wallace (1992) 11 Cal.App.4th 568, 574–580 [14 Cal.Rptr.2d 67] and its progeny]; see People v. Diaz (1996) 41 Cal.App.4th 1424, 1427–1428 [49 Cal.Rptr.2d 252] [list of examples].
- Dependent Person Touching Own Body Parts at Defendant's Instigation. See People v. Meacham (1984) 152 Cal.App.3d 142, 152–153 [199 Cal.Rptr. 586] ["constructive" touching; approving Austin instruction]; People v. Austin (1980) 111 Cal.App.3d 110, 114–115 [168 Cal.Rptr. 401].
- Fear Defined. See People v. Cardenas (1994) 21 Cal.App.4th 927, 939–940 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 567]; People v. Iniguez (1994) 7 Cal.4th 847 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 258, 872 P.2d 1183] [in context of rape].
- Force Defined. People v. Cicero (1984) 157 Cal.App.3d 465, 474 [204 Cal.Rptr. 582]; People v. Pitmon (1985) 170 Cal.App.3d 38, 52 [216 Cal.Rptr. 221]; see also People v. Griffin (2004) 33 Cal.4th 1015, 1018–1019 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 891, 94 P.3d 1089] [discussing Cicero and Pitmon].
- Lewd Defined. See In re Smith (1972) 7 Cal.3d 362, 365 [102 Cal.Rptr. 335, 497 P.2d 807] [in context of indecent exposure]; see Pryor v. Municipal Court (1979) 25 Cal.3d 238, 256–257, fn. 13 [158 Cal.Rptr. 330, 599 P.2d 636].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Crimes Against Decency, §§ 37, 41–46.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.21[1][a][iv], [v], [b]–[d] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

The instruction includes definitions of "force" and "fear" because those terms have meanings in the context of the crime of lewd acts by force that are technical and may not be readily apparent to jurors. (People v. Pitmon (1985) 170 Cal.App.3d 38, 52 [216 Cal.Rptr. 221] [force]; see People v. Cardenas (1994) 21 Cal.App.4th 927, 939–940 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 567] [fear]; People v. Iniguez (1994) 7 Cal.4th 847, 856–857 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 258, 872 P.2d 1183] [fear in context of rape].) The Court of Appeal has held that the definition of "force" as used in Penal Code section 288(b), subsection (1) (lewd acts by force with a minor) is different from the meaning of "force" as used in other sex offense statutes. (People v. Cicero (1984) 157 Cal.App.3d 465, 474 [204 Cal.Rptr. 582].) In other sex offense statutes, such as Penal Code section 261 defining rape, "force" does not have a technical meaning and there is no requirement to define the term. (People v. Griffin (2004) 33 Cal.4th 1015, 1018–1019 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 891, 94 P.3d 1089].) In Penal Code section 288(b)(1), on the other hand, "force" means force "substantially different from or substantially greater than" the physical force normally inherent in the sexual act. (Id. at p. 1018 [quoting People v. Cicero (1984) 157 Cal.App.3d 465, 474 [204 Cal.Rptr. 582] [emphasis in Griffin].) The court is required to instruct sua sponte in this special definition of "force." (People v. Pitmon, supra, 170 Cal.App.3d at p. 52; see also People v. Griffin, supra, 33 Cal.4th at pp. 1026–1028.) It would seem that this definition of "force" would also apply to the crime of lewd acts with a dependant person, under Penal Code section 288(b) subsection (2).

The court is not required to instruct sua sponte on the definition of "duress" or "menace" and Penal Code section 288 does not define either term. (People v. Pitmon (1985) 170 Cal.App.3d 38, 52 [216 Cal.Rptr. 221] [duress]). Optional definitions are provided for the court to use at its discretion. The definition of "duress" is based on People v. Leal (2004) 33 Cal.4th 999, 1004–1010 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 869, 94 P.3d 1071], and People v. Pitmon (1985) 170 Cal.App.3d 38, 50 [216 Cal.Rptr. 221]. The definition of "menace" is based on the statutory definitions contained in Penal Code sections 261 and 262 [rape]. (See People v. Cochran (2002) 103 Cal.App.4th 8, 13–14 [126 Cal.Rptr.2d 416] [using rape definition in case involving forcible lewd acts].) In People v. Leal, supra, 33 Cal.4th at p. 1007, the court held that the statutory definition of "duress" contained in Penal Code sections 261 and 262 does not apply to the use of that term in any other statute. The court did not discuss the statutory definition of "menace." The court should consider the Leal opinion before giving the definition of "menace."

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Lewd Act With Dependent Person. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 288(c)(2).
- Attempted Lewd Act by Force With Dependent Person. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 288(b)(2).
- Simple Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Simple Battery. Pen. Code, § 242.

RELATED ISSUES

Developmental Disability

If the dependent person has a developmental disability, arguably there is no sua sponte duty to define "developmental disability" under Welfare and Institutions Code section 4512(a) or Penal Code section 1370.1(a)(1). The Legislature did not intend to limit this phrase in other code sections to such technical medical or legal definitions, although a pinpoint instruction may be requested if it helps the jury in any particular case. (See People v. Mobley (1999) 72 Cal.App.4th 761, 781–783 [85 Cal.Rptr.2d 474] [in context of oral copulation of disabled person].)

1061–1069. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

B. AGAINST MINORS ONLY

(i) Unlawful Sexual Intercourse

1070. Unlawful Sexual Intercourse: Defendant 21 or Older (Pen. Code, § 261.5(a) & (d))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with having unlawful sexual intercourse with a person who was under the age of 16 years at a time after the defendant had reached (his/her) 21st birthday [in violation of Penal Code section 261.5(d)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant had sexual intercourse with another person;
2. The defendant and the other person were not married to each other at the time of the intercourse;
3. The defendant was at least 21 years old at the time of the intercourse;

AND

4. The other person was under the age of 16 years at the time of the intercourse.

Sexual intercourse means any penetration, no matter how slight, of the vagina or genitalia by the penis. [Ejaculation is not required.]

[It is not a defense that the other person may have consented to the intercourse.]

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

<Defense: Good Faith Belief 18 or Over>

[The defendant is not guilty of this crime if (he/she) reasonably and actually believed that the other person was age 18 or older. In order for reasonable and actual belief to excuse the defendant's behavior, there must be evidence tending to show that (he/she) reasonably and actually believed that the other person was age 18 or older. If you have a reasonable doubt about whether the defendant reasonably and actually believed that the other person was age 18 or older, you must find (him/her) not guilty.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

New January 2006; Revised April 2008

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

For a discussion of the sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense of mistake of fact, see CALCRIM No. 3406.

Give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "It is not a defense that" on request, if there is evidence that the minor consented to the act. (See People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502].)

Give the bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

Defenses—Instructional Duty

If there is sufficient evidence that the defendant reasonably and actually believed that the minor was age 18 or older, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. (See People v. Hernandez (1964) 61 Cal.2d 529, 535–536 [39 Cal.Rptr. 361, 393 P.2d 673]; People v. Winters (1966) 242 Cal.App.2d 711, 716 [51 Cal.Rptr. 735].)

Related Instruction

CALCRIM No. 3406, Mistake of Fact.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 261.5(a) & (d).
- Minor's Consent Not a Defense. People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51].
- Penetration Defined. Pen. Code, § 263; People v. Karsai (1982) 131 Cal.App.3d 224, 233–234 [182 Cal.Rptr. 406], disapproved on other grounds by People v. Jones (1988) 46 Cal.3d 585, 600 [250 Cal.Rptr. 635, 758 P.2d 1165].
- Good Faith Belief in Victim's Age. People v. Zeihm (1974) 40 Cal.App.3d 1085, 1089 [115 Cal.Rptr. 528].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Defenses, §§ 45–46.

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 20–24.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[3][a] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Unlawful Sexual Intercourse. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 261.5; see, e.g., People v. Nicholson (1979) 98 Cal.App.3d 617, 622–624 [159 Cal.Rptr. 766].

Contributing to the delinquency of a minor (Pen. Code, § 272) is not a lesser included offense of unlawful sexual intercourse. (People v. Bobb (1989) 207 Cal.App.3d 88, 93–96 [254 Cal.Rptr. 707], disapproved on another ground in People v. Barton (1995) 12 Cal.4th 186, 198, fn. 7 [47 Cal.Rptr.2d 569, 906 P.2d 531].)

RELATED ISSUES

Calculating Age

The "birthday rule" of former Civil Code section 26 (now see Fam. Code, § 6500) applies. A person attains a given age as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun, not on the day before the birthday. (In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 844–845, 849 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

Participant Must be Over 21

One of the two participants in the act of unlawful sexual intercourse must be over 21 and the other person must be under 16. Proof that an aider and abettor was over 21 is insufficient to sustain the aider and abettor's conviction if neither of the actual participants was over 21 years old. (See People v. Culbertson (1985) 171 Cal.App.3d 508, 513, 515 [217 Cal.Rptr. 347] [applying same argument to section 288a(c), where perpetrator must be 10 years older than victim under 14].)

Mistaken Belief About Victim's Age

A defendant is not entitled to a mistake of fact instruction if he claims that he believed that the complaining witness was over 16. His belief would still constitute the mens rea of intending to have sex with a minor. (People v. Scott (2000) 83 Cal.App.4th 784, 800–801 [100 Cal.Rptr.2d 70].) However, if he claims that he believed that the complaining witness was over 18 years old, he is entitled to the mistake of fact instruction. (See People v. Hernandez (1964) 61 Cal.2d 529, 535–536 [39 Cal.Rptr. 361, 393 P.2d 673].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Married Minor Victim

A defendant may be convicted of unlawful sexual intercourse even if the minor victim is married or was previously married to another person. (People v. Courtney (1960) 180 Cal.App.2d 61, 62 [4 Cal.Rptr. 274] [construing former statute]; People v. Caldwell (1967) 255 Cal.App.2d 229, 230–231 [63 Cal.Rptr. 63].)

Sterility

Sterility is not a defense to unlawful sexual intercourse. (People v. Langdon (1987) 192 Cal.App.3d 1419, 1421 [238 Cal.Rptr. 158].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1071. Unlawful Sexual Intercourse: Minor More Than Three Years Younger (Pen. Code, § 261.5(a) & (c))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with unlawful sexual intercourse with a minor who was more than three years younger than the defendant [in violation of Penal Code section 261.5(c)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant had sexual intercourse with another person;
2. The defendant and the other person were not married to each other at the time of the intercourse;

AND

3. At the time of the intercourse, the other person was under the age of 18 and more than three years younger than the defendant.

Sexual intercourse means any penetration, no matter how slight, of the vagina or genitalia by the penis. [Ejaculation is not required.]

[It is not a defense that the other person may have consented to the intercourse.]

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

<Defense: Good Faith Belief 18 or Over>

[The defendant is not guilty of this crime if (he/she) reasonably and actually believed that the other person was age 18 or older. The People must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant did not reasonably and actually believe that the other person was at least 18 years old. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of this crime.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "It is not a defense that" on request, if there is evidence that the minor consented to the act. (See People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502].)

Give the bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rprtr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

Defenses—Instructional Duty

If there is sufficient evidence that the defendant reasonably and actually believed that the minor was age 18 or older, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. (See People v. Hernandez (1964) 61 Cal.2d 529, 535–536 [39 Cal.Rptr. 361, 393 P.2d 673]; People v. Winters (1966) 242 Cal.App.2d 711, 716 [51 Cal.Rptr. 735].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 261.5(a) & (c).
- Minor's Consent Not a Defense. People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502].
- Mistake of Fact Regarding Age. People v. Hernandez (1964) 61 Cal.2d 529, 535–536 [39 Cal.Rptr. 361, 393 P.2d 673]; see People v. Zeihm (1974) 40 Cal.App.3d 1085, 1089 [115 Cal.Rptr. 528] [belief about age is a defense], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Freeman (1988) 46 Cal.3d 419, 428, fn. 6 [250 Cal.Rptr. 598, 758 P.2d 1128].
- Penetration Defined. Pen. Code, § 263; People v. Karsai (1982) 131 Cal.App.3d 224, 233–234 [182 Cal.Rptr. 406], disapproved on other grounds by People v. Jones (1988) 46 Cal.3d 585, 600 [250 Cal.Rptr. 635, 758 P.2d 1165].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Defenses, §§ 45–46.

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 20–24.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[3][a] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Unlawful Sexual Intercourse. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 261.5; see, e.g., People v. Nicholson (1979) 98 Cal.App.3d 617, 622–624 [159 Cal.Rptr. 766].

Contributing to the delinquency of a minor (Pen. Code, § 272) is not a lesser included offense of unlawful sexual intercourse. (People v. Bobb (1989) 207 Cal.App.3d 88, 93–96 [254 Cal.Rptr. 707], disapproved on another ground in People v. Barton (1995) 12 Cal.4th 186, 198, fn. 7 [47 Cal.Rptr.2d 569, 906 P.2d 531].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

RELATED ISSUES

Minor Perpetrator

The fact that a minor may be a victim does not exclude a minor from being charged as a perpetrator. (In re T.A.J. (1998) 62 Cal.App.4th 1350, 1364 [73 Cal.Rptr.2d 331] [construing Pen. Code, § 261.5(b)].) There is no privacy right among minors to engage in consensual sexual intercourse. (Id. at p. 1361.) However, a minor victim of unlawful sexual intercourse cannot be held liable as an aider and abettor, a coconspirator, or an accomplice. (In re Meagan R. (1996) 42 Cal.App.4th 17, 25 [49 Cal.Rptr.2d 325].)

See the Related Issues section under CALCRIM No. 1070, Unlawful Sexual Intercourse: Defendant 21 or Older.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1072. Misdemeanor Unlawful Sexual Intercourse: Minor Within Three Years of Defendant's Age (Pen. Code, § 261.5(a) & (b))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with unlawful sexual intercourse with a minor whose age was within three years of the defendant's age [in violation of Penal Code section 261.5(b)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant had sexual intercourse with another person;
2. The defendant and the other person were not married to each other at the time of the intercourse;

AND

3. At the time of the intercourse, the other person was under the age of 18 but not more than three years (younger/older) than the defendant.

Sexual intercourse means any penetration, no matter how slight, of the vagina or genitalia by the penis. [Ejaculation is not required.]

[It is not a defense that the other person may have consented to the intercourse.]

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

<Defense: Good Faith Belief 18 or Over>

[The defendant is not guilty of this crime if (he/she) reasonably and actually believed that the other person was age 18 or older. The People must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant did not reasonably and actually believe that the other person was at least 18 years old. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of this crime.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "It is not a defense that" on request, if there is evidence that the minor consented to the act. (See People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502].)

Give the bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

Defenses—Instructional Duty

If there is sufficient evidence that the defendant reasonably and actually believed that the minor was age 18 or older, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. (See People v. Hernandez (1964) 61 Cal.2d 529, 535–536 [39 Cal.Rptr. 361, 393 P.2d 673]; People v. Winters (1966) 242 Cal.App.2d 711, 716 [51 Cal.Rptr. 735].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements of Misdemeanor Offense. Pen. Code, § 261.5(a) & (b).
- Minor's Consent Not a Defense. People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502].
- Mistake of Fact Regarding Age. People v. Hernandez (1964) 61 Cal.2d 529, 535–536 [39 Cal.Rptr. 361, 393 P.2d 673]; see People v. Zeihm (1974) 40 Cal.App.3d 1085, 1089 [115 Cal.Rptr. 528] [belief about age is a defense], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Freeman (1988) 46 Cal.3d 419, 428, fn. 6 [250 Cal.Rptr. 598, 758 P.2d 1128].
- Penetration Defined. Pen. Code, § 263; People v. Karsai (1982) 131 Cal.App.3d 224, 233–234 [182 Cal.Rptr. 406], disapproved on other grounds by People v. Jones (1988) 46 Cal.3d 585, 600 [250 Cal.Rptr. 635, 758 P.2d 1165].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Defenses, §§ 45–46.

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 20–24.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[3][a] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Unlawful Sexual Intercourse. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 261.5; see, e.g., People v. Nicholson (1979) 98 Cal.App.3d 617, 622–624 [159 Cal.Rtpr. 707].

Contributing to the delinquency of a minor (Pen. Code, § 272) is not a lesser included offense of unlawful sexual intercourse. (People v. Bobb (1989) 207 Cal.App.3d 88, 93–96 [254 Cal.Rptr. 707], disapproved on another ground in People v. Barton (1995) 12 Cal.4th 186, 198, fn. 7 [47 Cal.Rptr.2d 569, 906 P.2d 531].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section under CALCRIM No. 1070, Unlawful Sexual Intercourse: Defendant 21 or Older, and CALCRIM No. 1071, Unlawful Sexual Intercourse: Minor More Than Three Years Younger.

1073–1079. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(ii) Oral Copulation

1080. Oral Copulation With Person Under 14 (Pen. Code, § 288a(c)(1))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with oral copulation of a person who was under the age of 14 and at least 10 years younger than the defendant [in violation of Penal Code section 288a(c)(1)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant participated in an act of oral copulation with another person;

AND

2. At the time of the act, the other person was under the age of 14 and was at least 10 years younger than the defendant.

Oral copulation is any contact, no matter how slight, between the mouth of one person and the sexual organ or anus of another person. Penetration is not required.

[It is not a defense that the other person may have consented to the act.]

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "It is not a defense that" on request, if there is evidence that the minor consented to the act. (See People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502].)

Give the bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 288a(c)(1).
- Oral Copulation Defined. Pen. Code, § 288a(a); People v. Grim (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1240, 1242–1243 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 884] [in context of lewd acts with children].
- Minor's Consent Not a Defense. See People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502] [in context of statutory rape].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 31–33.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][c], [3][b] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Oral Copulation With Minor Under 14. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 288a(c)(1).
- Oral Copulation With Minor Under 18. People v. Culbertson (1985) 171 Cal.App.3d 508, 516 [217 Cal.Rptr. 347]; People v. Jerome (1984) 160 Cal.App.3d 1087, 1097–1098 [207 Cal.Rptr. 199].

RELATED ISSUES

Mistake of Fact Defense Not Available

In People v. Olsen (1984) 36 Cal.3d 638, 649 [205 Cal.Rptr. 492, 685 P.2d 52], the court held that the defendant's mistaken belief that the victim was over 14 was no defense to a charge of lewd and lascivious acts with a child under 14.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1081. Oral Copulation With Minor: Defendant 21 or Older (Pen. Code, § 288a(b)(2))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with engaging in an act of oral copulation with a person who was under the age of 16 years at a time after the defendant had reached (his/her) 21st birthday [in violation of Penal Code section 288a(b)(2)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant participated in an act of oral copulation with another person;
2. The defendant was at least 21 years old at the time of the act;

AND

3. The other person was under the age of 16 years at the time of the act.

Oral copulation is any contact, no matter how slight, between the mouth of one person and the sexual organ or anus of another person. Penetration is not required.

[It is not a defense that the other person may have consented to the act.]

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

<Defense: Good Faith Belief 18 or Over>

[The defendant is not guilty of this crime if (he/she) reasonably and actually believed that the other person was age 18 or older. The People must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant did not reasonably and actually believe that the other person was at least 18 years old. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of this crime.]

New January 2006

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "It is not a defense that" on request, if there is evidence that the minor consented to the act. (See People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502].)

Give the bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

Defenses—Instructional Duty

If there is sufficient evidence that the defendant reasonably and actually believed that the minor was age 18 or older, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. (See People v. Hernandez (1964) 61 Cal.2d 529, 535–536 [39 Cal.Rptr. 361, 393 P.2d 673]; People v. Winters (1966) 242 Cal.App.2d 711, 716 [51 Cal.Rptr. 735].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 288a(b)(2).
- Oral Copulation Defined. Pen. Code, § 288a(a); People v. Grim (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1240, 1242–1243 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 884] [in context of lewd acts with children].
- Minor's Consent Not a Defense. See People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502] [in context of statutory rape].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 31–33.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][c], [3][b] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Oral Copulation With Minor When Defendant Over 21. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 288a(b)(2).
- Oral Copulation With Minor Under 18. See People v. Culbertson (1985) 171 Cal.App.3d 508, 516 [217 Cal.Rptr. 347]; People v. Jerome (1984) 160 Cal.App.3d 1087, 1097–1098 [207 Cal.Rptr. 199] [both in context of section 288a(c)].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section under CALCRIM No. 1070, Unlawful Sexual Intercourse: Defendant 21 or Older.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1082. Oral Copulation With Person Under 18 (Pen. Code, § 288a(b)(1))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with oral copulation with a person who was under the age of 18 [in violation of Penal Code section 288a(b)(1)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant participated in an act of oral copulation with another person;

AND

2. The other person was under the age of 18 when the act was committed.

Oral copulation is any contact, no matter how slight, between the mouth of one person and the sexual organ or anus of another person. Penetration is not required.

[It is not a defense that the other person may have consented to the act.]

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

<Defense: Good Faith Belief 18 or Over>

[The defendant is not guilty of this crime if (he/she) reasonably and actually believed that the other person was age 18 or older. The People must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant did not reasonably and actually believe that the other person was at least 18 years old. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of this crime.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "It is not a defense that" on request, if there is evidence that the minor consented to the act. (See People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Give the final bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

Defenses—Instructional Duty

If there is sufficient evidence that the defendant reasonably and actually believed that the minor was age 18 or older, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. (See People v. Hernandez (1964) 61 Cal.2d 529, 535–536 [39 Cal.Rptr. 361, 393 P.2d 673]; People v. Winters (1966) 242 Cal.App.2d 711, 716 [51 Cal.Rptr. 735].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 288a(b)(1).
- Oral Copulation Defined. Pen. Code, § 288a(a); People v. Grim (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1240, 1242–1243 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 884] [in context of lewd acts with children].
- Minor's Consent Not a Defense. See People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502] [in context of statutory rape].
- Mistake of Fact Regarding Age. People v. Hernandez (1964) 61 Cal.2d 529, 535–536 [39 Cal.Rptr. 361, 393 P.2d 673] [in context of statutory rape]; People v. Peterson (1981) 126 Cal.App.3d 396, 397 [178 Cal.Rptr. 734].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Defenses, § 46.

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 31–33.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.20[1][c], [3][b], 142.23[2] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Oral Copulation With Minor. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 288a(b)(1).

RELATED ISSUES

Minor Perpetrator

A minor under age 14 may be adjudged responsible for violating Penal Code section 288a(b)(1) upon clear proof of the minor's knowledge of wrongfulness. (Pen. Code, § 26; In re Paul C. (1990) 221 Cal.App.3d 43, 49 [270 Cal.Rptr. 369].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

See the Related Issues section under CALCRIM No. 1070, Unlawful Sexual Intercourse: Defendant 21 or Older.

1083–1089. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(iii) Sodomy

1090. Sodomy With Person Under 14 (Pen. Code, § 286(c)(1))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with sodomy with a person who was under the age of 14 years and at least 10 years younger than the defendant [in violation of Penal Code section 286(c)(1)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant participated in an act of sodomy with another person;

AND

2. At the time of the act, the other person was under the age of 14 years and was at least 10 years younger than the defendant.

Sodomy* is any penetration, no matter how slight, of the anus of one person by the penis of another person. [Ejaculation is not required.]

[It is not a defense that the other person may have consented to the act.]

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "It is not a defense that" on request, if there is evidence that the minor consented to the act. (See People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502].)

Give the bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 286(c)(1).
- Sodomy Defined. Pen. Code, § 286(a); see People v. Singh (1928) 62 Cal.App. 450, 452 [217 P. 121] [ejaculation is not required].
- Minor's Consent Not a Defense. See People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502] [in context of statutory rape].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 25–27.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][b], [3][b] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Sodomy With Minor Under 14. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 286(c)(1).
- Sodomy With Minor Under 18. See People v. Culbertson (1985) 171 Cal.App.3d 508, 516 [217 Cal.Rptr. 347]; People v. Jerome (1984) 160 Cal.App.3d 1087, 1097–1098 [207 Cal.Rptr. 199] [both in context of Pen. Code, § 288a(c)].

RELATED ISSUES

Mistake of Fact Defense Not Available

In People v. Olsen (1984) 36 Cal.3d 638 [205 Cal.Rptr. 492, 685 P.2d 52], the court held that the defendant's mistaken belief that the victim was over 14 was no defense to a charge of lewd and lascivious acts with a child under 14.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1091. Sodomy With Minor: Defendant 21 or Older (Pen. Code, § 286(b)(2))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with engaging in an act of sodomy with a person who was under the age of 16 years at a time after the defendant had reached (his/her) 21st birthday [in violation of Penal Code section 286(b)(2)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant participated in an act of sodomy with another person;
2. The defendant was at least 21 years old at the time of the act;

AND

3. The other person was under the age of 16 years at the time of the act.

Sodomy* is any penetration, no matter how slight, of the anus of one person by the penis of another person. [Ejaculation is not required.]

[It is not a defense that the other person may have consented to the act.]

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

<Defense: Good Faith Belief 18 or Over>

[The defendant is not guilty of this crime if (he/she) reasonably and actually believed that the other person was age 18 or older. The People must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant did not reasonably and actually believe that the other person was at least 18 years old. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of this crime.]

New January 2006

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "It is not a defense that" on request, if there is evidence that the minor consented to the act. (See People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502].)

Give the bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rtpr.2d 361, 393 P.2d 673].)

Defenses—Instructional Duty

If there is sufficient evidence that the defendant reasonably and actually believed that the minor was age 18 or older, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. (See People v. Hernandez (1964) 61 Cal.2d 529, 535–536 [39 Cal.Rptr. 361, 393 P.2d 673]; People v. Winters (1966) 242 Cal.App.2d 711, 716 [51 Cal.Rptr. 735].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 286(b)(2).
- Sodomy Defined. Pen. Code, § 286(a); see People v. Singh (1923) 62 Cal.App. 450, 452 [217 P. 121] [ejaculation is not required].
- Minor's Consent Not a Defense. See People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502] [in context of statutory rape].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 25–27.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.20[1][b], [3][b], 142.23[2] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Sodomy With Minor When Defendant Over 21. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 286(b)(2).
- Sodomy With Minor Under 18. See People v. Culbertson (1985) 171 Cal.App.3d 508, 516 [217 Cal.Rptr. 347]; People v. Jerome (1984) 160 Cal.App.3d 1087, 1097–1098 [207 Cal.Rtpr. 199] [both in context of Pen. Code, § 288a(c)].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section under CALCRIM No. 1070, Unlawful Sexual Intercourse: Defendant 21 or Older.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1092. Sodomy With Person Under 18 (Pen. Code, § 286(b)(1))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with sodomy with a person who was under the age of 18 [in violation of Penal Code section 286(b)(1)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant participated in an act of sodomy with another person;

AND

2. The other person was under the age of 18 years at the time of the act.

Sodomy is any penetration, no matter how slight, of the anus of one person by the penis of another person. [Ejaculation is not required.]

[It is not a defense that the other person may have consented to the act.]

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

<Defense: Good Faith Belief 18 or Over>

[The defendant is not guilty of this crime if (he/she) reasonably and actually believed that the other person was age 18 or older. The People must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant did not reasonably and actually believe that the other person was at least 18 years old. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of this crime.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "It is not a defense that" on request, if there is evidence that the minor consented to the act. (See People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Give the bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

Defenses—Instructional Duty

If there is sufficient evidence that the defendant reasonably and actually believed that the minor was age 18 or older, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. (See People v. Hernandez (1964) 61 Cal.2d 529, 535–536 [39 Cal.Rptr. 361, 393 P.2d 673]; People v. Winters (1966) 242 Cal.App.2d 711, 716 [51 Cal.Rptr. 735].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 286(b)(1).
- Sodomy Defined. Pen. Code, § 286(a); see People v. Singh (1923) 62 Cal.App. 450, 452 [217 P. 121] [ejaculation is not required].
- Minor's Consent Not a Defense. See People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502] [in context of statutory rape].
- Mistake of Fact Regarding Age. See People v. Scott (2000) 83 Cal.App.4th 784, 800–801 [100 Cal.Rptr.2d 70]; People v. Hernandez (1964) 61 Cal.2d 529, 535–536 [39 Cal.Rptr. 361, 393 P.2d 673] [in context of statutory rape]; People v. Peterson (1981) 126 Cal.App.3d 396, 397 [178 Cal.Rptr. 734] [in context of oral copulation with minor].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 25–27.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.20[1][b], [3][d], 142.23[2] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Sodomy of Minor. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 286(b)(1).

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section under CALCRIM No. 1070, Unlawful Sexual Intercourse: Defendant 21 or Older, and CALCRIM No. 1071, Unlawful Sexual Intercourse: Minor More Than Three Years Younger.

1093–1099. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(iv) Sexual Penetration

1100. Sexual Penetration With Person Under 14 (Pen. Code, § 289(j))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with sexual penetration with a person who was under the age of 14 and at least 10 years younger than the defendant [in violation of Penal Code section 289(j)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant participated in an act of sexual penetration with another person;
2. The penetration was accomplished by using (a/an) (foreign object[,]/ [or] substance[,]/ [or] instrument[,]/ [or] device[,]/ [or] unknown object);

AND

3. At the time of the act, the other person was under the age of 14 years and was at least 10 years younger than the defendant.

Sexual penetration means (penetration, however slight, of the genital or anal openings of another person/ [or] causing another person to penetrate, however slightly, the defendant's or someone else's genital or anal opening/ [or] causing the other person to penetrate, no matter how slightly, his or her own genital or anal opening) for the purpose of sexual abuse, arousal, or gratification.

[A foreign object, substance, instrument, or device includes any part of the body except a sexual organ.] [An unknown object includes any foreign object, substance, instrument, or device, or any part of the body, including a penis, if it is not known what object penetrated the opening.]

[Penetration for sexual abuse means penetration for the purpose of causing pain, injury, or discomfort.]

[It is not a defense that the other person may have consented to the act.]

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "It is not a defense that" on request, if there is evidence that the minor consented to the act. (See People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502].)

Give the bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 289(j).
- Foreign Object, Substance, Instrument, or Device Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(2); People v. Wilcox (1986) 177 Cal.App.3d 715, 717 [223 Cal.Rptr. 170] [a finger is a "foreign object"].
- Sexual Penetration Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(1); see People v. Quintana (2001) 89 Cal.App.4th 1362, 1371 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 235] [penetration of genital opening refers to penetration of labia majora, not the vagina].
- Unknown Object Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(3).
- Minor's Consent Not a Defense. See People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502] [in context of statutory rape].
- Sexual Abuse Defined. People v. White (1986) 179 Cal.App.3d 193, 205–206 [224 Cal.Rptr. 467].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 47, 48.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[1][d], [3][b] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Sexual Penetration With Minor Under 14. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 289(j).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Sexual Penetration With Minor Under 18. See People v. Culbertson (1985) 171 Cal.App.3d 508, 516 [217 Cal.Rptr. 347]; People v. Jerome (1984) 160 Cal.App.3d 1087, 1097–1098 [207 Cal.Rptr. 199] [both in context of oral copulation with minor under 14].

RELATED ISSUES

Mistake of Fact Defense Not Available

In People v. Olsen (1984) 36 Cal.3d 638, 649 [205 Cal.Rptr. 492, 685 P.2d 52], the court held that the defendant's mistaken belief that the victim was over 14 was no defense to a charge of lewd and lascivious acts with a child under 14.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1101. Sexual Penetration With Minor: Defendant 21 or Older (Pen. Code, § 289(i))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with participating in an act of sexual penetration with a person who was under the age of 16 years at a time after the defendant had reached (his/her) 21st birthday [in violation of Penal Code section 289(i)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant participated in an act of sexual penetration with another person;
2. The penetration was accomplished by using (a/an) (foreign object[,]/ [or] substance[,]/ [or] instrument[,]/ [or] device[,]/ [or] unknown object);
3. The defendant was at least 21 years old at the time of the act;

AND

4. The other person was under the age of 16 years at the time of the act.

Sexual penetration means (penetration, however slight, of the genital or anal openings of another person/ [or] causing another person to penetrate, however slightly, the defendant's or someone else's genital or anal opening/ [or] causing the other person to penetrate, no matter how slightly, his or her own genital or anal opening) for the purpose of sexual abuse, arousal, or gratification.

[A foreign object, substance, instrument, or device includes any part of the body except a sexual organ.] [An unknown object includes any foreign object, substance, instrument, or device, or any part of the body, including a penis, if it is not known what object penetrated the opening.]

[Penetration for sexual abuse means penetration for the purpose of causing pain, injury, or discomfort.]

[It is not a defense that the other person may have consented to the act.]

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

<Defense: Good Faith Belief 18 or Over>

[The defendant is not guilty of this crime if (he/she) reasonably and actually believed that the other person was age 18 or older. The People must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant did not reasonably and actually believe that the other person was at least 18 years old. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of this crime.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "It is not a defense that" on request, if there is evidence that the minor consented to the act. (See People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502].)

Give the bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

Defenses—Instructional Duty

If there is sufficient evidence that the defendant reasonably and actually believed that the minor was age 18 or older, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. (See People v. Hernandez (1964) 61 Cal.2d 529, 535–536 [39 Cal.Rptr. 361, 393 P.2d 673]; People v. Winters (1966) 242 Cal.App.2d 711, 716 [51 Cal.Rptr. 735].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 289(i).
- Foreign Object, Substance, Instrument, or Device Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(2); People v. Wilcox (1986) 177 Cal.App.3d 715, 717 [223 Cal.Rptr. 170] [a finger is a "foreign object"].
- Sexual Penetration Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(1); see People v. Quintana (2001) 89 Cal.App.4th 1362, 1371 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 235] [penetration of genital opening refers to penetration of labia majora, not the vagina].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Unknown Object Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(3).
- Minor's Consent Not a Defense. See People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502] [in context of statutory rape].
- Sexual Abuse Defined. People v. White (1986) 179 Cal.App.3d 193, 205–206 [224 Cal.Rptr. 467].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 47, 48.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.20[1][d], [3][b], 142.23[2] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Sexual Penetration With Minor When Defendant Over 21. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 289(i).
- Sexual Penetration With Minor Under 18. See People v. Culbertson (1985) 171 Cal.App.3d 508, 516 [217 Cal.Rptr. 347]; People v. Jerome (1984) 160 Cal.App.3d 1087, 1097–1098 [207 Cal.Rptr. 199] [both in context of Pen. Code, § 288a(c)].

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section under CALCRIM 1070, Unlawful Sexual Intercourse: Defendant 21 or Older.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1102. Sexual Penetration With Person Under 18 (Pen. Code, § 289(h))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with sexual penetration with a person who was under the age of 18 [in violation of Penal Code section 289(h)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant participated in an act of sexual penetration with another person;
2. The penetration was accomplished by using (a/an) (foreign object[,]/ [or] substance[,]/ [or] instrument[,]/ [or] device[,]/ [or] unknown object);

AND

3. The other person was under the age of 18 years at the time of the act.

Sexual penetration means (penetration, however slight, of the genital or anal openings of another person/ [or] causing another person to penetrate, however slightly, the defendant's or someone else's genital or anal opening/ [or] causing the other person to penetrate, no matter how slightly, his or her own genital or anal opening) for the purpose of sexual abuse, arousal, or gratification.

[A foreign object, substance, instrument, or device includes any part of the body except a sexual organ.] [An unknown object includes any foreign object, substance, instrument, or device, or any part of the body, including a penis, if it is not known what object penetrated the opening.]

[Penetration for sexual abuse means penetration for the purpose of causing pain, injury, or discomfort.]

[It is not a defense that the other person may have consented to the act.]

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

<Defense: Good Faith Belief 18 or Over>

[The defendant is not guilty of this crime if (he/she) reasonably

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

and actually believed that the other person was age 18 or older. The People must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant did not reasonably and actually believe that the other person was at least 18 years old. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of this crime.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "It is not a defense that" on request, if there is evidence that the minor consented to the act. (See People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502].)

Give the bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

Defenses—Instructional Duty

If there is sufficient evidence that the defendant reasonably and actually believed that the minor was age 18 or older, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. (See People v. Hernandez (1964) 61 Cal.2d 529, 535–536 [39 Cal.Rptr. 361, 393 P.2d 673]; People v. Winters (1966) 242 Cal.App.2d 711, 716 [51 Cal.Rptr. 735].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 289(h).
- Foreign Object, Substance, Instrument, or Device Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(2); People v. Wilcox (1986) 177 Cal.App.3d 715, 717 [223 Cal.Rptr. 170] [a finger is a "foreign object"].
- Sexual Penetration Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(1); see People v. Quintana (2001) 89 Cal.App.4th 1362, 1371 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 235] [penetration of genital opening refers to penetration of labia majora, not the vagina].
- Unknown Object Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(3).
- Minor's Consent Not a Defense. People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502] [in context of statutory rape].
- Mistake of Fact Regarding Age. See People v. Hernandez (1964) 61

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.2d 529, 535–536 [39 Cal.Rptr. 361, 393 P.2d 673] [in context of statutory rape]; People v. Peterson (1981) 126 Cal.App.3d 396, 397 [178 Cal.Rptr. 734] [in context of oral copulation with minor].

- Sexual Abuse Defined. People v. White (1986) 179 Cal.App.3d 193, 205–206 [224 Cal.Rptr. 467].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Defenses, § 46.

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 47, 48.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.20[1][d], [3][b], 142.23[2] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Sexual Penetration With Minor. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 289(h).

RELATED ISSUES

Forcible Self-Penetration

In a prosecution under Penal Code section 289(a), one court has held that forcible self-penetration comes within the ambit of the statute. (People v. Keeney (1994) 24 Cal.App.4th 886, 889 [29 Cal.Rptr.2d 451].) Keeney was construing Penal Code section 289(k)(1). Section 289(h), governing penetration with a minor, requires that the perpetrator "participate in [the] act." Until this issue is clarified by the appellate courts, the definition of self-penetration in this instruction excludes forcible self-penetration.

See the Related Issues section under CALCRIM No. 1070, Unlawful Sexual Intercourse: Defendant 21 or Older, and CALCRIM No. 1071, Unlawful Sexual Intercourse: Minor More Than Three Years Younger.

1103–1109. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(v) Lewd And Lascivious Act

1110. Lewd or Lascivious Act: Child Under 14 Years (Pen. Code, § 288(a))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with committing a lewd or lascivious act on a child under the age of 14 years [in violation of Penal Code section 288(a)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

<Alternative 1A—defendant touched child>

[1A. The defendant willfully touched any part of a child's body either on the bare skin or through the clothing;]

[OR]

<Alternative 1B—child touched defendant>

[1B. The defendant willfully caused a child to touch (his/her) own body, the defendant's body, or the body of someone else, either on the bare skin or through the clothing;]

2. The defendant committed the act with the intent of arousing, appealing to, or gratifying the lust, passions, or sexual desires of (himself/herself) or the child;

AND

3. The child was under the age of 14 years at the time of the act.

The touching need not be done in a lewd or sexual manner.

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

[Actually arousing, appealing to, or gratifying the lust, passions, or sexual desires of the perpetrator or the child is not required.]

[It is not a defense that the child may have consented to the act.]

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If the defendant is charged in a single count with multiple alleged acts, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on unanimity. (People v. Jones (1990) 51 Cal.3d 294, 321–322 [270 Cal.Rptr. 611, 792 P.2d 643].) The court must determine whether it is appropriate to give the standard unanimity instruction, CALCRIM No. 3500, Unanimity, or the modified unanimity instruction, CALCRIM No. 3501, Unanimity: When Generic Testimony of Offense Presented. Review the discussion in the bench notes to these two instructions and People v. Jones, supra, 51 Cal.3d at pp. 321–322.

In element 1, give alternative 1A if the prosecution alleges that the defendant touched the child. Give alternative 1B if the prosecution alleges that the defendant cause the child to do the touching.

Give the bracketed sentence that begins, "Actually arousing, appealing to," on request. (People v. McCurdy (1923) 60 Cal.App. 499, 502 [213 P. 59].)

Give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "It is not a defense that the child," on request, if there is evidence that the minor consented to the act. (See People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502].)

Give the final bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 288(a).
- Actual Arousal Not Required. People v. McCurdy (1923) 60 Cal.App. 499, 502 [213 P. 59].
- Any Touching of Child With Intent to Arouse. People v. Martinez (1995) 11 Cal.4th 434, 444, 452 [903 P.2d 1037] [disapproving People v. Wallace (1992) 11 Cal.App.4th 568, 574–580 [14 Cal.Rptr.2d 67] and its progeny]; see People v. Diaz (1996) 41 Cal.App.4th 1424, 1427–1428 [49 Cal.Rptr.2d 252] [list of examples].
- Child's Consent Not a Defense. See People v. Cardenas (1994) 21

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.App.4th 927, 937, fn. 7 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 567] [dicta].

- Child Touching Own Body Parts at Defendant's Instigation. People v. Meacham (1984) 152 Cal.App.3d 142, 152–153 [199 Cal.Rptr. 586] ["constructive" touching; approving Austin instruction]; People v. Austin (1980) 111 Cal.App.3d 110, 114–115 [168 Cal.Rptr. 401].
- Lewd Defined. In re Smith (1972) 7 Cal.3d 362, 365 [102 Cal.Rptr. 335, 497 P.2d 807] [in context of indecent exposure]; see Pryor v. Municipal Court (1979) 25 Cal.3d 238, 256–257, fn. 13 [158 Cal.Rptr. 330, 599 P.2d 636].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 37–40, 44–46.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.21[1][a][i], [b]–[d] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Lewd Act With Child Under 14. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 288(a); People v. Imler (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1178, 1181–1182 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 915]; People v. Herman (2002) 97 Cal.App.4th 1369, 1389–1390 [119 Cal.Rptr.2d 199].
- Simple Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Simple Battery. Pen. Code, § 242.

Annoying or molesting a child under the age of 18 (Pen. Code, § 647.6) is not a lesser included offense of section 288(a). (People v. Lopez (1998) 19 Cal.4th 282, 290, 292 [79 Cal.Rptr.2d 195, 965 P.2d 713].)

RELATED ISSUES

Any Act That Constitutes Sexual Assault

A lewd or lascivious act includes any act that constitutes a crime against the person involving sexual assault as provided in title 9 of part 1 of the Penal Code (Pen. Code, §§ 261–368). (Pen. Code, § 288(a).) For example, unlawful sexual intercourse on the body of a child under 14 can be charged as a lewd act under section 288 and as a separate offense under section 261.5. However, these charges are in the alternative and, in such cases, the court has a sua sponte duty to give CALCRIM No. 3516, Multiple Counts: Alternative Charges for One Event—Dual Conviction Prohibited. (See Pen.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Code, § 654(a); People v. Nicholson (1979) 98 Cal.App.3d 617, 625 [159 Cal.Rptr. 766].)

Calculating Age

The "birthday rule" of former Civil Code section 26 (now see Fam. Code, § 6500) applies so that a person attains a given age as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun, not on the day before the birthday. (See In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 844–845, 849 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

Minor Perpetrator

A minor under age 14 may be convicted for violating Penal Code section 288(a) on clear proof of the minor's knowledge of wrongfulness and the minor's intent to arouse his or her own sexual desires. (See Pen. Code, § 26; In re Randy S. (1999) 76 Cal.App.4th 400, 406–408 [90 Cal.Rptr.2d 423]; see also In re Paul C. (1990) 221 Cal.App.3d 43, 49 [270 Cal.Rptr. 369] [in context of oral copulation].) The age of the minor is a factor to consider when determining if the conduct was sexually motivated. (In re Randy S., supra, 76 Cal.App.4th at pp. 405–406 [90 Cal.Rptr.2d 423].)

Solicitation to Violate Section 288

Asking a minor to engage in lewd conduct with the person making the request is not punishable as solicitation of a minor to commit a violation of Penal Code section 288. (People v. Herman (2002) 97 Cal.App.4th 1369, 1379 [119 Cal.Rptr.2d 199] [conviction for solicitation under Penal Code section 653f(c) reversed].) "[A] minor cannot violate section 288 by engaging in lewd conduct with an adult." (Id. at p. 1379.)

Mistaken Belief About Victim's Age

A defendant charged with a lewd act on a child under Penal Code section 288(a) is not entitled to a mistake of fact instruction regarding the victim's age. (People v. Olsen (1984) 36 Cal.3d 638, 647 [205 Cal.Rptr. 492, 685 P.2d 52] [adult defendant]; In re Donald R. (1993) 14 Cal.App.4th 1627, 1629–1630 [18 Cal.Rptr.2d 442] [minor defendant].)

Multiple Lewd Acts

Each individual act that meets the requirements of section 288 can result in a new and separate statutory violation. (People v. Scott (1994) 9 Cal.4th 331, 346–347 [36 Cal.Rptr.2d 627, 885 P.2d 1040]; see People v. Harrison (1989) 48 Cal.3d 321, 329, 334 [256 Cal.Rptr. 401, 768 P.2d 1078] [in context of sexual penetration].) For example, if a defendant fondles one area of a victim's body with the requisite intent and then moves on to fondle a different area, one offense has ceased and another has begun. There is no requirement that the two be separated by a hiatus or period of reflection. (People v. Jimenez (2002) 99 Cal.App.4th 450, 456 [121 Cal.Rptr.2d 426].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1111. Lewd or Lascivious Act: By Force or Fear (Pen. Code, § 288(b)(1))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with a lewd or lascivious act by force or fear on a child under the age of 14 years [in violation of Penal Code section 288(b)(1)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

<Alternative 1A—defendant touched child>

[1A. The defendant willfully touched any part of a child's body either on the bare skin or through the clothing;]

[OR]

<Alternative 1B—child touched defendant>

[1B. The defendant willfully caused a child to touch (his/her) own body, the defendant's body, or the body of someone else, either on the bare skin or through the clothing;]

2. In committing the act, the defendant used force, violence, duress, menace, or fear of immediate and unlawful bodily injury to the child or someone else;

3. The defendant committed the act with the intent of arousing, appealing to, or gratifying the lust, passions, or sexual desires of (himself/herself) or the child;

AND

4. The child was under the age of 14 years at the time of the act.

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

[Actually arousing, appealing to, or gratifying the lust, passions, or sexual desires of the perpetrator or the child is not required.]

The force used must be substantially different from or substantially greater than the force needed to accomplish the act itself.

[Duress means a direct or implied threat of force, violence, danger, hardship, or retribution that causes a reasonable person to do [or submit to] something that he or she would not otherwise do [or submit to]. When deciding whether the act was accomplished by duress, consider all the circumstances, including the age of the child and (his/her) relationship to the defendant.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[Retribution is a form of payback or revenge.]

[Menace means a threat, statement, or act showing an intent to injure someone.]

[An act is accomplished by fear if the child is actually and reasonably afraid [or (he/she) is actually but unreasonably afraid and the defendant knows of (his/her) fear and takes advantage of it].]

[It is not a defense that the child may have consented to the act.]

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If the defendant is charged in a single count with multiple alleged acts, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on unanimity. (People v. Jones (1990) 51 Cal.3d 294, 321–322 [270 Cal.Rptr. 611, 792 P.2d 643].) The court must determine whether it is appropriate to give the standard unanimity instruction, CALCRIM No. 3500, Unanimity, or the modified unanimity instruction, CALCRIM No. 3501, Unanimity: When Generic Testimony of Offense Presented. Review the discussion in the bench notes to these two instructions and People v. Jones, supra, 51 Cal.3d at pp. 321–322.

Give the bracketed sentence that begins, "Actually arousing, appealing to," on request. (People v. McCurdy (1923) 60 Cal.App. 499, 502 [213 P. 59].)

Give the bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

§ 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

Defenses—Instructional Duty

There is disagreement as to whether knowing consent by a minor is an affirmative defense to a lewd act accomplished by force. (See People v. Cicero (1984) 157 Cal.App.3d 465, 484–485 [204 Cal.Rptr. 582] [when no physical harm, knowing consent of minor is an affirmative defense]; People v. Quinones (1988) 202 Cal.App.3d 1154, 1158 [249 Cal.Rptr. 435] [lewd act need not be against will of victim, following dissent in Cicero, supra, 157 Cal.App.3d at pp. 487–488 [204 Cal.Rptr. 582], dis. opn. of Regan, Acting P.J.]; People v. Cardenas (1994) 21 Cal.App.4th 927, 937, fn. 7 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 567] [dicta].) The bracketed paragraph that begins with "It is not a defense that the child" may be given on request if there is evidence of consent and the court concludes that consent is not a defense to a charge under section 288(b)(1). If the court concludes that consent is a defense and there is sufficient evidence, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. (See consent defense instructions in CALCRIM No. 1000, Rape or Spousal Rape by Force, Fear, or Threats.)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 288(b)(1).
- Duress Defined. People v. Leal (2004) 33 Cal.4th 999, 1004–1010 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 869, 94 P.3d 1071]; People v. Pitmon (1985) 170 Cal.App.3d 38, 50 [216 Cal.Rptr. 221]; People v. Cochran (2002) 103 Cal.App.4th 8, 13–14 [126 Cal.Rptr.2d 416].
- Menace Defined. Pen. Code, § 261(c) [in context of rape].
- Actual Arousal Not Required. People v. McCurdy (1923) 60 Cal.App. 499, 502 [213 P. 59].
- Any Touching of Child With Intent to Arouse. People v. Martinez (1995) 11 Cal.4th 434, 444, 452 [45 Cal.Rptr.2d 905, 903 P.2d 1037] [disapproving People v. Wallace (1992) 11 Cal.App.4th 568, 574–580 [14 Cal.Rptr.2d 67] and its progeny]; see People v. Diaz (1996) 41 Cal.App.4th 1424, 1427–1428 [49 Cal.Rptr.2d 252] [list of examples].
- Child Touching Own Body Parts at Defendant's Instigation. People v. Meacham (1984) 152 Cal.App.3d 142, 152–153 [199 Cal.Rptr. 586] ["constructive" touching; approving Austin instruction]; People v. Austin (1980) 111 Cal.App.3d 110, 114–115 [168 Cal.Rptr. 401].
- Fear Defined. People v. Cardenas (1994) 21 Cal.App.4th 927, 939–940 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 567]; People v. Iniguez (1994) 7 Cal.4th 847 [30

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.Rptr.2d 258, 872 P.2d 1183] [in context of rape].

- Force Defined. People v. Cicero (1984) 157 Cal.App.3d 465, 474 [204 Cal.Rptr. 582]; People v. Pitmon (1985) 170 Cal.App.3d 38, 52 [216 Cal.Rptr. 221]; see also People v. Griffin (2004) 33 Cal.4th 1015, 1018–1019 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 891, 94 P.3d 1089] [discussing Cicero and Pitmon].
- Lewd Defined. In re Smith (1972) 7 Cal.3d 362, 365 [102 Cal.Rptr. 335, 497 P.2d 807] [in context of indecent exposure]; see Pryor v. Municipal Court (1979) 25 Cal.3d 238, 256–257, fn. 13 [158 Cal.Rptr. 330, 599 P.2d 636].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 37–38.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.21[1][a][ii], [b]–[d] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

The instruction includes definitions of "force" and "fear" because those terms have meanings in the context of the crime of lewd acts by force that are technical and may not be readily apparent to jurors. (People v. Pitmon (1985) 170 Cal.App.3d 38, 52 [216 Cal.Rptr. 221] [force]; see People v. Cardenas (1994) 21 Cal.App.4th 927, 939–940 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 567] [fear]; People v. Iniguez (1994) 7 Cal.4th 847, 856–857 [30 Cal.Rptr.2d 258, 872 P.2d 1183] [fear in context of rape].) The definition of "force" as used in Penal Code section 288(b)(1) is different from the meaning of "force" as used in other sex offense statutes. (People v. Cicero (1984) 157 Cal.App.3d 465, 474 [204 Cal.Rptr. 582].) In other sex offense statutes, such as Penal Code section 261 defining rape, "force" does not have a technical meaning and there is no requirement to define the term. (People v. Griffin (2004) 33 Cal.4th 1015, 1018–1019 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 891 94 P.3d 1089].) In Penal Code section 288(b)(1), on the other hand, "force" means force "substantially different from or substantially greater than" the physical force normally inherent in the sexual act. (Id. at p. 1018 [quoting People v. Cicero (1984) 157 Cal.App.3d 465, 474 [204 Cal.Rptr. 582]] [emphasis in Griffin].) The court is required to instruct sua sponte in this special definition of "force." (People v. Pitmon, supra, 170 Cal.App.3d at p. 52; see also People v. Griffin, supra, 33 Cal.4th at pp. 1026–1028.)

The court is not required to instruct sua sponte on the definition of "duress" or "menace" and Penal Code section 288 does not define either term. (People

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

v. Pitmon (1985) 170 Cal.App.3d 38, 52 [216 Cal.Rptr. 221] [duress]). Optional definitions are provided for the court to use at its discretion. The definition of "duress" is based on People v. Leal (2004) 33 Cal.4th 999, 1004–1010 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 869, 94 P.3d 1071] and People v. Pitmon (1985) 170 Cal.App.3d 38, 50 [216 Cal.Rptr. 221]. The definition of "menace" is based on the statutory definitions contained in Penal Code sections 261 and 262 [rape]. (See People v. Cochran (2002) 103 Cal.App.4th 8, 13–14 [126 Cal.Rptr.2d 416] [using rape definition in case involving forcible lewd acts].) In People v. Leal, supra, 33 Cal.4th at p. 1007, the court held that the statutory definition of "duress" contained in Penal Code sections 261 and 262 does not apply to the use of that term in any other statute. The court did not discuss the statutory definition of "menace." The court should consider the Leal opinion before giving the definition of "menace."

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Lewd Act by Force With Child Under 14. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 288(b).
- Simple Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Simple Battery. Pen. Code, § 242.

RELATED ISSUES

Evidence of Duress

In looking at the totality of the circumstances to determine if duress was used to commit forcible lewd acts on a child, "relevant factors include threats to harm the victim, physically controlling the victim when the victim attempts to resist, and warnings to the victim that revealing the molestation would result in jeopardizing the family. . . . The fact that the victim testifies the defendant did not use force or threats does not require a finding of no duress; the victim's testimony must be considered in light of her age and her relationship to the defendant." (People v. Cochran, supra, 103 Cal.App.4th at p. 14.)

See the Related Issues section of the Bench Notes for CALCRIM No. 1110, Lewd or Lascivious Act: Child Under 14 Years.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1112. Lewd or Lascivious Act: Child 14 or 15 Years (Pen. Code, § 288(c)(1))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with a lewd or lascivious act on a 14- or 15-year-old child who was at least 10 years younger than the defendant [in violation of Penal Code section 288(c)(1)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

<Alternative 1A—defendant touched child>

[1A. The defendant willfully touched any part of a child's body either on the bare skin or through the clothing;]

[OR]

<Alternative 1B—child touched defendant>

[1B. The defendant willfully caused a child to touch (his/her) own body, the defendant's body, or the body of someone else, either on the bare skin or through the clothing;]

2. The defendant committed the act with the intent of arousing, appealing to, or gratifying the lust, passions, or sexual desires of (himself/herself) or the child;

3. The child was (14/15) years old at the time of the act;

AND

4. When the defendant acted, the child was at least 10 years younger than the defendant.

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

[Actually arousing, appealing to, or gratifying the lust, passions, or sexual desires of the perpetrator or the child is not required.]

[It is not a defense that the child may have consented to the act.]

[In determining whether a person is at least 10 years older than a child, measure from the person's birthdate to the child's birthdate.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If the defendant is charged in a single count with multiple alleged acts, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on unanimity. (People v. Jones (1990) 51 Cal.3d 294, 321–322 [270 Cal.Rptr. 611, 792 P.2d 643].) The court must determine whether it is appropriate to give the standard unanimity instruction, CALCRIM No. 3500, Unanimity, or the modified unanimity instruction, CALCRIM No. 3501, Unanimity: When Generic Testimony of Offense Presented. Review the discussion in the bench notes to these two instructions and People v. Jones, supra, 51 Cal.3d at pp. 321–322.

Give the bracketed sentence that begins, "Actually arousing, appealing to," on request. (People v. McCurdy (1923) 60 Cal.App. 499, 502 [213 P. 59].)

Give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "It is not a defense that the child," on request, if there is evidence that the minor consented to the act. (See People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502].)

Give the bracketed paragraphs about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [855 P.2d 391].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 288(c)(1).
- Actual Arousal Not Required. People v. McCurdy (1923) 60 Cal.App. 499, 502 [213 P. 59].
- Any Touching of Child With Intent to Arouse. People v. Martinez (1995) 11 Cal.4th 434, 444, 452 [45 Cal.Rptr.2d 905, 903 P.2d 1037] [disapproving People v. Wallace (1992) 11 Cal.App.4th 568, 574–580 [14 Cal.Rptr.2d 67] and its progeny]; see People v. Diaz (1996) 41 Cal.App.4th 1424, 1427–1428 [49 Cal.Rptr.2d 252] [list of examples].
- Child Touching Own Body Parts at Defendant's Instigation. People v. Meacham (1984) 152 Cal.App.3d 142, 152–153 [199 Cal.Rptr. 586] ["constructive" touching; approving Austin instruction]; People v. Austin (1980) 111 Cal.App.3d 110, 114–115 [168 Cal.Rptr. 401].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Lewd Defined. In re Smith (1972) 7 Cal.3d 362, 365 [102 Cal.Rptr. 335, 497 P.2d 807] [in context of indecent exposure]; see Pryor v. Municipal Court (1979) 25 Cal.3d 238, 256–257, fn. 13 [158 Cal.Rptr. 330, 599 P.2d 636].
- Minor's Consent Not a Defense. See People v. Cardenas (1994) 21 Cal.App.4th 927, 937, fn. 7 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 567] [dicta].
- Mistaken Belief About Victim's Age Not a Defense. People v. Paz (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 293, 298 [95 Cal.Rptr.2d 166].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 37–40, 44–46.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.21[1][a][iii], [b]–[d] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Simple Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Simple Battery. Pen. Code, § 242.
- Attempted Lewd Act on a Child of 14 or 15. In re Lesansky (2001) 25 Cal.4th 11, 13].

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section of the Bench Notes for CALCRIM No. 1110, Lewd or Lascivious Act: Child Under 14 Years.

1113–1119. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(vi) Other Offenses

1120. Continuous Sexual Abuse (Pen. Code, § 288.5(a))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with continuous sexual abuse of a child under the age of 14 years [in violation of Penal Code section 288.5(a)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant (lived in the same home with/ [or] had recurring access to) a minor child;
2. The defendant engaged in three or more acts of (substantial sexual conduct/ [or] lewd or lascivious conduct) with the child;
3. Three or more months passed between the first and last acts;

AND

4. The child was under the age of 14 years at the time of the acts.

[Substantial sexual conduct means oral copulation or masturbation of either the child or the perpetrator, or penetration of the child's or perpetrator's vagina or rectum by (the other person's penis/ [or] any foreign object).]

[Oral copulation is any contact, no matter how slight, between the mouth of one person and the sexual organ or anus of another person. Penetration is not required.]

[Lewd or lascivious conduct is any willful touching of a child accomplished with the intent to sexually arouse the perpetrator or the child. The touching need not be done in a lewd or sexual manner. Contact with the child's bare skin or private parts is not required. Any part of the child's body or the clothes the child is wearing may be touched.] [Lewd or lascivious conduct [also] includes causing a child to touch his or her own body or someone else's body at the instigation of a perpetrator who has the required intent.]

[Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.]

You cannot convict the defendant unless all of you agree that (he/she) committed three or more acts over a period of at least three months, but you do not all need to agree on which three acts were committed.

[Actually arousing, appealing to, or gratifying the lust, passions, or sexual desires of the perpetrator or child is not required for lewd or lascivious conduct.]

[It is not a defense that the child may have consented to the act.]

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If the court gives the definition of "lewd and lascivious conduct," the definition of "willfully" must also be given.

Give the bracketed sentence that begins, "Actually arousing, appealing to," on request. (People v. McCurdy (1923) 60 Cal.App. 499, 502 [213 P. 59].)

Give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "It is not a defense that the child," on request, if there is evidence that the minor consented to the act. (See People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502].)

Give the bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 288.5(a); People v. Vasquez (1996) 51 Cal.App.4th 1277, 1284–1285, 1287 [59 Cal.Rptr.2d 389].
- Substantial Sexual Conduct Defined. Pen. Code, § 1203.066(b).
- Unanimity on Specific Acts Not Required. Pen. Code, § 288.5(b); People v. Adames (1997) 54 Cal.App.4th 198, 208 [62 Cal.Rptr.2d 631].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Actual Arousal Not Required. People v. McCurdy (1923) 60 Cal.App. 499, 502 [213 P. 59].
- Any Touching of Child With Intent to Arouse. People v. Martinez (1995) 11 Cal.4th 434, 444, 452 [45 Cal.Rptr.2d 905, 903 P.2d 1037] [disapproving People v. Wallace (1992) 11 Cal.App.4th 568, 574–580 [14 Cal.Rptr.2d 67] and its progeny]; see People v. Diaz (1996) 41 Cal.App.4th 1424, 1427–1428 [49 Cal.Rptr.2d 252] [list of examples].
- Child Touching Own Body Parts at Defendant's Instigation. People v. Meacham (1984) 152 Cal.App.3d 142, 152–153 [199 Cal.Rptr. 586]; People v. Austin (1980) 111 Cal.App.3d 110, 114–115 [168 Cal.Rptr. 401].
- Minor's Consent Not a Defense. See People v. Cardenas (1994) 21 Cal.App.4th 927, 937, fn. 7 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 567] [dicta in context of lewd or lascivious act].
- Oral Copulation Defined. People v. Grim (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1240, 1242–1243 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 884]; see Pen. Code, § 288a(a).
- "Recurring Access" Is Commonly Understand Term Not Requiring Sua Sponte Definitional Instruction. People v. Rodriguez (2002) 28 Cal.4th 543, 550 [122 Cal.Rptr.2d 348, 49 P.3d 1085] [disapproving People v. Gohdes (1997) 58 Cal.App.4th 1520, 1529 [68 Cal.Rptr.2d 719].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 51–53.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.21[1][c][ii], [2] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

Penal Code section 288.5 does not require that the defendant reside with, or have access to, the child continuously for three consecutive months. It only requires that a period of at least three months passes between the first and last acts of molestation. (People v. Vasquez (1996) 51 Cal.App.4th 1277, 1284–1285, 1287 [59 Cal.Rptr.2d 389].)

Section 288.5 validly defines a prohibited offense as a continuous course of conduct and does not unconstitutionally deprive a defendant of a unanimous jury verdict. (People v. Avina (1993) 14 Cal.App.4th 1303, 1309–1312 [18 Cal.Rptr.2d 511].)

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Simple Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Simple Battery. Pen. Code, § 242.

Since a conviction under Penal Code section 288.5 could be based on a course of substantial sexual conduct without necessarily violating section 288 (lewd or lascivious conduct), the latter is not necessarily included within the former and no sua sponte instruction is required. (People v. Avina (1993) 14 Cal.App.4th 1303, 1313–1314 [18 Cal.Rptr.2d 511]; see People v. Palmer (2001) 86 Cal.App.4th 440, 444–445 [103 Cal.Rptr.2d 301].)

RELATED ISSUES

Alternative Charges

Under Penal Code section 288.5(c), continuous sexual abuse and specific sexual offenses pertaining to the same victim over the same time period may only be charged in the alternative. In these circumstances, multiple convictions are precluded. (People v. Johnson (2002) 28 Cal.4th 240, 245, 248 [121 Cal.Rptr.2d 197, 47 P.3d 1064] [exception to general rule in Pen. Code, § 954 permitting joinder of related charges].) In such cases, the court has a sua sponte duty to give CALCRIM No. 3516, Multiple Counts: Alternative Charges for One Event—Dual Conviction Prohibited. If a defendant is erroneously convicted of both continuous sexual abuse and specific sexual offenses and a greater aggregate sentence is imposed for the specific offenses, the appropriate remedy is to reverse the conviction for continuous sexual abuse. (People v. Torres (2002) 102 Cal.App.4th 1053, 1060 [126 Cal.Rptr.2d 92].)

Masturbation

For a discussion of the term masturbation, see People v. Chambless (1999) 74 Cal.App.4th 773, 783–784, 786–787 [88 Cal.Rptr.2d 444] [construing term for purposes of finding defendant committed sexually violent offenses under the Sexually Violent Predators Act].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1121. Annoying or Molesting a Child in a Dwelling (Pen. Code, § 647.6(a)–(c))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with annoying or molesting a child in an inhabited dwelling [in violation of Penal Code section 647.6(b)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant entered an inhabited (dwelling house/part of a building/trailer coach) without consent;
2. After entering the (house/building/trailer coach), the defendant engaged in conduct directed at a child;
3. A normal person, without hesitation, would have been disturbed, irritated, offended, or injured by the defendant's conduct;
4. The defendant's conduct was motivated by an unnatural or abnormal sexual interest in the child;

AND

5. The child was under the age of 18 years at the time of the conduct.

[It is not necessary that the child actually be irritated or disturbed.] [It is [also] not necessary that the child actually be touched.]

[It is not a defense that the child may have consented to the act.]

[A (house/part of a building/trailer coach) is inhabited if someone uses it as a dwelling, whether or not someone is inside at the time of the alleged conduct.]

[A (house/part of a building/trailer coach) is inhabited if someone used it as a dwelling and left only because a natural or other disaster caused him or her to leave.]

[A (house/part of a building/trailer coach) is not inhabited if the former residents have moved out and do not intend to return, even if some personal property remains inside.]

[A house includes any (structure/garage/office/ _____ <insert

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

other description>) that is attached to the house and functionally connected with it.]

[A trailer coach is a vehicle without its own mode of power, designed to be pulled by a motor vehicle. It is made for human habitation or human occupancy and for carrying property.]

[A trailer coach is [also] a park trailer that is intended for human habitation for recreational or seasonal use only and

(1) has a floor area of no more than 400 square feet;

(2) is not more than 14 feet wide;

(3) is built on a single chassis;

AND

(4) may be transported on public highways only with a permit.]

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

<Defense: Good Faith Belief Over 18>

[The defendant is not guilty of this crime if (he/she) reasonably and actually believed that the child was at least 18 years of age. The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant did not reasonably and actually believe the child was at least 18 years of age. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of this crime.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If the defendant is charged in a single count with multiple alleged acts, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on unanimity. (People v. Jones (1990) 51 Cal.3d 294, 321–322 [270 Cal.Rptr. 611, 792 P.2d 643]; People v. Epps (1981) 122 Cal.App.3d 691, 703–704 [176 Cal.Rptr. 332].) However, child annoyance or molestation may be committed by a single act or a repetitive course of conduct. There is no sua sponte duty to give a unanimity instruction when a defendant's conduct clearly constituted a single course of conduct. (People v. Moore (1986) 185 Cal.App.3d 1005, 1014–1016 [230 Cal.Rptr. 237].) The court must determine if a unanimity instruction is required and whether it is appropriate to give the standard unanimity instruction, CALCRIM No. 3500, Unanimity, or the modified unanimity instruction, CALCRIM No. 3501, Unanimity: When Generic Testimony of Offense Presented. Review the discussion in the bench notes to these two instructions and People v. Jones, supra, 51 Cal.3d at pp. 321–322.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If the defendant is charged with a prior conviction for a violation of Penal Code section 647.6 or any other specified sexual offense (see Pen. Code, § 647.6(c)), give CALCRIM No. 3100, Prior Conviction: Nonbifurcated Trial, or CALCRIM No. 3101, Prior Conviction: Bifurcated Trial, unless the defendant has stipulated to the truth of the prior conviction. (People v. Merkley (1996) 51 Cal.App.4th 472, 476 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 21]; see People v. Bouzas (1991) 53 Cal.3d 467, 477–480 [279 Cal.Rptr. 847, 807 P.2d 1076].)

Give the bracketed sentence that begins, "It is not a defense that," on request if there is evidence that the minor consented to the act. (See People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502].)

If appropriate, give any of the bracketed definitions of "inhabited," "house" or "trailer coach" on request.

Give the bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

If the defendant was charged with simple annoying or molesting a child without any allegations about entering an inhabited house, building, or trailer coach, do not give this instruction. Give CALCRIM No. 1122, Annoying or Molesting a Child.

Do not give CALCRIM No. 370, Motive, with this instruction because motive is an element of the crime. (People v. Maurer (1995) 32 Cal.App.4th 1121, 1126-1127 [38 Cal.Rptr.2d 335].)

Defenses—Instructional Duty

If there is sufficient evidence that the defendant reasonably believed that the child was over 18 years of age, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. (See People v. Atchison (1978) 22 Cal.3d 181, 183 [148 Cal.Rptr. 881, 583 P.2d 735]; People v. Paz (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 293, 300 [95 Cal.Rptr.2d 166].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 647.6(a)–(c).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Inhabitation Defined. See Pen. Code, § 459 [in context of burglary].
- Trailer Coach Defined. Veh. Code, § 635; Health & Saf. Code, § 18009.3.
- Acts Motivated by Unnatural or Abnormal Sexual Interest. People v. Maurer (1995) 32 Cal.App.4th 1121, 1126–1127 [38 Cal.Rptr.2d 335]; In re Gladys R. (1970) 1 Cal.3d 855, 867 [83 Cal.Rptr. 671, 464 P.2d 127].
- Annoy and Molest Defined; Objective Standard. People v. Lopez (1998) 19 Cal.4th 282, 289–290 [79 Cal.Rptr.2d 195]; People v. Kongs (1994) 30 Cal.App.4th 1741, 1749–1750 [37 Cal.Rptr.2d 327]; People v. Pallares (1952) 112 Cal.App.2d Supp. 895, 901–902 [246 P.2d 173].
- Lewd Act Not Required. People v. Thompson (1988) 206 Cal.App.3d 459, 465–466 [253 Cal.Rptr. 564].
- Minor's Consent Not a Defense. See People v. Cardenas (1994) 21 Cal.App.4th 927, 937, fn. 7 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 567] [dicta, in context of lewd act].
- Minor Need Not Actually Be Annoyed. People v. Lopez (1998) 19 Cal.4th 282, 290 [79 Cal.Rptr.2d 195, 965 P.2d 713].
- Actual Touching Not Required. People v. Memro (1995) 11 Cal.4th 786, 871 [47 Cal.Rptr.2d 219, 905 P.2d 1305]; People v. Lopez (1998) 19 Cal.4th 282, 289 [79 Cal.Rptr.2d 195].
- House Not Inhabited If Former Residents Not Returning. People v. Cardona (1983) 142 Cal.App.3d 481, 483 [191 Cal.Rptr. 109].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against Public Peace and Welfare, §§ 59, 60.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.21[4], 142.23[2] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

See the Commentary section of the Bench Notes for CALCRIM No. 1122, Annoying or Molesting a Child.

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Annoying or Molesting of Minor. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 647.6(b).

Annoying or molesting a child without entering an inhabited dwelling is a misdemeanor and lesser included offense. (Pen. Code, § 647.6(a).)

Neither simple assault (People v. Greene (1973) 34 Cal.App.3d 622, 654–655

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[110 Cal.Rptr. 160]) or contributing to the delinquency of a minor (People v. Romero (1975) 48 Cal.App.3d 752, 757 [121 Cal.Rptr. 800] [construing former versions of Pen. Code, §§ 272 and 647.6]) is a necessarily included lesser offense of annoying or molesting a child.

RELATED ISSUES

After Entering

The statute does not require that the defendant engage in the molesting conduct while still in the home. (People v. Mendoza (2004) 118 Cal.App.4th 571, 575–576 [13 Cal.Rptr.3d 195].) It is sufficient if the defendant engaged in the conduct after entering the home and there is a "nexus between the residential entry and the molesting conduct." (Id. at p. 576.)

See the Related Issues section of the Bench Notes for CALCRIM No. 1122, Annoying or Molesting a Child.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1122. Annoying or Molesting a Child (Pen. Code, § 647.6(a)–(c))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with annoying or molesting a child [in violation of Penal Code section 647.6].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant engaged in conduct directed at a child;
2. A normal person, without hesitation, would have been disturbed, irritated, offended, or injured by the defendant's conduct;
3. The defendant's conduct was motivated by an unnatural or abnormal sexual interest in the child;

AND

4. The child was under the age of 18 years at the time of the conduct.

[It is not necessary that the child actually be irritated or disturbed.] [It is [also] not necessary that the child actually be touched.]

[It is not a defense that the child may have consented to the act.]

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

<Defense: Good Faith Belief Over 18>

[The defendant is not guilty of this crime if (he/she) actually and reasonably believed that the child was at least 18 years of age. The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant did not actually and reasonably believe the child was at least 18 years of age. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of this crime.]

New January 2006

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If the defendant is charged in a single count with multiple alleged acts, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on unanimity. (People v. Jones (1990) 51 Cal.3d 294, 321–322 [270 Cal.Rptr. 611, 792 P.2d 643]; People v. Epps (1981) 122 Cal.App.3d 691, 703–704 [176 Cal.Rptr. 332].) However, child annoyance or molestation may be committed by either a single act or a repetitive course of conduct. There is no sua sponte duty to give a unanimity instruction when a defendant's conduct clearly constituted a single course of conduct. (People v. Moore (1986) 185 Cal.App.3d 1005, 1014–1016 [230 Cal.Rptr. 237].) The court must determine if a unanimity instruction is required and whether it is appropriate to give the standard unanimity instruction, CALCRIM No. 3500, Unanimity, or the modified unanimity instruction, CALCRIM No. 3501, Unanimity: When Generic Testimony of Offense Presented. Review the discussion in the bench notes to these two instructions and People v. Jones, supra, 51 Cal.3d at pp. 321–322.

If the defendant is charged with a prior conviction for a violation of Penal Code section 647.6 or any other specified sexual offense (see Pen. Code, § 647.6(c)), give CALCRIM No. 3100, Prior Conviction: Nonbifurcated Trial, or CALCRIM No. 3101, Prior Conviction: Bifurcated Trial, unless the defendant has stipulated to the truth of the prior conviction. (People v. Merkley (1996) 51 Cal.App.4th 472, 476 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 21]; see People v. Bouzas (1991) 53 Cal.3d 467, 477–480 [279 Cal.Rptr. 847, 807 P.2d 1076].)

Give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "It is not a defense that the child," on request, if there is evidence that the minor consented to the act. (See People v. Kemp (1934) 139 Cal.App. 48, 51 [34 P.2d 502].)

Give the bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

If the defendant was charged with annoying or molesting a child after entering an inhabited house, building, or trailer coach, do not give this instruction. Give CALCRIM No. 1121, Annoying or Molesting a Child in a Dwelling.

Do not give CALCRIM No. 370, Motive, with this instruction because motive is an element of the crime. (People v. Maurer (1995) 32 Cal.App.4th 1121, 1126–1127 [38 Cal.Rptr.2d 335].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Defenses—Instructional Duty

If there is sufficient evidence that the defendant reasonably believed that the child was over 18 years of age, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense. (See People v. Atchison (1978) 22 Cal.3d 181, 183 [148 Cal.Rptr. 881, 583 P.2d 735]; People v. Paz (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 293, 300 [95 Cal.Rptr.2d 166].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 647.6(a)–(c).
- Acts Motivated by Unnatural or Abnormal Sexual Interest. People v. Maurer (1995) 32 Cal.App.4th 1121, 1126–1127 [38 Cal.Rptr.2d 335]; In re Gladys R. (1970) 1 Cal.3d 855, 867 [83 Cal.Rptr. 671, 464 P.2d 127].
- Annoy and Molest Defined; Objective Standard. People v. Lopez (1998) 19 Cal.4th 282, 289–290 [79 Cal.Rptr.2d 195, 965 P.2d 713]; People v. Kongs (1994) 30 Cal.App.4th 1741, 1749–1750 [37 Cal.Rptr.2d 327]; People v. Pallares (1952) 112 Cal.App.2d Supp. 895, 901–902 [246 P.2d 173].
- Lewd Act Not Required. People v. Thompson (1988) 206 Cal.App.3d 459, 465–466 [253 Cal.Rptr. 564].
- Minor's Consent Not a Defense. See People v. Cardenas (1994) 21 Cal.App.4th 927, 937, fn. 7 [26 Cal.Rptr.2d 567] [dicta, in context of lewd act].
- Minor Need Not Actually Be Annoyed. People v. Lopez (1998) 19 Cal.4th 282, 290 [79 Cal.Rptr.2d 195, 965 P.2d 713].
- Actual Touching Not Required. People v. Memro (1995) 11 Cal.4th 786, 871 [47 Cal.Rptr.2d 219, 905 P.2d 1305]; People v. Lopez (1998) 19 Cal.4th 282, 289 [79 Cal.Rptr.2d 195, 965 P.2d 713].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against Public Peace and Welfare, §§ 59, 60.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.21[4], 142.23[2] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

"Annoy" and "molest" are synonymous and generally refer to conduct designed to disturb, irritate, offend, injure, or at least tend to injure, another person. (People v. Lopez (1998) 19 Cal.4th 282, 289 [79 Cal.Rptr.2d 195, 965 P.2d 713]; People v. Carskaddon (1957) 49 Cal.2d 423, 426 [318 P.2d 4].) "Annoy means to disturb or irritate, especially by continued or repeated acts . . . . [¶] '[M]olest' [means] . . . 'to interfere with or meddle with unwarrantably so as to injure or disturb.' " (People v. Pallares (1952) 112 Cal.App.2d Supp. 895, 901 [246 P.2d 173].) A photographer can "annoy" a minor by taking the minor's photograph in a public place in an offensive and irritating manner. (See Ecker v. Raging Waters Group, Inc. (2001) 87 Cal.App.4th 1320, 1325 [105 Cal.Rptr.2d 320].) A lewd act is not required. (People v. Thompson (1988) 206 Cal.App.3d 459, 465–466 [253 Cal.Rptr. 564].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Annoying or Molesting of Minor. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 647.6(a).

Annoying or Molesting a minor is a misdemeanor unless the defendant is charged with one of the specified prior convictions. (Pen. Code, § 647.6(a).) If the defendant is charged with a felony based on a qualifying prior conviction, the misdemeanor is a lesser included offense.

Neither simple assault (People v. Greene (1973) 34 Cal.App.3d 622, 654–655 [110 Cal.Rptr. 160]) or contributing to the delinquency of a minor (People v. Romero (1975) 48 Cal.App.3d 752, 757 [121 Cal.Rptr. 800] [construing former versions of Pen. Code, §§ 272 and 647.6]) is a necessarily included lesser offense of annoying or molesting a child.

RELATED ISSUES

Minor Perpetrator

A minor under age 14 may be convicted for violating Penal Code section 647.6 on clear proof of the minor's knowledge of wrongfulness. (See Pen. Code, § 26; In re Gladys R. (1970) 1 Cal.3d 855, 862, 869 [83 Cal.Rptr. 671, 464 P.2d 127] [12-year-old may be declared ward of court for annoying or molesting another minor].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1123. Aggravated Sexual Assault of Child Under 14 Years (Pen. Code, § 269(a))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with aggravated sexual assault of a child who was under the age of 14 years and at least seven years younger than the defendant [in violation of Penal Code section 269(a)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant committed _____ <insert sex offense specified in Pen. Code, § 269(a)(1)–(5)> on another person;

AND

2. When the defendant acted, the other person was under the age of 14 years and was at least seven years younger than the defendant.

To decide whether the defendant committed _____ <insert sex offense specified in Pen. Code, § 269(a)(1)–(5)>, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on that crime.

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

New January 2006; Revised June 2007

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

In element 1 and in the sentence following element 2, insert the sex offense specified in Penal Code section 269(a)(1)–(5) that is charged. The sex offenses specified in section 269(a)(1)–(5) and their applicable instructions are:

1. Rape (Pen. Code, § 261(a)(2); see CALCRIM No. 1000, Rape or Spousal Rape by Force, Fear, or Threats).
2. Rape or sexual penetration in concert (Pen. Code, § 264.1; see

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

CALCRIM No. 1001, Rape or Spousal Rape in Concert, and CALCRIM No. 1046, Sexual Penetration in Concert).

3. Sodomy (Pen. Code, § 286(c)(2); see CALCRIM No. 1030, Sodomy by Force, Fear, or Threats).
4. Oral copulation (Pen. Code, § 288a(c)(2); see CALCRIM No. 1015, Oral Copulation by Force, Fear, or Threats).
5. Sexual penetration (Pen. Code, § 289(a); see CALCRIM No. 1045, Sexual Penetration by Force, Fear, or Threats).

Give the bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 269(a).

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, § 54.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.20[2][a], [c], [7][c] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Simple Assault. Pen. Code, § 240.
- Underlying Sex Offense. Pen. Code, §§ 261(a)(2) [rape], 264.1 [rape or sexual penetration in concert], 286(c)(2) [sodomy], 288a(c)(2) [oral copulation], 289(a) [sexual penetration].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1124. Contacting Minor With Intent to Commit Certain Felonies (Pen. Code, § 288.3(a))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with contacting a minor with the intent to commit _____<insert enumerated offense from statute> [in violation of Penal Code section 288.3(a)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant (contacted or communicated with/ [or] attempted to contact or communicate with) a minor;
2. When the defendant did so, (he/she) intended to commit _____<insert enumerated offense from statute> involving that minor;

AND

3. The defendant knew or reasonably should have known that the person was a minor.

A minor is a person under the age of 18.

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

Contacting or communicating* with a minor includes direct and indirect contact or communication. [That contact or communication may take place personally or by using (an agent or agency/ [or] any print medium/ [or] any postal service/ [or] a common carrier/ [or] communication common carrier/ [or] any electronic communications system/ [or] any telecommunications/ [or] wire/ [or] computer/ [or] radio communications [device or system]).]

To decide whether the defendant intended to commit _____ <specify sex offense[s] listed in Pen. Code, § 288.3(a)>, please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on (that/those) crime[s].

New August 2009

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

The court has a sua sponte duty to define the elements of the underlying/target sex offense. (See People v. Hughes (2002) 27 Cal.4th 287, 349 [116 Cal.Rptr.2d 401, 39 P.3d 432 and People v. May (1989) 213 Cal.App.3d 118, 129 [261 Cal.Rptr. 502].)

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the good faith belief that the victim was not a minor as a defense for certain sex crimes with minors, including statutory rape, when that defense is supported by evidence. Until courts of review clarify whether this defense is available in prosecutions for violations of Pen. Code, § 288.3(a), the court will have to exercise its own discretion. Suitable language for such an instruction is found in CALCRIM No. 1070, Unlawful Sexual Intercourse: Defendant 21 or Older.

AUTHORITY

- Elements and Enumerated Offenses. Pen. Code, § 288.3(a).
- Calculating Age. Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2008 supp.) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, § 54B.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.21 (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1125. Arranging Meeting With Minor for Lewd Purpose (Pen. Code, § 288.4(a)(1))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with arranging a meeting with a minor for a lewd purpose [while having a prior conviction] [in violation of Penal Code section 288.4(a)(1)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant arranged a meeting with (a minor / [or] a person (he/she) believed to be a minor);
2. When the defendant did so, (he/she) was motivated by an unnatural or abnormal sexual interest in children;

[AND]

3. At that meeting, the defendant intended to (expose (his/her) genitals or pubic or rectal area/ [or] have the minor expose (his/her) genitals or pubic or rectal area/ [or] engage in lewd or lascivious behavior).

A minor is a person under the age of 18.

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

[Lewd and lascivious behavior includes any touching of a person with the intent to sexually arouse the perpetrator or the other person. The touching need not be done in a lewd or sexual manner. Lewd or lascivious behavior includes touching any part of the person's body, either on the bare skin or through the clothes the person is wearing. [A lewd or lascivious act includes causing someone to touch his or her own body or someone else's body at the instigation of the perpetrator who has the required intent.]]

New August 2009; Revised April 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the good faith belief that the victim was not a minor as a defense for certain sex crimes with minors, including statutory rape, when that defense is supported by evidence. Until courts of review clarify whether this defense is available in prosecutions for violations of Pen. Code, § 288.4(a)(1), the court will have to exercise its own discretion. Suitable language for such an instruction is found in CALCRIM No. 1070, Unlawful Sexual Intercourse: Defendant 21 or Older.

Whether the defendant suffered a prior conviction for an offense listed in subsection (c) of section 290 is not an element of the offense and is subject to a severed jury trial. (Pen. Code, § 288.4(a)(2).) See CALCRIM No. 3100, Prior Conviction: Nonbifurcated Trial, or CALCRIM No. 3101, Prior Conviction: Bifurcated Trial.

AUTHORITY

- Elements and Enumerated Offenses. Pen. Code, § 288.4.
- Lewd Defined. See In re Smith (1972) 7 Cal.3d 362, 365 [102 Cal.Rptr. 335, 497 P.2d 807] [in context of indecent exposure]; see Pryor v. Municipal Court (1979) 25 Cal.3d 238, 256–257, fn. 13 [158 Cal.Rptr. 330, 599 P.2d 636].
- Calculating Age. Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2008 supp.) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, § 54A.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.21 (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1126. Going to Meeting With Minor for Lewd Purpose (Pen. Code, § 288.4(b))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with going to a meeting with a minor for a lewd purpose [in violation of Penal Code section 288.4(b)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant arranged a meeting with (a minor/ [or] a person (he/she) believed to be a minor);
2. When the defendant did so, (he/she) was motivated by an unnatural or abnormal sexual interest in children;
3. At that meeting, the defendant intended to (expose (his/her) genitals or pubic or rectal area/ [or] have the minor expose (his/her) genitals or pubic or rectal area/ [or] engage in lewd or lascivious behavior);

AND

4. The defendant went to the arranged meeting place at or about the arranged time.

A minor is a person under the age of 18.

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

[Lewd and lascivious behavior includes any touching of a person with the intent to sexually arouse the perpetrator or the other person. The touching need not be done in a lewd or sexual manner. Lewd or lascivious behavior includes touching any part of the person's body, either on the bare skin or through the clothes the person is wearing. [A lewd or lascivious act includes causing someone to touch his or her own body or someone else's body at the instigation of the perpetrator who has the required intent.]]

New August 2009; Revised April 2010

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

It is unclear how violations of Pen. Code, § 288.4(b), which involve actually going to an arranged meeting, correlate to violations of Pen. Code, § 288.4(a) (cf. CALCRIM No. 1125, Arranging Meeting With Minor for Lewd Purpose). Violations of section 288.4(a) may be lesser included offenses of violations of section 288.4(b). In the alternative, a violation of section 288.4(b) could be characterized as sentence enhancement of a violation of section 288.4(a). This matter must be left to the trial court's discretion until courts of review provide guidance.

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the good faith belief that the victim was not a minor as a defense for certain sex crimes with minors, including statutory rape, when that defense is supported by evidence. Until courts of review clarify whether this defense is available in prosecutions for violations of Pen. Code, § 288.4(b), the court will have to exercise its own discretion. Suitable language for such an instruction is found in CALCRIM No. 1070, Unlawful Sexual Intercourse: Defendant 21 or Older.

AUTHORITY

- Elements and Enumerated Offenses. Pen. Code, § 288.4.
- Lewd Defined. See In re Smith (1972) 7 Cal.3d 362, 365 [102 Cal.Rptr. 335, 497 P.2d 807] [in context of indecent exposure]; see Pryor v. Municipal Court (1979) 25 Cal.3d 238, 256–257, fn. 13 [158 Cal.Rptr. 330, 599 P.2d 636].
- Calculating Age. Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2008 supp.) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, § 54A.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.21 (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1127. Engaging in Sexual Intercourse or Sodomy With Child 10 Years of Age or Younger (Pen. Code, § 288.7(a))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with engaging in (sexual intercourse/ [or] sodomy) with a child under 10 years of age or younger [in violation of Penal Code section 288.7(a)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant engaged in an act of (sexual intercourse/ [or] sodomy) with _____ <insert name of complaining witness>;
2. When the defendant did so, _____ <insert name of complaining witness> was 10 years of age or younger;
3. At the time of the act, the defendant was at least 18 years old.

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

[Sexual intercourse means any penetration, no matter how slight, of the vagina or genitalia by the penis. [Ejaculation is not required.]]

[Sodomy is any penetration, no matter how slight, of the anus of one person by the penis of another person. [Ejaculation is not required.]]

New August 2009

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 288.7(a).
- Penetration Defined. Pen. Code, § 263; People v. Karsai (1982) 131 Cal.App.3d 224, 233–234 [182 Cal.Rptr. 406], disapproved on other grounds by People v. Jones (1988) 46 Cal.3d 585, 600 [250 Cal.Rptr. 635, 758 P.2d 1165].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Sodomy Defined. Pen. Code, § 286(a); see People v. Singh (1923) 62 Cal.App. 450, 452 [217 P. 121] [ejaculation is not required].
- Calculating Age. Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2008 supp.) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 21, 27.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1128. Engaging in Oral Copulation or Sexual Penetration With Child 10 Years of Age or Younger (Pen. Code, § 288.7(b))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with engaging in (oral copulation/ [or] sexual penetration) with a child under 10 years of age or younger [in violation of Penal Code section 288.7(b)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant engaged in an act of (oral copulation/ [or] sexual penetration) with _____ <insert name of complaining witness>;
2. When the defendant did so, _____ <insert name of complaining witness> was 10 years of age or younger;
3. At the time of the act, the defendant was at least 18 years old.

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

[Oral copulation is any contact, no matter how slight, between the mouth of one person and the sexual organ or anus of another person. Penetration is not required.]

[Sexual penetration means (penetration, however slight, of the genital or anal opening of the other person/ [or] causing the other person to penetrate, however slightly, the defendant's or someone else's genital or anal opening/ [or] causing the other person to penetrate, however slightly, his or her own genital or anal opening) by any foreign object, substance, instrument, device, or any unknown object for the purpose of sexual abuse, arousal, or gratification.]

[Penetration for sexual abuse means penetration for the purpose of causing pain, injury, or discomfort.]

[An unknown object includes any foreign object, substance, instrument, or device, or any part of the body, including a penis, if it is not known what object penetrated the opening.]

[A foreign object, substance, instrument, or device includes any part of the body except a sexual organ.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

New August 2009; Revised April 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 288.7(b).
- Sexual Penetration Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(1); see People v. Quintana (2001) 89 Cal.App.4th 1362, 1371 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 235] [penetration of genital opening refers to penetration of labia majora, not vagina].
- Unknown Object Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(3).
- Foreign Object, Substance, Instrument, or Device Defined. Pen. Code, § 289(k)(2); People v. Wilcox (1986) 177 Cal.App.3d 715, 717 [223 Cal.Rptr. 170] [finger is "foreign object"].
- Oral Copulation Defined. People v. Grim (1992) 9 Cal.App.4th 1240, 1242–1243 [11 Cal.Rptr.2d 884].
- Calculating Age. Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].
- Sexual Abuse Defined. People v. White (1986) 179 Cal.App.3d 193, 205–206 [224 Cal.Rptr. 467].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2008 supp.) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 33, 48.

1129–1139. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

C. OTHER SEX RELATED OFFENSES

(i) Obscene or Harmful Matter

1140. Showing or Sending Harmful Material to Seduce a Minor (Pen. Code, § 288.2(a) & (b))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with (showing[,]/ sending[,]/ distributing[,]/ [or] offering to show or distribute) harmful material to a minor [in violation of Penal Code section 288.2].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant (showed[,]/ sent[,]/ caused to be sent[,]/ distributed[,]/ [or] offered to show or distribute) harmful material to a minor [by (electronic mail[,]/ the Internet[,]/ [or] a commercial online service)];
2. When the defendant acted, (he/she) knew the character of the material;

<Alternative 3A—Pen. Code, § 288.2(a)>

[3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) (knew the other person was a minor/ [or] failed to use reasonable care to determine the minor's actual age);]

<Alternative 3B—Pen. Code, § 288.2(b)>

[3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) knew the other person was a minor;]

4. When the defendant acted, (he/she) intended to sexually arouse, appeal to, or gratify the lust, passions, or sexual desires of (himself/herself) or of the minor;

[AND]

5. When the defendant acted, (he/she) intended to seduce the minor(;/.)

<Give element 6 when instructing on "offered to show or distribute" in element 1.>

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[AND

6. When the defendant acted, (he/she) intended to show or distribute the material to the minor.]

You must decide whether the material at issue in this case meet[s] the definition of harmful material. Material is harmful if, when considered as a whole:

1. It shows or describes sexual conduct in an obviously offensive way;

2. A reasonable person would conclude that it lacks serious literary, artistic, political, or scientific value for minors;

AND

3. An average adult person, applying contemporary statewide standards, would conclude it appeals to prurient interest.

A prurient interest is a shameful or morbid interest in nudity, sex, or excretion.

Material,* as used in this instruction, means any (book, magazine, newspaper, video recording, or other printed or written material[;]/ [or] any picture, drawing, photograph, motion picture, or other pictorial representation[;]/ [or] any statue or other figure[;]/ [or] any recording, transcription, or mechanical, chemical, or electrical reproduction[;]/ [or] any other articles, equipment, machines, or materials). [Material includes live or recorded telephone messages when transmitted or distributed as part of a commercial transaction.]

Applying contemporary statewide standards* means using present-day standards and determining the effect of the material on all those whom it is likely to reach within the state, in other words, its impact on the average person in the statewide community. The average adult person is a hypothetical person who represents the entire community, including both men and women; religious and nonreligious people; and adults of varying ages, educational and economic levels, races, ethnicities, and points of view. The contemporary statewide standard means what is acceptable to the statewide community as a whole, not what some person or persons may believe the community ought to accept. The test you must apply is not what you find offensive based on your own personal, social, or moral views. Instead, you must make an objective determination of what would offend the statewide community as a whole.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[You may consider evidence of local community standards in deciding what the contemporary statewide standard is. However, you may not use the standard of a local community, by itself, to establish the contemporary statewide standard.]

The material is not harmful unless a reasonable person would conclude that, taken as a whole, it lacks serious literary, artistic, political, or scientific value. When deciding whether the material is harmful, do not weigh its value against its prurient appeal.

[The depiction of nudity, by itself, does not make material harmful. In order for material containing nudity to be harmful, it must depict sexual activity and it must meet the requirements for harmful material listed above.]

[The depiction of sexual activity, by itself, does not make material harmful. In order for material depicting sexual activity to be harmful, it must meet the requirements for harmful material listed above.]

The People must prove that the defendant knew the character of the material but do not need to prove that the defendant knew whether the material met the definition of harmful material.

To seduce a minor means to entice the minor to engage in a sexual act involving physical contact between the seducer and the minor.

A minor is anyone under the age of 18. [Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

[If it appears from the nature of the material or the circumstances of its distribution or showing that it is designed for clearly defined deviant sexual groups, the appeal of the material must be judged based on its intended audience.]

[In deciding the material's nature and whether it lacks serious literary, artistic, political, or scientific value, consider whether the circumstances of its (production[,]/ presentation[,]/ sale[,]/ dissemination[,]/ distribution[,]/ publicity) indicate that the material was being commercially exploited because of its prurient appeal. You must determine the weight, if any, to give this evidence.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[In deciding whether, applying contemporary statewide standards, the material appeals to a prurient interest, you may consider whether similar material is openly shown in the community. You must determine the weight, if any, to give this evidence.]

[Harmful material may be sent or distributed by live or recorded telephone messages.]

[To distribute means to transfer possession, whether or not the transfer is made for money or anything else of value.]

<Defense: Parent providing sex education>

[A parent or guardian is not guilty of this offense if he or she acted to promote legitimate sex education. The People must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant was not providing legitimate sex education. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of this crime.]

<Defense: Legitimate scientific or educational purpose>

[The defendant is not guilty of this crime if (he/she) was engaging in legitimate scientific or educational activities. The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant was not acting for a legitimate scientific or educational purpose. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of this crime.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If the defendant is charged with a violation of Penal Code section 288.2(b), give the bracketed phrase "by (electronic mail[,]/ the Internet[,]/ [or] a commercial online service)" in element 1 and give alternative 3B in element 3. If the defendant is charged with Penal Code section 288.2(a), do not give the bracketed language in element 1 and give alternative 3A in element 3.

Give bracketed element 6 if the prosecution alleges that the defendant offered to show or distribute the material to a minor.

Give the bracketed sentence about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

§ 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

Give any of the other bracketed paragraphs on request.

Defenses—Instructional Duty

If there is sufficient evidence that the defendant was "acting in aid of legitimate sex education," the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on that defense. (See Pen. Code, § 288.2(c).) It is unclear who bears the burden of proof and what standard of proof applies to this defense. In the absence of statutory authority or case law stating that the defendant must prove the defense by a preponderance of the evidence, the committee has drafted the instruction to provide that the prosecution must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the defense does not apply. (See People v. Mower (2002) 28 Cal.4th 457, 478–479 [122 Cal.Rptr.2d 326, 49 P.3d 1067].)

If there is sufficient evidence that the defendant was engaging in legitimate scientific or educational activities, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on that defense. (See Pen. Code, § 288.2(d).) It is unclear who bears the burden of proof and what standard of proof applies to this defense. In the absence of statutory authority or case law stating that the defendant must prove the defense by a preponderance of the evidence, the committee has drafted the instruction to provide that the prosecution must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the defense does not apply. (See People v. Mower (2002) 28 Cal.4th 457, 478–479 [122 Cal.Rptr.2d 326, 49 P.3d 1067]; see also People v. Woodward (2004) 116 Cal.App.4th 821, 840–841 [10 Cal.Rptr.3d 779] ["legitimate" does not require definition and the trial court erred in giving amplifying instruction based on People v. Marler (1962) 199 Cal.App.2d Supp. 889 [18 Cal.Rptr. 923]].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 288.2(a) & (b).
- Harmful Matter Defined. Pen. Code, § 313.
- Know Character of Matter. Pen. Code, § 313(e); see People v. Kuhns (1976) 61 Cal.App.3d 735, 756–758 [132 Cal.Rptr. 725] [no error in instructing that it was unnecessary to establish that the accused had knowledge that material was legally obscene].
- Means of Distribution. Pen. Code, § 288.2(a) & (b).
- Contemporary Community Standards. See Roth v. United States (1957) 354 U.S. 476, 489–490 [77 S.Ct. 1304, 1 L.Ed.2d 1498] [quoting trial court instruction].
- Seduce Defined. People v. Jensen (2003) 114 Cal.App.4th 224,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

239–240 [7 Cal.Rptr.3d 609]; People v. Hsu (2000) 82 Cal.App.4th 976, 992 [99 Cal.Rptr. 2d 184].

- Prurient Interest Defined. Bloom v. Municipal Court (1976) 16 Cal.3d 71, 77 [127 Cal.Rptr. 317, 545 P.2d 229] [quoting former section 311].
- Taken or Considered as a Whole. People v. Goulet (1971) 21 Cal.App.3d Supp. 1, 3 [98 Cal.Rptr. 782]; Kois v. Wisconsin (1972) 408 U.S. 229, 231 [92 S.Ct. 2245, 33 L.Ed.2d 312].
- Matter Designed for Deviant Sexual Group. Pen. Code, § 313(a)(1); see People v. Young (1977) 77 Cal.App.3d Supp. 10, 14–15 [143 Cal.Rptr. 604].
- Commercial Exploitation Is Probative of Matter's Nature. Pen. Code, § 313(a)(2); People v. Kuhns (1976) 61 Cal.App.3d 735, 748–753 [132 Cal.Rptr. 725].
- Similar Matter Shown in Community. In re Harris (1961) 56 Cal.2d 879, 880 [366 P.2d 305]; People v. Heller (1979) 96 Cal.App.3d Supp. 1, 7 [157 Cal.Rptr. 830].
- Obscenity Contrasted With Sex. Roth v. United States (1957) 354 U.S. 476, 487 [77 S.Ct. 1304, 1 L.Ed.2d 1498].
- Obscenity Contrasted With Nudity. People v. Noroff (1967) 67 Cal.2d 791, 795–796 [63 Cal.Rptr. 575, 433 P.2d 479]; In re Panchot (1968) 70 Cal.2d 105, 108–109 [73 Cal.Rptr. 689, 448 P.2d 385].
- Defense of Sex Education. Pen. Code, § 288.2(c).
- Defense of Legitimate Scientific or Educational Activity. Pen. Code, § 288.2(d).
- This Instruction is Correct. People v. Richardson (2007) 151 Cal.App.4th 790, 803 [60 Cal.Rptr.3d 458].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, § 108.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, §§ 142.21[1][d][iii], [2][c], Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.10[2] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Distribution of Harmful Matter to Minor. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 288.2; see, e.g., Hatch v. Superior Court (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 170, 185 [94 Cal.Rptr.2d 453].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Misdemeanor Distribution of Harmful Matter. Pen. Code, § 313.1(a); People v. Jensen (2003) 114 Cal.App.4th 224, 244 [7 Cal.Rptr.3d 609].

RELATED ISSUES

Telephone, Cable, or ISPs

A telephone corporation, a cable television company or its affiliates, an Internet service provider, or commercial online service provider does not violate section 288.2 by carrying, broadcasting, or transmitting harmful matter while providing its services. (Pen. Code, § 288.2(e).)

Expert Testimony Not Required

Neither the prosecution nor the defense is required to introduce expert witness testimony regarding the harmful nature of the matter. (Pen. Code, § 312.1 [abrogating In re Giannini (1968) 69 Cal.2d 563, 574 [72 Cal.Rptr. 655, 446 P.2d 535]].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1141. Distributing Obscene Matter Showing Sexual Conduct by a Minor (Pen. Code, §§ 311.1(a), 311.2(b))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with distributing obscene matter that shows a minor engaging in sexual conduct [in violation of _____ <insert appropriate code section[s]>].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

<Alternative 1A—sent or brought>

[1. The defendant (sent/ [or] brought) obscene matter into California [or caused obscene matter to be (sent/ [or] brought) into California];]

<Alternative 1B—possessed>

[1. The defendant (possessed[,]/ [or] prepared[,]/ [or] published[,]/ [or] produced[,]/ [or] developed[,]/ [or] duplicated[,]/ [or] printed) obscene matter;]

<Alternative 1C—offered to distribute>

[1. The defendant offered to distribute obscene matter to someone else;]

<Alternative 1D—distributed>

[1. The defendant (distributed/ [or] showed/ [or] exchanged) obscene matter (to/with) someone else;]

2. When the defendant acted, (he/she) knew the character of the matter;

[AND]

3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) knew that the matter showed a person under the age of 18 years who was personally participating in or simulating sexual conduct(;/.)

<Give element 4 when instructing with alternative 1A, 1B or 1C; see Bench Notes>

[AND

4. When the defendant acted, (he/she) intended to (sell or distribute/distribute, show, or exchange/distribute) the matter to someone else [for money or other commercial benefit].]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

You must decide whether the matter at issue in this case meets the definition of obscene matter. Matter is obscene if, when considered as a whole:

1. It shows or describes sexual conduct in an obviously offensive way;
2. A reasonable person would conclude that it lacks serious literary, artistic, political, or scientific value;

AND

3. An average adult person, applying contemporary statewide standards, would conclude it appeals to a prurient interest.

A prurient interest is a shameful or morbid interest in nudity, sex, or excretion.

Matter* means any representation of information, data, or image, including any (film/filmstrip/photograph/negative/slide/photocopy/ videotape/video laser disc/computer hardware or software/computer floppy disk/data storage medium/CD-ROM/ computer-generated equipment/ [or] computer-generated image that contains any film or filmstrip).

Applying contemporary statewide standards* means using present-day standards and determining the effect of the matter on all those whom it is likely to reach within the state, in other words, its impact on the average person in the statewide community. The average adult person is a hypothetical person who represents the entire community, including both men and women; religious and nonreligious people; and adults of varying ages, educational and economic levels, races, ethnicities, and points of view. The contemporary statewide standard means what is acceptable to the statewide community as a whole, not what some person or persons may believe the community ought to accept. The test you must apply is not what you find offensive based on your own personal, social, or moral views. Instead, you must make an objective determination of what would offend the statewide community as a whole.

[You may consider evidence of local community standards in deciding what the contemporary statewide standard is. However, you may not use the standard of a local community, by itself, to establish the contemporary statewide standard.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

The material is not obscene unless a reasonable person would conclude that, taken as a whole, it lacks serious literary, artistic, political, or scientific value. When deciding whether the material is obscene, do not weigh its value against its prurient appeal.

[Matter is not considered obscene under the law if (all persons under the age of 18 depicted in the matter are legally emancipated/ [or] it only shows lawful conduct between spouses).]

[The depiction of nudity, by itself, does not make matter obscene. In order for matter containing nudity to be obscene, it must depict sexual activity and it must meet the requirements for obscenity listed above.]

[The depiction of sexual activity, by itself, does not make matter obscene. In order for matter depicting sexual activity to be obscene, it must meet the requirements for obscenity listed above.]

Sexual conduct means actual or simulated (sexual intercourse/ [or] oral copulation[,]/ [or] anal intercourse[,]/ [or] anal oral copulation[,]/ [or] _____ <insert other sexual conduct as defined in Pen. Code, § 311.4(d)(1)>). An act is simulated when it gives the appearance of being sexual conduct.

The People must prove that the defendant knew the obscene nature of the matter but do not need to prove that the defendant knew whether the matter met the definition of obscene.

[To distribute means to transfer possession, whether or not the transfer is made for money or anything else of value.]

[A person accused of committing this crime can be an individual, partnership, firm, association, corporation, limited liability company, or other legal entity.]

[In deciding the matter's nature and whether it lacks serious literary, artistic, political, or scientific value, consider whether the circumstances of its (production[,]/ presentation[,]/ sale[,]/ dissemination[,]/ distribution[,]/ publicity) indicate that the matter was being commercially exploited because of its prurient appeal. You must decide the weight, if any, to give this evidence.]

[In deciding whether the matter lacks serious literary, artistic, political, or scientific value, you may [also] consider whether the defendant knew that the matter showed persons under the age of 16 years engaging in sexual conduct. You must decide the weight, if any, to give this evidence.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[In deciding whether, applying contemporary statewide standards, the matter appeals to a prurient interest, you may consider whether similar matter is openly shown in the community. You must decide the weight, if any, to give this evidence.]

[If it appears from the nature of the matter or the circumstances of its distribution or showing that it is designed for clearly defined deviant sexual groups, the appeal of the matter must be judged based on its intended audience.]

[Two or more people may possess something at the same time.]

[A person does not have to actually hold or touch something to possess it. It is enough if the person has (control over it/ [or] the right to control it), either personally or through (another person/ other people).]

[A person who possesses obscene matter for his or her own personal use is not guilty of this crime.]

<Defense: Legitimate scientific or educational purpose>

[The defendant is not guilty of this crime if (he/she) was engaging in legitimate medical, scientific, or educational activities. The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant was not acting for a legitimate medical, scientific, or educational purpose. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of this crime.]

<Defense: Law enforcement agent>

[The defendant is not guilty of this offense if (he/she) was a member [or agent] of a law enforcement or prosecuting agency and was involved in the investigation or prosecution of criminal offenses. The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant was not acting as a member [or agent] of a law enforcement or prosecuting agency. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of this crime.

[A person is an agent of a law enforcement or prosecuting agency

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

if he or she does something at the request, suggestion, or direction of a law enforcement or prosecuting agency.]]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

In element 1, give one of the alternatives A–D depending on the charges and evidence in the case. Give element 4 when instructing with alternative 1A, 1B, or 1C. (People v. Young (1977) 77 Cal.App.3d Supp. 10, 12 [143 Cal.Rptr. 604]; People v. Burrows (1968) 260 Cal.App.2d 228, 231 [67 Cal.Rptr. 28]; In re Klor (1966) 64 Cal.2d 816, 819 [51 Cal.Rptr. 903, 415 P.2d 791].) When giving alternative 1A, select "sell or distribute" in element 4. When giving alternative 1B, select "distribute, show, or exchange" in element 4. When giving alternative 1C, select "distribute." Do not give element 4 with alternative 1D. No published case has held that distributing or showing obscene material requires specific intent. Give the bracketed phrase "for money or other commercial benefit" in element 4 if the defendant is charged under Penal Code section 311.2(b).

Give any of the other bracketed paragraphs on request.

Defenses—Instructional Duty

If there is sufficient evidence that the defendant was engaging in legitimate medical, scientific, or educational activities, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on that defense. (See Pen. Code, §§ 311.2(e); 311.8(a).) It is unclear who bears the burden of proof and what standard of proof applies to this defense. In the absence of statutory authority or case law stating that the defendant must prove the defense by a preponderance of the evidence, the committee has drafted the instruction to provide that the prosecution must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the defense does not apply. (See People v. Mower (2002) 28 Cal.4th 457, 478–479 [122 Cal.Rptr.2d 326, 49 P.3d 1067]; see also People v. Woodward (2004) 116 Cal.App.4th 821, 840–841 [10 Cal.Rptr.3d 779] ["legitimate" does not require definition and the trial court erred in giving amplifying instruction based on People v. Marler (1962) 199 Cal.App.2d Supp. 889 [18 Cal.Rptr. 923]].)

If there is sufficient evidence that the defendant was acting as a law enforcement agent, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on that defense. (See Pen. Code, § 311.2(e).) It is unclear who bears the burden of proof and what standard of proof applies to this defense. In the absence of statutory authority or case law stating that the defendant must prove the defense by a preponderance of the evidence, the committee has drafted the instruction to provide that the prosecution must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the defense does not apply. (See People v. Mower (2002) 28 Cal.4th 457, 478–479 [122 Cal.Rptr.2d 326, 49 P.3d 1067].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 311.1(a), 311.2(b).
- Specific Intent to Distribute or Exhibit. People v. Young (1977) 77 Cal.App.3d Supp. 10, 12 [143 Cal.Rptr. 604] [possession with intent to distribute or exhibit]; see People v. Burrows (1968) 260 Cal.App.2d 228, 231 [67 Cal.Rptr. 28] [preparation or publication with specific intent to distribute]; In re Klor (1966) 64 Cal.2d 816, 819 [51 Cal.Rptr. 903, 415 P.2d 791].
- Obscene Matter Defined. Pen. Code, § 311(a); see Bloom v. Municipal Court (1976) 16 Cal.3d 71, 77, 81 [127 Cal.Rptr. 317, 545 P.2d 229]; Miller v. California (1973) 413 U.S. 15, 24 [93 S.Ct. 2607, 37 L.Ed.2d 419]; see also Pope v. Illinois (1987) 481 U.S. 497, 500–501 [107 S.Ct. 1918, 95 L.Ed.2d 439].
- Contemporary Community Standards. See Roth v. United States (1957) 354 U.S. 476, 489–490 [77 S.Ct. 1304, 1 L.Ed.2d 1498].
- Prurient Interest Defined. Bloom v. Municipal Court (1976) 16 Cal.3d 71, 77 [127 Cal.Rptr. 317, 545 P.2d 229].
- Sexual Conduct Defined. Pen. Code, § 311.4(d)(1); see People v. Spurlock (2003) 114 Cal.App.4th 1122, 1130–1131 [8 Cal.Rptr.3d 372].
- Person Defined. Pen. Code, § 311(c).
- Distribute Defined. Pen. Code, § 311(d).
- Knowingly Defined. Pen. Code, § 311(e); see People v. Kuhns (1976) 61 Cal.App.3d 735, 756–758 [132 Cal.Rptr. 725].
- Exhibit Defined. Pen. Code, § 311(f).
- Matter Designed for Deviant Sexual Group. Pen. Code, § 311(a)(1); see People v. Young (1977) 77 Cal.App.3d Supp. 10, 14–15 [143 Cal.Rptr. 604].
- Commercial Exploitation Is Probative of Matter's Nature. Pen. Code, § 311(a)(2); People v. Kuhns (1976) 61 Cal.App.3d 735, 748–753 [132 Cal.Rptr. 725].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Knowledge That Matter Depicts Child Under 16 Is Probative of Matter's Nature. Pen. Code, § 311(a)(3).
- Similar Matter Shown in Community. In re Harris (1961) 56 Cal.2d 879, 880 [16 Cal.Rptr. 889, 366 P.2d 305]; People v. Heller (1979) 96 Cal.App.3d Supp. 1, 7 [157 Cal.Rptr. 830].
- Exceptions to Statutory Prohibitions. Pen. Code, §§ 311.1(b)–(d), 311.2(e)–(g); Pen. Code, § 311.8.
- Agent Defined. See People v. McIntire (1979) 23 Cal.3d 742, 748 [153 Cal.Rptr. 237, 591 P.2d 527] [in context of entrapment].
- Taken or Considered as a Whole. People v. Goulet (1971) 21 Cal.App.3d Supp. 1, 3 [98 Cal.Rptr. 782]; Kois v. Wisconsin (1972) 408 U.S. 229, 231 [92 S.Ct. 2245, 33 L.Ed.2d 312].
- Obscenity Contrasted With Sex. Roth v. United States (1957) 354 U.S. 476, 487 [77 S.Ct. 1304, 1 L.Ed.2d 1498].
- Obscenity Contrasted With Nudity. People v. Noroff (1967) 67 Cal.2d 791, 795–796 [63 Cal.Rptr. 575, 433 P.2d 479]; In re Panchot (1968) 70 Cal.2d 105, 108–109 [73 Cal.Rptr. 689, 448 P.2d 385].
- Possessing For Personal Use Not a Crime. Stanley v. Georgia (1969) 394 U.S. 557, 568 [89 S.Ct. 1243, 22 L.Ed.2d 542].
- Constructive vs. Actual Possession. People v. Barnes (1997) 57 Cal.App.4th 552, 556 [67 Cal.Rptr.2d 162].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 79–91.

7 Witkin, Summary of California Law (9th ed. 1988) Constitutional Law, §§ 310–313.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.12 (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Distribution of Obscene Matter. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 311.1(a).
- Attempted Distribution of Obscene Matter for Commercial Consideration. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 311.2(b).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

RELATED ISSUES

Advertising Obscene Matter Involving Minors

It is a felony to advertise for sale or distribution any obscene matter knowing that it depicts a minor engaged in sexual conduct. (Pen. Code, § 311.10.)

Employing or Using Minor to Pose in Film

It is a felony to employ, use, or persuade a minor to engage in or assist others in posing or modeling for the purpose of preparing a commercial or noncommercial film or other medium involving sexual conduct by a minor. (See Pen. Code, § 311.4(b), (c).) Producing child pornography and posting it on the Internet to induce others to trade such pornography without making a monetary profit satisfies the "commercial purposes" requirement of Penal Code section 311.4(b). (People v. Cochran (2002) 28 Cal.4th 396, 406–407 [121 Cal.Rptr.2d 595, 48 P.3d 1148].)

Excluded Conduct

Neither section 311.1 nor 311.2 applies to law enforcement and prosecuting agencies investigating or prosecuting criminal offenses, to legitimate medical, scientific, or educational activities, or to lawful conduct between spouses. (Pen. Code, §§ 311.1(b), 311.2(e); see Pen. Code, § 311.8(a) ["defense" that act committed in aid of legitimate scientific or educational purpose].) Nor do these sections apply to depictions of a minor who is legally emancipated. (Pen. Code, §§ 311.1(c), 311.2(f); see Fam. Code, § 7000 et seq. [emancipation of minors].)

Telephone Services

A telephone corporation (see Pub. Util. Code, § 234) does not violate section 311.1 or 311.2 by carrying or transmitting messages described in these sections, or by performing related activities in providing telephone services. (Pen. Code, §§ 311.1(d), 311.2(g).)

Expert Testimony Not Required

Neither the prosecution nor the defense is required to introduce expert witness testimony regarding the obscene nature of the matter. (Pen. Code, § 312.1 [abrogating In re Giannini (1968) 69 Cal.2d 563, 574 [72 Cal.Rptr. 655, 446 P.2d 535]].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1142. Distributing or Intending to Distribute Obscene Material (Pen. Code, § 311.2(a))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with distributing obscene material [in violation of Penal Code section 311.2(a)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

<Alternative 1A—sent or brought>

[1. The defendant (sent/ [or] brought) obscene material into California [or caused obscene material to be (sent/ [or] brought) into California];]

<Alternative 1B—possessed>

[1. The defendant (possessed[,]/ [or] prepared[,]/ [or] published[,]/ [or] produced[,]/ [or] printed) obscene material in California;]

<Alternative 1C—offered to distribute>

[1. The defendant offered to distribute obscene material to someone else;]

<Alternative 1D—distributed>

[1. The defendant (distributed/ [or] showed) obscene material to someone else;]

[AND]

2. When the defendant acted, (he/she) knew the character of the material(;/.)

<Give element 3 when instructing with alternative 1A, 1B, or 1C; see Bench Notes.>

[AND

3. When the defendant acted, (he/she) intended to (sell or distribute/distribute or show/distribute) the material to someone else.]

You must decide whether the material at issue in this case meet[s] the definition of obscene material. Material, when considered as a whole, is obscene if:

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1. It shows or describes sexual conduct in an obviously offensive way;

2. A reasonable person would conclude that it lacks serious literary, artistic, political, or scientific value;

AND

3. An average adult person applying contemporary statewide standards would conclude that it appeals to a prurient interest.

A prurient interest is a shameful or morbid interest in nudity, sex, or excretion.

Material* means ([[a] ((book[,]/ [or] magazine[,]/ [or] newspaper[,]/ [or] [other] printed or written material][(,/;)]/ [or] [a picture[,]/ [or] drawing[,]/ [or] photograph[,]/ [or] motion picture[,]/ [or] [other] pictorial representation][(,/;)]/ [or] [a statue or other figure][(,/;)]/ [or] [a (recording[,]/ [or] transcription[,]/ [or] mechanical, chemical, or electrical reproduction][(,/;)]/ [or any other article, equipment, or machine]). [Material also means live or recorded telephone messages transmitted, disseminated, or distributed as part of a commercial transaction.]

Applying contemporary statewide standards* means using present-day standards and determining the effect of the material on all those whom it is likely to reach within the state, in other words, its impact on the average adult person in the statewide community. The average adult person is a hypothetical person who represents the entire community, including both men and women, religious and nonreligious people, and adults of varying ages, educational and economic levels, races, ethnicities, and points of view. The term contemporary statewide standards means what is acceptable to the statewide community as a whole, not what some person or persons may believe the community should accept. The test you must apply is not what you find offensive based on your own personal, social, or moral views. Instead, you must make an objective determination of what would offend the statewide community as a whole.

[You may consider evidence of local community standards in deciding what the contemporary statewide standards are. However, you may not use the standards of a specific local community, by themselves, to establish the contemporary statewide standards.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

The material is not obscene unless a reasonable person would conclude that, taken as a whole, it lacks serious literary, artistic, political, or scientific value. When deciding whether the material is obscene, do not weigh its value against its prurient appeal.

[The depiction of nudity, by itself, does not make material obscene. In order for material containing nudity to be obscene, it must depict sexual activity and must meet the requirements for obscenity listed above.]

[The depiction of sexual activity, by itself, does not make material obscene. In order for material depicting sexual activity to be obscene, it must meet the requirements for obscenity listed above.]

[Material is not considered obscene under the law if (all persons under the age of 18 years depicted in the material are legally emancipated/ [or] it only shows lawful conduct between spouses).]

The People must prove that the defendant knew the character of the material but do not need to prove that the defendant knew whether the material met the definition of obscene.

[To distribute means to transfer possession, whether or not the transfer is made for money or anything else of value.]

[A person accused of committing this crime can be an individual, partnership, firm, association, corporation, limited liability company, or other legal entity.]

[In deciding the material's character and whether it lacks serious literary, artistic, political, or scientific value, consider whether the circumstances of its (production[,]/ [or] presentation[,]/ [or] sale[,]/ [or] dissemination[,]/ [or] distribution[,]/ [or] publicity) indicate that the material was being commercially exploited because of its prurient appeal. You must decide the weight, if any, to give this evidence.]

[In deciding whether the material lacks serious literary, artistic, political, or scientific value, you may [also] consider whether the defendant knew that the material showed persons under 16 years old engaging in sexual conduct. You must decide the weight, if any, to give this evidence.]

[In deciding whether, according to contemporary statewide standards, the material appeals to a prurient interest, you may consider whether similar material is openly shown in the statewide community. You must decide the weight, if any, to give this evidence.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[If it appears from the character of the material or the circumstances of its distribution or showing that it is designed for a clearly defined deviant sexual group, the appeal of the material must be judged based on its intended audience.]

[Two or more people may possess something at the same time.]

[A person does not have to actually hold or touch something to possess it. It is enough if the person has (control over it/ [or] the right to control it), either personally or through (another person/ other people).]

[A person who possesses obscene material for his or her own personal use is not guilty of this crime.]

<Defense: Legitimate Scientific or Educational Purpose>

[The defendant is not guilty of this crime if (he/she) was engaging in legitimate medical, scientific, or educational activities. The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant was not acting for a legitimate medical, scientific, or educational purpose. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of this crime.]

<Defense: Law Enforcement Agent>

[The defendant is not guilty of this crime if (he/she) was a member [or agent] of a law enforcement or prosecuting agency and was involved in the investigation or prosecution of crimes. The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant was not acting as a member [or agent] of a law enforcement or prosecuting agency. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of this crime.

[A person is an agent of a law enforcement or prosecuting agency if he or she does something at the request, suggestion, or direction of a law enforcement or prosecuting agency.]]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

In element 1, give one of the alternatives 1A–1D depending on the charges and evidence in the case. Give element 3 when instructing with alternative 1A, 1B, 1C or 1D. (People v. Young (1977) 77 Cal.App.3d Supp. 10, 12 [143 Cal.Rptr. 604]; People v. Burrows (1968) 260 Cal.App.2d 228, 231 [67 Cal.Rptr. 28]; In re Klor (1966) 64 Cal.2d 816, 819 [51 Cal.Rptr. 903, 415 P.2d 791].) When giving alternative 1A, select "sell or distribute" in element 3. When giving alternative 1B, select "distribute or show" in element 3. When giving alternative 1C, select "distribute." Do not give element 3 with alternative 1D. No published case has held that distributing or showing obscene material requires specific intent.

Defenses—Instructional Duty

If there is sufficient evidence that the defendant was engaging in legitimate medical, scientific, or educational activities, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on that defense. (See Pen. Code, §§ 311.2(e), 311.8(a).) It is unclear who bears the burden of proof and what standard of proof applies to this defense. In the absence of statutory authority or case law stating that the defendant must prove the defense by a preponderance of the evidence, the committee has drafted the instruction to provide that the prosecution must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the defense does not apply. (See People v. Mower (2002) 28 Cal.4th 457, 478–479 [122 Cal.Rptr.2d 326, 49 P.3d 1067]; see also People v. Woodward (2004) 116 Cal.App.4th 821, 840–841 [10 Cal.Rptr.3d 779] ["legitimate" does not require definition, and the trial court erred in giving amplifying instruction based on People v. Marler (1962) 199 Cal.App.2d Supp. 889 [18 Cal.Rptr. 923]].)

If there is sufficient evidence that the defendant was acting as a law enforcement agent, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on that defense. (See Pen. Code, § 311.2(e).) It is unclear who bears the burden of proof and what standard of proof applies to this defense. In the absence of statutory authority or case law stating that the defendant must prove the defense by a preponderance of the evidence, the committee has drafted the instruction to provide that the prosecution must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the defense does not apply. (See People v. Mower (2002) 28 Cal.4th 457, 478–479 [122 Cal.Rptr.2d 326, 49 P.3d 1067].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 311.2(a).
- Specific Intent to Distribute or Exhibit. People v. Young (1977) 77 Cal.App.3d Supp. 10, 12 [143 Cal.Rptr. 604] [possession with intent to distribute or exhibit]; see People v. Burrows (1968) 260 Cal.App.2d 228, 231 [67 Cal.Rptr. 28] [preparation or publication with specific intent to distribute]; In re Klor (1966) 64 Cal.2d 816, 819 [51 Cal.Rptr. 903, 415 P.2d 791].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Obscene Matter Defined. Pen. Code, § 311(a); see Bloom v. Municipal Court (1976) 16 Cal.3d 71, 77, 81 [127 Cal.Rptr. 317, 545 P.2d 229]; Miller v. California (1973) 413 U.S. 15, 24 [93 S.Ct. 2607, 37 L.Ed.2d 419]; see also Pope v. Illinois (1987) 481 U.S. 497, 500–501 [107 S.Ct. 1918, 95 L.Ed.2d 439].
- Contemporary Community Standards. See Roth v. United States (1957) 354 U.S. 476, 489–490 [77 S.Ct. 1304, 1 L.Ed.2d 1498].
- Prurient Interest Defined. Bloom v. Municipal Court (1976) 16 Cal.3d 71, 77 [127 Cal.Rptr. 317, 545 P.2d 229].
- Person Defined. Pen. Code, § 311(c).
- Distribute Defined. Pen. Code, § 311(d).
- Knowingly Defined. Pen. Code, § 311(e); see People v. Kuhns (1976) 61 Cal.App.3d 735, 756–758 [132 Cal.Rptr. 725].
- Exhibit Defined. Pen. Code, § 311(f).
- Matter Designed for Deviant Sexual Group. Pen. Code, § 311(a)(1); see People v. Young (1977) 77 Cal.App.3d Supp. 10, 14–15 [143 Cal.Rptr. 604].
- Commercial Exploitation Is Probative of Matter's Nature. Pen. Code, § 311(a)(2); People v. Kuhns (1976) 61 Cal.App.3d 735, 748–753 [132 Cal.Rptr. 725].
- Knowledge That Matter Depicts Child Under 16 Is Probative of Matter's Nature. Pen. Code, § 311(a)(3).
- Similar Matter Shown in Community. In re Harris (1961) 56 Cal.2d 879, 880 [16 Cal.Rptr. 889, 366 P.2d 305]; People v. Heller (1979) 96 Cal.App.3d Supp. 1, 7 [157 Cal.Rptr. 830].
- Exceptions to Statutory Prohibitions. Pen. Code, §§ 311.1(b)–(d), 311.2(e)–(g); 311.8.
- Agent Defined. See People v. McIntire (1979) 23 Cal.3d 742, 748 [153 Cal.Rptr. 237, 591 P.2d 527] [in context of entrapment].
- Taken or Considered as a Whole. People v. Goulet (1971) 21 Cal.App.3d Supp. 1, 3 [98 Cal.Rptr. 782]; Kois v. Wisconsin (1972) 408 U.S. 229, 231 [92 S.Ct. 2245, 33 L.Ed.2d 312].
- Obscenity Contrasted With Sex. Roth v. United States (1957) 354 U.S. 476, 487 [77 S.Ct. 1304, 1 L.Ed.2d 1498].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Obscenity Contrasted With Nudity. People v. Noroff (1967) 67 Cal.2d 791, 795–796 [63 Cal.Rptr. 575, 433 P.2d 479]; In re Panchot (1968) 70 Cal.2d 105, 108–109 [73 Cal.Rptr. 689, 448 P.2d 385].
- Possessing for Personal Use Not a Crime. Stanley v. Georgia (1969) 394 U.S. 557, 568 [89 S.Ct. 1243, 22 L.Ed.2d 542].
- Constructive vs. Actual Possession. People v. Barnes (1997) 57 Cal.App.4th 552, 556 [67 Cal.Rptr.2d 162].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 79–91.

7 Witkin, Summary of California Law (9th ed. 1988) Constitutional Law, §§ 310–313.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.12 (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Distribution of Obscene Matter. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 311.1(a).

RELATED ISSUES

Definition of "Sexual Conduct"

"Obscene matter" must depict or describe "sexual conduct in a patently offensive way . . . ." (Pen. Code, § 311(a).) The statute does not define "sexual conduct." Penal Code sections 311.4(d)(1) and 311.3(b) provide definitions of the term "sexual conduct" as used in those sections. If the court determines that a definition of "sexual conduct" is necessary, the court may wish to review those statutes. (See also People v. Spurlock (2003) 114 Cal.App.4th 1122, 1131 [8 Cal.Rptr.3d 372] [discussing definition of sexual conduct in prosecution for violating Pen. Code, §§ 311.3 and 311.4].)

See the Related Issues section of CALCRIM No. 1141, Distributing Obscene Matter Showing Sexual Conduct by a Minor.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1143. Obscene Live Conduct (Pen. Code, § 311.6)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with (engaging or participating in[,]/ [or] managing[,]/ [or] producing[,]/ [or] sponsoring[,]/ [or] presenting or showing) obscene live conduct [in violation of Penal Code section 311.6].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant (engaged or participated in[,]/ [or] managed[,]/ [or] produced[,]/ [or] sponsored[,]/ [or] presented or showed) obscene live conduct;
2. The defendant knew of the character of the conduct;

AND

3. The obscene live conduct occurred in front of an audience of at least one person in (a public place/ [or] a place open to the public[, or a segment of the public,] or to public view).

Live conduct means physical activity by a person acting alone or with someone else[, including but not limited to (dancing[,]/ [or] acting[,]/ [or] simulating[,]/ [or] pantomiming[,]/ [or] singing[,]/ [or] speaking)].

You must decide whether the conduct at issue in this case meets the definition of obscene live conduct. Live conduct, when considered as a whole, is obscene if:

1. It shows or describes sexual conduct in an obviously offensive way;
2. A reasonable person would conclude that it lacks serious literary, artistic, political, or scientific value;

AND

3. An average adult person applying contemporary statewide standards would conclude it appeals to a prurient interest.

A prurient interest is a shameful or morbid interest in nudity, sex, or excretion.

Applying contemporary statewide standards means using present-day

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

standards and determining the effect of the conduct on all those whom it is likely to reach within the state, in other words, its impact on the average adult person in the statewide community. The average adult person is a hypothetical person who represents the entire community, including both men and women, religious and nonreligious people, and adults of varying ages, educational and economic levels, races, ethnicities, and points of view. The term contemporary statewide standards means what is acceptable to the statewide community as a whole, not what some person or persons may believe the community should accept. The test you must apply is not what you find offensive based on your own personal, social, or moral views. Instead, you must make an objective determination of what would offend the statewide community as a whole.

[You may consider evidence of local community standards in deciding what the contemporary statewide standards are. However, you may not use the standards of a specific local community, by themselves, to establish the contemporary statewide standards.]

The conduct is not obscene unless a reasonable person would conclude that, taken as a whole, it lacks serious literary, artistic, political, or scientific value. When deciding whether the conduct is obscene, do not weigh the value of the conduct against its prurient appeal.

[The depiction of nudity, by itself, does not make conduct obscene. In order for conduct involving nudity to be obscene, it must depict sexual activity and must meet the requirements for obscenity listed above.]

[The depiction of sexual activity, by itself, does not make conduct obscene. In order for conduct depicting sexual activity to be obscene, it must meet the requirements for obscenity listed above.]

The People must prove that the defendant knew the character of the conduct but do not need to prove that the defendant knew whether the conduct met the definition of obscene.

[A person accused of committing this crime can be an individual, partnership, firm, association, corporation, limited liability company, or other legal entity.]

[In deciding the conduct's character and whether it lacks serious literary, artistic, political, or scientific value, consider whether the circumstances of its (production[,]/ [or] presentation[,]/ [or] advertising[,]/ [or] showing) indicate that the conduct was being commercially exploited because of its prurient appeal. You must decide the weight, if any, to give this evidence.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[In deciding whether the conduct lacks serious literary, artistic, political, or scientific value, you may [also] consider whether the defendant knew that the conduct showed persons under 16 years old engaging in sexual activities. You must decide the weight, if any, to give this evidence.]

[In deciding whether, according to contemporary statewide standards, the conduct appeals to a prurient interest, you may consider whether similar conduct is openly shown in the statewide community. You must decide the weight, if any, to give this evidence.]

[If it appears from the character of the conduct or the circumstances of its presentation or showing that it is designed for a clearly defined deviant sexual group, the appeal of the conduct must be judged based on its intended audience.]

<Defense: Legitimate Scientific or Educational Purpose>

[The defendant is not guilty of this crime if (he/she) was engaging in legitimate medical, scientific, or educational activities. The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant was not acting for a legitimate medical, scientific or educational purpose. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of this crime.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If there is sufficient evidence that the defendant was engaging in legitimate medical, scientific, or educational activities, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on that defense. (Pen. Code, § 311.8(a).) It is unclear who bears the burden of proof and what standard of proof applies to this defense. In the absence of statutory authority or case law stating that the defendant must prove the defense by a preponderance of the evidence, the committee has drafted the instruction to provide that the prosecution must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the defense does not apply. (See People v. Mower (2002) 28 Cal.4th 457, 478–479 [122 Cal.Rptr.2d 326]; see also People v. Woodward (2004) 116 Cal.App.4th 821, 840–841 [10 Cal.Rptr.3d 779] ["legitimate" does not require definition, and the trial court erred in giving amplifying instruction based on People v. Marler (1962) 199 Cal.App.2d Supp. 889 [18 Cal.Rptr. 923]].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 311.6.
- Obscene Live Conduct Defined. Pen. Code, § 311(g); see In re Giannini (1968) 69 Cal.2d 563, 575 [72 Cal.Rptr. 655, 446 P.2d 535] [not all topless dancing obscene]; Miller v. California (1973) 413 U.S. 15, 24 [93 S.Ct. 2607, 37 L.Ed.2d 419]; Pope v. Illinois (1987) 481 U.S. 497, 500–501 [107 S.Ct. 1918, 95 L.Ed.2d 439].
- Contemporary Community Standards. See Roth v. United States (1957) 354 U.S. 476, 489–490 [77 S.Ct. 1304, 1 L.Ed.2d 1498].
- Prurient Interest Defined. Bloom v. Municipal Court (1976) 16 Cal.3d 71, 77 [127 Cal.Rptr. 317, 545 P.2d 229].
- Person Defined. Pen. Code, § 311(c).
- Knowingly Defined. Pen. Code, § 311(e); see People v. Kuhns (1976) 61 Cal.App.3d 735, 756–758 [132 Cal.Rptr. 725].
- Exhibit Defined. Pen. Code, § 311(f).
- Matter Designed for Deviant Sexual Group. Pen. Code, § 311(a)(1); see People v. Young (1977) 77 Cal.App.3d Supp. 10, 14–15 [143 Cal.Rptr. 604].
- Commercial Exploitation Is Probative of Matter's Nature. Pen. Code, § 311(a)(2); People v. Kuhns (1976) 61 Cal.App.3d 735, 748–753 [132 Cal.Rptr. 725].
- Knowledge That Matter Depicts Child Under 16 Is Probative of Conduct's Nature. Pen. Code, § 311(g)(3).
- Similar Matter Shown in Community. In re Harris (1961) 56 Cal.2d 879, 880 [16 Cal.Rptr. 889, 366 P.2d 305]; People v. Heller (1979) 96 Cal.App.3d Supp. 1, 7 [157 Cal.Rptr. 830].
- Exceptions to Statutory Prohibitions. Pen. Code, § 311.8.
- Taken or Considered as a Whole. People v. Goulet (1971) 21

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.App.3d Supp. 1, 3 [98 Cal.Rptr. 782]; Kois v. Wisconsin (1972) 408 U.S. 229, 231 [92 S.Ct. 2245, 33 L.Ed.2d 312].

- Obscenity Contrasted With Sex. Roth v. United States (1957) 354 U.S. 476, 487 [77 S.Ct. 1304, 1 L.Ed.2d 1498].
- Obscenity Contrasted With Nudity. People v. Noroff (1967) 67 Cal.2d 791, 795–796 [63 Cal.Rptr. 575, 433 P.2d 479]; In re Panchot (1968) 70 Cal.2d 105, 108–109 [73 Cal.Rptr. 689, 448 P.2d 385].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 79–91.

7 Witkin, Summary of California Law (9th ed. 1988) Constitutional Law, §§ 310–313.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.12 (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section of CALCRIM No. 1141, Distributing Obscene Matter Showing Sexual Conduct by a Minor, and CALCRIM No. 1142, Distributing or Intending to Distribute Obscene Material.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1144. Using a Minor to Perform Prohibited Acts (Pen. Code, § 311.4(b), (c))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with using a minor to perform prohibited acts [in violation of _____ <insert appropriate code section[s]>].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

<Alternative 1A>

[1. The defendant (promoted/ [or] employed/ [or] used/ [or] persuaded/ [or] induced/ [or] coerced) a minor who was under (18/14) years old at the time to pose or model or assist others to pose or model, alone or with others;

The defendant knew that (he/she) was (promoting/ [or] employing/ [or] using/ [or] persuading/ [or] inducing/ [or] coercing) a minor of that age to pose or model or assist others to pose or model;]

<Alternative 1B>

[1. The defendant was the (parent/ [or] guardian) in control of a minor who was under (18/14) years old at the time and the defendant permitted that minor to pose or model or assist others to pose or model, alone or with others;

At the time the defendant gave permission to the minor, (he/she) knew that the minor would pose or model or assist others to pose or model, alone or with others;]

2. The purpose of the posing or modeling was to prepare matter containing [or incorporating] sexual conduct;

3. The minor participated in the sexual conduct alone[, or with other persons][, or with animals];

4. The defendant was aware of the character of the matter or live conduct;

[AND]

5. The defendant knew, or reasonably should have known, based on facts of which (he/she) was aware, that the minor was under (18/14) years of age;

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[AND

6. When the defendant acted, (he/she) intended that the matter would be used for commercial purposes.]

Matter means any representation of information, data, or image, including any (film/filmstrip/photograph/negative/slide/photocopy/ videotape/video laser disc/computer hardware or software/computer floppy disk/data storage medium/CD-ROM/ computer-generated equipment/ [or] computer-generated image that contains any film or filmstrip). For the purpose of this instruction matter does not include material (in which all of the persons depicted under the age of 18 are legally emancipated/ [or] that only depicts lawful conduct between spouses).

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

Sexual conduct means actual or simulated (sexual intercourse/ [or] oral copulation[,]/ [or] anal intercourse[,]/ [or] anal oral copulation[,]/ [or] _____ <insert other sexual conduct as defined in Pen. Code, § 311.4(d)(1)>). An act is simulated when it gives the appearance of being sexual conduct.

[Use for commercial purposes includes intending to trade the matter depicting sexual conduct for a commercial purpose at some point in the future. A commercial purpose does not have to include financial gain.]

[A person accused of committing this crime can be an individual, partnership, firm, association, corporation, limited liability company, or other legal entity.]

<Defense: Legitimate scientific or educational purpose>

[The defendant is not guilty of this crime if (he/she) was engaging in legitimate medical, scientific, or educational activities. The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant was not acting for a legitimate medical, scientific, or educational purpose. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of this crime.]

New April 2010

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Defenses—Instructional Duty

If there is sufficient evidence that the defendant was engaging in legitimate medical, scientific, or educational activities, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on that defense. (See Pen. Code, § 311.8(a).) It is unclear who bears the burden of proof and what standard of proof applies to this defense. In the absence of statutory authority or case law stating that the defendant must prove the defense by a preponderance of the evidence, the committee has drafted the instruction to provide that the prosecution must prove beyond a reasonable doubt that the defense does not apply. (See People v. Mower (2002) 28 Cal.4th 457, 478–479 [122 Cal.Rptr.2d 326, 49 P.3d 1067]; see also People v. Woodward (2004) 116 Cal.App.4th 821, 840–841 [10 Cal.Rptr.3d 779] ["legitimate" does not require definition and the trial court erred in giving amplifying instruction based on People v. Marler (1962) 199 Cal.App.2d Supp. 889 [18 Cal.Rptr. 923]].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 311.4(b), (c).
- Sexual Conduct Defined. Pen. Code, § 311.4(d)(1); see People v. Spurlock (2003) 114 Cal.App.4th 1122, 1130–1131 [8 Cal.Rptr.3d 372].
- Person Defined. Pen. Code, § 311(c).
- Defendant Need Not Directly Engage in Posing or Modeling Victim. People v. Hobbs (2007) 152 Cal.App.4th 1, 5–7 [60 Cal.Rptr.3d 685].
- Minor Under Age of 14. Pen. Code, § 311.4(f).
- Commercial Purposes Defined. People v. Cochran (2002) 28 Cal.4th 396, 402–407 [121 Cal.Rptr.2d 595, 48 P.3d 1148].
- Knowingly Defined. Pen. Code, § 311(e); see People v. Kuhns (1976) 61 Cal.App.3d 735, 756–758 [132 Cal.Rptr. 725].
- Calculating Age. Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, § 96.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.12 (Matthew Bender).

1145–1149. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(ii) Pimping, Pandering, Prostitution

1150. Pimping (Pen. Code, § 266h)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with pimping [in violation of Penal Code section 266h].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of pimping, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant knew that _____ <insert name> was a prostitute;

[AND]

<Alternative 2A—money earned by prostitute supported defendant>

[2. The (money/proceeds) that _____ <insert name> earned as a prostitute supported defendant, in whole or in part(;/.)]

<Alternative 2B—money loaned by house manager supported defendant>

[2. Money that was (loaned to/advanced to/charged against) _____ <insert name> by a person who (kept/managed/was a prostitute at) the house or other place where the prostitution occurred, supported the defendant in whole or in part(;/.)]

<Alternative 2C—defendant asked for payment>

[2. The defendant asked for payment or received payment for soliciting prostitution customers for _____ <insert name>(;/.)]

<Give element 3 when defendant charged with pimping a minor.>

[AND

3. _____ <insert name> was a minor (over the age of 16 years/under the age of 16 years) when (he/she) engaged in the prostitution.]

A prostitute is a person who engages in sexual intercourse or any lewd act with another person in exchange for money [or other compensation]. A lewd act means physical contact of the genitals, buttocks, or female breast of either the prostitute or customer with some part of the other person's body for the purpose of sexual arousal or gratification.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

In element 2, use the appropriate alternative A–C depending on the evidence in the case.

Give element 3 if it is alleged that the prostitute was a minor. Punishment is enhanced if the minor is under the age of 16 years. (Pen. Code, § 266h(b).)

Give the bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [855 P.2d 391].)

Defenses—Instructional Duty

If necessary for the jury's understanding of the case, the court must instruct sua sponte on a defense theory in evidence, for example, that nude modeling does not constitute an act of prostitution and that an act of procuring a person solely for the purpose of nude modeling does not violate either the pimping or pandering statute. (People v. Hill (1980) 103 Cal.App.3d 525, 536–537 [163 Cal.Rptr. 99].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 266h.
- Prostitution Defined. Pen. Code, § 647(b); People v. Hill (1980) 103 Cal.App.3d 525, 534–535 [163 Cal.Rptr. 99]; People v. Romo (1962) 200 Cal.App.2d 83, 90–91 [19 Cal.Rptr. 179]; Wooten v. Superior Court (2001) 93 Cal.App.4th 422, 431–433 [113 Cal.Rptr.2d 195] [lewd act requires touching between prostitute and customer].
- General Intent Crime. People v. McNulty (1988) 202 Cal.App.3d 624, 630–631 [249 Cal.Rptr. 22].
- Proof Person Is a Prostitute. People v. James (1969) 274 Cal.App.2d 608, 613 [79 Cal.Rptr. 182].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Solicitation Defined. People v. Smith (1955) 44 Cal.2d 77, 78–80 [279 P.2d 33].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 67–69.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.11[2] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

Solicitation

In deciding there was sufficient evidence of solicitation, the court in People v. Phillips (1945) 70 Cal.App.2d 449, 453 [160 P.2d 872], quoted the following definitions:

> "[S]olicit" is defined as: "To tempt . . .; to lure on, esp. into evil, . . . to bring about . . .; to seek to induce or elicit . . . ." (Webster's New International Dictionary (2d ed.)). ". . . to ask earnestly; to ask for the purpose of receiving; to endeavor to obtain by asking or pleading; . . . to try to obtain. . . . While it does imply a serious request, it requires no particular degree of importunity, entreaty, imploration or supplication." (58 C.J. 804–805.)

General Intent

The three ways of violating Penal Code section 266h are all general intent crimes, as held in People v. McNulty (1988) 202 Cal.App.3d 624, 630–631 [249 Cal.Rptr. 22]:

> [D]eriving support with knowledge that the other person is a prostitute is all that is required for violating the section in this manner. No specific intent is required. . . . Receiving compensation for soliciting with knowledge that the other person is a prostitute is the only requirement under the first alternative of violating section 266h by solicitation. Under the second alternative to pimping by soliciting (soliciting compensation), . . . if the accused has solicited for the prostitute and has solicited compensation even though he had not intended to receive compensation, he would nevertheless be guilty of pimping. Pimping in all its forms is not a specific intent crime.

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Pimping. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 266h; see People v. Osuna (1967) 251 Cal.App.2d 528, 531 [59 Cal.Rptr. 559].
- There is no crime of aiding and abetting prostitution. People v. Gibson

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(2001) 90 Cal.App.4th 371, 385 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 809].

RELATED ISSUES

House of Prostitution

One room of a building or other place is sufficient to constitute a house of prostitution, and one person may keep such a place to which others resort for purposes of prostitution. (People v. Frey (1964) 228 Cal.App.2d 33, 53 [39 Cal.Rptr. 49]; see Aguilera v. Superior Court (1969) 273 Cal.App.2d 848, 852 [78 Cal.Rptr. 736].)

Receiving Support

A conviction for living or deriving support from a prostitute's earnings does not require evidence that the defendant received money directly from the prostitute, or that the defendant used money received from the prostitution solely to pay his or her own living expenses. (People v. Navarro (1922) 60 Cal.App. 180, 182 [212 P. 403].)

Unanimity Instruction Not Required

Pimping is a crime "of a continuous ongoing nature and [is] therefore not subject to the requirement that the jury must agree on the specific act or acts constituting the offense." (People v. Dell (1991) 232 Cal.App.3d 248, 265–266 [283 Cal.Rptr. 361]; People v. Lewis (1978) 77 Cal.App.3d 455, 460–462 [143 Cal.Rptr. 587] [living or deriving support from prostitute's earnings is an ongoing continuing offense].) Proof of an ongoing relationship between the defendant and the prostitute is not required. (People v. Jackson (1980) 114 Cal.App.3d 207, 209–210 [170 Cal.Rptr. 476].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1151. Pandering (Pen. Code, § 266i)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with pandering [in violation of Penal Code section 266i].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of pandering, the People must prove that:

<Alternative 1A—persuaded/procured>

[1. The defendant (persuaded/procured) _____ <insert name> to be a prostitute(;/.)]

<Alternative 1B—promises/threats/violence used to cause person to become prostitute>

[1. The defendant used (promises[,]/ threats[,]/ violence[,]/ [or] any device or scheme) to (cause/persuade/encourage/induce) _____ <insert name> to become a prostitute(;/.)]

<Alternative 1C—arranged/procured a position>

[1. The defendant (arranged/procured a position) for _____ <insert name> to be a prostitute in either a house of prostitution or any other place where prostitution is encouraged or allowed(;/.)]

<Alternative 1D—promises/threats/violence used to cause person to remain>

[1. The defendant used (promises[,]/ threats[,]/ violence[,]/ [or] any device or scheme) to (cause/persuade/encourage/induce) _____ <insert name> to remain as a prostitute in a house of prostitution or any other place where prostitution is encouraged or allowed(;/.)]

<Alternative 1E—used fraud>

[1. The defendant used fraud, trickery, or duress [or abused a position of confidence or authority] to (persuade/procure) _____ <insert name> to (be a prostitute/enter any place where prostitution is encouraged or allowed/enter or leave California for the purpose of prostitution)(;/.)]

<Alternative 1F—received money>

[1. The defendant (received/gave/agreed to receive/agreed to give) money or something of value in exchange for (persuading/attempting to persuade/procuring/attempting to procure) _____ <insert name> to (be a prostitute/ enter or leave California for the purpose of prostitution)(;/ .)]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

<Give element 2 when instructing on specific intent; see Bench Notes.>

[AND]

[2. The defendant intended to influence _____ <insert name> to be a prostitute(;/.)]

<Give element 3 when defendant charged with pandering a minor.>

[AND

3. _____ <insert name> was (over the age of 16 years old/under the age of 16) at the time the defendant acted.]

A prostitute is a person who engages in sexual intercourse or any lewd act with another person in exchange for money [or other compensation]. A lewd act means physical contact of the genitals, buttocks, or female breast of either the prostitute or customer with some part of the other person's body for the purpose of sexual arousal or gratification.

[Duress means a direct or implied threat of force, violence, danger, hardship, or retribution that would cause a reasonable person to do [or submit to] something that he or she would not do [or submit to] otherwise. When deciding whether the act was accomplished by duress, consider all the circumstances, including the person's age and (her/his) relationship to the defendant.]

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

In element 1, give the appropriate alternative A-F depending on the evidence in the case. (See People v. Montgomery (1941) 47 Cal.App.2d 1, 12, 24, 27–28 [117 P.2d 437] [statutory alternatives are not mutually exclusive], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Dillon (19830 34 Cal.3d 441, 454 fn. 2 [194 Cal.Rptr. 390, 668 P.2d 697] and Murgia v. Municipal Court (19750 15 Cal.3d 286, 301 fn. 11 [124 Cal.Rtpr. 204, 540 P.2d 44].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

There is a conflict in the case law about the intent required to prove pandering. (See People v. Mathis (1985) 173 Cal.App.3d 1251, 1256 [219 Cal.Rptr. 693] [pandering under former § 266i(b) (now § 266i(a)(2)) requires a specific intent to influence a person to become a prostitute]; but see People v. Montgomery, supra, 47 Cal.App.2d at p. 16 [pandering does not necessarily involve specific intent].) The trial court must decide whether to give bracketed element 2 on specific intent.

The committee included "persuade" and "arrange" as options in element one because the statutory language, "procure," may be difficult for jurors to understand.

Give bracketed element 3 if it is alleged that the person procured, or otherwise caused to act, by the defendant was a minor "over" or "under" the age of 16 years. (Pen. Code, § 266i(b).)

Give the bracketed paragraph defining duress on request if there is sufficient evidence that duress was used to procure a person for prostitution. (Pen. Code, § 266i(a)(5); see People v. Leal (2004) 33 Cal.4th 999, 1004–1010 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 869, 94 P.3d 1071] [definition of "duress"].)

Give the bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

Defenses—Instructional Duty

If necessary for the jury's understanding of the case, the court must instruct sua sponte on a defense theory in evidence, for example, that nude modeling does not constitute an act of prostitution and that an act of procuring a person solely for the purpose of nude modeling does not violate either the pimping or pandering statute. (People v. Hill (1980) 103 Cal.App.3d 525, 536–537 [163 Cal.Rptr. 99].)

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 266i.
- Prostitution Defined. Pen. Code, § 647(b); People v. Hill (1980) 103 Cal.App.3d 525, 534–535 [163 Cal.Rptr. 99]; People v. Romo (1962) 200 Cal.App.2d 83, 90–91 [19 Cal.Rptr. 179]; Wooten v. Superior Court

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(2001) 93 Cal.App.4th 422, 431–433] [lewd act requires touching between prostitute and customer].

- Procurement Defined. People v. Montgomery (1941) 47 Cal.App.2d 1, 12 [117 P.2d 437], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Dillon (1983) 34 Cal.3d 441, 454 fn. 2 [194 Cal.Rptr. 390, 668 P.2d 697] and Murgia v. Municipal Court (1975) 15 Cal.3d 286, 301 fn. 11 [124 Cal.Rtpr. 204, 540 P.2d 44].
- Proof of Actual Prostitution Not Required. People v. Osuna (1967) 251 Cal.App.2d 528, 531–532 [59 Cal.Rptr. 559].
- Duress Defined. People v. Leal (2004) 33 Cal.4th 999, 1004–1010 [16 Cal.Rptr.3d 869, 94 P.3d 1071]; People v. Pitmon (1985) 170 Cal.App.3d 38, 50 [216 Cal.Rptr. 221]; People v. Cochran (2002) 103 Cal.App.4th 8, 13–14 [126 Cal.Rptr.2d 416].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 70–78.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.11[3] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Pandering. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 266i; People v. Charles (1963) 218 Cal.App.2d 812, 819 [32 Cal.Rptr. 653]; People v. Benenato (1946) 77 Cal.App.2d 350, 366–367 [175 P.2d 296], disapproved on other grounds in In re Wright (1967) 65 Cal.2d 650, 654–655, fn. 3 [56 Cal.Rptr. 110, 422 P.2d 998].

There is no crime of aiding and abetting prostitution. (People v. Gibson (2001) 90 Cal.App.4th 371, 385 [108 Cal.Rptr.2d 809].)

RELATED ISSUES

See Related Issues section to CALCRIM No. 1150, Pimping.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1152. Child Procurement (Pen. Code, § 266j)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with (providing/causing) a child to engage in a lewd or lascivious act [in violation of Penal Code section 266j].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

<Alternative 1A—gave/transported a child>

[1. The defendant intentionally (gave/transported/provided/made available) a child to someone else so the person could engage in a lewd or lascivious act with that child;]

<Alternative 1B—offered to give/transport a child>

[1. The defendant offered to (give/transport/provide/make available) a child to someone else so the person could engage in a lewd or lascivious act with that child;]

<Alternative 1C—caused child to engage in>

[1. The defendant (caused/persuaded/induced) a child to engage in a lewd or lascivious act with someone else;]

[AND]

2. When the defendant acted, the child was under the age of 16 years(;/.)

<Give element 3 when instructing on "offered.">

[AND

3. When the defendant made the offer, (he/she) intended to (give/transport/provide/make available) a child to someone else so the person could engage in a lewd or lascivious act with that child.]

A lewd or lascivious act is any touching of a child with the intent to sexually arouse either the perpetrator or the child. The touching need not be done in a lewd or sexual manner. Contact with the child's bare skin or private parts is not required. Any part of the child's body or the clothes the child is wearing may be touched. [A lewd or lascivious act includes causing a child to touch his or her own body or someone else's body at the instigation of the other person who has the required intent.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

In element 1, give the appropriate alternative A–C depending on the evidence in the case. When giving alternative 1B, "offered," give element 3 as well.

Give the bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

Related Instructions

See CALCRIM Nos. 1110–1112, relating to lewd and lascivious acts in violation of Penal Code section 288.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 266j.
- Any Touching of Child With Intent to Arouse. People v. Martinez (1995) 11 Cal.4th 434, 443–445, 452 [45 Cal.Rptr.2d 905, 903 P.2d 1037] [in context of Pen. Code, § 288; disapproving People v. Wallace (1992) 11 Cal.App.4th 568, 574–580 [14 Cal.Rptr.2d 67] and its progeny]; see People v. Diaz (1996) 41 Cal.App.4th 1424, 1427–1428 [49 Cal.Rptr.2d 252] [list of examples].
- Child Touching Own Body Parts at Defendant's Request. People v. Meacham (1984) 152 Cal.App.3d 142, 152–153 [199 Cal.Rptr. 586] ["constructive" touching; approving Austin instruction in context of Pen. Code, § 288]; People v. Austin (1980) 111 Cal.App.3d 110, 114–115 [168 Cal.Rptr. 401].
- Lewd Defined. In re Smith (1972) 7 Cal.3d 362, 365 [102 Cal.Rptr. 335, 497 P.2d 807] [in context of indecent exposure].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 39, 45–46.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.11[3] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Child Procurement. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 266j.

RELATED ISSUES

Corroboration Not Required

A minor victim is not an accomplice and the jury need not be instructed that the minor's testimony requires corroboration. (People v. Mena (1988) 206 Cal.App.3d 420, 425 [254 Cal.Rptr. 10].)

See CALCRIM Nos. 1110–1112, relating to lewd and lascivious acts in violation of Penal Code section 288.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1153. Prostitution: Engaging in Act (Pen. Code, § 647(b))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with engaging in an act of prostitution [in violation of Penal Code section 647(b)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that the defendant willfully engaged in sexual intercourse or a lewd act with someone else in exchange for money [or other compensation].

A lewd act means touching the genitals, buttocks, or female breast of either the prostitute or customer with some part of the other person's body for the purpose of sexual arousal or gratification of either person.

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If the defendant is charged with one or more prior convictions, give CALCRIM No. 3100, Prior Conviction: Nonbifurcated Trial, unless the defendant has stipulated to the conviction. If the court has granted a bifurcated trial on the prior conviction, use CALCRIM No. 3101, Prior Conviction: Bifurcated Trial.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 647(b).
- Willfully Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(1); People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Prostitution Defined. Pen. Code, § 647(b); People v. Hill (1980) 103 Cal.App.3d 525, 534–535 [163 Cal.Rptr. 99]; Wooten v. Superior Court (2001) 93 Cal.App.4th 422, 431–433 [113 Cal.Rptr.2d 195] [lewd act requires touching between prostitute and customer].
- Lewd Conduct Defined. Pryor v. Municipal Court (1979) 25 Cal.3d

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

238, 256 [158 Cal.Rptr. 330, 599 P.2d 636].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 61–63.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.11[1] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Payment Does Not Need to Be Made Directly to Person Doing Act

"[W]e know of no statutory or case law requiring that payment be made to the person actually providing sexual favors." (People v. Bell (1988) 201 Cal.App.3d 1396, 1400 [248 Cal.Rptr. 57].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1154. Prostitution: Soliciting Another (Pen. Code, § 647(b))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with soliciting another person to engage in an act of prostitution [in violation of Penal Code section 647(b)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant requested [or _____ <insert other synonyms for "solicit," as appropriate>] that another person engage in an act of prostitution;

[AND]

2. The defendant intended to engage in an act of prostitution with the other person(;/.)

<Give element 3 when instructing that person solicited must receive message; see Bench Notes.>

[AND

3. The other person received the communication containing the request.]

A person engages in an act of prostitution if he or she has sexual intercourse or does a lewd act with someone else in exchange for money [or other compensation]. A lewd act means touching the genitals, buttocks, or female breast of either the prostitute or customer with some part of the other person's body for the purpose of sexual arousal or gratification. Under the law, when a prostitute and a customer engage in sexual intercourse or lewd acts, both of them are engaged in an act of prostitution.

New January 2006; Revised June 2007

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

One court has held that the person solicited must actually receive the solicitous communication. (People v. Saephanh (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 451,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

458–459 [94 Cal.Rptr.2d 910].) In Saephanh, the defendant mailed a letter from prison containing a solicitation to harm the fetus of his girlfriend. (Id. at p. 453.) The letter was intercepted by prison authorities and, thus, never received by the intended person. (Ibid.) If there is an issue over whether the intended person actually received the communication, give bracketed element 3.

If the defendant is charged with one or more prior convictions, give CALCRIM No. 3100, Prior Conviction: Nonbifurcated Trial, unless the defendant has stipulated to the conviction. If the court has granted a bifurcated trial on the prior conviction, use CALCRIM No. 3101, Prior Conviction: Bifurcated Trial.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 647(b).
- Prostitution Defined. Pen. Code, § 647(b); People v. Hill (1980) 103 Cal.App.3d 525, 534–535 [163 Cal.Rptr. 99]; Wooten v. Superior Court (2001) 93 Cal.App.4th 422, 431–433 [113 Cal.Rptr.2d 195] [lewd act requires touching between prostitute and customer].
- Lewd Conduct Defined. Pryor v. Municipal Court (1979) 25 Cal.3d 238, 256 [158 Cal.Rptr. 330, 599 P.2d 636].
- Solicitation Requires Specific Intent. People v. Norris (1978) 88 Cal.App.3d Supp. 32, 38 [152 Cal.Rptr. 134]; People v. Love (1980) 111 Cal.App.3d Supp. 1, 13 [168 Cal.Rptr. 591]; People v. Dell (1991) 232 Cal.App.3d 248, 264 [283 Cal.Rptr. 361].
- Solicitation Defined. People v. Superior Court (1977) 19 Cal.3d 338, 345–346 [138 Cal.Rptr. 66, 562 P.2d 1315].
- Person Solicited Must Receive Communication. People v. Saephanh (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 451, 458–459 [94 Cal.Rptr.2d 910].
- Solicitation Applies to Either Prostitute or Customer. Leffel v. Municipal Court (1976) 54 Cal.App.3d 569, 575 [126 Cal.Rptr. 773].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 61–63.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.11[1] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues section of CALCRIM No. 441, Solicitation: Elements.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1155. Prostitution: Agreeing to Engage in Act (Pen. Code, § 647(b))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with agreeing to engage in an act of prostitution [in violation of Penal Code section 647(b)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant agreed to engage in an act of prostitution with someone else;
2. The defendant intended to engage in an act of prostitution with that person;

AND

3. In addition to agreeing, the defendant did something to further the commission of an act of prostitution.

A person engages in an act of prostitution if he or she has sexual intercourse or does a lewd act with someone else in exchange for money [or other compensation]. A lewd act means touching the genitals, buttocks, or female breast of either the prostitute or customer with some part of the other person's body for the purpose of sexual arousal or gratification.

[The conduct that furthers the commission of the act of prostitution may happen before, after, or at the same time as the agreement to engage in prostitution.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If the defendant is charged with one or more prior convictions, give CALCRIM No. 3100, Prior Conviction: Nonbifurcated Trial, unless the defendant has stipulated to the conviction. If the court has granted a bifurcated trial on the prior conviction, use CALCRIM No. 3101, Prior Conviction: Bifurcated Trial.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 647(b).
- Prostitution Defined. Pen. Code, § 647(b); People v. Hill (1980) 103 Cal.App.3d 525, 534–535 [163 Cal.Rptr. 99]; Wooten v. Superior Court (2001) 93 Cal.App.4th 422, 431–433 [113 Cal.Rptr.2d 195] [lewd act requires touching between prostitute and customer].
- Lewd Conduct Defined. Pryor v. Municipal Court (1979) 25 Cal.3d 238, 256 [158 Cal.Rptr. 330, 599 P.2d 636].
- Specific Intent Required. Pen. Code, § 647(b).
- Act in Furtherance Required. Pen. Code, § 647(b).
- Act in Furtherance May Precede Agreement. In re Cheri T. (1999) 70 Cal.App.4th 1400, 1407–1408 [83 Cal.Rptr.2d 397]; contra, People v. Davis (1988) 201 Cal.App.3d Supp. 1, 4–5 [247 Cal.Rptr. 359].
- Act in Furtherance May Consist of Words Alone. Kim v. Superior Court (People) (2006) 136 Cal.App.4th 937, 945].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 61–63.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.11[1] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1156. Loitering: For Prostitution (Pen. Code, § 653.22(a))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with loitering with the intent to commit prostitution [in violation of Penal Code section 653.22(a)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant delayed or lingered in a public place;
2. When the defendant did so, (he/she) did not have a lawful purpose for being there;

AND

3. When the defendant did so, (he/she) intended to commit prostitution.

As used here, a public place is (a/an/the) (area open to the public[(,/;)]/[or] alley[(,/;)]/ [or] plaza [(,/;)]/ [or] park[(,/;)]/ [or] driveway[(,/;)]/ [or] parking lot[(,/;)]/ [or] automobile[(,/;)]/ [or] building open to the general public[, including one that serves food or drink or provides entertainment][(,/;)]/ [or] doorway or entrance to a building or dwelling[(,/;)]/ [or] grounds enclosing a building or dwelling).

A person intends to commit prostitution if he or she intends to engage in sexual conduct with someone else in exchange for money [or other compensation]. Sexual conduct means sexual intercourse or touching the genitals, buttocks, or female breast of either the prostitute or customer with some part of the other person's body for the purpose of sexual arousal or gratification. [Prostitution does not include sexual conduct engaged in as a part of any stage performance, play, or other entertainment open to the public.]

The intent to commit prostitution may be shown by a person acting in a manner and under circumstances that openly demonstrate the intent to induce, entice, or solicit prostitution or to procure someone else to commit prostitution. In deciding whether the defendant acted with intent to commit prostitution, you may consider whether (he/she):

- [Repeatedly beckoned to, stopped, engaged in conversations with, or attempted to stop or engage in conversations with

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

passersby in a way that indicated the solicitation of prostitution (./;)]

- [Repeatedly stopped or attempted to stop vehicles by hailing, waving, or gesturing, or engaged or attempted to engage drivers or passengers in conversation, in a way that indicated the solicitation of prostitution(./;)]
- [Circled an area in a vehicle and repeatedly beckoned to, contacted, or attempted to contact or stop pedestrians or other motorists in a way that indicated the solicitation of prostitution(./;)]
- [Has engaged in any behavior indicative of prostitution activity within the six months before (his/her) arrest in this case(./;)]
- [Has been convicted of this crime or of any other crime relating to or involving prostitution within five years of (his/her) arrest in this case.]

You should also consider whether any of these activities occurred in an area known for prostitution.

This list of factors is not intended to be a complete list of all the factors you may consider on the question of intent. The factors are provided only as examples to assist you in deciding whether the defendant acted with the intent to commit prostitution. Consider all the evidence presented in this case for whatever bearing you conclude it has on the question of the defendant's intent. Give the evidence whatever weight you decide that it deserves.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 653.22(a).
- Factors to Consider to Prove Intent. Pen. Code, § 653.22(a), (b) & (c).
- Prostitution Defined. Pen. Code, § 653.20(a); see also Pen. Code,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

§ 647(b); People v. Hill (1980) 103 Cal.App.3d 525, 534–535 [163 Cal.Rptr. 99]; Wooten v. Superior Court (2001) 93 Cal.App.4th 422, 431–433 [113 Cal.Rptr.2d 195]; Pryor v. Municipal Court (1979) 25 Cal.3d 238, 256 [158 Cal.Rptr. 330, 599 P.2d 636].

- Public Place Defined. Pen. Code, § 653.20(b).
- Loiter Defined. Pen. Code, § 653.20(b).
- Statute Constitutional. People v. Pulliam (1998) 62 Cal.App.4th 1430, 1434–1439 [73 Cal.Rptr.2d 371].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against Public Peace and Welfare, § 54.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, §§ 144.11[1], 144.20 (Matthew Bender).

1157–1159. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(iii) Conduct in Public

1160. Indecent Exposure (Pen. Code, § 314)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with indecent exposure [in violation of Penal Code section 314].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant willfully exposed (his/her) genitals in the presence of another person or persons who might be offended or annoyed by the defendant's actions;

[AND]

2. When the defendant exposed (himself/herself), (he/she) acted lewdly by intending to direct public attention to (his/her) genitals for the purpose of sexually arousing or gratifying (himself/herself) or another person, or sexually offending another person(;/.)

<Give element 3 if defendant charged with entering inhabited dwelling.>

[AND]

[3. The willful and lewd exposure occurred after the defendant had entered an inhabited (dwelling house/part of a building/trailer coach) without consent.]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose. It is not required that he or she intend to break the law, hurt someone else, or gain any advantage.

[It is not required that another person actually see the exposed genitals.]

[A (house/part of a building/trailer coach) is inhabited if someone uses it as a dwelling, whether or not someone is inside at the time of the alleged indecent exposure.]

[A (house/part of a building/trailer coach) is inhabited if someone used it as a dwelling and left only because a natural or other disaster caused him or her to leave.]

[A (house/part of a building/trailer coach) is not inhabited if the former residents have moved out and do not intend to return, even if some personal property remains inside.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[A house includes any (structure/garage/office/ _____ <insert other description>) that is attached to the house and functionally connected with it.]

[A trailer coach is a vehicle without its own mode of power, designed to be pulled by a motor vehicle. It is made for human habitation or human occupancy and for carrying property.]

[A trailer coach is [also] a park trailer that is intended for human habitation for recreational or seasonal use only and

1. has a floor area of no more than 400 square feet;
2. is not more than 14 feet wide;
3. is built on a single chassis;

AND

4. may only be transported on public highways with a permit.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Give element 3 if the defendant is charged with entering an inhabited dwelling.

If the defendant is charged with a prior conviction for indecent exposure give CALCRIM No. 3100, Prior Conviction: Nonbifurcated Trial, or CALCRIM No. 3101, Prior Conviction: Bifurcated Trial, unless the defendant has stipulated to the truth of the prior conviction. (See People v. Merkley (1996) 51 Cal.App.4th 472, 476 [58 Cal.Rptr.2d 21]; People v. Bouzas (1991) 53 Cal.3d 467, 477–480 [279 Cal.Rptr. 847, 807 P.2d 1076]; People v. Weathington (1991) 231 Cal.App.3d 69, 90 [282 Cal.Rptr. 170].)

Give the bracketed sentence that begins, "It is not required that another person actually see" on request if the evidence shows that no one actually saw the defendant's genitals. (People v. Carbajal (2003) 114 Cal.App.4th 978, 986 [8 Cal.Rptr.3d 206].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 314.
- Affront Must Be Sexual. In re Dallas W. (2000) 85 Cal.App.4th 937, 939 [102 Cal.Rptr.2d 493]; People v. Archer (2002) 98 Cal.App.4th 402, 406 [119 Cal.Rptr.2d 783] ["sexual affront" means to sexually insult or offend another person].
- Exposing Person Must Have Intent to Expose Genitals. People v. Massicot (2002) 97 Cal.App.4th 920, 926–928 [118 Cal.Rptr.2d 705].
- Must Expose to Other Person But Other Person Need Not View. People v. Carbajal (2003) 114 Cal.App.4th 978, 986 [8 Cal.Rptr.3d 206].
- Lewd Intent Defined. In re Smith (1972) 7 Cal.3d 362, 365–366 [102 Cal.Rptr. 335, 497 P.2d 807].
- Lewd Intent Does Not Require That Genitals Be Touched. People v. Rehmeyer (1993) 19 Cal.App.4th 1758, 1766 [24 Cal.Rptr.2d 321]; see People v. Meeker (1989) 208 Cal.App.3d 358, 362 [256 Cal.Rptr. 79].
- "Private Parts" Means Genitals. People v. Massicot (2002) 97 Cal.App.4th 920, 925, fn. 3 [118 Cal.Rptr.2d 705]; see In re Smith (1972) 7 Cal.3d 362, 366 [102 Cal.Rptr. 335, 497 P.2d 807].
- Inhabitation Defined. See Pen. Code, § 459 [in context of burglary].
- Trailer Coach Defined. Veh. Code, § 635; Health & Saf. Code, § 18009.3.
- House Not Inhabited is Former Residents Not Returning. People v. Cardona (1983) 142 Cal.App.3d 481, 483 [191 Cal.Rptr. 109].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 109–112.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.11[1] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Indecent Exposure. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 314; People v. Rehmeyer (1993) 19 Cal.App.4th 1758, 1766–1767 [24 Cal.Rptr.2d 321]; see also People v. Finley (1994) 26 Cal.App.4th 454, 456–459 [31 Cal.Rptr.2d 288] [attempted misdemeanor indecent exposure is not elevated to felony by recidivist provision of Pen. Code, § 314].

Indecent exposure is a misdemeanor if the defendant does not have qualifying priors and the alleged event did not occur in an inhabited dwelling. (Pen. Code, § 314.) If the defendant is charged with one of the factors that elevates the offense to a felony, then the misdemeanor is a lesser included offense.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Soliciting anyone to engage in lewd or dissolute conduct in any public place (see Pen. Code, § 647(a)) is not a lesser included offense of indecent exposure under Penal Code section 314, subdivision 1. (People v. Meeker (1989) 208 Cal.App.3d 358, 361–362 [256 Cal.Rptr. 79] [following construction of "lewd or dissolute conduct" in Pryor v. Municipal Court (1979) 25 Cal.3d 238, 256 [158 Cal.Rptr. 330, 599 P.2d 636]]; contra, People v. Curry (1977) 76 Cal.App.3d 181, 186–187 [142 Cal.Rptr. 649]; People v. Swearington (1977) 71 Cal.App.3d 935, 944 [140 Cal.Rptr. 5].) Burglary is also not a necessarily included offense of unlawful entry for indecent exposure. (People v. Rehmeyer (1993) 19 Cal.App.4th 1758, 1768–1769 [24 Cal.Rptr.2d 321].)

RELATED ISSUES

Presence of Others

"[A] conviction for indecent exposure under Penal Code section 314, subdivision 1 requires evidence that a defendant actually exposed his or her genitals in the presence of another person, but there is no concomitant requirement that such person must actually have seen the defendant's genitals." (People v. Carbajal (2003) 114 Cal.App.4th 978, 986 [8 Cal.Rptr.3d 206].)

Burglary

Felony indecent exposure can be the underlying felony to support a burglary charge. (People v. Rehmeyer (1993) 19 Cal.App.4th 1758, 1767 [24 Cal.Rptr.2d 321].)

After Entering

The statute does not require that the defendant expose himself or herself while still in the home. (See People v. Mendoza (2004) 118 Cal.App.4th 571, 575–576 [13 Cal.Rptr.3d 195] [discussing identical language in Pen. Code, § 647.6(a)].) It is sufficient if the defendant engaged in the conduct after entering the home and there is "a clear nexus between the residential entry and the . . . conduct." (Id. at p. 576.)

See the Related Issues section to CALCRIM No. 1701, Burglary: Degrees, for additional authority on "inhabited dwelling house."

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1161. Lewd Conduct in Public (Pen. Code, § 647(a))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with engaging in lewd conduct in public [in violation of Penal Code section 647(a)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant willfully engaged in the touching of ((his/her) own/ [or] another person's) genitals, buttocks, or female breast;
2. The defendant did so with the intent to sexually arouse or gratify (himself/herself) or another person, or to annoy or offend another person;
3. At the time the defendant engaged in the conduct, (he/she) was in (a public place/ [or] a place open to the public [or to public view]);
4. At the time the defendant engaged in the conduct, someone else who might have been offended was present;

AND

5. The defendant knew or reasonably should have known that another person who might have been offended by (his/her) conduct was present.

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose.

[As used here, a public place is a place that is open and accessible to anyone who wishes to go there.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 647(a); Pryor v. Municipal Court (1979) 25

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.3d 238, 256–257 [158 Cal.Rptr. 330, 599 P.2d 636]; People v. Rylaarsdam (1982) 130 Cal.App.3d Supp. 1, 3–4 [181 Cal.Rptr. 723].

- Willfully Defined. Pen. Code, § 7, subd. 1; People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- "Lewd" and "Dissolute" Synonymous. Pryor v. Municipal Court (1979) 25 Cal.3d 238, 256 [158 Cal.Rptr. 330, 599 P.2d 636].
- Lewd Conduct Defined. Pryor v. Municipal Court (1979) 25 Cal.3d 238, 256 [158 Cal.Rptr. 330, 599 P.2d 636].
- Public Place Defined. In re Zorn (1963) 59 Cal.2d 650, 652 [30 Cal.Rptr. 811, 381 P.2d 635]; People v. Belanger (1966) 243 Cal.App.2d 654, 657 [52 Cal.Rptr. 660]; People v. Perez (1976) 64 Cal.App.3d 297, 300–301 [134 Cal.Rptr. 338]; but see People v. White (1991) 227 Cal.App.3d 886, 892–893 [278 Cal.Rptr. 48] [fenced yard of defendant's home not a "public place"].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against Public Peace and Welfare, §§ 46–47.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.20 (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Need Not Prove Someone Was Offended

"It is not the burden of the prosecution to prove that the observer was in fact offended by the conduct but only that the conduct was such that defendant should know that the observer 'may be offended.' " (People v. Rylaarsdam (1982) 130 Cal.App.3d Supp. 1, 11 [181 Cal.Rptr. 723].)

Does Not Apply to Live Theater Performance

"It seems evident from the foregoing that the vagrancy law, [Penal Code] section 647, subdivision (a), was not intended to apply to live performances in a theater before an audience." (Barrows v. Municipal Court (1970) 1 Cal.3d 821, 827–828 [83 Cal.Rptr. 819, 464 P.2d 483].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1162. Soliciting Lewd Conduct in Public (Pen. Code, § 647(a))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with soliciting another person to engage in lewd conduct in public [in violation of Penal Code section 647(a)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant requested [or _____ <insert other synonyms for "solicit," as appropriate>] that another person engage in the touching of ((his/her) own/ [or] another person's) genitals, buttocks, or female breast;
2. The defendant requested that the other person engage in the requested conduct in (a public place/ [or] a place open to the public [or in public view]);
3. When the defendant made the request, (he/she) was in (a public place/ [or] a place open to the public [or in public view]);
4. The defendant intended for the conduct to occur in (a public place/ [or] a place open to the public [or in public view]);
5. When the defendant made the request, (he/she) did so with the intent to sexually arouse or gratify (himself/herself) or another person, or to annoy or offend another person;

[AND]

6. The defendant knew or reasonably should have known that someone was likely to be present who could be offended by the requested conduct(;/.)

<Give element 7 when instructing that person solicited must receive message; see Bench Notes.>

[AND

7. The other person received the communication containing the request.]

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[As used here, a public place is a place that is open and accessible to anyone who wishes to go there.]

New January 2006; Revised August 2006, December 2008

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

One court has held that the person solicited must actually receive the solicitous communication. (People v. Saephanh (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 451, 458–459 [94 Cal.Rptr.2d 910].) In Saephanh, the defendant mailed a letter from prison containing a solicitation to harm the fetus of his girlfriend. (Id. at p. 453.) The letter was intercepted by prison authorities and, thus, never received by the intended person. (Ibid.) If there is an issue over whether the intended person actually received the communication, give bracketed element 7.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 647(a); Pryor v. Municipal Court (1979) 25 Cal.3d 238, 256–257 [158 Cal.Rptr. 330, 599 P.2d 636]; People v. Rylaarsdam (1982) 130 Cal.App.3d Supp. 1, 8–9 [181 Cal.Rptr. 723].
- Willfully Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(1); People v. Lara (1996) 44 Cal.App.4th 102, 107 [51 Cal.Rptr.2d 402].
- Likely Defined. People v. Lake (2007) 156 Cal.App.4th Supp. 1 [67 Cal.Rptr.3d 452].
- Solicitation Requires Specific Intent. People v. Norris (1978) 88 Cal.App.3d Supp. 32, 38 [152 Cal.Rptr. 134].
- Solicitation Defined. People v. Superior Court (1977) 19 Cal.3d 338, 345–346 [138 Cal.Rptr. 66, 562 P.2d 1315].
- Person Solicited Must Receive Communication. People v. Saephanh (2000) 80 Cal.App.4th 451, 458–459 [94 Cal.Rptr.2d 910].
- "Lewd" and "Dissolute" Synonymous. Pryor v. Municipal Court (1979) 25 Cal.3d 238, 256 [158 Cal.Rptr. 330, 599 P.2d 636].
- Lewd Conduct Defined. Pryor v. Municipal Court (1979) 25 Cal.3d 238, 256 [158 Cal.Rptr. 330, 599 P.2d 636].
- Public Place Defined. In re Zorn (1963) 59 Cal.2d 650, 652 [30

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.Rptr. 811, 381 P.2d 635]; People v. Belanger (1966) 243 Cal.App.2d 654, 657 [52 Cal.Rptr. 660]; People v. Perez (1976) 64 Cal.App.3d 297, 300–301 [134 Cal.Rptr. 338]; but see People v. White (1991) 227 Cal.App.3d 886, 892–893 [278 Cal.Rptr. 48] [fenced yard of defendant's home not a "public place"].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against Public Peace and Welfare, §§ 46–47.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order § 144.20 (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

See the Related Issues sections of CALCRIM No. 1161, Lewd Conduct in Public and CALCRIM No. 441, Solicitation: Elements.

1163–1169. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(iv) Failure to Register

1170. Failure to Register as Sex Offender (Pen. Code, § 290(b))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with failing to register as a sex offender [in violation of Penal Code section 290(b)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant was previously (convicted of/found to have committed) _____ <specify the offense for which the defendant is allegedly required to register>;
2. The defendant resided (in _____ <insert name of city>, California/in an unincorporated area or a city with no police department in _____ <insert name of county> County, California/on the campus or in the facilities of _____ <insert name of university or college> in California);
3. The defendant actually knew (he/she) had a duty under Penal Code section 290 to register as a sex offender [living at _____ <insert specific address or addresses in California>] and that (he/she) had to register within five working days of _____ <insert triggering event specified in Penal Code section 290(b)>;

AND

<Alternative 4A—change of residence>

[4. The defendant willfully failed to register as a sex offender with the (police chief of that city/sheriff of that county/the police chief of that campus or its facilities) within five working days of (coming into/ [or] changing (his/her) residence within) that (city/county/campus).]

<Alternative 4B—birthday>

[4. The defendant willfully failed to annually update (his/her) registration as a sex offender with the (police chief of that city/sheriff of that county/the police chief of that campus) within five working days of (his/her) birthday.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Someone commits an act willfully when he or she does it willingly or on purpose.

[Residence means one or more addresses where someone regularly resides, regardless of the number of days or nights spent there, such as a shelter or structure that can be located by a street address. A residence may include, but is not limited to, houses, apartment buildings, motels, hotels, homeless shelters, and recreational and other vehicles.]

New January 2006; Revised August 2006, April 2010; October 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime. This instruction is based on the language of the statute effective January 1, 2006. The instruction may not be appropriate for offenses that occurred before that date. Note also that this is an area where case law is developing rapidly. The court should review recent decisions on Penal Code section 290 before instructing.

In element 3, choose the option "living at _____ <insert specific address in California> if there is an issue whether the defendant actually knew that a place where he or she spent time was a residence triggering the duty to register. (People v. Cohens (2009) 178 Cal.App.4th 1442, 1451 [101 Cal.Rptr.3d 289]; People v. LeCorno (2003) 109 Cal.App.4th 1058, 1068–1069 [135 Cal.Rptr.2d 775].)

In element 4, give alternative 4A if the defendant is charged with failing to register within five working days of changing his or her residence or becoming homeless. (Pen. Code, § 290(b).) Give alternative 4B if the defendant is charged with failing to update his or her registration within five working days of his or her birthday. (Pen. Code, § 290.012.)

If the defendant is charged with a prior conviction for failing to register, give CALCRIM No. 3100, Prior Conviction: Nonbifurcated Trial, or CALCRIM No. 3101, Prior Conviction: Bifurcated Trial, unless the defendant has stipulated to the truth of the prior conviction. (See People v. Merkley (1996) 51 Cal.App.4th 472, 476 [58 Cal.Rptr. 2d 21]; People v. Bouzas (1991) 53 Cal.3d 467, 477–480 [279 Cal.Rptr. 847, 807 P.2d 1076]; People v. Weathington (1991) 231 Cal.App.3d 69, 90 [282 Cal.Rptr. 170].)

For the charge of failure to register, it is error to give an instruction on general criminal intent that informs the jury that a person is "acting with general criminal intent, even though he may not know that his act or conduct is unlawful." (People v. Barker (2004) 34 Cal.4th 345, 360 [18 Cal.Rptr.3d 260, 96 P.3d 507]; People v. Edgar (2002) 104 Cal.App.4th 210, 219 [127 Cal.Rptr.2d 662].) The court should consider whether it is more appropriate to give CALCRIM No. 251, Union of Act and Intent: Specific Intent or Mental State, or to give a modified version of CALCRIM No. 250, Union of Act and Intent: General Intent, as explained in the Related Issues section to CALCRIM No. 250.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 290(b) [change in residence], 290.012 [birthday]; People v. Garcia (2001) 25 Cal.4th 744, 752 [107 Cal.Rptr.2d 355, 23 P.3d 590].
- Definition of Residence. Pen. Code, § 290.011(g); People v. Gonzales (2010) 183 Cal.App.4th 24, 35 [107 Cal.Rptr.3d 11].
- Willfully Defined. Pen. Code, § 7(1); see People v. Barker (2004) 34 Cal.4th 345, 360 [18 Cal.Rptr.3d 260, 96 P.3d 507].
- Actual Knowledge of Duty Required. People v. Garcia (2001) 25 Cal.4th 744, 752 [107 Cal.Rptr.2d 355, 23 P.3d 590].
- Continuing Offense. Wright v. Superior Court (1997) 15 Cal.4th 521, 527–528 [63 Cal.Rptr.2d 322, 936 P.2d 101].
- General Intent Crime. People v. Barker (2004) 34 Cal.4th 345, 360 [18 Cal.Rptr.3d 260, 96 P.3d 507]; People v. Johnson (1998) 67 Cal.App.4th 67, 72 [78 Cal.Rptr.2d 795].
- No Duty to Define Residence. People v. McCleod (1997) 55 Cal.App.4th 1205, 1219 [64 Cal.Rptr.2d 545].
- Registration is Not Punishment. In re Alva (2004) 33 Cal.4th 254, 262 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 811, 92 P.3d 311].
- Jury May Consider Evidence That Significant Involuntary Condition Deprived Defendant of Actual Knowledge. People v. Sorden (2005) 36 Cal.4th 65, 72 [29 Cal.Rptr.3d 777, 113 P.3d 565].
- People Must Prove Defendant Was California Resident at Time of Offense. People v Wallace (2009) 176 Cal.App.4th 1088, 1102–1104 [98 Cal.Rptr.3d 618].
- Defendant Must Have Actual Knowledge That Location is Residence for Purpose of Duty to Register. People v Cohens (2009) 178 Cal.App.4th 1442, 1451 [101 Cal.Rptr.3d 289]; People v. LeCorno (2003) 109

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.App.4th 1058, 1067–1070 [135 Cal.Rptr.2d 775].

Secondary Sources

3 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Punishment, §§ 184–188.

5 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 93, Disabilities Flowing From Conviction, § 93.04[2] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 140, Challenges to Crimes, § 140.20[1][a], Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.21 (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Other Violations of Section 290

This instruction applies to violations under Penal Code sections 290(b) and 290.012. Section 290 imposes numerous other duties on persons convicted of sex offenses. For example, a registered sex offender must:

1. Notify the agency where he or she was last registered of any new address or location, whether inside or outside California, or any name change. (See Pen. Code, §§ 290.013–290.014; People v. Smith (2004) 32 Cal.4th 792, 800–802 [11 Cal.Rptr.3d 290, 86 P.3d 348] [under former Pen. Code, § 290(f), which allowed notice of change of address in writing, there is sufficient notice if defendant mails change of address form even if agency does not receive it]; People v. Annin (2004) 116 Cal.App.4th 725, 737–740 [10 Cal.Rptr.3d 712] [discussing meaning of "changed" residence]; People v. Davis (2002) 102 Cal.App.4th 377, 385 [125 Cal.Rptr.2d 519] [must instruct on requirement of actual knowledge of duty to notify law enforcement when moving out of jurisdiction]; see also People v. Franklin (1999) 20 Cal.4th 249, 255–256 [84 Cal.Rptr.2d 241, 975 P.2d 30] [construing former Pen. Code, § 290(f), which did not specifically require registration when registrant moved outside California].)
2. Register multiple residences wherever he or she regularly resides. (See Pen. Code, § 290.010; People v. Edgar (2002) 104 Cal.App.4th 210, 219–222 [127 Cal.Rptr.2d 662] [court failed to instruct that jury must find that defendant actually knew of duty to register multiple residences; opinion cites former section 290(a)(1)(B)]; People v. Vigil (2001) 94 Cal.App.4th 485, 501 [114 Cal.Rptr.2d 331].)
3. Update his or her registration at least once every 30 days if he or she is "a transient." (See Pen. Code, § 290.011.)

A sexually violent predator who is released from custody must verify his or her address at least once every 90 days and verify any place of employment. (See Pen. Code, § 290.012.) Other special requirements govern:

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1. Residents of other states who must register in their home state but are working or attending school in California. (See Pen. Code, § 290.002.)
2. Sex offenders enrolled at, employed by, or carrying on a vocation at any university, college, community college, or other institution of higher learning. (See Pen. Code, § 290.01.)

In addition, providing false information on the registration form is a violation of section 290.018. (See also People v. Chan (2005) 128 Cal.App.4th 408 [26 Cal.Rptr.3d 878].)

Forgetting to Register

If a person actually knows of his or her duty to register, "just forgetting" is not a defense. (People v. Barker (2004) 34 Cal.4th 345, 356–357 [18 Cal.Rptr.3d 260, 96 P.3d 507].) In reaching this conclusion, the court stated, "[w]e do not here express an opinion as to whether forgetfulness resulting from, for example, an acute psychological condition, or a chronic deficit of memory or intelligence, might negate the willfulness required for a section 290 violation." (Id. at p. 358 [italics in original].)

Registration Requirement for Consensual Oral Copulation With Minor

Penal Code section 290 requires lifetime registration for a person convicted of consensual oral copulation with a minor but does not require such registration for a person convicted of consensual sexual intercourse with a minor. (Pen. Code, § 290(c).) The mandatory registration requirement for consensual oral copulation with a minor is unenforceable because this disparity denies equal protection of the laws. (People v. Hofsheier (2006) 37 Cal.4th 1185, 1191, 1205–1206 [39 Cal.Rptr.3d 821, 129 P.3d 29].) A defendant convicted of consensual oral copulation with a minor might, however, be required to register pursuant to judicial discretion under [former] section 290(a)(2)(E) (after October 13, 2007, section 290.006). (Id. at p. 1208.)

Moving Between Counties—Failure to Notify County Leaving and County Moving To Can Only Be Punished as One Offense

A person who changes residences a single time, failing to notify both the jurisdiction he or she is departing from and the jurisdiction he or she is entering, commits two violations of Penal Code section 290 but can only be punished for one. (People v. Britt (2004) 32 Cal.4th 944, 953–954 [87 P.3d 812].) Further, if the defendant has been prosecuted in one county for the violation, and the prosecutor in the second county is aware of the previous prosecution, the second county cannot subsequently prosecute the defendant. (Id. at pp. 955–956.)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Notice of Duty to Register on Release From Confinement

No reported case has held that the technical notice requirements are elements of the offense, especially when the jury is told that they must find the defendant had actual knowledge. (See former Pen. Code, § 290(b), after October 13, 2007, section 290.017; People v. Garcia (2001) 25 Cal.4th 744, 754, 755–756 [107 Cal.Rptr.2d 355, 23 P.3d 590] [if defendant willfully and knowingly failed to register, Buford does not require reversal merely because authorities failed to comply with technical requirements]; see also People v. Buford (1974) 42 Cal.App.3d 975, 987 [117 Cal.Rptr. 333] [revoking probation for noncompliance with section 290, an abuse of discretion when court and jail officials also failed to comply].) The court in Garcia did state, however, that the "court's instructions on 'willfulness' should have required proof that, in addition to being formally notified by the appropriate officers as required by section

290, in order to willfully violate section 290 the defendant must actually know of his duty to register." (People v. Garcia, supra, 25 Cal.4th at p. 754.)

1171–1179. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

(v) Other Offenses

1180. Incest (Pen. Code, § 285)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with incest [in violation of Penal Code section 285].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant had sexual intercourse with another person;
2. When the defendant did so, (he/she) was at least 14 years old;
3. When the defendant did so, the other person was at least 14 years old;

AND

4. The defendant and the other person are related to each other as (parent and child/[great-]grandparent and [great-]grandchild/[half] brother and [half] sister/uncle and niece/aunt and nephew).

Sexual intercourse means any penetration, no matter how slight, of the vagina or genitalia by the penis. [Ejaculation is not required.]

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

New January 2006; Revised June 2007, October 2010

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

This instruction focuses on incestuous sexual intercourse with a minor, which is the most likely form of incest to be charged. Incest is also committed by intercourse between adult relatives within the specified degree of consanguinity, or by an incestuous marriage. (See Pen. Code, § 285.)

Give the bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 285.
- Incestuous Marriages. Fam. Code, § 2200.
- Sexual Intercourse Defined. See Pen. Code, § 263; People v. Karsai (1982) 131 Cal.App.3d 224, 233–234 [182 Cal.Rptr. 406], disapproved on other grounds by People v. Jones (1988) 46 Cal.3d 585 [250 Cal.Rptr. 635, 758 P.2d 1165].

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, §§ 138–142.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.21[3] (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Incest. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 285.

RELATED ISSUES

Accomplice Instructions

A minor is a victim of, not an accomplice to, incest. Accomplice instructions are not appropriate in a trial for incest involving a minor. (People v. Tobias (2001) 25 Cal.4th 327, 334 [106 Cal.Rptr.2d 80, 21 P.3d 758]; see People v. Stoll (1927) 84 Cal.App. 99, 101–102 [257 P. 583].) An exception may exist when two minors engage in consensual sexual intercourse, and thus both are victims of the other's crime. (People v. Tobias, supra, 327 Cal.4th at p. 334; see In re T.A.J. (1998) 62 Cal.App.4th 1350, 1364–1365 [73 Cal.Rptr.2d 331] [minor perpetrator under Pen. Code, § 261.5].) An adult woman who voluntarily engages in the incestuous act is an accomplice, whose testimony must be corroborated. (See People v. Stratton (1904) 141 Cal. 604, 609 [75 P. 166].)

Half-Blood Relationship

Family Code section 2200 prohibits sexual relations between brothers and sisters of half blood, but not between uncles and nieces of half blood. (People v. Baker (1968) 69 Cal.2d 44, 50 [69 Cal.Rptr. 595, 442 P.2d 675] [construing former version of § 2200].) However, sexual intercourse between persons the law deems to be related is proscribed. A trial court may properly instruct on the conclusive presumption of legitimacy (see Fam. Code, § 7540) if a defendant uncle asserts that the victim's mother is actually his half sister. The presumption requires the jury to find that if the defendant's mother and her potent husband were living together when the defendant was conceived, the husband was the defendant's father, and thus the defendant was a full brother of the victim's mother. (People v. Russell (1971) 22 Cal.App.3d 330, 335 [99 Cal.Rptr. 277].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Lack of Knowledge as Defense

No reported cases have held that lack of knowledge of the prohibited relationship is a defense to incest. (But see People v. Patterson (1894) 102 Cal. 239, 242–243 [36 P. 436] [dictum that party without knowledge of relationship would not be guilty]; see also People v. Vogel (1956) 46 Cal.2d 798, 801, 805 [299 P.2d 850] [good faith belief is defense to bigamy].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1181. Sexual Abuse of Animal (Pen. Code, §§ 286.5, 597f)

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with sexual abuse of an animal [in violation of Penal Code section 286.5].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant sexually assaulted an animal;
2. The defendant did so with the intent of arousing or gratifying (his/her) own sexual desire;

AND

3. The animal was (abandoned or neglected/ _____ <insert other description of "animal protected by Pen. Code, § 597f">).

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Penal Code section 286.5 only applies to an "animal protected by Section 597f." Penal Code section 597f broadly establishes the authority of public officers to take possession of and care for abandoned and neglected animals. Thus, the committee has included element 3.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 286.5; 597f.

Secondary Sources

2 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Sex Offenses and Crimes Against Decency, § 25.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 144, Crimes Against Order, § 144.12[1] (Matthew Bender).

1182–1189. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

D. EVIDENCE

1190. Other Evidence Not Required to Support Testimony in Sex Offense Case

Conviction of a sexual assault crime may be based on the testimony of a complaining witness alone.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

This instruction may be given on request if a complaining witness testifies in a sex offense case. The court has a sua sponte duty to give CALCRIM No. 301, Single Witness's Testimony, in every case. (People v. Rincon-Pineda (1975) 14 Cal.3d 864, 884–885 [123 Cal.Rptr. 119, 538 P.2d 247].) Because both instructions correctly state the law and each focuses on a different legal point, there is no implication that the victim's testimony is more credible than the defendant's testimony. (People v. Gammage (1992) 2 Cal.4th 693, 700–702 [7 Cal.Rptr.2d 541, 828 P.2d 682] [resolving split of authority on whether the two instructions can be given together].)

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. People v. Blassingill (1988) 199 Cal.App.3d 1413, 1422 [245 Cal.Rptr. 599]; People v. Akey (1912) 163 Cal. 54, 55–56 [124 P. 718].
- Conviction of Sex Crime Sustained on Prosecutrix's Uncorroborated Testimony. People v. Poggi (1988) 45 Cal.3d 306, 326 [246 Cal.Rptr. 886, 753 P.2d 1082].
- Given Together With Instruction on Single Witness's Testimony. People v. Gammage (1992) 2 Cal.4th 693, 701–702 [7 Cal.Rptr.2d 541, 828 P.2d 682]; People v. Hollis (1991) 235 Cal.App.3d 1521, 1525–1526 [1 Cal.Rptr.2d 524].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Secondary Sources

5 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Criminal Trial, § 651.

4 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 85, Submission to Jury and Verdict, § 85.03[2][b] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.23[3][e][ii] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1191. Evidence of Uncharged Sex Offense

The People presented evidence that the defendant committed the crime[s] of _____ <insert description of offense[s]> that (was/were) not charged in this case. (This/These) crime[s] (is/are) defined for you in these instructions.

You may consider this evidence only if the People have proved by a preponderance of the evidence that the defendant in fact committed the uncharged offense[s]. Proof by a preponderance of the evidence is a different burden of proof from proof beyond a reasonable doubt. A fact is proved by a preponderance of the evidence if you conclude that it is more likely than not that the fact is true.

If the People have not met this burden of proof, you must disregard this evidence entirely.

If you decide that the defendant committed the uncharged offense[s], you may, but are not required to, conclude from that evidence that the defendant was disposed or inclined to commit sexual offenses, and based on that decision, also conclude that the defendant was likely to commit [and did commit] _____ <insert charged sex offense[s]>, as charged here. If you conclude that the defendant committed the uncharged offense[s], that conclusion is only one factor to consider along with all the other evidence. It is not sufficient by itself to prove that the defendant is guilty of _____ <insert charged sex offense[s]>. The People must still prove (the/each) (charge/ [and] allegation) beyond a reasonable doubt.

[Do not consider this evidence for any other purpose [except for the limited purpose of _____ <insert other permitted purpose, e.g., determining the defendant's credibility>].]

New January 2006; Revised April 2008

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court must give this instruction on request when evidence of other sexual offenses has been introduced. (See People v. Falsetta (1999) 21

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.4th 903, 924 [89 Cal.Rptr.2d 847, 986 P.2d 182] [error to refuse limiting instruction on request]; People v. Jennings (2000) 81 Cal.App.4th 1301, 1317–1318 [97 Cal.Rptr.2d 727] [in context of prior acts of domestic violence]; but see CJER Mandatory Criminal Jury Instructions Handbook (CJER 13th ed. 2004) Sua Sponte Instructions, § 2.1112(e) [included without comment within sua sponte instructions]; People v. Willoughby (1985) 164 Cal.App.3d 1054, 1067 [210 Cal.Rptr. 880] [general limiting instructions should be given when evidence of past offenses would be highly prejudicial without them].)

Evidence Code section 1108(a) provides that "evidence of the defendant's commission of another sexual offense or offenses is not made inadmissible by Section 1101." Subdivision (d)(1) defines "sexual offense" as "a crime under the law of a state or of the United States that involved any of the following[,]" listing specific sections of the Penal Code as well as specified sexual conduct. In the first sentence, the court must insert the name of the offense or offenses allegedly shown by the evidence. The court must also instruct the jury on elements of the offense or offenses.

In the fourth paragraph, the committee has placed the phrase "and did commit" in brackets. One appellate court has criticized instructing the jury that it may draw an inference about disposition. (People v. James (2000) 81 Cal.App.4th 1343, 1357, fn. 8 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 823].) The court should review the Commentary section below and give the bracketed phrase at its discretion.

Give the bracketed sentence that begins with "Do not consider" on request.

Related Instructions

CALCRIM No. 375, Evidence of Uncharged Offense to Prove Identity, Intent, Common Plan, etc.

CALCRIM No. 852, Evidence of Uncharged Domestic Violence.

CALCRIM No. 853, Evidence of Uncharged Abuse to Elder or Dependent Person.

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirement. Evid. Code, § 1108(a); see People v. Reliford (2003) 29 Cal.4th 1007, 1012–1016 [130 Cal.Rptr.2d 254, 62 P.3d 601]; People v. Frazier (2001) 89 Cal.App.4th 30, 37 [107 Cal.Rptr.2d 100]; People v. Falsetta (1999) 21 Cal.4th 903, 923–924 [89 Cal.Rptr.2d 847, 986 P.2d 182] [dictum].
- CALCRIM No. 1191 Upheld. People v. Schnabel (2007) 150 Cal.App.4th 83, 87 [57 Cal.Rptr.3d 922]; People v. Cromp (2007) 153

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.App.4th 476, 480 [62 Cal.Rptr.3d 848].

- Sexual Offense Defined. Evid. Code, § 1108(d)(1).
- Other Crimes Proved by Preponderance of Evidence. People v. Carpenter (1997) 15 Cal.4th 312, 382 [63 Cal.Rptr.2d 1, 935 P.2d 708]; People v. James (2000) 81 Cal.App.4th 1343, 1359 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 823]; People v. Van Winkle (1999) 75 Cal.App.4th 133, 146 [89 Cal.Rptr.2d 28].
- Propensity Evidence Alone Is Not Sufficient to Support Conviction Beyond a Reasonable Doubt. People v. Hill (2001) 86 Cal.App.4th 273, 277–278 [103 Cal.Rptr.2d 127]; see People v. Younger (2000) 84 Cal.App.4th 1360, 1382 [101 Cal.Rptr.2d 624] [in context of prior acts of domestic violence]; People v. James (2000) 81 Cal.App.4th 1343, 1357–1358, fn. 8 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 823] [same].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Circumstantial Evidence, §§ 96–97.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.23[3][e][ii], [4] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

The fourth paragraph of this instruction tells the jury that they may draw an inference of disposition. (See People v. Hill (2001) 86 Cal.App.4th 273, 275–279 [103 Cal.Rptr.2d 127]; People v. Brown (2000) 77 Cal.App.4th 1324, 1334–1335 [92 Cal.Rptr.2d 433] [in context of prior acts of domestic violence].) One appellate court, however, suggests using more general terms to instruct the jury how they may use evidence of other sexual offenses, "leaving particular inferences for the argument of counsel and the jury's common sense." (People v. James (2000) 81 Cal.App.4th 1343, 1357, fn. 8 [96 Cal.Rptr.2d 823] [includes suggested instruction].) If the trial court adopts this approach, the fourth paragraph may be replaced with the following:

> If you decide that the defendant committed the other sexual offense[s], you may consider that evidence and weigh it together with all the other evidence received during the trial to help you determine whether the defendant committed _____ <insert charged sex offense>. Remember, however, that evidence of another sexual offense is not sufficient alone to find the defendant guilty of _____ <insert charged sex offense>. The People must still prove (the/each) (charge/

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[and] allegation) of _____ <insert charged sex offense> beyond a reasonable doubt.

RELATED ISSUES

Constitutional Challenges

Evidence Code section 1108 does not violate a defendant's rights to due process (People v. Falsetta (1999) 21 Cal.4th 903, 915–922 [89 Cal.Rptr.2d 847, 986 P.2d 182]; People v. Branch (2001) 91 Cal.App.4th 274, 281 [109 Cal.Rptr.2d 870]; People v. Fitch (1997) 55 Cal.App.4th 172, 184 [63 Cal.Rptr.2d 753]) or equal protection (People v. Jennings (2000) 81 Cal.App.4th 1301, 1310–1313 [97 Cal.Rptr.2d 727]; People v. Fitch, supra, 55 Cal.App.4th at pp. 184–185).

Expert Testimony

Evidence Code section 1108 does not authorize expert opinion evidence of sexual propensity during the prosecution's case-in-chief. (People v. McFarland (2000) 78 Cal.App.4th 489, 495–496 [92 Cal.Rptr.2d 884] [expert testified on ultimate issue of abnormal sexual interest in child].)

Rebuttal Evidence

When the prosecution has introduced evidence of other sexual offenses under Evidence Code section 1108(a), the defendant may introduce rebuttal character evidence in the form of opinion evidence, reputation evidence, and evidence of specific incidents of conduct under similar circumstances. (People v. Callahan (1999) 74 Cal.App.4th 356, 378–379 [87 Cal.Rptr.2d 838].)

Subsequent Offenses Admissible

"[E]vidence of subsequently committed sexual offenses may be admitted pursuant to Evidence Code section 1108." (People v. Medina (2003) 114 Cal.App.4th 897, 903 [8 Cal.Rptr.3d 158].)

Evidence of Acquittal

If the court admits evidence that the defendant committed a sexual offense that the defendant was previously acquitted of, the court must also admit evidence of the acquittal. (People v. Mullens (2004) 119 Cal.App.4th 648, 663 [14 Cal.Rptr.3d 534].)

See also the Related Issues section of CALCRIM No. 375, Evidence of Uncharged Offense to Prove Identity, Intent, Common Plan, etc.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1192. Testimony on Rape Trauma Syndrome

You have heard testimony from _____ <insert name of expert> regarding rape trauma syndrome.

_____'s <insert name of expert> testimony about rape trauma syndrome is not evidence that the defendant committed any of the crimes charged against (him/her).

You may consider this evidence only in deciding whether or not _____'s <insert name of alleged rape victim> conduct was not inconsistent with the conduct of someone who has been raped, and in evaluating the believability of her testimony.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction if an expert testifies on rape trauma syndrome. (See People v. Housley (1992) 6 Cal.App.4th 947, 958–959 [8 Cal.Rptr.2d 431] [sua sponte duty in context of child sexual abuse accommodation syndrome (CSAAS)]; CJER Mandatory Criminal Jury Instructions Handbook (CJER 10th ed. 2001) Sua Sponte Instructions, § 2.132; but see People v. Sanchez (1989) 208 Cal.App.3d 721, 736 [256 Cal.Rptr. 446] [instruction on CSAAS only required on request].)

Related Instructions

If this instruction is given, also give CALCRIM No. 303, Limited Purpose Evidence in General, and CALCRIM No. 332, Expert Witness Testimony.

AUTHORITY

- Rebut Inference That Victim's Conduct Inconsistent With Claim of Rape. People v. Bledsoe (1984) 36 Cal.3d 236, 247–248 [203 Cal.Rptr. 450, 681 P.2d 291].
- Syndrome Evidence Not Admissible to Prove Rape Occurred. People v. Bledsoe (1984) 36 Cal.3d 236, 251 [203 Cal.Rptr. 450, 681 P.2d 291].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Opinion Evidence, § 52.

3 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 71, Scientific and Expert Evidence, § 71.04[1][d][v][B] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.23[3][d] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

It is unnecessary and potentially misleading to instruct that the expert testimony assumes that a rape has in fact occurred. (See People v. Gilbert (1992) 5 Cal.App.4th 1372, 1387 [7 Cal.Rptr.2d 660] [in context of child molestation].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1193. Testimony on Child Sexual Abuse Accommodation Syndrome

You have heard testimony from _____ <insert name of expert> regarding child sexual abuse accommodation syndrome.

_____'s <insert name of expert> testimony about child sexual abuse accommodation syndrome is not evidence that the defendant committed any of the crimes charged against (him/her).

You may consider this evidence only in deciding whether or not _____'s <insert name of alleged victim of abuse> conduct was not inconsistent with the conduct of someone who has been molested, and in evaluating the believability of (his/her) testimony.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction if an expert testifies on child sexual abuse accommodation syndrome. (People v. Housley (1992) 6 Cal.App.4th 947, 958–959 [9 Cal.Rtpr.2d 431]; but see People v. Sanchez (1989) 208 Cal.App.3d 721, 736 [256 Cal.Rptr. 446] and People v. Stark (1989) 213 Cal.App.3d 107, 116 [261 Cal.Rptr. 479] [instruction required only on request].)

Related Instructions

If this instruction is given, also give CALCRIM No. 303, Limited Purpose Evidence in General, and CALCRIM No. 332, Expert Witness.

AUTHORITY

- Eliminate Juror Misconceptions or Rebut Attack on Victim's Credibility. People v. Bowker (1988) 203 Cal.App.3d 385, 393–394 [249 Cal.Rptr. 886].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Opinion Evidence, §§ 53–55.

3 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 71, Scientific and Expert Evidence, § 71.04[1][d][v][B] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.23[3][d] (Matthew Bender).

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

COMMENTARY

The jurors must understand that the research on child sexual abuse accommodation syndrome assumes a molestation occurred and seeks to describe and explain children's common reactions to the experience. (People v. Bowker (1988) 203 Cal.App.3d 385, 394 [249 Cal.Rptr. 886].) However, it is unnecessary and potentially misleading to instruct that the expert testimony assumes that a molestation has in fact occurred. (See People v. Gilbert (1992) 5 Cal.App.4th 1372, 1387 [7 Cal.Rptr.2d 660].)

The prosecution must identify the myth or misconception the evidence is designed to rebut (People v. Bowker, supra, 203 Cal.App.3d at p. 394; People v. Sanchez (1989) 208 Cal.App.3d 721, 735 [256 Cal.Rptr. 446]; People v. Harlan (1990) 222 Cal.App.3d 439, 449–450 [271 Cal.Rptr. 653]), or the victim's credibility must have been placed in issue (People v. Patino (1994) 26 Cal.App.4th 1737, 1744–1745 [32 Cal.Rptr.2d 345]).

RELATED ISSUES

Expert Testimony Regarding Parent's Behavior

An expert may also testify regarding reasons why a parent may delay reporting molestation of his or her child. (People v. McAlpin (1991) 53 Cal.3d 1289, 1300–1301 [283 Cal.Rptr. 382, 812 P.2d 563].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1194. Consent: Prior Sexual Intercourse

You have heard evidence that (_____ <insert name of complaining witness>/Jane Doe/John Doe) had consensual sexual intercourse with the defendant before the act that is charged in this case. You may consider this evidence only to help you decide (whether the alleged victim consented to the charged act[s]/ [and] whether the defendant reasonably and in good faith believed that (_____ <insert name of complaining witness>/Jane Doe/John Doe) consented to the charged act[s]). Do not consider this evidence for any other purpose.

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give a limiting admonition if the defendant is charged with rape or unlawful sexual intercourse or an attempt or assault with intent to commit either crime and evidence of prior sexual intercourse with the alleged victim has been admitted. (Pen. Code, § 1127d.)

If during the trial the court referred to a complaining witness by the name of Jane or John Doe, use that designation in giving this instruction. (See Pen. Code, §§ 293, 293.5.)

AUTHORITY

- Instructional Requirements. Pen. Code, § 1127d.
- Protecting Identity of Complaining Witness. Pen. Code §§ 293, 293.5.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin, California Evidence (4th ed. 2000) Circumstantial Evidence, § 65.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.23[1][f], [3][a] (Matthew Bender).

RELATED ISSUES

Admissibility of Sexual Conduct of Complaining Witness

Evidence Code section 782 sets out the procedure for admitting evidence of the sexual conduct of the complaining witness.

1195–1199. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

KIDNAPPING

A. KIDNAPPING

(i) Aggravated

1200. Kidnapping: For Child Molestation (Pen. Code, §§ 207(b), 288(a))

1201. Kidnapping: Child or Person Incapable of Consent (Pen. Code, § 207(a), (e))

1202. Kidnapping: For Ransom, Reward, or Extortion (Pen. Code, § 209(a))

1203. Kidnapping: For Robbery, Rape, or Other Sex Offenses (Pen. Code, § 209(b))

1204. Kidnapping: During Carjacking (Pen. Code, §§ 207(a), 209.5(a), (b), 215(a))

1205–1214. Reserved for Future Use

(ii) Simple Kidnapping

1215. Kidnapping (Pen. Code, § 207(a))

1216–1224. Reserved for Future Use

B. DEFENSES

1225. Defense to Kidnapping: Protecting Child From Imminent Harm (Pen. Code, § 207(f)(1))

1226. Defense to Kidnapping: Citizen's Arrest (Pen. Code, §§ 207(f)(2), 834, 837)

1227–1239. Reserved for Future Use

C. FALSE IMPRISONMENT

1240. Felony False Imprisonment (Pen. Code, §§ 236, 237)

1241. False Imprisonment: Hostage (Pen. Code, §§ 210.5, 236)

1242. Misdemeanor False Imprisonment (Pen. Code, §§ 236, 237(a))

1243. Human Trafficking (Pen. Code, § 236.1(a), (c))

1244–1249. Reserved for Future Use

D. CHILD ABDUCTION

1250. Child Abduction: No Right to Custody (Pen. Code, §§ 277, 278)

1251. Child Abduction: By Depriving Right to Custody or Visitation (Pen. Code, §§ 277, 278.5)

1252. Defense to Child Abduction: Protection From Immediate Injury (Pen. Code, § 278.7)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1253–1299. Reserved for Future Use

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender,
official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

A. KIDNAPPING

(i) Aggravated

1200. Kidnapping: For Child Molestation (Pen. Code, §§ 207(b), 288(a))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with kidnapping for the purpose of child molestation [in violation of Penal Code section 207(b)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant (persuaded/hired/enticed/decoyed/ [or] seduced by false promises or misrepresentations) a child younger than 14 years old to go somewhere;
2. When the defendant did so, (he/she) intended to commit a lewd or lascivious act on the child;

AND

3. As a result of the defendant's conduct, the child then moved or was moved a substantial distance.

[As used here, substantial distance means more than a slight or trivial distance. The movement must have substantially increased the risk of [physical or psychological] harm to the person beyond that necessarily present in the molestation. In deciding whether the movement was sufficient, consider all the circumstances relating to the movement.]

As used here, a lewd or lascivious act is any touching of a child with the intent of arousing, appealing to, or gratifying the lust, passions, or sexual desires of either the perpetrator or the child. The touching does not need to be done in a lewd or sexual manner. Contact with the child's bare skin or private parts is not required. Any part of the child's body or the clothes the child is wearing may be touched. [A lewd or lascivious act includes causing a child to touch his or her own body, the perpetrator's body, or someone else's body at the instigation of a perpetrator who has the required intent.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Give this instruction when the defendant is charged under Penal Code section 207(b) with kidnapping a child without the use of force for the purpose of committing a lewd or lascivious act. Give CALCRIM No. 1201, Kidnapping: Child or Person Incapable of Consent, when the defendant is charged under Penal Code section 207(a) with using force to kidnap an unresisting infant or child, or person with a mental impairment, who was incapable of consenting to the movement.

Give the final bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam. Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

Related Instructions

Kidnapping with intent to commit a rape or other specified sex crimes is a separate offense under Penal Code section 209(b). (People v. Rayford (1994) 9 Cal.4th 1, 8–11 [36 Cal.Rptr.2d 317, 884 P.2d 1369].) See CALCRIM No. 1203, Kidnapping: For Robbery, Rape, or Other Sex Offenses.

A defendant may be prosecuted for both the crimes of child abduction and kidnapping. Child abduction or stealing is a crime against the parents, while kidnapping is a crime against the child. (People v. Campos (1982) 131 Cal.App.3d 894, 899 [182 Cal.Rptr. 698].) See CALCRIM No. 1250, Child Abduction: No Right to Custody.

For instructions based on violations of Penal Code section 288, see CALCRIM No. 1110, Lewd or Lascivious Acts: Child Under 14, and the following instructions in that series.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, §§ 207(b), 288(a).
- Increased Prison Term If Victim Under 14 Years of Age. Pen. Code, § 208(b).
- Asportation Requirement. See People v. Rayford (1994) 9 Cal.4th 1,

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

11–14, 20 [36 Cal.Rptr.2d 317, 884 P.2d 1369]; People v. Daniels (1969) 71 Cal.2d 1119, 1139 [80 Cal.Rptr. 897, 459 P.2d 225].

- Lewd or Lascivious Acts Defined. People v. Martinez (1995) 11 Cal.4th 434, 452 [45 Cal.Rptr.2d 905, 903 P.2d 1037] [disapproving People v. Wallace (1992) 11 Cal.App.4th 568, 574–580 [14 Cal.Rptr.2d 67] and its progeny]; People v. Levesque (1995) 35 Cal.App.4th 530, 538–542 [41 Cal.Rptr.2d 439]; People v. Marquez (1994) 28 Cal.App.4th 1315, 1321–1326 [33 Cal.Rptr.2d 821].
- Substantial Distance Requirement. See People v. Derek Daniels (1993) 18 Cal.App.4th 1046, 1053 [22 Cal.Rptr.2d 877]; People v. Stanworth (1974) 11 Cal.3d 588, 600–601 [114 Cal.Rptr. 250, 522 P.2d 1058].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 246, 247, 255.

5 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 91, Sentencing, § 91.38[1] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.14[1][a], [3] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

This instruction states that the movement must "substantially" increase the risk of harm beyond that necessarily present in the molestation. For further discussion, see the Commentary section to CALCRIM No. 1203, Kidnapping: For Robbery, Rape, or Other Sex Offenses.

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Kidnapping. Pen. Code, § 207.
- Attempted Kidnapping. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 207; People v. Fields (1976) 56 Cal.App.3d 954, 955–956 [129 Cal.Rptr. 24].

False imprisonment is a lesser included offense if there is an unlawful restraint of the child. (See Pen. Code, §§ 236, 237; People v. Magana (1991) 230 Cal.App.3d 1117, 1121 [281 Cal.Rptr. 338].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1201. Kidnapping: Child or Person Incapable of Consent (Pen. Code, § 207(a), (e))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with kidnapping (a child/ [or] a person with a mental impairment who was not capable of giving legal consent to the movement) [in violation of Penal Code section 207].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant used (physical force/deception) to take and carry away an unresisting (child/ [or] person with a mental impairment);
2. The defendant moved the (child/ [or] person with a mental impairment) a substantial distance;

[AND]

3. The defendant moved the (child/ [or] mentally impaired person) with an illegal intent or for an illegal purpose(;/.)

[AND]

<Alternative 4A—alleged victim under 14 years.>

[4. The child was under 14 years old at the time of the movement(;/.)]

<Alternative 4B—alleged victim has mental impairment.>

[4. _____ <Insert name of complaining witness> suffered from a mental impairment that made (him/her) incapable of giving legal consent to the movement.]

Substantial distance means more than a slight or trivial distance. In deciding whether the distance was substantial, consider all the circumstances relating to the movement. [Thus, in addition to considering the actual distance moved, you may also consider other factors such as whether the movement increased the risk of [physical or psychological] harm, increased the danger of a foreseeable escape attempt, gave the attacker a greater opportunity to commit additional crimes, or decreased the likelihood of detection.]

A person is incapable of giving legal consent if he or she is unable to understand the act, its nature, and possible consequences.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[Deception includes tricking the (child/mentally impaired person) into accompanying him or her a substantial distance for an illegal purpose.]

[Under the law, a person becomes one year older as soon as the first minute of his or her birthday has begun.]

New January 2006; Revised April 2008

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

Give alternative 4A if the defendant is charged with kidnapping a person under 14 years of age. (Pen. Code, § 208(b).) Do not use this bracketed language if a biological parent, a natural father, an adoptive parent, or someone with access to the child by a court order takes the child. (Ibid.) Give alternative 4B if the alleged victim has a mental impairment.

In the paragraph defining "substantial distance," give the bracketed sentence listing factors that the jury may consider, when evidence permits, in evaluating the totality of the circumstances. (People v. Martinez (1999) 20 Cal.4th 225, 237 [83 Cal.Rptr.2d 533, 973 P.2d 512].) However, in the case of simple kidnapping, if the movement was for a substantial distance, the jury does not need to consider any other factors. (People v. Martinez, supra, 20 Cal.4th at p. 237; see People v. Stanworth (1974) 11 Cal.3d 588, 600–601 [114 Cal.Rptr. 250, 522 P.2d 1058].)

Give this instruction when the defendant is charged under Penal Code section 207(a) with using force to kidnap an unresisting infant or child, or person with a mental impairment, who was incapable of consenting to the movement. (See, e.g., In re Michele D. (2002) 29 Cal.4th 600, 610 [128 Cal.Rptr.2d 92, 59 P.3d 164]; see also 2003 Amendments to Pen. Code, § 207(e) [codifying holding of In re Michele D.].) Give CALCRIM No. 1200, Kidnapping: For Child Molestation, when the defendant is charged under Penal Code section 207(b) with kidnapping a child without the use of force for the purpose of committing a lewd or lascivious act.

Give the final bracketed paragraph about calculating age if requested. (Fam.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Code, § 6500; In re Harris (1993) 5 Cal.4th 813, 849–850 [21 Cal.Rptr.2d 373, 855 P.2d 391].)

Related Instructions

A defendant may be prosecuted for both the crimes of child abduction and kidnapping. Child abduction or stealing is a crime against the parents, while kidnapping is a crime against the child. (In re Michele D. (2002) 29 Cal.4th 600, 614 [128 Cal.Rptr.2d 92, 59 P.3d 164]; People v. Campos (1982) 131 Cal.App.3d 894, 899 [182 Cal.Rptr. 698].) See CALCRIM No. 1250, Child Abduction: No Right to Custody.

For instructions relating to defenses to kidnapping, see CALCRIM No. 1225, Defense to Kidnapping: Protecting Child From Imminent Harm.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 207(a), (e).
- Punishment If Victim Under 14 Years of Age. Pen. Code, § 208(b); People v. Magpuso (1994) 23 Cal.App.4th 112, 118 [28 Cal.Rptr.2d 206] [ignorance of victim's age not defense].
- Asportation Requirement. See People v. Martinez (1999) 20 Cal.4th 225, 235–237 [83 Cal.Rptr.2d 533, 973 P.2d 512] [adopting modified two-pronged asportation test from People v. Rayford (1994) 9 Cal.4th 1, 12–14 [36 Cal.Rptr.2d 317, 884 P.2d 1369] and People v. Daniels (1969) 71 Cal.2d 1119, 1139 [80 Cal.Rptr. 897, 459 P.2d 225]].
- Force Required to Kidnap Unresisting Infant or Child. In re Michele D. (2002) 29 Cal.4th 600, 610 [128 Cal.Rptr.2d 92, 59 P.3d 164]; Pen. Code, § 207(e).
- Force Required to Kidnap Unconscious and Intoxicated Adult. People v. Daniels (2009) 176 Cal.App.4th 304, 333 [97 Cal.Rptr.3d 659].
- Movement Must Be for Illegal Purpose or Intent if Victim Incapable of Consent. In re Michele D. (2002) 29 Cal.4th 600, 610–611 [128 Cal.Rptr.2d 92, 59 P.3d 164]; People v. Oliver (1961) 55 Cal.2d 761, 768 [12 Cal.Rptr. 865, 361 P.2d 593].
- Substantial Distance Requirement. People v. Daniels (1993) 18 Cal.App.4th 1046, 1053 [22 Cal.Rptr.2d 877]; People v. Stanworth (1974) 11 Cal.3d 588, 600–601 [114 Cal.Rptr. 250, 522 P.2d 1058] [since movement must be more than slight or trivial, it must be substantial in character].
- Deceit May Substitute for Force. People v. Dalerio (2006) 144 Cal.App.4th 775, 783 [50 Cal.Rptr.3d 724] [taking requirement satisfied when defendant relies on deception to obtain child's consent and through verbal directions and his constant physical presence takes the child substantial distance].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 252, 253.

5 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 91, Sentencing, § 91.38[1] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person § 142.14[1], [2][a] (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

Penal Code section 207(a) uses the term "steals" in defining kidnapping not in the sense of a theft, but in the sense of taking away or forcible carrying away. (People v. McCullough (1979) 100 Cal.App.3d 169, 176 [160 Cal.Rptr. 831].) The instruction uses "take and carry away" as the more inclusive terms, but the statutory terms "steal," "hold," "detain" and "arrest" may be used if any of these more closely matches the evidence.

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Attempted Kidnapping. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 207; People v. Fields (1976) 56 Cal.App.3d 954, 955–956 [129 Cal.Rptr. 24].

RELATED ISSUES

Victim Must Be Alive

A victim must be alive when kidnapped. (People v. Hillhouse (2002) 27 Cal.4th 469, 498 [117 Cal.Rptr.2d 45, 40 P.3d 754].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1202. Kidnapping: For Ransom, Reward, or Extortion (Pen. Code, § 209(a))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with kidnapping for the purpose of (ransom[,]/ [or] reward[,]/ [or] extortion) [that resulted in (death[,]/ [or] bodily harm[,]/ [or] exposure to a substantial likelihood of death)] [in violation of Penal Code section 209(a)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant (kidnapped[,]/ [or] abducted[,]/ [or] seized[,]/ [or] confined[,]/ [or] concealed[,]/ [or] carried away[,]/ [or] inveigled[,]/ [or] enticed[,]/ [or] decoyed) someone;

<Alternative 2A—held or detained>

[2. The defendant held or detained that person;]

<Alternative 2B—intended to hold or detain that person>

[2. When the defendant acted, (he/she) intended to hold or detain the person;]

AND

3. The defendant did so (for ransom[,]/ [or] for reward[,]/ [or] to commit extortion[,]/ [or] to get money or something valuable).

[It is not necessary that the person be moved for any distance.]

[Someone intends to commit extortion if he or she intends to: (1) obtain a person's property with the person's consent and (2) obtain the person's consent through the use of force or fear.]

[Someone intends to commit extortion if he or she: (1) intends to get a public official to do an official act and (2) uses force or fear to make the official do the act.] [An official act is an act that a person does in his or her official capacity using the authority of his or her public office.]

<Sentencing Factor>

[If you find the defendant guilty of kidnapping for (ransom [,]/ [or] reward[,]/ [or] extortion), you must then decide whether the

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

People have proved the additional allegation that the defendant (caused the kidnapped person to (die/suffer bodily harm)/ [or] intentionally confined the kidnapped person in a way that created a substantial risk of death).

[Bodily harm means any substantial physical injury resulting from the use of force that is more than the force necessary to commit kidnapping.]

[The defendant caused _____'s <insert name of allegedly kidnapped person> (death/bodily harm) if:

1. A reasonable person in the defendant's position would have foreseen that the defendant's use of force or fear could begin a chain of events likely to result in _____'s <insert name of allegedly kidnapped person> (death/bodily harm);
2. The defendant's use of force or fear was a direct and substantial factor in causing _____'s <insert name of allegedly kidnapped person> (death/bodily harm);

AND

3. _____'s <insert name of allegedly kidnapped person> (death/bodily harm) would not have happened if the defendant had not used force or fear to hold or detain _____ <insert name of allegedly kidnapped person>.

A substantial factor is more than a trivial or remote factor. However, it need not have been the only factor that caused _____'s <insert name of allegedly kidnapped person> (death/bodily harm).]

The People have the burden of proving this allegation beyond a reasonable doubt. If the People have not met this burden, you must find that the allegation has not been proved.]

New January 2006

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give an instruction defining the elements of the crime.

If the prosecution alleges that the kidnapping resulted in death or bodily harm, or exposed the victim to a substantial likelihood of death (see Pen. Code, § 209(a)), the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the sentencing factor. (See People v. Schoenfeld (1980) 111 Cal.App.3d 671, 685–686 [168 Cal.Rptr. 762] [bodily harm defined]); see also People v. Ryan (1999) 76 Cal.App.4th 1304, 1318 [76 Cal.Rptr.2d 160] [court must instruct on general principles of law relevant to issues raised by the evidence].) The court must also give the jury a verdict form on which the jury can indicate whether this allegation has been proved. If causation is an issue, the court has a sua sponte duty to give the bracketed section that begins "The defendant caused." (See Pen. Code, § 209(a); People v. Monk (1961) 56 Cal.2d 288, 296 [14 Cal.Rptr. 633, 363 P.2d 865]; People v. Reed (1969) 270 Cal.App.2d 37, 48–49 [75 Cal.Rptr. 430].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Give alternative 2A if the evidence supports the conclusion that the defendant actually held or detained the alleged victim. Otherwise, give alternative 2B. (See Pen. Code, § 209(a).)

"Extortion" is defined in Penal Code section 518. If the kidnapping was for purposes of extortion, give one of the bracketed definitions of extortion on request. Give the second definition if the defendant is charged with intending to extort an official act. (People v. Hill (1983) 141 Cal.App.3d 661, 668 [190 Cal.Rptr. 628]; see People v. Ordonez (1991) 226 Cal.App.3d 1207, 1229–1230 [277 Cal.Rptr. 382]; People v. Norris (1985) 40 Cal.3d 51, 55–56 [219 Cal.Rptr. 7, 706 P.2d 1141] [defining "official act"].) Extortion may also be committed by using "the color of official right" to make an official do an act. (Pen. Code, § 518; see Evans v. United States (1992) 504 U.S. 255, 258 [112 S.Ct. 1881, 119 L.Ed.2d 57]; McCormick v. United States (1990) 500 U.S. 257, 273 [111 S.Ct. 1807, 114 L.Ed.2d 307] [both discussing common law definition].) It appears that this type of extortion rarely occurs in the context of kidnapping, so it is excluded from this instruction.

Related Instructions

For the elements of extortion, see CALCRIM No. 1830, Extortion by Threat or Force.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 209(a).
- Extortion. Pen. Code, § 518; People v. Hill (1983) 141 Cal.App.3d 661, 668 [190 Cal.Rptr. 628]; see People v. Ordonez (1991) 226 Cal.App.3d 1207, 1229–1230 [277 Cal.Rptr. 382].
- Amount of Physical Force Required. People v. Chacon (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 52, 59 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 434]; People v. Schoenfeld (1980) 111 Cal.App.3d 671, 685–686 [168 Cal.Rptr. 762].

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

- Bodily Injury Defined. People v. Chacon (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 52, 59; People v. Schoenfeld (1980) 111 Cal.App.3d 671, 685–686; see People v. Reed (1969) 270 Cal.App.2d 37, 48–50 [75 Cal.Rptr. 430] [injury reasonably foreseeable from defendant's act].
- Control Over Victim When Intent Formed. People v. Martinez (1984) 150 Cal.App.3d 579, 600–602 [198 Cal.Rptr. 565] [disapproved on other ground in People v. Hayes (1990) 52 Cal.3d 577, 627–628, fn. 10 [276 Cal.Rptr. 874, 802 P.2d 376].]
- No Asportation Required. People v. Macinnes (1973) 30 Cal.App.3d 838, 844 [106 Cal.Rptr. 589]; see People v. Rayford (1994) 9 Cal.4th 1, 11–12, fn. 8 [36 Cal.Rptr.2d 317, 884 P.2d 1369]; People v. Ordonez (1991) 226 Cal.App.3d 1207, 1227 [277 Cal.Rptr. 382].
- Official Act Defined. People v. Mayfield (1997) 14 Cal.4th 668, 769–773 [60 Cal.Rptr.2d 1, 928 P.2d 485]; People v. Norris (1985) 40 Cal.3d 51, 55–56 [219 Cal.Rptr. 7, 706 P.2d 1141].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 266–273.

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.14 (Matthew Bender).

COMMENTARY

A trial court may refuse to define "reward." There is no need to instruct a jury on the meaning of terms in common usage. Reward means something given in return for good or evil done or received, and especially something that is offered or given for some service or attainment. (People v. Greenberger (1997) 58 Cal.App.4th 298, 367–368 [68 Cal.Rptr.2d 61].) In the absence of a request, there is also no duty to define "ransom." The word has no statutory definition and is commonly understood by those familiar with the English language. (People v. Hill (1983) 141 Cal.App.3d 661, 668 [190 Cal.Rptr. 628].)

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- False Imprisonment. Pen. Code, §§ 236, 237; People v. Chacon (1995) 37 Cal.App.4th 52, 65 [43 Cal.Rptr.2d 434]; People v. Magana (1991) 230 Cal.App.3d 1117, 1121 [281 Cal.Rptr. 338]; People v. Gibbs (1970) 12 Cal.App.3d 526, 547 [90 Cal.Rptr. 866].
- Extortion. Pen. Code, § 518.
- Attempted Extortion. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 518.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

If the prosecution alleges that the kidnapping resulted in death or bodily harm, or exposed the victim to a substantial likelihood of death (see Pen. Code, § 209(a)), then kidnapping for ransom without death or bodily harm is a lesser included offense. The court must provide the jury with a verdict form on which the jury will indicate if the allegation has been proved.

Simple kidnapping under section 207 of the Penal Code is not a lesser and necessarily included offense of kidnapping for ransom, reward, or extortion. (People v. Greenberger (1997) 58 Cal.App.4th 298, 368, fn. 56 [68 Cal.Rptr.2d. 61] [kidnapping for ransom can be accomplished without asportation while simple kidnapping cannot]; see People v. Macinnes (1973) 30 Cal.App.3d 838, 843–844 [106 Cal.Rptr. 589]; People v. Bigelow (1984) 37 Cal.3d 731, 755, fn. 14 [209 Cal.Rptr. 328, 691 P.2d 994].)

RELATED ISSUES

Extortion Target

The kidnapped victim may also be the person from whom the defendant wishes to extort something. (People v. Ibrahim (1993) 19 Cal.App.4th 1692, 1696–1698 [24 Cal.Rptr.2d 269.)

No Good-Faith Exception

A good faith exception to extortion or kidnapping for ransom does not exist. Even actual debts cannot be collected by the reprehensible and dangerous means of abducting and holding a person to be ransomed by payment of the debt. (People v. Serrano (1992) 11 Cal.App.4th 1672, 1677–1678 [15 Cal.Rptr.2d 305].)

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

1203. Kidnapping: For Robbery, Rape, or Other Sex Offenses (Pen. Code, § 209(b))

The defendant is charged [in Count _____] with kidnapping for the purpose of (robbery/rape/spousal rape/oral copulation/sodomy/ sexual penetration) [in violation of Penal Code section 209(b)].

To prove that the defendant is guilty of this crime, the People must prove that:

1. The defendant intended to commit (robbery/ [or] rape/ [or] spousal rape/ [or] oral copulation/ [or] sodomy/ [or] sexual penetration/ [or] _____ <insert other offense specified in statute>);
2. Acting with that intent, the defendant took, held, or detained another person by using force or by instilling a reasonable fear;
3. Using that force or fear, the defendant moved the other person [or made the other person move] a substantial distance;
4. The other person was moved or made to move a distance beyond that merely incidental to the commission of a (robbery/ [or] rape/ [or] spousal rape/ [or] oral copulation/ [or] sodomy/ [or] sexual penetration/ [or] _____ <insert other offense specified in statute>);
5. When that movement began, the defendant already intended to commit (robbery/ [or] rape/ [or] spousal rape/ [or] oral copulation/ [or] sodomy/ [or] sexual penetration/ [or] _____ <insert other offense specified in statute>);

[AND]

6. The other person did not consent to the movement(;/.)

<Give element 7 if instructing on reasonable belief in consent.>

[AND

7. The defendant did not actually and reasonably believe that the other person consented to the movement.]

[As used here, substantial distance means more than a slight or

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

trivial distance. The movement must have substantially increased the risk of [physical or psychological] harm to the person beyond that necessarily present in the (robbery/ [or] rape/ [or] spousal rape/ [or] oral copulation/ [or] sodomy/ [or] sexual penetration/ [or] _____ <insert other offense specified in statute>). In deciding whether the movement was sufficient, consider all the circumstances relating to the movement.]

[In order to consent, a person must act freely and voluntarily and know the nature of the act.]

[To be guilty of kidnapping for the purpose of (robbery/ [or] rape/ [or] spousal rape/ [or] oral copulation/ [or] sodomy/ [or] sexual penetration), the defendant does not actually have to commit the (robbery/ [or] rape/ [or] spousal rape/ [or] oral copulation/ [or] sodomy/ [or] sexual penetration/ [or] _____ <insert other offense specified in statute>).]

To decide whether the defendant intended to commit (robbery/ [or] rape/ [or] spousal rape/ [or] oral copulation/ [or] sodomy/ [or] sexual penetration/ [or] _____ <insert other offense specified in statute>), please refer to the separate instructions that I (will give/have given) you on that crime.

<Defense: Good Faith Belief in Consent>

[The defendant is not guilty of kidnapping if (he/she) reasonably and actually believed that the other person consented to the movement. The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant did not reasonably and actually believe that the other person consented to the movement. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of this crime.]

<Defense: Consent Given>

[The defendant is not guilty of kidnapping if the other person consented to go with the defendant. The other person consented if (he/she) (1) freely and voluntarily agreed to go with or be moved by the defendant, (2) was aware of the movement, and (3) had sufficient mental capacity to choose to go with the defendant. The People have the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt that the other person did not consent to go with the defendant. If the People have not met this burden, you must find the defendant not guilty of this crime.]

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

[Consent may be withdrawn. If, at first, a person agreed to go with the defendant, that consent ended if the person changed his or her mind and no longer freely and voluntarily agreed to go with or be moved by the defendant. The defendant is guilty of kidnapping if after the other person withdrew consent, the defendant committed the crime as I have defined it.]

New January 2006; Revised June 2007, April 2008

BENCH NOTES

Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to give this instruction defining the elements of the crime.

In addition, the court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the elements of the alleged underlying crime.

Give the bracketed definition of "consent" on request.

Defenses—Instructional Duty

The court has a sua sponte duty to instruct on the defense of consent if there is sufficient evidence to support the defense. (See People v. Davis (1995) 10 Cal.4th 463, 516–518 [41 Cal.Rptr.2d 826, 896 P.2d 119] [approving consent instruction as given]; see also People v. Sedeno (1974) 10 Cal.3d 703, 717, fn. 7 [112 Cal.Rptr. 1, 518 P.2d 913], overruled on other grounds in People v. Breverman (1998) 19 Cal.4th 142, 165 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 870, 960 P.2d 1094] [when court must instruct on defenses].) Give the bracketed paragraph on the defense of consent. On request, if supported by the evidence, also give the bracketed paragraph that begins with "Consent may be withdrawn." (See People v. Camden (1976) 16 Cal.3d 808, 814 [129 Cal.Rptr. 438, 548 P.2d 1110].)

The defendant's reasonable and actual belief in the victim's consent to go with the defendant may be a defense. (See People v. Greenberger (1997) 58 Cal.App.4th 298, 375 [68 Cal.Rptr.2d 61]; People v. Isitt (1976) 55

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

Cal.App.3d 23, 28 [127 Cal.Rptr. 279] [reasonable, good faith belief that victim consented to movement is a defense to kidnapping].)

Timing of Necessary Intent

No court has specifically stated whether the necessary intent must precede all movement of the victim, or only one phase of it involving an independently adequate asportation.

Related Instructions

Kidnapping a child for the purpose of committing a lewd or lascivious act is a separate crime under Penal Code section 207(b). See CALCRIM No. 1200, Kidnapping: For Child Molestation.

AUTHORITY

- Elements. Pen. Code, § 209(b); People v. Rayford (1994) 9 Cal.4th 1, 12–14, 22 [36 Cal.Rptr.2d 317, 884 P.2d 1369] [following modified two-prong Daniels test for movement necessary for aggravated kidnapping]; People v. Daniels (1969) 71 Cal.2d 1119, 1139 [80 Cal.Rptr. 897, 459 P.2d 225]; People v. Shadden (2001) 93 Cal.App.4th 164, 168 [112 Cal.Rptr.2d 826].
- Robbery Defined. Pen. Code, § 211.
- Rape Defined. Pen. Code, § 261.
- Other Sex Offenses Defined. Pen. Code, §§ 262 [spousal rape], 264.1 [acting in concert], 286 [sodomy], 288a [oral copulation], 289 [sexual penetration].
- Intent to Commit Robbery Must Exist at Time of Original Taking. People v. Tribble (1971) 4 Cal.3d 826, 830–832 [94 Cal.Rptr. 613, 484 P.2d 589]; People v. Bailey (1974) 38 Cal.App.3d 693, 699 [113 Cal.Rptr. 514]; see People v. Thornton (1974) 11 Cal.3d 738, 769–770 [114 Cal.Rptr. 467], overruled on other grounds in People v. Flannel (1979) 25 Cal.3d 668 [160 Cal.Rptr. 84, 603 P.2d 1].
- Kidnapping to Effect Escape From Robbery. People v. Laursen (1972) 8 Cal.3d 192, 199–200 [104 Cal.Rptr. 425, 501 P.2d 1145] [violation of section 209 even though intent to kidnap formed after robbery commenced].
- Kidnapping Victim Need Not Be Robbery Victim. People v. Laursen (1972) 8 Cal.3d 192, 200, fn. 7 [104 Cal.Rptr. 425, 501 P.2d 1145].
- Use of Force or Fear. See People v. Martinez (1984) 150 Cal.App.3d 579, 599–600 [198 Cal.Rptr. 565], disapproved on other grounds in People v. Hayes (1990) 52 Cal.3d 577, 627–628, fn. 10 [276 Cal.Rptr.

Copyright 2010 Judicial Council of California. Published by LexisNexis Matthew Bender, official publisher of the Judicial Council Jury Instructions.

874, 802 P.2d 376]; People v. Jones (1997) 58 Cal.App.4th 693, 713–714 [68 Cal.Rptr.2d 506].

- Movement Must Substantially Increase Risk of Harm to Victim. People v. Dominguez (2006) 39 Cal.4th 1141, 1153 [47 Cal.Rptr.3d 575, 140 P.3d 866].
- Movement Must Be for Illegal Purpose or Intent if Victim Incapable of Consent. In re Michele D. (2002) 29 Cal.4th 600, 610–611 [128 Cal.Rptr.2d 92, 59 P.3d 164]; People v. Oliver (1961) 55 Cal.2d 761, 768 [12 Cal.Rptr. 865, 361 P.2d 593].

Secondary Sources

1 Witkin & Epstein, California Criminal Law (3d ed. 2000) Crimes Against the Person, §§ 257–265, 274, 275.

5 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 91, Sentencing, § 91.38[1] (Matthew Bender).

6 Millman, Sevilla & Tarlow, California Criminal Defense Practice, Ch. 142, Crimes Against the Person, § 142.14 (Matthew Bender).

LESSER INCLUDED OFFENSES

- Kidnapping. Pen. Code, § 207; People v. Bailey (1974) 38 Cal.App.3d 693, 699 [113 Cal.Rptr. 514]; see People v. Jackson (1998) 66 Cal.App.4th 182, 189 [77 Cal.Rptr.2d 564].
- Attempted Kidnapping. Pen. Code, §§ 664, 207.
- False Imprisonment. Pen. Code, §§ 236, 237; People v. Magana (1991) 230 Cal.App.3d 1117, 1121 [281 Cal.Rptr. 338]; People v. Gibbs (1970) 12 Cal.App.3d 526, 547 [90 Cal.Rptr. 866]; People v. Shadden (2001) 93 Cal.App.4th 164, 171 [112 Cal.Rptr.2d 826].

RELATED ISSUES

Psychological Harm

Psychological harm may be sufficient to support conviction for aggravated kidnapping under Penal Code section 209(b). An increased risk of harm is not limited to a risk of bodily harm. (People v. Nguyen (2000) 22 Cal.4th 872, 885–886 [95 Cal.Rptr.2d 178, 997 P.2d 493] [substantial movement of robbery victim that posed substantial increase in risk of psychological trauma beyond that expected from stationary robbery].)

